FAVOR EARLY START ON THE WATER WORKS SCHEME

Probable Cost of Acropolis Hill Reservoir, Pipe Line to Shawatlans Lake, Distribution System and Temporary Pumping Plant is Put at About $173,000 by the City Engineer----He Wants to Commence Without Delay

At the council meeting last night the hydro-electric question came upon a report of the city engineer covering his visit to Seattle and Victoria. The engineer was present and during the evening he gave information as to when he expected to get the system working if the construction were undertaken at once.

The report stated that Mr. Thompson, the consulting engineer, approved of the substitution of steel pipe for wooden at Lake Woodworth. He also approved of the concrete dam instead of the wooden one. There were several other points that had been presented before him and to which he gave ready consent.

In Victoria assent was obtained to carrying the work over government land and the public health department seemed agreeable to allowing the trees to stand on the submerged parts of the shore line.

Cost of Work

The cost of the work remaining to be done was pust by Colonel Davis at $92,530, which did not include $73,874 worth of pipe already ordered for the work but which included the distribution system. This covered the work from Acropolis Hill reservoir, which was also included to Shawatlan's Lake with the pumps in stalled there for pumping the water into the city until the work was completed to Woodworth Lake. The city engineer placed this estimate as a conservative one. Including about $6,000 already expended, the total cost for this part of the undertaking, leaving out the pipe ordered, would be less than $100,000.

In the estimate given the cost of the reservoir was put at $17,780. The submerged pipe would cost $6,100, while the pipe from the passage to Shawatlans Lake was put at $8,500.

Employing Men

He suggested in his report that about forty men should be started to work at once so as to complete what remained to be done in the two months' time, when it was expected the pipe would be here. He proposed also to set nine men at work clearing the pipe line from the Passage to Shawatlans so as to have that work ready in time. The pipe for this, he thought, should be ordered at once.

A Salmon Question

Alderman Morrissey called attention to the fact that he had been informed that salmon went up in the summer to Shawatlans and died there. This would contaminate the water.

Alderman Montgomery thought that the salmon that went up there returned to salt water.

The opinion of Colonel Davis being sought, the city engineer said that he had not seen many dead salmon there. He thought the whole difficulty could be overcome by placing a screen in at the entrance to the lake.

Date of Completing

On the matter of the time for completion of the work the engineer said that he wanted to bring it forward as fast as it could be done.

Alderman Maitland said that nine years ago there was just such a winter as this, with no snow on the hills. All the canneries had to close that summer for lack of water. There would not be water enough on the island for the city and the cold storage, which would be ready by June.

The engineer was a fraid that water enough for the city and the cold storage might be a difficulty. He had had one of engineers making investigations to see if there was not some supply of water near to the cold storage that would serve it.

Colonel Davis further stated that if the work started at once he thought he could get this part of the supply completed by the end of the year. Work would have to bebegun, however, at once.

Estimate of Cost

Alderman Clayton thought that before this could be intelligently dealt with it would be necessary to have some idea of the cost from Shawatlans to Woodworth.

Colonel Davis said this brought the cost well within the estimate of $550,000.

On the question of giving employment to four men, Alderman Maitland thought it would be better to start work from one end to the other. There were many married men wanting work. If only forty men were

SYSTEM OF UNDERGROUND WIRING MAY BE ADOPTED

In the Meantime the Intention is to Allow the Poles on the Streets as the Least Expensive Way of Carrying on the Work----If Put In Alleys Cost Would be Nearly Three Times as Great as the Other Way

It is suggested that before very long Prince Rupert may have its electric wires placed underground as is done in other metropolitan cities. That this move is actually under consideration and may soon become accomplished was hinted at by Alderman Clayton, the chairman of the Light, Power and Telephone Committee at the council meeting last night.

The new electrical superintendent, Mr. Matthews, is giving very careful attention to the work under his charge and from the remark of Alderman Clayton this subject appears to have been considered by him.

