Important Witness Heard In Murder Trial Yesterday

Yesterday in the murder case two important witnesses were called by the Crown. These were Robert Angus and J. Ratchford, both of whom were present during the fight in the Oriental Cafe at Port Essington. The proceedings of the court were somewhat interfered with through the illness of the foreman, Geo. P. McColl. His oLrdship adjourned court for a time. The court room was warm, which probably induced a bilious attack. A very complete set of photos and plans are being used by the Crown prosecutor, W. E. Fisher, in this case.

Robert Angus Called.

Robert Angus, one of the most important witnesses for the Crown went into the box yesterday morning. He was one of the men that went into the restaurant with Jack Pitman to have something to eat. His evidence was along the lines given by him at the time of the preliminary hearing. He held that after they went outside Pitman was stabbed at the bottom of the stairs; Nagano held the knife. Pitman yelled "Bob I'm stabbed" and started away along the street.

Witness said he dodged the blow intended for himself. He ran up the street. He passed Pitman some distance along the street.

Afternoon Sitting.

Upon resuming in the afternoon, Mr. Shoebotham resumed his cross-examination of the witness, Robert Angus. He said that Ohara struck him above the eye in the cafe. Witness then got into the fight. Carlson was struck over the head with a crutch. Carlson had been drinking.

Witness resented the insinuation that he himself was drunk.

Carlson went out. He saw Ohara and Komeda bring Carlson back. He saw Shimizi early in the evening in the restaurant. He could not recollect anything of seeing Carlson again that evening.

Answered Call.

Witness went out when Carlson went out the second time. When he went out, Pitman, Murphy and the three Japs were left in the room. He heard one of the whitemen call for help, that he was being murdered. Witness was at the foot of the steps. He rushed back. The door was locked. He was going to force it, but it opened. As soon as he got in he seized plates that were convenient. He started throwing them. He threw plates at Komeda and Ohara.

Asked if he threw any plates at Nagano, witness said he did not. Nagano was in action with Jack Pitman, in a corner with a stool.

Dodging Weapon.

Witness jumped out. Murphy got out. He saw Pitman at the bottom of the steps. The three Japs followed them out. Outside, witness admitted that he and Nagano had "a pretty lively time," if dodging a knife could be so described. Witness said he could not say whether it was a knife, clever or hatchet. He could see the shining of it. Komeda nor Ohara had no weapon that he saw.

The wound that witness received was slight. He left no blood stains as he ran away. He saw Nagano make a pass at Pitman with a sharp instrument.

Witness had been eating at the cafe from about May 22. Witness had had about seven drinks "on the run of the day." Just as witness sat down Ohara put his hand on the hip of witness and asked if he had a drink. Witness had nothing on him, or he would have given him it. He done it before.

Mr. Patmore's Questions.

Cross-examined by Mr. Patmore, witness did not know that Perkins, a bartender, paid for the meals. When witness went to pay he was told by Nagano that the meals were paid for. He had not objected to the Japanese dealing with Carlson a little rough, in view of the fact that Carlson would not pay for his meal.

When he was getting out of the door there was quite a crush.

At the foot of the steps Pitman turned. Nagano was on him immediately. He drove the weapon into him. Pitman staggered.

J. E. Ratchford.

J. E. Ratchford testified that on the night of the trouble he was sitting with Pierce on a rail near the restaurant. He saw a white man, Carlson come out the door followed by some Japanese. Carlson ran towards the Skeena Commercial wharf. The two Japanese who followed, were Ohara and Komeda. Ohara hit Carlson and knocked him down. Carlson said "don't hit me Tokio, I'll square it with you." One asked for 20 cents for the two bowls of soup. They took Carlson back. Witness went into the restaurant to pay the 20 cents himself, to Nagano. Ohara had Carlson back against the box chocking him. Bob Angus walked around and said, don't you hit a whiteman. He then let loose of Carlson and hit Angus. Witness tried to stop them closing the door. The door slammed, with himself on the outside. He saw the stool break the window. Ohara was hitting Carlson with the crutch. Nagano and Komeda had a hold on Murphy, and had wrenched him over the counter. Murphy knocked them off. Nagano got behind the counter and Komeda followed. Nagano seized a knife and Komeda a clever. Ohara went and got a knife also.

