WHY DREDGING OFFICE WENT

Superintendent Bayfield Is Charged With Deliberate Misrepresentation.

Mr. J. D. Taylor, M.P., Submits Ottawa Correspondence to Progressive Association—Will Act.

In correspondence submitted by Mr. J. D. Taylor, M.P., to the meeting of the executive of the Progressive association yesterday afternoon regarding the recent removal of the government dredge inspector's office from Westminster to Vancouver, it was flatly charged that Mr. Bayfield, superintendent of dredges, had secured the transfer of the office by deliberately misrepresenting the state of the case to the department of public works as well as by falsifying a certain map which he had forwarded to Hon. Mr. Monk, minister of public works, in support of the recommendation for the removal of the office from Westminster.

Action of Minister.

Mr. Taylor took the matter up himself and wrote to Hon. Mr. Monk acquainting him with the true facts of the case, but he received a reply from the minister saying that he could not accept or consider the charge against Mr. Bayfield, as no sufficient evidence had been put before him, Mr. Taylor's letter, apparently, notwithstanding.

The substance of the facts as placed before the Progressive association was that Mr. Bayfield had written to the public works department setting forth the alleged inconvenience of the inspector's office in this city in relation to the work of the three dredges, Mastodon, King Edward and Fruhling. Mr. Bayfield had stated that he had to make daily trips of 24 miles in order to do his office work, without mentioning that he lived in Vancouver. At the time of sending this communication to the minister of public works he endorsed a map of the peninsula purporting to give the respective positions in which the three dredges were working, as well as the means of transportation between Vancouver and Westminster, and the relative distances in order to illustrate his point.

Map of Locality.

A copy of this map was laid on the table. It gave the positions of the various dredges inaccurately, it is believed, and omitted to show any means of communication between Westminster and Eburne except by the B. C. E. R. via Vancouver.

It was pointed out at the meeting that the removal of the office from Westminster and the subsequent tendency to pull everything towards Vancouver caused a danger of the employees of the dredges and their families being ultimately drawn from this city. Tenders, it was charged, were also thrown in the way of Vancouver men to the detriment of Westminster.

Mr. Taylor's letter to the minister also charged Mr. Bayfield with being actuated by personal motives in securing the removal of the office as he preferred to make his home in Vancouver on account of personal and business relations he had established there.

Take Strong Action.

The executive of the Progressive association determined to take strong action in regard to the matter, and instructed the honorary secretary and the secretary to draught a suitable resolution presenting the true facts of the case, together with a correct map of the lower mainland to be forwarded to the minister of public works, with a view of having the superintendence of the dredging in the Fraser river returned to Westminster.

BISHOPS' MISSION FOR CHURCH UNITY

Prominent Episcopalians Leave to Confer with Mother Church in England.

New York, June 11.—As a first move towards lining up the old world in an effort to unite every Christian communion into one body, the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity, and three of the most prominent bishops of the Episcopal churches, will leave for England on board the Mauretania today for a conference with the archbishops and bishops of the Church of England and her "Daughter" in this country as an initial step in merging all churches.

The bishops are Charles P. Anderson, of Chicago, chairman of the commission on a world conference on faith and rder, appointed by the late general convention of the Episcopal church; Boyd Vincent, of Cincinnati Ohio, chairman of the house of bishops, and Arthur C. Hall, of Vermont. Dr. Manning is chairman of the plan and scope committee of the commission.

These four clergymen have been sent officially to discuss church union and they will be received by the prelates of the Church of England.

TO SECURE VISIT OF MANUFACTURERS

Progressive Association Will Use Best Efforts—Hon. George E. Foster Lends Aid.

Efforts will be made by the campaign and entertainment committee of the Progress club to bring the large party of British capitalists who are visiting British Columbia during the early part of July to Westminster for the purpose of viewing the city itself, the river and the fertile valley farm lands which are directly tributary to it.

Recently Mr. J. D. Taylor, M.P., communicated with Hon. George E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce, asking that Westminster be included in the trip of the financiers who are the guests of the Dominion government. To this communication Hon. Mr. Foster replied that although the stay of the party in British Columbia was limited to a few days he would endeavor to arrange a short visit to the Royal City.

The Progressive association will do everything in its power to bring the the party here, the matter being referred to the campaign and entertainment committees.

JUDGE HELD BROKER FULFILLED HIS PART

Important Real Estate Action in Vancouver—$1000 Maximum Judgment Allowed.

Vancouver, June 11.—An important decision and one of especial interest to the real estate profession was handed down yesterday by His Honor Judge McInnes when judgment for $1000 commission and costs was granted to Mr. A. M. Barbour, a real estate broker, in an action brought by him against Mr. Magee, a land owner of Bowen Island.

Mr. Magee recently owned seven acres of land at Newport in the Squamish valley, which he authorized Barbour to sell for $25,000, agreeing to give him $1000 commission if he made a sale at that figure. Mr. Barbour arranged a sale with a Mr. Burke, agent for Pemberton & Son, but Magee at the last moment objected to the sale going through and subsequently sold the land to another party for $30,000. Mr. Magee denied that he had refused to sell to Burke owing to the larger offer, and said that the larger offer arrived after he had made up his mind to refuse to sell to Burke.

Judge McInnes held that Barbour had fulfilled his part in finding a buyer for the property at $25,000 and gave him judgment for $1000 and costs, the maximum allowed in such actions in the county court.

FRAUDULENT ADS PRODUCE DEBATE

Need for Publisher, Advertising Man and Honest Advertiser to Join Hands.

Portland, Ore., June 11.—Two addresses, one by C. H. Brockhagen, advertising manager of the Post-Intelligencer, of Seattle, and the other by Former U. S. Senator John L. Wilson, owner of that paper, were the features of the session of the Pacific Coast Advertising Men's association here today.

Mr. Brockhagen spoken on the subject of "dishonest advertising and its cure." He analyzed the question from the view point of publisher, advertiser and advertising man, coming to the conclusion that any real cure for the evil lays with the owners and publishers, and expressed the opinion that it would disappear when publishers flatly set their feet down and refuse to print "fake" advertisements.

Senator Wilson, who followed Mr. Brockhagen, took issue with the latter and declared that the publisher himself was victim of a condition. Mr. Wilson said that the publisher perhaps more than any one else deplored dishonest advertising, but that it was next to impossible in many cases for him to distinguish between the good and the bad. The speaker believed that the question would not be solved until publisher, advertising man and the honest advertiser joined hands in a systematic campaign against the frauds.

Following the idea presented by previous speakers, A. O. Loomis, of the Spokesman-Review, urged that all those mutually interested in advertising should get together. Newspaper and advertiser, he declared, have much in common and he advocated the most cordial relationship between them.

DEATH WAITS ON RIDERS OF AIR

Wright Aviator and Army Officer Instantly Killed In Early Wreck.

Fifteen Flights Had Previously Been Made in Machine—One Same Day.

College Park, Md., June 11.—Two more names were added to the list of aviation fatalities today when an army officer accompanied by a teacher of the Wright company were hurled to death on the army aviation field.

Lieutenant Hazelhurst and Aviator Felch had just started on their trip and had reached an elevation of about 200 feet when the machine crashed to the ground. Death to both was instantaneous. The machine was wrecked. Welch was flying the machine and Lieutenant Hazelhurst was with him as a passenger.

Apparently the weight of the engine and the two aviators caused the collapse.

Had Tested Machine.

The machine was brought to the army aviation field three weeks ago by Orville Wright. Welch came with him from Dayton, Ohio, and intended spending the season here as a teacher for the Wright company. Fifteen flights had been made in the machine without accident since it was brought here. Both Lieutenant Hazelhurst and Welch had separately made successful trips in the machine earlier in the afternoon.

Welch, whose home was here, had been three years in the employ of the Wright brothers, and was said by Orville Wright to be one of their best teachers.

COQUITLAM BANQUET IS GREAT SUCCESS

Annual Feast Held at Terminal Cafe, Where Fun and Bacchus Reign.

Feasting and speechmaking commensurate with the importance of the occasion, signalized the second annual banquet held by the Coquitlam board of trade on Monday night.

More than fifty guests, comprising many well known gentlemen from Westminster and Vancouver, as well as prominent citizens of Coquitlam, attended the proceedings at the Terminal cafe.