The matter of placing additional poles for lighting came up last night, when Mr. Matthews presented a report which advocated placing the poles on the streets instead of in the lanes, from the standpoint of economy. The number of poles required if the lines were carried along the alleys would be, when compared with the carrying of the wires along the streets as 11 is to 5.

In view of the fact that the poles would have to be carried by hand into the alleys and other expenses would be involved the relative cost of the two systems was put at nearly 3 to 1, the street line system being the cheaper.

Adopted Report

Alderman Clayton in moving the adoption of the report said he did so not as standing for this becoming a permanent system but in order to avoid the heavy expense that would be entailed. There would be a large expense in carrying the poles by hand. Later there would be a move to have these poles removed and the wires placed underground on the streets. This was something which he hoped come to see done here.

New Equipment

Later in the evening there was a report from Mr. Matthews with respect to the equipment being furnished for the new units in the electric lighting station. There were defects to his mind in the attaching of some pulleys to the shafting. He advised acquainting the company with the fact.

This was agreed to.

YEAR IN LUMBER

January Makes Excellent Showing in the Matter of Receipts From the Forrest Lands

British Columbia's Timber Affords a Big Income—Inquiries as to the Amounts Secured

During the single month of January just at an end a total of upwards of a quarter of a million dollars was brought to the provincial treasury through the various operations of the timber branch of the Lands Department, the exact figures as to revenue being $253,606.20. This large amount includes $231,611.20 from timber licenses alone, there having been 847 issued for lands west of the Cascade range, producing in charges the sum of $129,127.40, and 815 for lands east of the Cascades, with receipts of $102,483.80. Timber license transfer fees aggregated $310, penalties $1,650, 176 coal prospecting licenses $19,450, and coal prospecting license transfer fees $585.

In the event of the January record being sustained, 1912 promises to eclipse even the year recently closed, which is in its turn set a new mark for British Columbia timber, both as to the cut and the royalty collected. During the past year the timber cut from provincial lands totalled 1,100,000,000 feet, as compared with a total of 936,000,000 feet in 1910. Estimating the cost of production at $15 per M feet, the expenditure in manufacture of the 1911 timber cut of British Columbia reached $16,500,000. Of the total cut 45,000,000 feet only were exported to the United States. The total collection for the year in royalties and taxes, exclusive of rentals, was $444,3333, compared with $393,598 for the previous twelve-months.

THE ACTING MAYOR

Alderman Douglas, in addition to holding the purse strings of the city, will be acting mayor next week. On motion of Alderman Kerr and Alderman Bullock-Webster he was elected to that position last night, Mayor Newton being called to Victoria in company with the city solicitor.

Alderman Douglas was as demure as a maiden of sixteen under the embarrassing situation while the motion was going through. With a radiant smile which was infectious he later acknowledged the honor done him.

MAY NOT EXTRADITE

Bank Robbers May Not Be Brought to Canada to Answer Crime

Victoria, Feb. 9.—Although nothing officially has been received from New York, it is generally believed in the attorney general's department that the evidence against McNamara and Dean, the men alleged to be the robbers of the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster, is not sufficient to secure extradition.

It is thought the Pinkertons have not been able to make out a strong enough case. The third man arrested recently in Chicago in connection with the case has been given his liberty, the attorney general not considering the evidence strong enough to commence extradition proceedings.

GROUNDHOG COAL

Early Start is Being Made to Get Supplies Into This Famous District

Twenty Dog Teams Have Left Hazelton With Material for Ore Company

It is evident that the Groundhog Mountain Coal region will be fully exploited this year. Already reports have been received that supplies are being arranged for the district so that an early start may be made in the spring in this most promising area. The Omineca Herald says:

Frank Jackson arrived in town last week after a trip into the Ground Hog coal country, where he went to prepare the way for the first supplies. This week Mr. Jackson started twenty dog teams of four dogs each off on the trail for the B. C. Anthracite location.