Rushed For Door.

The whitemen were rushing for the door. Murphy and Pitman and all rushed at the door at the same time. Pitman stepped aside after he came out. Murphy fell down the steps. Pitman grabed Ohara at the door. Nagano was waving his knife in the air. He swung around and struck with his knife. Witness saw the blood on his sleeve when he turned back again. Pitman staggered back. Witness did not see the blow struck, because Nagano was between him and Pitman. When Nagano turned round with the knife, he turned to where

EXTENDED AREA FOR HERRING FISHING

THE DEPARTMENT AT OTTAWA HAS APPROVED OF REQUEST

Messages Received From F. H. Cunningham Confirming This.

The request for an extension of the aera over which holders of herring licenses might fish has been granted. For a considerable time there has been a desire on the part of the licenses to have an extended area. Representations have been made on behalf of them from time to time, and these were pressed again at the recent visit of F. H. Cunningham, Chief Inspector, and D. N. McIntyre, the Deputy Commissioner.

These officials agreed to make representations at once in the matter. This was done by message to Ottawa. The request has been complied with, and yesterday G. W. Nickerson, chairman of the meetings held here in the interests of the fishing industry, and J. E. Merryfield, Secretary of the Conservative Association, who had also had the matter up, received the following message:

Department approved extend area herring licenses, North end Dundas Island south, to south end Campania Island and east to imaginary line drawn from Yolk Point on Farrant Island, Turtle Point and Gill Island, including Prince Rupert Harbor.

F. H. CUNNINGHAM.

The information was received with general satisfaction here.

AN APPEAL FOR PATRIOTIC FUND

HON. SECRETARY OF THE LOCAL ORGANIZATION MAKES AN APPEAL

Special Effort Will Be Made December 13 In Connection With This.

In connection with the appeal that is being made by the local Canadian Patriotic Society, the following has been handed in by the Hon. Secretary of the organization:

To the Editor,—

The Canadian Patriotic Fund is calling for more subscriptions to enable it to carry on its great work during the second year of the war.

For this purpose a vigorous campaign is being carried on throughout the Province, to meet the ever increasing demands made upon the fund by the wives and children of those who have gone to the front. There are now in France and England, and in training, more than 150,000 men from the Dominion, three times as many as at this time last year; and about one-tenth of that number have gone from this Province.

During the past year throughout Canada, over $3,000,000 have been distributed in relief to the families and relative dependents of soldiers who are in the fighting line. This year the amount required will be about $6,000,000, and in this Province alone the sum will be $750,000. It will, therefore, be realized that an effort must be made to meet the requirement, and help to maintain the families of those who so nobly have taken up arms to uphold the right and preserve the integrity of the British Empire. Surely the least we can do is to see that the wives, children and dependent mothers, who have already so much to bear, are assured of a reasonable degree of comfort.

As Prince Rupert and district have been asked to contribute $8,000 to this worthy object, the local branch of the fund has arranged to canvass the city on Monday, December 13, when every one will be given an opportunity of doing their "bit," and so contributing to the success of the campaign. It is hoped, that wherever possible, there will be a systematic giving of a stated amount—a plan which is being followed in most places with great success—not necessarily a large amount, but enough to be a sacrifice and a recognition of our duty and privilege.

Perhaps it will be thought that enough has already been given for this cause in Prince Rupert:

At the battle of Langemarck the General commanding in the field approached Brigadier-General Currie and said "Your men have done all that can be asked, but can they hold out a little longer? The reply was: "They are very tired, but they are ready to try again."

Let it not be said of Prince Rupert that while others are fighting for us, and all we hold dear, that we are tired of giving, and can do no more.

W. E. COLLISON,
Hon. Secretary,
Prince Rupert Branch, Canadian Patriotic Fund.

Belgians May Flood Extensive Region In District Of Ypres

Paris, Dec. 7.—From the Belgian front comes the following report: Besides the effective shelling of the enemy's groups, our batteries bombarded the German trenches in the direction of Woumen.

In retaliation for the employment by the enemy, of shells containing irritating gases, positive indications permit the conclusion that an extensive inundation of the region of Ypres is to be undertaken. Great difficulties have been experienced by the opposing troops, who have abandoned under menace of the water, a great number of their advance works.

