GUARD IS KILLED AT PENITENTIARY

Two Convicts Make Desperate Attempt to Escape—Both Wounded.

Desperadoes Overpower First Warder and Successively Hold Up Three Others—Pitched Battle.

A desperate attempt to escape from the penitentiary was made by two long term convicts on Saturday afternoon about three o'clock and before it was foiled, the battle resulted in the death of Guard J. H. Joynson and the wounding of convicts Joseph Smith and H. Wilson.

That more fatalities did not occur was a miracle for during the few minutes of the fight when Joynson was shot down, bullets were flying around all of the guards, who were being covered by the convicts in their attempt to regain their liberty.

Struck From Behind.

The trouble started in the stone-breaking pen where Guard Craig was in charge. During the afternoon he had occasion to warn the two men, Smith and Wilson, of their laxity in observing the rules and about three o'clock one of the pair left his work and joined his pal. Craig was ordering Wilson to go back to his place in the line of workers when he was struck down from behind by a stone thrown in the hands of Smith. It was a glancing blow, and Craig, recovering himself, grappled with Smith when the latter's pal came to his aid and together they overpowered Craig and took away his revolver.

They next made their way towards the exit with Craig after them. Opening the door, which was not locked, they came across Guard Round and surprising him compelled him to throw up his hands, Smith then taking his revolver.

Used Guards as Cover.

With a boldness that denoted death to anyone who attempted their capture, they compelled Round to walk across the open space in the brick yard, the two convicts following him with revolvers sticking to his ribs. Here they came across Guard Morrison, and in the same manner as in Round's case, disarmed him and warning him that he would be shot if he attempted to give the alarm.

Using Round and Morrison as a cover the convicts who had found things easy until then, marched around the fence to the inner-outer wall, on which Guard Elson was stationed. They had him covered in a trice and with a revolver pointed at him, the other two being used to guard Morrison and Round, Elson was compelled to thrown down his rifle. Next he was ordered to throw down the keys to the inner gate.

Fierce Fight Follows.

It was here that the desperadoes made their mistake, for they omitted to ask for Elson's revolver. The latter obeyed the request for the keys, being covered all the time with a revolver, but instead of throwing them in the hands of Smith, pitched them close to the door.

The alarm had by this time been given by Craig, and Joynson came running around a stone pile opening fire on the convicts at the same time. The close proximity of Morrison and Round made Joynson doubly careful and his six shots were expended without effect. Wilson was returning the fire from both the revolver and the rifle of Elson.

In their anxiety to make their escape Wilson, instead of trying to make one of the guards pick up the keys, made a dash for them himself at the same time drawing the fire of Elson, who was armed with his revolver. One of the bullets took effect and the wounded man cried out "I am wounded, Smith." The end soon came, for Round took advantage of the slight lull in the hostilities by grappling with Smith, while the other guards overpowered Wilson.

Joynson Mortally Hurt.

Joynson was lying at the side of the stone pile, and a glance told that he was seriously wounded. He was carried into the building and temporary aid was given until the arrival of Dr. Green, who had been called. The end, however, came in thirty minutes, Joynson not recovering consciousness.

A distressing feature of the killing of Joynson is the fact that he leaves a wife and three small children, who have but recently arrived from the East. As a double misfortune Mrs. Joynson lost her pocketbook containing several hundred dollars while on the point of leaving for the West, and they had no more than his monthly salary to depend on.

Inquest Today.

A jury was requisitioned on Saturday evening and the viewing of the body took place at that time. Dr. A. L. McQuarrie made a post mortem examination yesterday afternoon, finding two bullet wounds in the back. The inquest will commence this afternoon in the provincial court house at 2 o'clock, the funeral of the deceased being arranged for Tuesday afternoon.

Both convicts were ten year men, and Smith is said to have a bad record behind him. Both are now recovering from their wounds, being kept under close guard.

SON OF DR. SHEEPSHANKS HERE

Was Connected with Lloyds—View of Financial Situation—May Stay in City.

Mr. J. Sheepshanks, son of the Rt. Rev. John Sheepshanks, D.D., Bishop of Norwich, and pioneer priest of New Westminster, who died June 3 this year, has come to this city with a view to settling down in the scenes familiar to his father in the olden days, if he finds conditions suitable. Mr. Sheepshanks has just concluded a sixteen years service with Lloyds, the famous underwriters of London, England, which included five years in India. He came to Canada about three months ago to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities offering for men of all classes here.

His father, the late Bishop of Norwich, or as he will be remembered by old timers in this city, was the rector of the first Church of England in New Westminster, which he helped build with his own hands. He came here in the year 1859 and besides being rector was chaplain to the Bishop of Columbia also. In the year 1867 he left this city to become vicar of Bilton, Yorks, and he was later vicar of St. Margaret Anfield, Walton-on-the-hill, Liverpool.

Though he was appointed Bishop of Norwich in 1893 by Mr. Gladstone himself, he renounced the Liberal party in 1906 on account of the Education Bill. He was a man of literary tastes and a writer principally on church matters. Included among his son's possessions is a handsome autobiography of his father's life. This includes references to the bishop's many and varied experiences in British Columbia.

It is said that he never tired of talking about his experiences in Westminster when he went home. Once he said: "I have cobbled my own boots and mended by own breeches." On another occasion he declared: "If any lady wants a lesson in simple cooking—how to make flapjacks or cook bacon—let her come to me."

Mr. J. Sheepshanks is a typical Englishman and entirely unconventional. He appears to be of a resourceful nature and is not liable to stick at anything. He tired of the old country because there a man was just able to keep his head above the swim, but that was all. He selected Westminster as the seat of his operations because he might be known to a certain extent here. "I have heard so much about Westminster during my life that I feel quite at home here," he declared.

He regards the outlook in the old country as ominous. The labor situation could not be worse, in his mind, and the radicalistic tendencies of the government were things to be deplored.

Being in close touch with the financial situation in London, he was able to give as one reason why Canada did not get the money she wanted was because she did not wish to pay for it.

"There is plenty of money in London," he said, "but there have been so many fake propositions put on the market that the investors want promise of a better return on their money before taking any risks."

Mr. Sheepshanks is very much impressed with the opportunities of the Dominion, especially in British Columbia, which he declares is attracting a great deal of attention in England. He is favorably struck with both Westminster and its people and believes that illimitable prospects are ahead of "The Pacific Port." He is staying at the Hotel Russell.

SHACK DWELLER IS SEVERELY BURNED

Companion Finds Swede's Clothes Blazing—Injured Man Rushes Into the Night.

As the result of upsetting a candle and setting fire to his clothes a man named A. Moray, a Swede, residing with a companion in a two room shack on Lulu Island, was removed to the Royal Columbian hospital, on Saturday night suffering from severe burns to his hands, back and head. It is stated that Moray had been uptown celebrating on Saturday night, and was taken home by his mate.

About 10 o'clock the companion, who had retired to bed in the other room, heard a noise, and rushing into the adjoining apartment found Moray ablaze from head to foot and the candle spilled over on the table. He promptly helped his companion to extinguish the burning clothing, after which Moray rushed from the shack in agony, eventually bringing up at the Strand hotel at Queensborough.

Mr. Fairweather, the proprietor there, seeing the unfortunate man's condition, phoned to the police, who sent down the ambulance and had him removed to the hospital. He was attended by Dr. McQuarrie and is now doing as well as can be expected.

ASQUITH'S WORDS ARE SIGNIFICANT

Realizes War Cloud But Has Not Lost All Hope of Peace.

Government Will Not Bow to Threats Made by Unionist Leaders in Ulster.

Ladybank, Fifeshire, Scotland, Oct. 6.—Premier Asquith declared yesterday that he had not lost all hope that the unspeakable calamity of war might be averted by the great powers working together in careful and loyal co-operation for the preservation of peace.

In addressing his constituents he could not say more at the present moment than that, everything that could be done was being done to prevent such an immeasurable catastrophe. He admitted that for a long time the international horizon had not worn such a threatening aspect as it did today.

Blow at Democracy.

Ladybank, Fifeshire, Scotland, Oct. 6.—The British government will not bow to such threats as the Unionist leaders made in Ulster, declared Premier Asquith yesterday, in speaking on Home Rule. They had, he said raised the spirit of lawlessness, but they must not imagine that they could confine their doctrine to a case which happened to be convenient at a moment. He added:

"If what four-fifths of the Irish people demand is not granted and if Irishmen see their long cherished aspirations frustrated, they may turn and say 'we will take the law into our own hands,' no body of responsible politicians has ever struck a more deadly blow at the foundations of democracy."

TRIPLE TRAGEDY STAGGERS CALGARY

Real Estate Man Shoots Estranged Wife, Woman Detective and Commits Suicide.

Calgary, Oct. 6.—John P. Davis, a real estate operator, shot and killed his wife, shot and probably fatally injured Miss Mildred Dixon, a private detective, and then killed himself shortly after 7 o'clock this evening.

The shooting took place in Miss Dixon's apartments, corner Seventeenth avenue and Fifth street east. Davis had separated from his wife and had hired Miss Dixon to shadow her. She, however, took pity on Mrs. Davis and placed her in her own rooms. Davis later took a flat next door. Neighbors heard him asking his wife if she were coming back. Six shots followed.

SEVEN MILES OF PIPE IN SAPPERTON SEWERS

An extensive program of sewer construction is just about to be begun by the city in the Sapperton district. Over seven miles of pipe in all will be laid and tenders for the material and the work entailed are being called for.

A supply of 10,400 feet of reinforced concrete pipe of the lock and continuus or jointed type in sizes 20 by 24 inches, 1660 feet of 48 inch steel pipe as well as bends and specials will be required for the work. The steel pipe will be used for the outfall and sewer sections comprised in the work.

The contracts to be given will require the laying of seven and three quarter miles of reinforced concrete pipe or the construction of monolithic reinforced concrete sewers, with providing and laying vitrified pipes up to 18 inches diameter.

Districts A.B., and outfall section number two of the Sapperton system comprise the work required to be done. Plans and specifications have been prepared by engineer J. W. B. Blackman, at whose office in the city hall information as to the work can be obtained.

Moose Jaw Y. M. C. A. Campaign.

Moose Jaw, Sask., Oct. 6.—What was termed a visionary object, the whirlwind campaign to raise the Y. M. C. A. membership from 509 to 1000 in six days was brought to a close at midnight Saturday when the total of 1007 was announced at the "Y" building amid great enthusiasm. A. J. Polson was the first prize man with 88 to his credit and Fred Graham came second with 84.

Leon Surrenders.

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua, Oct. 6.—The town has Leon has surrendered to the American forces. There is reason to believe that no fighting occurred, but details of the surrender are lacking.

