PRESENTMENT OF THE GRAND JURY

MR. JUSTICE MACDONALD THINKS THERE IS EVERY REASON FOR OPTIMISM

He Made Reference To The War And The Sacrifices That Would Have To Be Made.

Yesterday afternoon the Grand Jury made its presentment, completing the work of that body in all probability. The presentment was as follows:

Prince Rupert, Dec 3, 1915.

The Hon. Mr. Justice MacDonald:

Your Lordship,

We, the Grand Jury duly appointed, do on this, your first official visit to Prince Rupert, extend to you a welcome and hope that your sojourn will be a pleasant one.

Your observations on the scarcity of crime in this district is a source of satisfaction to us, as it must also be to the community.

We beg to submit that we have visited the following Public Buildings:—The City Goal, Fire Hall, Reading Room, Borden Street School, Hospital and King Edward School.

The City Goal, Reading Room and Fire Hall we found to be in satisfactory condition.

Regarding the Borden Street School we recommend that better fire protection be provided i.e that a flight of steps be put up from the ground to the landing at the foot of the fire escape on the east end of the building, and that hose be attached to the stand pipe on each floor.

The Hospital we found to be a credit to the city.

With reference to the King Edward School we strongly advise that better ventilation be provided in the basement, the walks to the toilets be screened, and that the necessary requisites be provided therein. We also recommend that the play-ground be improved. Fire Drill was performed

German Attaches At Washington Must Leave

Washington, Dec. 3.—The immediate withdrawal of Captain Boyed and Captain Franz Von Papen, respectively naval and military attache to the German Embassy here, has been requested by the State Department. In making the formal announcement of this, Secretary Lansing said the attaches had rendered themselves persona non-grata to the United States by their improper activities in connection with naval and military matters.

The request was made three days ago through the German Ambassador.

Will Take Off Limit To Lines In Trolling As Asked For Locally And Other Concessions Are Likely To Come

The sitting of F. H. Cunningham and D. N. McIntyre as members of the Fisheries Advisory Board from British Columbia came to a conclusion last evening. The sitting has been attended with a splendid promise of concessions in the interests of fishing here. The two commissioners will leave for the south this morning. The sitting last evening did not conclude until near midnight.

The request made for the taking off of the limit from the number of lines used on a boat in trolling for salmon received favorable consideration, and an assurance was given of the granting of this. On other points the visitors showed keen appreciation of the arguments raised and evidenced a desire to work out some remedy. G. W. Nickerson again presided.

More Canneries.

The first request made was for the granting of additional cannery licenses and the testing in the courts of the right of the province to refuse it.

T. J. Davidson called attention to the fact that a small community of Icelanders had located themselves on the Lower Skeena. For two years they had made a comfortable living by farming and fishing. It was a mistake to think that farming could not be done on the Lower Skeena. The conditions under the boat rating, where Japanese were given the preference, made it unsuitable to white men fishing there. Under conditions as they were, they would not get a white fishing population. He did not think that it made much difference whether there were new canneries or not. The B. C. Packers controlled the whole thing anyway.

Wanted All Evidence.

Mr. McIntyre stated that Mr. Cunningham and himself were not there to bring out rebuttal evidence. They were there to hear all representations made to them. He felt that the Advisory Board would not be likely to take a stand on a matter that was a purely legal question. The Provincial Government felt sure of its contention on this point. The limitation of canneries was carried out to protect the salmon. It had proved such. The fact that the salmon were not being depleted proved that it was perhaps a wise course.

In reply to a question, Mr. McIntyre said that the fisheries of the Pacific coast were an asset of the whole people of Canada. The fishermen and the people of the Pacific province might have a first claim upon them.

Mr. Nickerson could not see that the increase in the number of canneries could have much effect upon the fishing. The province, he felt, might have the right to levy a tax, he disputed the right of the Government to limit the number of canneries.

Resident Inspector.

A resolution in favor of a resident inspector here was next put forward.

Mr. Cunningham said that with respect to the appointment of a resident inspector, that was a matter beyond the power of the Advisory Board. That was a matter that came under the Minister directly.

With respect to further representation for the Advisory Board, the same rule applied. It was not within the power of the Board to make such a recommendation.

Salmon Trolling.

On the recommendation against limiting the number of lines allowed in salmon trolling, and allowing any number of lines, Mr. Cunningham explained that this limitation was placed in order to preserve fish. With a large number of lines it was reported that the salmon were wasted by the breaking away of fish. He wished to have the exact information from fishermen. If an increased number of lines could be allowed without loss to the fish, they wished to know it.

