ANOTHER EUROPEAN WAR CLOUD HAS APPEARED

ATHENS, May 23.---A general state of hostilities between the Greeks and the Bulgarians appears now imminent. There was a serious clash this morning between forces from these two nations at Salonika, which has been so much in the public eyes during the late war.

STRONGLY OPTIMISTIC REGARDING THE CITY

E. S. Busby, the Chief Inspector of Customs for the Dominion Has Most Unbounding Faith In Prince Rupert--A Talk With the Well Known Officer of the Department Cannot Fail to Arouse to Action the Most Pessimistic

To converse with E. S. Busby, the chief inspector of customs for the Dominion, is to become more and more optimistic with regard to what the future has for this port. Mr. Busby has had unexcelled opportunities of studying the situation and is therefore able to speak from a very wide experience. He has in the past year or two covered the whole of the Dominion and can see the progress that is being made throughout the entire country. He realizes that Prince Rupert is only resting until the near approach of the coming of the railway as a through line.

In the three years since he was here before, the city has made remarkable progress, he says, but the true development has not yet started. He cites the case of Vancouver and of the various cities and towns on the prairies and shows that Prince Rupert, with vastly greater possibilities, must, as soon as the Grand Trunk Pacific is in, become a city of wonders. He would not be surprised to see in this city all records of the past put in the shade. There is the opportunity for a tremendous development and he is satisfied that it will come, and come quickly.

The trade of the country is going forward with leaps and bounds. Population is pouring in from all directions and the position that this city occupies in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific and the trade of the Dominion must make it a great centre.

Mr. Busby will complete his inspection of the office here before the end of the week and will then leave for the south on his way back to the capital. He appears to be well satisfied with the condition of the offices. Realizing that the port is becoming all the time more important, he will introduce some improvements in connection with the handling of the business, so as to give the public the very best of service.

TARIFF CHANGES IN THE CUSTOMS

The changes in the tariff relating to goods entering Canada are not very great. They are set forth in the following copy of the tariff resolutions adopted by the House at Ottawa:

KING GEORGE HAS DESIRE FOR PEACE

Replying to Address Presented to Him By the British Residents of Berlin He Refers to the Fervent Wish Which Has Been the Chief Aim of His Father's Life--He Struck the First Note of Peace In Connection With the Gathering

Berlin, May 23.—King George, who is the guest of Emperor William, in a speech delivered here today in replying to an address from the British residents of Berlin, said he had a fervent desire for the preservation of peace. This had been the chief aim and object in his father's life.

This was the first note of peace struck at the great gathering of the crowned heads for the wedding tomorrow of the Kaiser's daughter, Princess Victoria Louise, to Duke Ernest Albert of Cumberland. It has been the belief in various circles that the gathering that is being held of crowned heads may have a tendency to spread the peace sentiment among the different nations represented.

The most elaborate preparations are being made for the wedding ceremony itself. In this connection there will be worn by the young princess the historical princess crown which is taken from the imperial treasury only for the marriages of Prussian princesses.

WHAT A CHANGE?

As the Liberals at Ottawa are declaiming against the closure the Conservative press keeps in circulation such observations as these:

"I give my pledge that the rules of the House will be changed."—Hon. Sydney Fisher, in 1911.

"Obstruction is a vice and must be extirpated from our political life."—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, in 1911.

"The closure must come to Canada."—Hon. Charles Murphy, in 1911.

"I am prepared to vote closure and to put closure through, no matter how long that may take."—Sir Allen Aylesworth, in 1911.

"Every member of this House has just as much right as the majority accord to them, and no more."—Hon. W. S. Fielding, in 1908.

"The party which will favor a revision of the rules will be endorsed by the people."—Hon. William Paterson, in 1908.

"The minority have always recognized that the view of the majority shall prevail."—Hon. Wm. Pugsley, in 1911.

"Let the government start in at once to change the rules of the House, if it takes months to do it, in order to adopt the closure."—F. B. Carvell, in 1908.

SELF-GOVERNMENT.

Duncan Ross, in common with others of the Liberal party, would make it appear very much afraid that the British Constitution is to be smashed to pieces because the Conservative party at Ottawa has not seen fit to follow the advice of a few soreheads of the Liberal party who were left at home at the last election. These succeeded in getting the Liberals in the House, including Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to follow their wishes, hoping thereby to bring on an election with the possibility that they might by some means get a safe seat and get back into the House again where they might continue their political life instead of being forced to get into some other calling.