GLORIOUS FINISH TO RECORD FAIR

Attendance Records Broken By Some Twenty Five Thousand—Best Ever.

Westminster's Own Day Draws Tremendous Crowd to Witness the Attractions.

The attendance at the exhibition on Saturday, the closing day was 12,148. Of these 6807 were paid admissions, while 5341 were season ticket holders and passes. The total for the week was 57,320, which is some twenty-five thousand greater than ever before and demonstrates beyond all doubt that New Westminster leads the other cities in the West for one great provincial exhibition.

The financial statement will not be given out for a few days, but with added attendance, added interest and a record number of exhibits the fair of 1912 will go down in history as the best ever held in the Royal City.

Closing Scenes.

With all previous records broken the curtain dropped on the forty-sixth provincial exhibition of New Westminster on Saturday night amid the blaze of electric lights and the cries of the funmakers on the amusement thoroughfare.

Out of the few buildings and exhibits of a few years ago, the exhibition of New Westminster has risen majestically till its very magnitude is something that even the most sanguine directors and even the most optimistic citizen failed to conceive. The exhibition of 1912 is on the lips of thousands of people not only of this province, but of hundreds of those from the eastern provinces and the western states who came, saw and wondered at the magnitude of the event.

Takes High Place.

Not only in buildings has the fair grown, but also in entries, concessions, attractions and the hundred and one things that go to make a successful exhibition. It is the outcome of the persistent faith of the directors backed up by the unprecedented patronage that has placed it among the premier exhibitions of Canada, taking second place to the National exposition of Toronto, which is beyond doubt a peer among peers on this continent.

Starting as it did amid the annual hoodoo of a rain storm, the bright weather of the rest of the week more than offset Tuesday's downpour, and with the unstinted support of Vancouver and the numerous towns in the Fraser valley, the real exhibition of the Canadian West will go down in history as the best ever.

Popular Feature.

Perhaps the feature of the every day program was the horse show. A fair without a horse show is like unto a ship without a rudder, and it was only this year that the directors realized this fact. True it is, the attendance at this could have been bettered, but people need educating to a horse show, once seen they were anxious to go again and the crowd on Saturday night was the largest and most enthusiastic of the week. The horse show building is one of the finest in the West, it is a real asset to the city and its advantages are not to be estimated.

Saturday was Westminster's own day, with no question about the loyalty of the citizens. They were out for a good time, and with the host of attractions which ended the fair of 1912 they certainly had a busy day of it. Early in the morning the turnstiles began with their methodical click and from then up to a late hour at night the time when the workmen and others came along to take one more look at the Best in the West, the gate tenders had a busy time.

At 1 o'clock the real rush began, and up to 3 o'clock the grand stands and bleachers were filling with people anxious to see the star lacrosse teams of Eastern and Western Canada battle for the world's championship.

Caused Merriment.

During the time of waiting and the intervals between the quarters, the free attractions in front of the grand stands kept the people in convulsions. The daring work of the acrobats, the trapeze artists, the bucking mule with a big colored individual leading the bunch in an ineffectual attempt to ride the animal, all these kept the crowd in good humor. Immediately after the game, people began to wend their way through the buildings, taking a last look at the exhibits which represented forty-six years of progress in New Westminster and surrounding territory.

Everybody Happy.

In the evening the horse show and the sockeye run formed the attractions. A contrast with some years was the happy mood in which the showmen packed up their belongings, drew the curtain across their side shows and closed up the shop at about 11 o'clock at night. In other years wet and disagreeable weather played havoc with the takings and a disagreeable mood resulted. This was all swept away on Saturday, and public and showmen alike were in the best of spirits.

WILD WEST HITS VANCOUVER CITY

Wandering Deer Attacks Boy—Struggle with Policeman—Escapes to False Creek.

Vancouver, Oct. 6.—Boyd Lauder, a lad of 16, found himself up against a tough proposition when he was attacked on the corner of Beach avenue and Granville street, near the Lulu Island car depot, by a deer which made its appearance there in some unexplained manner.

Hearing his cries, Constable Sam Grady rushed to the scene and seized the animal by the antlers. Then ensued a struggle for mastery between man and animal which ended after a twenty minute fight in the policeman throwing the animal on its back. Grady then whipped out his handcuffs and clinched them over the fore leg of the deer.

Thousands of people had gathered by this, it being the time when church was over, and when the deer regained its legs a melee ensued, for the legs of the animal being slim, the bracelets of steel slipped down and the deer dashed through the crowd into False creek, where all trace of it was lost in the blackness of the night.

THIEF RANSACKED CITY RESIDENCE

Gun, Coat and Watch Purloined from House on Fifth Street—Still at Large.

Taking advantage of the absence of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mahoney, 313 Fifth street, who were attending the fair and lacrosse game, a sneak thief broke into their home on Saturday afternoon between 3 o'clock and 7:30 in the evening, departing with a lady's watch, a shotgun and an overcoat.

The miscreant evidently made his way into the house through breaking a pane in the rear door, but it is thought that he did not tarry long. The matter has been reported to the police authorities and they are taking up what little clues exist.

The watch is valued as a gift, while the overcoat is in good shape, but the real loss of all, in Mr. Mahoney's estimation, is the shotgun, which was an old and trusty friend.

PATHFINDER MAKES ADVENTUROUS TRIP

Tires Torn to Ribbons Over Railroad Grade—Dizzy Heights and Lakes Overcome—At Nelson.

Nelson, Oct. 6.—Thomas Wilby, the ocean to ocean autoist, arrived in Nelson at 8.30 o'clock Friday evening after a terrible battle against odds in the shape of almost impassable mountain trails. He was met on arrival by members of the publicity bureau in automobiles and was given a great reception by the citizens.

Pilots McNab and Wilson stayed with Wilby until Yahk was reached. The car stole out of Yahk in the pitch darkness taking the railroad tracks as far as Kitchener. Over the famous long down grade loop the tires of the car were torn to ribbons bumping over the ties and a sharp look-out had to be kept for trains, the crew being ready to jump and sacrifice the car if a train was encountered. After reaching Kitchener at midnight the party took to the mountain trails, where terrific trials were experienced traversing Goat Canyon. Roaring torrents were on either side during the trip and frequent use of block and tackle had to be made in places where the slightest misstep would have meant death.

Wilby reached Creston at 3 a. m. being the first autoist to pass over the government trail across the Kootenay Valley.

From Kootenay Landing the car was piloted by Mr. Wilmot Williams. Before loading the car on a raft a sheer drop of thirty feet had to be made which consumed two hours in doing. A team was requisitioned to haul the car up on the other side of the lake and once again on terra firma, the car was piloted by Mr. Lewis, who had cleared a way through the forest to Nelson. After a brief stay Wilby left for Grand Forks, hoping to make that place or Cascade by Sunday.

Democratic Leader Ends Life.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 6.—Thomas J. Ryan, for many years a Democratic leader in this city and a prominent promoter of amusement enterprises, ended his life today by shooting himself through the mouth. His body was discovered in his office shortly after he had been discussing business affairs with his private secretary.

GREAT SUCCESS OF HORSE SHOW

Similier Event In Spring Is Foreshadowed By President T. J. Trapp.

"Rob Roy" Wins Championship High Jump—Special Praise for Ringmaster Clements.

The best program of the week was carried out at the horse show on Saturday evening, that being the last night of the fair. The items were full of interest, while the entries exceeded all expectations and the large enthusiastic audience gave vent to its feelings time and again as the different classes were put through their paces.

The stellar event of the evening was the championship high jump and while the record was unbroken, the fact remains that the 5 feet 10 inch jump made by "Rob Roy," owned by Mr. J. M. McMillan, of Vancouver, is the best that has ever been made at any initial horse show in British Columbia. The jump was a fitting climax to the evening's entertainment, and although the hour of 11 o'clock had been passed the assembly showed no signs of leaving until the final hurdle had been made.

Exciting Struggle.

It was a race between Rob Roy, Schwitzer, owned by Miss French, of Vancouver, and Goldencrest, owned by J. R. Russell, also of Vancouver. The latter showed early signs of beating the field, but fell down at the 5.10 hurdle, leaving the field to Schwitzer and Rob Roy. The latter horse won a special silver cup donated by Kelly Douglas & Co., of New Westminster.

During the course of the evening, President T. J. Trapp addressed the assembly expressing thanks on behalf of the R. A. & I. society for the patronage they had received from the people of New Westminster and district and also to the owners of horses for entering them in the initial indoor horse show of New Westminster.

Government Willing.

Mr. Trapp made reference to the fact that steps are on foot for the staging of a spring horse show in the city. The provincial government, he declared, was prepared to assist financially the formation of the three city circuit consisting of New Westminster, Vancouver and Victoria. Lour cheers greeted this statement showing the trend of feeling towards such an event.

In concluding, Mr. Trapp called for three hearty cheers for the judges and also to the horse show committee and to the ringmaster, Mr. W. C. Clements. Special praise was merited by the latter gentleman, said the president, for the painstaking manner in which the meet had been conducted. The staging of a first horse show is always accompanied with obstacles and difficulties, but these had been splendidly overcome by Mr. Clements.

Would Be Popular.

It is worthy of mention that this popular gentleman will probably be appointed to take charge of the horse show of the Panama exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915, and being known as he is all over the Canadian West, an appointment of this kind will be heralded with approval by the citizens of New Westminster, Vancouver and Victoria alike.

The following are the events of Saturday night, and the winners:

Jumping (local owned horses)—1, F. B. Cunningham; 2, T. J. Trapp.

SHOOTS LEADER OF GANGSTERS IN CAR

"Big Jack" Zelig Killed by Fruit Dealer Who Claims to Have Been Outraged by Him.

New York, Oct. 6.—"Big Jack" Zelig was shot and killed last night. The East Side gang leader and prospective witness in the trial of police Lieut. Chas. Becker, for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, which begins Monday, was seated in a Second avenue open trolley car when Phillip Davidson, who says he is a fruit dealer, jumped on the running board and fired the fatal shot.

Davidson leaped from the car and ran away, but was caught, weapon in hand. He admitted the shooting and declared it was for revenge, the police say. According to the prisoner, Zelig had held him up at the point of a revolver late today in an East Side hallway and robbed him of $400.

The police were at a loss whether to believe Davidson's story and at a late hour reports of the shooting by a telephone message were being investigated.

Patrons of a Second Avenue restaurant some distance away told that Zelig, who was in that neighborhood earlier in the evening, had received a telephone call from some one who made an appointment to meet him at Fourteenth street and Second avenue.

Zelig jumped on a car, the story ran, and a few moments later word flashed back to the restaurant that he had been shot. Zelig, mortally wounded, was rushed to Bellevue Hospital, but before the ambulance reached that institution he was dead.

