TRAIN ROBBERS FIGHT WITH COSTABLE

Other News by Telegraph

London June 30:- Several hundred suffragettes made an ineffectual attempt to rush parliament. Premier Asquith declined to see the deputation which was met by several thousand police. A second deputation arrived on the scene and several clashes occurred. One of the women slapped Inspector Jarvis in the face and knocked his hat off twice while others tried to break through the cordon of police. An immense crowd lined the thoroughfare. The police finally cleared the street and arrested 110 women amidst great excitement and uproar, with women screaming and fainting. One officer was injured and a mounted policemans horse was stabbed.

The robber fell dead and Decker was hit in the leg. The second robber then fired upon Decker blowing the top of his head off and then made his escape. LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS.

Carl Wakefield of Bulkley valley was in town Friday.

H.P. Jones of the Glacier House is transacting business in Hazelton.

The trail up Twentymile creek, being built by the prospectors owning claims in that locality, is about completed.

Development on the new discoveries on Fourmile creek, about five miles east of town, is being prosecuted and the showings are reported to be improving daily.

J,R. Verschoyle was down from Ninemile mountain Friday and reported the tunnel on the Silver Cup progressing favorably. The owners of this property are planning to make a shipment this summer.

Barrett & Co.'s train of mules arrived from the south a few days ago and are ready to leave for the 250 mile trip to the Ninth Cabin on the government telegraph line. There are about 7o animals in the train and they are used in packing supplies to the telegraph stations from Quesnel to the Stikine watershed.

The body of an unknowm man, clad in under garments, was taken from the river below Kitsumkallum a few days. There were no clues to identification and so far no one is reported missing. It is reported there three bullet wounds and several knife cuts on the body.

Harry Howson and Frank Dockrill, officials of the Telkwa Mining & Milling Company, passed through Hazelton this week on their way to the company's properties at the head of the Telkwa river. Sufficient work will be done to complete the amount required for crown grants of the mineral claims and the annual assessment on the coal properties will be performed.

C.G. Harvey, who with Barrett & Co. owns the Pack Train group of claims on Mount Charleson in the Babine range, left town Monday to start men at work on the property, It is the intention to ship ten tons of ore from these prospects this summer for a test. The vein is about three feet wide and assays have shown values of about $60 per ton, gold and copper. The Pack Train was the first location in the Babines, being staked a year before the Dibble Group was discovered.

Road Work Progressing.

W. A. Williscroft, superintendent of public works in this district, now has five gangs of men at work and at least one more, that at Francis lake, will be started off as soon as he can get over the ground. B. M. Rogers is foreman between Hazelton and Aldermere where the worst spots are being repaired until the end of last years work is reached when heavy work will be continued to the valley towns. South of Aldermere and Telkwa Wm. Carr's gang is pushing the trunk road towards the south end of Bulkley valley. Pat McPhee is foreman of a gang engage in cutting a trail from a point on the main wagon road near the Glacier House to the mining properties in the Babine mountains, the Dibble group, the Pack Train group and a number of others. Another gang under J. V. Preston is cutting out the fallen timber and doing repair work on the trail to Babine lake, Tacla lake and the placer districts as far as Manson.

Opposite Hazelton a few men are at work, cutting out a trail on the west side of the Skeena which in time will become a wagan road to Kitzequecla. Considerable work has been done on this by the settlers who have between nearly four miles of wagon road completed. Work has not been started on wagon road into Kispiox valley but the superintendent hopes to get at this very shortly.

Dominion Day Celebration a Success

Hazelton's celebration of Dominion Day was carried out in a very successful maner despite the fact that the day was somewhat marrsd by a number of light showers in the afternoon. All of the events were well coneasted and in nearlr every case a large field was entered. E. H. Hicks Beach and R. S. Sargent were in charge of the program and it was largely to their credit that the day was so successful.