At 7:30 the board of trade convened in its regular monthly meeting and proceeded with the election of officers for the year which resulted as follows: President, F. H. Seabrooke; vice-president, R. W. Hulbert; secretary, O. Phillips. The chairmen of the various committees appointed were: Agriculture, Donald McLean; transportation, R. Graham; legislation, J. Mars; arbitration, D. Welsher; navigation, C. Morgan; membership, R. C. Gale.

The meeting then adjourned to the Terminal cafe and after the conclusion of the banquet itself, a long toast list was carried out amid speeches and bibulations.

The toast of "The King" was received with cheers. Mr. O. Phillips proposed the "Visiting Boards of Trade," to which Mr. Ewing Buchan, of the Vancouver board, and Mr. C. H. Stuart Wade, of the New Westminster organization, responded.

"Coquitlam" was proposed by Mr. W. D. F. Godwin and replied to by Reeve Mars and Councillors Atkin and Marmont. "The Coquitlam Board of Trade" was proposed by Mr. E. S. Morgan, and responded to by the retiring president, Mr. R. C. Gale, and the secretary. "The Province" was proposed by Dr. Sutherland and answered by W. K. Manson, M.P.P., in a lengthy speech.

Enthusiasm and good will prevailed at the banquet which lingered on into the wee small hours of the morning.

POTLATCH CELEBRATION.

Westminster Will Be Represented at American Festival.

Although the manager of the Seattle Potlatch celebration committee has submitted a plan, to the Progressive association for advertising Westminster at the glorious pageant to be held in the American city from July 15 to 20, the members of the association have a plan of their own which holds great promise for perpetuating the name of the Royal City.

The scheme, which has been suggested by Mr. C. A. Sutherland will be to supply automobilists attending the Potlatch from this city, with advertising matter for distribution, as well as with appropriate decorations in the way of banners and mottoes.

In the years to come when with growth and development, the Progressive association has assumed goodlier proportions, the intention is to take a lively interest in international celebrations of this nature.

SEVERAL FEET DEEP IN ASHES

Conditions are Appalling on Kodiak Island — Feared Villages Destroyed.

Volcano Now Quiescent—Rain is Charged with Sulphuric Acid—Relief Asked.

Seward, Alaska, June 11.—A cannery tender from Uyak, on the Shelikof strait shore of Kodiak Island, brought word today that the people there are safe, but it is thought that seven fishing villages with a total population of 200 on the Alaska peninsula in the immediate vicinity of Katmai volcano were destroyed by the eruption of last Thursday.

The villages, whose inhabitants, mostly natives, are believed to have perished, were Cold Bay, Katmai, Kanatuk, Douglas, Savanoosky and Kamgamute.

Volcano Quiet.

The volcano has resumed its normal state and the atmosphere is clearing so that boats will be able to get into the stricken district with relief.

At Uyak, the fall of ashes amounted to four inches. The people there are not suffering. This was one of the places on Kodiak Island where it was feared the greatest damage was done and the news from there gives hope that all the people on Kodiak Island are safe.

No word has been received yet from Afognak Island, which lies only a few miles north of Kodiak Island. Afognak, which is included in the Chugach national forest and fish culture reserve has a population of 600. The island is in a direct line with the course taken by the ashes and sand from Katmai.

Rain of Acid.

A light rain fell at Seward today. The water was charged with sulphuric acid which is killing all vegetation and eating into the metal work on buildings.

Terrible Conditions.

Juneau, Alaska, June 11,—Governor Clark today received the following despatch from Kodiak:

"Kodiak Island covered with twelve inches of ashes. Ashes have stopped falling, but conditions here are terrible. The people were taken aboard the revenue cutter Manning which is leaving for other stations to obtain food.

"On some parts of the island the ashes are twenty feet deep. Vegetation and animal life have been killed and the wireless station at Kodiak destroyed. Conditions at Karluk must be terrible."

Governor Clark cabled to Washington today asking $100,000 from congress for relief purposes in the stricken district.

Result of Eruption.

Cordova, Alaska, June 11.—Although five days have passed since Katmai volcano burst forth in eruption there has been little relief from the volcanic smoke and ash which hangs low over the mountains. The first real danger here from the volcanic action was made apparent last night when a heavy rain began to fall, the water mixing with the ash in the air forming sulphuric acid which burned painfully whenever it came in contact with unprotected parts of the bodies of people on the street. Before the cause of the burns was realized many persons received painful burns in the eyes, although none was severely injured. Analysis of the drinking water today showed that it contained sulphuric acid, and physicians have directed householders to use lime water as a counter irritant.

Telephonic reports from Katalla said similar conditions prevailed there.

Station Burned.

Vallejo, Cal., June 11.—The radio station at Kodiak, Alaska, was destroyed by fire Sunday night. The wireless operators are safe on the revenue cutter Manning. This is the list of a wireless message received today at Mare Island navy yard from the Minning.

FAILED TO KEEP HAUL FOR LONG

Robber Holds Up Denver Bank for $115—Shooting Ends in Capture.

Denver, Col., June 11.—A man giving his name as J. Caldwell, and his age as 30 years, walked into the State Mercantile bank in the Ernest and Cramner building a few minutes before the closing hour today, elbowed his way to the paying teller's window, presented a pistol and in subdued tones ordered Earl B. Funk to hand over the money in the racks.

The holdup secured about $115 in gold, hurried toward the door and ran along a crowded business thoroughfare. He was captured after a short chase by pedestrians and police in which several shots were fired. The money was recovered.

SAPPERTON SEWERS DRAIN LARGE AREA

System Combines Features of Ordinary Sewers with Storm Drain—New Departure.

City Engineer Blackman who has recently completed the plans and specifications of the new Sapperton sewerage scheme, will explain the system before a special meeting of the council for approval some time during the week.

The proposed sewerage system will drain that portion of the city north of Queens park to Fifth street and the city boundary comprising in all an area of about five hundred acres.

The system is designed to meet the need for a combination sewer which at once will carry off surface water in the same manner as storm drains, and dispose of heavy sewerage as well. This makes the system something of a departure from the usual lines followed in public works construction and necessitates laying the pipes deeper in the ground than is usually required.

When the new system is installed it will be possible, if found necessary later on, to drain a large portion of Burnaby near Sapperton, as it is estimated that the present plans provide facilities for draining an area fully double that for which it is being built. Work in this connection will be carried out under the local improvement scheme.

INGENIOUS METHOD OF PAYING MAYOR

Grand Forks Raises Aldermen's Salaries—Will Refund—One Wants Park.

Grand Forks, June 11.—The only business of special importance at the last meeting of the city council was the consideration of the aldermen's salary by-law in committee, and it passed through this stage and also received its third reading.

On motion, the salaries of the aldermen were raised from $200 to $250, it being understood that each alderman is to refund $50 of this amount as a salary for the mayor, who is prevented from drawing direct remuneration by provincial laws.

Alderman Morrison explained that he intended to donate his salary to the city, to be placed in a fund to be used for the establishment of a park. He said there was a splendid park site on the south side of the river opposite his ranch. If he carries out his good intention, there will be a deficit in the mayor's salary which will have to be made up in some manner.

UNCLE SAM'S TASK IN CUBA LONG ONE

Ominous Movements by Insurrectos—Planters Appeal for Help—Warships Sail.

Washington, June 11—Naval officers are of the opinion that their task of policing Eastern Cuba will be a long one, for today's orders show that colliers are being made ready to carry supplies to the vessels in Cuban waters sufficient to meet their needs for weeks.

The collier Hector is scheduled to leave Hampton Roads next Monday for Key West, and probably will proceed from there to Guantanamo. The collier Celtic is under orders to leave Boston within a fortnight, and her cruise also in all probability will end at Guantanamo.

The little gunboat Petrel, now on her way from New Orleans, will receive orders at Key West directing her to some Cuban port.

The commander of the gunboat Paeucah reports great uneasiness in Santiago and vicinity. Reports also came of ominous movements on the part of the insurrectos and of appeals for help from plantation owners.

From one source came a rumor that Cuba itself had fostered the insurrection for certain political purposes, but that the movement had gone beyond its control. The state department knows nothing to confirm this rumor.

There was talk today at the war department of sending some army officer to Cuba to make an impartial investigation of conditions there and if possible to act as an intermediary in restoring peace between the factions. It is the common belief that if the end intervention in Cuba is a necessity there must be sweeping changes in the organic law of the republic to guard against the recurrence of conditions that have made the present insurrection possible.

EXPECT DEAN WITHIN WEEK

Chief of Police Bradshaw Leaves for Seattle by Midnight Train.

Will Confer with Pinkerton Agency—Further Developments in the McNamara Case.