On his body the police say only $2.34 was found, although a well-dressed woman, whse identity was not learned, visited the Bellevue morgue not long after Zelig's death and asked the authorities to turn over to her $500 which she said Zelig had in his possession when he was shot. The woman was detained by the morgue authorities, they stated. The police also detained Hyman Giverth, an East Side resident, as a material witness. Giverth says he saw the shooting.

Little is known about Davidson. He told the police, they say, that he came t this city from Peekskill, N. Y., five or six days ago. He had been a fruit dealer, he said, but was not now in any business.

Only one shot was fired at Zelig. The bullet took effect back of the gang leader's right ear. Davidson explained at police headquarters that after he had been robbed he went to Jersey City, bought a revolver, and after making several ineffectual efforts to get his money back, chased Zelig aboard the car and shot him.

District Attorney Whitman, who is to conduct the Becker trial, interested himself in the Zelig murder as soon as he was notified. He telephoned at once to police headquarters that he would be there directly. Meanwhile he requested that the questioning of the prisoners be deferred until he arrived. Immediately after reaching headquarters he began to interrogate them.

On Zelig's body several letters were found, including one signed "Whitey," from the prison where "Whitey" Lewis and other prospective Becker trial witnesses are confined. "Frank, Louie and Gyp send regards to you," a postscript to the letter read. "I want you to stop worrying about us," was another clause, "we are only up here on a very short vacation to have a good rest and fatten us up."

Another letter was signed "Harry," and still another was from "Louie." The dates were as recent as today. Another letter was signed "Frank Cirofici," the real name of "Dago Frank," and bore no date.

"I know what a true pal you are," Cirofici wrote. "Better days are coming," was a postscript expression. "Be cheerful, Jack. There is not a bit of worrying with the four of us; if I have so much faith in you I am sure the rest of the boys have the same," was another clause in the letter.

Zelig's name came into the Rosenthal murder investigation in its early stages. According to testimony Jack Rose is reported to have given before the grand jury, "Big Jack" was the man who furnished the names of the four gunmen charged with the murder of the gambler. These men, "Gyp the Blood," "Lefty Louie," "Whitey" Lewis and "Dago Frank" Cirofici, were all known in the underworld as members of Zelig's gang of gun fighters.

Rose said that as an emissary of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, he went to Zelig and told him that the police lieutenant wanted Rosenthal got out of the way. Zelig at that time was out on bail on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, which two members of Becker's "strong arm squad," Detectives White and Steinert, had preferred against him. In return for supplying gunmen who would kill Rosenthal Becker promised, according to Rose, to have the gun carrying charges against Zelig dropped. Zelig was on $10,000 bail on this charge.

Shortly after the indictment of Becker and his alleged tools in August, Steinert and White were indicted on the charge of perjury and suppression in connection with the arrest of Zelig. The gang leader testified against them, and his evidence and that of over half a dozen persons who were present when Zelig was arrested, tended to show that Zelig had no weapon and that the case was a so-called frameup.

Zelig figured in numerous shooting affrays growing out of East Side gang fights, and had more than once felt the sting of a bullet. At the time of his arraignment on the gun-carrying charge, he was shot, but not seriously wounded as he was on his way to court.

FIGHTING BEGINS NEAR MONTENEGRO

Turkish Note to Powers Urges Action and Disclaims Onus of Aggression.

Constantinople, Oct. 6.—An engagement has taken place at Berana, near the Montenegrin frontier, between Turks and Montenegrins. The Montenegrins were repulsed, according to a despatch received here. The Turkish Government, it is understood views this affray as practically the beginning of hostilities.

Assim Bey, ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, has gone to Roumania to seek the support of that state in the Balkan difficulties.

The following circular note has been addressed to the powers:

"As the Ottoman Government antipated, the verbal representations made by the powers to the Balkan states, although vigorous, did not have the desired effect. There is reason to believe that even if certain states were inclined to conform with the recommendations of the powers, the fear of having appeared to have violated the agreement reached among them has prevented them from following their inclinations.

"On the other hand, the popular excitement which appears to be carrying away these countries can, in their opinion, only be subdued by threatening action on the part of the powers. This agitation naturally had a reaction on the Ottoman Empire, the inhabitants and army of which were already exasperated by the criminal and bloody machinations, which have been proceedings for years past, encouraged by neighboring states.

"The Ottoman people, therefore, being ready to accept the latest challenbe thrown down to it, is prepared to repel any attack on the security and dignity of the empire.

"The situation, is, therefore, extremely grave and if the powers take too long to agree upon the forcible measures which the circumstances dictate, hostilities may be precipitated before intervention can be effected. We must once more call attention of the great powers to the dangers, and urge the necessity of meeting it without a moment's delay. It is only because we desire to adhere to the pacific attitude of which we have given proof on several occasions that we consider it our duty to renew this representation, convinced as we are, that whatever happens no responsibility whatever can accrue to the Ottoman Government."

Servia's Action.

Belgrade, Oct. 6.—In his address to the Skupshtina which opened yesterday, King Peter declared that the mobilization of the Servian army was due to the attitude of Turkey in sending troops to the Servian frontier and added that Servia would do everything in its power to establish real and permanent peace in the Balkans. The king was accompanied by the crown prince and Prince George, and his address, which had been sent to all the foreign legations except the Turkish, was loudly cheered.

Stirring Tribute to Sir George Cartier

It is proposed to celebrate the centenary of the birth, in 1814, of Sir George Etienne Cartier, one of the chief fathers and founders of the Canadian Dominion, by the dedication of a monument erected to his memory on the slope of Mount Royal, overlooking the City of Montreal. The site is singularly well chosen, for it has been associated with the name of Cartier ever since Canada has been known to mankind.

It was an earlier Cartier, Jacques by name, a man of the same race as the latter Canadian statesman, who was the first European to set foot on Mount Royal, then overhanging, not the City of Montreal, but the Huron-Iroquois village of Hochelaga. He, too, had he been gifted with the prophetic vision of his later namesake, might have felt "like stout Cortez when with eagle eyes he stared at the Pacific" as he gazed at the broad waters of the St. Lawrence and the Ottawa gleaming away to the westward.

The rapids of Lachine barred the further progress of his boats, but it was Jacques Cartier who first discovered the St. Lawrence and gave it its name of Canada to the region it traversed and of Mount Royal to the hill on which he stood at the furthest point of his westward pilgrimage. The name Canada merely means a village in the Indian language from which he took it, and that again is significant in its symbolism.

It is recorded of Themistocles that he pleaded that, though he had no skill to tune a harp nor a viol, nor to play at a psalterion, yet if they did put a city into his hands that was of small name, weak and little, he knew ways enough to make it noble, great, and strong." This is just what George Etienne Cartier did. We know not if he was any more a musician than Themistocles was, though in the estimation of his countrymen he was no mean poet in the tongue of his race. But he knew ways enough, and he followed them too, to make the "village" which Jacques Cartier had named into a Dominion noble, strong, and great.

George Etienne Cartier was born on Sept. 11, 1814, at St. Antoine, in the County of Vercheres, in the Province of Quebec. He was educated for the law, and, becoming a member of the bar in Lower Canada, he soon acquired a lucrative practice in that profession. He took some part in Papineau's rebellion of 1837, and had for a time to leave the country. But he soon repented of this youthful aberration, and returned to Canada as a loyal and enthusiastic subject of the British Crown. From that time forward all his energies were devoted to the consolidation of all the Canadas and their development into one great self-governing confederation destined to grow in freedom, concord, content, and tranquility under the British flag.

His attitude and sentiments in this regard are best expressed in a few words from a speech delivered in London in 1869 at a time when he was a member of the first Dominion Government. "The Canadian people desire to remain faithful to the "old monarchial flag of Great Britain, that flag which waves over all seas, that flag which tyranny has never been able to overcome, that flag which symbolizes true liberty." If that was the universal sentiment of the Canadian people in 1869, it was largely owing to Cartier's personal influence over Canadians of his own race that it had become so.

This was the higher spiritual element of his work for Canada— a passionate aspiration combined with unceasing effort for the reconciliation of the two races which in his youth had been so bitterly estranged. But his prophetic vision also led him to work with no less enthusiasm, not only for all domestic legislation that might make for the concord and unity of the two races that dwell together in Canada, but also for the extension, development, and consolidation of that great Dominion that now stretches as John Bright once said of the United States, "From the wild billows of the Atlantic westward to the calmer waters of the Pacific main."

We need not enumerate the many measures both of internal organization and of external expansion and development with which his name is associated, the many ministries of which he was neither a member or the chief, the many colleagues who shared his labors and contributed to their noble results. It suffices to quote Lord Dufferin's appreciation of them in a letter written in 1872, when he was Governor-General of Canada and Cartier was within a few months of his death: "Your name is indissolubly incorporated with the most eventful and most glorious epoch of your country's history, commencing as it does with your entrance into political life, and culminating in that consolidation of the provinces to which your genius, courage, and ability so materially contributed."

To such a man, who is justly held by his countrymen to have been one of the most honest, upright, and far-seeing ministers who has even held office in the Dominion, it is eminently fitting that a worthy monument should be dedicated on the hundreth anniversary of his birth. We commend the proposal to all who realize the greatness of Canada, her inspiring memories of the past, and her not less inspiring ambition to bear a part worthy of her mighty destiny in the fortunes and burdens of our common and united Empire in the future.

A committee has been formed for the purpose under the presidency of Mr. E. W. Villeneuve. It has received encouragement and support from men of light and leading representing all shades of opinion in Canadian politics and public life, and from others of like prominence in this country. To judge by the list of names we have recived, some of the most prominent of which we mention elsewhere, the promotors of the memorial are, as is natural and fitting, well-night equally divided between French and English Canadians; and in particular both Mr Borden, the present Prime Minister of Canada, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, his distinguished predecessor, are as might be expected, united in its support.

The Prince of Wales has been invited to visit Canada in the year of the centenary and to preside at the dedication of the memorial, and should His Royal Highness be able to accept the invitation, it will, we are sure, be felt that the occasion is eminently worthy of his presence and countenance. Invitations have also been sent to the Premiers of all the British Colonies. Thus the whole British Empire will in spirit be gathered to do the honor which is justly due to the memory of the man who, albeit not of British blood and race, was one of the first to comprehend the majesty and dignity of the Empire, and one of the foremost to promote its unity.—London Times.

One Hundred Killed.

London, Oct. 6.—A news agency dispatch from Fotcha, Bosnia, reports that a Montenegrin brigade near Nefertara attempted to cross the Tara river into Novibazar, Turkish territory on Thursday and was opposed by the Turkish frontier guards. More than one hundred Montenegrins were killed and the rest returned to the Montenegrin shore.

