CITY HAS LONG LIST OF SOLDIERS ON HONOR ROLL

BRITISH SCATTERED GERMAN FORCES IN ATTACK

Unloading Trainload Of Copper Here From The Amur

Patriotic Gathering Listened To Vigorous Address By Fred Peters

In spite of the rain that came last evening at an inopportune time there was a good turn-out of citizens who took part in the parade to the Westholme Theatre to take part in the patriotic exercises, when a resolution was passed by a unanimous standing vote in favor of the prosecution of the war to a successful issue.

Mayor McCaffery presided at the meeting, and in his opening remarks stated that the event which they met to take part in was not a local affair. In every part of the British Empire they were met and were passing similar resolutions to the one to come up. He made reference to Britain's efforts in the direction of peace. Not until Great Britain had exhausted every effort to prevent war did she sign the document two years ago that brought on the conflict.

Retracing part of the history of the war, he expressed thanks to little Belgium for its efforts. It was their duty to praise on the second anniversary of the declaration of war and consider the part Great Britain was called upon to play. Thank God, he said, for the part she was playing. It was the lion's share she was taking in the war. At the start of the war Britain had had to take a very prominent part, as far as the fleet was concerned. Her fleet had to prevent supplies going into the Central Powers of Europe. That part had been carired out effectively. The fleet had lived up to the best traditions of her glorious past.

But while Britain was looked to as all powerful in a naval way she had not been looked to as a great military power. Thanks to the genius of Kitchener that had been changed and she was taking her full part on the land. The cause was a sacred one to every son of the Empire.

The Mayor made reference to the Roll of Honor on the platform. He paid a high compliment to the men who had made the supreme sacrifice and lost their lives in the fighting. Were it not for those men they would not be in the position they were at that moment. They expected men who were trained to military service to make a showing on the field, but they had men who had not been so trained who had acquitted themselves in the most creditable way.

He asked all present to pledge with him to see that those who faced the battle were taken care of, and that the widows and orphans of those who fell in battle were cared for.

He held out the hope that perhaps before long they might be called upon to celebrate the victory which would mean so much to the Empire.

In introducing Mr. Peters, he alluded to the fact that he was well able to deal with the subject and that he had given of his own family to serve at the front.

Hon. Fred Peters, K. C., said on this awful day for the British Empire he could say nothing good of our enemies. He was speaking to a resolution which asked them to prosecute this war to the end. This will be passed on tens of thousands of platforms in the British Empire. The resolution was framed with the object of the people, not the rulers, to voice the sentiment to go on with the war. It was a message saying to the rulers, "go on, stop not."

For two years they had been fighting two nations that for forty years had been preparing for war. Britain was now preparing and had found out how they could win.

They had been fighting cowards. Some might say that this was going too far. But as the pirates of old the Germans showed their cowardice in the way they treated their prisoners not in the way they fought. Germans were cowards in the slaughter of women and children. In this he referred to the mutilation of Belgian children; the crucifying of Canadian soldiers; the sinking of the Lusitania; the shelling of English bathing beaches; and the destruction of Belgium.

The Germans never made such a mistake as in concluding that, by works of frightfulness, they would deter the British people from prosecuting this war. British people were a quiet people, but they were not a people that could be frightened in that way.

He made reference to the murder of Nurse Cavell. Acts of that kind must be punished. He was not asking for revenge. The whole nation had to be punished and the rulers who had induced them to do as they did must be punished. History taught lessons, as shown in the Jerusalem and Carthage. While he did not expect to see it done, he would like to see Berlin razed to the ground and sown to salt. He did hope to see peace declared in Berlin. He would like to see Old Joshua judging after the war. He would like to see the Kaiser hanged.

There was a message to send, not

BRITISH MADE DEADLY ATTACK

GERMANS MOVED UP ON CLOSE FORMATION AND WERE TURNED BACK

Kaiser's Forces Suffered From Terrible Work Of Machine Guns.

London, Aug. 4.—At De Ville Wood last night the Germans sent four strong detachments of troops to attack the British lines. The British allowed them to approach to within close range before repelling them. The enemy losses were terrible, as they evidently thought that they were to catch the British unprepared. At one point the British caught a party of fifty Germans marching forward in mass formation. They turned a battery of machine guns on the enemy and completely wiped them out.

Judge In New York Has Disposed Of The Cases Before Him.

