COL. ROY D.O.C. PAID CORPS COMPLIMENT

The Militia Officer In Command of This District Inspected Earl Grey's Rifles and Expressed Pleasure At The Efficiency Shown--- Bugle Band Came In For Merited Praise

Col. Roy, D.O.C. of this military district, is in the city on a tour of inspection of the local corps Earl Grey's Rifles. Last night he made an official inspection of the company, which paraded at the Government Dock for the purpose under command of Capt. Fred Stork. The D.O.C. was very favorably impressed with the local corps and in addressing them after the inspection paid them a compliment for the degree of efficiency that they showed in their drill and for the smart appearance of the members.

The company paraded at 8:30, and sharp on time the inspecting officer appeared on the scene. For the next hour the members were kept busy going through their drill. In spite of the fact that there is no drill hall here the members of the company showed up well in their exercises, which included every department.

Following the drill, Col. Roy, who is a most popular officer in the service and who is making his first visit to the city, addressed the members of the company, congratulating them on their work. He said that he was sorry that he had not been able to get here earlier. He recognized that the company had many drawbacks to contend with, removed as they were from the stimulating effects of having another corps within easy reach. This would be overcome in a short time, he realized, however. They would, he hoped, soon have instead of a single company four companies at least and inside of a very few years he hoped to see them form a strong regiment here.

With a drill hall, which he expected to see erected here shortly, he felt sure that there would be a decided impetus given to the corps. He complimented the officers of the company, Capt. Stork and Lieut. McMordie. The members of the company, he remarked, showed themselves intelligent and quick in their work. The non-commissioned officers, he said, showed that they were interested and doing good work.

The bugle band came in for its share of praise. The Colonel had made a careful inspection of this part of the corps during the evening and they had given a demonstration of the way in which they had been trained under Sergt. Major Tait. In addressing the company he said that he felt like giving the bugle and drum band a word of praise. They had shown careful training. The presence of such a body in connection with the corps could not be over estimated. A military body without music seemed to lack something and the presence of this band was, he felt, a decided acquisition to the company here.

Col. Roy said that he would return shortly and hoped to see the company make progress in the time. He said that they had been put by him to a rather severe test and he must compliment them on the way they performed their duties.

On the conclusion of the address three rousing cheers and a tiger were given for Col. Roy, proposed by Capt. Stork, and which was duly acknowledged by the D.O.C. The company made a very creditable

Yukon May Break Previous Records

Dawson, May 28.—The gold dredges and the hydraulic plants are now running full blast cleaning up an average of $3000 worth of gold daily. It is estimated the yield this year will exceed five millions, which was the high-water mark reached last year.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE AGAIN ACTIVE

THEY TRY TO WRECK RAILWAY SHEDS AT NOTTINGHAM BY SETTING ON FIRE.

Government Will Attempt to Wear Down Mrs. Pankhurst Until She Learns to Behave Herself.

Nottingham, May 28.—The militant suffragettes today set fire to the tube sheds of the Great Central Railway depot. Mrs. Pankhurst, who since her last incarceration refuses to eat, is in a very weakened condition.

The plan of the Government is said to be continued arresting and releasing her until her spirit is broken and she consents to abandon her militant attitude.

IS WELL PLEASED WITH CONDITIONS

MAJOR GIBSON HAS RETURNED TO THE CITY AFTER AN EXTENDED TRIP IN EAST.

He Was Agreeably Surprised to Learn That Prince Rupert Was Not Suffering More From General Stringency.

Major Gibson is back again, arriving in the city yesterday by the Prince George.. He has had an extended trip in the east and returns to the city well satisfied at finding that Prince Rupert has not suffered any marked setback from the money stringency that is prevailing all over. In the east this is passing, and it is only a short time until it will have gone, as far as the west is concerned, he thinks. He was pleased, however, to find that Prince Rupert had not suffered to the same extent that some of the other places had.

During his visit in the east he spent some time in Jacksonville, Florida, with Mr. and Mrs. Bacon. Mr. Bacon expects that he may be back to Prince Rupert this summer.

The Major is as hopeful as ever about this city and his trip has not tended to lessen his abounding faith in the future of the city. As soon as the time is definitely settled when the road will be through he says there is to be a great awakening in the place. The completion of the railway is all that is awaited to bring the population to the city and create a lively metropolis.