Events are happening fast in the Dean case. Last evening Chief of Police Bradshaw left on the midnight train for Seattle, where he will discuss the present situation with the Pinkerton authorities who, since the great robbery of the local Bank of Montreal, have had the situation in hand.

Although he would not commit himself, the local chief fully expects to have Dean safely landed in the local jail before another week has passed. On good authority, it is learned that Dean's last chance of evading extradition from across the line disappeared on Monday when Federal Judge Wellborn, sitting at Los Angeles, where Dean has been in custody for the past several months, dismissed the writ of habeas corpus sworn out on behalf of Dean.

Will End Fight.

With the arrival of Dean in this city to stand trial, there will end one of the most bitter and stubborn fights ever put up against extradition proceedings. His attorneys have fought every move made by both the state and government officials, and have spared no expense in attempting to prove technicalities which would have released him temporarily from the grasp of the law.

McNamara, the other alleged peggman, who is being held in New York, will appear in court there within the next few days. The Canadian authorities will try and prove sufficient evidence to justify him being brought to this city in company with Dean, with whom he is said to have worked several shady deals.

Both cases are in the hands of the Pinkertons and once they land the men in this city, their work on the case will cease, it being left to the civil authorities to continue the matter in the courts.

UNRULY CONVICTS GET COLD DOUCHE

San Quentin Agitation Continues—Authorities Take Extra Precautions—Award Sentences.

San Francisco, June 11.—Locked cells and idle mills are still the order of the day at San Quentin. Warden Hoyle said tonight that continued unrest would be met with continued repression.

When howling in the corridors of "Kid Alley," where the younger inmates are confined, was started again last night, cold water from the fire hose was turned into the cells, for the first time since the four days riot of 1906.

The inquiry into the disorders of Saturday and Sunday ended today with sentences of solitary confinement for 24 prisoners for periods ranging from three to six months.

Frank B. Moulton, who was set upon Sunday, resigned today as chief steward. He formerly was sergeant of the guards. He has been 20 years at San Quentin and was three years at Folsom penitentiary.

"The food was good. Agitation was the cause of the riot," he said.

The quarries were silent and the jute mill idle today. Carpenters began building two bridges in the jute-mill, one of which will run the length of the room and the other the breadth of it, intersecting in the middle, and armed guards will patrol them. Two balconies for more armed guards are also under construction in the dining room, where Sunday's riot took place.

Last night's disturbance in "Kid Alley" is not spoken of as serious by Warden Hoyle. Whenever there is unrest in the prison, the young hoodlums, he said, make most of the noise. But in view of the present tension, its effect upon discipline was feared and warning was given that if the yowling did not cease, the fire hose would be turned on.

"Bring on the hose," chorused the alley in reply. So the cells were stripped of bedding, clothes and furniture; and the cold water was shot through the bars.

OREGON SHEEPMAN SHOOTS PRESSMAN

Lakeview, Ore., June 11.—Frank Cannon, a prominent sheepman of Lake county, shot and killed L. R. Jones, of Paisley, last night. Cannon was returning home from the sheep camp and is alleged to have found Jones and Mrs. Cannon. Jones fled to the woodshed and Cannon shot and instantly killed him. Jones was the head of the Chewaukan Press of Paisley.

BIG STRIKE IN WALES

TRUE STORY OF THE GREAT MINERS' STRUGGLE IN 1893.

Despite Dire Want and Privation They Fought With Grim Determination Until Victory Was Won—Remarkable Unanimity of the Colliers—When Cavalry Arrived the Strikers Were Singing a Hymn.

The demand for a minimum wage is no new thing in the history of the south Wales coal trade. In 1893 and again in 1898 the question was to the fore and gave rise to prolonged and bitter struggles between capital and labor.

At the time of the great strike of 1893, the greatest strike ever recorded in the United Kingdom, Welsh colliers' wages were adjusted according to a sliding scale which made the price of coal govern wages.

Now, during the three years 1888-90 the south Wales coal owners were making handsome profits, and a fairly good wage was earned by working colliers, but the next three were lean years, and the miners' wages dropped steadily until they almost reached the vanishing point. When at last the owners wanted to knock off 42-1-2 per cent. from the standard of 1879 the men of Wales decided it was time to make a stand.

Thus the strike of 1893 began.

When there is trouble in the air and the pits lie idle and there is need for discussion the Welsh miners' thoughts turn instinctively to the great rocking stone on Pontypridd common.

By order of the men's leaders it was here that a gigantic meeting was convened for Aug. 14, 1893, to discuss their grievances, and the response to the summons showed that the Welshmen were in grim earnest.

When the mine owners learned that 40,000 to 50,000 desperate miners, armed with cudgels, were closing in on Pontypridd from all points of the compass their alarm was great, and they appealed wildly for protection. But they need not have been so terrified.

The thousand cavalrymen who rode furiously to prevent the sacking of Pontypridd were taken utterly by surprise when they reached the "battlefield" to find that all was perfectly orderly and peaceable. Led by the archdruid Morien, a remarkable figure, perched, where the ancient druids stood, upon the summit of the rocking stone, 40,000 voices rose to heaven in a grand Welsh hymn before the business of the meeting commenced at 12 o'clock.

The result of the men's deliberations was seen next day, when the indefatigable strikers made a series of forced marches for the purpose of persuading erring brethren who were still at work to throw in their lot with the majority. At Tylorstown, Ferndale and Mardy a band of men 2,000 strong waylaid those miners who were on their way to work and persuaded them to join the strikers.

Another time an army of 15,000 men, in deadly earnest, made a swift night march by way of Porth, Trehafed and other mining villages for the purpose of putting a stop to the work that was still going on at Merthyr Vale.

On their arrival, to their delighted surprise, the delegates found that the Merthyr men had already struck work of their own accord.

The demonstrators were warmly welcomed by the miners of the place, whose wives brought baskets of bread and cheese to satisfy the weary marchers' hunger.

In the whole length and breadth of the Welsh coal field there was no room for backsliders. At a hint of any work being done, apart from pumping and repair work, a great army of determined men would appear, as it seemed, from nowhere to put a stop to it. When one remembers that these colliers, with their wives and children, were starving one is lost in admiration of the wonderful restraint which kept men back from deeds of violence.

To show that the strike was amply justified it is only necessary to recall the way in which it was settled.

After the strike in most of the coal fields of the kingdom had drifted on for several weary months, until the owners themselves were heartily sick of it, although they would not give way, Lord Rosebery intervened.

He was, of course, at that time a member of the Cabinet, and the owners dared not refuse to accept his invitation to a round table conference since that would be equivalent to admitting the injustice of their case. Under his presidency the two sides met, and, though he had no vote, his searching questions and tactful observations began for the first time to reveal to the owners how weak their case would appear if laid bare to the public eye.

Nevertheless they remained obdurate, and it seemed as if the "Rosebery conference" were doomed to failure when the genial Lord suddenly adjourned the discussion and led the way to a room where an excellent repast had been prepared.

Compelled by good manners to unbend a little towards one another while enjoying his lordship's hospitality, the two warring factions temporarily laid aside their differences and foregathered like men and brothers. And by the time lunch was over the atmosphere of mutual dislike and suspicion was so far banished that within a very short time they had come to an agreement, the masters agreeing to let the men go back to work upon the old terms without any reduction.

That Would Be Hard.

"I hear your husband has lost his public job."

"Yes."

"What does he expect to do now?"

"Well, he told me this morning that unless he could get reinstated pretty soon he would have to go to work somewhere."

STORY OF A DIAMOND.

Pitt's Purchase of the Great Mogul and Its Sale to France.

In his "Feuilles d'Histoire" M. Bioves publishes a mass of correspondence that had not hitherto seen the light relative to the history of the diamond of the great Mogul. This correspondence consists of letters of Thomas Pitt, grandfather of the Earl of Chatham.

In 1701 Pitt was governor of Madras, and at the same time he represented an English company. One day a man came and offered to sell for £80,000 a diamond of an extraordinary size, evidently stolen from the mines of the great Mogul.

In his position of governor Pitt should have denounced the theft; in his position of commercial agent he should have thought first of the interests of his company. He did neither, but used his authority to intimidate the man and beat down his price, and eventually the precious stone came into Pitt's possession for the sum of £20,000.

He committed it to the care of his son Robert, ordering him to take it to England and have it cut. When his son had started on his journey the father began to have qualms. He calculated the value of the diamond at £800,000, and the very idea of such a vast sum frightened him.