Judge Mayer, sitting in the Admiralty Branch of the Federal District Court in New York has signed a final decree disposing of all the suits brought against the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company Ltd., which operates the White Star Line, growing out of the loss of the Titanic. The decree was issued on a petition asking that the liability of the company be limited under the American statute, to the amount of freight and passenger money collected for the ill-fated voyage, and for the value

Shipment Of Copper From Anyox Unloading From Amur Into Cars

All day yesterday the steamer Amur has been at the G. T. P. wharf transferring blister copper from her hold to to the G. T. P. cars that are awaiting the cargo. It will, immediately it has all be taken from the Amur and placed on the cars, be taken at once east by special train for treatment when the copper will be refined.

The shipment of copper by this route to the east has in the past been confined for the most part to smaller shipments that have come here from Anyox in small shipments of about one or two cars at a time. It would now appear that the Granby Company is planning to ship by way of this port.

The saving of time by way of here is very material. In addition to that there is the saving in the matter of insurance, which amounts to considerable in view of the distance that has to be covered in taking the material all the way to the southern ports in order to have it put on the cars there.

The regular train yesterday was held until noon before leaving, in order to allow a party of tourists to board the train here on the way east.

No. 6 QUESTIONS FOR THE ELECTORS No. 6

RE B. C. PROHIBITION ACT

IS IT NOT REALLY A PROHIBITION BOOMERANG?

READ THIS "WIDE OPEN" CLAUSE OF THE ACT.

Sec. 57, Par. 2:

"Nothing in this Act shall be construed to interfere (a) With the right of any person to import from without the Province liquor for bona fide use in his private dwelling house."

Does not importation of liquor necessarily mean its purchase in quantity?

Does not the clause provide for a person giving unlimited orders for liquor without any restriction as to the frequency of the orders?

Is it not human nature for a man to use anything more freely when he has an ample supply on hand?

WIL NOT THIS "WIDE OPEN" IMPORTATION CLAUSE HAVE A TENDENCY TO INCREASE THE INDIVIDUAL CONSUMPTION OF LIQUOR BECAUSE OF THE FACT THAT IT MUST BE PURCHASED IN QUANTITY AND KEPT IN A DWELLING RATHER THAN PURCHASED BY THE SINGLE GLASS OR BOTTLE?

As fair minded men, the electors of British Columbia are asked to carefully consider the terms of the Prohibition Act.

ITALY NO LONGER IS TO BE BOUND BY OLD TREATY

Amsterdam, Aug. 4.—Italy has formally notified Germany of the termination of the German-Italian commercial treaty of 1891, which in the ordinary course should not have expired until next year. It is understood that the existence of this treaty has prevented Italy from declaring war upon Germany and it is believed that this notice is an intimation of Italy's intention to do so now.

The money value of this liability was estimated by the company to amount to $117,101.35, and this sum, which had been deposited subject to the order of the court, was returned to the company. Suits were begun by hundreds of claimants, but pending the action of the court on the petition the complaints and answers were withdrawn and the suits were adjusted out of court. By the terms of the settlement the company agreed to pay about $665,000 in full for all claims, and this amount, it is understood, was to be distributed pro rata among the claimants.

The original actions represented claims amounting to more than $18,000,000. These were afterwards reduced by agreement between the counsel for the claimants and the company to about $3,000,000. The $665,000 paid by the company was deposited in the New York Trust Company and yielded about 21 per cent. of the total amount of the adjusted claims.

The Titanic was lost on April 15, 1912. Shortly afterward suits began to be instituted and on October 4, 1912, the company filed its petition for a limitation of liability. Many of the complaints charged that the Titanic was lost through the negligence of her navigators, with the privity and knowledge of her owners. Trial of the limitation proceeding ran from June 22 to July 3, 1915, the evidence clearly indicating that the loss of the Titanic was due to an accident.

Judge Mayer's decree held the company guiltless of any privity or knowledge such as were charged in the complaints and held "that the petitioner is not liable to any extent for any loss, damage, injuries, destructions, and fatalities, or for any claim whatever in any way resulting or arising from or growing out of said collision."

The first list of claims filed amounted to $5,900,000, and this amount was rapidly added to. In one of the preliminary arguments in the suits it was contended that the company had no right to the protection of the American law which would reduce its liability to about $97,000. It was argued that the claims must be tried in accordance with the British law which would provide between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 as the basis of a settlement.

PRINCE RUPERT PEOPLE GET INSTANT ACTION

Suggestions for Successful ADVERTISING

The Best Time To Use Advertising Space

While the successful advertiser makes all times his own, their must of necessity be occasions when there are special advantages in presenting live facts about your goods to the public.

