THE DELEGATION FROM STEWART

WILL WAIT UPON PREMIER McBRIDE WEDNESDAY

Regarding Incorporation of Stewart and Necessary Provincial Appropriation for Development of District—Dominion Government Liberal.

The delegation appointed by the citizens of Stewart to wait on Premier McBride arrived in town yesterday. It is a small delegation consisting of T. J. Vaughn-Rhys, president of the Citizens' Association, D. J. Rainey, vice-president and P. F. Godenrath. Mr. Vaughn-Rhys said the object of the delegation was to decide upon the preparations for the incorporation of Stewart in the first place, and in the second to see what could be done in the matter of appropriations to assist the new town. He said the delegation represented citizens who were inclined to think the provincial government had not done as much as it really ought for the new town and district, yet they believed that if the facts were placed before the premier they would undoubtedly receive better treatment.

"The government," he said, "has drawn a good deal of money from the new district and has put very little back, and we hope by a complete showing of the facts to the premier and our member, Mr. Manson, to get a fair show. We have had a great deal granted to us by the Dominion governemnt. We have the wharf approach and we have the telegraph line being put in. We think this should be an inducement for the provincial Government to come through.

"We are sorry that the premier could not find time to pay us a visit, so that we could give him a good idea of what we have in our district, and upon which showing the governemnt would be able to put out money that must necessarily increase its revenue from the district.

"We shall lay our case before the premier on Wednesday afternoon and have confidence that what we lay before him will receive his careful consideration."

GRAHAM TO BECOME GREAT FEEDER FOR PRINCE RUPERT

Some of those who have been there profess to see in the recent announcement in the daily press of the projected opening of large coal mine workings on Graham Island, at the northernmost end of the Queen Charlotte group, the first decisive step towards the opening up of a section of country which will do much to make the future of the Last Far West great. Among the enthusiasts, says the Colonist, is John G. Johnston, who, although he is still a young man, is a pioneer of the outposts, having struck them first when he was eight years old. Cynics might say that Johnston is prejudiced because he is one of the members of the big million-dollar syndicate recently incorporated as the Queen Charlotte Islands Colleries, Limited, to operate the new fields. But that is not right. Johnson was an enthusiast before the syndicate was ever thought of. He knows Graham Island, and, indeed, the other islands as well, from stern to stern, and amidships too. He has traveled the length and breadth of this continent and been in the Old Country and in Europe. Yet Johnston swears by the climate of Graham Island. "Why," said he naively the other day, "it is like the climate around Victoria. The island is level and covered with rich soil of good depth. Almost the whole of it will be excellent for mixed farming. You just watch Graham Island grow!"

Surely, if the development promised by the new syndicate is carried out, Graham Island will grow and grow fast, and we may expect to have another star in our Pacific Islands constellation in the very near future. As for the syndicate, Johnston had his part in the building up of that. News had come down that there had been discoveries of rich coal lands at the northern end of the Queen Charlottes. Johnston had been a miner and prospector for years; he knew the north too. Consequently, he was commissioned by his associates to take a crew of experienced stakers and make investigations. A small book might be written truthfully about the adventures the stakers had, for looking up new coal fields in the wild north is not as comfortable a game as croquet on the green. One of the first instances was a narrow escape from drowning during the voyage in a gasoline launch, to the island. The party could go neither forward nor back. and finally landed at great peril in a cloud of spray, the aftermath of one of the greatest storms of a decade.

Later on Johnston alone was up against a stiff proposition. He had no big boat to work with, and ordinarily his "stunt" would have been thrown over by the average prospector. Johnson was at Masset Inlet; thirty-eight miles away, across a stretch of the open Pacific, where some properties which he wanted to stake for the syndicate. Others who were interested didn't bother to keep track of Johnston's movements. They didn't think he would try to make those northern properties. Johnston's best available craft was a sixteen-foot "dugout," owned by a Siwash. When he made up his mind to go the Indian begged him to give up the idea. Johnston's insistence prevailed, however, and leaving the Indian behind and taking a twenty-day outfit with him, he covered the thirty-eight miles of nasty sea, toyed with death a dozen times, staked his claims, and came back.

