LOCAL INVESTOR GIVES EVIDENCE

J. J. Sloan, Who Was Manager of the Bankers' Trust Company Here, Told In Court How He Had Been Persuaded to Invest In It--Principals In Victoria Committed for Trial.

Franklin C. Cook, J. O. Hearn and R. N. O'Connor have been committed for trial in Victoria on a charge of the theft of $8000 from F. J. Popham of that city, a result of a business transaction in connection with the Bankers' Trust Corporation, now defunct. All are now out on bail.

The case is exciting great interest in financial circles because of the prominence of all the accused parties. Local interest attaches to the matter inasmuch as there are several local investors in the concern and a local branch of it was opened here. In the preliminary hearing in Victoria before Magistrate Jay, J. J. Sloan, manager at Prince Rupert, testified he had conversed with Cook and Allen on February 25, the day after a meeting of the directors, and discussed financial matters of the Bankers' Trust, especially with reference to the Prince Rupert branch. Mr. Allen had then told the witness that the Bankers' Trust had on hand at that time $24,000, though he did not say where the money was.

To Public Prosecutor Harrison, Mr. Sloan stated he had purchased four hundred shares of stock. As things turned out, he said, he certainly got those shares under a misrepresentation. At that time he could not say offhand what was the standing of the company, though he had examined the balance sheet and auditor's statement. He had paid $1000 cash for his shares and given notes for the balance. Some of these notes were in the hands of the Bankers' Trust. He did not know where others were.

Mr. Cook was formerly president of the People's Trust Company, which went into liquidation recently. He came to British Columbia several years ago and located in New Westminster, where for some time he did a large business not only in his own name, but with the People's Trust Company. He is a tall, fine looking man of about forty. His optimistic views and splendid conversational abilities are undoubtedly fine personal assets.

Mr. Hearn is a younger man, clean shaven and of dark complexion, and is well known, especially in Vancouver, where he has been long engaged as salesman and broker. As Cook was head of the Bankers' Trust Company, so Hearn was the mainspring of The Negotiators Limited, another concern which worked in close touch with the Bankers' Trust. The latter's activities have lately been chiefly in Victoria, and other places on Vancouver Island, rather than in Vancouver itself. Cook and some of his friends are said to have lately paid a visit to Cumberland, and to have done an excellent business among the striking miners of that formerly prosperous neighborhood.

The Negotiators were active enough in Vancouver, for it is said that some trouble recently occurred there as a result of an attempt on the part of representatives of the concern to bribe bank clerks of the Terminal City. The story goes that agents of the Negotiators were looking for likely customers in so determined a way that they attempted to obtain from the banks lists of depositors in the savings banks, and the amounts of the deposits. For this information 50 cents per head was to have been paid to the bank clerks, but the latter immediately turned the proposition down. O'Connor, the third man committed for trial, is not so well known as the others.

CHANGES IN SERVICE

J. McB. Smith and J. A. Anderson Retire From Provincial Offices This Month.

The Treasury and Audit Offices Are to Be Re-organized by W. M. Dunlop of Ottawa.

With the close at the expiration of the present month of the provincial fiscal year various important changes in the civil service of British Columbia go into force, the most important of these being marked by the retirement upon superannuation allowance of the deputy finance minister and the auditor-general, respectively Mr. J. McB. Smith and Mr. John A. Anderson. The former is officially succeeded by Mr. W. J. Goepel, until now inspector of provincial offices, and the latter by Mr. William Allison, late government agent at Hazelton, who is now in Victoria to take over his new and important duties as prescribed by legislation of the past session creating as independent the office of auditor- general.

His successor at Hazelton, one of the most important administrative centres in the province, is Mr. Hoskins, late of Nelson, to fill whose former position Mr. S. S. Jarvis, late chief clerk in the Hazelton office, is transferred.

Coincident with the appointment of the auditor-general, upon whom, under the new act, so great a responsibility will devolve, the creation of the treasury board is announced to consist of the minister of finance (chairman), the prime minister, the provincial secretary and the attorney-general.

Owing to the vast amount of money now being annually spent by the province and the great volume of business transacted, it has been decided while bringing into operation the new audit ct to reorganize and improve the treasury and audit office systems, modernizing both on the most approved lines. For this purpose the government has asked Mr. William M. Dunlop to come out from Ottawa and lend his expert aid in this work of reorganization.

