GIFFORD UNOPPOSED

Is Again Nominated for Conservative Party.

MEMBER FOR EIGHT YEARS

H. L. Edmonds Refuses to Let His Name Go Before Convention—Quiet Meeting.

At the Conservative nominating convention for New Westminster city, held in the Conservative club rooms last evening, Mr. Thomas Gifford was again nominated as Conservative candidate to contest this riding at the coming provincial elections. No other name was placed in nomination. Mr. Gifford accepted the nomination in a brief speech in which he thanked the Conservatives of New Westminster for the nomination and for their support during the past eight years, and reviewed briefly the work of the McBride government and the platform and policy on which they are seeking re-election.

Mr. H. L. Edmonds, president of the New Westminster Conservative association, presided and explained that the meeting was called for the purpose of nominating a candidate by the Conservative party to contest the next election. Mr. Adam S. Johnston placed the name of Mr. Gifford in nomination. He pointed out that the representative of the city in Victoria should be a man of integrity, of spotless character and one possessing the confidence of the electors and of the leaders of the government. The late member, he thought, had well fitted this position for the past eight years and was the right man to lead the Conservatives on to victory.

Mr. T. S. Annandale briefly endorsed this nomination. There being no other names placed in nomination Mr. Edmonds tendered Mr. Gifford the unanimous nomination of the convention which was accepted. Mr. Edmonds had been mentioned as a possible candidate, but positively refused before the meeting to allow his name to be placed in nomination.

Mr. Gifford, in accepting the nomination, thanked the delegates for the honor they had done him. During the eight years he had represented this city in the provincial legislature he had endeavored to work in the best interests of the city. Recently he had been successful in obtaining a grant of $70,000 for the Royal Columbian hospital from the provincial government, and he hoped in the near future to be able to say that the government had also donated a site for the hospital.

Dealing with the record of the McBride government in the past, he pointed out that in 1906 the estimates for roads and bridges in the province was $450,000, while in 1912 it totalled $5,000,000. If the government were called upon tomorrow to settle all debts and liabilities they would still have a surplus of $1,500,000 in the treasury.

He said he did not propose to deal with the railway policy of the government as the premier himself would be here in a few days to explain it fully. Transportation facilities were greatly needed to properly develop British Columbia. They would come of themselves undoubtedly in time, but he thought we could not afford to wait, but should be ready to secure our share of the trade consequent on the opening of the Panama canal.

Mr. Edmonds announced that Premier McBride and Attorney General Bowser would address a mass meeting in the opera house in Westminster on the evening of March 21.

Mr. C. D. Peele informed the delegates that there were now 3319 names on the voters' list in this city, being 593 more than at the last Dominion elections.

Brief addresses were also made by Messrs. L. A. Lewis, Charles Donahue, Peter Peebles, Marshall Sinclair, Nels Nelson, Dr. Holmes, D. E. MacKenzie and W. Hancock.

CRUSHED TO DEATH BY FIBRE OF STUMP

Snohomish, March 8.—One minute hard at work in the full vigor of manhood, the next lying dead at the feet of his astonished fellow-workmen, Victor Sherland died yesterday while helping clear the land on his brother's farm, three miles above Machias.

A crew of five men was at work clearing the land with a donkey engine. A huge stump had been split with powder and the donkey was pulling on one half when the engineer, Eugene Richards, lost his balance and his foot slipped from the friction block, releasing the drum. Immediately the cable gave out and the half stump dropped back into place.

Sherland, who was working by the stump, was just trying to pass through the space between the two halves and was crushed. As soon as possible the cable was taken up again and the block removed.

Sherland stepped out from the trap and said: "Boys, I guess I'm all in," and fell dead.

He was 36 years old, a native of Finland, and a member of Snohomish Aerie, No. 195, F. O. E., since 1905. He will be buried under the auspices of that order Sunday morning. He was unmarried, but leaves a brother.

BUILDING PERMITS REACH GOOD TOTAL

Sixteen Thousand Dollars for Fraser Hotel Addition—Remainder for Residences.

Building permits for the expiring week reached the good total of $28,650. For $16,000 of this amount the additions and alterations to the Fraser hotel are responsible. Mr. Swanson is planning to add a new wing to his hotel to improve his premises generally. He is employing Mr. Sait as his architect for the work. The remaining $12,650 are made up of five different permits, three of which are for residences and bungalow, one for some small alterations and $4000 for four tenement houses.

SOLID FIVE WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION

Conservative Convention Enthusiastically Adopts Old Members—Three Sure of Being Returned.

Vancouver, March 9.—The "Solid Five" were enthusiastically nominated at the Conservative convention held here last night. General satisfaction was expressed with the work done by these members of the provincial legislature in the past, and the convention did not hesitate to nominate them for the chance of another term of office. As it is probable that the Liberals will not run more than two candidates it is certain that three at least of the old brigade will be back at Victoria next session.

The famous "five" are the attorney general, Hon. W. J. Bowser, H. H. Watson, C. E. Tisdall, A. E. McCowan and Dr. G. A. McGuire.

POLO TOURNAMENT AT CORONADO

Crack Canadian Team Goes Down to Defeat—Disappointing Devereaux Did Not Score.

San Diego, March 8.—In what proved by far the most exciting contest of the present polo tournament at Coronado, the San Mateo Slashers defeated the crack Canadian team today in the second round for the California cup. The score was 6¼ to 5½ in favor of the Slashers. San Mateo made eight goals in all, but was penalized four times and lost two points in this manner. Canada scored six goals, but lost a half point on one penalty against K. Snowden. Devereaux, looked upon as the best player for San Mateo, at back, did not score a goal, but was twice penalized. R. Tobin made four goals, three were made by Driscoll and one by Breece.

For Canada, K. Snowden scored three times, G. H. Noton added two points to the total and another goal was made by Lord Tweedmouth.

The teams lined up as follows:

San Mateo—R. Tobin, Thomas Driscoll, W. Devereaux and W. L. Breece.