Several fishermen argued that the report of the loss of fish originated with the Indians, who were not able to back up their assertions.

In reply to a question from Mr. Cunningham as to whether a number of lines should be used in spring salmon, one fisherman said that with a gasoline boat they could try how the fish were running, whether deep or not.

Mr. Cunningham did not believe they would have anything to complain of in this respect, as they would have changes made.

Seeking Halibut Grounds.

A recommendation was made that the Government should furnish a boat to go out from Prince Rupert and seek for new halibut banks.

Capt. Rorvik thought one or two prospecting boats would be of advantage to the fishing fleet. He thought the boats could prospect for herring also. It cost too much money for a private individual to carry this out.

H. O. Roberts, of the San Juan Company, said that all he could give was hearsay evidence. The American fishermen asked the Government to find the banks for the fishermen. These being found the fishermen would go out and look for them. The United States Government appropriated about $25,000 for this. The Albatross went out this summer from Cape Flattery and dropped their line at regular distances.

Mr. McIntyre said that the matter had already received attention. The Advisory Board recommended this to the Minister, with a recommendation to study the life history of the halibut. The war had interfered with this. They would again recommend this to the department. The Provincial Government had an expert at work on the halibut. Mr. Cunningham and himself wanted to be practical and not to press for too technical work.

General Licenses.

It was recommended that the holder of a seining license should be allowed to catch salmon or herring.

Ald. Montgomery felt that the granting of the concessions, as far as

TROUBLE TO SHIPPING.

The frequency with which steamers from American ports on the Pacific meet with trouble when goods intended for the Allied nations are on board, would prompt, one would think, a tendency to ship from a port like Prince Rupert. There is no reason why goods for Russia should not be loaded here, being brought over the G. T. P. and put on steamers in this port. The question of guarding the transhipments here would be very simple. The strictest supervision could be maintained.

THE FISHERY DEMANDS.

The demands presented to Messrs. Cunningham and McIntyre during the past two days in connection with the fishing regulation in this district has awaked renewed interest in the fish industry here. The representatives of British Columbia on the Advisory Board have had a lot of very valuable information presented to them during their stay. They have fully appreciated it, and have intimated that they will grant some of the requests at once.

LIBEL CASE WAS DISPOSED OF

ACQUITTAL GRANTED BY THE JURY IN ITS VERDICT

Judge Gave Warning To The Accused To Avoid Letters.

In the Assizes yesterday the case against Mrs. Donald for libel was disposed of. The case was dismissed, but the jury in a rider stated that they believed the letter complained of was written by the accused, although she did not intend it to be libellous. The letter was one purported to have been written by Mrs. Donald to a half sister of Mrs. Lambie in England, in which the latter was described in very elegant terms.

The jury was selected as follows: J. H. Barnsley, (foreman) C. B. Peterson, F. E. Clapp, V. Bassobert, W. Grant, F. R. C. Brown, Phillip Lindsay, Weston Coyney, H. S. Nickerson, T. J. Davidson, Malcolm McLeod, J. G. Moodie.

Mr. Peters explained that the case was a private prosecution. He explained that the prosecution did not seek any damages or punishment. All that Mrs. Lambie wanted was to prove that the statements made were untrue. The letter containing the alleged defamatory language was written July 30, 1912. For some time the letter was not known of by the Lambies. Later gossip got abroad and finally in the year past, the letter came to light. His client had asked for the withdrawal of the statements in the letter.

Mrs. Lambie testified that she had lived here about 5 years. Mrs. Donald had come here about 4 years ago. Witness had not known her before. She was married to Mr. Donald at the time. She knew Mrs. Donald's writing and identified the letter as written by Mrs. Donald. The letter was written to Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick at Newcastle-on-Tyne. Mrs. Fitzpatrick was a half sister of witness. The original letter was received by witness from Mrs. Fitzpatrick in May, 1915.

Witness had gone to Scotland on a visit in 1912. She did not see the people to whom the letter was written, while in the old country. The allegations in the letter were absolutely false.

Cross-examined, witness said accused lived two weeks with her. Witness had seen the writing of accused when she was writing to friends.

Witness got the original letter after Mr. Donald left here for Victoria. Mrs. Donald was in the south seeing him before he left. When she came back, witness demanded an apology and the accused denied all.

Witness denied there had been a general quarrel between Mr. Donald and herself. Witness told Mr. Donald the accused was "common, low and vulgar."