The commander, who was acting on his own responsibility, has been recalled to Cettinje.

SPEEDING RESULTS IN FEARFUL CRASH

Car is Shot Over Bridge and Drops to Railroad Tracks When Three Meet.

Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—A collision on a bridge in which three automobiles were involved resulted in the death of eight men last night at Thirty-third and Thompson streets in this city.

One of the machines, containing nine men, came on the bridge at terrific speed. Its rapid approach was seen by Mr. John I. Spade, a Philadelphia contractor, who was going over the bridge in the opposite direction in a motor He tried to avoid the car, but he was too late in steering out of the way, and a collision occurred. A third automobile was directly behind the speeding car and ran into it, with the result that the first machine was catapulted over the bridge and down into a coal yard along the Pennsylvania railroad tracks. The drop was about forty feet. The other two cars were damaged, but their occupants were uninjured, and immediately went to the rescue of the others. Spade said it appeared to him that the two cars were racing over the bridge.

The license of the wrecked car was in the name of James Shaw, a Philadelphia contractor. The Shaw home is closed, the family not having returned from their summer vacation Whether Shaw was in the car when it went over the bridge has not yet been ascertained.

Edward Shaw, Jr., said to be a son of the owner of the car, was among those killed. Others besides Shaw identified were: David Wilkes, Gordon H. Miller, C. G. Jefferson, R. A. Boyd, W. L. Lawrence, R. Geisel, and one unidentified. All were young men of this city.

NEW EMPRESSES TO BE SAFEST AFLOAT

Should Four Compartments be Flooded Will Not Sink—Every Precaution Taken.

In speaking of the two new steamships, the "Empress of Russia" and the "Empress of Asia," which the Canadian Pacific Railway is building for service on the Pacific ocean between Canada and the Orient, a C. P. R. official remarked yesterday that he felt justified in saying that the two new boats would be the safest vessels afloat.

"In preparing the plans for the new "Empresses," he remarked, "we took particular care to make provision for all exigencies, and as a result the boats are as near to being unsinkable as can be built. The new "Empresses" are being built with double bottoms and watertight compartments the latter being numerous and closely placed. Ordinarily, if a ship is designed to float with only two compartments flooded, a sufficient margin of safety is thought to have been allowed, but in the cases of the new "Empress of Russia" and "Empress of Asia," should four compartments be flooded they will still float. In the matter of safety, these are the first vessels built to fulfil these conditions."

It was also stated that the new steamships would be equipped with all the other latest devices making for safety, such as wireless apparatus, search lights, submarine signals, and from the very moment they are assembled, the members of the crews will be trained in the life-saving, fire and other drills, which are a feature of all this company's steamships.

ROUND THE MESS TABLE

BY THE MARTIAN.

In view of the large number of accidents which have recently taken place and terminated fatally, it is said that no more monoplanes will be used for army manouvres. The biplane seems to be more favorably regarded by airmen in general, on account of its greater stability and weight-carrying power. Particularly good work was effected during the recent manoeuvres by a biplane armed with a light quick-firing gun and it is generally conceded that with a more powerful engine, there is a very great field of possibility open to this machine.

Colonel Hughes has sailed for Canada after spending a very instructive period in military circles in Great Britain. If the minister can put into effect all the improvements he has doubtless noticed, we can look for many changes and renewed activity in the militia shortly after his return. It is undoubtedly desirable that the armies of the empire should be homogenous as far as is practicable. The same administration, organization, equipment, training, armaments, etc., should prevail throughout all the various lands which comprise the British Empire, so that any unit taken from one part to another, may readily fall into line and work in harmony and with cohesion side by side with those from other parts. In short, the troops of the Mother Country, the Dominions, Colonies and Dependencies should be one great army, the integral parts of which are exactly similar.

The battle-cruiser, Princess Royal, built, engined, armoured and armed by Messrs. Vickers, Limited, at their yard at Barrow in Furness, is as yet, the most powerful warship afloat, and has just gone into dry-dock at Devonport, to have a new set of four-screw propellers fitted. Extensive experiments, both in size and shape of propellers are being carried out by the admiralty in order to obtain the maximum speed possible. It is said that both the Princess Royal, and her sister ship, the Lion, have totally eclipsed all speed records for armoured vessels.

The battleship Audacious, ordered in 1911 from Cammell, Laird & Co., was recently launched, and will be ready for sea by August, 1913. She belongs to the King George type, and has a displacement of 23,000 tons, a length of 555 feet and her engines are 31,000 horsepower. Her main armament will consist of ten 13.5-inch guns mounted in twin turrets on the centre line.

The Lurcher, one of the special destroyers of the Firedrake class, built by Messrs. Yarrow & Co., of Glasgow, has just been undergoing her steam trials. During a continuous run of eight hours she maintained a mean speed of 35.34 knots, thus exceeding the contract speed of 32 knots by a remarkable margin. The Lurcher, is therefore one of the fastest destroyers afloat and is a very important addition to the British navy.

The drill season, which generally starts in October, is looming large in front of us now, and the city regiments will shortly be starting work again. To take the case of our local unit, the 104th Regiment, there has been no period of rest at all. Last winter drills were being held in order to try and raise a regiment for the camp in June or July, after that, preparation for the Governor-General's visit kept things busy, and now that is past, the yearly routine is to be started again. Weekly parades are now being held, but it should perhaps be spelled "weakly" for I understand that about twelve constitutes a good turn-out. To those twelve, be all honor and glory, because they have been worked hard, for volunteers, during the past year, but I believe this city now numbers considerably over fifteen thousand souls and can anyone conscientiously say that twelve men constitutes a creditable parade for a city of that size? It appears to me that now is the time to act, before the training period is once more come and half gone. Now is the time to get the wires busy and to insist that New Westminster shall receive equal treatment as compared with other cities in respect to her militia. There is no reason why the force here should not be as good now as it has been in the past, but on the contrary there is every reason why it should be a little better, and it is every citizen's prerogative and right to insist that it should be so.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS.

COAL MINING rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of the province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee will be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

The GURNEY-OXFORD is an efficient RANGE

A business is kept up-to-date because it means a difference between profit and loss. The successful business uses such modern time-and-labor-savers as typewriters, adding machines and electricity. Woman's work in the home is also a matter of profit and loss. If she has improved and modern tools, she gains time and leisure and better results. If she has old-fashioned ideas to contend with, she loses energy and effort and peace of mind

The Gurney-Economizer is the greatest single improvement ever devised to simplify cooking. It regulates the fire and heat of the oven with one direct motion. The heat of the fire is distributed by a scientific arrangement of flues that keeps the oven uniformly heated. The grates hold the fire on the least possible surface.

The Gurney-Oxford Range is a most efficient piece of household furniture. It puts the kitchen on the same labor-saving, up-to-date basis as a successful business.

BETTER PROTECTION.

British Columbia would appear to be rapidly becoming a happy hunting ground for criminals of all classes. We are passing through a period of unbounded prosperity, and wherever that is the case in any part of the world, there will the vultures that prey upon society be found gathered.

Up and down the valley of late there have been reported numerous cases of safe blowing and other forms of violence; within the past few months police officers have been killed in the interior, while in our own vicinity crime does not appear to be on the decrease as witness the recent bank robberies.

The most startling thought connected with these crimes is that to date very few of the offenders have been brought to book. Although a year has flown since the great Bank of Montreal robbery, the arm of the law, though aided by private detectives, has not yet gathered in all the supposed culprits. In many other cases no trace has yet been found of audacious criminals.

With the approach of winter the people of the lower mainland are dreading a repetition of the epidemic of crime which has marked the dark months so conspicuously during the past two years. That there is a great need of sterner dealings with the criminal class amongst us would appear to need no commentary.

That some of the most desperate characters in American or Canadian criminal circles have been or are in our midst is borne out by the desperate attempt to escape from custody which ended in the killing of a warder at the local penitentiary on Saturday.

Civilization has to some extent been responsible for less stern measures being adopted towards the pariahs of society. We have to remember that we are living in a new country in which civilization is but the thinnest of veneer over many classes of people including criminals, and that for the safety of all law-abiding citizens, as well as for the credit of our country, better protection by an improved police system and sterner measures against all criminals are to be advocated.

MR. JOSEPH THOMPSON.

Fairview Stock Farm, Sardis, B. C., Winner of Prizes at the Provincial Fair.

Mr. Thompson, owner of the Fairview Stock Farm, two miles east of Sardis, operates an 80-acre stock farm all cleared, and has resided there since 1894. He brought in 17 head of Ayrshire cattle, 28 head of Lincoln and Suffock sheep and 18 Yorkshire hogs to the Provincial Fair from Sardis, near Chilliwack. He is returning home today with 25 prizes on the Ayrshire stock. Ten first prizes, ten second prizes, the Silver Cup, the special prize given by the Dairymen's Associations and the champion prize. On his Yorkshire hogs he won seven first prizes, four seconds, three thirds and five specials. On his sheep he made five firsts in Lincolns, seven first in Suffolks, four seconds in Lincolns, six seconds in Suffolks, three thirds in Lincolns, and one third in Suffolks. Mr. Thompson is an Englishman by birth. He is a director in the well-known Eden Bank Creamery and is vice-president of the B. C. Dairymen's Association. If you want to meet with a live Englishman drop around and see Mr. Thompson. We tell some good stories, sometimes on the Englishman, but Mr. Thompson can tell some, one better, on prizes.

EX-MAYOR WESLEY WILLARD.

One of Cumberlands Prominent Business Men Who Was in Charge of the Comox Exhibit at the Fair.

The Comox District has won enough first prizes at the Provincial Fair this year to demonstrate to all the world that for dairying there are few places if any, in all Canada superior to Vancouver Island. At the exhibition, which has just closed, they took first for the best display of creamery butter, first for the best 50-pound box of butter and first for the best display of one-pound prints, and fifth for district exhibit. The magnificent display of apples, pumpkins, potatoes turnips, onions, etc., will be taken on to Lethbridge by the government for exhibition there. Mr. Willard, who was in charge of the exhibit, is a harness and saddlery merchant in Cumberland on Vancouver Island. He has operated there 17 years, has officiated as mayor five years and is at present one of the coal town's present and popular alderman. He is also the official administrator for the Comox Electoral District. He conducts a big harness establishment at Cumberland and a branch at Courtenay. He takes a live interest in the districts development.

L. A. RATHVON.

Real Estate Dealer in Okanagan Orchard Lands, Penticton, B. C., Who Had Charge of Exhibit.

