GREATEST BODY OF ORE IN DISTRICT

FORTY OR FIFTY CLAIMS ARE LOCATED ON NINE MILE WITH GOOD SURFACE SHOWINGS

No other silver lead mine in British Columbia ever had such a great showing of ore of as high value to the ton as that now being opened up on Nine Mile mountain, close to Hazelton.

Eight feet of ore, of which more than five feet is solid steel galena of the same fine grain and rich appearance as the surface ore, has been proved, one foot of solid ore on the foot wall and four feet on the hanging wall side with the three feet between composed of mixed quartz and galena. Small stringers of ore had been in sight in the face of the tunnel which was being driven alongside the ore, in the hanging wall, for several days, indicating a widening of the ore. Suddenly the whole working was in ore and the miners turned to the left to get into the wall rock and avoid breaking ore which they have no place to store. It was here that, with eight feet of ore and no wall in sight, the work rested at last reports.

It was estimated before the claims were bonded that with the amount of ore which showed on the surface continuing in the tunnel for 200 feet and attaining a depth of 200 feet, the gross value of the ore between the tunnel and the surface would be $200,000. The ore has widened to eight times its size at the start. If it continues in its preswidth for the remainder of the 200 feet there might easily be a million dollars worth of ore in sight when the contractors are done. Such calculations, based on probabilities instead of facts, are often beside the mark; but the ore is there now and every day adds thousands of dollars to the value of the property. If the tunnel were driven in the vein, the full width of the ore and seven feet high, the value of the mineral taken out would be worth more than $500 a lineal foot.

On the surface the vein is traceable for more than 1,000 feet and at a distance of a few hundred feet above the mouth of the tunnel shows a width of eight feet or more. The first assay of the ore, taken from several different places along the lead, soon after the claim was located, returned values as follows: Gold, $15.20; silver, 85.5 ounces; lead, 44 per cent. Later assays showed 150 to 200 ounces silver, over 60 per cent lead and a few dollars in gold. An analysis of the ore was made at the instance of J. D. Campbell, who examined the property for the purchasing syndicate, and it was shown to contain antimony, cobalt and bismuth in addition to the other metals.

The Duke and Duchess claims on the west side of the Silver Cup group and included in the deal on the latter claims, show the richest ore yet found on the hill, showing values of 340.5 ounces in silver, $1.60 in gold and 60 per cent lead. Other claims on the east, the Sunrise group and the Brown-Harvey properties show values of from $90.00 to $150.00.

Altogether there are forty or fifty claims located on Nine Mile and all of them have more or less ore showing on the surface.

Being within ten miles of Hazelton, the head of navigation on the Skeena, development work can be carried on at a reasonable cost and if the river steamers continue to quote a favorable rate on ore shipments down the river, several of the properties could be made to pay well even under present conditions.

The purchasing syndicate which holds the bond on a seven eighths interest in the Silver Cup group of two claims and all but a small interest in the Duke and Duchess claims, is composed of J. F. Ritchie and a group of ten of the G.T.P. railroad men, V.W. Smith, J. B. L. McDonald and Sol. Cameron being in the number. The other eighth interest in the Silver Cup is owned by A. H. Kinman or Vancouver who has joined forces with the Ritchie crowd in the development of the property. W. P. D. Pemberton of Victoria holds the other interest in the Duke and Duchess.

A SIXTY FOOT TUNNEL IN ORE.

Jack McKendrick and Gus Timbermaster, the owners of a group of claims in the Babine mountains about two miles from the Cronin and Law properties, returned to Aldermere a few days ago, having discontinued work for the winter. They drove a tunnel 60 feet on the vein, which was in ore all the way. When work stopped the face of the tunnel was in solid ore with only one wall in sight. The ore in the tunnel is of the same character as appears on the surface where some astonishingly rich samples have been taken, showing both native silver and sulphide of silver.

New Steamboat Company Incorporates.

The company owning the new boat being built for the Skeena is incorporated as the Prince Rupert and Skeena River Navigation Co. Local stockholders are arranging for a supply of 100 cords of wood between Hazelton and Andimaul.

GREAT SLUMP IN STOCKS

HAZELTON IN NEED OF A BANK

A GOOD LOCATION FOR BRANCH BANK IN THIS VICINITY

The business men of Hazelton have felt the need of a bank in many ways in the last few years and the need is becoming more pressing all the time. Without sufficient volume of business to make the establishment of a branch by one of the chartered banks at least a selfsustaining proposition the merchants and others have felt heretofore that it would be idle to approach the management of any of the banks in the matter. Now, however, it is thought that Hazelton can offer enough business to make a branch bank pay from the start, and with the increase in business that comes each year through the settlement of the country, ought to offer a splen- opportunity.

It is understood the Union Bank will establish branches along the line of the G. T. P., wherever the contractors may establish headquarters camps. This may mean a branch of that bank at the camp three miles down the Skeena but that would not be close enough to help local business men very much.

The matter is being taken up by the citizens with the view of laying before the management of one or more of the banks a statement of the probable amount of business that might be expected, in the effort to secure the location of a branch here.

FATAL EXPLOSION

Emil Johnson, a miner employed at James Cronin's mine in the Babine mountains, was instantly killed by a powder explosion Feb. 11. C. A. Chapman, the superintendent, left Glentanna this morning with the body which is being brought to Hazelton for burial. Particulars of the accident were lacking at the time of going to press, beyond the fact that the unfortunate man in some way set off the powder charge in a missed hole.

