Negociations for Locating Heaps Machine Works In City Well Forward.

Company Ask for Option to Purchase Within Ten Years—People Will Decide.

The first really big announcement regarding industrial plants on Lulu Island, is expected to be definitely made within the next few days.

Since the sale of the Schaake Machine Works to the Heaps Engineering Company of Vancouver, the latter company has been dickering with the city for a lease on certain property near the Lulu Island bridge, which covers four acres. Mr. E. H. Heaps desires a lease of the property for a term of ten years and during that time also, to have an option to purchase the property.

Will Submit Bylaw.

An agreement drawn up by the city solicitor was sent yesterday to Mr. Heaps for signing, and if this is done, a bylaw will then be submitted to the people allowing him to purchase the property at any time during the next ten years for a sum mentioned in the agreement.

The city cannot sell the land without the consent of the ratepayers, but, as Acting Mayor Gray stated last evening, there will be no doubt that the electorate will ratify the agreement, as it affects a payroll of several hundred employees coming to Westminster.

"The more factories we get," said the acting mayor, "the better it will be for everyone in the city. The employees will spend their money with local tradesmen and it will benefit everyone."

Coming Industries.

It is understood that Mr. Heaps is anxious to locate his new factory within the city limits, and it is thought that the harbor bylaw passed on Wednesday will be an incentive to a satisfactory arrangement between the two parties. By the tremendous majorities that the voters rolled up on Wednesday the people of the whole of Canada and United States know that this city means business, and already negotiations are under way with several big firms who have planned to open up branch plants out on the Pacific Coast.

SCHOOLS BREAKING UP FOR HOLIDAY

Queensborough and Central Closing Exercises Yesterday—Sapperton and Lord Kelvin Today.

The closing exercises of the school year were held at both the Boys' and Girl's Central school and the Queensborough school yesterday afternoon. The school trustees attended both ceremonies and made brief addresses. The holidays will extend until August 26.

The fine grounds at the Central school facing the river were thronged with interested spectators yesterday afternoon as the students went through a lengthy program consisting of songs, choruses and drills. Chairman Trapp had charge of the proceedings, and in his introduction complimented the teachers on the work done in the schools during the past year, and told his hearers that the parents had reason to be thankful for the good showing to which the teachers were wholly responsible.

With the building of the new High school on the Tipperary site, Mr. Trapp said that the tent schools, which owing to the increasing number of students had to be brought into use, on the Tipperary site, in Sapperton and at the Lord Kelvin schools, were to be soon a thing of the past.

"The city is growing," he said, "and the school system must mark time with its progress. These tent schools will be remembered when the Royal City becomes the place it is going to be, the hub of the lower mainland."

Chairman Trapp especially mentioned the name of Miss Strong, the teacher in charge of the Central school, whose work during the winter months had brought the condition of the training facilities to its highest pitch.

WESTMINSTER LADY VICTIM OF ROBBERY

Thief Entered House Where She Was Spending Night and Decamped with $9.

Shortly before the midnight hour on Wednesday night, while residents of the city were either sleeping or celebrating the passing of the plebiscite on harbor improvements a thief stealthily entered the home of Mrs. Vallance at 111 Durham street, and after ransacking the rooms on the ground floor decamped with nine dollars, the prorperty of Miss Day, a young lady who was the guest of Mrs. Vallance for the night.

To the Westminster Daily News representative yesterday, Miss Day, who is chief operator in the city telephone exchange, related the circumstances of the robbery.

Miss Day stated that she had been stopping with Mrs. Vallance during the absence of Mr. Vallance. They had retired late. "About 11:30," said Miss Day, "just as we were dropping off to sleep, I heard a noise down stairs. I just knew it was someone in the house who had no business there and it frightened me so I didn't say anything to Mrs. Vallance about it. After a while the noise ceased, and thinking I might have been mistaken, I dozed off."

Miss Day mentioned hearing the noise to Mrs. Vallance before leaving for the telephone office in the morning, but both ladies after searching the rooms could find nothing missing. Miss Day's chateline purse was hanging in the hall, and she did not discover her loss unttil on her way down town, when stopping to make a purchase, she found the sum total of her wealth to be ten cents instead of $9.10.

Several suspicious characters have been seen loitering about the city during the past few days, and it is thought that one of these might be the author of the deed.

Mr. Ellis Had Been Here for Four Days—Came to Hang Yoshi—

He doesn't carry a many notched revolver at his hip—no sharp stilletto is sheathed about his jeans, the roomal of the thug and the sandbag of the yeggman are strangers to his hand, yet he has taken—calmly and dispassionately—the lives of more than a hundred men—his fellow creatures.

"Who is the monster?" you ask. "How does he live with blood like this upon his hands, with the mark of Cain—such as he must have—upon his brow."

It is Ellis, the official executioner for the Dominion government.

Mr. Ellis has been in the city for the past four days (incog); he came here to hang Yoshi, the Japanese who was to die on the 27th, but whose sentence was commuted by order of the governor general.

In response to questions, Mr. Ellis tore a page or two from his strange career and held them up for inspection. He had hanged over a hundred men—about one hundred and fifty, he thought. He worked more swiftly than any other. He had hanged two men in Westminster in April in just 57 seconds from the time they left the cells. He was not a brute, but a scientist and one of the very small wheels in the cogs of justice. The magistrates condemned a man; he carried out the sentence—that was all. He loved poetry and flowers and children. "No," said he sadly, "I am not married."

"Ninety per cent. of all criminals from whom the law exacts the full penalty of a life for a life go to their death resigned and prepared for their fate" stated Mr. Ellis. "I give them no time to break down—a quick march to the platform—the adjustment of a black cap—the noose under the left ear—always the left, I press a lever and down below swings the thing which was a man, the neck breaks at the third verterbrae."

Mr. Ellis talked of his work and the scientific side of it. A falling body of 150 pounds, brought a strain upon a rope in a six foot fall of nearly one ton—1970 foot pounds was the average. The scaffold rope used was manilla hemp with a breaking strain of 2700 pounds. Weight, physique, temperament, and proportion of the subject had to be carefully calculated and the length and character of the fall adjusted accordingly.

Mr. Ellis wound up with the extraordinary statement that he thought corporal punishment was a great thing and that there ought to be more of it.

Mr. Ellis, who has been staying at a local hotel under a fictitious name, leaves this morning for Halifax, N.S., where he will hang a man about the middle of July. From Halifax he returns to Kamloops where he will carry out a triple execution on the 9th of August, coming to Westminster for a short visit about August 11.

AS MATTERS STAND WITH GAS COMPANY

Suit Between City and Westminster Gas Company—Developments Looked for.

The suit of the city vs. James Cunningham, of the Westminster Gas company, which has been pending since the beginning of April, threatens to be tested in the very near future, according to the statements of both the legal lights in the case made to the Westminster Daily News yesterday afternoon.

"The position of the case as it stands now," said Mr. Adam S. Johnston, who has been retained by Mr. Cunningham, "is that the city engineer has forbidden my client to open the city streets in laying gas mains, threatening to serve an injunction if he does so."