Among the many exhibits at the Provincial Fair that attracted thousands of visitors was the Penticton Exhibit of all kinds of fruit grown in the Penticton vicinity of the Okanagan Valley, which was in charge of Mr. L. A. Rathvon, a realty dealer, who has operated in that section for the past seven years. There was a big display of the various kinds of grapes, including the famous Tokay, Concord, Muscal, Deleware, Black Hamburgs, etc. The Tokay grapes which are a specially fine commercial grape, are as fine, possibly, as any ever grown outside of the famous California Tokay belt. The other fruit, apples, peaches, pears, plums, etc., were delightfully tempting as well and all won unstinted praise from thousands of visitors and carried off their quota of prize tickets. Penticton has a $125,000 tourist hotel, two good bathing beaches, two saw mills, three lumber yards, a fruit box factory, a cannery with a capacity of 30,000 cans daily, a brick plant, $60,000-public school and high school, a complete single tax system, five miles of bench orchards, muuicipally owned public utilities, three fruit packing companies, several up-to-the-minute business houses, and is bound to become one of the most important cities in the interior of the province. There is excellent steamship transportation facilities and the new railroad nearing completion will be ready to handle the 1913 crop by rail from Penticton direct to Vancouver and other Canadian coast cities and also American.

D. F. FETTERLY

Breeder of English Berkshire Pigs at Chilliwack, B.C., Returns Home with Ten Prizes from the Provincial Fair.

D. F. Fetterly conducts a hog and dairy farm on First avenue, one mile and a half east of Chilliwack. He operates a seventy acre farm and has abouty thirty breeders of English Berkshire pigs. Out of the bunch he brought in seven to the provincial fair. He is returning home with six first prizes, four seconds and one third. Prior to locating at Chilliwack Mr. Fetterly was a farmer in Manitoba seventeen years, near Canbury. He is demonstrating his adaptability to hog raising by the prizes he has captured. Mr. Fetterly makes a specialty of the English Berkshire which are noted for their superiority in many points. There is no way to make money easier than by raising hogs if the business is followed up scientifically. Call round and see this scientific demonstrator of this important branch of industry. He was born in Ontario.

DR. L. D. SWENERTON

Veterinary Surgeon, 500 Eighth Ave East, Vancouver. Winner of Three First Prizes at Provincial Fair.

Dr. Swenerton is one of the best veterinarians in the western country and he gets the cream of the trade. He has handled some of the best horses in British Columbia, and he has made a deep study of his professions. He charges reasonable price and he is conscientious, skilful and faithful in all that he does. He has the latest up-to-date instruments and every facility for taking care of animals. Dr. Swenerton has had remarkable success and is implicitly trusted. He has operated seven years in Vancouver and has followed the profession eleven years. He is a distinguished graduate of the Toronto University veterinary department. He practiced five years in Manitoba at Carburry prior to locating in Vancouver. At the provincial fair that has just closed he won three first prizes on his little black mare driver. First for the best single roadster, first for the best standard bred mare, and first for the champion standard bred mare of any age. When your horses are sick the doctor can get there with his well bred fiery black steed.

CINCINATTI DRIVER WINS GRAND PRIX

DePalma Ditched Endeavoring to Pass Bragg—Average Speed Over 69 Miles Per Hour.

Wawantosa, Wis., Oct. 6.—Caleb Bragg, a wealthy young Cincinnati driver, won yesterday the fourth International Grand Prix automobile road race with a Fiat car after a sensational last lap brush, in which Ralph De Palma's Mercedes car was overturned and De Palma was seriously injured.

Bragg captured the race from a field of 12 starters, which included the country's most widely known drivers of heavy cars. Only six of the 12 starters finished.

Bragg's speed average for the race was 69 3-10 miles an hour as against the late David Bruce-Brown's average of 74.45 miles an hour in last year's Grand Prix event at Savannah, Ga. He covered the distance of 409 miles, 4616 feet, in 5 hours, 50 minutes and 25 seconds.

The winner drove a heady, consistent race, never being further back than third place at any stage of the long grind. He was in the lead through thirty laps of the 52-lap contest. For the first 80 miles Teddy Tetzlaff led the field, but Bragg and De Palma were almost on top of Tetzlaff all the time.

With the elimination of Tetzlaff by a minor accident to his Fiat car at the 244-mile post, the race settled down to a driving duel between Bragg and De Palma.

De Palma was two minutes and 36 seconds behind Bragg as the two swung into the last 7.88-mile lap. Bragg had slowed down considerably and De Palma set out to catch the driver. He caught him next to the last leg of the contest. In a desperate effort to pass Bragg on the narrow roadway near where Bruce-Brown was killed Tuesday, De Palma shot his heavy Mercedes into the rear of Bragg's Fiat. In the recoil from this collision De Palma's car was thrown into the ditch and wrecked.

De Palma and his mechanician, Tom Alley, were thrown clear of the car.

Bragg, as his part of the $10,000 purse, received $5000.

Erwin Bergdoll, of Philadelphia, who drove a Benz car into second place, after a pretty fight with Gil Anderson for the last 60 miles of the race, received $2500. Bergdoll's average speed for the race was 65.61 miles an hour. Gil Anderson, who finished third with a Stutz car, the only American car to remain through the race, gets $1250 as his end. His average speed was 65.55 miles an hour.

Barney Oldfield, who finished fourth with a Fiat car at an average speed of 64.75 miles an hour, took $950 as fourth money.

George Clark, who was still driving his Mercedes with one more lap to go when Oldfield finished, was flagged by Starter Wagner and was awarded $500 as fifth money.

BEAUTIFUL SAVARY ISLAND

Western Canada's King of Beaches

"This wonderful little island is situate in the Straits of Georgia, between the shores of Vancouver Island and the Mainland, within a half day's run of either Vancouver or Victoria. With its salubrious climate, perfect location, adaptability to all classes of sport and outdoor recreations, accessibility and picturesque scenery, it combines all the features of an ideal summer and winter resort."—(Excerpt from booklet, Page 1.)

The climate conditions are known far and wide. When writing ask for isothermal map showing summer isotherm of 60 degrees and winter isotherm of 40 degrees, focussing at Savary Island, B.C.—It is an established fact and shown on the government charts that here the waters of the Pacific meet the Japanese currents, making the most desirable warm water bathing on the Pacific Coast. Owing to the peculiar situation of Savary, nestling in the Straits of Georgia, protected on the south side by the mountain range on Vancouver Island, ten miles away, and the Rockies on the Mainland to the north, nor'westers are turned aside. It is an established fact that Savary enjoys the same benefits of the dry belt. The rainfall is great deal less on Savary Island than it is on the Mainland. It enjoys exceptionally fine weather the year around, and especially through the winter months. While it may be drizzling rain at other points on the British Columbia coast, Savary Island is enjoying beautiful summer weather. The island is free from snowfall and remains green the entire winter. Yachting is a favorite sport in January.

LARGE LOTS.—A feature in connection with the Savary lots is the fact that they are from two to five times the size of ordinary lots. All of the lots have a 50-foot frontage and vary in length from 150 as high as 600 feet.

A full view of the ocean may be had, and there will be plenty of space for gardens and other outdoor conveniences.

We are offering 2000 lots at $325 each, and we will build free of cost to the buyers 400 bungalows. Approximately $200,000 will be spent on the island in improvements.

Write today for booklet, "Own Your Seashore Bungalow on Savary Island," and our plan.

SALMON BELLIES ARE WORLD'S CHAMPIONS

Cornwall Team Completely Outclassed--Ideal Weather and Tremendous Crowd Cheers Last Game of Minto Cup Series--Score 16 Goals to 6.

Outpointing their opponents at every stage of the proceedings, with perhaps the exception of staying powers, the champion Salmon Bellies again swept on to victory on Saturday afternoon defeating Cornwall in the second game of the Minto cup series to the tune of 16 goals to 6. It is admitted by both Manager Gray and his merry players that the visiting team were in the best possible condition. They kept up the pace throughout, but where they lost was in their lack of combination. The Westminster passing, head work and combination in front of goal was bewildering to the Cornwalls, and try as they would, never once could they fathom the splendid stickhandling of the cup-holders.

That the inclusion of Minto cup games with the host of other attractions at the annual exhibition has been a success, was more than demonstrated on Saturday afternoon when practically every point of vantage was taken up by spectators anxious to see the close of the lacrosse season in New Westminster.

And it was royal weather that accompanied the crowd. The sun was shining its best, the oval was looking just as green as in the spring, when Mr. F. J. MacKenzie, M.P.P., walked to the centre of the field, together with Managers Gray and Lally, and a little after 3 o'clock faced off the ball. The game, on which hinged the lacrosse championship of the world was in progress.

It was all Westminster in the first quarter, the St. Lawrence boys being able to score a lone tally only while the Royals piled up five goals. The second was even worse than the first and when the gong sounded for half time the challengers were still with the lone tally while the Royals had eleven. The efforts of Joe Lally to induce his players to bore in were of no avail, the Cornwall home not being willing to take chances or going through in the face of such a formidable defence.

It was expected that the rule of allowing field captains on the field, as agreed to by Manager Gray, would see the Cornwalls in a better light, but the boys took no heed to what their captain told them, while "Captain" Gray appeared to be in his element at being so close to the firing line and was enjoying himself to his heart's content with the ball buzzing around him.

This was about the first time the fans had the chance to take a glimpse of the former player since he hung up his stick, and many of the fair fans even had the audacity to ask their escorts who the gentleman was butting in on the field of play.

In the second half the Cornwalls appeared at their best, which was a bad second at that, but nevertheless they managed to score five of their six goals in the last two periods.

To allow two games to go by without a penalty would be making a record in lacrosse, but Saturday's game was marred by only two minor fouls, L. Degray getting a five minute rest in the third period, while the rushing tactics of Tom Rennie appeared too strenuous in the eyes of Harry Godfrey, thus he was benched.

It was here that the Eastern rule of having twenty-four men on the field during the entire eighty minutes was shown, whether to advantage or no.

Cliff Spring and Len Turnbull had been given a rest in the last quarter and in their place Pat Feeney and Eddie McCarthy were sent on. Harry Hyland met with an unfortunate accident and was carried off, but later recovered. This allowed Cliff Spring to again take the field. Tom Rennie being sent off, a hurry-up call was sent for Len Turnbull and "Tulip" rushed on the field, took the pass and added another goal to his string. Although one-sided throughout, the bright sunshiny weather made the play interesting for the spectators who enjoyed the brilliant work of the champions and were not slow in giving praise whenever the Cornwalls made a pretty play.