CONSTABLE SHOT IN VANCOUVER

Robbers Killed Him And Hid Body In Bushes In Vacant Lot Near Hastings Shingle Mill --- Office Of The Works Had Been Ransacked By Those Who Attempted Robbery

Vancouver, May 28.—Constable Archibald, a member of the local police force, was murdered early today, presumably by robbers who attempted to rob the Hastings Shingle Mill vault. Archibald was sent out to quell a disturbance in a house on Powell Street.

He never reached the place, nor did he return to the station. Inquiry showed that he had not gone home, and with all this mystery surrounding the situation a search was started.

The result was the finding of the lifeless body of the man among some bushes in a vacant lot near the mill. He had two bullet holes in his body. There were signs that a desperate struggle had taken place at the mill, where it is presumed the constable discovered the robbers at work.

The office had been thoroughly ransacked by the robbers. The dead officer leaves a wife and two children.

Making an Inspection.

Among those who arrived in the city yesterday was Mr. Hood, of the public works department at Victoria. He is making an inspection of the different things in connection with the service here and will today proceed to Stewart to make an inspection there also. Mr. Hood is an official of the department that has been tried for many years and has proved himself a most efficient officer. It is his first visit to Prince Rupert, his time having been for the most part spent in the head offices at Victoria.

MAY INCREASE PAY.

Ottawa, May 28.—There was a strong plea made to increase the sessional indemnity in the House of Commons this morning. The proposition was greeted with considerable favor by the members, who believe this request may be granted.

New Operator.

There arrived in the city yesterday Mr. Auld, who has joined the operating staff of the Dominion Government Telegraph service here.

RECEPTION TO LINER NIAGARA

THE NEW AUSTRALIAN VESSEL GIVEN A GREAT WELCOME ON HER MAIDEN TRIP.

Victoria and Vancouver Vied With One Another in the Matter of Welcoming the Vessel.

Vancouver, May 28.—The new Australian liner Niagara reached port here on her maiden trip late this afternoon. The vessel was given a great welcome. Her gross tonnage is 13,000 tons.

The vessel was welcomed also at Victoria, where a grand reception was accorded the passengers and the officers of the vessel. The Niagara marks a new order of things in the matter of improved service with Australia.

STEAMER SERVICE WILL NOT SUFFER

G.T.P. WILL MAINTAIN SCHEDULE AS FAR AS THE NORTH COUNTRY IS CONCERNED.

While the Prince Albert Is Being Repaired the Steamer Prince John Will Remain in These Waters.

Owing to the recent accident to the Prince Albert and the necessity of her going to drydock for slight repairs the Prince John will maintain the schedule of both steamers by sailing only as far south as Ikeda and return from there, calling at Skidegate Inlet only, which will give precisely the same service as heretofore given by both steamers as far as Queen Charlotte Islands and northern ports are concerned, eliminating only the ports of call south of Ikeda. On completion of repairs to the Prince Albert the former schedule will be resumed.

Under this arrangement there will be no interruption with the services of the Grand Trunk Pacific steamers as far as Prince Rupert is concerned and the ports on the Queen Charlottes. The only difference will be that the steamer Prince John will not sail to Vancouver, but perform the duties of the two steamers in the north.

CUSTOMS CHANGE.

Robert Jamieson, of Stewart, Will Act as Officer at That Port for the Present.

Owing to the resignation of Mr. Patterson, the customs officer at Stewart, the department has named a new officer there. Robert Jamieson will perform the duties. The post at Stewart is not a very lucrative one. There is not enough business to allow of the officer giving his whole time to the duties. For that reason Mr. Patterson did not wish to continue the office.

The new officer is one of the pioneers of the town and is known all over the north. He will perform the duties in conjunction with his other work there.

Remember that Harry C. Evans, the pioneer piano tuner, is in the city. Leave orders at Hayner's. tf

GONE TO CONVENTION.

Vancouver, May 28.—A special train filled with delegates to the provincial Liberal convention at Revelstoke left here this afternoon.