His wife was already a great spendthrift, and he feared his son would take after her. His fears were not groundless, for Robert hastened to marry a dowerless girl and began housekeeping on a ruinous scale.

The diamond when it came into the hands of the cutter, Cope, by no means fulfilled all the expectations founded upon its value. Impurities and fissures necessitated a wholesale cutting down, and from 426 carats it fell finally to 128.

To make matters worse, Thomas Pitt found himself in hot water. His political enemies made things warm for him, and his company talked of bringing an action against him to recover the value of the diamond. He judged it wise to return to Europe himself and get rid of the stone and wind up the whole affair.

His patriotism would have liked to see the diamond remain in England, but Queen Anne's funds were always at a low ebb and were not equal to the strain of buying the great Mogul's stone. George I. admired the stone whole-heartedly, but declined to buy it on the ground that it was Parliament's duty to make him a present of it. So Pitt resolved to offer the jewel to the regent of France, who decided to purchase it for the sum of £100,000.—Paris Journal des Debats.

King George's Keys.

The only key which King George habitually carries about with him is one which opens the writing desk in the King's private writing room at each of the royal residences, each desk being specially fitted with the same type of lock.

This key, which is a small one, is attached to the end of the King's watch chain, and is carried in his Majesty's waistcoat pocket.

The King's private bunch of keys is kept in the writing desk in his Majesty's writing room at whatever royal residence the King may be staying.

The bunch of keys is not a large one; there are only eight keys in all. One opens the bureau containing a number of the late King's private papers, which is kept in King George's personal writing room at Buckingham Palace; another opens a safe containing a number of private documents relating to private business affairs of the royal family, and another case containing, among other things, the King's collection of postage stamps.

No one ever uses these keys except the King. When the court moves from one royal residence to another, the keys are taken charge of by one of the secretaries and handed subsequently to the King, who locks them in his desk.

Obeyed Too Well.

Lord Liverpool, who was Premier of England, was a very precise and dignified man. On one occasion when he was traveling incognito, after breakfasting at a hotel in London, he ordered his valet, a raw Sussex youth, to clear the table and pack everything in a portmanteau. By this order, of course, were meant Lord Liverpool's letters and papers. But the youth took it to include the silver teapot and spoons. When Lord Liverpool was driving down Oxford street a cry of "Stop thief!" was raised, and the landlord of the hotel arrived in hot pursuit. There in the street the Prime Minister had the mortification of having his luggage opened and in one bag was found the plate. Never would the statesman laugh at the episode even years after, so great was his fear that the story might get into the newspapers.

Good Horse, Good Rider.

Judging from the following story, which Arthur J. Smythe tells in his biography of William Terriss, it is evident that the practice of betting on horse races was among the great dislikes of the English actor.

When any one asked him what horse he was going to back he would say:

"I'm going to back a little filly I've often backed before. I've never won anything on it; yet, strange, to say, I've never lost a penny."

"Oh, whatever horse is that?" might have been the inquiry.

"A little filly called Common Sense, ridden by 'Tommy Let It Alone'," was the invariable answer.

Co-Operative Homes There.

There is a place in England known as Brent Garden Village where experiments in co-operative housekeeping are being carried on. The dwelling house contains all improvements except a kitchen. Meals for everybody are cooked at a central hall, and may be eaten there or sent home. A four course dinner costs but 35 cents. Servants are supplied when needed from the central hall at a cost of about 10 cents an hour.

Cookery Notes

Diet in Case of a Cold.

At the beginning of a cold the diet should be light but slightly stimulating and solid. Avoid greasy foods, cheese, pork, veal and game. In catarrhal conditions smoked or salted meats should be tabooed, as also tea, coffee, moist bread and pastry. A full starch diet aggravates catarrh.

In the selection, preparation and service of any invalid's food there are certain fixed rules that may be briefly summarized as follows:

Regularity in feeding. No patient should be made to wait beyond the regular time for meals. Unless one has been ill oneself it is difficult to imagine the sinking, nauseating feeling that comes to a sick person when the meal has been forgotten or delayed.

Give the nourishment in as concentrated a form as possible.

Bathe the patient's face and hands and rinse the mouth before each meal. The comfort of the patient is dependent in a large degree upon the condition of the mouth.

Be sure that everything served is absolutely fresh, sweet and sound, whether meat, fish, eggs, vegetables or fruit.

No fried foods should ever be given an invalid.

Provide as much variety as possible and let things be a surprise.

Avoid serving too many things at a time or in too large a quantity.

Do not fill cups or glasses full, but leave at least an inch from the top.

When the diet is limited in variety the patient may be gratified by having it served in courses, eating more than if served all at once.

After eating remove at once all traces of the meal. If it is advisable to have any food or drink left in the sick room cover closely.

Entire Wheat Buns.

One cup of milk scalded, one-fourth cup of butter, one-fourth cup of sugar, one yeast cake dissolved in one-fourth cup of lukewarm water, one-half teaspoon of salt, entire wheat flour, three-fourths cup of dates stoned and cut in pieces. Add one-half the sugar and the salt to the milk and when lukewarm add the yeast and one and a half cups of flour. Cover and let rise until double, then add the remaining sugar, butter (melted but not hot), the dates and enough flour to make a soft dough. Let rise again, then shape into biscuit and place in a buttered pan one inch apart or in gem pans. Let rise until well puffed and bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven. If the mixture is to stand over night one-half of a yeast cake will be sufficient.

Caramel Frosting.

When making a caramel frosting coffee is sometimes used instead of water. It imparts a unique flavor. Brown two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar and when a reddish brown, but not burned, add three tablespoonfuls of boiling hot coffee. The coffee should be very hot or the caramels will turn to candy. Never pour any cool or lukewarm liquid over browning sugar in a pan. When the boiling hot coffee has dissolved the caramel pour the mixture into powdered sugar and stir it constantly to a smooth paste such as would be easily spread over a cake without "running."

Mock Pineapple Salad.

Core and peel three nice large apples, slice them thin and against the grain of the fruit. Peel two fine oranges and remove the thick outside white pulp, slice them rather thicker than the apple and also crosswise. Lay a slice of orange on a slice of apple as near the same size as possible. Save every drop of orange juice for the sirup. Place the double slices for the cle in a glass dish. Pour the juice you have collected over the fruit. Sift white sugar thickly over it, also the juice of a lemon, or more if the juice used is very sweet.

Pot Roast.

Take any kind of meat, put into an iron pot a tablespoonful of meat fryings or butter, let it brown, wash off the roast and put into the pot. After it begins to fry pour in enough water to half cover the meat, season with pepper and salt, cover and stew slowly. As the meat begins to fry add more water; turn it often and cook about three hours. A half hour before serving add either Irish or sweet potatoes or turnips and let them brown with the meat.

French Cream Cake.

One cup of white sugar, three eggs, one and a half cups of flour, two tablespoonfuls of cold water, one teaspoonful of baking powder. This is enough for two cakes baked in pie pans, to be split while warm and spread with hot custard, or for four cakes baked in jelly roll pans, with the hot custard spread between them, the latter being the preferable plan.

Ginger Drops.

One cupful of light brown sugar, one egg, two-thirds cupful of butter, two-thirds cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of cold water, large tablespoonful ginger, one large teaspoonful soda, flour to make thick batter. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a well greased pan, bake in moderate oven. These are very nice if properly made.

LITTLE INVENTIONS.

Simple Devices Which Have Earned Millions.

Keep your eyes open and do not regard the simplest contrivance as too insignificant for serious attention. That undoubtedly is the lesson which is to be learned from the history of inventions, many of which, although seeming but trifles in themselves, have earned fortunes for those who have been clever enough to evolve them.

Take, for instance, the crinkly hairpin. The man who made a fortune out of the idea—for millions of women bought them when they were once placed on the market—stood behind his wife one day while she put up her hair. The hairpins of those days were straight, smooth pieces of wire, which had an irritating way of coming out. The woman, in this case, was resourceful and bent her hairpins before putting them in. Her husband saw her do this, and it gave him an idea. The result was the invention of the crinkly hairpin.

And then there was the man who invented the patent dress-hook with a hump. Women had been fastening their dresses up with hooks and eyes for a generation, but hooks had a way of coming unfastened, much to the chagrin of the neat. Then came the wideawake man who bent one of these hooks so as to make a hump in it. He tried hooking it up, and found that it remained hooked, patented the idea, and the "See That Hump" hook advertisements, which are to be seen in every town, earned him a fortune.