The teams carried in four tons of supplies and they will go up the river, which is much the best way to travel. The river is now in good shape for travelling and the dog train will arrive at its destination in about twenty-five days.

With the supplies six men also went in and they will start to work immediately on the development. The supplies include several drills and other plant as well as the grub for the men. This will last until he can get in a pack train after the snow is gone.

Mr. Jackson leaves for a trip to Vancouver and Victoria and when he returns he will arrange for taking in more goods.

This is the first train of many that will go into that country from Hazelton between now and the summer.

LICENSE BOARD

Private Meeting of the New Body Held Yesterday Afternoon to Discuss Matters

Council Deals With One Point Which Was Reported to It Last Night

The new License Board, consisting of Mayor Newton, Alderman Kerr and Dr. Cade, held its first meeting yesterday afternoon. The meeting was a private one not open to the public. One recommendations was made to the council from that body last night. It was that the licenses of bartenders should not be issued until referred to the chief of police.

When the recommendation came up before the council Alderman Clayton asked how these licenses were issued in the past.

The mayor said that it had been found that some licenses had been issued without due consideration. It was the intention to have the chief of police pass upon each of these.

Alderman Clayton did not see that the council had anything to do with this. This was something that came within the power of the commission.

The recommendation was carried.

MAKING GOOD TIME

Cy Peck Tells of Progress on the Line of Grand Trunk Pacific Along the Skeena

He Is Optimistic of the Future of the Interior Country About Hazelton

Cy Peck is back to the city again from Hazelton. Being interested in New Hazelton, he spent some time there looking into conditions. Mr. Peck is satisfied that the coming summer will be one of activity in the interior and expects to see a lot of people go in.

At the Skeena River bridge the construction company is making good progress. The land butements are in, while the foundations for the river piers are well advanced. In one of these the cement is being put in, while the other caisson is in place and the excavating is progressing preparatory to starting on the cement filling. Both will be finished in good time before trouble is experienced from the water.

Along the line where track laying is in progress the company has a large foce and are certainly making an excellent showing considering the difficulties that have to be encountered through the snow fall.

A. E. McMaster, Mrs. McMaster and Mrs. McMastershrdlu shrdluuu and Miss McMaster went south yesterday. The two latter will go east.

CITY ASSESSMENT

The city assessor was authorized by resolution at the council meeting last night to begin the assessmnt of the city and to have it completed by April 1.

THE RESERVOIR

The Acropolis Hill reservoir will be ready for the cement lining in six weeks or two months, the engineer says. When completed water will be turned into it without waiting for the completion of the system to Shawatlans Lake. It can be pumped full from Morse Creek and afford protection from fire to the residents in the congested parts of the city.

The reservoir should be of decided advantage but we hope the engineer will take no chances in the construction that will render it defective. A few hundreds or even thousands of dollars spent at the first will be easily saved if the basin is made absolutely water tight.

We have no reason to doubt the ability of the city engineer. We have confidence enough in him to know that he will provide for a reservoir that is adequate in every respect. But sometimes city councils become economical and engineers give way to this spirit of saving at the expense of efficiency.

On this coast there is a glaring example of a defective reservoir which is lined with cement. It is in Victoria where for three or four years the city has been trying to correct the defects. From the start the basin has leaked and while there have been improvements made in it, the reservoir is still a troublesome question there.

That work was carried out under a very efficient engineer and yet defects exist. All kinds of theories have been advanced and remedies tried but still the water refuses to stay in it.

Prince Rupert cannot afford to make a mistake like that which was made in the capital city.

SCHOOL DANCE

Twenty-Two Couples Took Part in Evening's Entertainment—Teachers Graced the Hall

For two or three weeks the young misses of Principal Hunter's room in the Public School have been preparing for the dance that was held last evening in the Church of England Hall. To the function, which passed off most delightfully, were invited the boys of the room and a few others. In all, about twenty-five couples were present and not a dull moment passed from the opening of the dance until 12:30, when it came to an end—all too soon for the young people present.