CLEMENTS LOOKS AFTER RIDING

Supplementary Estimates Passed In The House Show That The Member For The District Is Not Neglecting The Interests of Comox-Atlin---Local Representative Has Made Provision For Necessary Works In The City And In The Different Parts Of The Constituency He Represents---How Money Is To Be Expended In Giving To The Different Sections Of The Riding Buildings And Works That Will Serve The Public Interests

Among the members of the House of Commons, H. S. Clements, the representative of Comox-Atlin, has made a reputation for looking after the interests of his constituents. This is shown in the supplementary estimates that have just been put through at Ottawa. These make a magnificent showing as far as this riding is concerned and the constituency has every reason to feel proud of the work that Mr. Clements has done for it. Among these there stands out appropriations for this city, which is certainly being well looked after by the member. In the matter of public buildings the supplementaries show the following:

Prince Rupert drill hall, $75,000.

Prince Rupert quarantine station (revote $2400), $59,000.

Prince Rupert public building (further amount required), $100,000.

Courtenay public building, $5000.

Port Alberni public building, $5000.

Powell River public building, $12,000.

New Hazelton public building, $5000.

Under harbors and rivers the appropriations are very liberal to this riding. It will be seen that many of the smaller outlying sections of the constituency are to be provided with the means of securing communication. On this point Mr. Clements is very strong. He holds that the settler that goes into the portions of the country removed from the great centres is entitled to get the best that can be obtained for him in reason. Accordingly Comox-Atlin, with him as member, is seeing advantages secured for it that were never dreamed of under the old order of things.

Under the head of harbors and rivers the following appropriations have been made:

Roy's Beach, wharf, $6000.

Cascade Flume, wharf, $1500.

Bowen Island, wharf at Bindley's Landing, $4000.

Pender Harbor, wharf, $4000.

Union Bay, repairs to wharf, $1000.

Shoal Bay, Thurlow Island, wharf, $4400.

Upper British Columbia, wharf building plant, $3000.

Van Anda, wharf, $1000.

Grantham's Landing, Howe Sound, wharf, $4500.

Ucluelet, wharf, $5500.

Bold Point, wharf, $2500.

Union Bay, extension of wharf, $2500.

Gower Point, wharf, $2000.

Powell River, in full and final settlement of claim of Messrs. Palmer Bros. and Benning, for extra work on breakwater, $2127.50.

Lower Valdez Island, to construct floats at Wyatt and Bently Bay, $2000.

Lockport, Moresby Island, wharf, $4000.

Wooden River, landing float, $850.

Port Essington, landing float, $1000.

Gorge Harbor, landing float, $1250.

Queenston, Yakoon River, wharf, $5000.

Nadoo River, construction of landing float at mouth, $1000.

Dease River, improvement of navigation, $2500.

Shelter Point wharf, Gillies Bay, Texada Island, $5000.

Bamfield wharf, repairs, $800.

Campbell River, repairs to wharf and construction of shed, $4600.

Church House, landing float, $1000.

Masset wharf (revote $2500), $3000.

Squamish wharf, repairs, $3800.

In the matter of telegraph service Mr. Clements is very strongly favorable to giving the best that can be obtained. The building of the line to Bella Coola has been a source of great convenience to the public there and those who have business relations with the southern farming valley. Mr. Clements has made provision for the extension of the Government wire on Graham Island to connect the wireless stations near Skidegate with the points at the northern end of the Island. In addition to this, the supplementaries provide for $3000 to connect Ocean Falls with the existing line to Bella Coola.

SARAH ACCEPTS CROWN.

American Stage Presents Mme. Bernhardt With Gold Crown; Touching Scene.

Just before the curtain rose on "Une Nuit de Noel," which Mme. Sarah Bernhardt presented a few days ago at the Palace Theatre, says the New York Sun, Daniel Frohman, president of the Actors' Fund of America, announced from the stage that immediately after the one-act play the theatrical profession of this country would honor the French actress and itself by presenting her with a laurel wreath of gold. He invited the audience, which crowded the large theatre, to remain for the presentation.

The audience stayed. It sat through a fifteen-minute wait while Mme. Bernhardt rested after the one-act piece, and the invited guests grouped themselves on the stage. Mme. Bernhardt occupied the centre, while on either side stood the speakers, Daniel Frohman, David Belasco, E. M. Holland and Mrs. Thomas Whiffen. The stage was crowded with celebrities who, with more than a hundred others, had subscribed for the wreath.