The bath-towel was invented by accident. A towel manufacturer found that his machinery was not working right, and that his towels were suffering a vast tangling of ends. While adjusting the machine he used one of the towels to dry his hands. He found it pleasantly absorbent, and from the idea to which that gave rise was born the bath-towel and a fortune.

A man named Heaton noticed that much trouble was occasioned, especially to mothers, because the buttons would come off the children's boots. He thought out and patented the little metal staple that holds on the shoe buttons of to-day, and realized a fortune for his pains. Another man pasted little rings round the holes of tie-on labels and thus made an eye that would not tear. Thousands of travelers have been saved the inconvenience of luggage going astray through torn-off labels, and there are fewer unclaimed parcels lying at the postoffice since his little invention came into general use. This inventor also made a fortune.

The man who invented "tinned" edibles also made it necessary for someone to invent a tin-opener. A tin-opener is not a very difficult thing to use, yet the public will always pay for an invention that is still easier. So just recently an inventive genius brought out a patent "tin" with a seam just below the top. A smart blow breaks the seam, and the lid is off. A single packer ordered 10,000,000 of these tins as an experiment, and others followed suit.

Wearing the Wedding Ring.

Centuries ago women used to wear their wedding rings on their thumbs, then the custom changed and they wore them on their first fingers, and then again the custom changed and the method of to-day came into vogue. The custom of wearing the ring on the third finger originated through the ritual of the marriage service. The priest first put the ring on the thumb, saying, 'In the name of the Father"; on the forefinger, adding, "In the name of the Son"; on the second finger, repeating, "in the name of the Holy Ghost," and on the third finger, ending with "Amen," and there it stayed.

Had No Kick Coming.

An old gentleman who was in the habit of imbibing too freely was sitting one day on the veranda of a village hotel at which he was a regular boarder. When dinner was ready the dinner bell, a large one such as are used on farms, began to ring. A large dog happened to be passing by just then, and, hearing the bell, he stopped and raised his head as high as he could and howled nervously until the bell ceased ringing. The old gentleman looked at the dog a moment as if disgusted with the noise he was making and then said:

"What are you howling about? You don't have to eat here?"

Miles of Films.

On the average of about 150,000 feet of film are placed on the British market every week, and this quantity is steadily increasing. It is computed that there are same 50,000 picture theatres scattered throughout the world, and as the number thereof is increasing daily, the supply of films has by no means yet reached the limits of the demand.

England's Coal Trade.

England produces in a normal year, 230 million tons of coal; it exported 64 million tons last year and imported only the trifle of 20,000 tons. Therefore its whole manufacturing industry, and its foreign trade to the extent of 182 1-2 million dollars a year, are dependent on the coal trade.

Heredity.

"Oh, hubby, dear, what do you think are the first words our baby will say?" gurgled Mrs. Matron.

"Well, if she takes after you they will probably be, 'This is a nice time to come home,'" said the brute.

The March of Progress.

The old-fashioned woman who wore red flannels and turpentine as a protection for her chest now has a daughter who wears talcum and a bangle on hers.

A Catastrophe.

"I don't wemember what I ate, but I had an awful dweam."

"What was it, old chap?"

"I dweamed my valet went away without lacing my shoes."

GOVERNMENT ISSUES IMPORTANT REPORT

Labor Organization in Canada—Methods, Statistics, Relation With the United States.

The Department of Labor at Ottawa has issued a special report on this subject, the general nature of which is set forth in the opening sentences of the introductory chapter. "The aim of the present report," it is there explained, "is to present in concise and convenient form a statement showing the details of labor organization in Canada. The subject is one that has not perhaps in the past received the attention it has merited. The extent and variety of interests concerned and the elaborate system of organization which has been evolved, are little realized by the public in general, and are not closely appreciated, in all probability, by many of those who are themselves sometimes participating in the work here indicated formally in facts and figures. The information presented will be of particular value to employers and employees of all classes, but will also be of deep interest in other circles. Labor organization is today attracting a closer attention than perhaps at any previous time, whether in Canada or elsewhere. Associated with the question of labor organization, growing sometimes, in fact, out of it, are some aspects of those industrial problems which are becoming more and more the subject of research on the part of publicists, journalists and all students of affairs. The one matter bears closely on the other, and the facts which have been here assembled will be, it is believed, of material value from this point of view. It is not intended that this record should be considered as in any way either an advocacy or a condemnation of trades unionism. An effort is made simply to state freely and clearly the facts gathered, and thus to show as precisely as the limits of an official publication will permit the general situation in Canada today."

The report is of necessity largely statistical, but includes a general statement as to methods of organization. As the report shows, the relations as to labor organization between the United States and Canada are closely interwoven, and the statistics printed include sufficient information bearing on this international aspect of the subject to permit a comprehensive view of the whole.

Briefly, it may be stated, that there are 1741 local unions in Canada, of which 1531 are international in character and the remainder are associated with central bodies having no affiliation outside the Dominion. Ontario bulks largely in trade unionism, claiming 700 local unions out of 1741 in Canada. British Columbia comes second with 324 local unions and Quebec is third with 205. The other provinces divide the honors as follows: Alberta, 153; Nova Scotia, 138; Manitoba, 118, Saskatchewan, 84; New Brunswick, 73; Prince Edward Island, 7. These figures as to Provinces include all local unions whether international or otherwise; in Prince Edward Island there are respectively three international and four national bodies. The special strength of unionism is necessarily in the larger cities and the four largest cities in Canada comprise between them about one-fifth of the local unions, proportioned as follows: Toronto, 105; Montreal, 95; Winnipeg, 79; Vancouver, 76. Other cities rank in number as follows: Hamilton, 48; Ottawa, 47; Quebec, 42; Victoria, 42; Calgary, 40; London, 35; Edmonton, 33; St. Thomas, 28; Fort William, 28; Lethbridge, 28; Port Arthur, 27; Halifax, 22; Moose Jaw, 21; Saskatoon, 21; St. John, 20. It is interesting to note in these figures the prominence taken by western cities, and how far in some cases they have, relatively speaking, outstripped the older eastern cities in labor organization.

The total estimated membership in Canada of trade unions is 133,132, the Canadian international roll reaching 119,415, the remainder belonging to purely Canadian unions. Of the latter class the membership is no doubt actually larger than these figures indicate, but precise reports have not been received. The international bodies represented in Canada show a total membership, mostly in Canada and the United States, of 2,340,865 members comprised in 27,418 unions; there are besides, it will be remembered, a considerable minority of trades organizations in the United States without branches in Canada, the membership of which in the United States will increase the total considerably. The total union membership in the United States is placed at 2,625,000 for 1910, a somewhat greater strength relatively than in Canada, having regard to the respective populations.

The report includes an interesting statement of the totals of trade union membership as to various leading countries of Europe, and including Canada and the United States, respectively, the figures being as follows:

Countries—	Total Membership.	Per. of Membership to Tot. pop.
Austria	400,050	1.4
Belgium	138,928	1.8
Denmark	131,563	4.9
France	977,350	2.5
German Empire	2,688,144	4.1
Hungary	85,266	.4
Italy	167,256	.5
Netherlands	143,850	2.4
Sweden	148,649	2.7
Switzerland	110,749	3.1
United Kingdom	2,426,592	5.4
United States	2,625,000	3.0
Canada	133,132	2.0

Canada it will be noticed, is less highly unionized than many European countries. Germany has the largest union membership, exceeding even the figures of the United States, with its greater population, but Great Britain shows the highest percentage of unions to population, Denmark being second, Germany third and the United States fourth.

The report serves also as a Trade Union Directory, including as it does the names and addresses of secretaries for 1912 of all Canadian trades organizations.

UNLAWFUL STRIKES.

Not Long Ago a Workmen's Walk-Out Was Treated as Conspiracy.

At one time, not so long ago, it was a very serious thing for a body of British workmen to go on strike, for they invariably offended the authorities and brought themselves within the scope of the criminal law.

Indeed, prior to 1875, a strike was generally deemed an unlawful conspiracy, and was punishable as a crime. In that year an act of Parliament was passed which enacted that any agreement or combination by two or more persons to do or procure to be done any act in contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute between employers and workmen shall not be indictable as a conspiracy, if such act committed by one person would not be punishable as a crime.

The simple effect of that act of Parliament was to prevent a body of men being charged with conspiracy when they were only doing what one man could do. It did not legalize strikes in any way—that is, it does not take strikes and lockouts within the protection of the law; it simply made strikes no longer criminal.