OUR PROSPERITY GUARANTEED

The discovery made in the tunnel on the Silver Cup on Nine Mile mountain is a greater guarantee for the future prosperity of the country immediately surrounding Hazelton than almost any other thing that could have happened. There is the enormous value of the ore itself, indicating a great mine with all the advantages to the country through the money spent in development and operation. It establishes the permanency and value of the camp in no other way possible. The stimulation that it will give to the exploitation of the mineral resources of the district will result in a small army of prospectors being in the field as soon as the snow leaves.

From what is known already it is perfectly justifiable to expect Nine Mile to become a greater silver and lead producer than any of the camps so far discovered in the Province. There are several claims on the hill with as good or better surface showings thanhad the Silver Cup. It is not necessary that they should all turn out to be bonanzas; if they merely hold their own with development the future of the camp is assured.

GOVERNMENT SHOULD HELP

The subject of a wagon road to Nine Mile mountain is one that might well be taken up with the Provincial authorities and construction urged this year. So far that camp has not had a dollar of help from the government. What trails there are were built by the prospectors and are not claimed to afford more than a possible access to the top of the mountain.

TELEGRAM SENT TO TEMPLEMAN

Hon. Wm. Templeman,
Ottawa:

We beg to call your attention to the reduction in telegraph rates to Ashcroft granted the citizens of Prince Rupert last fall, No such corresponding reduction granted this district. Consequently, though the distance of transmission is 200 miles less than from Prince Rupert, the rates from this district are higher. An equitable adjustment of these rates will be appreciated.

The above is a copy of a telegram sent by Hazelton citizens to our member calling attention to the rank discrimination practiced in the matter of tolls on the Dominion government telegraph line, in favor of Prince Rupert and against interior points, Hazelton included.

Why in the name of all that is fair and just a telegram from Hazelton to Ashcroft, the southern end of the government line, should cost more than the same message sent from Prince Pupert to Ashcroft is a question that can probably be best answered by the officials in charge. We confess an utter ignorance of anything right about it. Such a state of affairs is absurd. It appears as though this rate reuction to Prince Rupert alone might put some officials in a bad hole.

The question is serious enough that it will not be allowed to drop until a dollar in Hazelton is worth as much to the federal government as a Prince Rupert dollar.

THE LOST MINE

A TALE OF AN IMMENSE ORE VEIN FOUND MANY YEARS AGO

Tales of lost mines, of immensely rich veins of ore, to which the discoverers were afterward unable to return, are told in all parts of western America. Some of these stories are well authenticated and others are regarded as myths, Most prospectors are familiar with the stories the "Pegleg" mine of the desert and of the "Lost Cabin" mine in Idaho. That our country possesses one of these lost mines is not generally known because it was found and forgotten many years ago when there were few whites in the country, when trading and placer mining were the only activities and a railroad had never been dreamed of.

Thomas Hankin was the first white trader that ever came up the Skeena, starting a trading post where the town of Hazelton now stands, and which he conducted for many years. It was during the early days of Hankin's trading post that an Indian brought samples of fine looking galena ore to the store and said he brought it from a place where there was lots of it. The Indian wanted Mr. Hankin to with him to see the discovery and advise him if it was valuable but being busy he sent with the Indian a clerk who was working for him at that time. The clerk and Indian were gone several days and on their return brought with them a sack of ore probably forty or fifty pounds in weight. The story the clerk told was that they had never reached the ledge itself, which showed high up on on the mountain side, as they were very tired and it was late in the afternoon when they reached the place; besides they had left their provisions and blankets at the foot of the mountain. They did get close enough, however, to see the vein where it cropped out in a bluff and to collect their samples from the loose slide rock which was strewn for a considerable distance with pieces of the ore. He was unable to describe the location closely, merely saying that it was two days travel north of the post.

Not much was thought of the find at that time. For all practical purposes, no matter how large it might be or what might be the values contained, the thing was valueless. Placer gold was the only metal sought.

The ore samples were left lying about the store for several years, likely enough thrown into some dark corner, and the whole incident forgotten, when one day two placer miners, bound for the country about the Omineca river, saw the samples and inquired about the matter. The clerk who brought the ore had left the country; the Indian had died; the Indian's son, who had been with his father when the ore was first found, claimed he cound find it again and with him as guide the men started out to rediscover the great ledge. Whether their guide couldn't or wouldn't take them to the place or whether the vein had been covered with a slide, it makes little difference. They returned disappointed.

Masquerade a Great Success.

The masquerade dance given on Monday evening by the Hazelton Assembly Club was the first affair of that kind to take place in Hazelton and it was a pronounced success. With the limited means at command it was surprising the way the matter was carried through, and the ingenuity displayed in designing costumes. Of those able to dance, practically the whole town was there and one and all claimed it was the most enjoyable affair of the year.

R. S. Sargent was floor manager and performed his duties in the able manner that might be expected of him.

INDIAN DOGS DO DAMAGE.

The Indian dogs which are a pest at all times did more damage than usual last Saturday night when they broke into the sleigh load of freight which Wm. Poulton was to take out early the next morning, consigned to one of the stores in Bulkley valley. To tear off the boards of a case of bacon was easy work for them and they got away with the entire contents, about 150 pounds, and worth nearly fifty dollars here. Mr. Poulton was the unfortunate loser to that extent.

These dogs, nor nearly so numerous as in times past, perform almost incredible feats in trying to satisfy a perpetual hunger. Any one of them can open a tin of butter and clean out the contens in a few minutes and the story is told that they once made a hole in the roof of Barrett's warehouse and made a meal off the provisions stored inside.

M. G. McLeod was in town Tuesday from his place near Chickens lake, on the west side of Bulkley river south of Moricetown, He has a tie contract from the G.T.P. and he will soon start getting them out. He estimates there is timber for 40,000 ties on his place.
