LOCAL DIRECTORS OF TRUST COMPANY EXONERATED

Col. Warden Pays Tribute To Heroism Of Local Officer

Letter Written By Sam Hughes Which Sealed His Fate

Local Directors Of Continental Trust Did Not Deceive

The cases in which the Continental Trust Company's affairs were the subject matter were disposed of in Supreme Court yesterday, with the exception of the judgment in the case of Naden vs. McGregor, in which G. R. Naden seeks the return of $460 which he advanced as a bondsman in connection with the company when Mr. McGregor did not honor a draft drawn on him by the company. A legal point will be decided by Mr. Justice Morrison with respect to the including of Williams & Manson as parties with Mr. Naden, although they were not financially affected by the transaction, but were on the bond. In the main case, that of McGregor vs. Naden et al. His Lordship decided that there was no ground for action on the part of the plaintiff. There had been no deception practised by the local directors of the Continental Trust Company in selling to D. M. McGregor.

Evidence Of Officials.

Upon resuming the case yesterday morning C. B. Peterson the accountant of the company, gave evidence. He went fully into the meeting with Mr. McGregor, the plaintiff, when the latter was enquiring into the affairs, looking to the taking over of the stock. He was given all the information possible.

Needed Money.

Cross-examined by Mr. Steers, witness said the company was in urgent need of money. When it was represented that if money was not forthcoming at once the company would have to close the statement was not meant literally.

Witness explained that he and Mr. Hobin had been drawing from the $50 a month that was not paid as salary under the minutes of the directors. That amounted to $900 when the statement was presented to Mr. McGregor. It was not shown on the statement, but he explained this to Mr. McGregor.

Witness would not agree with Mr. McCaffery if the latter said the company was insolvent when he bought into it.

M. J. Hobin's Evidence.

M. J. Hobin, examined by Mr. Patmore, said he had been manager of the Continental Trust Company. He met Mr. McGregor early in the year 1914. He had been brought into the office of the company by Mr. Naden and Mr. McCaffery. Witness was told that Mr. McGregor contemplated buying and Mr. Naden asked him to show him all.

Mr. Naden and Mr. McCaffery left and witness went into the general questions with Mr. McGregor. He explained to Mr. McGregor then that there was an arrangement under which witness and Mr. Peterson were paid $100 a month, and as much more as was repuired to live on from the $50 that was to remain at rest.

Was To Stiffen Up.

A statement had been sent to Mr. McGregor. When the latter went through the statement with Mr. Peterson, he, Mr. (McGregor), did not pay much attention to it. Mr. McGregor did not appear to care much about the loss of about $12,000 in affairs. He said he was going to get money in and "stiffen up" the concern.

At a meeting in the Trust Company's office, later on when Mr. Leyens came with Mr. McGregor there were present Messrs McGregor, Leyens, McCaffery, Naden, and he believed that perhaps Dr. Kergin and Mr. Pattullo were present. After an hour's conversation Mr. Leyens said the company should be a good one. He said he would put $1,000 in it, and Mr. McGregor said he would put $1,000 in.

In reply to Mr. Williams, witness

TRIBUTE PAID TO CAPT. ADAIR CARSS

COL. WARDEN HAS WRITTEN PRAISING THE HEROIC WORK OF LOCAL OFFICER

He Is Described As One Of The Noblest And Bravest Officers In The Service.

Judge Carss has received from France a letter written under date of October 26, which must certainly be prized by him and by Mrs. Carss. It is from Col. Warden commanding the 102nd Battalion, in which Capt. Adair Carss served. The letter is as follows:

"Judge Carss,

Prince Rupert.

"Dear Sir:

"I regret to have to inform you of the death of one of the noblest, bravest, and most popular officers that ever fell fighting for his country, —that one was your son, Adair. It is utterly impossible for me to express in words the sorrow I feel at losing an officer I hoped to have as one of my senior officers. You must be a proud father to have had a son who has proved a hero.

