Summoned for Contempt.

EDITOR MACADAMS WANTED BY THE FULL COURT. EXCEPTION TAKEN TO REMARKS ON COLLOM'S PULL.

Victoria, June 28.—(Special to The Daily News.)—W. MacAdams, editor of the Sandon Paystreak, has been summoned by the Full Court to appear before it in Victoria on July 2nd, on a charge of contempt of court. This arises out of a statement made in the Paystreak that J. K. Clark of New Denver, was unable to get his case for a commission, against J. Frank Collom, for the sale of the Arlington mines, before the courts, owing to Collom's pull.

Our Official Invitation.

The following summons and affidavits were served on Thursday by Bullock Webster The affidavit of Evelyn Montague Sandilands did not show up, and Webster claims that it was not forwarded to him by the Victoria court. The affidavit will be secured, however, and published at the earliest opportunity.

Monday, 23rd day of June, 1902.

IT IS ORDERED that William MacAdams do attend this Court on the Second day of July, A. D., 1902, at the hour of 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, at the Court House, Bastion square, in the City of Victoria, peremptorily to answer for a contempt of this Court committed on the 17th day of May, A. D. 1902, by publishing in The Paystreak, a newspaper issued in the City of Sandon, in the Province of British Columbia, the matter mentioned in the said affidavits and the exhibits; and shew cause why he should not be punished and dealt with as the Court shall think fit for the contempt aforesaid.

J. K. CLARK's famous case against J. Frank Collum for commission on the Arlington deal has again been postponed—this time until next December. J. K. has now been twenty-eight months trying to break into the British Columbia courts, but owing to Collums pull connot get his case heard and it is evident that the courts intend to continue putting him off on one pretext or another until he dies or quits the game. This is probably the worst case of dilatoriness chargeable against the British Columbia courts, altho there are others bad enuf. Of course Clark is poor and Collum is rich, and Collum has the assistance of several wealthy Coast people who hold stock in the Arlington, but in this country where even-handed justice is supposed to prevail, such things should not be—the courts should be closed to no one. We pride ourselves on our British fair play, but we maintain a string of judges who are corrupt, lazy, debauched and prejudiced, and we permit them to conduct the business of of the country in a manner that is simply outrageous. Justice has become foreign to the British Columbia courts. Unless our judiciary is quickly revised and corrected we may expect to see the vigilance committee spring into existance and find mining litigation settled by the oratory of the six-shooter. The two-handed gun man is a lesser danger than a corrupt judiciary.

A Natural Wonderland.

BIG CAVE AT AINSWORTH THAT HAS NEVER BEEN EXPLORED. AN ATTRACTION FOR SCIENTISTS AND TOURISTS.

Ainsworth has a natural phenomena which should attract the attention of scientists and tourists if properly advertised. On the Carbonate claim, just below the historic Skyline property, about four miles and a half from Ainsworth, there is a mammoth cave which has never been fully explored and even the existence of which is not very generally known. It is situated in the big lime dike which cuts across the formation there for miles and dips into the lake at Ainsworth. This lime dike is already noted for its hot springs and other natural phenomena, but the cave is the greatest wonder of all. Theodore Adams, Henry Cody and Jack McKinnon, all of Kaslo, visited it not long ago and they have a great story to tell

The cave can be reached by the Skyline wagon road and a short trail which runs to within a few hundred yards of it. The entrance, which is situated in a rock slide, is small, permitting only one at a time to enter. The exploring party took ropes, picks and lanterns and entering the cavern's mouth they followed down a natural tunnel which led in on a pitch of about 45 for 50 feet, and then opened out into an immense cave with a roof a hundred feet high, lined and frescoed with dazzling crystals and beautiful stalactites, which shone and glittered like diamonds, reflecting back the light of the explorers' lanterns. Along the main cavern, in which there runs a stream six feet wide and a foot deep, they followed to where they came to a waterfall which emptied into a second large chamber of unknown proportions. Other large chambers open on every side and the cave is undoubtedly an extensive one as a brisk wind blows thru it everywhere. The stream drops in from above by a funnel-shaped sink hole and follows along the floor of the cave for a long distance, finally disappearing into a crevasse which probably leads to another extensive cavern below and the explorers believe it is the source of the hot springs, the water following thru the lime dike for four miles.