Canada—A. Hone, K. Snowden, G. Noton and Lord Tweedmouth.

Mexican Rebellion.

Chihuahua, Mexico, March 8.—The vanguard of the rebel army encamped near here departed today by three trains to begin the conquest of the City of Mexico. There are about 800 men in the detachment. General Orozco, leader of the rebels, says he has 1000 men in reserve and will have 2000 more by the end of the week. Reports from Northern Mexico indicate that the government is unable to check the advance of the rebels.

Labor Troubles in South.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 8.—Because H. W. Pohlman, business agent of the Seattle Iron Workers' union, refused to answer questions in the dynamite probe, threats of contempt proceedings against him are made. The books and documents of the Seattle union have been placed in the hands of the prosecuting attorney.

Four Men Killed.

Telluride, Colo., March 8.—While working on the Rio Grande Southern railroad removing a slide today, another snowslide came down the mountain killing four men.

Theatre Bookings.

The following is a complete list of the bookings for the local opera house, received yesterday by Manager Tidy from John Cort, managing director of the Northwestern Theatrical association: Commencing next Friday evening he has the musical comedy, "Mutt and Jeff," and then Tuesday, March 19, "Girl from Rectors"; Wednesday, March 27, "The Chorus Lady," and during April "The Newlyweds," "Miss Nobody from Starland," "The White Sister," Lulu Glaser and William Faversham.

AMUNDSEN'S CLAIM

Norwegian States He Reached South Pole.

SILENT ABOUT CAPTAIN SCOTT

Has Had Long Career of Successful Exploring in Polar Seas—Refuses Definite Statement.

Hobart, Tasmania, March 8.—Captain Amundsen was asked by an interviewer today if Captain Scott had reached the South Pole. The explorer refused to say anything on the subject. The belief prevails here that Captain Scott also succeeded in arriving at the pole.

London, March 8.—Scott's friends in this country believe that the captain has been successful in his race for the South Pole. They are also ready to accept Captain Amundsen's claim to have reached the world's base, and there is no friction between the two men's supporters.

London, March 8.—The Royal Geographical society accepts unqualifiedly Captain Amundsen's claim that he reached the South Pole and takes it for granted that he was the first explorer to reach the goal, although Amundsen's brief dispatch does not mention that fact.

Geographers point out, however, that Captain Amundsen and Captain Scott may both have been there and within a mile of each other without knowing it, and scientists here are awaiting further details before accepting definitely the defeat of the British expedition. The message received yesterday by the London Daily Express from Wellington, N. Z., in which Captain Amundsen was reported as saying that Scott had discovered the South Pole, was based on a telegram alleged to have been sent by the Norwegian explorer, but the authenticity of Captain Amundsen's message today denies the former alleged report.

New York, March 8—The New York Times received a despatch today from Roald Amundsen at Hobart, Tasmania, saying that he knew nothing about Captain Scott, the British explorer, and his expedition.

Hobart, Tasmania, March 8.—Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, denies having telegraphed anything regarding Captain Robert Scott or the British expedition.

Captain Amundsen, up to the present is the only member of the Antarctic expedition who has landed from the Fram. Nobody is allowed to go on board the vessel under any pretext whatsoever.

The explorer says he is pleased with the result of his expedition, but otherwise maintains absolute silence on the subject.

Captain Amundsen intends to stay at Hobart for a few days. He will go to Australia then and give a few lectures there, afterwards departing for Europe by a circuitous route.

Captain Amundsen will sail from Hobart for Buenos Ayres, thence around Cape Horn to Bering Straits and through the Northwest Passage and Arctic ocean.

London, March 8.—Captain Roald Amundsen states he will submit his charts and all information concerning his expedition without delay, according to despatches from Hobart, received by a special correspondent at Wellington, N. Z.

Christiania, March 8.—Rejoicings over Captain Amundsen's success in reaching the South Pole are widespread over Norway today. The feeling was voiced in the Sorthing by the president, Frederick Konow, who said, amid cheers from the members:

"We cannot begin our day's work without expressing our thankful joy and the admiration and pride with which we are filled by the news that Captain Roald Amundsen and his comrades have reached the South Pole and planted the Norwegian flag there.

"We are proud in the thought that these men are our fellow countrymen and that they have once more succeeded in covering the name of Norway with glory."

WOULD PROROGUE AT END OF MONTH

Boundaries Bill Reaches Third Reading—Nationalists Declare Intention of Amending Bill.

Ottawa, March 8.—The government hope to be able to prorogue parliament on March 31. This statement was made by Hon. George Foster in the House today, when he appealed to the opposition to help the government to expedite business with this end in view.

The Boundaries bill passed out of committee today, and is now ready for the third reading. This last reading is generally a formal affair, but the Nationalists state that they are going to try and amend the bill even at this late stage.

PUPILS CELEBRATE

High School Holds Successful Banquet.

FOOTBALL TEAM HONORED

Excellent Dinner Followed by Fine Speeches—Graceful Act of Japanese Pupils.

The High school football team was honored at a most successful banquet held by the school in St. Patrick's hall last night. Over three hundred persons were present, of whom 150 were High school pupils. The football team, which is champion of the Alliance series, sat in a group dressed in sweaters, and was the subject of the first toast on the list after that of "The King." T. J. Trapp, chairman of the school board, presided over the gathering, and the first business of the evening was the consumption of the excellent dinner prepared by the High school girls. During the meal the school orchestra played several selections, while a few of the boys and girls waited on the rest.

Among those present were Trustees Peck and Mrs. Gilley, the school board secretary, Mr. White, the school nurse, Professor Etherington, Inspector Gordon, Aldermen Curtis and Henley, and finally, Principal McMillan, of the High school.

One strong point made by Inspector Gordon was that the success of the football team was due to the fact that not one of them smoked cigarettes. The health of the team was proposed by Trustee Peck and several members of the team replied, and the toast of the captain, McKay, was given by Mr. Lougheed.

The girls had their turn when Mrs. Gilley proposed their hockey team, which has had a most successful season.