John Lambie testified he did not know Mrs. Donald until she came to Prince Rupert. He believed the writing in the letter was that of Mrs. Donald.

Cross-examined, witness said.

When he first saw Mrs. Donald after the letter came back, he told Mrs. Donald not to state that she was a sister of his. He told her to apologize, and Mrs. Donald said, "I'm bloody English and to h— with the Scotch." He heard her say in reply to Mrs. Lambie, that she could not prove she wrote the letter.

Mr. Williams argued that it was not shown that the court had any jurisdiction. It was not shown that the letter was published. If it was published it was in England.

Mr. Peters contended on this point, that even if the letter never got to its destination, it was a libel. He argued that a letter being sent with a view to its being read was regarded at law as publication at the place of its origin.

His Lordship reserved his judgment on the point raised.

Addressing himself on the evidence, Mr. Williams argued that there was no evidence to show that there was any movement to vindicate character. There was no evidence to show that the report had been circulated. It arose out of a family quarrel.

His Lordship, addressing the jury, said that this was a case that did not seem to be of great importance. A woman's honor was her most sacred possession, and for that reason a woman should seek to have any aspersions that might be cast on her wiped out. It was not the practice to encourage proceedings of this kind, where considerable expense was put upon the country in order to secure that which might be done through a civil action.

The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty, with a rider to it to the effect that the letter was written by the accused, but not with libellous intent.

His Lordship, in acquitting the accused, said he supposed the jury thought the letter was only an ill-advised one. "I want to say," he added, "don't write any more letters of that kind. They are not proper. Refrain from putting your hand to a pen unless you can do some good."

the herring was concerned, had done away with a part of the need for this. He felt that licenses might be wiped out altogether. Only a nominal fee looking to the protection of the fish might be charged. He thought a general license covering all kinds of fish should be the practice.

Mr. Cunningham said the clause which looked nice on paper, opened up a much larger question than was intended. It was absolutely against the wishes of practically all the fishermen on the Fraser River. He would like to hear from the 2,600 fishermen on the Fraser. There were about 1,-300 white fishermen there. They should be heard. He would go no farther than to promise to place the resolution before the Board and have it discussed.

Was Unworkable.

Mr. McIntyre pointed out that under the system now prevailing, it would not be practical to bring into effect this system of allowing fishing of salmon in any river or stream in the district.

Mr. Nickerson agreed with the stand.

Mr. Davidson said that the Icelandic fishermen did not make money on the Skeena last year, because the most of the cannerymen would not take king salmon. They wanted only sockeye. They caught about 2,500 sockeye and 2,200 pink fish.

Robt. Johnson, of the Inverness Cannery, told of one Icelander who made well. He was a good fisherman.

Mr. Noble contended that the men who worked did well.

Shell Fish Export.

A resolution was submitted recommending exportation of shell fish.

Mr. Cunningham said he was quite ready to recommend the export trade.

Mr. McIntyre was prepared to favor the allowing of the export of clams also, if they were to be used in a legitimate way for food. He would not favor allowing them to be taken over for being ground up for chicken food.

Mr. Nickerson thought if something could be done to allow the export of crabs earlier than the sitting of the Board, as the crab season was now on.

Mr. McIntyre felt that the strict interpretation of the law would allow that now.

Gasoline Boats.

Ald. Montgomery put forward a plea for the use of the gasoline boats in fishing.

Mr. McIntyre said that with a limited number of boats on the Skeena it was felt that the use of gasoline boats would tend to upset the limits to the injury of the fish.

Mr. Noble went into the matter fully. He believed that the use of gasoline would allow the men to get to the fishing ground and from it quicker. They would not catch any more fish.

Mr. Davidson was afraid this might make two classes of fishermen, and work to the disadvantage of the class that used the sails and oars. It would be creating a privileged class.

Wm. Selig felt it was right to give the fishermen gas boats. The men took their lives in their hands when they went out into Hecate Straits. On the Naas River it was the same.

Mr. Noble said in 1911 there were some gas boats on the Skeena, and he did not believe more fish were caught by them.

Mr. Cunningham said that if gas boats were allowed on the Skeena they would have to be allowed in all other inlets. The effect of the escape from gasoline boats might be injurious on the inlets, that were not tidal. They would get this information.

Preservation Of Salmon.

Mr. Noble urged the protection of the salmon. A great deal was being done by the Government, but the streams in the interior should be looked after greater. The Hocstall was the best salmon stream. The Government was having it cleared out now. He had lost in part, his faith in artificial propogation. He believed in keeping the natural spawning grounds clear.