It is the intention to run an excursion up from Kaslo some time in the near future and thoroly explore the cave. The Kaslo Miners' Union may take the excursion in hand and supply all the facilities for a complete investigation, after which the cave could be charted and made a point of interest for tourists, scientists and others interested in natural phenomena. The scenery along the route is the grandest in the Selkirk range. From the Skyline wagon road the whole of Kootenay lake, right to its head at Bonners' Ferry, seventy miles away, can be plainly seen and the grand panorama of glaciers, peaks and pinnacles simply beggars description. The great cave at Ainsworth is sure to take a place among the attractions of this nature's Wonderland called Kootenay.

The Voice of the Press.

THE NEWS MAN ALSO ENTERTAINS A HEALTHY CONTEMPT.

The Victoria correspondent of The Daily News wires to the effect that William MacAdams, editor of the Sandon Paystreak, is to be summoned before the full court to answer to a charge of contempt, This is where frank treatment of questions not infrequently leads to. "Billy" is probably not alone in his contempt, but he is the only one who has had the temerity to get his contempt off his chest and tell his readers in a few chaste sentences just what he thot of the be-wigged wisdom of the bench.—News Editorial.

A NEWS ITEM FROM THE NEW DENVER LEDGE.

"Judge not, lest ye be jugged." Wm. MacAdams has been summoned to tell the Court in Victoria why it is bad. As Billy has no wings, and only one pair of boots, he may not reach the court before it forecloses on him. If he proves his case will the Court commit itself? If he does not, what will they do with Billy? Probably send him to jail, or Sandon, for 60 days.

Aluminium.

In view of the fact that an extensive plant has recently been erected at Shwinigan Falls, Quebec, for the manufacture of aluminium from bauxite and other ores, the following particulars regarding the metal and its ores have been sent out by the Ontario laboratory.

Aluminium is like tin in color and has a brilliant silvery lustre. It is lighter than most common metals, being about one third the weight of iron, bulk for bulk. It is very strong and at the same time malleable. It does not change in dry air, but in moist air it forms a white coating of oxide and is corroded slightly when exposed to air carrying acid fumes. It melts at 700C. It is dissolved by muriatic acid at ordinary temperatures, and any water carrying chlorides in solution such as sea water, will corrode the metal and gradually dissolve it. Certain other acids, such as acetic acid, have a slight effect. It is an excellent reducing agent.

The metal is at present made in America entirely by electrolytic methods by treating the ore—bauxite—with carbon in an electric furnace. The resulting metal carries about 99.06 per cent aluminium, the impurities being .05 per cent iron and .3 per cent silicon.

The electrolytic process is gradually being improved so that it is probable that the present selling price, 32 cents per pound, will be reduced so as to permit of an increased consumption.

Aluminium is said to have double the electric conductivity of copper, weight for weight, and is being widely used for transmitting electricity for power purposes. It is also used in steel making, for increasing the fluidity of the steel in ladels and for preventing blowholes in ingots.

Aluminium foil is rapidly taking the place of silver for decorative purposes. It is the basis of several alloys, such as magnalium, partinium, etc., which find many industrial uses such as cycles, instruments, kitchen utensils, fancy and decorative ware, etc.

In India its use in making water-bottles is rapidly spreading. A very important use is in making lithograph plates. Its industrial employment is rapidly spreading, and altho the world's production is at present only two per cent. that of copper, it may be said to have a promising future.

American Smelting.

(New York Times, June 17.)

In explanation of the strength of American Smelting stocks, with steady investment demand in the preferred shares, it is said that the bettered silver situation was probably one of the factors influencing the buying. Yesterday the price of silver advanced ½ cent an ounce, and a much better demand for it was reported. This is caused, it is said, by the large shipments of silver now being made by the Smelting Company to Mexico to supply that country with sufficient coinage to meet its commercial demands.