This act of Parliament led to the system of picketing—that abused system of using moral persuasion to get non-strikers to stop work, and which led to such remarkable scenes when a strike was on.

Trade unions themselves are not by any means modern institutions. Roughly speaking, they are about 100 years old. They came into existence about the same time that machinery became popular, one being a consequence of the other. Until the Trade Union Act of 1871 trade unions were illegal for all purposes whatever, and it was illegal for trustees to hold property in trust for such a union. They could not enforce any contract in the courts of law, and indeed it was difficult for a trade union to be carried on at all until the act of 1871 was passed.

Her Concession.

"How do you know she's older than you are?"

"Why, she admitted it herself."

"Honestly? What did she say?"

"She said, 'You and I are just the same age, dearie'."

ST. CHARLES EVAPORATED CREAM
For many things in cookery, St. Charles Cream is an essential. It is as good as the best milk or cream for any purpose. For many purposes it is much better. It gives to coffee, for instance, a flavor which even the best of ordinary cream cannot approach, and it aids in bringing out the delicate aroma of chocolate and cocoa. For confection and ice cream it is unexcelled. For invalids and infants it is indispensable. It never curdles. It strengthens the strong. If only pure water is added it will agree with the most delicate stomach.
Sold by best grocers everywhere.

THE NEW BYLAWS.

Two weeks from today the people of this city will decide for good and all whether they are to take their rightful place in the march of progress, or to sit back somnolently and watch lustier rivals outstrip them.

It speaks no little for both the courage of the mayor and council, and also for their faith in the spirit of the people, that these bylaws, amounting to $1,190,000, are now placed before the voters. It is without doubt a large sum of money, but large sums are needed if we are to rise to the dignity of a city indeed. Some there may be who will think that we are going too fast. We would direct their attention to the fact that Point Grey is now spending $1,365,573 upon improvements. There are dozens of other instances which might be quoted of neighboring cities and municipalities laying out sums besides which this latest batch of improvements asked for seems comparatively small. Alike they recognise that if they are to exist at all, and to grow into prosperous communities they must spend money in the process.

It is the duty of every one in the city—be he voter or not—to take an intelligent interest in its affairs. The annual statement has just been issued showing the excellent financial condition in which Westminster stands. Her credit is unequalled by any city in Canada, as witness the recent sale of bonds. For a very long period her representatives have been working to secure to her results whose ultimate benefit can scarcely be guaged. They have done their share, and it now remains for the citizens to back them up by voting the money they require.

The largest item asked for is $500,000 for harbor improvement and development. Mayor Lee has stated that it is quite probable that this money will ultimately be returned to the city, when, as seems certain, the harbor authority of the future is constituted by the aid of the Dominion Government. This bylaw is of the utmost possible importance as upon it hangs the fate of Westminster as a center of transportation and shipping. The full details of the scheme are to be announced very shortly, and we are confident that when this is done, the electorate will do its duty.

Regarding the other amounts asked it is proposed to build a civic storehouse, the parks sadly need improvement, while money is also necessary for the extension of the good work being effected in the streets, and in order to extend the water system. Both the new hospital and a municipal gas plant are urgently to be desired, and we feel that just as Westminster spoke clearly for progress two months ago, so she will speak again two weeks hence.

LABOR IN CANADA.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found reference to a departmental report on labor organization in Canada. The subject is one regarding which information has been frequently requested from the department, and the information has not been hitherto collected in a form convenient for distribution.

The present report shows conditions generally as prevailing at the close of the year 1911; where names of officials are given the information is so far as possible for the year 1912. It is hoped to make the report an annual publication, revised from year to year, and with such features added as may appear desirable.

DESERTION COMMON.

In Montreal Among Ships' Crews—200 Already.

Montreal, June 11.—Although the season of navigation is yet young, nearly 200 sailors have deserted their ships while in the port of Montreal. Last year the number of Jack Tars who dropped out of the vessels while they lay here on their trips was about one thousand so that the record bids fair to be badly broken this season. Canada, the land of splendid opportunities and magnificent promises, seems to appeal to the sailors with an irresistible force and almost every ship that docks here sails with a few vacancies on her crew. If there are no missing men from the vessel, it is because the officers have watched night and day while in port to keep the crew in hand.

So widespread is the desertion spirit this spring and so great the inconvenience that the navigation companies are experiencing that they have appealed to the police to assist them in checking the evil. As a result, the courts have been full of the bold restless spirits that go down to the sea in ships almost every day the past week. And nearly every day some vessel has had part of her crew escorted to the dock by the minions of the law just as she was ready to clear from the port for the magistrate has been imprisoning the offenders until the vessel was loaded for sea. As a result some of the liners are none too happy places now and some very bitter feelings are nursed in the forecastle.

The Norwegian boats suffered so badly that the captains were compelled to appeal unto the consul here—Mr. F. Koren, for assistance. He in turn, called upon Chief Campeau of the police office to help the navigators. The consul hopes that by making an example of a few of the deserters the habit will be ended as far as this port is concerned.

WALKING STICK FARM.

New Form of Intensive Cultivation Is Tried in England.

London, June 11.—A form of intensive cultivation that is flourishing in Surrey is the walking stick farm.

In all appearance the acres given up to this industry resemble the trial grounds of an afforestation scheme. You see trim and very close rows of seedling trees in regular scale of height the 4-year-olds being among the largest.

But the object is the making not of trees but of walking sticks. The greater part of the farm is set in seedling ash trees, which nurse one another into straight and even, and indeed rapid growth.

In four years you may produce a forest of walking sticks, but some delay is caused by the growing of the handle. It is necessary to peg down the first growth horizontally along the ground, and from this the trunk shoots up vertically, giving the desired right angle. An attractive knobbiness on stick and handle can be cultivated along with the straightness of the shaft.

Those afforesters who look with a certain impatience at the prospect of waiting 60 or 70 years for their profits might turn their attention to forcing saplings which will produce a return in five. Hazels and cherries and doubtless other woods may be so grown.

Violin With a History.

Mr. Robert Crawford of Edinburgh, who died quite recently, was the possessor of a Stradivarius violin which cost him £2000. The instrument has a romantic history. It was bought about 1827 by an eccentric named Tarisio, who gave up his trade as a carpenter and started searching every nook and corner of Italy for Cremona violins. He lived alone in a wretched attic in Milan, where one day in 1854, he was found dead among a confused heap of fiddles. There were 250 of them, the result of a 30 years' hunt. A noted Parisian dealer, hearing of the wonderful collection, set off for Milan post haste, and purchased the 250 instruments for the nominal sum of £3166. Among them he found one specially magnificent "Strad"—the instrument which Mr. Crawford bought in 1890 for £2000. The Parisian dealer kept it till his death in 1875, and so anxious was he for its safety that during the Franco-German war he buried it, case and all in a damp-proof, air-tight box, and did not unearth it till peace was proclaimed.

Intelligence of Fish.

There are not many precise data in regard to the intelligence of fishes. Some observers say they can be trained a little; others, like Edinger, deny them even memory. It seems that the brain, of bony fish in particular, remains at a low grade.

M. Oxner has recently made some interesting observations at the Oceanographical Museum at Monaco with a fish called coris julis. When he disguised the hook perfectly he caught the same fish as often as he pleased. But that only proved that the disguise was perfect and that the fish was hungry. In another set of experiments he used an equally well hidden hook, but placed a piece of red paper on the gutline a couple of inches above it.

For the first week the fish remained indifferent; on the eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh days it took the bait; on the twelfth day it refused the bait till the red paper was removed; on the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth days it refused the bait with the red paper, though it examined carefully; on the sixteenth day and on the following six days it began by snapping at the red paper, and then turning to the hook bit off the bait in small scraps without any hurry and with a thousand precautions.

PUMPED AWAY.

Lost Roads and Houses of Northwich.

London, June 11.—Disastrous results of removing the rock salt and brine of Cheshire, were described by Honoratus Lloyd, K. C., in advocating a bill to regulate the industry before a house of lords committee. Acres of land had gone down, he said. What was solid land once was now huge lakes, 80, 90 or 100 feet deep. There were enormous holes with sheer sides, on the brink of which it was hardly possible to stand.

Roads had disappeared; they could be seen disappearing at one end of the artificial lakes and rising from the other. Houses and churches had gone down. In Northwich it had become necessary to build houses in frames. Roads had to be made on timber platforms. Public buildings which had been presented by brine-pumpers in their philanthropic moments had disappeared.