Mr. Dunlop, who is already in Victoria, is a chartered accountant of continental repute with special experience in the federal public works department and in general practice. It was he who reorganized the entire audit system of the province of New Brunswick in 1908—his work in that connection having proven most satisfactory indeed, and he has also been in close touch with the government of Ontario audit system, being generally regarded as the model for the Dominion. Mr. Dunlop will co-operate and confer with Deputy Minister Goepel, Auditor-General Allison, the finance minister and the attorney-general during his stay in Victoria, and after completing his work at this capital will visit all government offices throughout the province, reporting upon the business system therein obtaining with suggestions for its betterment.

Mr. James McBraire Smith, who retires from the high office of dep-

GOVERNMENT SHOWS FIGHTING STRENGTH

By a Good Majority the House of Commons Votes Down An Amendment Censuring the Administration--Forty-One of a Majority Is Given In the House--The Naval Bill Will Be Passed.

Ottawa, March 28.—An attempt to censure the government was made last night. When a motion to go into committee of supply was moved, George W. Kyte, of Richmond, N.S., offered an amendment censuring the government for its attitude on the Landry case. The House defeated the Kyte amendment by a vote of 86 to 45.

The opposition, in agreeing to the passage of supplies in lump, has expressed its willingness to pass upon one-sixth of the estimates, which is enough to keep things going till well on toward the end of June. That means complete abandonment by the Liberals of the idea of an election this year.

It is significant that this was the first step taken on the return of the blockers from the Easter visit to their constituents. A change has come over the spirit of the blockers' dream, a change which prompts the Liberals to say that they have no desire to block the business of parliament and to admit that they cannot force a dissolution. This spells the wreck of the campaign carried on by the Liberal ex-ministers, who want to get back the seats of which their former constituents deprived them.

Ex-ministers' counsel has led the opposition up a blind alley, and the Liberals in the House are now casting about for some way of getting out of the scrape with as little display as possible. Mr. Pugsley and the ex-ministers have had to give place to the more moderate Liberal wing, and there is some change of progress being made with the business of parliament without such changes in the rules as the continuance of the blockade would necessitate.

Intentions of the government on the other hand have not changed in any degree. The naval aid bill is to pass the House with or without a change of rules.

BENCHERS ELECTED.

The election for benchers of the Law Society of British Columbia resulted as follows:

Messrs. R. T. Elliott, K.C.; L. G. McPhillips, K.C.; G. E. Corbould, K.C.; E. P. Davis, K.C.; W. Moresby, E. V. Bodwell, K.C.; Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, K.C.; A. P. Luxton, K.C.; and J. H. Senkler, K.C.

BATTLESHIP LOST.

Mexico City, March 28.—It is reported here that the United States battleship Baltimore with four hundred soldiers aboard has sunk off Guaymas in the Gulf of California. The accident was the result of an explosion.

LESSON TAUGHT BY BRITISH PARTIES

When Question of Making Britain's Influence Felt In Europe the Opposition Is Ready to Assist the Government---Liberals In Canada Missed Opportunity to Follow Best Precedents Of Imperial House

The extent to which British foreign policy is removed from party conflict is exemplified by a declaration in the House of Commons when Sir Edward Grey and Premier Asquith cordially acknowledged the co-operation of the opposition in helping to make England's influence for peace supreme in the councils of Europe, says a despatch.

Premier Asquith said: "There has never been a chapter in our history with so few discordant notes to embarass the direction of Britain's foreign policy. The government acknowledges the patriotic support which the opposition has given it."

Simultaneously the papers in London publish evidence of the continued bickerings between the Liberals and the Conservatives in Canada on an equally vital Empire issue. It would admittedly be of enormous gain to British prestige if, even now, Canada's decision on the naval question could, to adopt a phrase which Premier Asquith used in reference to Balkan affairs, "go forth to all concerned as the carefully considered judgment of the House of Commons, speaking with full authority as representatives of a united people."

The dramatic feature of the European situation is the fact that after centuries of misgovernment and oppression and bloodshed, Turkey, for all practical purposes, quits Europe by the unanimous assent of the great powers. Turkey is merely left the wreck and the remnant of her empire in Europe, namely, the Dardanelles, Constantinople and the peninsula running up to the Enormidia line. Her future as an empire lies now in the consolidation of her territory in Asia Minor, and it is to enable her to do this work effectively that the powers refuse to permit her to be squeezed into bankruptcy on a Bismarckian principle.

MAY BE OLD MINE

The Discovery of Gold at Teslin Lake Recalls Earlier Finds There.

The Theory Is Put Forward that the Creeks Are Those Formerly Known.