Mr. George E. Martin, one of the firm of Messrs. McQuarrie and Martin, city solicitors, stated that Mr. Cunningham, who was operating under the name of the New Westminster Gas company, claimed the right to open the streets of the city and was proceeding to do so when he was given notice by the city engineer to desist. Further action along these lines, according to Mr. Martin, would result in an injunction being applied for to prevent the gas company opening the streets without the consent of the engineer.

As an incident to this action, Mr. Martin declared, the question of whether or no Mr. Cunningham possessed a franchise, would be thoroughly tested.

The suit against the gas company was instituted by the city on April 1, 1912, when a writ was served on Mr. Cunningham for unstated damages, for allegedly entering the city streets wrongfully. The statement of claim was made on May 25, but the city has not as yet moved for an injunction. The case will in all probability not be heard until the fall assizes.

Mayor Lee has stated in the recent by-law campaign that the twenty-five year franchise granted to the Westminster Gas company in 1886 expired last year and no renewal was made. This will doubtless have a bearing on the case.

CALGARY MURDER.

Parties Were Not Drunk—Bottle Fighting.

Calgary, Alta., June 27.—Henry Verri is on trial for the murder of Alfred Glenn. The preliminary hearing commenced this morning before Magistrate Sanders.

A shrewd half-breed woman was the only witness of importance interrogated at the preliminary session. Her evidence was to the effect that Verri had quarreled with his wife, Adelaide Belcourt, and that he had threatened to strike her. Glenn told him that he must not strike his wife. Verri invited him outside to fight, and as Gleen stood just in front of his tent, Verri drew a bottle from his pocket and hurled it at Glenn.

The bottle struck him on the forehead, and he was later taken to the hospital. The woman was quite certain that the parties directly concerned were not drunk at the time.

Adelaide Belcourt is still held as a police witness. It is claimed that she is the wife of the prisoner, and that she cannot be forced to testify against him.

OFF TO KOOTENAY.

Late Assessor of Burnaby Receives Presentation.

Edmonds, June 27.—As a token of regard from the office staff at the municipal hall, Mr. H. D. Curtis, who for the past three and a half years has been assessor of the municipality, was yesterday donated a complete smoking outfit.

Mr. Curtis recently resigned his position to accept a more lucrative and important one in West Kootenay, and leaves this week to assume his duties in the interior. The presentation was the result of a subscription from all the departments in the hall. Mr. Curtis briefly expressed his appreciation of the gift.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

Harry Bulger and the "Flirting Princess" Last Night.

The "Flirting Princess" was so busy enthralling the theatre-goers of Seattle that she quite forgot to charm the G. N. R. officials and rolling stock, and, consequently her expectant admirers in the Royal City were constrained to wait listening to Rushton's orchestra for one hour only—for she was late.

This merriest of musical comedies is as a glorified assortment of music hall stunts. Its author and his interpreters have flirted with most things including good taste.

Apart from this the show was well put on, and Harry Bulger lived up to the reputation which had preceded him. He is the "sport" around whom circle the flirting men and maidens with interludes of song and dance until everything ends as it should do. There are no W. W. Jacobs in stageland it seems.

The camel moved the small boys to mirth, and when Jack Stuart finally won his princess, everyone voted it fine. The scenic effects were very good.

EDUCATION WAS CENTRAL THEME

Baptist Convention Devotes Practically Whole of Three Sessions to Debate.

What is probably the most important matter before the Baptist convention, namely, the educational question, was discussed for nearly four hours yesterday, and resulted in the following resolution being adopted:

1. That there is a present and persistent need for efficient academic work in each western province, the development of such schools being governed by our financial ability.

2. The committee recommends that having decided that for the present, academic work be developed, in a sound financial basis, we look forward as the next step to having one theological seminary for the four provinces as soon as $200,000 is assured for this purpose, the question of a complete university, including arts and theology, being left for a more distant future.

3. That the convention put itself on record in endorsing the policy of educational administration by which the Baptist union of Western Canada will appoint a board of education to which will be submitted the full administration of all our educational work and which will appoint a committee of management for the detailed supervision of such institution and such other committees as they may deem necessary for the best interests of the work entrusted to them.

Owing to the prolonged discussion of these important measures well into the evening, the addresses announced by Drs. Sawyer and Peiry are to be placed somewhere on today's program.

Practically the whole of Thursday's three sessions was devoted to the discussion of Christian education. A delightful evening hour was spent in the school room where the ladies of Olivet rendered the delegates a banquet.

The morning session opened with a season of prayer led by Rev. O. E. Kindall, of Cranbrook, when the report of the credential committee by Rev. C. W. King was presented. There were enrolled 102 accredited church representatives, besides other delegates and visitors.

The following new pastors were also presented for the right hand of fellowship into the B. C. convention: Revs. J. C. Marshall, Chilliwack; J. H. Howe, Nanaimo; O. B. Anderson, Sapperton; R. McCullough, Edmonds; H. S. Smith, Vancouver; N. A. Harkness, Grandview, and E. O. Kindall. The last named responded for the whole.

The following new churches were also welcomed into the convention: Vancouver Heights, Hastings East, Ruth Morton Memorial, Cedar Cottage, Dewdney and Collingwood.

Principal E. W. Sawyer, B.A., D. C. L., of Okanagan college, Summerland, then presented his annual report. The attendance had exceeded that of any previous year. Enrolment 120, last year 102.

C. De Blois Denton, B.A., M.A., returns to teach mathematics and science; Miss Phyllis Higgins will assist Director Moore in the department of music. There are now twelve on the faculty. Fifteen diplomas were granted. The late John Morton, of Vancouver, bequeathed to the college board a seven acre block of land in Vancouver, valued at $30,000. This was not the first donation from the same generous hand. The ladies' residence, in grateful memory, is to be known hereafter as Morton hall. The arts work followed the McMaster university course and the music course that of the McGill university.

MAYOR LEE DEPARTS.

Left on 8:30 Train Yesterday for East and England.

Westminster bade farewell for a few short months to her zealous and energetic chief magistrate yesterday morning when, carrying the well wishes and the debentures of the city in his grip, his worship departed on the 8:30 train.

Together with Mr. Kenneth Myers, secretary of the Progressive association, and, it is expected, Mr. John R. Duncan, president of the Westster board of trade, the mayor will attend the Panama canal convention at Calgary. Afterwards he proceeds to England by way of the foremost Canadian and American cities.

BLASTERS, BEWARE!

Heavy Fine for Frightening Lady in Burnaby.

Edmonds, June 27.—The efforts of the Burnaby police in enforcing the blasting bylaw brought Sam Gabis, said to be a laborer of Vancouver, before Magistrate Walker yesterday morning, charged with blasting without giving due warning.

The complainant was Mrs. Smith, who lives in D. L. 116, she stating that the accused had caused a stump to crash through the tent in which she was living. Her story was, that although not struck by the stump, she suffered so from the shock that it necessitated the calling in of a doctor.

Magistrate Walker imposed a fine of $85 and $9.70 costs, or in default, 1 [illegible] jail [illegible].

NATIONAL RESERVE IS CONGRATULATED

Letters From Colonel Hon. Sam Hughes and Editor of Spectator—United Service Club.