When Johnston and his crew finished their work, they had staked out for the syndicate 43,520 acres of coal land which is said to be among the best in the world. Then Johnston came to Prince Rupert and paid the licenses. When the report of the stakers was turned in, a portion of it read: "Your large tract east of Masset Inlet and south of Dixon Entrance, is of a gentle rolling nature, with eyerything in place. Old coal miners are of the opinion that we will find the largest tract of unbroken coal lands on the Pacific Coast. It has also great advantages, being only eighty miles from Prince Rupert, on the route between British Columbia and China and Japan. The shipping facilities will also be excellent. as there is a fine waterway running parallel to the eleven miles of coal lands on Masset Inlet, while the two other tracts are situated on the water. Taking everything into consideration—and I had the best to choose from —I consider that you have the pick of the lands on the island."

The programme of the new syndicate to be carried out in the near future, according to report, includes the building of big colleries as soon as possible. Shipments to Vancouver will be begun at once, and shipments are also to be made to other Coast cities. There is also a movement for the establishment of an Admiralty coaling station near Masset Inlet. The new syndicate includes: Walter C. Nicol, of the Province, Vancouver; James A. Moore, president Western Steel Corporation, Seattle; Charles G. Pennock, manager Bank of Ottawa, Vancouver; Walter F. Evans, of Dyke, Evans & Co., Vancouver; Andrew Laidlaw, capitalist, Spokane; H. L. Simmons, capitalist, Vancouver; R. P. McLennan, of McLennan, McFeely & Co., Vancouver; Charles H. Allen, barrister, Vancouver; John G. Johnston, miner, Victoria; James E. H. Barnet, capitalist, Renfrew, Ont.; R. C. Hodgson, hardware merchant, Vancouver; J. H. Senkler, K. C., Vancouver; George M. Gibbs, fiscal agent, Western Steel Corporation, Vancouver.

One Thousand Successful Men

"I have on my desk a list of one thousand successful men of this nation," writes an investigator in the Juvenile Court Record. "By 'successful' I do not mean mere money-makers, but men who have given us new conceptions of steam, electricity, construction work, education, art, etc.

"Two hundred started as farmers' sons.

"Two hundred started as messenger boys.

"Two hundred were newsboys.

"One hundred were apprenticed in manufactories.

"Fifty began at the bottom of railway work.

"Fifty—only fifty—had wealthy parents.

CHANGE OF FRONT

Plenty of Private Capital For Hudson Bay Steamer Lines.

The Manitoba Free Press says it is highly probable that in a few years from now certain eastern newspapers will be heartily ashamed of their present attitude towards the Hudson Bay Company. When that day comes a resurrection of some of their gloomy forebodings will be as little pleasing to them as are to-day certain well-known utterances anent the Canadian Pacific Railway to those who made them thirty years ago.

The project of a railway to Hudson Bay has already developed to such a point that opposition to it has attained a humorous aspect. From many unexpected quarters are coming incentives to hurrying the line to completion and factors, hitherto unconsidered, are being discovered arguing for the railway's successful operation. There has just arrived, for instance, from Montreal, a despatch stating that as soon as the line from the Pas to the Bay is completed, a syndicate of British capitalists is ready to establish a Transatlantic line of steamers north of the present ocean routes, and having its western terminus at either Fort Churchill or Port Nelson.

That private capital should be ready and even anxious to establish such a line is no very remarkable thing, when one reflects that for over 200 years the vessels of the Hudson Bay Company have been plying on this north Atlantic route. The reasons for assuming that as soon as a railway runs to the Bay it will be utilized to the limit of climatic conditions for purposes of trans-Atlantic trade are overwhelming. The building of the line, however, must necessarily be, to some extent, a work of faith; but such was the building of the Canadian Pacific, and such is the building of the National Transcontinental. Such, in fact, has been the building of great pioneer works the world over. Canadians, up to the present, have not shown themselves to be men and women of little faith.

VALIANT SIX HUNDRED

Few Survivors of Light Brigade Are Mostly Dependent on Charity.