After the speeches the orchestra played several pieces, and various duets and solos on the violin and piano were given by different persons. Prizes and medals were also distributed. One particularly pleasing feature of the evening was the announcement that three Japanese pupils had presented the school library with a collection of books valued at $53, in recognition of the kind treatment they had received the kind treatment they had received from both pupils and teachers. One of these boys had received the medal for general proficiency.

In this way the entertainment was kept up till after midnight, and even when at last the hour of retirement came everyone seemed very unwilling to leave.

EXPLORER DESERTED AND WITHOUT FOOD

Harry G. Radford Was American Traveler—His Friends Fear the Worst Has Happened.

New York, March 8.—The fate of Harry G. Radford is regarded as desperate by his friends in this city. Latest information from the barren lands of Canada states that nothing has been heard of the intrepid explorer for a month. It is believed that Radford was deserted by his guide on the shore of Great Bear lake without provisions. Unless a miracle has happened the wretched man must have starved to death.

Radford is a fellow of the American Geographical society, and a member of the Arctic club. He left New York in 1909 on a two years' exploration trip in the north of Canada.

Edmonds Realty Deal.

Another deal in Edmonds realty was put through yesterday when Mrs. Binette, of this city, sold to Mr. R. B. Moore, of Vancouver, a triangular piece of property fronting on the Edmonds and Vancouver roads for $4500. The purchaser proposes in the near future to erect on this property a modern two storey business block. The property has 66 feet frontage on the Vancouver road, and 90 feet frontage on the Edmonds road, and a depth of 198 feet. The deal was negotiated by Mr. C. T. Saunders, who is opening a real estate office in the Trapp block in this city. The Edmonds district is at present developing very rapidly. Many stores and office buildings are being erected as well as a number of handsome residences.

Murder and Suicide.

Goldfield, Nev., March 8.—Following a dispute over claims today, Fred Burnham, recently of Butte, Mont., shot and killed P. H. Lavelle, also a Butte mining man. Burnham then killed himself.

Bodies Recovered.

Merritt, B.C., March 8.—The bodies of William Hurd and William Baxter, killed yesterday in the Diamond Vale coal mine, were recovered today. An inquest on the disaster will be held Monday. The funerals of the first five killed will be held tomorrow. The mine is but slightly damaged.

AUTO DRIVERS MUST CURB SPEED LUST

Police Commissioners Will Enforce Law Strictly—Number of Autos Increased Amazingly.

The local police have received instructions from the police commissioners to enforce the laws against speeding in autos with the utmost strictness. It will be remembered that at the last meeting of the council, Alderman Henley raised a kick with reference to alleged racing by automobiles on Eighth street before an admiring crowd of people. At that time the matter was referred to the police commissioners, and now the police will carry out the instructions of the latter.

With the spring a surprisingly number of automobiles has appeared on the streets. Some are old machines, but for the most part they look to be new ones and from the cars seen on the streets it would seem that the recent carload shipment of Ford autos has been well distributed by now among the well-to-do citizens of Westminster.

ONLY TWO LIBERALS FOR VANCOUVER

Ralph Smith and Alderman W. S. Cameron Are Likely Men—McConnell for Yale.

Vancouver, March 9.—Three Liberal meetings were held in this city last night to appoint delegates to Monday's convention. No candidates were definitely supported, but the general opinion of the delegates seemed to be in favor of Ralph Smith and Alderman W. S. Cameron. In some of the wards it was thought advisable not to run more than one candidate, but hopes of electing one or two ran high generally, although it was suggested that it would be useless to run any more.

Ralph Smith stated in an interview that he would unhesitatingly oppose running more than two or at the most three candidates, but he thought the chances of electing two men were good. He would probably accept the nomination if offered him on Monday night. Alderman Cameron expressed very similar views, and stated that he would accept nomination only on the condition that there were two candidates in the field.

Yale, March 8.—Mr. J. P. McConnell, of the Vancouver Sun, was nominated Liberal candidate for this riding.

Funeral of Mr. Jolly.

The funeral of the late John Jolly, one of the pioneer residents of the Langley district, took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence at 1617 Tenth avenue east, Cedar Cottage, the remains being interred in the Odd Fellows cemetery in this city. A large number of friends of the family from this district attended the funeral. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Alexander Dunn, of New Westminster, assisted by Rev. W. D. Misner, Vancouver.

Many beautiful floral emblems covered the casket. The pall-bearers were Mr. Wilson, Vancouver; Mr. Ramage and Mr. Mufford, Langley; Mr. Laity and Mr. Hampton, Hammond, and Mr. Rawlison, New Westminster. W. E. Fales, undertaker, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

FIVE KILLED IN RAILWAY WRECK

Local Passenger Train at Ottawa Crossing Bridge Backed into Work Train.

Ottawa, March 8.—Tetrauville, a small village just on the outskirts of Hull, was the scene of a railway accident this morning which resulted in five people being killed and twelve or fifteen injured.

The C. P. R. Pontiac line train, which comes into Ottawa from Waltham, Que., turns on the "Y" just outside of Hull and backs into Ottawa over the inter-provincial bridge. This morning the train was a little late, and while turning on the "Y" the operator at Hull released a work train, with the result that the rear-end of the two trains came together on the main line with a crash. The first class car, which was on the rear of the Pontiac train, telescoped the second class car ahead, with the result that five were killed. The dead are: John Anderson, conductor of the Pontiac train; Miss Pelitier, of Campbell Bay; Joseph Darby, of Little Farm Point, Que.; John Moyes, of Quyon, and one unidentified man.

Several of the twelve or fifteen injured are believed to be in a dangerous condition. They have been brought over to Ottawa hospital.

KENNEDY NOMINATED

Westminster Liberals Will Contest Election.

DODD REFUSES NOMINATION

Over Sixty Persons Attend Liberal Convention—Four Candidates for Nomination.