Just previous to his departure yesterday Mayor Lee stated that he had been in communication with the minister of militia concerrning the National Reserve movement, the honor of whose initiation in Canada belongs to Westminster.

Colonel Hon. Sam Hughes has expressed his warmest interest in the movement and congratulated the men composing the National Reserve upon their public spirit and patriotism. He hopes to inquire into the whole subject when he comes to the coast, a visit which has from time to time been postponed.

Some two weeks ago His Majesty the King reviewed in Hyde Park thirty thousaand men of the National Reserve, a branch of which organization has quite recently been founded in Westminster.

There are now nearly one hundred names on the roll at the city hall, and it will be of interest both to them and to the public at large to know that the news of the existence of what is bound to grow into the Canadian National Reserve has been received with great joy in England.

In a letter just received by a member of the National Reserve committee from Mr. J. St. Loe Strachey, editor of the Spectator, and founder of the movement, he congratulates Westminster upon being the first city in the oversea dominions to initiate a branch of the National Reserve.

Touching on the recent review he says:

"I wish you could have seen the great review in Hyde Park on Saturday (June 8). It was one of the most magnificent sights I have ever seen.

"The long lines of men were literally bristling with medals, and a very distinguished general said to me that he had never seen so many medals together before, and of course all of those medals meant war service.

"The King, to whom I had the honor of being presented, was delighted with all he saw."

There has been much delay in getting the rooms in the Hardman block into shape for the United Service club, but the committee of that organization has now appointed a house committee which has in hand the proper furnishing of the quarters. As soon as this is nearing completion the club rooms will be opened. Arrangements are now being made for the holding of an inaugural smoking concert to celebrate the occasion.

The visit of H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught is being looked forward to with much interest by the members both of the club and of the National Reserve, and it is certain that they will play a part in welcoming the governor general to Westminster.

MUCH ACTIVITY IN REAL ESTATE

Large Sales of Waterfront Property—Record Month's Business Expected in July.

The passing of the harbor improvement by-laws and its six kindred measures for extensive improvements throughout the city, has had the effect of giving a decided impetus to real estate—particularly waterfront property.

Yesterday Messrs. Major and Savage, of Columbia street, put through sales aggregating about $30,000 in Lulu island acreage. This is also supplemented by several sales and prospective transfers in the Annacis island subdivision. Yesterday, Mr. Savage stated that the largest portion of the property sold had been to Vancouver capitalists who had also (he understood) bought from other firms property aggregating over $200,000.

All the real estate men in the city are looking forward to a record month's business during July, and a scramble is being made for desirable property, not only in Lulu island and along the waterfront, but within the city limits as well.

DEMOCRATS PASS BRYAN'S MEASURE

Convention Opposed to Nomination of Candidates Allied to Money Trusts.

Early Voting Shows Bryan Still Retains Hold—No Ballots Agreed Upon.

Baltimore, June 27.—William Jennings Bryan tonight led the Democratic convention into a declaration of progressiveness, unheard of in political history.

A resolution by him which was passed by a two-thirds majority, declared the convention opposed to the nomination of any candidate under obligation to J. Pierpont Morgan, T. F. Ryan, August Belmont or any "privilege-seeking class."

The convention was thrown into a furor by the proposition which as originally introduced called for the withdrawal of Ryan and Belmont, delegates from Virginia and New York, respectively.

Resent Resolution.

This part of the resolution was resented as invading the rights of sovereign states and when its import became known boos and cat calls, jeers and hisses were mingled with hand clapping, cheers and stamping of feet in the galleries and on the floor. Representative H. D. Flood of Virginia, dramatically characterized the proposition as insolent and said it came from "the only man who desired to destroy the Democratic party."

Former Governor McCorkle of West Virginia, called it foolish.

Nominating Speeches.

Mr. Bryan made the situation even more dramatic by asking Virginia and New York to request a modification of the resolution and when they scorned the sugestion, he took the course himself.

From that moment, sentiment changed and the early voting indicated that Mr. Bryan retained his hold upon Democracy.

After disposing of the Bryan resolution, the convention proceeded with nominating speeches for a candidate for president, the indications being that a ballot would not be reached until well along toward morning.

No Ballots.

The convention leaders agreed at 11:10 p. m. that no ballots would be taken tonight. The convention may sit until 1 or 2 a. m. to hear nominating speeches and then they will adjourn until noon tomorrow.

Will Traverse Old Trails and New Visiting Fort George and Quesnel.

Bishop de Pencier leaves tomorrow on an official visitation and trip of inspection to the Cariboo district. His lordship will be in Ashcroft on Sunday, proceeding from thence to Soda Creek on Monday by automobile stage over the Cariboo trail. On Tuesday he will visit Fort George, where later in the week, he will deliver sermons in both the St. Stephens and St. George churches, recently built at that place. From Fort George the bishop will return to Quesnel, Barkerville and the Chilcoten district, returning to Westminster by the middle of the month.

At the present time there are three clergyman and three laymen at work in the interests of the church in this district and their efforts will be viewed by his lordship for the first time in an official capacity.

POLICE NOTIFIED OF CAPTURE OF LOOT

A dispatch from the police department of Detroit received yesterday by Chief of Police Bradshaw was to the effect that $4000 found on the person of Martin Powell, arrested in that city on Tuesday, had been identified as part of the loot in the $257,000 Bank of Montreal robbery which ruffled the entire continent at the time it was carried out in this city lhat September.

Chief Bradshaw immediately got in to communication with the Detroit authorities by wire, instructing them to hold Powell pending action by the New Westminster police.

Powell has been arrested several times on various charges, and possesses quite a variety of aliases, going under the names of Wilson, Bartlett and Butcher at different times.

ROSEDAY NETTED QUARTER MILLION

London Makes Splendid Response to Appeal of Queen Alexandra for Charity.

London, June 27.—Between $200,000 and $250,000 was raised yesterday by the sale of wild roses in the streets of London in honor of Queen Alexandra. The occasion was the fifty-eighth anniversary of the first visit of the queen mother to England, when she was the Princess of Denmark, before her marriage to the late King Edward. The money will be used to extend charities in which the queen dowager is particularly interested.

The flowers sold were not real, but were made of satinette by crippled and blind children in London institutions, many of which will benefit by the sale of their handiwork. More than ten million roses were offered for sale, and eleven thousand women, dressed in white, were on the streets with baskets of flowers soon after sunrise.

With brief intervals for meals, the women, who represented all classes, labored steadily throughout the day. The prices varied from a penny to half a sovereign.

In the afternoon, Queen Alexandra drove through the streets, her course being lined with enthusiastic crowds bedecked with the wild roses. Everyone in London seemed to be wearing a wild rose in his buttonhole today. For use on horses there were rosettes, while for motor cars, garlands had been provided. There was much rivalry among the women for the most favorable location, as prizes were offered for the largest sales.

Mrs. Asquith, her daughter, and Mrs. Harcourt, were stationed in Kingsgate. Viscountess Curzon, the queen of beauty of the Egleton tournament, was assigned to Pall Mall; Lady Juliet Duff to Charing Cross; the Duchess of Westminster to the top of St. James street; Lady Paget to Belgrave Square, and the Marchioness of Dufferin to Victoria station, while Lady Mond took a number of pretty girls to the terrace of the House of Commons to collect from members of parliament.

