H. S. CLEMENTS ON OUTLOOK

MEMBER FOR DISTRICT ON RETURN TO VANCOUVER SPEAKS OF FISHING PROSPECTS

He Believes Prince Rupert Has Great Opportunity if it is Embraced

Mr. H. S. Clements, M.P. for Comox-Atlin, returned from Ottawa, says the News Advertiser, where he was detained after the business of the House had concluded owing to having to look after a number of affairs concerning the business of his constituency. Mr. Clements stated that he was confident that an election would be held this summer. All the signs pointed toward it when he left Ottawa. The Opposition had courted an election and the government seemed ready and anxious to accept the challenge. He had, however, no direct knowledge as to when an election would be held if the government decided that it would accede to the "dare" of the Opposition and go to the country.

Mr. Clements said that the action of Premier Borden in openly and fearlessly repudating the members of his own party who had been found to have been improperly involved in connection with the purchase of horses and supplies for the troops had met with the entire commendation of the Conservative party and everywhere he had been since the session closed, he had met with the same expression of opinion, irrespective of party.

Mr. Clements was very pleased to learn that the result of his efforts to secure a change in the fishing regulations as applying to this coast had fully borne out his expectations in the way of improving conditions in Prince Rupert. He had been confident that the withdrawal of restrictions covering the landing of United States fishing craft and the purchase of bait would tend to increase the activity of the northern port. It was now he said, up to the merchants of Prince Rupert to see that they kept adequate supplies of that the northern fishing fleet required in the way of stores, gear, and so on, and that their prices were right. If these points were attended to it would mean that practically all the business that had pre-

Nearly Twelve Hundred Lost When Lusitania Was Sent To Bottom

London, May 8.—The latest estimate of the lives lost as a result of the sinking of the Lusitania is 1198. It is believed that almost all if not all the survivors have been brought to shore. There is felt to be little hope of recovering any other passengers alive.

Of the dead many are women. Queenstown docks are the temporary resting place of the bodies, of several hundred that have been picked up.

Many passengers did not believe that the Lusitania could sink as quickly as she did. They did not join therefore in the rush for the lifeboats, but preferred to trust in the belief that the water tight compartments would keep the vessel afloat.

View in Washington.

In Washington the situation in view of the loss of American lives is considered grave.

German Account.

Berlin, May 8.—An official report says:

"The Cunard liner Lusiatania has been torpedoed by a German submarine and sunk. The Lusitania naturally was armed with guns, as were recently most of the English mercantile steamers. It is well known here she carried large quantities of war munitions in her cargo. Her owners, therefore knew to what danger the passengers were exposed. They alone must bear all responsibility.

Germany on her part left nothing undone to repeatedly strongly warn them. The Imperial Ambassador at Washington made a public warning.

Americans Lost.

London, May 8.—Among the Americans on board were one of the Vanderbilts, Elbert Hubbard, Charles Klein, Herbert Stone (of the Associated Press), Charles Frohman and Justus Miles Foreman are all missing.

Captain Turner, of the Lusitania was saved.

LILLOOET HERE FOR SEASON'S SURVEYS

THE HYDROGRAPHIC STEAMER REACHED PORT YESTERDAY TO START SUMMER'S WORK

The Remainder of the Month Will be Spent in Hecate Straits

The Dominion Government hydrographic steamer Lillooet reached port yesterday. Capt. Musgrave will spend the remainder of the month in Hecate Straits completing work started there. Following that he will be engaged in Dixon Entrance making surveys of the water.

The schooner Naden which is auxiliary to the Lillooet will not be used this season. Lieut. Commander Knight who was in charge on her last season is serving in H. M. C. S. Rainbow The second surveyor on the schooner, Mr. Turner went to the front with the first Canadian contingent.

Capt. Musgrave has as his assistants this year again Mr. Davies and Mr. Parker. On the way north some survey work was done by the Lillooet. Included in this was the charting of a portion of Milbank Sound. With excellent weather for the work, Captain Musgrave says he got an excellent chance to carry out this work.

He will go to Aberdeen to do a little work there early in the week and then make for Hecate Straits.

RICH AGRICULTURAL AREAS TRIBUTARY TO THIS PORT ALONG LINE OF G.T.P.