Mr. Cunningham agreed with this contention. The Government had an engineer giving his whole attention to the clearing of obstructions. Everything was being done that could be done.

Trout Destruction.

Wm. Sibbald thought something should be done to do away with the trout in the river, as it was the greatest enemy of the salmon.

Mr. Noble backed this up. If the Government knew of the distruction caused by the trout and the ducks this would be overcome. He had seen the destruction of these.

Mr. McIntyre said this was a vexed question. They were aware of the damage done by the trout and the ducks. They were met by objections from the residents of the districts in the interior when they tried to destroy trout. These settlers got no benefit from the salmon. They did get it from trout and ducks.

It was decided to make a recommendation dealing with the trout trouble.

Mr. Morrow's Plea.

G. W. Morrow expressed the appreciation of the citizens in discussing these questions with Mr. Cunningham and Mr. McIntyre. The city appreciated what had been done in the way of permitting American boats to come in. They had had the hearty support of Mr. Cunningham and Mr. McIntyre. For some time this was to be the industry that the city depended upon.

Mr. Morrow said that when Prof. Pierce and Prof. Starr-Jordan recommended the regulations governing salmon fishing they looked to the preservation of the fish alone. The limiting of the number of canneries and the boat rating had created the greatest monopoly. Before the war was ended Jack was going to be as good as his master. As many fishermen went out in defence of their country as there were cannerymen. The canneries were built as a business propostion. The owners were not guaranteed these privileges they held. The Dominion Government had agreed to grant another cannery on the Skeena, while the Provincial Government would not. This bore out the stand taken here.

If the cannery business was to continue as it was, it was not worth anything to this city. There was no political party responsible alone for this. As citizens they must stand together.

They could never have the best class of white fishermen come to the coast to fish in these rivers if the conditions were to prevail. Fishermen should have better prices for their fish. All that was wanted by residents of the north was a fair deal as compared with the south.

He did not pretend to have the remedy. He asked Mr. Cunningham and Mr. McIntyre to lend their aid in trying to get some remedy.

The Mayor expressed his appreciation of the visit.

Ald. Montgomery's Praise.

Ald. Montgomery felt that the visitors had at heart as great an interest in the fishing industry and the country as he had. If governments moved slowly it was because the people behind them moved slowly. They intended, here, to push for recognition for their rights. The monopoly of the cannerymen should be lone away with as soon as possible.

He said they were in as hot a political bed as there was in British Columbia, but there was no politics when it came to a question of fish.

Commissioner's Reply.

Mr. Cunningham said he enjoyed his visit to Prince Rupert. It had taken a great deal of hard work to induce the Government to grant the concessions to American fishing boats. During the past three years this northern country had developed most remarkably. Prince Rupert was to become a great centre. The Government had recognized the necessity for introducing white fishermen. These were increasing. On the Advisory Board they represented every interest. They did not try to cater to any faction. He knew no politics. He had been thirty-three years in the department, and had yet to go to his first political meeting.

Mr. McIntyre promised to give the resolutions their most careful thought.

Votes of thanks all round were carried before the meeting closed.

EXTENDED AREA FOR HERRING FISHING

DEPARTMENT AT OTTAWA ASKED TO SANCTION THE NEW ORDER

Bounds As Defined By The Members Of Advisory Board.

"From the north end of Dundas Island south to the south end of Campania Island, and east to an imaginary line drawn from Yolk Point on Farrant Island to Turtle Point on Gill Island, including Prince Rupert harbor."

The above are the bounds of the area that Messrs. Cunningham and McIntyre recommended to Ottawa to Mr. Found, within which herring fishing should be allowed this season, pending the extension by regulation to embrace all of District 2. This request was sent by wire yesterday.

in our presence and the building was emptied in seventy seconds, which we consider reflects great credit on the principal and teachers.

We would respectfully bring to your notice that recommendations made by previous Grand Juries, respecting conditions at the King Edward School have not been fully carried out.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES H. THOMPSON,

Foreman.

His Lordship in receiving the presentment pointed out that there was every reason for residents of the city to be optimistic. When the war was over he felt that there would be rich returns. The possibilities of British Columbia were so enormous that with the return of peace there would be prosperous conditions. They had no reason for complaint as a British community, but should congratulate themselves on the stand taken. As time went on they would have to make still further contributions.

He said he would have the proper bodies communicated with relative to the items mentioned in the presentment.

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 per acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only; but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 per acre.