That the gold discovery at the headwaters of the Swan River is really a re-discovery of a goldfield twice found and twice lost already, is now believed by old miners in the Teslin Lake country, according to reliable information received from Atlin. Some years ago a prospector took several thousand dollars in dust and nuggets out of a creek in that territory and sold it to the mint at San Francisco. Never again, however, did he or anyone else find the creek.

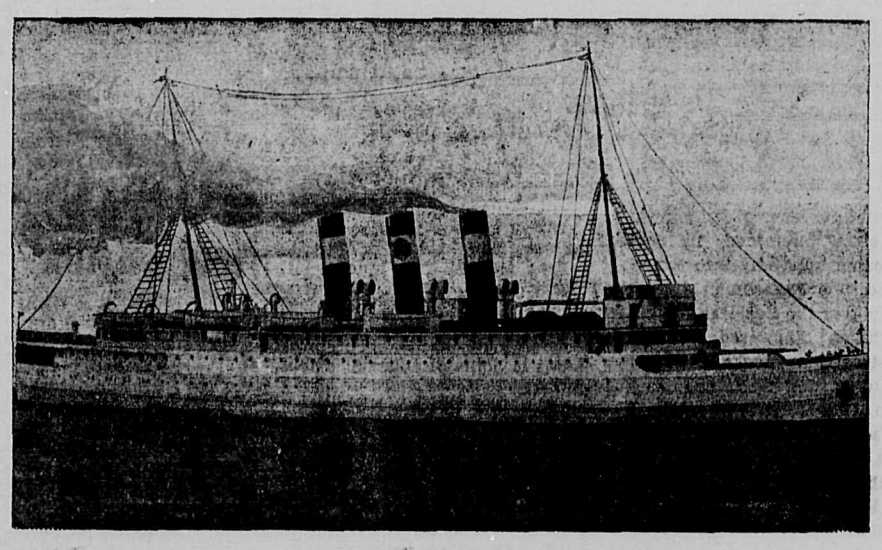
In 1896 two men died who probably knew the secret. They had been in during the summer and attempted to run the Taku river. Their boat swamped and one man was drowned. The other reached Juneau after cacheing about twenty miles from there some of the gold they had secured. He went into the hospital and died six days later. The gold was found and an attempt was made to locate the creek from which it had come. The prospector had drawn a map of the country, but years of searching failed to reveal the secret.

An Indian who saw the map said that the seekers were always looking for the lake at the head of a creek, but they never went up Moose Horn Creek, and the lake at the head of it is so enclosed by high mountains that it could not be seen until the traveler was on its shores.

Last summer a party outfitted at Atlin and went over to Moose Horn and Silver creeks and located claims. They found old lumber cuttings, an old whipsaw pit and the frames marking where two cabins had stood. A line of second-growth willow showed where there had been a ditch. There is every probability, therefore, that the gold brought by the Indians who came in to Atlin last October was taken from the very creeks twice discovered and twice lost years ago.

The Indians recorded thirty claims and displayed nearly half a pound of gold. Since then hundreds have gone in and staked. Telegraph Creek is deserted and Wrangel will probably be deserted also in a very few days.

Mr. Kipp, who is to look after the interests of the British Columbia Packers' Skeena River canneries, is already on the ground. He is a visitor in the city this week.



THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC STEAMER PRINCE RUPERT

The popular Grand Trunk Pacific steamer named in honor of this city, the Prince Rupert, will arrive from the south this morning, thus resuming her service with this port. The steamer has been generally overhauled in preparation for what is expected to be a very heavy season's work. The Prince Rupert was the first of the Grand Trunk Pacific fast steamers to be put on the run between here and the southern ports. She has been a most popular vessel, as well as her sister ship, the Prince George, which alternates with her.

LOSS IS REDUCED

The Number of Persons That Perished In Dayton Is Overestimated.

Militia Is in Control of Place—Waters Are Receding and Danger Is Passing.

Dayton, March 28.—The militia are in control of the city now. The waters are fast receding. It is now believed those drowned in the city will not be more than two hundred.

Scores have perished throughout the State of Ohio, however. Dozens of bodies are seen floating down the river.

Loss to Circus.

Chicago, March 28.—The first mails from the flood-stricken districts in Indiana have been received here today.

The circus wintering in Peru lost all its animals but the elephants.

A VERY BIG SEASON

Cannerymen Are Preparing for a Large Pack In British Columbia.

This Is the Big Run on the Fraser and Canneries Will All Be Busy.

The canneries are preparing for a big season this year in the packing of salmon. The supplies for the northern canneries are now being brought in and all is getting in readiness for the opening.