The arrangements for the function were carried out by the girls of the room themselves and were well looked after. The hall was nicely decorated and the refreshments were of the finest order, thanks in part to older sisters and indulgent mothers. The committee in charge included Misses Alice Carss, Phyllis McCoskrie, Margaret oung and Genevieve Macdonald, who certainly performed their duties in a most creditable manner. The girls appeared in fancy costumes, presenting a very pretty appearance and surprising many of their friends.

The chaperones were Mrs. McCoskrie, Mrs. Young, Miss Carss and Mrs. Hunter.

Principal Hunter, Mr. Code, Miss Milligan, Miss Mercer, Miss Johnstone and Miss Manning of the teaching staff were present, as well as a number of the parents. Excellent music was furnished by Mr. Gottstein.

Before closing the boys gathered together and showed their gallantry by three rousing cheers for the girls.

CHARACTERISTIC PUNCHES

Since Jack Johnson has signed for a championship battle with Jim Flynn there have been discussions as to the sleep-producing power of his right uppercut. This punch is Johnson's favorite blow, being the instruments which forced the late Stanley Ketchel to take the count. Also Johnson landed this right uppercut in the region of Jeffries' jaw at Reno. He relies on his right hand to finish a battle. Going back through pugilistic history one can find many instances of fighters who were not at all different from Johnson.

Some sixty years ago Tom Hyer won the championship of America with straight hitting from the shoulder. He punched like a battering ram with either hand, and in this way beat down Yankee Sullivan, who was one of the trickiest fighters who ever stepped into a ring. Hyer seldom hooked or crossed at the present boxer is accustomed to, and probably is the only man who ever wholly employed a straight punch in a battle.

Sullivan Had One Blow

John L. Sullivan won the heavyweight championship of the world with a right swing to the jaw. Sullivan was a "one two" boxer, leading with his left to the body and head and trying to get an opening for his right swing. He did not have the science of the present day boxer, who uses similar tactics. He bored in like a bull infuriated by a pickador, and beat down his opponent by brute strength. One who could avoid Sullivan's right hand generally gave him considerable trouble. Charley Mitchell and Jake Kilrain made Sullivan work thirty-nine and seventy-five rounds, respectively, for no other reason than they stood clear of his right hand swing.

James Corbett humbled, pummeled and defeated Sullivan, making him hit nothing but air with his right swing. Sullivan's lack of pugilistic skill in that memorable battle was the cause of his downfall. He had but one punch and Corbett was scientific and agile enough to avoid it. Corbett's best blow was a sharp, cutting left to the jaw, which he landed with great rapidity. It did not carry the knockout sting, but chopped the recipient to pieces and wore him the point of exhaustion. Corbett used his right on defence the greater part of the time.

A snappy, short, left hand wallop stopped many men for Jack Dempsey. Rushing sluggers never lasted long for him, for usually they ran into his left on the first rush. Dempsey had an educated and damaging right, but he used it but little, seeming favoring that side of him and using his right for defensive work, as did Corbett.

Gans a Two-Hander

Joe Gans employed a finishing right hand hook which made him famous. Gans, though, was an artist in the fistic game and one of the best two handed fighters the sport has ever known. Gans not only had a favorite punch, but he thought out a battle before he started. In his championship affair with Frank Erne, Gans outguessed Erne in feints. Erne had a conquering way of pulling back a few inches in a feint and then landing. Gans planned, therefore, to feint simultaneously and to hook his right to the jaw as Erne pulled back. This is exactly what happened and Gans scored one of the cleanest knockouts on record.

Robert Fitzsimmons and the solar plexus blow are synonymous. It was the left hand shift with the stomach and jaw as stopping points that won the championship of the world for "Ruby Robert." He stopped with that left hand blow, Hall, Maher, Creedon and Sharkey, and he landed it on Jeffries, but broke his hand trying to make the big Calfornian stop. Half-arm jolts with either hand also won many victories for Fitzsimmons.