According to an authoritative statement the company has arranged to ship to Mexico 5,000,000 ounces within the next ten weeks, or at the rate of 500,000 ounces a week, which is as much as the Mexican government can now coin each week at its mints. It is, however, increasing its minting facilities. and will be able before long to turn out a larger coinage. The Smelting Company is arranging to ship in addition to the 5,000,000 ounces already contracted for about 20,000,000 ounces more, as fast as the minting facilities can coin the same.

WHAT part of Russia is this we are living in, anyway?

The violent virtue of the "Full" court surpasseth all understanding.

EBERTS and Dunsmuir are at large in London. Tracy and Merrill are at large in Oregon.

TALK about your paragons of purity, but what's the matter with the British Columbia judiciary.

As every knock is a boost in any well-regulated community, we figure that Eberts must be a friend of ours.

IT SEEMS that the Nelson Daily News is not altogether without contempt for the British Columbia judiciary.

THE curtain has been rung down on the legislative burlesque at Victoria. Dunsmuir & Co's gift enterprise has shut up shop for a while.

THERE was a ball game in California last week at which no one disputed the decisions of the umpire. Bob Fitzsimmons was the umpire.

UNFORTUNATELY the address of our esteemed contemporaries Tracy and Merrill is a little uncertain; otherwise we would wire them for a tip on their system.

IF King Edward wants an understudy Jim Dunsmuir would probably take the job and accept the crown with whatever modesty he has in his possession.

Is E. P. Davis full court, chief justice, political adviser and grand ogemah of the whole works down at Victoria or is he just John M. Harris' lawyer, with the ear of the Attorney-General?

OUR circulation is limited to one million but as there are still a few left we will give The Paystreak fully paid up and non-asseusible for one year for the apprension of any law-abiding citizen in the Interior who has not a well-grounded contempt for the British Columbia judiciary. Photos must accompany applications.

JIM DUNSMUIR is playing out of luck. After four months of a rough house and a flying trip to London, he gets beat out of his tin title because A. E. Guelph couldn't come to the scratch.

THE New York Journal's Bugville man has gone crazy. No wonder! Any man who would get up pictures like those should be thrown into the wheel house on general principles. If he hasn't got bats in his belfry it is because bats don't thrive in a vacuum.

THE Provincial Progressive Party was organized in Grand Forks on Monday and in Vancouver on Tuesday. The promoters of these organizations had better keep dark or they may find themselves yanked before the full bench for contempt of court.

Now it's the smelter trust that is coming to Kootenay. Well, come on, Mr. Guggenheimer, and bring your knitting. The C. P. R. has handed this camp the icy mitt and you couldn't do worse. Just break the stillness that envelopes the Silvery Slocan and we are with you to the finished state.

THE Northport smelter has gotten $6.80 coke and a 25-cent rate on second class Rossland ore. The traffic would not stand the old rate and the Le Roi threatened to suspend operations, whereupon the Great Northern came down a few. A case of the goose and the golden egg.

IF an editor intimates that the the judiciary is dishonest, prejudiced, lazy, fossilized or in the habit of getting jagged frequently, he may be indicted for contempt of court. If he proved it they would probably give him twenty years. If he don't prove it they will soak him anyway. This is law but it is in no way related to justice.

KING EDWARD is having a hard time of it. After all the preparations that have been made for the coronation, it is disappointing that he should be unable to go thru with the ceremony. Edward is doubtless a good fellow as far as it is in his power to be, and nobody wishes him any hard luck but his present illness shows that he is nothing more than the rest of us—just a man, subject to all the ills the flesh is heir to.

Silver is on the upward trend. Mexico is taking half a million ounces a week from United States and will take more as soon as the minting capacity can be enlarged. China is done dumping the white metal onto the markets of the world, and Africa will soon be again producing gold wholesale, which will keep the ratio down. Market quotations are losing the sag and now show signs of life. The situation is encouraging and hopeful.