A Wise Woman.

"Now, for $2," announced the star gazer, "I will furnish you with a philter which will make your husband love you to the exclusion of all others."

"I don't think I'll invest," decided the practical housewife. "But if you have a philter which will make him bring home some of his salary on pay day I'll allow you a percentage on all sums realized." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Purely Speculative.

"I have always been interested," said little Binks, "in the utilization of waste. Now, where do you suppose all these burst tires go in the end?"

"I don't know," said the genial philosopher, "but if they go where most people consign 'em there must be a terrible smell of rubber in the hereafter." —Harper's Weekly.

Many Suicides in Japan.

The Japanese are now busily debating the ethics of suicide. The case out of which the controversy has arisen is that of the station master at Moji, who, because of a mishap to the Imperial train, which made it necessary for the Emperor to adjourn over half of an hour to a waiting-room showed his repentance by throwing himself under the wheels of the express.

The station master's devotion having evoked a wave of popular admiration, which took shape in a proposal to erect a monument to his memory the nation has been rebuked by the president of the Kyushu university for this glorifying an act of self-destruction; and the latter, finding himself out of tune with public opinion, has resigned his position.

It is a singular thing that among a people so cheerful as the Japanese suicide should be so common. Ten thousand destroy themselves every year in Japan, and the figures cannot be said to be diminishing. But harikari, as such, is out of date.

The modern victims of the suicidal mania, when they do not throw themselves in front of a train, jump into the crater of an active volcano. Asama, in central Japan, and Aso-san in Kyushu, have both acquired a sinister reputation in this respect.

It is, however, a disquieting sign of the times to find the student class resorting so largely to suicide—especially of the spectacular sort, and this, no doubt, is Dr. Yamakawa's motive in protesting against the exaltation of an act which the Christian world regards as a grievous sin.—Pall Mall Gazette.

SPORTS

LALONDE CANNOT PLAY SATURDAY

Off to Hospital—Salary Still Goes on—Salmon Bellies Keeping Fit—Changes.

The enforced absence of Newsy Lalonde will no doubt induce Con Jones to board the high cost of living handicap and give both his personal and financial assistance to the cause which is the subject of much inquiry all the world over. Lalonde was absent from Saturday's game, and he has now been induced to go to a hospital where his sore arm will be treated.

The usual dope handed out by Mr. Jones for publication is to be taken cum grano salis at any time, but it appears to be true that Lalonde will be an absentee from the coming game in Vancouver on Saturday afternoon. This makes two games which the French Canadian has missed, and from Jones' standpoint it must be nearly enough to break any magnate who furnishes the rabid fans with the national sport.

The Vancouver line-up will show quite a change from that of last week. McDougal, Matheson and Cameron are said to have recovered from their injuries and sickness, and it is most certain that the two former will replace Dot Phelan and Sibby Nichol.

The Salmon Bellies passed up training last evening on account of the inclement weather, but their victory last Saturday shows them to be there with the goods when endurance is at stake, and the local trainers are not working their men overtime. Too much training, they say, has a tendency to weaken a man, and if the boys can keep up the pace in the remaining games just as they did in the first and last quarters of the third one, nothing can possibly stop them from regaining their lost laurels.

Can He Come Back?

Los Angeles, Cal., June 11.—Lou Durham, who used to win doubleheaders for the New York Giants, was in a Vernon uniform today, and if he shows an indication of regaining his old time pitching form, Manager Horan said he would be signed. Durham became afflicted with rheumatism and was forced to retire from the game. Lately, however, all traces of his ailment disappeared and he believes he will be able to again make good.

SENIOR AMATEURS PERFORM SATURDAY

Mann Cup Holders Coming—Support for Non-Professional Games Looked for.

The V. A. C. lacrosse team will be the visitors on the Queens park oval on Saturday afternoon, when they will attempt to continue their winning streak which has extended for the past three years.

The locals after their victory over Victoria a little over a week ago are confident of putting up a good game. In view of the showing made by several players on the intermediate teams, Manager Grimston will doubtless draw on the ranks of the juniors. Johnson, of the Sappertons, and Feedham, of East Burnaby, in particular, have shown excellent form in the home division, and although their weight will be a handicap their speed should enable them to make up what they lack in other respects.

The Mann cup holders appear to have gone back on their form of last year and in the two games played against Victoria and Fairview the score has been close.

The management of the Senior Amateurs is appealing for better support at the amateur games in this city and from present indications their hopes of seeing a goodly number of loyal supporters at Saturday's game show signs of being gratified.

The local team will be selected from the following: Keary, Patchell, W. Patchell, Cooper, Gregory, Battson Adams, Sclater, Robertson, Stonne, Warwick, Swanson, Cotton, Sampster, Feedham, B. Johnson and Feeney.

SPORT NOTES.

A meeting of the City Baseball league will be held in the Moose rooms this evening to discuss certain matters pertaining to the league. Captains and managers please take note.

A track meet is being arranged to take place in Queens park towards the end of the month under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. Thirteen events are said to be planned and the contests will extend over several evenings.

The action of Old Jupe in going on a rampage yesterday caused the postponement of all outdoor sports. It is expected that the supply of water in his sprinkling pail will have become exhausted before Thursday night when the Sappertons and the West Ends clash on the park grounds.

TURNED CON DOWN

Vancouver Council Sides with Amateur Bodies.

The application of Mr. Con Jones for a sub-lease of the Brockton Point grounds failed yesterday when the finance committee of the Vancouver city council turned down the proposition. Thus ends a most spirited fight with the amateur bodies on one side and the Brockton Point Athletic association on the other.

The recent deal which President Bob Brown, of the Vancouver Baseball club, put through, in which he obtained possession of some large acreage to the south side of False creek for use as a ball ground will no doubt console Con. who will be able to use the place for his lacrosse games.

Operations will immediately be started for clearing the land, and it is expected that before the end of the year Vancouver will have a recreation park second to none on the coast.

Killing the Game.

New Haven, Conn., June 11—Johnny Coulon, of Chicago, bantamweight champion, figured tonight in a fight with Frankie Hayes, of St. Louis, which fans looked upon as a fake. The bout was scheduled to go ten rounds but at the end of the third round Referee Fitzgerald left the ring, refusing to officiate in what he said was a "frameup." Coulon won in the fourth.

Lil Arthur Again Talks.

East Las Vegas, N. M., June 11.—Jack Johnson announced tonight that of the names on the list of prospective referees for the Flynn-Johnson match he had scratched all except those of Jack Welch, San Francisco; Ed. W. Smith, Chicago; Ed. Cochran, Kansas City, and Mark Levy, Albuquerque. Promoter Jack Curley wired terms tonight to Matt Wells for a match here with Ad Wolgast on Labor Day.

Cross a Winner.

New York, June 11.—Leach Cross, of New York, outboxed Jack Redmond of Milwaukee, in a ten round bout tonight.

White Hope Elimination.

New York, June 11.—Bombardier Wells, the heavyweight title holder of England, and Al Palzer, a white hope aspirant for heavyweight honors, were matched late today to fight ten rounds in Madison Square Garden June 28.

Pipe or Cigarette?

The question of which is the least harmful form of smoking has again been settled by the Lancet, which instituted a special inquiry by a new process devised in its own laboratory. The experiment led to the following conclusions:

1. Pipe mixtures contain the largest amount of nicotine (2.04-2.85 per cent.) Egyptian and Turkish cigarettes come next (1.38-1.74), Virginia cigarettes showing similar figures (1.40-1.60), while a British cigar contains even less (1.24 per cent.), and a Havana cigar the least of all (0.64 per cent.)

2. The cigarette, whether Egyptian, Turkish, or American, yields the least amount of its total nicotine to the smoke formed, while the pipe yields a very large proportion (in some cases between 70 and 80 per cent.), of its nicotine to the smoke reaching the mouth of the consumer. The cigar appears to give figures midway between the two.

It should be observed, however, adds the Lancet, that though the cigarette and cigarette smoke, according to these experiments, offer the least objection from the point of view of nicotine, there are indications of other products being present in cigarette smoke which are not present in pipe or cigar smoke, and which cannot be dismissed as harmless. It has to be remembered, also, that it is often the cigarette smoker who is guilty of excess.

New Auto Record.

At Indianapolis, Ind., last week, Joe Dawson, driving a National car, won the 500-mile race in 6:21:06, breaking the world's record for cars of the class of 600 cubic inches piston-displacement. Harroun, winner of the last year's race, made the distance in 6:42:08. Dawson's average was 78.72 miles an hour. Hartroun's was 74.61.