The Countess of Limerick was in Bond street; the Ladies Manners and Mrs. H. Williams at Ridgeway-court, and Lady Mary Howard at Chelsea; the Marchioness of Linlithgow had a stall near the Marble Arch; the Countess of Wilton was in Park street; Lady De Trafford at St. James street and Viscountess Ridley at Westminster.

The wives of leading actors, assisted by a bevy of actresses, were at the entrance to all the theatres. The luncheon and dinner tables of the hotels and restaurants were decorated with roses.

The Duchess of Abercorn, the Duchess of Norfolk, the Duchess of Westminster, the Duchess of Hamilton and the Duchess of Montrose kept open house to welcome the workers. Breakfast, luncheon and tea were served and great strings of flowers were on hand to replenish the baskets.

The day will be known as Alexandra Day hereafter.

QUEBEC CONGRESS.

Speakers of French Language in Canada Gather.

Quebec, June 26.—Three cablegrams were sent out yesterday, one to the King of England, one to His Holiness the Pope, and one to the Academie Francaise, by the Congress du Parler Francaise. They were despatched from the hall in which this morning's session took place in the University Laval, and read as follows:

"To the King: Assembled at Quebec, the members of the first congress of the French language in Canada are happy to offer to His Majesty, George IV., the homage of our respectful attachments to his person, and of undying loyalty, which every subject of the French language in Canada guards towards the British government. They express the wish that a reign, of which the beginning inspires all with joy confidence and respect, shall be prolonged in peace and prosperity for the glory of the empire."

"To the Pope: The French-Canadians and the academies of Canada assembled at Quebec, for the first congress of the French language in Canada, are happy to offer to His Holiness, Pope Pius X., the homage of their respectful attachment to his revered person and their filiate submission to his Apostolic authority. Careful to guard intact the depot of their Catholic faith, they prostrate themselves at the feet of the Father faithful and solicit his benediction in the work of the congress.

"To the Academie Francaise: The French-Canadians and Academiciene of Canada, assembled at Quebec for the consideration of the French language in Canada, send to the French Academies secular guardians of the speech of our fathers, the expression of their faithful attachment to the ancestral tongue, and the evidence of their firm determination to maintain in America the best traditions of the French spirit and language."

The session this morning was marked by a number of interesting events, when Mr. Etienne Lamy of the French Academy; Abbe Tellier de Ponceville and Gustave Zidler, the well-known poet, were presented with the degree of doctors of literature of Laval University.

"The French language," said Sir Joseph DeBuc, in the course of an address," is with the Catholic religion, and the love of our country, the most sacred heritage which we have received from our forefathers. To conserve our mother tongue is for us a question of to be or not to be a nationality distinct.

"If we cease to speak our language, to adopt that of those who are now in the majority in Canada, we will cease to be what we are, French-Canadians.

"Nevertheless, we are loyal, sir, I am happy to be the interpreter of the feelings of my compatriots in saying that the Frenchx-Canadians are as much attached to the British flag as were their fathers who defended it against the revolts of New England."

Sir Francois Langelier, also made a statement in answer to criticisms which have been as to the objects of the congress.

"Those who have pretended on the occasion of this congress," he said, "that we wish to disembarrass ourselves of British denomination to not know us and are ignorant of the teachings of history."

He recalled the fact that the King of England and the Duke of Connaught speak French perfectly and related an anecdote of the visit of the Prince of Wales here when the latter addressed a remark in French to a young lady. She did not understand him, and gave as an excuse that she was not a French-Canadian. "I know that," said the prince, "but in England young ladies of your position know French as an accomplishment."

LOOKING AHEAD.

The bylaws have passed, and, for the second time in the history of such events in this city, they have all been assented to. What now does it all amount to? We have throughout endeavored to impress upon our readers the seriousness of Wednesday last, and perhaps a few thoughts now upon what we have done will not be inopportune.

Westminster has emphatically declared herself in favor of progress. She has now entered upon an era of coming greatness, not only of local import, but of a very deep and real significance to the whole of Canada and to the great empire to which we belong. For, just as the passing of the harbor improvement bylaw, which is for developing our present waterfront, is but the prelude or the laying of the foundation for the greater harbor scheme which embraces the remainder of our city waterfront, Annacis Island, and part of Lulu Island, so in like manner even that magnificent scheme may very well be but the beginning of a harbor development embracing Lulu Island, the whole of whose magnitude and importance to gauge at the present time it is impossible.

That this is a dream may be said with a certain amount of truth, but in Canada, and especially in the West we have a happy knack of making dreams come to realities. Opportunity for endeavor—the maxim still holds good. There are a few points that those who can look as far ahead as this might well bear in view.

Every day sees the stream of emigration to Canada growing more and more in volume, and especially is the tide of British people increasing in strength. If one considers for a moment the fact that even now the provision for handling emigrant traffic is short of that offering, it is abundantly clear that the population of the whole dominion is growing—and to British people British Columbia is the most desirable part of Canada.

And with the people coming, so too, is the money, not alone the money which they bring with them, but the tremendous sums which are now being invested in this country by British capitalists. Here at our very doors we have abundant evidence of the fact that this is so, and that that particular stream is assuming ever-increasing proportions.

Then also, we have to consider the meaning of the Panama canal, and in this connection it may be well to point out that the Calgary convention is not an advertising device by any means. The farmers of the prairies mean business.

It is inevitable that there must be a great national port for Canada upon the Pacific, and in the evolving of that port the interests of Vancouver and of Westminster are largely one and the same, for to a certain extent they are upon common ground when Lulu Island is considered. This, we take it, is what Mayor Lee had in mind when he said that he had good reason to believe that Lulu Island would eventually become the national port of the Pacific.

This is looking ahead, indeed, but what that great shipping center may mean is food for much thought in reference not only to its relation to commerce, but to the naval strategy of the Pacific, a subject which for the present may be far out of our minds, but which must be reckoned with sooner or later. For there is need to prepare, not only for trade, but for defence.

To return to the work of the day. The successful issue of Wednesday means that in the immediate present work will be begun upon setting our present waterfront in order. It means also that the business of improving our streets and beautifying our parks shall neither be halted nor left unstarted. This time next year we will boast a hospital worthy of the Royal City, an up-to-date police station, a gas plant, an economic system of handling our stores, while there need be no fear that we will for the time be in danger of having an insufficient supply of water.

Now all these things take time, but we are confident that now that the ratepayers have so magnificently endorsed the plans of their representatives, those representatives will let no grass grow under their feet in the realization of those measures for which they have striven.

The whole city has a right to congratulate itself upon the step it has taken. It may be sure that its destinies are in capable hands, and that equally in the trip which Mayor Lee has undertaken and in the operations at home, the best interests of the city will be safeguarded in a genuine desire to work for Westminster.

LORD KELVIN SCHOOL STAFF CELEBRATES

The faculty of the Lord Kelvin school gathered in the office of the building last evening to celebrate the closing of the school year. It was also the occasion of a farewell banquet given in honor of five of the teachers who are leaving the school this term.

