JOHN MAY IS FOUND GUILTY

SENTENCED TO BE HANGED AT WESTMINSTER JAIL ON MARCH 5.

Prisoner Broke Down and Wept When Judge Passed Sentence Upon Him.

John May, the Hazelton Indian who has been on trial for the murder of Albert Taylor at the Sealey Gulch bridge on September 28 last, was yesterday afternoon found guilty. He was thereupon sentenced to death by Mr. Justice Clement, the execution to take place at the New Westminster jail on March 5. The condemned man maintained his innocence even after, the verdict of the jury was announced.

His Lordship was visibly affected in having to pass sentence upon the man. The jury retired about 4 o'clock. Shortly before 5 they returned for further instruction by the judge as to the interpretation in the code of murder and manslaughter. At five minutes past 5 they again returned with their verdict, which they informed the court was one of murder.

His Lordship informed the prisoner that he had been found guilty by the jury. He asked if he had anything to say.

The prisoner, who had showed no emotion but stood motionless throughout the proceedings, asked for an interpreter.

Rev. W. E. Collison, who had acted as interpreter earlier in the day, came forward and interpreted what His Lordship said.

May replied to the question through the interpreter: "I have nothing to say except that I am not guilty."

His Lordship told the prisoner he had had a very fair trial and that he had been very ably defended. He had no other course open but to pronounce the sentence of the law upon him.

Mr. Justice Clement then proceeded to pass sentence upon the prisoner in the regular form. He informed May that he be committed to the New Westminster jail until Friday, March 5, 1915, when he should be taken to the place of execution and hanged by the neck until dead.

At this point His Lordship's voice failed him. The interpreter repeated the words in the Indian language to

Germans Plans Have Been Changed Again In Polish Terrritory

Petrograd, Dec. 8.—German aviators continue to drop bombs into Lodz. According to the latest reports the town hall, three large factories and forty-seven houses have been destroyed. Thirty persons have been killed and twenty-one wounded.

The Bourse Gazette reports on high authority that the defence of Cracow has been stiffended by German troops.

The German plan of using only German troops in the northern campaign along the Vistula, sending all the Austrians to defend Cracow, has been changed. The need of reinforcements had caused the Germans to withdraw the Austrians from Cracow to Lodz.

UNITED STATES FISHING CRAFT SHIPS CATCH FROM THIS PORT

The Prospector Arrived Yesterday With Nearly Fifty Thousand Pounds Of Halibut Which Was Put In Refrigerator Cars And Leaves For Boston By Today's Express Over The G.T.P.---The Beginning Of Business That Will Be Built Up From Fishing Boats Operating In The North

This morning the G.T.P. carries east by express two carloads of fresh halibut caught in United States bottoms in Alaskan waters which are first of that line of trade. It is confidently expected it will not be the last. In reality this is expected to be but the beginning of an immense trade in this line.

The fish was brought in by the gasoline schooner Prospector, Captain H. A. Andrews. The Prospector plies out of Ketchikan under the New England Fish Company. The shipment was brought into Prince Rpert yesterday, there being about 47,200 pounds on board.

The fish were at once transferred to express refrigerator cars at the Government Wharf and prepared ready for shipment this morning under the charge of Supt. Nunan of the Atlin Fisheries, who was in no small measure responsible for inducing the trial shipment to be made from here. There were 118 boxes which will be carried to the Boston market without delay. This occupies two cars.

In view of the excellent manner in which all previous shipments have been made over the G.T.P. it is expected the fish will reach Boston in the pink of condition and with a very considerable saving of time. It is hoped that with the proving of this route as the proper one to make shipments by the whole catch of the Ketchikan fleet will go east by this route.

The immense fishing opportunities of Alaska in common with those of this Northern British Columbia coast will find in Prince Rupert the most advantageous route by which to ship to the markets of the east. The trade is but beginning. Through Prince Rupert the United States fish goes in bond the same as from the southern Canadian ports, so that there is no advantage gained by the carrying of the catches south. The saving of a very long haul is effected by the landing of the fish here and sending it east by this route.

APPEAL POSSIBLE.

An appeal in the case of Rex vs. John May is possible. There are some points which were raised by the counsel for the defence as the case was in progress that may be used as a basis for appeal. One of these is that relating to the signed statement of Joseph May going before the jury, which was objected to. A. Carss raised the point as to appeal being allowed before sentence was passed when His Lordship stated that the points raised were still open to appeal.