There are believed to be only thirty-two survivors of the rank and file who took part in the historic charge of Light Brigade at Balaclava, and of these twenty-two are in necessitous circumstances. The oldest is 86 years of age, and but for philanthropic effort he and his companions would have had their last days overshadowed by want. At a moment when the thoughts of the nation have been fixed once more upon the Crimean campaign by the death of Miss Florence Nightingale, the need for money to aid these old heroes will assuredly not be allowed to exist for a single day. It is thirteen years since Mr T. H. Roberts established the Balaclava Light Brigade Survivors Relief Fund. At the banquet then held 74 men attended, and it was discovered that several of them were spending their last days in workhouses—forgotten and neglected.

In the intervening years more than half these heroes have gone to their rest, and it is a duty which the nation owes to itself that none of the survivors shall be again permitted to need any of the simple comforts which can add a solace to their last days. The work of aiding these veterans, it need hardly be added, has lost a sympathizer and supporter in Miss Nightingale.

The money which goes to these neglected heroes is well spent. They are sent weekly pensions by post, and when at length the "Last Post" sounds each of the old men receives a decent funeral.—London Daily Telegraph.

LAST NIGHT'S MASQUERADE

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DANCE A GREAT SUCCESS

A Medly of Brilliant and Charming Costumes Mazed in Merriment at the Rink. "The Optimist" and "The Baby City" cleverly Represented.

The Masquerade Ball held under the auspices of the Prince Rupert Young People's Dancing Club last night in the Roller Skating Rink was a great success. Fully three hundred were present, onlookers and dancers. About forty couples appeared in clever costumes of various styles and brilliant coloring and when dancing was in full swing in the gaily decorated and brilliantly lighted rink the scene was a merry one, the music of the Warlitzer Orchestra adding to the festivity and pleasure of the dance.

A prize of skating admission tickets was offered and won by means of numbered tickets issued to the dancers and afterwards drawn for. The lucky number 74 was held by W. O'Neill.

Conspicuous among the numerous charming costumes was "The Optimist" cleverly designed dress in a dainty scheme of pink, with a coquettish cocked hat bearing ribbons with the title of the "Prince Rupert Optimist" printed in black upon them. Pages of The Optimist wers effectively displayed diagonally upon the skirt, and the wearer, a pretty brunette, looked as live as the paper her costume represented

The brilliant medley of costumes blended with each other merrily in the dance. Here a tall red Indian befeathered and in war paint, danced with a laughing Soubrette, there a husky Hobo paid his addresses to a frolicsome Folly in frill and furbelow. The Queen of the Fairies was there in silver crown and sparkling drapery. The Toreador, and the Gay Gitana whirled through the maze of the dancers. There were Two Little Girls in Blue (only one was a roguish youth cleverly attired to defy detection), and a bevy of other charmers charmingly costumed.

Among the men's dresses that of "Prince Rupert, The Baby City" was exceptionally clever and comical. The "baby" was one of the biggest boys on the floor, and in his infantile costume with capacious feeding bottle and fetching bonnet he fairly captured the girls!

There were baseball players, niggers, sailors and clowns galore among the men and a lively evening was spent from statrt to finish.

A pretty interlude was the clever exhibition of Highland Dancing in costume by Miss Gray, the musical accompaniment of the Messrs. Gray, senior and junior, and songs contributed during intervals in the dancing were heartily applauded.

Mr. L. Warren acted efficiently as floor master, and the dance was a great success.

Nothing makes more truoble than laying plans—except breaking them.

Prompt people lose the most time waiting for the other fellow.

OUR GREAT MINERAL WEALTH

Professor Miller, of the Ontario Department of Mines, gave us something to think over the other day when he pointed out that Mexico and the United States had produced minerals to the value of $3,000,000 per mile of their area in length, and made the deduction that there was no reason why Canada, with 1600 miles of the same Cordilleran range of mineral formation extending through British Columbia and the Yukon, should not record a similar achievement. "At present," he said, "we have the greatest undeveloped mineral territory in the world, offering the greatest opportunity to capitalists and prospectors."

