Fighting Of Intense Character Indicated Off Holland Coast

London, Sept. 15.—A message received from Maassluis in Holland, says there appears to be heavy fighting in progress. Heavy firing can be heard in a westerly direction from there.

It commenced at 9:30 this evening and by 10 o'clock it had become so violent that the windows both here and at Hook of Holland were set rattling.

Maassluis and Hook Holland are both on the North Sea, to the west of Rotterdam.

The fighting that is here indicated, seems to indicate that a naval battle of intensity is in progress off the coast of Holland, or else a heavy attack is being made on the northern most coast of Belgium by the British fleet.

Coming West To Inspect.

Collingwood Schreiber, the Chief Consulting Engineer under the Dominion Government Railways, will be here in a few days. It is expected that he will arrive from Ottawa over the line of the G. T. P. on Monday.

THE ANGLO-FRENCH BILLION DOLLAR LOAN MEETING WITH SUCCESS

Washington, Sept. 15.—The Anglo-French financial commission is making headway in its negotiations for the billion dollar loan, despite the oppostion of the pro-German element in financial circles in the United States.

The interest will be five er cent., and an attempt will be made to float the loan at par.

The German agents, alarmed at the success of the Anglo-French billion dollar loan, instituted a campaign against the floation, while other German-American bankers realized that the loan was necessary to the Allies in order to maintain American prosperity.

The suggestion is made to float a counter loan as an embarrassment. German papers arriving recently advocate the destruction of ammunition factories.

He adds that the Indians there all were delighted to read of what his brother Major C. W. Peck was doing. The list of subscriptions is as follows:

Duke Of Connaught Praised West At Vernon Inspection

Vernon, Sept. 15.—H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught inspected the troops at the concentration camp here today. He stated it had not been his privilege to inspect a finer bunch of men.

He said he was sure when they got to the front they would do all that was required of them. He was proud of the way the west had responded to the call for men. The ready response of the west was often a matter of comment in the east. The west had, he said, set a fine example to the rest of Canada.

The Duke will inspect the troops at Vancouver tomorrow.

TRADE UNIONS AND THEIR WORK

INTERESTING ADDRESSES DELIVERED BY DELEGATES TO LABOR CONGRESS

R. A. Rigg And E. W. O'Dell Addressed Public Meeting Last Evening.

Last evening in the Empress Theatre a public meeting was held under the auspices of the Trades and Labor Council. The meeting was addressed by R. A. Rigg, M. P. P. of Winnipeg, who has been elected as a labor member in the Legislature of Manitoba, and by E. W. O'Dell, of Hamilton, organizer of the boot and shoe workers. They are both on their way to attend the Trades and Labor Congress in Vancouver. S. D. Macdonald, President of the local Trades and Labor Council presided.

S. D. Macdonald in opening, explained that advantage had been taken of the fact that these well known labor men were passing through the city to have them speak here.

Mr. O'Dell, the organizer of the boot and shore workers, being called upon to speak. He said he was on his way to attend what they were pleased to call the workingman's parliament of Canada. Efforts were made to have reforms made in the laws of the provinces, which they felt would be for the benefit of the working class, and would tend to make Canada better. The feeling prevailed that they would need "friends at court" before the best was obtained.

In Ontario, they had what was claimed to be the best Compnsation Act in the world. They had been working for that for ten years.

His experience of the labor movement was not to stir up trouble, but in establishing conditions that would benefit. The sentiment was improving against such things as the sweat shop and unsanitary conditions.

The use of the union labels had been adopted to assist the man who recognized union workers. The cigar makers of the Pacific coast had introduced this to combat oriental labor. It had been generally adopted now by many unions.

Mr. Rigg felt that the city of Prince Rupert was to be congratulated upon having a Trades and Labor Council organized so early in its history. The city was to be congratulated upon having a council favorable to union labor. They should demonstrate that labor knew something more than theory. In Winnipeg, he had been coming up regular as a candidate for office. He was knocked down regularly until two years ago. In Winnipeg, as in other cities, labor was negligent of its duty and now had to fight the forces that were arrayed against it.

Organized labor as a movement was less than a century old. The pioneers of the trade union movement carried on a warfare for the right to organize for mutual benefit. They suffered for this by imprisonment and by exile to the penal colony of Australia. The organizing of men and women for industrial benefit had been attended with hardships.

The day for individual action had passed. The Village Blacksmith of Longfellow's poem, the man who "ploughed his own furrow" had passed away. In every department of life the individual ceased to count. When J. Pierpoint Morgan died, the world went on as usual. Men had learned the possibilities of organization, and out of it men were amassing fortunes.

There are some real paradoxes in the world. In one relation, the individual was of tremendous importance. This was as an individual in trade organization. Organized labor had accomplished much for the men in its ranks, and also for the men outside its ranks.

Referring to the Parliament Buildings in Manitoba, he said that there was a fair wage clause in the contract. Yet there were non-union men working. The organization was responsible for the rates. The men who demand the benefits, while outside the organization, were parasites, "reaping where they had not sowed." The individual inside the organization was of immense importance.

PRESENT TRAIN AND STEAMER SERVICE TO BE MAINTAINED BY G.T.P. THROUGHOUT COMING WINTER

The visit of the President of the G. T. P. to the coast is usually attended with some announcement relative to policy which affects the city and the whole road. On the visit which closed yesterday at noon, when President Chamberlin and most of his party left for the east again, there were some misgivings in the city as to whether a reduced train service might not be announced for the winter months. On Tuesday night no decision had been reached on the subject, but yesterday morning, after going fully into the whole subject, Mr. Chamberlin made the announcement that the service would remain as at present over the railway line, and by the steamers between here and the southern ports.