For the latter, H. Smith, the goal-tender again was seen at his best. He was compelled to stop them from all directions, and while sixteen were flashed past him, his spectacular performance between the flags was the bright feature of the losers. They took their defeat in a manly way and all expressed their thanks for the treatment accorded them during their stay in the city. "We were beaten by the best team in the game today" stated Joe Lally, "they are simply wonderful. As compared with last year, why you cannot begin to make comparison. No sir, we all have to take our hats off to New Westminster, and its citizens should feel proud of their winning team."

PILED UP A SCORE

Vancouver Firemen Walk Away with Westminster Rugger Team.

With so many counter attractions at home only thirteen "die-hards" could be found to tackle the Firemen at Brockton Point on Saturday, but two Vancouver volunteers made up the gaps in Westminster's ranks. The superiority of the Firemen was never in doubt, but until lemon time came when Westminster was two men short once again, the side put up a good fight against long odds, their opponents being far heavier and swifter.

From a score of 11 to nil the second half saw the Firemen hopping over as they liked until the figure mounted to 44 points. It would have been much higher had the Firemen sufficient aptitude for putting into practice the finer points of the game. Westminster had an excellent schooling in the advantages of "going low," and a little more practice thereat should help to keep scores down.

However, the team is shaping well, and with attention to the fact that practices will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, beginning at 5:30 at Queens park, this week, an improvement should be noted in next Saturday's match with the Rowing club.

City Soccer League.

The delegates of the City Soccer league will hold a meeting in the Ryall drug store on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Baseball Windup.

Managers of the Westminster Baseball league and officers of the All-Westminster team will hold the final meeting of the season at Ryall's store on Thursday evening. All delegates are requested to attend.

EASTERNERS GET USUAL TREATMENT

V. A. C. Simply Romp Over St. St. Catherines Team by Seventeen Goals to Nil.

Vancouver, Oct. 6.—While the Salmon Bellies were defeating the Cornwalls on Saturday afternoon the V. A. C. swamped the St. Catherines twelve in a Mann cup game. Seventeen to nothing was the final, and from the second quarter the Easterners never had a look in.

The Vancouvers were held to two goals in the first period, but once they got going there was nothing to stop them. Fred Lynch and "Biscuits" Peele, of New Westminster, had charge of the game, and their decisions found popular favor with the 5000 crowd. Little interest is being taken in the second game which is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon as the result is a foregone conclusion.

HARRY HYLAND IS SIGNED FOR ROYALS

Hockey Circles in East Will Be Enlivened by Visit of Lester Patrick.

The departure of Lester Patrick, one of the coast hockey magnates for the East and the news that Harry Hyland, the well-known lacrosse and hockey player, has again signed up to play for the New Westminster hockey team, will start things moving in rink circles on both sides of the continent.

Harry Hyland is the first player to make known his plans for the coming winter. He states that he is perfectly satisfied with his treatment last winter, and, considering that he has been a citizen of the Royal City for the past year and likes the coast and the people, he thinks it will take something big to move him away. He leaves for his home in Montreal on Thursday evening staying there until sometime in November, when he will start practicing with the Westminster team on the Vancouver rink.

Practically all of last year's champion team will be seen in New Westminster uniform, including 'Big Moose' Johnson.

The visit of Lester Patrick to the East will no doubt cause a big fultter in Eastern hockey circles. The magnates back there are generally seized with great fear when a Western man is in their midst. They are already seeing visions of their best players making the trek just as the lacrosse players did when Con Jones made a swoop down upon them.

Eastern hockey is in a bad way at the present, owing to rumors of a second league being formed, and none of the managers of the former N. H. A. feel confident of their players. Taken all in all things look bright, indeed, for Western hockey this coming season.

The proposition of building an ice rink in the new horse show building providing a satisfactory basis on rental is arranged, is meeting with favor among sporting enthusiasts in the Royal City. Should this be arranged, and there seems to be every likelihood that it will, the building will be of great advantage to the people of the city during the winter months, while a steady revenue will be coming in from it also.

Endeavors to Prevent War.

Paris, Oct. 6.—A favorable response to France's suggestion of intervention in the Balkans was received from Great Britain yesterday. At the same time the British Government suggests that whereas intervention at Constantinople should be made by the great powers acting as a unit, the intervention at the Balkan capitals should be left to Russia and Austria.

Herr Von Kiderlen-Waechter, the German foreign minister, has accepted the proposal on behalf of Germany and now only awaits a formal word of confirmation from the German emperor. This is expected at any moment, as is also the support of the Austro-Hungarian government.

France's suggestion has thus been ratified by Russia, Germany and Great Britain. It includes a collective representation reproving the warlike attitude of the Balkan states toward Turkey and expressing the determination not to permit territorial changes while the powers promise to undertake themselves the realization of the Macedonian reforms.

GLORIOUS FINISH TO RECORD FAIR

E. MacKenzie, the infatigable manager of the exhibition, was in the best of spirits and naturally was elated on the great success of the fair.

The expenditure had been heavier than ever before, but the attendance and the enthusiasm left all doubt that the people of the city were satisfied with the results which, as far as publicity is concerned, cannot be estimated.

POST NO. 6

Sentinels Disappeared Without Leaving Any Trace

By F. A. MITCHEL

"What's the matter, corporal?"

"Matter! Matter enough. When I marched the relief around I found post No. 6 deserted. Supposing the sentinel had been shot by a bushwhacker, we looked around for his body, but couldn't find it. He must have deserted."

"Who was on No. 6?"

"Gleason."

"He wouldn't desert. Something has happened to him. Didn't the other men on post hear a shot?"

"They say not."

"Well, then, some one must have crawled up on him, knifed him and taken away his body to make a mystery."

I was lounging in camp when the corporal of the guard came in from posting the relief, and, being curious to see how post No. 6 was exposed, I went out to have a look at it. Our troops had captured 100 miles of the Memphis and Charleston railroad in northern Alabama, lying between Decatur and Bridgeport, and our company had been sent out to guard one of the bridges, for the citizens along the line did everything they could to interrupt our lines of communication. We were right out in the country, no town or station being anywhere near us, though there were scattered houses around about. It seemed to me that the sentry beats were badly arranged, and No. 6 was especially badly located, for most of the time while he was walking his beat he was not in sight of his two connecting sentries. The approach to the bridge on both sides of the stream was on higher ground than that adjacent, and the guard looked down from the beats, though some of them looked into woods through which an enemy might steal upon them unobserved. But I noticed that No. 6 overlooked an open space.

"I PREFERRED TO DIE BY THE HAND OF THE GIRL."

A weak element in the situation was that the guard was more of a picket than a chain of sentries and didn't regularly walk post. I had often been on No. 6 and, finding the beat uneven, had spent most of my tour of duty sitting on a rock looking down into a field. Other sentries did the same thing. But I didn't see any likelihood of an enemy's crawling up on a man in that position unless the latter was asleep.

Gleason, the vanished sentinel, didn't show up, and we made up our minds that he had been made away with, although, his going having occurred in broad daylight, some believed he had deserted. But when several days afterward another man posted on No. 6 disappeared without leaving any clew as to the cause of his going the whole command was on the tiptoe of excitement and curiosity.

For a week whenever a man was posted on No. 6 he expected to be spirited away by a ghost. Then, no further disappearances occurring, the mystery was forgotten, for in war all "sensations" are of short duration. After the excitement had simmered down No. 6 fell to my lot. A number of men had been on guard on that beat without vanishing.

I was sitting on the rock I have mentioned, looking over the field below me, the scattered trees and the gently flowing stream beneath. There was just enough breeze to sway the branches of the trees and rustle the leaves. A pleasant drowsiness crept over me, and I sank into a dose.

I was aroused by something soft hitting me in the face. Instinctively I clutched my musket as I sprang up and darted glances in every direction. Seeing no one, I looked at my feet, and there lay a rose. I was not surprised to see a rose at that season—April—for that month in Alabama is equivalent to June in the northern states, but I was surprised to see a rose at all. I picked it up and put it under my nose. The perfume was delicious. While my eyes were upon it another one, though of a different color, hit me on the ear. Again I started and looked about me. Still no one appeared.

By this time I was sure some one was hiding behind one of the trees below me, and I kept a rigid watch, with my gun cocked and my finger on the trigger, though if there were an enemy near he could have as well hit me with a bullet as a flower. Presently I saw a face peering from behind a tree, its owner evidently trying to get sight of me without being seen.

"Come out of that," I said, raising my weapon and pointing it at the tree trunk.

"Yo' wouldn't shoot a girl, would yo'?"

The voice was melodious. A girl with a basket on her arm stepped from behind a tree. She was laughing at me. Her big black eyes laughed; her lips laughed; she laughed all over. She was pretty enough, but her prettiness was nothing compared with a certain witchery there was about her that was evident the moment she appeared. There was a delicious roundness, femininity—call it what you like—in her that was entrancing.

"Yo' needn't be afraid of one who has nothing but flowers to shoot you with. I wish yo'd lower yo' gun. I'm afraid it might go off and kill me."

I had forgotten the gun in my delight at the appearance of a feminine thing of beauty, for I had been campaigning for a year, and during the period the softer sex had had no part in my existence. I dropped the muzzle of the piece toward the ground.

"If you'll come down here I'll give you a posy," the girl added.

She held the basket toward me so that I could see that it was full of flowers.

"I'm a sentinel on post and can't leave my beat, but if you'll bring me a posy I'll be very much obliged to you."

"Yo're not very gallant, but since yo're tied down and I'm free I don't mind. Yo' can come a little way down the slope, can't yo'?"

A little way down the slope would hide me not only from my flanking sentries, but from the camp. Not relishing being seen accepting a posy from a girl, I complied. Besides, those red lips set me wild for a kiss. I descended a few rods, while she advanced, taking a handful of flowers from her basket and handing them to me when she reached me. There she stood, looking at me with that same roguish smile, her eyes dancing and daring at the same time. I attempted to take a kiss, but she drew back. I followed her, she laughing the while, I catching her, she pulling away from me. I was at a disadvantage from my musket, to which I must give up one hand. Presently she stopped and said:

"If I'll give yo' one kiss will yo' be satisfied?"

"Yes," I said, knowing that I would not be satisfied with a thousand.

"Very well; you may take one."

I could not well embrace her while holding my gun, so I permitted her to relieve me of it for the moment. I took the kiss, and it was the quintessence of delight. Then she drew away from me, and I reached for my musket. Springing back, she raised it and put the muzzle against my breast. Retreating and laughing at me, she led me in among the trees. Then her expression changed.

"Turn about," she said sharply, "and march that way!" pointing.

I did not obey, and she repeated the order in no uncertain tone. The muzzle of the gun was pressed against my heart. The situation began to grow serious. Suddenly I remembered my comrades who had been spirited away. Here was the explanation. They had been thus decoyed, then driven to where the girl had been relieved of them by citizens or guerrillas, and the prisoners probably had been shot. I preferred to die by the hand of the girl.