WHAT are the regulations in a well-conducted jail anyway? Is a gentleman in retirement required to improve his mind and the nation's highways by a strict application to the study of geology, or does he get an afternoon off occasionally to study the Sunday papers? Does the eight-hour law apply, and who runs the lunch counter in the King's boarding house? Gordon, the Manitoba murderer, played ping pong the day before he was jerked to Jesus. Striking a general average, with this as a precedent, an ordinary contempt of court victim should be allowed to attend the ball games.

THE legislature shortly before adjournment threw out a bill introduced by Curtis providing that after 1904 all improvements should be exempt from provincial and municipal taxes. This, of course, would make it necessary to raise the revenue from land and would have the effect of introducing single tax. There is no reason why the bill should not have been accepted except that grafters predominate in the legislature. Taxing improvements is taxing industry. Taxing land is taxing privilege. Industry vs. Graft. The Progressive party is for single tax strait and long before 1904 will have it on the statute books of British Columbia.

IN THE legislature recently Kidd, who is the pet member of the agriculturalists, submitted a bill providing that if both parties to a civil dispute were willing to do so they could arbitrate their case and thus keep it out of court. Well, say! Every lawyer in the legislature just got up on his hind legs and hollered like a bay steer at a branding. The idea of taking from the lawyers their privilege to plunder every citizen who happens to disagree with his neighbor was characterized as the rankest kind of heresy, and Kidd dropped his motion like a hen would drop a snake. Of course Kidd is a regular farmer or he would never have introduced such a measure. These poor lawyers have to live. If a motion like that went thru the public might catch on that lawyers are leetches who live off the misfortunes of others ; then next thing some political agitators would adopt as a battle cry : "First thing, let us kill all the lawyers."

THE affairs of the Hot Air line are about to be ventilated in the Spokan court. Things are badly mixed up with this corporation and somebody is going to get off loser. The road was built ostensibly to haul Republic ore to the Grand Forks smelter, but the construction was so rickety that up to the hour of going to press a hand car special could not be operated over it and some sections of it have been washed out altogether. Tracy Holland and W. C. Morris, the promoters, are now quarrelling about the division of the swag and some interesting disclosures are sure to follow. In the meantime the Dominion Permanent Trust Company got let in for about a million for stock, and a wail of anguish may be expected from Toronto in the near future. This is the outfit that gave Jim Hill so much trouble with injunctions.

THE Fernie Coroner's Jury has rendered a verdict against the company. It says, in effect, that the company's greed for gain was responsible for the death of 140 miners. Analyzed in the cold clear light of truth, this is a horrible indictmen, that men already rich beyond the fear of want, in possession of these coal lands thru legislative fraud, should be so callosed of conscience as to sacrifice 140 lives to an insensate greed for dividends. No criminal ever suffered the extreme penalty for a more hineous offense. If ink were vitrol and pens were dagger points no words of censure sufficiently sharp and burning could be transcribed. Altho the courts are ever on the side of might, the law may and doubtless will give enormous damages against the company ; but the monetary equations of the courts are powerless to assuage the grief or mend the broken hearts of the fatherless and widows of Fernie. May the mourners' cry forever haunt the souls of the directors of the Crow's Nest Coal Company. The coroner's verdict is the brand of Cain.

THE American smelting and Refining Company, commonly known as the smelter trust, will send men into the Kootenay country this summer to size up the situation and if their report is favorable a big smelter, refinery and corroding works will be built somewhere on Kootenay lake, probably at Nelson or Five Mile Point.

This statement is on the authority of a mining man who has his information direct from Nash and Guggenheimer, and therefore knows whereof he speaks.

This smelter will undoubtedly be of the most modern and economical type, capable of handling the whole of the product of the Slocan and East Kootenay up to the finished state, and able to operate at a rate that would close the Hall Mines and Trail lead stacks down.

It may be that the trust has an arrangement with the Canadian Pacific railway, or on the other hand it may intend to fight the C. P. R. monopoly with the aid of the Great Northern. In either case better rates would result and the silver-lead mining industry would revive.