Mr. George Kennedy received the Liberal nomination against three other candidates at the Liberal convention held in St. George's hall last night. An interesting attempt was made to persuade Alderman Dodd to accept a nomination from the meeting as a Liberal-Labor candidate, but he stated that he was unable to accept as he did not belong to the Liberal fold. He would though, he said, support the Liberals in the coming election as he looked upon the new platform as progressive. The candidates for nomination were Moses B. Cotsworth, who received nine votes, J. Reid, seven votes, and C. B. Sword six. Mr. Bryson refused to stand. Mr. Kennedy polled eighteen votes, and was then given the nomination by a unanimous resolution without further balloting.

Over sixty persons were present at the meeting, and although it was generally recognized that the contest was in the nature of a forlorn hope, yet it was generally agreed that it was desirable to fight the election, and hopes were held out that the unexpected might happen after all just as it had last September. For a time there was some discussion on the question of whether it was better to run as an independent or a strictly Liberal candidate, and C. B. Sword frankly stated that he did not accept all the planks in the platform. He stood more as an opponent of the McBride government than as a Liberal. This view found favor with many present, but the voting seemed to show that the orthodox Liberal was the most popular.

Mr. Kennedy, who was in the chair, opened the meeting by giving a lengthy report of the provincial convention held at Vancouver. This appeared to him to have been a great success and he was deeply impressed with the determined fighting spirit shown there. The Liberal party had come to the conclusion that it owed it as a duty to the people to fight election just to let "them realize the enormities committed by the party in power at Victoria." He selected in especial condemnation the manner in which the McBride government had handled the public accounts. A committee to deal with these had met only met once in the last three years. He said, An expenditure of over $16,000,000 and a railway policy committing the province to guarantee the millions or so, principal and interest, had been rushed through the house in forty minutes at the end of the session, and he summed up by stating that the present government was aiming at the root of constitutional liberty by its policy at elections, and was throttling all opposition. Robert Jardine brought a serious accusation against the government when he stated that he had been informed that real estate men who bought lands from the government were allowed to pay for it with checks which were never cashed until they had sold the land and made the money, or as one of the audience remarked that "the government was acting as banker for the speculator." In closing his remarks he added, "I do not believe there is one government agent in this province who could point to one quarter section of land and say to a settler, 'You can locate there.'"

Messrs. Ed. Comet and J. B. Kennedy also spoke on the convention.

During the discussion on the advisability of contesting the election Tom Turnbull and Alderman Dodd were asked to speak, and both regarded the Liberal platform as containing some good progressive planks. Mr. Turnbull thought that it was most beneficial that the Liberal party had been so badly beaten last September, as he believed that it had given them a chance to form a truly progressive Liberal party standing for real Liberal ideas. Alderman Dodd was always in the position of being "agin' the government." In the present campaign he saw signs of a getting together of the progressive sections of all parties as was also happening in the United States. The recently adopted platform of the Liberal party was a progressive one and would, he thought, receive the support of every serious-thinking man in the city.

When the nominations came to be made Mr. Goulet tried to persuade Alderman Dodd to let his name go before the meeting. "We are here," he said, "more as independent voters than as Liberals. It is rather a case of voting against the McBride government than for the Liberal party," and he wished to second Alderman Dodd's nomination as a Liberal-Labor candidate. The alderman, however, persisted in his refusal. As Mr. Bryson also refused to stand Messrs. Dean and Murray were appointed scrutineers, and the names of Messrs. Kennedy, Sword, Cotsworth and Reid were

MARKET REPORT

The first Fraser river spring salmon appeared on the market yesterday morning. Plenty of nice pink springs were to be seen on the stalls, but the stiff price of 20 cents a pound was asked for them. Last year 18 cents a pound was about the highest priced reached. White springs were also to be had at 25 cents for two pounds, and flounders sold for six cents a pound. Other fish were unchanged.

There was an excellent attendance at the market and the demand for every kind of produce was good, although prices remained practically unchanged throughout. The continued bad condition of the roads is affecting the arrival of vegetables, and the supply of beets and parsnips is not sufficient to meet the demand. All lines of vegetables were represented yesterday, and all found a rady market. There was no change in the potatoe situation which remains dull but firm.

The meat section was conspicuous for the excellent supply of well-fed pork that was to be seen. Some good veal was also sold, but the supply of mutton was not considerable. More beef, however, came forward than usual and some nice carcases were there to tempt the butchers. Chickens were as abundant as ever. Both the supply and demand for these birds seems to be insatiable, and prices hold firm al lthe time without, however, rising at all.

The flower stalls scented the whole building yesterday and made a lovely display among the more prosaic forms of beef carceses, and sacks of earthly vegetables. Cut and pot flowers both sold well.

A big crowd of armers and dealers filled the auction rings, and some brisk business was done. Some nice horses were sold at god prices, and also several lots of harness and some cows.

Following are the quotations:

Vegetables, Wholesale.

Beets, per sack	$1.00
Carrots, per sack	75c
Parsnips, per sack	$1.00
Turnips, per sack	60c to 75c
Potatoes, per ton	$27 to $30

GOOD ROADS.

Coast Merchants Discuss Construction and Maintenance.

With a view to giving the roads of the province more attention than has been the past in past years, the department of public works has provided for the establishment of maintenance gangs, which will be stationed along the route of the Canadian Highway, and also on the other traveled roads of the province.

The need of a body of men whose chief duty it would be to keep the roads in passable condition, has been felt for a long while, but with the immense area of country waiting to be opened up, this had not been provided for. The cryof the settlers in the newer parts of this province was for roads, and in their clamor for this necessity the call of the older residents in the settled districts, who asked for beter roads, was unheard.

The establishment of maintenance gangs is one of indirect results of the convention of roads superintendents held in Victoria last month, when thirty-three superintendents were in session for three days. The announcement that maintenance gangs would be placed on the roads of this year was not made public, but was obtained from the Deputy Minister of Public Works, W. W. Foster, by P. W. Luce, Secretary of the Canadian Highway Association, in a private conversation.