The spread was prepared by the ladies, the floral decorations being red and white roses and orange blossoms.

Principal Canfield was voted in the chair, and expressed his regret at such a large number of the staff leaving the school at this time. They are Misses C. E. Lord, Olive Wilson, Slater, E. Smith and Mr. C. Grey.

Miss Slater is leaving the profession for a time. Mr. Grey has accepted a similar appointment in Vancouver. Miss Smith has been transferred to the Sixth Avenue school, as being nearer her home.

The peculiar reasons connected with the resignations of Miss Lord and Miss Wilson called for a little comment on the part of the toastmaster, who afterwards presented the former with a brass tea-kettle, while Miss Wilson was the recipient of a cut-glass bowl.

Guests of the evening were Miss Wright, the nurse at the high school, and Mr. Burr, also of the high school staff.

During the summer vacation Miss Smith and Miss Wilkie will visit European countries.

Distinguished Vistor.

Rev. Canon Perkins, a noted English divine, will visit British Columbia and Westminster about the middle of August. A proper reception will be accorded him by Bishop de Pencier upon his arrival in this city.

BAYLEY WINS AT BASSANO

Decision On Points---Fight Went to Full Limit Fifteen Rounds.

Allen Groggy in Last Round—Tommy Burns as Shadow Artist—Big Crowd.

Bassano, Alta., June 27.—Bassano was turned into a miniature Monte Carlo today when under the very noses of the city and mounted police all varieties of shell and "con" games were permitted to operate in the streets. The games were opened soon after the Calgary excursion train arrived about the middle of the afternoon, and did a flourishing business until the fans went to the arena for the boxing.

The police were well aware that these games were going on. They would not miss seeing them. In fact, one of the city officers was seen watching a game for almost half an hour. All he did was to call back one of the Indians who was crowding one of the players. This is the kind of stuff which gives the boxing game a black eye.

Calgary's second delegation, numbering about 100, arrived on the regular train at 5 o'clock, and still others came in at 7 o'clock. The fans began to go to the arena about 7:30. The rain had passed and while the air was a bit cool the weather conditions were very satisfactory. The arena had been hastily constructed and as some of the rather portly fans seated themselves there were various creaks. The band appeared on the scene about 8 o'clock and soon after Billy Lauder appeared in the ring and was given a hearty reception. Lauder was substituted for Billy McCarthy, of Bassano, as the opponent for Kid Lucas, of France, the sparring partner of Allen.

When Tommy Burns was introduced he was given a hearty reception. The first bout was announced for 8:30, and it was only a few minutes later that Lucas and Lauder were called to the centre of the ring.

Bob Albright was the announcer. He stated that the first bout would be between Billy Lauder, former lightweight champion of Canada, and Kid Lucas, of Seattle, Wash., the sparring partner of Billy Allen. The bout was six rounds with clean breaks. The bout was declared a draw.

The next preliminary was the star one, being between Tommy Burns and his own brother, Eddie Brusso. The bout was for four rounds and to use the words of the referee, "An exhibition bout and nothing else."

It provided plenty of amusement for the crowd, but was more of an exhibition of shadow boxing than anything else.

"I want you to understand there are rules in boxing the same as any other game, and it was perfectly understood that the bout was to be with clean breaks. If you want to have boxing in Alberta the boxers will have tto live up to the rules as long as I have anything to do with it. These rules are going to be enforced." These are the words of Tommy Burns when called upon to make a speech.

Joe Bayley entered the ring at 9:30 attended by Fred Oliver and Cyclone Scott. He received a good reception. Allen followed after Bayley's applause had died out and got a round of cheers.

He was attended by Lucas and Foley. Tommy Burns, acting as referee. Charlie Reilly, of San Francisco, challenged the winner. Kid Scaler, of Spokane, wishes to meet the winner for a thousand dollar side bet.

Both Bayley and Allen weighed in at less than 133.

The men shook hands at 9:40, using same gloves used in Burns-Johnson bout in Australia.

The first three rounds were slightly in favor of Allen, but Bayley in the fourth commenced to hammer blow after blow to Allen's stomach which gave the Victoria boy that round. Allen came back in the fifth and gained confidence, and up to the eighth had the better of the coast man.

The eighth round was even, but Allen had his opponent groggy in the ninth. Bayley came back in the tenth and led practically all the way, but could not solve Allen's guard.

The bell sounded in the eleventh while Allen was in his own corner defending himself from a rain of blows. Even round, slightly in favor of Bayley.

The twelfth round opened with Bayley taking it easy. Bayley's face was badly cut and Allen playing to the face all the time. Round even.

The thirteenth was a whirlwind, both proving gluttons for punishment, Allen taking terrible punishment, but fighting back with all his old time gameness. All Bayley's round.

Allen came back in the fourteenth and had slightly the better of the work, but stayed away, waiting for Bayley to lead.

Round fifteen. Bayley came from his corner with a rush and nearly sent Allen through tthe ropes. Bayley lands six blows to Allen's stomach and three to the head, and shoved Allen to the floor to the count of nine. Allen was groggy and hanging on. Bayley sends right to face. Allen swings right wildly. Bayley swings right to face and another to jaw, Allen lands couple of effective ones to Bayley's face, Bayley swings a right to Allen's stomach. This was the fastest round of the contest. Bayley's all the way through. Tommy Burns raised Bayley's hand, declaring him a winner. The decision was a popular one.

CHALLENGES FLYING.

British Columbian Team Is Waiting for Coming Baseball Fray.

The weather cock which has been perched on top of the British Columbian building since their victory over the plumbers, is already showing signs of taking a tumble from its dizzy perch. Yesterday Manager Maiden was in receipt of several challenges from local firms, but disdained them all until after the afternoon contemporary clash in baseball with the Westminster Daily News nine.

This event is scheduled to take place some evening next week and should be worth the price of free admission for any follower of genuine amateur sport.

Referee Grumpy Spring, when seen yesterday rgarding the lacrosse game between the plumbers and printers, stated that really the plumbers won the decision on account of Sangster refusing to leave the grounds when told by the official, and that under ordinary circumstances the decision would have been reversed.

WOULD ABROGATE U. S. GOVERNMENT

Leonard Olsson, Disfranchised Citizen, Expounds Doctrines of I. W. W.—DDirect Action.

Seattle, June 27.—The political theories of Leonard Olsson, whose disfranchisement resulted in the filing of impeachment charges against U. S. District Judge Cornelius H. Hanford, were the principal subjects examined at the first day's session of the congressional sub-committee appointed to take evidence in the impeachment case.

Olsson explained that the Socialist-Labor party, to which he belongs, advocates the abrogation of the present political government in the United States, its place to be taken by an industrial government in which representatives from labor union would sit in congress instead of representatives from geographical divisions. Courts, Olsson said, would be abolished under his form of government, as they would be useless.

Olsson explained that his—the Detroit—branch of the I. W. W. believes in resorting to the ballot for improving labor conditions, while the radical Chicago branch believes in discarding the ballot and resorting to "direct action."

"Direct action, or in other words, violence?" asked Mr. McCoy.

"Direct action," answered Olsson, "the members of that branch of the organization must answer for themselves."