"He was attempting to make a wounded German more comfortable (who died soon after, he was wounded so badly), when he suddenly threw a bomb at Adair, causing his death.

"I loved him as my own brother; the longer we knew him the more popular he became. He would now have been promoted to major had he lived. The battalion led in the attack and went over like a wall, and Adair was one of the first in the trench, (the famous Regina Trench.)

"Please convey my sincere regrets and sympathy, and also those of my officers and men to his mother, who must be a noble woman to rear a son like Adair.

"With very kind regard believe me,

"Yours very sincerely,

"J. W. WARDEN, Lt.-Col."

RUSSIANS HAVE SAVED SITUATION WITH RUMANIANS

Petrograd, Nov. 17.—In the region of Kimpolung, in Transylvania, the Rumanians have fiercely engaged the Austro-Germans and have been successful in retaining their positions.

In the region of Dorna Watra, key position of the whole Transylvanian campaign from an Allied standpoint, the Russians have stopped a hostile offensive movement and have been successful in capturing a strongly fortified height and a hundred and eighty prisoners.

There is intermittent activity prevailing along the Stokhod River and on the Brezany and Halicz fronts, but the Russians have directed their attention chiefly to the Rumanian theatre of war, where experts believe that the crisis is now past. The arrival of fresh Russian reinforcements in this region is thought to have removed all danger of any further advance being made by Von Falkenhayn's army.

London, Nov. 17.—The British aeroplanes are keeping up continuous attacks upon the enemy. Raids have been successful in causing devastation to German works.

A French airship succeeded in bringing down an enemy machine near Charilnes.

North of the Ancre River British artillery fire caused several explosions within the German lines. Three hundred more prisoners have been captured and the offensive at this point still continues.

South of the Ancre there has been considerable hostile shelling of the British lines.

How Sir Sam Hughes Hastened Cutting Off By Premier Borden

In calling for the resignation of Sir Sam Hughes, it has been stated by Sir Sam that Premier Borden did so following a letter written by him November 1. The letter in question is as follows:

"Ottawa, Nov. 1, 1916.

"Dear Sir Robert:

"In reply to your memorandum of October 31, ultimo, permit me in brief to summarize.

"I do recall my visit to Great Britain in the autumn of 1914. I did expect both under the statutory law of Britain and under the law of common courtesy that I would have been permitted to exercise some control and direction over our gallant Canadian boys, in the way of organization.

"But there had evidently been some communication to the effect that 'control and direction' of this magnificent force should be under the British Government direct. The then Minister, George Perley, acting High Commissioner, implied such in the following words:

"'You do not pretend surely to have anything to do with the Canadian soldiers in Britain?'

"Further, Sir Robert, I spoke to you on my return and told you the circumstances both then and subsequently. You yourself know that last year you took occasion to speak to Sir George Perley concerning the matter. The treatment he accorded me after this was the only respectable or courteous treatment he ever gave me.

"Regarding the consultative submilitia council. It has been tentatively formed. My way of doing things is to obtain results, not necessarily the creation of bodies organized by Order-in-Council.

"As a result, before I left England, we had made many improvements.

"Permit me to draw your attention to nearly every commission which has been formed. They look beautiful on paper, but few, if anyone of them have been anything like perfect in practice. The Hospitals Commission, the Pensions Board and the National Service Commission all seemed lovely when sent out, but everyone concerned with them knows of the absurdities therein contained.

"Permit me, further, to draw your attention to the fact that the British constitution does not exist on paper. No Order-in-Council is behind it.

"The second line of your memorandum reads:

"'So far as I am aware you exercised the same control and direction over the forces in Great Britain during the first year as subsequently.'

"Sir Robert, no one knows better than you that this statement is incorrect. This last year with the full concurrence of the war office, our management and direction have been given every consideration and by their request.