The drilling contest went to Pat Higgins and Emil Olson, the 'Black Swede," both miners from Kootenay. One team had trouble with their steel and the winners drilled through the rock so no records were made: The The victory of the natives in the tug of war was the cause of much enthusiasm among the natives.

The half mile foot race brought out the largest field of the day, and included a number of natives, and was won very handily by E. Bostock of the Steamer Hazelton who showed good judgment in not allowing himself to be run off his feet in the first quarter. Ernest Price of Kitwangar and J. Morison of Hazelton tied for second place and in the dash at the finish showed themselves strong runners.

The shot used in the shot putting contest was over weight, weighing upwards of seventeen pounds. The event went to G. M Swan with a throw of 32 feet 2 inches.

The ladies nail driving contest brought such a large number of entries that they had to be divided into two squads and the winners of each then contested for the prize. Six spikes had to be driven into a timber by each lady and they all proved themselves no strangers to a hammer.

Following ir a list of the events and the winners of each.

Nine Mile Mountain.

Reports from Ninemile mountain are so very encouraging that predictions are freely made that it will make one of the big silver lead camps of the province. One good prospect does not make a mining camp nor do a few chunks of high grade ore make a mine but there are indications and good ones that there will be mines on Ninemile. It is not a year since the first location was made and there are now forty or more claims staked with a showing on all of them so far as known. Assays from samples taken last fall showed an average of two ounces of silver to cash per cent of lead and gold values up to $15 per ton. The leads are small, varying from four inches to as many feet in width, the smaller veins having the best grade of ore.

On one claim, the "Silver Cup," the hill has been cut almost vertically for a distance of 100 feet and the visitor can look up, when standing at the bottom of the precipice, and see the vein in the cliff 12 to 15 inches in width, almost vertical in dip, with great pieces of ore ready to fall. A shaft was started on the "Hazelton" but surface water put a stop to operations when a few feet down. At the present time work on this property is confined to open cuts.

Being within ten miles of Hazelton and having comparatively cheap transportation, $6 a ton to Prince Rubert, many of the claim owners are not caring whether a buyer appears or not as ore worth from $100 to $250 will pay from the grass roots.

SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1909.

It is reassuring in no small degree to note that the Federal Government officials who administer the affairs of the Indians and their reserves, seem to be alive to the real situation and recognize thoroughly that the Indian reserves throughout British Columbia are much greater in extent than they require to be for the purposes for which they were set apart; and that until an understanding or settlement is reached between the local and Federal governments as to the interpretation of the province's reversionary rights in such reserves when they are given up by the Indians, they will continue to very seriously retard the settlement of the land throughout the province.

It is a notorious fact that the Indians, while they hold the pick of the agricultural lands within their reserves, make no effort to cultivate, or put to the uses for which it was intended, anything but a very small percentage of the land so held. This is particularly the case along the Skeena river and elsewhere in Northern British Columbia, where the Indians hold in their reserves large areas of land which they put to practically no use whatever, larger in fact by a good many hundred acres than they are capable of cultivating, even were they so disposed. In the face of these facts it cannot be expected that the local agitation among the natives will avail them anything in the way of increased land reserves from the government.

The source of this agitation is not far to seek. There are, throughout the province, a number who, having derived the benefit of considerable education at one or another of the several educational institutions provided for them by the Government and the mission societies, make a fat living and enjoy ease and considerable cheap local notoriety by preying on their unsophisticated brother Reds, through their ignorance and prejudice, by "ribbing up" imaginary wrongs and collecting donations from an easy prey to pay expenses of Indian delegations to the King and to Ottawa, bearing inconsistent and impossible demands for the redress of these imaginary wrongs.

It should be the work of the local Indian agents in the province to protect their charges from being flim-flammed by these modernized "champions of a noble race" who in reality care as little for the welfare of their fellow tribesmen as they do for hard work, and who would be the last to lift a finger in their aid for any other than a purely selfish motive.