Visitors Along The Route Of Railway All Speak In Highest Terms Of The Prospects For Farming---A Few Years Will Bring Many Prosperous Communities Into The Valuable Land That Awaits The Settlers

During the week that has just past there has been a large number of visitors in the city. Many have come west over the line of the G. T. P. and had the opportunity to study to some little extent the country passed through. Others have come in by way of the steamers and in several instances have had business along the line of the G. T. P., and so seen the land areas at close range. The common opinion has been that Prince Rupert is to be the ocean port for a great rich farming territory.

Should Do Grazing.

One of these men, a resident of Victoria who made the trip to Hazelton, expressed surprise at finding such a magnificient country awaiting settlement. He had no hesitation in expressing the opinion that it should be a very short time until there was a prosperous farming community along the rout of the G. T. P.

He thought that there was too great a readiness to wait until the land was all cleared of stumps and ready for plowing before a start was made. He believed that grazing might well be followed on large areas long before that stage was reached.

There was no reason, according to his view, why farmers should not have the land sown to grass while the stumps yet remained and live stock could be pastured. There would of course be a necessity for having a part of the land ready for cultivation, so as to raise winter fodder. Vast areas could be quickly cleared of timber and made available for pasture without the tedious task of blasting out all the stumps first.

Opportunities Open.

The rich lands about Hazelton were cited as being capable of producing all kinds of agricultural products. Yet this visitor said he found Hazelton using canned milk. There were the facilities for pasturing large numbers of dairy cattle there, so that not only all the communities like Hazelton should have fresh milk, butter and other natural products of the farm, but the same should be suplied to Prince Rupert and the other coast centres.

This traveller who has been in the north before, never realized the great resources that lay within reach of it to the extent he found on making a trip over the G. T. P. when the country is opening up in the spring-time. His admonition when speaking to the Journal about the situation, was to advise a move to the land—to the rich land of the Skeena district which was capable of supporting a great population.

General Opinion.

The view expressed by this visitor

Resident Of District Killed In Action

Word has been received that W. J. Wolseley who left Smithers early in the war for the front has been killed in action. He was a nephew of the late Field Marshall Lord Wolseley. Early in the war he left the interior town where in partnership with C. L. Wilcocks he conducted a general store. He obtained a commission in the East Lancashire Regiment. In December he was wounded and invalided back to England. On his recovery he again joined his regiment and was killed at Neuve Chappelle a short time ago. He was known to quite a number in this city.

SEEK DAMAGES FROM MINISTERIAL UNION

ALEX LUCAS M. P. P. HAS ENTERED ACTION BASED ON THE CRISIS

The Pamphlet of Moses Cotsworth Has Got Clergymen Into Trouble.

Vancouver, May 8.—Alex Lucas, M.P.P., filed a writ for unstated damages against the Ministerial Union, naming Revs. N. A. Harkness, A. E. Cooke, R. E. Stillman, J. S. Henderson, W. S. A. Crux and A. M. O'Donnell.

This is the result of an attack in "The Crisis," the pamphlet prepared by Moses Cotsworth as an attack on the government and which has been endorsed by the Ministerial Union. The Crisis alleged that Mr. Lucas profited to the extent of $10,000 by a timber deal when he was assessor of Kootenay.

ARE WE DOWNHEARTED?—NO

The slogan of the British people with reference to the war now in progress comes with special application to the general situation in Prince Rupert today. This city has no occasion to feel downhearted, on the contrary the place seems to be coming into its own in excellent style. Everything points to a period of prosperity for the ctiy. It is true that the ctiy is not to be expected to come into its own in the fullest sense until the war is over . Yet at this time the city has become quite a considerable mecca for the tourist trade.

The G. T. P. is providing a better service to meet this and there is every prospect that a large amount of travel will go through here this summer. The fishing industry is developing very fast. The drydock of the G. T. P. will be ready for business in a little over a month and will be completed by September 1.