"One other point and I am through. It might be implied from your memorandum that my failing to secure authority by Order-in-Council for his sub-militia council impelled you to your course you are now pursuing regarding Sir George Perley. May I be permitted to say that both you and I know to the contrary. I knew early in August that Sir George Perley had planned something along these very lines. You have also admitted that as early as the first week of September you had this matter under consideration. I understood that it was under consideration by you and Perley earlier. You incidentally remarked yesterday that you had not consulted any of your colleagues. Of course when I drew you attention to the statement you corrected yourself.

"Faithfully,

"SAM HUGHES."

DEVELOPMENT IN.

use is destined to follow very closely the "cooking by wire." This seems particularly true for our two largest provinces, Ontario and Quebec, where nature has compensated the absence of coal with a most generous supply of water powers.

The largest development in connection with this mode of heating dwellings is not a new idea, but simply the application of the well known principle of using electric energy at times during the day when it is not required in large quantities for other purposes, such as lighting, etc., in other words making it an "off peak" load, thus allowing a material reduction in the rates paid for the energy used.

To make electric heating an off peak load, some heat storage is necessary. Electric heaters can be used with hot water, steam, hot air, or direct heating or with any combination of these methods.

Experiments were recently made in Seattle, Wash., to illustrate and test the possibilities of electric heating.

These experiments demonstrate that the hot water heating system with ample storage tank presents the most advantages for use with electric heaters. This is due to the fact that the heat storage keeps a uniform temperature, and, for comfort, less heat is required with steady heat than with intermittent heat. Considerable economy of heat is gained by covering the basement pipes, and especially the storage tank, with heat insulation at least 2 inches thick.

The comparative cost of this method of heating is fairly well established, and, while it is only economically feasible where specially low rates are offered for limited hours service, there are probably many who are willing to pay the extra cost on account of the greater convenience, sanitation and cleanliness of electric heating.

While electric heat will probably never replace the more familiar forms entirely, there is no doubt there will be a great development in localities having good water powers.

LOCAL DIRECTORS OF CONTINENTAL TRUST

said that he heard Mr. Peterson explain to Mr. McGregor the question of the allowing of the part of the salaries to remain unpaid.

Court adjourned at one o'clock.

Afternoon Sitting.

Upon resuming after lunch George R. Naden was called. He recalled the negotiations. Mr. McCaffery, while in Vancouver had given an option and Mr. McGregor later came to Prince Rupert. While in Prince Rupert an agreement was reached with Mr. McGregor, which was put in writing and was produced.

Witness met Mr. McGregor in July, 1914, and discussed the question of a bond that had to be given by the Trust Company to the Government. Witness objected to going on the bond, because he was then out of the company. Mr. McGregor said he would protect them if they went on the bond. Witness was then afraid of war; but Mr. McGregor said his affairs were all in shape so that he could take care of the bond; and on the strength of that he went on it.

McGregor Fell Down.

Mr. Naden said Mr. McGregor did not carry out his undertaking to take care of the demands of the Trust Company, and witness had to endorse a draft for $460, drawn by the Trust Company upon Mr. McGregor. Witness had to pay the amount. The draft had never been honored by Mr. McGregor.

Witness said that Mr. Leyens agreed to put up $1,000 for the company if Mr. McGregor would do likewise, and Messrs. McCaffery, Pattullo and himself each put up a thousand. Mr. McGregor said he had a friend who would put in another $1,000.

Witness held that the company was solvent at that time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Steers, witness said Mr. McGregor was anxious to see that any obligations were protected during the sixty days until Mr. McGregor paid his $2,000. That was reasonable, as there were demands that might be made, covering about $7,000, while there was only about $500 cash on hand to do it.

T. D. Pattullo.

T. D. Pattullo met Mr. McGregor on Sunday, February 4, 1914, at his own house with Messrs. Naden and McCaffery.

Witness denied that Mr. McGregor had evidently decided to buy the Trust Company. He wanted the affairs protected for 60 days, until he was able to transmit the $2,000 he was to pay. Witness, McCaffery and Naden agreed to take care of it. An agreement was entered into.