"If you are going to kill me," I said, folding my arms, "do so. I shall not move a step."

She saw resolution in my eye and looked troubled—indeed, frightened. Nevertheless she brought the stock of the gun to her shoulder and, assuming a fierceness I was sure she did not feel said:

"I will count three. After three, if you have not turned and marched as I direct, I will fire. One!"

I did not move, but kept my eye fixed on her.

"Two!"

I smiled at her. She broke down, as I knew she would.

"Give me my musket," I said quietly.

She lowered it and permitted me to take it from her.

"What are you going to do with me?" she asked.

"I should take you into camp and have you shot for my comrades who have doubtless been served a like fate."

"They are prisoners of war."

"Are you sure?"

"I swear it. I saved them from being shot. They were taken to Chattanooga and turned over to the Confederate general commanding there."

"How do you know that?"

"I went with them. I did not trust those whose promise I had not to shoot them."

"Very well. Now you are at liberty to go your way."

I took my gun from her. She started, but I called her back. "What do I get for sparing you?" I asked.

She knew what I meant. I leaned my gun against a tree, put both my arms about her and took one long kiss.

It would have been longer had I not heard the corporal coming with the relief. I dropped Venus and took up Mars. In other words, I let go of the girl and seized my musket, and when the relief reached my post I was pacing leisurely to and fro. As for the girl, she made good her exit through the trees.

When that night in camp I told the story to my comrades every man jack of them wanted to be assigned to post No. 6.

Points for Mothers

A Baby Party.

To plan and successfully carry out a children's party requires a great deal of forethought. Little tots are hard to amuse for several hours at a stretch.

Our small sisters and brothers will have birthdays, and they enjoy so thoroughly their "parties" it would be unkind not to celebrate each year.

Many of our dearest memories linger about our birthday parties. Do not deny the children this pleasure. Invite the small friends to spend the afternoon.

Prepare a room where they may play without fear of breaking anything until refreshments are served.

Have plenty of toys, so that those desiring to may amuse themselves with them. Children love to "act," so select groups to produce the Mother Goose rhymes in pantomime. Then have the others guess what they are trying to represent, awarding a prize to the one guessing the greatest number.

"Silhouettes" always amuse children. To "see pictures of their shadows" drawn by a clever draftsman greatly interests them.

In another room have the table spread for refreshments.

In the center have a miniature garden, with tiny flower beds, in which grow the smallest blossoms. Mark off the walks with pebbles and have doll children playing about.

Serve sandwiches of several varieties, hot consomme, creamed chicken and an ice. Give them cocoa to drink, and have candies, salted nuts and fruit.

At each plate have an inexpensive favor for the child to "take home."

Fun With Clothespins.

Five cents' worth of clothespins will furnish a whole afternoon of fun for boys and girls who are of an inventive turn

They make specially fine toys for out of door sports.

For instance, there is a clothespin ninepin game. For this the pins are stuck up in the turf in the form of a wedge with the broad side of the wedge toward the players.

The children all stand at a prescribed distance from the novel tenpins and endeavor to overthrow them by rolling at them a hard ball. It must be rolled on the turf, not thrown. Each player has three shots at a time, after which another player takes his place. The number of men overthrown by each player are counted, and these represent his score.

After each player has played the men are "set up" again for the next player. The one having the highest score wins the game.

It is great fun to mark out little pens made of four clothespins with cords around them and in each pen to put a wild animal cut from some newspaper or other periodical. This makes a most entertaining zoo. Some of the children can be keepers and explain the animals, while others are visitors and visit the zoo in search of information. There should be a ticket chopper, who takes up the beans or other tickets which the visitors bring.

Mother's Care For Herself.

In an article on "The Healthy Baby" in the May Woman's Home Companion the author, Dr. Roger H. Dennett, a well known New York specialist on children's diseases, says in part:

"The mother's milk is the only food that was ever meant for a baby during his first year, and any other food is at best a poor substitute. This being so, the young mother should first of all guard her own good health for the sake of the baby if not for herself. She should keep good hours and get plenty of sleep. A certain amount of exercise helps the milk in quantity and quality, though fatigue should be avoided, so if the mother has not been accustomed to exercise before the baby was born attention should be given to it afterward Gradually increase the amount of exercise, perhaps by walking a little farther each day, always being careful to stop just short of the point where one gets tired."

Smart Little Coats.

Dame Fashion decrees that the coats small maidens wear on dressy occasions shall be the most exquisite creations possible. White with a touch of color, she prefers. They may be of the sheerest linen, French pique, a corded lightweight woolen fabric, rough crinkled crape or white pongee.

One charming coat noticed recently was of oyster white pongee, with bits of French blue corded silk in collar, cuffs and narrow belt. A little semi-tailored model of a firm white china silk has a deep collar and cuffs lined with a fascinating shade of rose satin, the lining showing on the right side in an inch wide fold. A rose enamel button, lovely in color, finishes the double breasted front.

On the dressy wash coats pumings are used as the very newest mode of trimming.

Suggestion For Mothers.

When baby has the earache the first thing to be tried is dry heat. Put a piece of flannel in the oven until it is quite hot, then hold it over the baby's ear, covering it with another flannel. A small hot water bottle is also good, covered with the flannel.

MABEL'S CHITCHAT

Trials and Tribulations of an Unchaperoned Summer Girl.

AMUSEMENT FOR THE SHUT-IN

The Smart Woman Wears White Costumes When She Crosses the Pond This Summer—One Piece Frocks Are a Boon to the Traveler.

My Dear Elsa—I think it is a great pity that sensible, well bred girls cannot spend their vacations at a summer resort without being subjected to all kinds of unpleasant criticism—criticism that would never come to a girl, be she ever so unconventional in behavior, were she under the care of some watchful adult.

You say it is possible for a girl of the professional class to get on perfectly well without a chaperon at a good hotel. Well, from the experience of a friend of mine, a charming woman in every respect, cultured, refined and socially irreproachable, the reverse is the case in some places. This girl has just come back from what she hoped would be a restful and beneficial holiday. A small hotel in the mountains kept by worthy country people was the place selected for the two weeks' stay. Everything was pleasing, but only the guests at this resort proved unpleasant. They were for the most part of that impossible type, the newly rich, who look with suspicion upon a woman of the business world, no matter what her personality and social background may be.

This girl after making a personal equation of her fellow guests purposely avoided any overtures of acquaintanceship and simply met their cold acknowledgment of her presence at table or on the porches with polite indifference. All would have gone well had not two of the only masculine eligibles of the place obtained an introduction to the girl and, finding her an agreeable companion, made life at the dull little town pleasant and agreeable.

Unconsciously it seems she was annexing the property of two buxom widows, one a sod and the other a grass exponent of the species who resented the loss of their swains by circulating all sorts of untruthful reports about the girl until at last the whole house was divided in its opinion as to whether this guest was a designing young adventuress or a delightfully charming woman.

In fact, so uncomfortable became the situation that an invitation from friends staying at a nearby inn to join them for the rest of the vacation was joyfully accepted by the girl. Women have gained an independence and freedom of thought and dress, and it is high time that they gained a sense of social truth and were made to feel that an injury to one is the concern of all. We have, thank heaven, been emancipated from the "crazy quilt" and impossible fancy work habit, and the next step in the right direction will be the elimination of "porch gossips" in summer boarding houses and hotels.

Just to show you, Elsa, the other side of the social shield I am going to tell you about a new and worth while means of sharing one's little excess of worldly benefits with another less fortunate sister that has recently come to my notice.

Dorothy, you know, is constantly thinking of all kinds of lovely plans for other people, and this is her latest exploit in the altruistic line. The other day she called up on the telephone twenty girls of her acquaintance, all comfortably fixed as to spending money, and asked them to take afternoon tea with her on a certain day. Cozily over the tea and sandwiches Dorothy broached her plan, which was this: To install in the home of an elderly shut-in a telephone, to be paid for by contributions from the girls. The shut-in in question was an old lady of cheerful, sociable habits who, because of an injury to her hip, was, at least temporarily, confined to her home and who could not herself afford the modern appliance.

Realizing that many friends who might not find time to call often upon their elderly acquaintance could and would find a few minutes to exchange a greeting or to relate a bit of news over the wire, Dorothy asked each visitor to pledge herself for the sum of 10 cents a month to install a telephone. A beautiful idea, wasn't it? And when the business part of the "tea" was over one of the girls amused the company by reciting a clever monologue, entitled "Over the 'Phone."

So you are going to take a run over to the other side, are you? How perfectly delightful an ocean trip will be at this season, when old Neptune is likely as not to be in a beautiful humor and give you a comfortable, "unseasicky" voyage! Now, let me mention right here that the time has gone by when "any old thing will do to wear on shipboard." The strong light, the tantalizing breezes and the immaculate surroundings all combine most annoyingly to emphasize any defects of dress. So you'll be wise to appear on deck in a trim suit, new and well fitting footwear and head covering. The smart thing is a suit of white whipcord with a white steamer coat of polo cloth to wear with it, topped by a close fitting hat of white felt tied down with a dark green veil.

If I think of anything else that you ought to have outside the regulation folderols I'll let you know. Wasn't it Emerson who said that "we have to go to Europe to be Americanized?" Well, I'm sure you will come back from your trip more of a Yankee than yours devotedly. MABEL.

For the Children

Little Lady Jane Butler, Youthful Tennis Expert.

The young tennis player here pictured with racket lowered is Lady Jane Butler of England. That is rather a high sounding name for such a plain looking, everyday tennis girl. She looks very much as do our own young tennis players, and if it were not for her title we might think her just Mary Smith or Sally Jones of any state in the Union. Titles are well enough, we suppose, in the old countries, but here in our own land we take people, young and old, for just what they are regardless of any claims they may have because of birth or social position.

Strength of the Beetle.

If asked to name the strongest animals most persons begin with the largest, the elephant, and continue with oxen, horses, etc. This is, of course, correct in so far as their total horsepower is concerned, says the London Globe.

But for real strength, proportioned to the size and weight of the animal, one must go to the insect world. Compared with insects, the strength of almost any large animal, and especially of man, is absurd.

A man is considered strong if he can drag a mass weighing three or four times as much as himself, but the beetle will walk with 500 times his own weight. If a man were placed under a wooden box with five times his own weight on top to hold it down he would remain there indefinitely.

An Odd Chair.

A Mr. Curtis, who lived in the reign of Queen Victoria, invented an acoustic chair, a high backed library one, which would enable the person sitting in it to hear, no matter how deaf he might be. The chair had two barrels to fit each ear, but there was no need of a mouthpiece for the talker. Perforated plates collected the sounds of the room into a vase, and from this they were carried into the ears of any one seated in the "comfy" chair. Tubes could be attached to the barrels, connecting other rooms. Thus a deaf person could do even more than a well hearing one, for he could hear sounds from the rest of the house.