This move on the part of the department can be traced, in a measure, to the efforts of the Canadian Highway Association for the betterment of raods standards in British Columbia, as it was one of the demands brought to the notice of the ministers at an audience with the officers of the Canadian Highway Association early in January.

In speaking of the necessity of keeping the roads of this province in good shape, not only for motor traveling, but also for the benefit of other classes of vehicles, W. J. Kerr, president of the Canadian Highway Association said:

"It cannot be regarded as good economy to build roads without making suitable provision to maintain and to keep them in a proper state of repair. Municipalities undertaking the construction of good roads should carefully face this responsibility. It is not one of an alarming character in point of cost, any morethan in the cost of constructing, for it has been found that a system of main roads can be built and maintained in any community without burdensome taxation. But there is a tendency on the part of councils to disregard maintainance, which can only result in unnecessary public loss, since a judicious system of constant repair is much less expensive than early reconstruction following upon neglect. A system of continuous maintenance should be adopted in every county whereby roads will be repaired as soon as holes or wheel tracks commence, so that the more rapid wear of rutted and uneven road surfaces will not follow.

"By placing one man on a section of road, with cart, horse, a pick and pounder and a few simple tools, with a quantity of broken stone at his disposal, roads can be systematically maintained for all time in good condition. Similar results follow from keeping a crew of men constantly engaged under a superintendent, working systematically over a fixed mileage of road with a steam roller, grader, and the necessary road metal for resurfacing. Impotant pats of maintenance are the cutting of grass and weeds on the roadside, the annual cleaning of ditches, and removing the shoulders that are continually forming at the edges of the road from the accumulation of dust.

"I have seen in other places the great advantages derived from the work of these maintenance gangs, and I know what I am talking about when I say that the cost of this work is very small, indeed, when compared to the amount of money saved to the district or province. The men employed in this kind of work are usually men past middle age, who are no longer able to do a hard day's work in competition with younger men. The work of wheeling a barrow-load of stones for a short distance is one that does not entail any great muscular effort, and these old men have no difficulty whatever in going through a day's task and making a very creditable showing. I know that in many cases (I am speaking, of course, of the older provinces) work on the roads has been given to men as reward for political activity, nad it is more than likely that this will continue to be the case as long as the party system of government continues. But there is no reason in the world why a man who has been associated with a certain political party should not be able to do a good days work, and with the free hand given to road superintendents in this province, it is safe to say that the drones will be picked out, and that only men who can show ability to do a fair day's work for a fair day's pay will be kept on these maintenance gangs."

The first of these maintenance gangs is now at work on the old Mill Bay Road now known as Shawnigan Drive, part of the Island highway which runs from Victoria to Nanaimo. That this road is one of the finest in this province is attributed to the excellence of the work of this gang, and to the thoroughness of the system.

DISESTABLISHMENT IN WALES.

Many old country people in British Columbia are not without interest in the measure to disestablish the church in Wales which is to be passed in the present British parliamentary sessions. Those who were born in England and are familiar with the establishment will not be misled by the tirade of abuse which is being heaped upon the British government by the opponents of disestablishment. There are those, however, unfamiliar with the conditions which have led to the proposal to disestablish, who may look upon that proposal as a measure of spoliation and injustice.

In England a high dignitary of the English church has defined the conditions under which the establishment may properly and justly be maintained. Bishop Weldon, of Manchester, laid down the conditions which in his opinion justify an established national church. He says:

"So far as I am able to judge, the justification of an established and endowed church requires two essential conditions, namely (1) That the church should be far stronger than any other religious body in the nation—I think as a rule the church should embrace half the nation within her pale—and (2) That the church should be broadly sympathetic with the temper and current of national religious life."

Granting that these conditions obtain in England—which we are inclined to doubt—the case is entirely different with respect to Wales.

It is proposed that the church shall retain all the fabrics or church building, valued at $5,000,000, all the episcopal palaces and parsonage houses, and all endowments since 1662.

To those of us in Canada who know no national church it does seem but right that the "tithes which were not the offspring of piety but the creation of law" should be "devoted by law" to national purposes. We quite appreciate the difficulties which must obtain in the minds of those who have been the administrators of these tithes, but in this country, where religious offerings are entirely voluntary, we could not expect popular sympathy to endorse the continuance of conditions under which they are legally devoted to the uses of a religious body which is in a large minority of the communicants throughout the country.

TRIPOLI.

Writer in the Century Magazine Tells of Northern Africa.

The war in the Eastern Mediterranean has drawn the attention of everybody to the province of Tripoli, a part of the world which has not received so much notice for two thousand years. Its history begins about six hundred and fifty years before Christ, and from that period till nine centuries later we know in a general way the course of events in the district about Cyrene and along the seaboard, though we have virtually no knowledge of the conditions that prevailed in the interior.

Tripoli is of the usual desert character of northern Africa, interspersed here and there with oases where, shaded from the burning sun by the dry-leafed palms, the Arabs cultivate their small gardens. Their life is a bitter one. By day the children drive the flocks of goats and sheep over the gray, stony, slopes, seeking the small patches of gnarled scrub-growth; the women stay in the black goat-hair tents or the miserable adobe huts, grinding the grain for the evening meal; the men work in the small fields where garden growth is possible, or, like their prophet Mohammed, lead caravans to far lands, though as likely as not they are cultivating one of the blood feuds which thrive there in a way to make the Kentucky mountains blush with envy. By night small fires made of brush or camel-dung glow in the still air. The camels snuffle and gurgle as, guarded by their masters, they lie near by; the dogs bark or chase the jackals, a bunch of which occasionally runs yelping through the darkness; the women disappear; the men, wrapped in their heavy blankets, lie about; and gradually the never-silent night passes before the onrush of another cloudless day.