TREATIES VIOLATED

The independence of Belgium dates from 1831. On August 25, 1830, the Belgians rebelled against Holland in order to be recognized as a separate state. Such recognition was granted by the allied European powers, and the Neutrality of Belgium was granted by them at a conference on November 15, 1831. To this treaty Great Britain, France, Russia, Austria, and Prussia were co-signatures. Belgian neutrality was again discussed at the time of the Franco-Prussian war in 1870, and it was re-affirmed and loyally respected by both the belligerents. This is the treaty broken by Germany when in August last she violated the neutrality of Belgium. By the treaty of London, May 11, 1867, signed by all the great European powers, including Germany, the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, situated between Belgium and Germany, was also declared neutral territory. Its integrity and independence was guaranteed, and by the same treaty Luxemburg, the capital, once an almost impregnable fortress, was dismantled. The German respect for treaties was again shown when, on August 2nd last, she occupied the whole territory of Luxemburg, seized the capital, and took possession of all the railways to facilitate the movement of her troops, in spite of the personal protest of the outraged, but helpless Grand Duchess, the ruler of the state.

SPLENDID FOR PLUMBERS
The sale of Product No. 99 is strictly confined to the high-class supply houses. Its cost of manufacture is therefore not affected by Dept. or "price cutting store" influence that so often drives manufacturers to the use of inferior chemicals and processes. Nor is the dealer allowed to reduce the retail price under penalty of having his supply terminated.
A POWERFUL SOLVENT FOR CLOGGED UP DRAIN PIPES
"99" destroys accumulations of lint, paper, cloths, hair, slime, grease, vegetables, soap, fruit and many others. It is harmless to fines plumbing.
DON'T ARGUE DON'T PUT OFF TEST IT
This preparation has been so generally successful in clearing drains that it is bought over and over again by those who have tried it, but inasmuch as no on can know the actual condition existing within a pipe, it is absolutely impossible for the manufacturer or the dealer to guarantee the result.

WHAT FISHING DOES FOR A TOWN

H. C. WALBY TALKS OF THE OLD COUNTRY CENTRES REGARDING INDUSTRY

What Walesund in Norway Gets Out of the Fishing Trade

H. C. Walby selling agent of the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Company has returned from a three months visit, to Norway. During his stay there he visited various fishing centres of the country for the purpose of studying all he could with regard to the industry as followed by the Norwegians. A considerable time was spent with friends in Christiania, the capital of Norway.

The war with the upsetting of the conditious surrounding the fishing trade in Britain has had its effect upon that line of business in Norway and the fishing communities are all busy.

Mr. Walby instances the case of the town of Walesund as showing what the fishing trade can do for a place. That town has a population of 15,000. Yet out of that town there are 139 fishing steamers and 5,000 gasoline craft engaged in the trade. Nothing is wasted. Every kind of fish and every part is used in some way or other.

H. S. CLEMETNS.

viously gone to the American towns in Alaska and to Seattle, would be transacted in the Canadian port.

The Americans, he said, had been keenly alive to the importance that the terminal city transcontinental railway meant to the fishing of the north Pacific and that was the reason they had installed such important plants at Ketchikan and other points in Alaska adjacent to Prince Rupert. He was sure that the new regulations would compel the business that formerly went to the Alaskan places to be centred at Prince Rupert.

In discussing the matter Mr. Clements said that although the securing of the regulations seemed a simple matter, it had required months of careful negotiation to bring the question to a head, the final opposition to them arising with the fishing men of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. There the conditions are governed by the provisions of a modus vivendi established by treaty between the United States and Canada in 1818, whereby no American sailing craft engaged in the fishing industry are permitted to land in Canadian ports to secure bait for the banks off the coast. As the British Columbia regulations include permision for steamers and all United States craft to land and secure bait and supplies and to take on crews as well, the eastern Canadian fishermen were afraid that these concessions would result in the extension of similar privileges on their side of the continent. When, however, it was shown that their conditions would remain undisturbed, the opposition was removed and the new regulations went into force.

was not a solitary one. Another traveller who made a similar trip and who comes from Vancouver, said he was surprised to see the immense country along the line of railway out of here. The opportunities for the city in consequence of this were very great.

Prince Rupert has many resources to fall back upon in the production of its wealth Among these agriculture should not be among the least, fishing, mining and lumbering will all contribute their part in the building up of a centre here. With the best drydock on the coast, the ship building and repairing will form no small element in the development of the city. Behind the city is the greatest farming areas to be found anywhere in British Columbia. This is an element that will even keep increasing in its value and will contribute in no small way to the prosperity of Prince Rupert.