As nearly as can be ascertained the salmon canners of British Columbia have prepared this year for an expected pack of 1,040,000 cases. There are one or two canneries to hear from definitely, but this can be taken as approximately correct. The allocation is as follows:

WHY NOT GO FURTHER?

The disappointed one enumerates some of the things that the present city council has money to do. He might have gone further and added that it had money to pay the acknowledged deficits and the unacknowledged deficits of the year before. The statement of the finances of the year 1912 is not yet presented to the public. We do not know who is to blame for it, but we certainly think it should be before the public. We have heard it whispered, however, that the actual deficit that will be shown from last year will probably mount up to between $40,000 and $50,000.

If this be true it must be acknowledged that there were some manipulations in the field of high finance last year.

THE CLOSURE.

As on many other questions of public policy, not excluding that of the naval situation, the policies of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in opposition and in power differ very materially on the matter of the application of a closure in the House. When met with opposition in the House Sir Wilfrid and his party were very strongly inclined to apply a closure. Now the leader of the Opposition holds his hands up in holy horror at the suggestion of such a move.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier declares that the government persistently declined to make any change in the rules. Mr. Fisher, speaking as a member of the late government, made the following announcement on three different occasions. On August 1, 1911, at Waterloo, he said:

"If we are returned to power, we will pass reciprocity and we will also pass a measure changing the rules so that the business of the country may go briskly forward without interruption. It is only right that it should be so. Full investigation we believe in, but empty obstruction is a drag on the country."

Speaking at Magog, on August 13, 1911, Mr. Fisher said:

"So long as a small minority or any group can take up the time of Parliament in order to hear themselves talk, it is impossible to avoid waste of time and I pledge that if the Laurier government is returned again the rules will be changed. I consider present conditions inimical to the proper conduct of the public business."

On August 21, 1911, at Knowlton, he said:

"It was the intention of the government, should it be returned, to change the rules of the House so that such obstructions would in future be impossible."

INDISCREET ATTACKS.

That excellent and long-tried exponent of old school Liberalism, the Montreal Witness, admits that it cannot understand the attacks that are made on Mr. Winston Churchill. Quoting some language of Mr. Macdonald of Pictou, the Witness asks:

"Whatever does Mr. Macdonald mean? Had not Mr. Borden the right to ask for information on naval construction of those who ought to know the most on the subject? . . . If he had, Mr. Churchill had also not only the right but the duty, both as a self-respecting gentleman and a member of the government who holds a responsible position in trust for the nation, to make a careful and courteous reply."

As to the reply itself, the Witness says:

"It is not a political document, but a letter of information written with the best intention, in a style that in parts shows signs of haste, and a discursiveness that proves it to be meant for a friendly exchange."

The Witness then refers to a Montreal speech of Mr. Macdonald in which he spoke of Mr. Borden as a "vacillating man, unfit to lead a party, and as a man with feet of clay," and ends its note with the laconic remark that "every party has some friends from whose indiscretions it would like to be delivered."

Meteorological Report.

An "attempt to form a St. John's ambulance class" reminds us of Jones who came hurriedly into town and enquired of a Frenchman directions for reaching the hospital quick. The Frenchman answered: "Go down this street two blocks, turn to your left and go one block and you will come to Mike McCarty's saloon. Mike will be on watch. Go in and pretend that you are very mad. Strike the bar with your fist and say, 'To h—l with the Pope!' and when you come to you will be in the hospital;" writes a subscriber.

GRANBY BAY

The Coming Smelter City of the North

Truly, the future of Granby Bay is bright. The absolute permanancy is one of the most gratifying features—as the supply of copper ores in Northern British Columbia is practically inexhaustible.

Only a few choice lots are being offered for sale in the Town of Granby Bay, and there is not much doubt that they will be sold quickly.

Grasp the fact that ore can b produced at Granby Bay much cheaper than in places where large profits are now being made in mining and smelting Then you can appreciate what an opportunity confronts you in the chance to buy property in such a place at first prices. There is no earthly reason why Granby Bay will not be the big important mining town of British Columbia—and that means a rapid raise in property values.

Property is cheap in Granby Bay now. Get our prices and you will get a lot. For prices, terms and further information, address

SPORTS

BRITT TO VISIT VANCOUVER.

According to private advices received, Willie Ritchie, world's lightweight boxing champion, and James Edward Britt, known as Jimmy Britt, when vainly struggling against Gans, Nelson and those other oldtimers for the 133-pound crown, will be in Vancouver this spring. Britt is due for a week in vaudeville in April, while Ritchie is scheduled for an appearance in May. They will appear at one of the Vancouver playhouses.