Along the coastal plain which stretches with varying width between the frontier of Tunis and that of Egypt the life is different, is a little softened. The great ridge of mountains which stretches across Algeria and Tunis falls away in height as it passes over Tripoli, forming a rough and rolling plateau two thousand feet high. For the most part it is very stony, covered with stunted shrubs and bushes, with now and then a valley where the richer growth of olive or cedar betokens a hidden water-course, and everywhere cut by difficult ravines, which test the temper of the traveller and the sure-footedness of his mount. But between the untracked slopes of this plateau and the sea is a plain where the growth is semi-tropical, and where in the old days thrived the large population of the Pentapolis, the five cities of which some even yet have not lost all signs of animation.

There are today only three settlements which can, in the European sense, be called towns. These are Tripoli, the capital of the western half of the province; Bengazi, the capital of the eastern half, which includes the territory of the famous ancient city of Cyrene; and Derna, about two hundred miles east of Bengazi. They are very primitive, and the only one which has the slightest charm is Derna. Tripoli, with its long stretch of low, white houses and the great hump of mediaeval castle (which, as I write, the papers say has been destroyed by bombardment) hanging over the shallow water of the so-called harbor, is picturesque enough as you approach from the sea; but once ashore, you find the usual Mediterranean squalor. There is a native bazaar, where the Arab, draped like an ancient statue and with his gun across his shoulder, mixes the business of buying goods with that of giving and getting news. Every native is an ambulatory newspaper, and one of the greatest surprises a Westerner has in such Eastern towns is the startling rapidity with which news travels without the aid of post or telegraph. Through the narrow, shaded lanes of the market trot the donkeys, their drivers shouting, "To the left! To the right! Look out for yourself!" as they forge their way through the press. The loose-tongued camels pad along, heedless whether they destroy the load on their back or the frail booths of the merchants. Camels! What memories of exasperation that name brings to the mind! How they groan and bubble when they are loaded! How they bite! How they try to be sprightly and attempt to trot over the hillsides, scattering their load all over the land! How they fall down in the most difficult part of the trail, completely blocking the whole caravan and utterly unable to rise until the shadows and graves of their ancestors have been cursed and human effort has proved unavailing, when, with a final sigh of disgust, they heave themselves up, as they might just as well have done half an hour before. And through it all they look at you with an air of contempt which only an animal which has borne the tragedy of supreme and unrivalled ugliness since the flood could express.

Some signs, too, there are of the West. There are the various consulates, the United States among them, and it is the only one we have on the whole coast. In the other towns, as so often in the East, the American must seek the English consul if he needs help or advice. And let me offer my heartfelt gratitude to the English consuls. Kind, generous, hospitable, learned, they greet their cousin from across the sea with a welcome he can never forget. Besides the consulates, there is a hotel at Tripoli and a bank, a branch of the Banca di Roma, the directors of which are surely to be envied, for among other percentages you have to pay, there is one of insurance on your money! The foreign colony is small. There are far more English subjects, mostly Maltese merchants, than of any other race. Of Italians there were until recently about two hundred, and about another hundred in the rest of the province.

At Bengazi the general look and character of the town is much the same, but it is smaller and more pestilential. There is another antiquated fort, another picturesque bazaar, similar palm groves on the outskirts, and a rather larger village of wattled huts where dwell negroes from the South. But at Bengazi, if you can get there, other interests beside the modern ones begin. The reason for suggesting this doubt of your arrival is that neither at Tripoli nor anywhere else on the coast is there a harbor for anything bigger than a Greek sponge-boat, so that it is by no means an infrequent experience to find, when you reach the place where you would land, that the steamer cannot stop, or, if you get ashore, you may find yourself marooned. If this happens, and there is no such refuge as the English consulate, go to a Turk. He is more than apt to be a true practitioner of his religion, which teaches him to house the stranger. Like many Easterners, he is a gentleman by instinct and usually in practice.

Benganzi was the ancient Berenice, and a few miles out of the town there is a great cave, filled with a slimy, mysterious pool of sleeping water, which tradition says is the entrance to the River Lethe. Natives, digging in the neighborhood, often bring to light Greek vases and coins, and sometimes even marble statues of true classic quality. In fact, quite enough of this sort has been found, and is to be seen both in the country and in European museums, whither it has percolated by channels as dubious as that of Lethe itself, to show that the flowers of ancient art are not alone to be culled on the more familiar Greek lands. Even to this distant province the Greek torch was carried, and here fires were started which spread the wrath of Greek civilization where before had been only cheerless savagery. For about six hundred years this part of Africa was held by the Greeks, and then in the first century before our era it was bequeathed by one of the Ptolemies to the Romans and left by the last of a dying race to the Northern conquerors, just as Pergamum had been before. Rome, however, never settled here, as she did in Tunis and Algiers. Though there are traces enough, as at Lebda, where there is a great city half buried in the drifting sand, of the handicraft of the last classic centuries, still one scarcely ever sees the great masses of brick and concrete which betoken true Roman occupation. Rome owned Cyrenaica, sent governors there, and drew taxes from it, but she never lived there.

SPORTS

TWO IMPORTANT SOCCER FIXTURES

Rovers Play Hibs in Cup Ante-Final—Senior Amateurs Meet Redoubtable Cedar Cottage.

Royal City soccer teams appear in two important matches this afternoon. At Recreation park, Vancouver, the Rovers meet the Hibs in the ante-final of the National cup, and at Cedar Cottage the Senior Amateurs go up against the Cedar Cottage team.

Rovers would probably beat the Hibs in their fixture if everything were all right with the team, but last Saturday's fight against the Thistles has left some of the players crippled. It is extremely doubtful if Walker, the outside left, will be able to take the field, and Sampher is another uncertain starter. He was not well a week ago when he played, and since then he has been in bed. He may, however, be able to guard the Rovers' net tomorrow, but this cannot be depended upon. Accordingly Manager Grant is not as certain of victory as he would otherwise be. He will take his team over to Vancouver, however, animated with a strong determination to win, and good chances of doing so.