Depalma led the race until the last five miles, when his engine broke down and he limped into the home stretch, pushing his car.

By-law No.—.

A By-law to enable the Municipal Council of The Corporation of the City of New Westminster, to raise by Loan the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000.00) for Street Improvements within the City of New Westminster, and in particular:

(a) For Clearing, Grading and Macadamising Streets generally.

(b) For constructing Culverts, Ditches, Crossings, Sidewalks and any other works necessary in connection with same.

(c) To pay a proportion toward the cost of permanent improvements to streets, including Paving, Curbing, facilities for Lighting, Storm Sewers and any other works necessary in connection with same, under Local Improvement By-laws.

(d) To pay a proportion toward the cost of constructing sanitary sewers under Local Improvement By-laws.

(e) To commute in whole or in part the City's proportion of the Assessment for Local Improvements on City property fronting on Queen's and Royal Avenue and other streets where permanent improvements are made under Local Improvement By-laws.

WHEREAS certain sums of money have been expended out of the general revenue of the City for the construction, improvement and repair of sewers, streets and sidewalks, and it is expedient that additional sums be expended in like manner and that the Corporation at large contribute such proportion of the expense of improving streets by the laying of sewers, sidewalks and pavements as the Council may determine, part of the cost of which is levied and raised under Local Improvement By-laws, and the amount required to be raised to pay the cost of such street improvements, including the contribution to the cost of local improvements is the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000.00).

AND WHEREAS it appears that if the said sum of $250,000.00 be appropriated from the general revenue of the City for the current year the rate of taxation will be excessive, and it is expedient that such excessive taxation should be avoided, and the said sum should be raised on the credit of the Corporation and that debentures should be issued for that amount.

AND WHEREAS for the payment of interest on the debentures proposed to be issued under this By-law and for creating a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures when due it will be necessary to raise by special rate in addition to all other rates each year during the currency of the said debentures the sum of Thirteen Thousand Four Hundred and Sixty-six and 38-100 Dollars ($13,466.38).

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said yearly sum of $13,466.38 an equal special rate on the dollar will be required to be levied on the whole rateable property of the City of New Westminster.

AND WHEREAS the whole rateable property of the said City according to the last revised Assessment Roll thereof is Seventeen Million Five Hundred and Ten Dollars ($17,000,510.00).

AND WHEREAS the total amount of the existing debenture debt of the said City is Two Million Five Hundred and Twenty-nine Thousand Nine Hundred Dollars ($2,529,900.00) irrespective of the sums proposed to be raised under this By-law and the "Harbor Improvement Debenture By-law, 1912," "Gas Plant Debenture By-law, 1912," "Hospital Debenture By-law, 1912," "Waterworks Debenture By-law, 1912, No. 2," "Parks Improvement Debenture By-law, 1912," and the "Civic Storehouse Debenture By-law, 1912," of which none of the principal or interest is in arrears.

"TABLOID BIOGRAPHY"

HENRY J. MORGAN IS AN EXPERT ON THE SUBJECT.

Former Civil Servant Is Probably the Best Informed Man In the Dominion With Regard to the Lives of Eminent Canadians—Has Spent a Lifetime In This, and the Pursuit of Historical Research.

An important figure in Canadian life and one very little known to Canadians is the subject of a recent sketch in Saturday Night. The man in question is Henry J. Morgan, formerly chief clerk to the Secretary of State, and the writer aptly describes him as the "Snapshot biographer." Everybody has heard of Morgan's Canadian Men and Women of the Time, but few know anything of its compiler who has made a closer study of the lives of more Canadians than any man in the country.

Mr. Morgan is a tall and powerfully built Scot. Despite his nearly seventy years, he is still erect and vigorous looking. He moves slowly, but there is no sign of weakness upon him. The only sign of advancing years is his grey hair. His eyes observe you deliberately, but keenly. He wears no glasses, but he periodically inserts under his left eyebrow a monocle which does not seem, in spite of its long practice, ever to have become acclimatized, but which quickly falls away again.

Although "Men and Women of Canada" did not itself make an appearance until 1898, Mr. Morgan had not been forgetting his idea. In fact, even before Confederation, he had made a beginning by the publication of "Celebrated Canadians," a book containing sketches of a large number of prominent men of the time. From that time on, moreover, he spent much time in the study of Canadian men and women. He originated the Parliamentary Guide, which is now the source of information for the Dominion on all things pertaining to political personages and things electoral. He published a manual of Canadian literature in the very year when Confederation was consummated. In the year of the National Policy he issued a legal directory. For nine years after that time he followed national affairs in detail in "The Dominion Annual Register and Review." He has also published books dealing with the part played in affairs Canadian by the Scot, the Irishman, and the Englishman. In all these enterprises he was familiarizing himself with the men and women of Canada and preparing himself to lay the foundation of current biography on a national scale.

He took an active part in the development of the historic and national feeling of the Canadian people. He delved into our history and assisted in the building up of the chain of historical societies which now cultivate the local fields and gather the raw materials for the great Canadian historian when he shall arrive. He even ventured a little into the political sphere and was one of the founders of the Canada First Party, which is as a great watershed in Canadian political life. Happily these services have received some recognition. He has been elected corresponding member of a number of historical associations throughout the country, and is an honorary fellow of the Royal Colonial Institute in London, England. His services to the cause of history have been recognized in Denmark by the Royal Society of Northern Antiquarians, and in the United States by the American Geographical Society. Two Canadian Universities—Ottawa and King's College (Windsor, N.S.)—have decorated him, and he is a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada. Only two years ago he was elected a member of the Authors' Club in the capital of the Empire.

Extraordinary Name.

A funny incident once convulsed a Lancashire court with laughter when Rev. Mr. Wood was examined as a witness. Upon giving his name, Ottiwell Wood, the judge, addressing the minister, said:

"Pray, how do you spell your name, Mr. Wood?"

The old parson, with a twinkle in his eye, replied:

"O, double T, I, double U, E, double L, double U, double O, D."

Upon which the astonished lawyer laid down his pen, saying it was the most extraordinary name he had ever met in his life, and after vainly trying several times to master it declared he was unable to record it.

SAGE-TEA WILL DARKEN THE HAIR

Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color--Dandruff Quickly Removed.

There is nothing new about the idea of using Sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our grandmothers kept their hair dark, glossy and abundant by the use of a simple "Sage Tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of Sage leaves, and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves; and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing Sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.

This preparation gives youthful color and beauty to the hair, and is one of the best remedies you can use for dandruff, dry, feverish, itching scalp, and falling hair. Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and you will be surprised at the quick results. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

YOUR DOCTOR WILL RECOMMEND US.

We have been so exact in the compounding of prescriptions that we now possess a well earned reputation for accuracy and promptness. Never has a physician had a cause for complaint in one way or another. This sounds like self praise, but it is the duty of every pharmaist to see that such a service is given to his trade.

Bring your prescriptions to Muir's and the speed and sureness of your recovery from illness will be more certain.

See your doctor, then see us.

Influential Visitors.

An effort is being made by the publicity commissioner to the end that the party of British manufacturers who are visiting the principal points of the Dominion may also inspect the Royal City during their brief stay on the coast. Mr. Wade has forwarded invitations to different points at which the party will stay, and hopes to receive a favorable reply within the next few days. It is thought that with the extensive improvements now going on, and those that are planned, a visit from such an influential body as this would be a stimulus for additional capital locating here.

HARDY'S OPINION.

Of American Journals—"Fearfully and Wonderfully Worded."

London, June, 11.—Thomas Hardy, in acknowledging the gold medal of the Royal Society of Literature, presented to him by Henry Newbolt and W. B. Yeats on behalf of the society, on the occasion of his seventy-second birthday, made a plea for pure English and deplored the "appalling increase of slipshod writing."

Mr. Hardy said he feared that the vast increase of hurried descriptive reporting for newspapers was largely responsible for this in England, adding:

"Then the increasing influx of American journals fearfully and wonderfully worded helps on the indifference to literary form. Their influence has been strongly apparent of late years in our English newspapers, where one often notices headlines in capitals that are phrases of no language whatever, often incomprehensible at a casual glance.

"Every kind of reward, prize, or grant, therefore, which urges omnivorous readers and incipient writers toward appreciating the splendors of English undefiled and a desire of producing such for themselves is of immense value."