The orchestra played the "Marseil-

LIBERAL SENATE WILL KILL BILL

NAVAL MEASURE SEEMS DOOMED TO DEFEAT IN THE UPPER CHAMBER OF COUNTRY.

The Leader of the Party, Sir George Ross, Wants to Have the Proposition Put Before the People.

Ottawa, May 28.—"That this House is not justified in giving assent to this bill (the naval) until it has been submitted to the country." This is the form of the amendment to the second reading of the naval bill, as moved in the Senate by Senator George Ross, the Liberal leader, seconded by Senator Bostock.

That the amendment will be adopted, there is no reasonable doubt. Senator Ross spoke from shortly after three until a quarter past five. Referring to Premier Borden's reference to the Senate in his Toronto speech, Senator Ross said Premier Borden could denounce the Liberal majority in the Senate, but it would echo the views of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Commons. "We are here," he said, "not to suit any premier or opposition leader, but are concerned with any legislation that comes before the House in harmony with public opinion.

Back From Old Land.

After an extended visit to England, A. T. Parkin, one of the early residents of Prince Rupert, returned yesterday. Mr. Parkin visited his father in Sheffield. Mrs. Parkin remained in Vancouver after the trip to the Old Land to visit friends there.

MISSED THE CHANCE.

That the Liberal party at Ottawa has missed its greatest opportunity to make itself popular in the Dominion as well as in the Empire at large when it failed to endorse the naval proposition of Premier Borden is every day becoming more apparent. This is being brought home in many ways. The statement of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C.P.R., on his return from London bears out this view.

That a Canadian money issue would have found an easier market in London had the Borden Naval Aid Bill passed Parliament with unanimity, was the statement of Sir Thomas, who returned from a visit to England by the Empress of Ireland. Sir Thomas did not think that Canada was overborrowing in view of the stupendous works of development which she was undertaking for necessary expansion. The investment of capital was giving the best of returns; and it represented a creation of wealth and assets worth several times the amount of the money borrowed. This was all good security.

THE SENATE.

In view of the possible attitude of the Senate on the Navy Bill, attention is called to the clause of the late Liberal platform concerning this chamber. This plank was placed in the platform on the motion of Mr. Fielding, seconded by the late Hon. A. G. Blair. It is as follows:

"The present constitution of the Senate is inconsistent with the federal principle in our system of government, and is in other respects defective, as it makes the Senate independent of the people and uncontrolled by the public opinion of the country, and should be so amended as to bring it into harmony with the principles of popular government."

THROUGH BRITISH EYES

How Hamilton Fyfe, Who Was Here Last Year, Was Impressed With Canada.

Under the title, "Shall I Go to Canada—An English Journalist's Impressions," the articles in the Daily Mail, written by Hamilton Fyfe, special correspondent of that journal, have, after revision, been reprinted in sixpenny book form. Mr. Fyfe has a vivid power of description and the articles deal, in graphic fashion, with his impressions, which embrace Canadian life from Montreal to Vancouver, and which were gathered on more than one journey. Some of Mr. Fyfe's aphorisms are particularly strong. For instance:

"Ontario calls the Maritime Provinces sleepy, and Winnipeg humorously pretends to think they are dead."

"A board of trade, I should explain, is a society composed of business men; their object is to assist business, not to hinder it, as our government board of trade does."

"One becomes sceptical about population in Western Canada. One asks, 'How many people are there there?' One's informant takes a deep breath, looks one full in the eye to see how much he will swallow, and names the largest figures he can think of. If it arouses astonishment, he adds quickly, 'There or thereabouts.'"

"One's scepticism is increased by the ridicule which the new towns pour upon each other's census. Yet all this keenness is a good, healthy sign."

"In the mass, Canadian university men appear to be better educated than English university men. Their education is more closely in touch with life. They have almost always more desire to learn and a more vivid interest in life. They are more in earnest about it."

In his closing words, Mr. Fyfe says: "England is Old England. Canada is young. The young never pay much attention to the opinions of the old, and they are right. Experience is of some value, but you have only to set it against the enthusiasm of youth to see how timid it is, how stiff the joints.