PLAYING IN HAIL REGINAS TRIUMPH

West End Struggled Gamely, Especially Towards Close—Score Four to Three.

By defeating the West Ends last evening—4 to 3—the Reginas have shown themselves capable of being strong contenders for the pennant in the intermediate lacrosse league.

Inclement weather doubtless kept the crowd down to a minimum, and during part of the game, the players struggled in the face of a terrific hail storm.

Huff started the scoring for the Reginas in the first quarter, and tallied a second within a few minutes afterwards. End to end play followed, but the Reginas, who appear to delight in a rainstorm battle, were always hovering around their opponents goal, and the third quarter found them two goals in the lead.

Feeney and Huggard scored for the West Enders towards the close of play, but despite all their efforts, the would-be champions failed to equalize. The teams fielded as follows:

West End—Goal, S. Mortison; point, M. Mortison; cover point, Lougheed; defense, Margison, McDonald, Doherty; centre, L. Sangster; home field, Allison, Huggard, Storme; outside home, Feeney; inside home, Murray. Spare, Henderson.

Reginas—Goal, Fluery; point, Pearson; cover point, Cotton; defence, Turnbull, Goddard and Sait; centre, Huff; home field, M. Fletcher, Sayer, W. Coutts; outside home, L. Johnson; inside home, Sinclair. Spares, Eastman and Roberts.

Sapperton and East Burnaby will be matched next Thursday.

TONIGHT'S BASEBALL.

Maple Leafs and Balmorals at Queen's Park.

The Maple Leafs and the Balmorals will meet once more on the Queen's Park diamond this evening. Following the disastrous defeat the champions received at the hands of the Leafs last Monday evening, Manager Maiden and Cap Ryall have been acting as scouts for the team and it is said they have unearthed some wonders in the line of baseball stars.

Corbett will probably be on the mound for the Leafs while the twirling end of the Bals will rest in the hands of Digman.

The game is scheduled to start at 6:45 o'clock.

Good Form

Up to Date Stationery.

For short notes, invitations and the like small note size paper, which measures six inches by four and one-quarter inches or thereabouts, is used. For letters the sheet is more nearly square, approximately five and a half inches wide by six and a half long. Both are folded once and slipped into envelopes that exactly fit.

Foreign correspondence makes the only exception to this rule, and for letters to be sent abroad a thinner, lighter paper is the preferred one. The very latest novelty in envelopes of this thin, satin finished paper displays a lining of one of the new fashionable colors—purple, gray, red or blue.

The lining is not more than tissue weight, yet the color renders it opaque, and it is possible to send a letter of generous length without excessive postage, while at the same time its contents are protected from curious eyes.

The engraved monogram, initial or address at the top of the sheet in the center is always in good taste, or, if desired, the address may be used in combination with the initial or monogram. In the latter case the address may either be placed below the initials or in the center with the monogram or the initials occupying a space to the left.

Simple script letters from half to three-quarters of an inch in height, intertwined, afford a pretty effect and are in excellent taste, says McCall's Magazine. Blocked letters are combined in many attractive ways, and just now there is a marked preference for long, narrow monograms, whether used alone or in combination with the address. Small letters are often inclosed in a little frame of medallion style, but these are mostly preferred by young girls.

Dull blue and dull red inks for printing monograms and addresses are favorites, gray is liked by many, and tan is always effective on a white ground, while both silver and gold are in good style. Bright colors and startling effects are always to be avoided, but there all rule ends.

Owners of country houses and of boats large enough to serve as temporary homes frequently use the name as well as the general address—as, "The Cedars," followed by the name of the town. Every yacht club has its own flag, and often this is used, together with the owner's private signal, in the left hand corner, while the name of the boat or the owner's monogram occupies the center of the page.

Telephone numbers are important when living out of town, and often the center of the sheet shows the address, while diagonally across the left hand corner are printed the telephone call and number, the same style of letter being used for both.

Calling Obligations.

Even though she is not a society butterfly every woman who desires to have a circle of friends or acquaintances must make certain stated calls. Not to make them is to show carelessness and lack of good breeding.

You should have a list of your calling acquaintances and manage to go to see them at least twice a year.

A call after having been entertained at dinner or luncheon or at an evening entertainment is necessary, as is also the call of congratulation after a marriage or birth.

Those who have had a sorrow should be called upon. In the home where there is illness you should call and make inquiry as to the condition of the patient.

The newcomer in the neighborhood should be called upon, as should also the stranger who has been introduced to you by a friend.

A first call should be returned within a week or at least within a fortnight.

Any of the other calls mentioned should be made promptly.

Cultivate Kindness.

Kindness is a quality which every girl ought to cultivate. No matter how pretty and fascinating woman may be, she is of little account unless she has a good nature as well.

So many lives have been marred by unkindness, so many hearts wounded by sharp words or bitter retorts. Much as we may regret a hard word we have spoken, it is out of our power to recall it, and all we can do is to try to efface the memory of it by a softer phrase.

Even then the wound may remain unhealed. The great duty of life is to be charitable and kind in both word and action. Remember that "kind words are the music of the world."

They have a power which seems to be beyond natural causes. Life is short. We should make haste to gladden the world all we can by human sympathy and love.

Birth Announcements.

The correct announcement card which is sent out to intimate friends within twenty-four hours after baby's arrival is a beveled edged six inch square of highly glazed cardboard bearing on its upper right hand corner the idealized head of an infant, while running downward along the left upright side are three dotted lines preceded by the name, date of birth and signature in blue lettering if the recent arrival is a boy and in pink for a girl. The card is signed by whoever sends out the announcement.

THE BUTCHER-BIRD.

He Preys Upon the Small Fry of the Canadian Woods.

Once you see and recognize a shrike, you will never forget him, says Mark Robinson in a recent article in Toronto Saturday Night. He is light grey in color, with dusky wings and tail marked with white. There are also some dusky markings about the head. In size and build he suggests the blue jay. The shrike is heavy in flight as a rule, but when in pursuit of prey, he appears to move with much more speed than most birds. The song of the shrike suggests in many ways that of the "whiskey-jack." But it is much more harsh and grating.

Among birds the shrike is a bandit and a murderer, though his disguise is a very innocent and inconspicuous one. The upper bill is slightly hooked and very powerful, and the shrike possesses strength enough to drive it into the brain of the unfortunate birds it captures. The legs are very strong, and have long toes, armed with long curved claws, in which they carry their prey.

I first saw the shrike some years ago near the old Bulmer farm, east of Stayner town. It was in the month of June, and I have noticed them there at that season ever since. They would seem to have a breeding-place near by. While they are a somewhat rare bird, they are seen more frequently in the late autumn, hovering over stubble fields and turnip patches, as they come from the north following the migration of the smaller birds. During the past season I noticed a pair nesting in Minesing, a pair in my father's garden at Edenvale, and a pair near the old haunts at the Bulmer farm. I believe the shrike is becoming more plentiful throughout the Nottawasaga Valley.