THE BOYS NEGLECTED

When the police are called on by the public school board to look after the school boys it is high time the parents of this city sat up and looked to their children. The school days are the most critical in the period of any life and if parents cannot keep their boys and girls under control and hold them in proper restraint then they are not fit guardians or good citizens.

It is well known that the average boy of Prince Rupert has too much liberty on our streets. He is usually bold and sometimes bad. He has more spending money than many men in other cities and this affluence seems to give him a freedom which boys in other cities do not possess. The public school teachers now complain that owing to the night-roaming of the boys that many of them are unfit for their studies. The police commission have been called upon to take some action.

One does not need to go to the school to realize that the very young and very impressionable youth of the city spend maney hours on the streets that ought to be spent in bed. It can be noticed any night by a casual observer. There is only one outcome—many ruined lives. The appeal to the police is a deliberate rebuke to the parents who permit it.

Neglect of the boys is criminal and it is to be hoped the home authorities will not wait for the public authorities to take action. Protect your boys from the folly of following their own will and temptations.

WORKINGMEN BANQUETTED

Over Two Hundred Eat Their Thanksgiving Turkey at the Knox

The Knox hotel was the Mecca of the workingmen yesterday. The management had prepared a complimentary banquet with roast turkey and the other Thanksgiving essentials for the working men. The dinner was spread at four o'clock and it was done in Knox style which is generally recognized as the best. Between that hour and eight o'clock over two hundred partook of the menu and they were enthusiastic in their praise of the Knox and the banquet.

Their Sunday Jag

Peter Faulins and Nick Sagella ap-p3eared before Magistrate Carss thi morning charged with having been drunk and disorderly on Sunday. They pleaded guilty through an interpreter.

Chief Constable McCarvell emphasized to the court the fact that the men had been stubborn and troublesome under arrest, on the way to the police station, and for this an extra two dollars was put on the fine of $5 each or ten days' imprisonment. The fines were paid.

Big Potatoes

Louis Roth, a rancher on Porcher Island, near Refuge Bay, brought over a sample of spuds a few days ago which beat anything seen here up to date. They were Puritan variety and any one of them would make a meal for a family. Mr. Roth says all roots grow tremendously large on Porcher. He thinks it is the best land on the coast. Mr. Roth left Sunday for the South and will spend the winter in England.

The Most Remarkable Discovery of Modern Times

Like a bolt from the blue, has come amongst us a new wonder of the world. The Colossus of Rhodes, and the Pyramids of the Pharoes, sink into insignificence beside this most wonderful discovery of the twentieth century.

From the frozen wilds of the far north have been brought human remains, of prehistoric times, which will startle the civilized world.

What the public are now offered an opportunity of seeing, is not a crumbling skeleton, nor a pile of mouldering bones and hair, but the perfect body of a little ancient man, preserved through countless centuries, by some unknown agency.

There is no horror in the sight of this "Mummy."

Perfect as the specimen is in every detail, the spectator will feel only unbounded interest and wonder.

Several scientific men have seen the body. Dr. Charles A. Eggert and Professor Kincaid of the University of Washington, both expressed the greatest interest. The former, with the quick perception of the successful medical man, noted and summed up the cardinal points of interest. Dr. Eggert is of the opinion that the man could have been neither a North American Indian, nor a native of Japan. The texture of the hair shows this.

The Professor, whose authority on subjects of antiquity is unquestioned, gave it as his opinion that the man might have lived five thousand years ago. Favored indeed are we who have an opportuntiy of seeing this relic of a dim past age, before the purse strings of the mighty are loosened, and it is lost to the view of plebian eyes, and safely housed in the private musuem of some millionaire.

Mr. D. H. McInnes is to be congratulated on having secured such a valuable specimen, as it represents a fortune to him escepially if he goes over to England and travels through Europe.

HUDSON BAY ROUTE

Lands Will Pay Cost Therefore Should Be Public Owned.

Since September 1, 1908, when provision was made for the granting of pre-emption and purchased homestead entries, and July 31, last, 40,844 pre-emptions and 2,926 purchased homesteads have been recorded at the western land offices of the Dominion Government. This represents a prospective revenue of $21,009,600, exclusive of the interest which will be accruing to the government during the time that entrants are earning the title to their holdings.