Ritchie has tired of the stage, or at least he says so at every opportunity, but the announcement that he will box for Vancouver vaudeville patrons in May means that he is not yet through with the footlights. It also means that negotiations are not proceeding with smoothness for that proposed European tour. Likewise it might be construed that the San Franciscan will work his way home in May and then go into training for a championship fight about July 4.

Britt, a mighty clever boxer in his prime, but lacking the strength and stamina necessary to win a championship, is said to be following in the footsteps of Jim Corbett—becoming a real actor.

COME FROM SMALL TOWNS.

"Most of the star ball players," penned a magazine writer the other day, "come from the corner lots of our big cities where they first began to play. They are big city products."

All of which may be true, provided the term "big city" is defined as meaning any old place that has at least 249 inhabitants, including cats and dogs. It was from such a city that Ty Cobb came—the busy and teeming metropolis of Royston, Ga.

Christy Mathewson, the wizard of the New York Giants, came from that congested centre of population—Factoryville, Pa. Walter Johnson, first played the national game on the corner lots of that swarming beehive of humanity Weiser, Ida. Nap Rucker's success is due to the fact that he was born in that mighty Babylon of the nations, Alpharetta, Ga. Ed Walsh, Tris Speaker, Clyde Milan, Ed Plank, Jeff Tesreau, Chief Meyers, Frank Baker, Charley Herzog and some scores of others who might be mentioned broke into the game from corner lots of huge cities that boasted of at least one general store and a postoffice.

A few others who started life in small towns almost if not quite as large as those mentioned were Daubert, Chase, Doyle Gregg and Wagner. Indeed the small towns of less than twenty population should feel jealous of the big cities of 200 souls that have a monopoly of the "famous baseball talent."

Noted Soldier Has Passed Away

Field Marshall Viscount Wolseley, one of the most famous of modern soldiers, died last Tuesday at Mentone, France, in his eightieth year.

There were few lands in which Field Marshal Wolseley had not seen service. He served in the second Burmese war in 1852, being severely wounded in the attack on Donabyu. A veteran of the Crimea, he was one of the last to leave there and almost immediately joined the expedition to China.

At the relief of Lucknow he took a prominent part, received a medal and clasp, and was present at the final siege and capture of Lucknow.

Following his return home he was sent on special service to Canada in 1861. Made a Brevet colonel in 1865, Colonel Wolseley was actively employed in the Fenian raids and in 1867 was appointed deputy quartermaster-general in Canada. In 1870 Colonel Wolseley succesfully commanded the Red River expedition to put down a rising under Louis Riel at Fort Garry—now Winnipeg. When he returned home he was made a K. C.M.G. and C.B.

From that time on he saw service in numerous campaigns. His command of the expedition to Ashanti on the Gold Coast made his name a household word in England.

He fought the battle of Amoaful, and, after five days, fighting, ending with the battle of Ordahsu, entered Kumasi, which he burned. For this feat of arms Colonel Wolseley received the thanks of both Houses of Parliament and a grant of £25,000, being promoted to a major-generalship on the field.

General Wolseley succeeded Lord Chelmsford in command of the forces in the Zulu war and was made governor of Natal, the Transvaal and high commissioner of South East Africa. Given command of the British forces in Egypt in 1862 he later commanded the Nile expedition to the relief of General Gordon and the besieged garrison at Khartoum. The expedition arrived too late, Khartoum having fallen and Gordon being dead. In 1890 he was given command of the forces in Ireland and later succeeded the Duke of Cambridge as commander-in-chief of all the British forces, turning that over to Lord Roberts at the commencement of 1901.

With Lord Roberts of Kandahar, and Lord Kitchener, Field Marshal Wolseley formed a trio of the greatest military experts in the British Empire.

Lord Wolseley was the author of numerous books dealing with army life as he saw it and his books had great vogue.

At the time of his death he had nearly reached the advanced age of 80 years.

CHANGES IN SERVICE.

uty minister of finance, and who for long years has ranked as one of the veterans and pillars of the provincial civil service, is a native Canadian, his birthplace being Pownal, P.E.I., where he first saw the light in 1838, his migration to British Columbia occurring in 1865, at the time of the gold discoveries which first brought this mighty section of the Empire prominently before the eyes of the world.

A VERY BIG SEASON

Fraser river, 600,000 cases; Skeena river, 140,000; Naas inlet, 50 000; Rivers inlet, 120,000; outlying, 130,000.

What is commonly called the "big run" is scheduled for this year. In the last big run year, 1909, the pack was 967,920 cases.