M. P. McCaffery.

M. P. McCaffery testified to having interested Mr. McGregor in the Trust Company and an option was given. Referring to the meeting at Mr. Pattullo's house, witness was surprised that Mr. McGregor had nothing to discuss about the company's statement. He was ready to take the stock. All he wanted was that the company should be taken care of for 60 days, within which the $2,600 was to be paid by him. The agreement was there prepared and signed. He recalled negotiations with Mr. Leyens, and both he and Mr. McGregor agreed to take $1,000 worth of stock, provided the local men did similarly.

Explained Expressions.

Asked what he meant when he said the company was insolvent, when he bought stock, witness explained that he understood that the company had to get money quickly or it would be unable to meet its obligaions. He bought $11,000 worth of stock for $1,100.

Explaining what he meant when he said that Mr. McGregor was regarded by him as being rather unusual in connection with the deal, witness said that he would have had an auditor go into the affairs. He, (witness) had no reputation as a business man upon which to buy.

Address Of Counsel.

Mr. Patmore, addressing the court, contended that there was no misrepresentation to Mr. McGregor. It was evident that Mr. McGregor intended to sell stock and make the company carry itself. He bought $11,000 worth of stock for $2,000. With the outbreak of the war, the failure of the Dominion Trust and the closing of the Bank of Vancouver, the chances of selling stock passed away.

Mr. Williams, for Messrs. McCaffery and Naden, addressed the court briefly.

Mr. Steers argued that the statement that the company was practically breaking even and that it was not shown that there were $900 of liabilities that should have been included and were not constituted misrepresentation.

Judgment Delivered.

His Lordship said the case was not complicated. He was convinced that the plaintiff, in view of his experience, relied upon his own investigations. There was no evidence that the defendants hampered the plaintiff in getting the fullest information. Mr. McGregor was a stock broker, and it was common to his profession to be on his guard. He believed Mr. McGregor was satisfied to put the concern on a proper footing. He did not believe he was deceived. He accepted the defendants stand as to the bond.

Production and Thrift

"CANADA from her abundance can help supply the Empire's needs, and this must be a comforting thought for those upon whom the heavy burden of directing the Empire's affairs has been laid. Gain or no gain the course before the farmers of Canada is as clear as it was last year—they must produce abundantly in order to meet the demands that may be made, and I believe this to be especially true in regard to live stock, the world's supply of which must be particularly affected in this vast struggle. Stress and strain may yet be in store for us all before this tragic conflict is over, but not one of us doubts the issue, and Canadians will do their duty in the highest sense of that great word."—HON. MARTIN BURRELL, Minister of Agriculture.

"MODERN war is made by resources, by money, by foodstuffs, as well as by men and by munitions. While war is our first business, it is the imperative duty of every man in Canada to produce all that he can, to work doubly hard while our soldiers are in the trenches, in order that the resources of the country may not only be conserved, but increased, for the great struggle that lies before us. 'Work and Save' is a good motto for War-time."—SIR THOMAS WHITE, Minister of Finance.

THE CALL OF EMPIRE COMES AGAIN IN 1916

TO CANADIAN FARMERS, DAIRYMEN, FRUIT GROWERS, GARDENERS

WHAT IS NEEDED? THESE IN PARTICULAR—

WHEAT, OATS, HAY,
BEEF, PORK, BACON,
CHEESE, EGGS, BUTTER, POULTRY,
CANNED FRUITS, FRUIT JAMS,
SUGAR, HONEY, WOOL, FLAX FIBRE,
BEANS, PEAS, DRIED VEGETABLES

We must feed ourselves, feed our soldiers, and help feed the Allies. The need is greater in 1916 than it was in 1915. The difficulties are greater, the task is heavier, the need is more urgent, the call to patriotism is louder—therefore be thrifty and produce to the limit.

"THE AGRICULTURAL WAR BOOK FOR 1916" is now in the press. To be had from The Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

MANY IN PRINCE RUPERT TRY SIMPLE MIXTURE

Many Prince Rupert people are surprised at the QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. This simple remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing. C. H. Orme, Pioneer Druggist. g-8.