Pull—A Game.

A jolly romping game for young boys and girls is played in this way: Roll back the rug from the center of the floor and on the boards make a small square outlined with chalk. All then join hands in a circle around it. The music starts up and the children begin to dance around the square. As they dance they try to draw some member of the circle into the square. Any one stepping inside the chalk boundaries is out of the game, which continues until but one player is left.

The Work of Our Tubs.

On Monday we wash and hang on the line
Dolly's white dresses, so dainty and fine.
Oh, how we love to rub up and down
In the foamy white suds each pretty gown!
When the bubbles pile high and shine in the sun
A handful we throw at each other for fun.
We hang out these tiny things all in nice rows,
For Dolly is proud of her pretty white clothes.
The wind whistles through them, trying to play,
And shakes them and twists them, near tears them away.
As they wave back and forth and jerk all about,
Just having a jolly time 'cause they are out,
Don't you think we look like the real washer maid,
With sleeves rolled up high and in aprons arrayed,
As we stand in the doorway with hands on our hips,
While words of great pride come forth from our lips?
For we are so proud of our tubs and the duds
Filled to the brims with foamy white suds.

THE PECTORAL FINS.

Without Them a Fish Would Stand Upon Its Head.

The pectoral fins of a fish are the two fins, one on each side, just back of the head. These fins aid the fish to some extent in swimming. They are small oars which the fish feathers very beautifully and are of value chiefly to preserve its equilibrium. It is with these fins that the fish maintains its horizontal position in the water when not swimming. Without them the fish would stand on its head. Sometimes a fish loses one or both of its pectoral fins by disease or by accident. A fish without pectoral fins is in a bad way.

While most fishes keep a horizontal position in the water when not swimming, there are fishes that do not. One of these fishes is the filefish, which when motionless suspends itself in the water, head downward, at an angle of forty-five degrees or even nearer the perpendicular. A filefish kept in an aquarium which had lost both its pectoral fins inclined over backward past the perpendicular when motionless to about the same angle that it would have kept in the other direction if its pectoral fins had been intact, so that when not in motion it seemed to be lying at an angle on its back.

In the same aquarium there was a striped bass weighing about a pound and a half, one of whose pectoral fins was attacked at the tip by fungus, which gradually encroached upon it. Finally the diseased portions of the fin were cut off with a pair of sharp shears, the cut being made within the sound part of the fin. At first the fish was like a man in a boat pulling one long oar and one short one—it couldn't hold a course. But it soon accustomed itself to its new condition, and thereafter it got along very comfortably.

Madam—This Delicious Dessert Saves Time

Instead of spending hours over a hot stove preparing dessert, try Mooney's Sugar Wafers. Their delicious flavor will surprise and please the whole family.

It cost us thousands of dollars and took years to perfect this dainty. Taste it once and you will say that both time and money were well spent.

Here are just three of many reasons why you should at least try Mooney's Sugar Wafers. First—their delicious spicy and appetizing taste. Second—it takes no time to serve them—they are always ready—always good. Third—they cost but little.

Mooney's Sugar Wafers
Canada's Most Popular Dessert

Mooney's Sugar Wafers are made in the finest bakery in the country. We use nothing but the best ingredients. Our flour is a special blend. Our butter and cream are from the finest dairies in Western Ontario. We get the best because we pay top prices. Then there is the incomparable Mooney Method—the Method that gave to the Dominion, Perfection Cream Sodas—the standard soda cracker. The same high quality standard that has made ours the fastest growing business in Canada goes into our greatest creation—Mooney's Sugar Wafers.

At your grocer's, in dainty, dust and damp-proof tins. 30 and 25 cents. Try them today.

But one accident occurred at the fair grounds on Saturday, a Vancouver man named Fred Lowe being taken to the Royal Columbian hospital with injuries sustained through falling backwards from a motor truck. Lowe is said to have been watching the lacrosse game and in an excited moment fell from the rear seat in the truck striking heavily on the ground. The police ambulance was requisitioned. His injuries are said to be slight.

George R. Speck has moved from the Trapp Block to 626 Hamley Block, Columbia street. **

The construction of the foundations of the new apartment building to be erected next to the Russell hotel on Begbie street are progressing steadily. The excavation of the basement has been practically completed and the moulds to hold the concrete supporting walls are all in position. The street for a considerable distance in front of the new structure is taken up with lumber and other building material.

SEASON RECOMMENCES

At Y. M. C. A.—Music, Games and Speeches Tomorrow Evening.

The fall classes at the Westminster Y. M. C. A. will start once more on Tuesday night and from now until the spring weather is here again the gymnasium of the local association will be kept in use six days in the week, afternoon and night, throughout the winter.

The program is a varied and lengthy one, and among the speakers of the evening are to be noticed some of the most prominent business and professional men of the city, thus showing how this class of work is expanding in New Westminster.

The invitation to attend is extended to all and no admission will be charged. The work of last winter is well remembered by those who participated in it, and a real effort is being made this winter to extend the classes so that the whole life of the city may be included therein.

The following is the program: Prayer, Rev. J. S. Henderson; chairman's address, Mr. T. J. Trapp; musical selection, Y. M. C. A. orchestra; vocal solo, Mr. Graham; address, Mr F. O. Canfield; musical selection, Y. M. C. A. orchestra; address, Mr. D. P. McCallum; vocal solo, Mr. M. Knight; recitation, Mr. F. Birchfield; address, Dr. E. H. McEwen; piano solo, Mr. C. W. Openshaw; address, Mr. W. E. McLeod; basketball match, Harriers vs. Dormitory men; presentation of badges and medals to winners of athletic meet; volley ball match, Professional vs. Business men; exercises or horse leaders corps; feather race; potato race; sack race; wheelbarrow race; relay race, Harriers vs. Dormitory men. Refreshments.

Behind THE FOOTLIGHTS

EDISON THEATRE

"The Adopted Child" is the special feature at the Edison theatre today and tomorrow. It is a two-reel subject which deals with the life history of a little girl named Marion, who is adopted by some kind-hearted ragpickers when her mother dies in squalid poverty. Marion's father is in America trying to make a fortune. The years roll around and Marion grows to beautiful womanhood, when Dr. Verdier falls in love with her. One day Dr. Verdier is called in to treat a lady named Mrs. Dartes; she is the second wife of Marion's father, though, of course, Dr. Verdier does not know that Mr. Dartes is Marion's father.

The doctor and Dartes finally get into an altercation and have a duel by the light of a lantern held by a ragpicker named Smiley. In the feeble rays of his lantern, Smiley recognizes the resemblance between Mr. Dartes and the photograph Marion has of her lost father. This eventually brings about the reunion of father and daughter, but the stepmother, who in the meantime has fallen in love with Verdier, much to the latter's discomfort, causes untold trouble and misery to the poor girl, who now has so much happiness due her. The story ends happily, however, in a whirlwind of excitement, which leaves the spectator breathless, but happy.

ROYAL THEATRE

One of the greatest animal acts in the world will be seen shortly in this city. While in Seattle last week Manager Gillis, of the Royal theatre, interviewed Alexander Pantages, who is head of the circuit which bears his name. The consequences are that Mr. Gillis was the lucky bidder for this big sensational feature. The act is known as Arnoldis Leopards, and has been featured on the largest vaudeville circuits in the world.

In the troupe there are nine of these ferocious beasts, and Mons. Arnoldis works right amongst them in a large cage, which is securely fastened to the floor. In order to get this attraction, Manager Gillis had to arrange for two weeks work up here and as he couldn't use them here for that length of time he had to "farm" them out for a week to a vaudeville theatre in the nearby vicinity. This act will be seen here the week of October 21.

WESTMINSTER OPERA HOUSE

Roselle Knott in "The Awakening of Helena Richie."

Roselle Knott, Canada's representative actress and a Daughter of the Empire, in "The Awakening of Helena Richie," will be at the Opera House tomorrow evening.

"The Awakening of Helena Richie" ran for one solid year in New York nine months at the Tremont Theatre in Boston, seven months at the Illinois Theatre in Chicago, five months in Philadelphia. "The Awakening of Helena Richie" is a distinct novelty, insofar as its theme is concerned. The plot was conceived and written by Margaret Deland, and dramatized by Charlotte Thompson.

PRONOUNCE BYLAW TO BE ULTRA VIRES

Supreme Court Rules in Favor of Mr. James Cunningham in Suit Against City.

On the grounds that it was ultra vires, Chief Justice Murphy in the supreme court on Saturday morning ordered the by-law recently passed by the city council to repeal the old gas by-law of 1886 quashed. This is the result of the action taken by Mr. James Cunningham, of the Westminster Gas company, to make the by-law void as it would mean the loss of the franchise by which he conducted the business and some $200,000 expended by him on the works and system.

His lordship ruled that the city had no right to destroy the business of Mr. Cunningham by a repealing by-law after they had allowed him to operate for the last fifteen years.

In his opinion the city was estopped from claiming that Mr. Cunningham was not the successor of the original company because for the fifteen years as the material showed he had gone on exercising the powers that were given under the old by-law and it was only this year, when a dispute arose, that his right was questioned. At any rate if the city was not estopped from taking that position, the court thought that owing to the large expenditure of money on the part of Mr. Cunningham which seemed to have been more or less continuous for the last fifteen years, a condition had arisen in Mr. Cunningham's behalf which the court must give effect to.

Though the provincial legislature has powers to repeal the by-law, he held the same power had not been given the municipal council and must consider its action as unfair. If the service of the gas company was not giving satisfaction the council had other remedies at hand which it could use.

The by-law which has thus been quashed passed its final reading in the city council about three weeks ago, and immediately following, Mr. Adam S. Johnston, on behalf of Mr. Cunningham, instituted proceedings to have it made useless. Though the case was lost it is very probable that the end of the matter has not yet been heard as the city solicitors are considering an appeal.

WEDDING BELLS

The marriage took place on Friday of Miss Estella Brown, of Winnipeg and Mr. Roy Evans, a teacher at the Columbian college, this city. Rev. F. A. Switzer, of Vancouver, officiated. The couple are spending their honeymoon in Victoria.

Many Good Positions

are open to young men and young ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Commercial telegraphy. The passage of a federal law effective October 1, compelling all sea going vessels to be equipped with wireless instruments and manned by two competent operators, has created a great demand for young men in the wireless service.

The Morse Telegraph Company, of Seattle, Wash., operates under direct supervision of wireless officials and places all graduates in positions. It will pay you to write for full particulars.