The Senior Amateurs' fixture is also an important one. Cedar Cottage is a strong team, but last time it played the local men it had to acknowldege defeat. The Royals have been going strong ever since with the exception of last Saturday's defeat, and with the knowledge that a loss for either team almost puts it out of the running for the championship they will extend themselves as much as possible today. Westminster stands about third on the list, with every chance of running right up to the top before the last game is played. Accordingly enthusiastic supporters are not missing a game at the present time.

WESTMINSTER BEATS VICTORIA SEPTETTE

Westminster scored a notable victory over the Victoria hockey team in Victoria last evening, when the Capitals only managed to score one goal, while their opponents netted the puck five times.

The Royalists went on the ice with a grim determination to win, for there is more at stake than mere glory, as far as they are concerned, and the capturing of the championship will mean much to the Westminster septette. The boys have been leading lives of saints for the past two weeks, retiring every evening at 10 o'clock, and living according to strict instructions laid down by Trainer Pete Muldoon. The simple life is conducive to classy hockey, judging by last night's result.

The game was stubbornly contested, the teams being tied with one score apiece at the end of the second period. The Westminster boys showed up in the third period as fresh as in the first, but the terrific strain of the earlier periods of the game had told on the Victorias, and the visitors made a runaway of the rest of the match.

The defeat of the home team was a keen disappointment to the Victoria fans, who saw their chances of annexing the championship fading into nothingness as the match progressed.

Westminster's victory places this team once again at the top of the column, where they share first honors with the Vancouvers. Only two games remain to be played, one between Vancouver and Victoria, and the other between Westminster and Victoria.

The Y. M. C. A. will hold its first paper chase this afternoon. At 2:30 the hares will leave the association's building, and a big pack of hounds is expected to take up the chase at the appointed time. As this chase is likely to result in the formation of a Harriers' club, it is important that as many as possible take part in it.

Burnaby will play Sapperton in the city league this afternoon. The match will take place at Sapperton.

ATTEL AND MURPHY ARE IN FINE CONDITION

San Francisco, March 8.—Reports today from the training camps of Abe Atell and Tommy Murphy are to the effect that both boxers are in fine shape for their 20-round bout here Saturday afternoon. Jack Welsh has been selected as referee. Wagering has been slow to date, with even money prevailing, but it is expected that Attell will be a slight favorite when the men enter the ring.

Wolgast and Mehegan.

Los Angeles, March 8.—Tom McCarey admitted today that he may match Ad Wolgast and Hughey Mehegan, of Australia, for the lightweight championship, if the title-holder consents to the fight.

Joe Woodman, manager of the little Antipodean, in a cable to McCarey, boosted the boy's stock and declared his willingness to take on Wolgast on any terms.

McCarey will offer Wolgast the bout, and if the champion is willing, the bout will be staged in July or August.

Bowling Congress.

Chicago, March 8.—"Judge" George V. Howard, of Chicago, was elected president of the American Bowling congress here today. Other officers elected are: A. L. Langley, Milwaukee, secretary; G. O. Francisco, Denver, member of the executive committee.

DRUG TRAFFIC INSIDE PRISON WALLS ENDED

Ossining, N. Y., March 7.—A figure clad in stripes shambled toward a guard in Sing Sing prison shortly after roll call. He gazed furtively about, cautiously raised three fingers and shuffled back into line. The guard, whistling, aimlessly, strolled over.

"Nothin' doin,'" he articulated from the side of his mouth. "I couldn't get you a 'shot' for a thousand dollars.'

It was Sing Sing's way of announcing that the illicit traffic in morphine, opium, cocaine and other drugs, which had been going on for years, had been stopped. For almost the first time in the history of the penitentiary scores of pasty-faced culprits went without their grain of narcotic that to some means more than life itself.

It became known that seven of the fourscore guards have been dismissed for bringing drugs, whisky and tobacco into the prison. Others are on the verge of dismissal.

According to Warden John S. Kennedy and William A. McCabe, confidential agent of Superintendent of Prisons Joseph F. Scott, there has been an organized "morphine ring" working both without and within the prison. This ring, consisting of guards, convicts, ex-convicts and others, was so strongly entrenched that its members openly boasted two months ago when Chief McCabe began his work that "nobody could be caught with the goods."

Yet seven members of the ring, including Keeper George Barrett, who had been at the prison four years, have been dismissed, and they have escaped prosecution only because of valuable information they have given Mr. McCabe and Warden Kennedy.

"These men are guilty of a misdemeanor," said Warden Kennedy, "and are liable to a year in prison. The practice of bringing in harmful narcotics is so abhorrent and so morally disaffecting that the prison officers guilty of it should be treated as felons."

Chief McCabe admitted that thousands of dollars' worth of drugs have been illicitly conveyed to the convicts.

"A guard is paid $55 a month when he enters the service," said Chief McCabe. "He is advanced at the rate of $60 a year until he receives $75 a month. It has been a comparatively easy matter for some guards to earn many times their salaries through the illegal smuggling in of dope to the prisoners.

"Almost daily "friskings" are going on at Sing Sing now, and credit for the cleaning out of the 'drug ring' is due entirely to Superintendent Scott.

"Many persons outside of the guards and convicts," he says, "are concerned in the traffic. There are ex-convicts and other friends of the prisoners who supply the money, illegal drug stores in New York from which the drugs are procured, and certain tradesmen and others in this town, who, perhaps unwittingly, have aided in the smuggling.

Chief McCabe explained this last statement by saying that he had discovered a butcher shop in Ossining where mail sent to "John Jones," "Bill Brown,' "Sam Smith," etc., was delivered to guards who called for them. These letters and packages contained money and drugs. The money the guards kept, the drugs they smuggled into the cells.

The 200 men in the prison addicted to the use of drugs adopted the expediency of bribing the guards only after other resources had failed them. Visitors to the convicts are so carefully watched and searched in some instances that nothing can be smuggled into the prison. It was discovered recently that a surprising number of embossed postcards had been sent through the mails to certain prisoners. One day Warden Kennedy was struck with the unusual weight of one of these cards. He slit it open with his knife and discovered a dozen "shots" of morphine within.