This decision was reached, in view of the increasing patronage that is coming to the railway. The G. T. P. route has been gaining in favor, and it is expected that with the continuation of the present service the increase may continue.

In addition to operating Parlor-Observation cars through the mountain section, signs will be placed along the route indicating what the different points of interest are, and at the more important points, suitable platforms are being constructed so that passengers may detrain and see to the best advantage the unsurpassed scenery. Train schedules will be so arranged to permit of a few minutes at each of these points for that purpose.

Residents of Alaska are becoming alive to the advantage to be given by the new short route to Eastern Canada and Eastern United States points, and it is confidently expected that there will be a large flow of traffic from Alaska, through Prince Rupert, and over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway this fall, and for those coming from Alaska, destined for points south of Seattle, the superior accommodation and regular service offered by the steamship company will undoubtedly be taken advantage of, as it will also be by citizens of Prince Rupert and surrounding country.

In addition to this, there have been a number of matters affecting the handling of freight that have been gone into very fully by Vice-Pres. Dalrymple and other traffic officials, looking to the bettering of the conditions.

COL. CURRIE HAS REACHED COAST

COMMANDING OFFICER OF 48TH HIGHLANDERS OF TORONTO REACHES HERE

He Leaves This Morning For The South—Will Go To Vernon Camp.

By last evening's train, Col. Currie, M. P., commanding officer of the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, arrived in the city. He is accompanied by Mrs. Currie and their daughter. They leave this morning for Vancouver. Col. Currie has been with the Canadian Scottish Regiment, on the firing line in France since early in the war. He has been conducting a recruiting campaign since returning. He will address meetings in Vancouver and in Victoria, and will visit the camp at Vernon.

Col. Currie expects to return to the front shortly. He says the Canadians have made good and are justly popular. The part which Canada has played in the war will not be forgotten, and it will be up to the country to take advantage of the benefits that shall come to it.

Col. Currie, many years ago, was a newspaper man in the Mail and Empire, in Toronto. He visited British Columbia mining camps and wrote them up for his paper.

PROSPECT FOR WINTER.

The announcement made by the G. T. P. officials that the present service over the line and by steamer is to be maintained all winter is very welcome. This means considerable to the city in the matter of business, it is expected, as increased facilities for travel generally induces a greater volume of it. The G. T. P. is very closely wrapped up in its interests with Prince Rupert. The company seem anxious to aid in developing this city, and in turn should be met in a most friendly way by the citizens. In addition to this, good service, comes the news that additional fish concerns are coming in here to do business, which augurs well for the future. As we have said at times before, this winter should not differ materially from the summer that has passed. There should be a general optimism prevailing in this city as a result of the general outlook.

TRADE UNIONS.

Wearing the button of the union, paying dues and attending meetings was but the mere shell of unionism. The degree in which he is prepared to give of his self to his union was the real measure of trade unionism.

Organized labor stood for the big things in life. They asked for a life with a vista, a hope. It asked that life should give more than the opportunity to barely live.

On the political side, Mr. Rigg's incidentally referred to the woman suffrage movement, saying that the women should have the franchise. Manitoba was going to set the pace in that respect. They had the government there, where they wanted it. It has either to grant the vote to women or to be left in a most unenviable light.

The day could not go to quickly when working men went hat in hand to legislatures to beg for what was needed. He had long ago come to the conclusion that the legislatures represented capatalists and their interests. He did not blame the capatalists for all. He had friends among the capatalists—many of them good fellows. He blamed the voters for the condition. One could label a man a Conservative or a Liberal, and it made little difference. In Manitoba the Liberal party had a year ago introduced all kinds of radical propositions to catch the labor voters. The Conservatives, after a years of reactionary government had in opposition, introduced a radical platform that "skinned the Liberals."

He admonished his hearers to hold up the banner of the working class. They should keep the ideal before them of giving to every one the benefits of a full orbed manhood, sound in body, mind and spirit. The means of existence should be in the control of the people. The British Government at the outbreak of the war, had taken hold of the railways and many other lines of industry. When it came to put these back into the hands of the capatalists there would be trouble.

GOOD PLAY PRESENTED AT WESTHOLME THIS WEEK

The Country Boy Is Excellently Staged—Italian Army Manoeuvres.

The Westholme Theater last night presented its change of programme with an excellent offering. The Pathe's Weekly is good as usual. Among the attractions in it is the Italian army manoeuvres, which at this time prove most intertaining. John Redmond, M. P. reviewing 25,000 Irish troops and other features dealing with the war add to the interest.

The Country Boy is well staged play full of pathos and comedy. The pictures are of the very best. In addition there is the Keystone Comedy His Taking Ways, which keeps the house in laughter.

The programme will be repeated this evening.

THE DIAMOND FROM THE SKY.

no other play or picture ever did.

This is because of the thrilling realistic heart dupping story, which is the best of its kind ever flashed on the screens because beautiful Lottie Pickford is ideal as a heroine and Irving Cummings is a corker as a hero. It is a great play and a great cast.

The Diamond from the Sky won first prize in the recent photoplay contest. There is a prize of $10,000 offered for a sequel to it.