JOHN MAY.

the prisoner, who made no show of feeling.

His Lordship then added the words, "and may the Lord have mercy on your soul," at which he had faltered before.

Following that the prisoner was led out and taken to the city lock-up, where he will be held until he can be transferred to New Westminster.

The prisoner, while he bore up without any visible signs of emotion until the death sentence was given immediately broke into tears as he turned to leave the prisoner's docket and appeared otherwise to feel the position he was in. This continued as he passed to the jail and after he entered.

All day yesterday the case was before the Assize Court. Opening at 10:30 all the witnesses for the Crown had been heard before noon, court adjourned in fact at 11:30 to allow counsel for the defence to consult relative to the conduct of the case. No evidence was called for the prisoner, the counsel relying upon the absence of direct evidence against him. His Lordship complimented the counsel for the defence and laid stress upon the able address of Adair Carss before the jury.

Upon the opening of court, W. E. Fisher had George Beirnes recalled. He testified that a fifteen and a half shirt was bought instead of a sixteen, as the shirt was generally worn open.

Dr. Macaulay being called produced a detailed report of the condition of the body as he examined it in the morgue at Hazelton. There were many wounds on the body, evidently inflicted with a knife. The most serious wounds were two in the throat, from the right ear downwards, severing the jugular vein. These wounds alone would have been sufficient to cause death. There was also a cut several inches long on the left forearm and one on the thumb. The two stabs in the back, although serious, touched no vital organs.

The opinion of the witness was that death occurred from ten to twenty hours before his examination. He thought it very improbable that they were self-inflicted. The knife was probably two-edged and had a broad blade.

Provincial Officer Cline testified to having searched the house of James May, the father of the accused, about 3 o'clock on September 29. This house is about 600 feet from the corner of the New Hazelton road, on the way to the ferry. He found the accused, who lived with his father, in bed, and on his trunk beside the bed a pair of trousers, very wet. There were stains on the trousers. He found a leather cuff in the house. This was very like the one found near the dead body, and was apparently stained with blood. The accused appeared quite dazed, as if recovering from a drinking bout.

The police told him to get up and he got up and said, "Who squealed on me?" John's father grumbled and said he didn't want them around at all. The witness backed the old man into a corner while the other constable took John in charge.

Joseph May, a brother of the accused, being called as a witness it was found necessary to enlist the services of an interpreter. Rev. W. E. Collinson was sworn as interpreter.

The witness recalled September 28. John May, the accused, who lived with them at Hazelton, was around Hazelton on the morning of that day. He admitted that John went for a ride with Maria Powell. He was not sure as to the time, but he thought it was a little before 4 o'clock. John May after he came back let the two horses out into the field. He did not see the accused again until about midnight when he (the accused) came back.

The clothing of the prisoner being produced, witness said he did not know the trousers; the coat looked like John's; he did not know whether the cuffs were his brother's; the hat found near the body looked like John's; the shirt found on the trail he did not think was John's.

When asked by Mr. Fisher if witness did not make a different statement as to the shirt at the preliminary hearing in Hazelton, the witness said he did not understand the question.

Further questioning brought from the witness that the chief at Hazelton asked him if he would know John May's shirt. He had said he would. The shirt was upstairs at the time. When he saw the shirt he did not know it.

Mr. Fisher asked if witness did not sign a written statement as to the ownership of the shirt.

Witness replied that he signed it but he did not know very well what it was. He admitted he could write and read English. The statement was read to him. He did not read it.

Asked by Mr. Fisher if John May had not told him to say the shirt was not his (John May's), witness denied this.

Mr. Fisher asked if John on Wednesday last in the presence of Chief Gammon had not told him what to say in evidence.

Witness admitted what was done.

Mr. Fisher asked him to produce the evidence he had written to give.

This was produced and handed to His Lordship, who after reading it said he did not think it was very important.

A series of questions was asked as to answers given.

Questioned by Mr. Fisher without the aid of the interpreter, witness said that he was about 19 years of age. He had been going to school but not all the time. He was now in the third reader and in arithmetic did addition, multiplication, fractions and averages.

Cross-examined by Mr. Peters, witness said that when his brother came home about midnight there was no light in the house. The blinds were down. His brother had no knife with a blade about an inch wide.