Advantages In Strenuous Times

Did it ever occur to you that in times when money is specially "tight" that the average buyer, and especially the thrifty housewife makes it a point to buy where the best can be got for the money expended? Have you an advantage to offer? Your advertising it will give you far better results than when times are better.

Buying Values Are Investigated

The value of money is appreciated now. Values count and are investigated by the public. This is the time to get full results from those who have good values to offer the public in any line of consumption.

MR. HARRY HANSON,
"The Reliable Plumber,"
Prince Rupert, B. C.

Prince Rupert, B. C., April 9, 1914.

I have great pleasure in certifying to the excellent hot water and heating system that you installed in our parsonage, and that after six months of operation through the winter months it has given every satisfaction.

The system heats a thirty gallon tank of water to boiling temperature in one hour after the fire has been started; it in no way interferes with the oven for baking purposes. In addition to this, the wall radiator which you placed in dining-room and connected with the range boiler has given us splendid satisfaction, supplying us with ample heating throughout the winter, saving us the cost of a stove and fuel.

I most heartily testify to the satisfaction and efficiency of your system and gladly recommend it.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) (Rev.) J. F. DIMMICK.

PATRIOTIC GATHERING

only to the rulers but to our Allies. This was a message that, as long as they stayed with the fight they would stay with them.

To their enemies they would send a message. It would not be that they were too proud to fight. It would be that they were slow to enter the fight, but having done so, they were too proud to stop. They should never be satisfied until German militarism was killed.

To their neutral friends they would send a message, and that was that at present they wanted no interference. It was a message of "hands off." The Allies had shed the blood and spent the money and would decide how the war was to end.

This voice came from families that were broken. He could speak himself along that line. He would say for such: "Never mind our sufferings; if we have more boys to send we will send them; no matter what the sufferings are that we go through let the nation go on irrespective of these sufferings."

Mr. Peters then proposed to deal briefly with the future of the Empire and what would come out of this war as far as the Empire was concerned. There had been a lot of speculation as to what the Empire stood for. One explanation had been that the different parts of the Empire were bound together by a cord of sentiment. It was so fine that the Kaiser did not believe that it would hold the parts together. There were those who thought that Canada should say to Great Britain that she did not need her help in a war. But that bond was shown by Canada sending 500,000 men, or one-tenth of the British army to the war. The only principles to hold a nation together were honor, honesty and truth. Those principles would make a nation respected.

He would teach in every school what a great thing it was to belong to the British nation, and teach the children to honor, truth and honesty. An empire built up by people of that class would be such that it would not only be worth dying for, as men were doing today, but would be worth living for. In conclusion he quoted:

"To thine own self be true,
Thou cans't not then be false to any man."

This, he said, was true of men and also of nations.

The resolution was carried by a unanimous vote.

During the evening Miss Barnsley sang "Somewhere in France" and had to reply to a merited encore. Prof. Harvey sang "Keep the Home Fires Burning." An excellent orchestra was in attendance and rendered patriotic airs. The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save the King."

CANADA'S CALL FOR SERVICE AT HOME

Produce More and Save More — The Empire needs food. If you are not in the fighting line you may be in the producing line. Labour is limited—all the more reason to do more than ever before. Grow food for the men who are fighting for you. The Allies need all the food that you can produce. Every little helps. You are responsible for your own work. If you cannot produce as much as you would like, produce all you can. Work with the right spirit. Put fighting energy into your effort and produce now when it counts. The more you produce the more you can save. Producing and saving are war-service.

Make Your Labour Efficient — In war-time do not waste time and energy on unimportant and unprofitable work. Economize labour. Put off unproductive work till after the war, and, if possible, help in producing something needed now. Let us not waste labour. Canada needs it all. If possible help to feed the Allies. Make your backyard a productive garden. Cultivate it with a will. Make your labour count for as much as possible.

Do Not Waste Materials — There should be no waste in war-time. Canada could pay the annual interest on her war expenditure out of what we waste on our farms, in our factories, in our homes. Every pound of food saved from waste is as good as a pound of increased production. The way for a nation to save is for every individual to save. France is strong to-day because of thrift in time of peace. The men and women of Great Britain are not only "doing" but are learning to "do without."

Spend Your Money Wisely — Practise economy in the home by eliminating luxuries. Wasting our dollars here weakens our strength at the Front. Your savings will help Canada to finance the war. Save your money for the next Dominion War issue. There can be no better investment.