This information, which is made public in the report of the Department of the Interior just issued, should comfort, at least to some extent, those timid souls in the east who are wringing their hands over the criminal extravagance of the government in spending millions in building a railway to Hudson Bay.

The $21,000,000 already in sight from the sale of pre-emptions; the millions that will accrue as deferred interest; and the many additional millions that will come into the Dominion exchequer from the sales of the remaining pre-emptions are all ear-marked to be spent in the construction of the road.

In submitting the law providing for the sale of pre-emptions, the government made it quite plain that its purpose was to make provision for the building of this road. "I am insisting on the pre-emption provision," said the Minister of the Interior, speaking in the House of Commons, June 23, 1908, "as a means of ensuring the early building of the railway to H son Bay." And again, in the same debate: "We believed that by that provision we would be enabled to raise a fund that would meet the responsibility to be undertaken because of the railway to Hudson Bay."

Ample funds from this source for the building of the road are now in sight. Our friends in the east need not worry about the cost of the railway. They will not have to meet it; nor will it be charged to posterity by means of an addition to the public debt. The West will pay for the road, outright, by the sale of lands.

As the West is to pay for the road it holds, not unreasonably, that it should be consulted in the building. It does not want its millions given to a corporation as a bonus for building a road which will then become its property. It desires a railway, built by public funds, which will remain in perpetuity a publicly-owned highway to the Northern Sea.

ENGINEER AND GLEANER MINES

TWO OF RICHEST PROPOSITIONS IN ATLIN

Splendid Showing Made by the Most Northern Mines of This Province—Milling Ore Running Thousands of Dollars to Ton.

Victoria, Oct. 26.—That the Gleaner Mining and Milling company, Atlin, B. C., is one of the richest quartz propositions of the north; that the Engineer which adjoins it is just such another find, and that both the hydraulic and placer miners of the Atlin district have done exceptionally well this summer, is the news which Mr. M. H. McCabe, proprietor of the Royal hotel, Victoria, gave in an interview yesterday afternoon. He has jest returned after spending the summer superintending development on the Gleaner, in which he is interested.

Mr. McCabe is enthusiastic in his references both to the Gleaner and the Engineer; in fact, he declares that the Atlin district is destined to come to the front in the next few years more than it has done in the past. "Everything that was said in the despatch from Vancouver concerning the Gleaner was correct," he stated. "There was no exaggeration. It was a plain statement of facts. I feel so confident that we have a splendid thing that I might be tempted to go to extremes, and I don't want to do that, because people might think I was letting loose a lot of hot air. The best way to get at the plain truth, I think, would be to await the issuance of the Dominion government's report. I am confident that it will more than bear out what has been said."

The Gleaner, Mr. McCabe says, is situated on Taku Arm. Just below on the water is the Engineer. Both are being developed just as fast as circumstances permit. On both properties the ledges are well defined, and can be traced with ease the full length of the properties. The quartz is free milling. Seventy-five sacks of the ore were brought out from the Gleaner and are being assayed at Vancouver. He believed that it would be found to run to thousands of dollars to the ton. But a definite announcement would be received some time next month.

Mr. McCabe took advantage of the opportunity to congratulate the provincial government on the steps taken to open up the Atlin district for exploitation. During the past two years a number of splendid roads, badly needed, had been constructed. As a result it was possible to bring the ore out from different properties by wagon without the slightest difficulty.

Treating Habit Begins Young

There are many who would be ready to endorse the resolution of the Church of England Synod against treating, who do not see that the habit is one that often begins outside the saloon.

Self-indulgence is not limited to the drinking of alcoholic beverages. There are many little children who every morning call at the corner grocery or the candy store on their way to school. Older brothers and sisters seldom go into town without buying ice cream or ice cream soda. These boys and girls treat one another regularly. One night last summer at eleven o'clock a party of some twenty young people sat round a table in a very brilliantly lighted and handsomely furnished room (not in Victoria) drinking ice cream soda and eating sweets. None of the party was over sixteen, many were younger. The windows were uncurtained, but probably in neighboring saloons or restaurants older men and women who could not be seen were satisfying their thirst with beverages which we are accustomed to think are less innocent.