Asked by His Lordship if the father had a knife, witness said he had not. They had some butcher knives in the house. That was all.

Further questioned by His Lord-

JOHN MAY.

ship, witness said John May did not go hunting.

In reply to Mr. Peters, witness said he did not know that John took any of these knives away with him.

James Mead, provincial officer, remembered October 10, before the preliminary hearing. A statement was signed by Joseph May in the presence of Chief Minty.

Chief Minty testified that the statement signed by Joseph May was read to him by himself (Chief Minty).

The court adjourned at 11:30 until 2 o'clock.

Upon resuming in the afternoon Mr. Peters said that he had decided in view of the weakness of the case of the Crown to call no witnesses.

Mr. Fisher in addressing the jury contended that the case was not as weak as it was represented. He recalled the circumstantes connected with the movements of the accused. He traced the movements of the two men, Taylor and the accused, who had been drinking. The connection with the ferry and with the boat of George Beirnes were all alluded to. He said it was clear that the two men were at the South Hazelton station. The Indian, the accused, offered a drink to a railway official. Taylor was undoubtedly the other man, who, knowing he should be on duty, tried to conceal himself from him. The two men started off down towards the bridge.

Taylor had the hat and coat of the accused on. Mr. Fisher showed that the pieces of the neck of a bottle found near the body fitted into the bottle that was left in the boat of George Beirnes.

Reading the statement signed by Joseph May made before Chief Minty it was argued that the shirt belonged to John May. The statement said John May returned home at twenty minutes to 1. He had only his underclothes on. His trousers were wet, indicating that he had washed the parts to obliterate the marks of blood.

It was evident that the men were drinking. They had exchanged coats. The Indian had the bottle when last seen. It was free to suppose that Taylor wanted the bottle and the Indian wished to take it home. A scuffle probably followed, and Taylor, according to the wounds described by the doctor, had probably been severely wounded across the nose. There were evidences of a very severe struggle. The Indian had a knife and Taylor had none. His thumb was sliced in defending himself against the knife of his assailant. The man's forearm was cut also. He was cut across the mouth. To his mind it was after getting the cut across the throat that he went down. The hatred of the assailant is shown by the stabs inserted in the back after he went down.

The Indian, having done the deed, started for the boat. The Indian was still drunk and started back. He took off his shirt and threw it away. When he came to the boat he found only one oar. He went to the ferry to get an oar from there. He expected to find the ferry locked. Finding the ferry not locked he took it across, forgetting about the things he left in the boat farther down.

The only wet clothes in the house when search was made next day were the man's trousers. It is evident that he attempted to wash the blood marks off the trousers.

Adair Carss, in addressing the jury on behalf of the prisoner, said he did not place much credit on the supposition that it was John May that was heard talking when drunk because the language of the man sounded like Siwash. Drunken men's language might be taken sometimes for any language.

The coat that the man Taylor wore when stabbed was the coat of the accused. It was not peculiar that the hat of the accused should be worn also. The finding of the shirt was little to be wondered at. It was a class of shirt worn by many in the district.

The murderer of Taylor was more likely to get blood on his shirt than on his trousers.

Referring to the evidence of Joseph May, Mr. Carss contended that the Crown tried to discredit the statements of the boy. If they did, then his evidence was not to be believed on any point. It was more likely that he was telling the truth when he said he did not notice what John May had on when he came in as it was dark at the time, rather than when the police wrote what they wanted him to say and got him to sign it.

If the jury believed all that was put forth by the Crown this man shed the evidences of his crime from the very body of the victim to his home. That was the work of a madman or else of another designing person. It were better to have several guilty men escape than have one innocent man suffer. The jury must be perfectly satisfied in the matter of circumstantial evidence. It was dangerous to place too much confidence as to matters of time and casual conversations. Circumstances could become most pliant in the hands of those who wished to mould them.

Presuming that the man was guilty and that they were drinking together, the Indian would have been able to have got madly drunk. The man who was killed was guilty of an offence if it were true that he gave the liquor to the Indian. That man was guilty of having caused his own destruction.