"Men and women, Canada wants both, and will want them for many a year to come. But it is those who respond to her call now that she will reward most plenteously."

BOOM FOR GOLF.

England is suffering from a golf boom, and the golf maniac has become a bore and a nuisance. You find him wherever you go. He talks golf in the train, tram and tube, in the drawing room, smoke room and office. You cannot escape him, and he always talks about what he has done or what he might have done "if only—" And yet this is not so surprising as it may seem at first glance. For no game in Great Britain has been so fostered and nursed by public and private enterprise.

As much care and consideration have been given to the provision of artisan golf links as to other infinitely more important administrative functions, and rarely a month goes by but one hears that some team of star players will figure at the opening of the "magnificent new course at——."

Professional golfers are waxing rich as the result of the boom, and $10,000 a year is nearer the average than the exceptional income.

A leading English actress, in expressing her surprise at the success of James Montgomery's play, "Ready Money," made the significant remark that "it was strange for English people to take to a play where the young men talked of stocks and bonds in the drawing room, because it was so different to what was actually the case here, where the young man's only topic of conversation was automobiles and golf." That epitomizes the situation. And the automobiles have helped to strengthen the popularity of golf. Within a radius of thirty miles around London there are at least one hundred first-class golf courses, and though it may not be evidence of the general prosperity of the whole, the financial condition of one of London's most fashionable clubs—Mid-Surrey, situated on the banks of the River Thames at Richmond—is worth recording. The total income of this organization last year was nearly $40,000, which is probably a world's record in receipts for one club. Within two years the club has spent $12,000 on bunkering alone.

Careful estimates put the total number of courses in England at 1300; in Wales, 100; in Scotland, 650; and in Ireland, 168. In a few years these totals have expanded considerably, and there is every indication that the boom will receive a tremendous impetus in 1913. The militant suffragettes, who have been hacking and burning the "velvet greens," have incidentally provided the game with a grand advertisement gratis, and the coming of the American amateur and professional teams will add a further impetus.

"Why do you cry?"

"My great aunt has just died."

"Bear up. Maybe she remembered you in her will."

"She did. She left me her cat and her canary. That's why I cry."

"Why did you leave that boarding house?"

"Because the swellness was at the expense of the food supply."

"What do you mean?"

"Four kinds of forks and two kinds of vegetables."

IMPORTANCE OF EMPIRE DEFENCE

SIR RICHARD McBRIDE IN VANCOUVER DEALS WITH THE QUESTION OF THE NAVAL POLICY.

Patriotism Should Stand Above Financial Interests—Imperialistic Doctrines Were Important.

Inspired by Empire Day, Sir Richard McBride, who attended the reunion, Friday night, at Vancouver, of the Conservatives of Ward III., was tempted, he said, to say something as to what the occasion signified. From this point on the Premier turned to the navy question, and delivered a rousing speech on the subject, which elicited the applause of the large gathering.

It had always occurred to him, said the Premier, who was received with rousing cheers and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," that the question of defence should be referred to in a non-party way, and it was regrettable that there was so much partisanship displayed on the question at the capital. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier had submitted his policy, the Conservatives had said they felt that if it was proposed to create a Canadian navy, the beginning should be of the right sort.

At Ottawa they had been treated for weeks past to a discussion as to what ought to be done by Canada as a matter of duty towards herself and towards the Empire. He did not propose to criticise his Liberal friends, or to say that they were lacking in loyalty. He was a thorough Canadian and Britisher, and he wanted to feel that every man in the confines of Canada who called himself a Canadian was also a Britisher. (Cheers.) He could not realize that any man who called himself a Canadian could object also to call himself a Britisher, and be proud of it. (Cheers.) If there were, they might say it was due to a want of education, and because they had not lived to appreciate the principle of liberty which the United Kingdom had stood for.

The best and safest foundation by which the interests of the people could be advanced would be found in the adoption of Imperialistic doctrines and the practice of Imperialistic principles. They believed that through the promotion of the policy which stood for the bigness of Canada it would also stand for the bigness of the Empire. If once it was realized that the supreme issue was defence of Empire, then they must come to the logical conclusion that the defence of the whole was much better and wiser than the defence of a part.