In Belgium our artillery, in connection with the Belgian artillery, shelled the enemy's works on the region of Hetsas. The work was completely shattered and two munition depots were blown up.

In Artois the artillery engagement became pronounced during the course of the day.

In the sector south of Lille our artillery successfully repelled the enemy in their underground passages.

In Craonne district patrol fighting to our advantage has been reported.

In Champagne the action is being continued for the possession of the advanced trench south of St. Souplet. Our counter attacks have already enabled us to regain a large part of the lost section. One local attack of slight importance occurred east of Butte Desouxn.

Our Wounded Soldiers.

Friday is Red Cross Sale Day. Sweder Bros. Tailor Shop, 6th Street is headquarters from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mrs. Potter and Mrs. Dawson will conduct the sale. Christmas Tree For Soldiers.

The Helping Hand Society are furnishing a Christmas tree to be decorated for the benefit of the Northern B. C. boys who are at the front. They hope that the people of Prince Rupert will aid them in providing a rememberance for each. The three days preceeding Christmas will be devoted to this purpose.

President Wilson Deals With National Defence In Address

Washington, Dec. 7.—President Wilson today delivered his address to Congress. On the subject of National defense, which was the main theme of the address, he proclaimed an advanced pan-Americanism growing out of the guardianship, which was established under the Monroe Doctrine. This, he declared, meant a full honorable association for America.

GREECE DISTRUSTED BY THE ALLIES PLAYING FOR TIME

Paris, Dec. 7.—There is growing distrust for Greece. The Matin correspondent at Athens says Greece is playing for time, in the hope that the Allies will be forced to the sea by the Teutons and Bulgars. He thinks Greece will refuse the Allies demands a week hence. He advocates a rigid blockade to aid popular discontent with the royal policy. Business circles are anxious, as a blockade means starvation and ruin.

MINING INVESTMENTS.

The Salt Lake Mining Review, in an editorial, says: 'The public in general, has but a vague idea of the importance and magnitude of the mining industry in this country, and place little stress upon the fact that this pursuit, at the present time, is making possible the overwhelming trade balance in favor of the United States; this condition being due to the fact that in nearly every commodity used in the manufacture of war material and munitions, some type of metal must be used.

The mining industry, as a matter of fact, is the mainstay, the bone and sinew of the nation, and through it comes enduring wealth.

It may not be generally known but it is nevertheless a fact, that mining returns a greater percentage on the investment than is the case with any other occupation or pursuit, and the mining industry leads them all in safety and big profits. According to one authority, the percentage of profits is as follows: Railroads, 3 per cent.; national banks, 6 1-4; insurance companies, 11; lumbering, 14; manufacturing, 20 and mining 182 per cent. Another illustration is given in a statement credited to the National Banker, in which that paper says that "the combined dividends paid by the gold and silver companies in the United States are greater than the combined dividends paid by all the banking institutions in the United States," and that "the combined dividends of the copper mining companies of the United States is greater than the combined dividends paid by the railroads of the United States, while 52 per cent. of the freight hauled by these same railroads is either ore or some commodity resulting from the mining or milling of ore." The same authority goes on to say that in 1907 $360,000,000 was lost in "gilt edge" securities, and as much more in the last two years, which is more than was ever lost in mining, while more money was lost in the banks in the past five years than in mining in the past fifteen years.

If there ever was a time when mining should gain in popularity and importance, that time is with us now. We do not mean in stock speculation, but in legitimate and scientific mining operations; in the development of a prospect into a producing and dividend paying mine; in the rejuvenation of old-time producers; in the equipment of producing and paying properties, so that their yield will be greater, than in giving more attention to prospecting and the discovery of new mining propositions of merit.

This whole western country is full of promising prospects and promising mines, and capital only is necessary to place them upon a producing and money-making basis. The industry is a fascinating one, the rewards are large and, in times of stress, when other countries depend upon the United States for its necessities, can always be depended upon.

Sale Of Work.

The ladies of the Anglican Church W. A., will hold their annual sale of work in the church on Wednesday next. There will be a good assortment of plain and fancy work, home cooking and candy. Tea will be served and in the evening there will be an attractive programme of music, recitations and a bright and witty dialogue. tf.