Some years ago Mr. James Rupert, of Edenvale, called my attention to a bird which he described as a sparrow-hawk, and which was clearing his barns of English sparrows. I visited his place and found that it was shrikes which were doing this work. They made their raids early in the morning, and again shortly before dusk at evening. We never saw the shrikes approaching the barns. The first sight we would get of them would be dashing through a loft-door. The sparrows would fly about in confusion, plunging into the sides of the straw mow in their endeavor to escape from the shrike. The shrikes would follow them, and a hard struggle would always ensue, for the English sparrow dies hard, and many an old cock-sparrow saved his life and won his liberty by sheer pluck, in a fight where the odds were heavily against him. The younger birds, however, fell easy victims, and were carried away to the woods along the river. Almost every autumn since then a pair of shrikes have visited those barns.

On another occasion, late in November, I noticed a large flock of redpolls feeding in some scrub cedars. Suddenly they flew about in great confusion, and, after circling a small bunch of willows a few times, departed to the neighboring woods. I went to find the cause of the disturbance, and saw a red-poll hanging by the neck in a forked branch of the willow. The stain at the base of the head showed it to be the work of a shrike, which was hovering close by.

The shrike must have some deadly enemies, probably among the hawks and owls. Its breeding habits would indicate a rapid increase, and yet they are one of the rarest of our birds. They feed upon frogs, newts and small rodents, as well as birds, and it may well be that they often fall victims to weasels while hunting for prey.

A Man-less Land.

One hundred years ago, Canada was a manless land. There were a few settlers in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, in Quebec and Ontario (to use modern names), and they were a few Red Indians and fur-traders in the West. But what impression could even a million people make on a stretch of territory which is almost the size of Europe?

That this is a true statement of the then situation is amply proved by the history of the years which have elapsed. That million people has grown to eight milions and the country is still largely manless. British Columbia has twenty million acres of grain land, of which only an infinitesimal fraction is surveyed. Ontario has a "clay belt" stowed away in its northern vastness which has an equal acreage and in which there are not yet a thousand farmers. Every other province is in much the same condition.

Compare this country with Great Britain. Canada has thirty-one times as much territory as the United Kingdom. If there were as many people to the square mile here as there, Canada would have a population of more than a billion. To-day, Canada has eight millions or less.

Give every man a thousand acres, and there would be two million landowners in Canada, which would mean a population of from fifteen to twenty million. Give every man a hundred acres and there would be twenty-four million land-owners and a population of fifty million Is not then Canada a man-less land?—Canadian Courier.

Canada Loses Good Man.

Among the notable but least mentioned passenger who perished in the Titanic disaster was E. J. Sjostedt, a native of Sweden, who for several years has been engaged in geological and mineralogical work in Canada, principally in the copper bearing district of the north shore of Lake Superior. Some months ago he made up his mind to visit his native country, and the Department of Mines deemed it advisable to accredit him as its representative to make investigations into the treatment of copper ores in Norway and Sweden. He was on the return trip when he met death on the White Star liner.

Where Eggs Are Costly.

Ranchers in the Bulkley valley were selling their eggs this spring at $1.50 a dozen.

DITTIES SAILORS LOVE

SENTIMENTAL BALLAD PLEASES THEM BEST.

The Mawkish Type of Songs Are Most Popular With Seafaring Men, Says Frank T. Bullen, In Spite of Their Personal Behavior — Music Hall Songs Come Next and Real Sea-Songs Last.

On the topic of sailors' chanteys I can certainly claim to be an authority on the most substantial grounds, since, during the twelve years or so which I spent in a ship's forecastle as a sailor, I always achieved a certain grade of popularity as a singer, and as a player upon that handy but much-derided instrument, the German concertina, says Frank T. Bullen, the English writer of sea tales.

With this egotistical prelude I would say, then, that the sailor loved best what our present up-to-date writers would call the mawkishly sentimental song, of which "Mother Kissed Me in My Dreams" and "Father, Dear Father, Come Home With Me Now" are good examples. Indeed, all songs of sentiment always met with tremendous approval, the more pronounced in proportion as the sentiment was pure and elevating.

I confess this always seemed strange to me, considering the usual topics of conversation among my shipmates and the language in which they invariably expressed their ideas. But such are the facts; the mystery remains as great as ever. To see a ship's company of hard-bitten men, who apparently thought in foul language, and whose conversation invariably gravitated in one direction—towards the sewer—sitting silent with working features and glistening eyes, listening to a small boy warbling ditties in praise of home and mother and the domestic virtues, has been a very frequent experience with me, and one that defies explanation.

Next in point of popularity I should place the banal music-hall song. One of the most utterly stupid in words and wretched in tune that ever I remember was called "The Marble Arch." To a generation enjoying the felicity of never having heard it I will say that "Yip-i-addyi-ay" is a prize lyric compared with it; words cannot express its badness, yet if a man knew it and could sing it, it was an asset of great value in a ship's forecastle, or in a sing-song parlor—or, rather, tap-room — where sailors congregated when ashore.

Such ditties seemed to have an overpowering fascination for sailors, which was the more strange because, owing to the mixed nature of our crews, we had representatives of the most musical nations on earth among us. But they could not sing in English, and amid our polyglot crowds that was the only medium of communication common to us all.

But what about sea-songs? I hear someone say. Truth compels me to say that in all my experience I never once head a sea-song such as "Tom Bowling" or "The Anchor Weighed" sung in a ship's forecastle, except by myself, and then with far less applause than I should have received for "All Among the Hay" or "My Lancashire Lass."

I do not wonder at the modern sea-song being tabooed, such as "Larboard Watch, Ahoy!" or "Anchored," since your sailor is far too keen a critic of words to allow the rubbish that passes muster as sailor-talk in such songs to go down with him. He doesn't like being told that he'll soon be coming back singing, "Hilly, haully, ho," because he knows that he never did, never could, and never would do such a thing, any more than he would "hoist his slacks" or "shiver his timbers," being a sailor, and not a pretty girl on a music hall stage.

Patriotic songs? Well, yes, in moderation; but I am afraid you will not find much patriotism in a ship's forecastle. There isn't room for it. Neither can you look for patriotism, hopefully, amidst a body of, say, a dozen men belonging to six differing nationalities

Here is where the Germans score over us so heavily in seafaring matters. The spirit of the Fatherland is in all their vessels, from the Von der Tann or Amerika down to the smallest coaster. Officers and crew are Germans; none others are eligible, except in a very few special cases, and then only in small ships. Patriotic songs there are more frequent than any others, and do a very great deal towards keeping the flame of patriotism burning high.

Having never been in a modern liner's forecastle, I cannot say anything either of the songs sung (I fear they are few) or the conversations carried on there; but this I do know, that occasionally a performance for the amusement of the passengers is given by members of the crew. These are invariably men of the stewards' staff, and many of them are performers of quite sufficient merit to give them places upon a music hall stage. But they would be the last persons on earth or sea to claim the title of sailors. They are seafarers by accident, but their duties are those of a great hotel raised to a higher power by reason of their being carried on at sea, and efficiently so, in spite of the great handicap of the weather.

I pass by the sad fact—at least, it seems so to me—that modern seafaring has displaced the "chanty" by the rattle of the steam-winch or the hiss of the hydraulic crane. I will not enlarge upon the publication of books of chanties and their tunes—which, to me, a chantyman from my youth up to mature manhood, bear no relation to the real thing—but pass at once to those ancient lovely songs of the sea which are really too good to die.