His Lordship in charging the jury remarked upon the fact that it was a most solemn act. A Canadian citizen had been brutally murdered, it appeared. It was a crime against society and should be traced home Circumstantial evidence was often more cogent than direct evidence. They were not administering divine justice but human justice. It was not often that one man murdered another in the presence of witnesses. If the circumstances put in in evidence were such as to be capable of explanation and were not explained by the defence it was justifiable to accept the facts.

His Lordship explained the legal side of murder and manslaughter.

Drunkenness was no excuse for murder unless it were clearly proved that the man was incapable of realizing.

If the jury concluded that Taylor and May reached the place of the murder together they would have to conclude as to whether the crime was committed by the accused.

It was possible for the Crown to have established beyond a doubt that the stains alleged to be blood marks were such. The Crown should have done this beyond all peradventure.

The law did not require them as jurymen to know all the facts. They must not be agitated by the doubts that a mistake may be made. They must be satisfied beyond all reasonable doubt. As Mr. Carss had said in his excellent address, said His Lordship, were the chain of circumstances compatible with innocence because in many instances the same set were equally compatible with guilt? A man was to be believed innocent until proved guilty.

The jury retired, later bringing in a verdict of guilty.

Every bottle is Pasteurized and inspected. This Quality-Plant, started nearly 50 years ago, is a model of modern facilities.

The hundreds of visitors who go through every day know that nothing of its kind could be made any better than Budweiser.

Parsonage: 632 6th Ave. W.; Church: 6th Ave. and Musgrave Place. British Columbia Conference; Rev. J. F. Dimmick, Pastor.

Prince Rupert, B.C., April 9, 1914.

MR. HARRY HANSON,
"The Reliable Plumber," Prince Rupert, B.C.:

Dear Sir,—I have great pleasure in certifying to the excellent hot water and heating system that you installed in our parsonage and that after six months of operation through the winter months it has given every satisfaction.

The system heats a thirty-gallon tank of water to boiling temperature in one hour after the fire has been started; it in no way interferes with the oven for baking purposes. In addition to this the wall radiator which you placed in dining room and connected with the range boiler has given us splendid satisfaction, supplying us with ample heating throughou the winter, saving us the cost of a stove and fuel. I most heartily testify to the satisfaction and efficiency of your system and gladly recommend it.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) (REV.) J. F. DIMMICK.

Rexall

The Rexall Stores of Canada

CONTRIBUTE TO

The Canadian Patriotic Fund

THE Rexall Stores of Canada, 400 of the leading Drug Stores in Canada have unanimously agreed to contribute to the Canadian Patriotic Fund, FIVE PER CENT. of their total purchases of all Rexall Toilet Goods, Rexall Remedies and other merchandise manufactured or sold by he United Drug Company, Limited, Toronto, from October 15th o December 31st, 1914.

This action of the Rexall Drug Stores of Canada has been undertaken co-operatively, because as a co-operative organization, they realize how much more can be done unitedly than individually, and it has been taken for two reasons—to fulfill a humane duty in raising a fund for the relief work of the Canadian Patriotic Organization, and a patriotic duty in an endeavor to keep a large staff of Canadian employees busy.

The 400 Rexall Stores of Canada make an appeal to your sympathy and support in their doubly worthy cause for increasing the funds of th Canadian Patriotic Organization and for the support o Canadian workmen because:—The fund that would be raised on the basis of last year's business can be tremendously increased if every man and woman in Canada will help a little by the simple process of purchasing Rexall Goods at the Rexall Stores.

No need to give space in this announcement to emphasize the high quality of Rexall Toilet and Medicinal goods. Sufficient to say that 7,000 of the leading Drug Stores in Canada, Great Britain, and the United States place their personal and collective reputations behind them; that the public in these countries endorse them to the extent of several million dollars worth of purchases a year.

Better goods are not made, and you take no risk in buying, for every Rexall Store will return you your money if any Rexall Product is not entirely satisfactory and do it, too, without the slightest objection.

There's a full list of Rexall products waiting for you at the Rexall Store in your town.

Ask for it—kindly pass he word along to your friends. It is the collective purchases of all that will make this Rexall Store Fund for the Canadian Patriotic Organization work a big one.

The Fund will be collecte from each Rexall Store in Canada by the United Drug Company, Limited, Toronto, and will be paid by them direct to the officers of the Canadian Patriotic Organization, and the amount so collected will be published in this paper when paid over.

REXALL GOODS ARE MADE IN CANADA and you can procure them in your town only from