He was appalled at the position some people had taken on the naval question. Was it necessary that Downing Street should actually say the Empire was in need and peril? Any man who knew the history of the Old Country must realize that the hour would never arise when Britain would ask anyone for help. He would say to all—Liberals as well as Conservatives—do you propose to wait until Britain shall ask for help rather than proffer it? If so, they were unworthy to be the progeny of their illustrious ancestors. Such a request could never be, and never would be. (Cheers.)

If they had read Mr. Winston Churchill's letter—and they all ought to have read it—they must come to the conclusion that the supplying of three war vessels by Canada would be very useful to Britain. That should be enough for any Canadian. Instead of the controversy at Ottawa, the bill should have gone through weeks ago. (Cheers.)

Let them diagnose the case as a plain, everyday business concern, continued the Premier, who went on to show how the bonds, as affecting financial matters only, were almost indissoluble. That matter, however, was only a secondary consideration. Patriotism stood first, that wonderful sentiment which bound Britons together all over the world.

SARAH ACCEPTS CROWN.

laise" as the curtain was raised and the audience stood without prompting. Then Mr. Frohman said:

"The laurel wreath which is to be given to Madame Bernhardt will be a wreath of gold, but in the short time at the committee's disposal it could not be finished. We shall exhibit to her today only the model from which the completed wreath will be finished in a few weeks, when a special messenger will be sent to Paris to deliver it to Madame Bernhardt in the name of the American theatrical profession.

"It has been fashioned by Mr. Guillot, of Marcus & Co., and its design approved by John W. Alexander, and we are assured that it is the very latest Parisian fashion in gold laurel wreaths."

David Belasco, who followed Mr. Frohman, said:

"As long as I live this will remain the happiest and proudest moment in my life. All I can say is that throughout all my career this great and dear lady has always been my inspiration. I kiss her hand; God bless her.

"I can't make a speech, so our committee has selected two of our best preserved American artists, E. M. Holland and Mrs. Thomas Whiffen. Mr. Holland has won his spurs, as his father did before him. As for Mrs. Whiffen, she is still in the harness and I may add, she was our original Little Buttercup."

Mr. Holland, who spoke directly to Mme. Bernhardt, read his short speech. He said:

"Dear lady, the honor has been conferred upon me today to act as mouthpiece for the American theatrical profession. It is our desire to render some portion of the homage and affection which we have long borne in our hearts for you.

"Since you first came to us with your wonderful genius and your incomparable art, which has illuminated all the world, you have been an inspiration not only to us of the theatrical profession, but to students and workers in the great arts. With your golden voice you have conquered all the nations of the world. You made the universe your slave.

"But it will not be as Sarah of the Golden Voice alone that America will always remember and revere you. It will be as Sarah of the Golden Heart."

Mrs. Whiffen, who handed the wreath to Mme. Bernhardt, spoke in French. She said:

"Mme. Bernhardt, the greatest and most wonderful artiste, I have the honor and great pleasure of presenting to you on the part of the artists of America this crown."

When Mme. Bernhardt rose to accept the gift there was a tumult. It was some time before she could speak, and when she did she addressed the audience, and in English. There was a decided accent, but the audience could understand.

With her arms extended and tears streaming down her cheeks, the actress said, in tones that could be heard in all parts of the theatre:

"My dear public, I cannot find the words to express all that is in my heart. I cry out with all my soul: 'Thank you, thank you! my dear public; thank you, my dear sisters; thank you, my dear brothers; thank you, thank you, with all my heart. Farewell. Alas!'"

Then the curtain went down, but the audience remained. It remained half an hour longer until a photograph of Mme. Bernhardt and her friends had been taken.

WILL HAVE MORE BOATS.

J. K. Smith of the Atlin Fisheries is in the city again, having returned from a trip to the south, where he looked into matters connected with his business. He expects to have additional vessels here shortly to engage in the industry. One of these, the Carlotta Cox, formerly one of the best sealers of the Victoria fleet, is ready for the service, but is delayed on account of the engines not having arrived for her. As soon as these arrive the vessel will be brought here and put into the service.