"We have had to watch for bulges in postage stamps," said the warden. "A postage stamp, as many of the prisoners have learned, is large enough to shelter a shot" of morphine."

About six 'shots' of morphine can be purchased in this city for a dollar. An idea of the profit made by certain guards can be obtained when it is said that the cost of a single "shot" within the walls of Sing Sing is two dollars.

put before the meeting with the result already mentioned.

In accepting the nomination Mr. Kennedy thanked the meeting, and stated that he felt that a very great responsibility had been placed on his shoulders. He was in favor of an old-fashioned election at which the issue was put squarely before the electors and they were left to vote as they thought right. "I do not disguise from myself," he said, "that this contest is somewhat of a forlorn hope, but I will feel more honored in losing than I would in winning on the other side."

PROMINENT RAILROAD MAN

STRONGLY ADVISES HIS FRIENDS TO TRY GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

"I have been a Pullman Conductor on the C. P. R. and Michigan Central during the last three years. About four years ago, I was laid up with intense pains in the groin, a very sore back, and suffered most severely when I tried to urinate. I treated with my family physician for two months for gravel in the bladder but did not receive any benefit. About that time, I met another railroad man who had been similarly affected and who had been cured by taking Gin Pills, after having been given up by a prominent physician who treated him for Diabetes. He is now running on the road and is perfectly cured. He strongly advised me to try Gin Pills which I did,—with the result that the pains left me entirely.

A new poundkeeper has been appointed in the person of Mr. Wintrip. It will be remembered that Poundkeeper Batt sent in his resignation to the council at its last meeting.

W. G. McQuarrie delivered a lecture to the law students of the city last night. He took as his subject "The Municipal Clauses Act," and expounded that important document in a very lucid and able manner.

The big new garage on Royal avenue near Sixth street, is rapidly nearing completion. The windows are being fitted in the large wooden structure, which runs all the way back, 132 feet, to Cunningham street. Already some automobiles are housed in this new home, which is being put up by Messrs. McLean and Burr.

John Reid, school trustee and proprietor of the Westminster Iron Works, has just returned with his daughter from California. Mr. Reid found the climate down there delightful, and never too hot. Seventy-five degrees in the shade was the rule, and he was altogether charmed with his trip.

Robert Dollar Shifts.

Vancouver, March 8.—The British steamer Robert Dollar, under charter to Dodwell & Company, left Victoria this afternoon for Tacoma. At the capital the Dollar loaded 2500 tons of herring, and at Tacoma she will fill up with cotton and general cargo and leave on March 12 for ports in Japan.

"MUTT AND JEFF."

Manager Harry Tidy, of the opera house, announces as the attraction at his playhouse Friday evening Gus Hill's $75,000 cartoon play entitled "Mutt and Jeff," which is a dramatization of the famous cartoons of Bud Fisher, of the same name. The piece will be put on complete, with a selected cast of fifty people, a large number of supernumeraries and a large contingent of pretty girls, all handsomely gowned. There will be no "cuts" or eliminations and the piece will be presented in a manner that will be a credit to Mr. Hill and in line with the other plays that he has heretofore sent on the road.

"Mutt and Jeff" are a pair of race track habituants, who at the close of the Saratoga racing season find themselves, as they term it, "flattened," irretrievably broke, without a nickel in their clothes and in need of something to drive away their hunger. The young and beautiful daughter of the president of the South American republic is stopping at the hotel with her chaperone. The principal characters in the play, "Mutt and Jeff," learn from her of an immensely rich estate of a deceased revolutionary general, who had been banished from the country for sedition. They also learn that there are no claimants for the estate and that it was likely soon to be confiscated by the Government. They immediately start an investigation and learn that an article indispensable in the manufacture of chewing gum has been discovered on the property. They proceed to impersonate the heirs of the estate and claim the property, and their antics in doing so form one of the most interesting stories ever penned, but the most important things in the play are the comedy, the catchy music, up-to-date songs and ensembles. Mr. Hill has spared neither time nor money to make of "Mutt and Jeff" one of the best plays of the kind ever sent on the road and he believes he has succeeded in doing so.

This is the first season of "Mutt and Jeff" on the road and the play has not heretofore been seen in this city. It was in rehearsal for a great many weeks in New York City, one or two of these rehearsals being open to the public, and those who saw them declare it to be one of the best laugh provoking vehicles ever witnessed.

DEVIL APPEARS TO FINANCIER IN VISION

London, March 8.—Albert Grover the well-known London financier, is a man who says he has met His Ancient Highness the Devil—in dreamland, but so often that he invited "all interested to meet him in the Whitehall Rooms in the Hotel Metropole, "to hear narrated a full account of the most astounding sacred discoveries the world has ever known.

When he came to London, he said, he discovered that he had what is called a "miscroscopic mind," which enabled him to analyze the most complicated figures without effort. But, not finding sufficient occupation for his miscroscopic mind in figures, he took to the study of spiritualism and psychic. One of his experiences was a dream in which the devil appeared to him in a Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York. He got a terrible fright. A second night the dream was repeated, again on a third night, when the devil came close to him. "His fearful face came and glared right into my own. My head was wet with the sweat of fear."

Pursues His Experiment.

Pursuing his experiments, he said, he had come face to face with an extraordinary being, and he had no possible doubt that the great Creator, the Master of Life, passed over London every night. He was the Great Inspector of all his works.

"When the phenomena at first approached," he said, "I was told to go to be, and fell into a kind of trance. As I moved about I found my feet were not touching the floor, although they seemed to be fearfully heavy. I forced my way along until I seemed to overcome the attraction of the gravity of the earth. I was moving at railway speed when I saw before me a bank of cloud. As it is written "clouds" and darkness are around about him.

"Then I realized that I had seen what the old Egyptians called 'The Mystery of the Double.' It is the exalted presence that made Confuscius teach his disciples to put food upon the bodies of the dead."

WINDSOR SALT—ought to cost more—so pure, fine, well-savoured. Goes further, too. But not a cent dearer. 141