No taxation without representation sounds well, but who is pretending that this principle shall be violated? Canadians are not submitting to taxation by the Home Government without representation. Canadians demand the right to do as they like with their money. Canadians can tax themselves or what they wish. The wish of the Canadian people is voiced through the majority that is elected to represent them in the House of Commons. When that majority decides that there is a necessity for an emergency vote in the interests of the Empire and wants to vote the money to be used as they see fit they are not violating any principle of self-government.

When a minority in the House of Commons representing principles that a minority of the people of the country believe in attempt by brute force and animal endurance to dictate as to what shall be done by the majority representatives, the principles of British government are being violated. It has been shown in the past session of the House of Commons that it requires heroic methods some times to force Liberal minorities into constitutional lines. The country, however, has been treated to the spectacle of how far the desire for power will carry a party that is in political desperation. These tears that the Liberal politicians are shedding over the decline and death of the British Constitution will not alarm the people of Canada. These are old chestnuts that have been revived by the party after sixteen years in power. The Canadian electorate has had the spectacle of a party for purely party advantage taking a stand that was against the best interests of the Empire.

PRINCE ALBERT IS BACK TO PORT

SHE WAS SUCCESSFULLY HAULED OFF YESTERDAY MORNING BY THE TUG LORNE AND RETURNED.

Survey Will Be Made of Her Today, When It Is Hoped to Have Her Proceed to Masset.

The Grand Trunk Pacific steamer Prince Albert has returned to the port from Port Simpson, where she had the misfortune of grounding on Alexander Point. She returned under her own steam and does not appear to be badly damaged by the accident. The officials of the company are in hopes that she will be able to proceed to Masset and then south.

The vessel was hauled off the rocks about 4 o'clock yesterday morning by the tug Lorne, that went to her assistance from here. Captain McCoskrie, port warden, went to Port Simpson by the Lorne and had an opportunity of making an inspection of the vessel at low water as she stood high out of the water. The steamer had gone on the point where several other steamers have had the misfortune to strand in the past. She went on easily, so as to cause comparatively small damage. Some of the plates were bent a little as she went on shore until she rested about amidships on boulders that lie there. As the tide went out the bow of the vessel stood well out of the water with the stern afloat. It was possible, therefore, to ease off the forward part. Any damage that could have been would be about under the oil tanks.

At high tide the Lorne was successful in getting her into deep water, the Albert having steam up herself all the time. The steamer did not take any water and officers of the company are in hope that there is nothing very radically wrong with her. It is, in fact, believed that she will be able to proceed on her trip this evening.

A large consignment of cement that was on board for the drydock is being taken off here. The vessel came from Port Simpson under her own steam and will discharge all the cargo possible here. This afternoon when she has been lightered the opportunity will be afforded to make an inspection of the vessel. Mr. Brownlee, the chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific, will arrive by the Prince Rupert this morning and will act in conjunction with the local officials. It is expected that when the vessel is light and an opportunity is afforded to inspect her from the inside that she will be found to be in condition to proceed to Masset. If that is possible she will make that trip and then go to Skidegate and from there south to undergo the necessary repairs that may have to be made on her.

CHILDREN'S SPORT FOR EMPIRE DAY

CHIEF VICKERS, EVER MINDFUL OF THE YOUNG, TOOK THE STEPS TO ARRANGE.

This Afternoon on Second Avenue Programme of Events Will Be Held for Small Athletes.

Empire Day is not to be forgotten altogether in the city this year in spite of the fact that it was decided that there should be no marked celebration as in former years. It was decided that there should be a centering of the celebration in connection with the fall fair and for that reason the earlier date was not made as marked as in other years. Chief Vickers of the police force, who is always thinking of the children, decided that it would not be right to allow the day to pass without any celebration, and accordingly he got busy yesterday and in a short time raised a subscription to be devoted to the getting of prizes for a series of sporting events that will be contested for today.

The events will be carried out on Second avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets. The programme will commence at 2 o'clock sharp. G. R. Naden, acting mayor, will be judge. The committee who will assist consists of W. H. Vickers, secretary-treasurer; J. A. Kirkpatrick, George D. Tite, J. R. Beatty and Aldermen Kerr and McCaffery.

The programme of events is as follows:

Boys' race, under 6 years of age, 50 yards.

Girls' race, under 6 years of age, 50 yards.

Boys' race, 6 and 7 years of age, 50 yards.