Anything more delightful than the old, old "Farewell and Adieu to You, Spanish Ladies," I cannot imagine. As a capstan or windlass chanty it is unapproachable, and its wailing minor was the very voice of the hungry Channel in it for all who will hear.

Passed the Third Degree.

When he was a member of the House of Commons, no one was more fond of referring contemptuously to the "old ladies of the Senate" than Rufus Pope. Despite the fact that he was one of the principal insurgents against the leadership of Mr. Borden while the Conservative party was in the cold shades of Opposition, the new Premier heaped coals of fire upon the head of his "quondam" follower by making him a member of the Senate to succeed the late Senator Baker. Pope went into the Senate filled with all kinds of ideas respecting the reform of the Upper Chamber. He was going to make them sit up and take notice. The days went by, however, and the innocent ones who believed in the professions of practical politicians looked daily for the Pope bomb to burst and shatter the gloom of the red chamber. Nothing happened, however, until one day Senator Tom Davis from Prince Albert found the "would-be reformer" fast asleep in his chair while Sir Richard Cartwright was fulminating against protection. Davis shook him, and grasping his hand said:

"Welcome, Rufus, old man. Now I know that you are really a Senator!" —Saturday Night.

Bristol to Participate.

There is now every probability that the City of Bristol, Eng., will be represented at the dedication in August next of the Halifax Memorial Tower, commemorating the first grant of self-governing powers to a British colony, namely, Nova Scotia. It is stated, also, says a Canadian official communique, that the City Council are considering a suggestion that a bronze tablet should be sent from Bristol to be placed in the Tower. A proposal that the tablet should be representative of the departure of the Cabots from Bristol on their first voyage of discovery in 1497, as depicted in Mr. Board's picture at the Art Gallery, was thought to be a very happy one, and it is understood that the Lord Mayor will take action with that object in view. The Royal Colonial Institute, the ports of Liverpool and Glasgow and the city of Edinburgh are being invited to send representatives to the opening ceremony, which will be presided over by the Duke of Connaught.

Immigration Doubles.

Immigration from the United States through the port of Emerson, Man., for March, shows an increase of one hundred per cent. over the same month a year ago, according to Commissioner of Immigration Bruce Walker. The value of effects of American settlers passing through North Portal, Sask., during March totalled $9,000,000.

MUSIC AND MISERY.

Ills, Aches and Pains With Which Performers Have to Contend.

Pianist's cramp is more painful than writer's cramp and is the bane of all virtuosos. It is caused by the constant contraction and expansion of the muscles controlling the fingers. It becomes chronic when not guarded against, and many a promising virtuoso's career has been blighted in this way. The only remedy is to rest the overtaxed muscles and then work them up gradually to meet the strain of constant playing.

All concert pianists are subject to split finger tips. The constant stroke of the balls of the fingers on the hard ivory makes the flesh so delicate and tender that frequently playing becomes acute agony.

Violinists suffer a great deal of physical inconvenience. Most of us have an idea that the violin is held against the neck and shoulder by the player's left hand, which grasps the arm of the instrument. All great violin teachers insist that the left hand be left entirely free, and to achieve this the violin is actually held by the player's chin. In this attitude his head is held in a distorted position, and this, working against the elevation of the left arm and shoulder, causes compression of the heart and lungs and curvature of the spine.

Performers on wind instruments suffer many inconveniences, and in some instances their work leads to permanent physical disability. Bulbar paralysis from continued use of the tongue and lips is an ever present danger. Doctors have a fearsome name for the commonest result of wind playing. In plain language it is overdistention of the lungs. This stretching of the lungs from constantly heavy inflation leads to engorgement of the blood in the right cavities of the heart, and this produces dilation of the heart and hypertrophy.

Mental peculiarities of oboe players are traditional in the orchestral world, in spite of the fact that most oboe players are normal. Some explain that the oboe player is mentally affected by the fact that he is forced to blow through an exceedingly small aperture and the expiration is unusually prolonged. Others insist that the peculiarly melancholy quality of the tone produced and the invariable character of the music written for the oboe are responsible for any peculiarities displayed by its executants.

After this somewhat grewsome recital it is cheering to know that one instrument at least can be counted on to bring health and longevity to those who practice it. This is the flute. Doctors recommend it for incipient consumptives, as the operation of playing the instrument involves the precise motion of the lungs of most benefit to the consumptive—that is, full inspiration, not too full or strained, followed by slow and gentle delivery of the breath.—John Warren in Washington Star.

Simplify Your Home Grounds.

Don't inclose your property with hedges. Irregular borders of trees and shrubs are better. Hedges cut up a landscape and ruin it with their hard, artificial lines. Borders harmonize with the environment, have variety and give interest the year round.

Don't bisect your lawn with a drive or avenue.

Don't set trees and shrubs in straight lines except where absolutely necessary, as on streets; group them.

Don't make a circle in the lawn around every shrub. Plant bushes in borders or beds.

Don't trim every bush into a ball, cube or pyramid. Allow trees and shrubs to assume natural forms.—Country Life in America.

Nearly Shot by Proxy.

In 1862 M. Clemenceau served two months' imprisonment for shouting "Vive la Republique!" and in 1871 he was very nearly shot by proxy. He returned to Paris from a provincial speechmaking tour on the day on which Thiers and the Versaillais succeeded in entering the city. Blood was up, and his enemies were looking for him. A young Brazilian who resembled him was arrested in mistake for him and conducted to La Pelliniere to be executed. Happily, however, he shouted for the Brazilian consul, and the Brazilian consul turned up in time to rescue him.

A JOLLY TIME.

Men's Class Meet and Sup Together at Y. M. C. A.

The Men's Bible Study class of the Y. M. C. A. met last night at a convivial supper presided over by Mr. F. P. Maxwell, and a very happy time ensued. The two minute talks took the hearers first, under the guilding care of Mr. Gray, to Malta, and later to Stockholm, where the work of the Y. M. C. A. and the interest taken therein by Prince Bernadotte was outlined by Mr. Larson.

Malta is attracting a great deal of attention in the world of politics today, and it was most interesting to hear of its great harbor of Valetta, capable of sheltering the whole of the British navy, its romantic associations and other vivid word pictures of this beautiful key of the Mediterranean.

The one-minute speech was a happy innovation, and brought forth views on suffragettes and hobble skirts. Mr. G. I. Sovereign gave some useful hints as to improvement in the class; Mr. H. H. Hotson spoke of its advantages, and Mr. F. O. Canfield was accorded a vote of thanks for his teaching.

It was determined to go right on with the class which now has a membership of 30, all of whom are highly appreciative of the benefits to be derived therefrom.

FOURTH AVENUE OBJECTS.

Wish Pavement to Be Changed on Account of Noise.

Residents along Fourth avenue are preparing a petition to be presented to the city council asking for a change of pavement from the Hassam work to bitulithic. The present contract calls for Hassam paving which the residents along the street consider will result in the making of unnecessary noise.

They consider that Fourth avenue is and always will be a residential street, and for this reason, they believe that the civic officials should take into consideration the fact that traffic traversing the street should not be at all noisy.