Jeffries was essentially a left hand fighter and his best "meal ticket' a rigid left hand hood. This cannon ball punch stopped Fitzsimmons, Ruhlin, Corbett and Munroe. In each instance he reached the body with the punch and he followed quickly to the jaw. Sharkey sustained several broken ribs from the force of this left punch.

Dropped as Though Shot

Stanley Ketchel was a wonderfully hard hitter, his left swing following a feint and shift dropping most of his opponents as though they had been shot. Johnson received the full effects of this blow when he met Ketchell, and, although he was not knocked out, he was sent off his feet and carried a lump on his chin for several days after. Ketchel's style was awkward. He lacked the science of self-protection and was forced to take much protection because of it. Ketchel was built to stand the hard usage, and he managed to survive some hard beatings.

A twist of the wrist featured the punch styled the "corkscrew," which Kid McCoy used for his "K. O." Though but a small man in build and frail always, McCoy knocked out many of the heavyweights with this peculiar blow. With this punch he cut his man to pieces, forcing each to take the count through loss of cuticle and blood.

Battling Nelson introduced many "bad uns" to the fistic art. His "half scissors hook," plunging the side of the hand with the thumb and forefinger on top of the rival's liver, created pain. His "whiskers punch," going without a shave for a week and running the bristly beard in the eyes of the opponent, hurt the other fellow's eyesight and gave "Bat" an advantage. Also his "wire hair" punch, rubbing the top of his head across the opponent's eyes, gave Bat the same advantage.

The kidney punch, so called, is used by almost every boxer, but as a matter of fact it is misnamed, for the blow is generally landed in the small of the back below the proper place. It would be more proper to style it a solar plexus blow, for it hurts the same organs when landed.

FAVOR EARLY START ON WATER WORKS SCHME

engaged there would be a lot left without work.

Alderman Clayton referred to the fact that this brought up the old question, the discussion of which had obliged them to call in outside help at the council board. If this was to be left as decided to the city engineering department the department should be left free handed.

The city engineer said that he was preparer to put more men to work if they wanted the work finished quicker.

Alderman Montgomery thought the engineer would be ready to carry out the work properly. The engineer could start with the two gangs and then add more men as the occasion demanded.

Alderman Maitland pointed out that by starting the work at different places the men living in the different sections could be given work.

The engineer said he was agreeable to putting on more men and completing the work sooner.

The Reservoirs

Some questions were asked the engineer as to Acropolis Hill. The engineer said that the work there was now costing $2.86 a yard instead of $3.05 as at first. Inside of about two months or probably in six weeks that work would be done. The concrete work would then start and the reservoir would be ready in about four months' time It could be used before that from Morse Creek.

Will Try Day Labor

Clauses in the original report of the Public Works Committee dealing with the hydro-electric undertaking were disposed of, one recommending that contracts be 'et for the pipe laying from Shawatlans to Woodworth, which Alderman Morissey had introduced was laid over.

Alderman Montgomery said they would try out the day labor system on the other part first.

The motion to lay it over carried, with Alderman Morrissey and Alderman Clayton voting against it.

GOING TO VICTORIA

On a brief report presented by the Finance Committee last night at the council meeting the decision was reached that the mayor and the city solicitor should proceed to Victoria on important public business. That was all that was given the public.

The report was adopted without discussion, and the two will go south on Sunday. Presumably the mission is in connection with the validating of the hydro-electric bylaw.

Monarch MALLEABLE The "Stay Satisfactory" Range

Good, Sound Reasons for MONARCH Economy

Monarch Ranges are built so that they can never have "air leaks"—
For around every opening into the body there is a Malleable Iron frame to which the steel is rivated.
No putty is needed in such joints. They are air tight when new and stay air tight.
If these other ranges were built in this way they might be economical too.
Investigate this matter of rivet construction versus stove bolts and stove putty. It's important to every one using or buying a range.