PRINCE RUPERT THE METROPOLIS

ASPIRATIONS OF STEWART IN OUR FAVOR

Vaughn-Rhys Says There Is No Rivalry but a Desire to Make North Self-sufficing Instead of Appendage to South of Province.

T. J. Vayghn-Rhys is in town at the head of a delegation from Stewart to wait upon Premier McBride. Mr. Vaughn-Rhys is the pioneer mining engineer of this part of the country, and whatever he says has the appreciable value of the statements of an expert. He is the engineer for the two Prince Rupert mining enterprises on Portland Canal, the Main Reef and the Blue Point. In regard to these he said yesterday:

"I am very glad to be able to say that both these properties are opening up very nicely, and that the shareholders are likely to come out all right. We have been quiet for a time up at Stewart, largely due to general financial conditions but the camp is developing very well indeed and it is merely a matter of time when this steady development is going to tell and attract outside capital in our direction.

"The Portland Canal mining company's mill is one of the factors that is going to help considerably in this direction. It probably has the best concentrator in British Columbia; in fact is doing better than any mill in the province. It will demonstrate that our ores are capable of concentration. There have been many rumors that our ores could not be concentrated, so you will understand the values of the tests they have made. It was said they could not be concentrated because they were liable to slime. As a matter of fact, they are making a very high extraction, something over ninety per cent. and the concentration will be about three in one.

"The result of this is that one cause of the 'Knocking' against our ores is eliminated. The Portland Mine will begin shipping in about two weeks. They are hauling the ore now in wagons, but the engineer in charge of the railway says he will have the steel laid to Bitter creek during the winter, and the mill is only three miles and a quarter from the wharf. So the concentrates will be brought from the mill to the dock in a very short time. As soon as the Portland Mine makes its shipments, the demonstration of the values of our ores will start stocks moving up again and we shall have new capital coming in.

"Stewart is seeking incorporation at the coming session of the provincial parliament and we expect to build up a pretty town. Also a strong effort will be made to advertise not only its mineral possibilities but also the scenic features of the route. We hope by this effort to divert a good deal of the tourist trade now going to Skagway into our district. Then we shall shortly have a railway into the Naas valley and have behind us a valuable agricultural section. There are other things too, that are going to help, outside of the development of our mines, which insure to Stewart a future.

"But there has been some knocking in Prince Rupert, and the reason for this is beyond my comprehension. There is no rivalry between Stewart and Prince Rupert. On the contrary we are ready at all times to assist the growth of Prince Rupert because we are all interested in the development of the north, and it is a necessity of future progress that we must have a big central population to keep the north from being a mere appendage of the southern part of the province. If there is any sectional feeling at all developing, we would prefer it should be northern British Columbia versus southern British Columbia. We in the north should stand shoulder to shoulder, and we of Stewart are willing and eager to help build up Prince Rupert as our metropolis.

"And they all feel like that up Stewart way, Mr. Vaughn-Rhys?"

"They certainly do. That is exactly how we all feel. I am thoroughly representative of our people on this issue at any rate."

Four per cent. sure is better than eight per cent. in promise.

ASSURED FUTURE

The facts regarding the great resources of SILVER CUP MINES have been verified by hundreds of people who have recently made a personal inspection of the property, and all are as a unit in the opinion that "statements printed concerning the present worth and assured future of the enterprise have been extremely conservative." The property itself leaves an impression that cannot be had by simple statement of facts.... ....SILVER CUP MINES is unquestionably the premier mining property of Northern British Columbia. The true merit and intrinsic worth of the mine is fully recognized by every mining man in the country. Investors who take advantage of the present opportunity to acquire an interest in this splendid property should share—not two or five years from now, but within a very few months—in the large profits which this mine is capable of earning.....The special offering of treasury shares ot 12 1-2 cents per share is being taken up rapidly. An early advance iz inevitable. Call or write for full particulars.