Next to the construction and operation of a government smelter and refinery, this is the most fortunate thing that could happen to the Kootenay. The Trail and Hall Mines smelters would undoubtedly be forced out of business, but the country can well afford to lose them and would have been better off had they never been built. With an up-to-date plant the trust could easily cut their rates in two and still make money by the million. In the meantime this and other lead camps in B. C. will be quiet, but when lead smelting on a large scale in Kootenay is commencad and the mine owners get something like what their ore is worth, Sandon will again become the best mining camp in Canada. It only needs a fair deal.

Modern Money Getting.

Modern money-getters make the Count of Monte-Cristo, Croesus, King Solomon, and all the other rich men of old look like "thirty cents." The billion dollar capitalization of J. Pierpont Morgan's steel trust would have staggered the ancients, as indeed it does some moderns. The earnings of another United States institution, the Standard Oil Company, are almost past comprehension. That concern has in twelve years distributed $315,000,000 in dividends. In the last ten years J. D. Rockefeller has drawn from this source alone no less than $100,000,000 and it is estimated that during the next decade he will have an aggregate income of $500,000,000 from all sources.

It is calculated that Mr. Rockefeller's present fortune amounts to $200,000,000, and a Frenchman has been figuring out what this means. If a man had been working steadily day and night since the birth of Christ to the present time at the compensation of twelve dollars an hour, his total earnings would have jus now reached the Oil King's pile. Twelve dollars an hour is $300 a day—very handsome pay, and a man getting this sum every day from the year one till now and consuming none of his earnings would only now have acquired as much wealth as has Mr. Rockefeller in a short lifetime.

"Colonel," she asked, addressing the eminent Kentuckian, "have you read about the water cure in the Phillippines?"

A Good Thing Appreciated

"Who is your favorite author?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle, as she was looking thru the magnificent library of the new neighbors.

"Shakespeare," her hostess replied. "I do think his Roll On, Thou Deep and Dark Blue Ocean, Roll, is one of the literariest pieces I ever heard. Josiah was readin' it to me not long ago, and it almost made me seasick—it was so real."

The Voice of the Press.

AN EDITORIAL OPINION BY THE SAGE OF THE LUCERNE.

In many ways judicial administration in this province is rotten, but if an editor dares to touch upon the matter he is liable to lose his liberty. Free speech seems to be roughlocked when judges and their way of doing things are touched upon. Nice state of affrirs in a country that does not belong to Russia.

THE KOOTENAIAN IS NON-COMMITTAL.

FROM A SUBSIDIZED DAILY.

Vancouver World: The Sandon Paystreak stands in danger of being proceeded against for contempt of the judiciary. Certainly The Paystreak has gone as far as any paper could in thus inviting the attention of the Attorney-General's department. It has for some time past deliberately courted prosecution.

Clara Mathes Company.

The Clara Mathes Company has been secured by the Auditorium management for one performance, July 8th. This is one of the largest companies that has ever visited the Kootenay and the press and public where they have visited have been unanimous in declaring the best. Miss Mathes is supported by fourteen selected players.

Tha play to be produced here is the great New York comedy sucess, Nell Gwynn, for which Miss Mathes carries over $5,000 worth of costumes and electrical effects and a complete set of scenery. A pleasing feature of this company's performances are the specialties introduced between acts, making the entertainment continuous.

The following criticism from the Nelson News of June 24th is a good send-off for the company:

"At the opera house last evening a large audience assembled to hear Clara Mathes' company present Nell Gwynne. The company is undoubtely one of the best that has played at Nelson and the audience was well pleased. The leading parts were remarkably well taken, Miss Mathes as the bright and sparkling Nell Gwynn being especially good. Of the rest of the company, their support left little to be desired, and the company should draw good houses during their stay here. The specialties between acts were well received."

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brighton and their daughter Helen of Columbus, Ohio, visited Sandon, Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Brighton is representing eastern parties who are interested in the Silver Bell, McGuigan Basin, and they all took a trip up to the mine, accompanied by Michael Sweeney, the manager. The Brightons are thoroly infatuated with the scenic grandeurs of Kootenay and intend to make an annual visit to this country hereafter. While in Sandon J. D. Giegerich did the honors for the party and under his careful guidance the romance and beauty of the Slocan hills lost nothing in story or splendor.
