THE PROSPECTOR.

BY RIC A. FRASER.

The bonding of the Bend'Or Mines, Ida May group and Counties mineral claim to a wealthy New York syndicate for the sum $750,000 is good news for the Lillooet district and in fact the whole province. It is the intention of the of syndicate to commence development operation on a large scale and as soon as possible increase the plant considerably. The Bend'Or has been worked the past three years and have a ten-stamp mill which have been run with good success, and the owners have shown considerable perseverance in the manner they have worked under the difficulties to be encountered, especially the lack of transportation facilities. Monthly cleanups have been made which averaged about $5,000 and with the adjacent properties and increase of plant there is no doubt but what the expectations of the syndicate will be realized beyond present calculations. The Ben'Or has proven itself and with the showings and the work done on the other claims are very satisfactory.

With capital on a large scale like this deal it is only a short time when further outside capital will become interested to open up this rich free-milling district.

We learn that parties who have built on streets will have to move their buildings and streets opened up to the full width. It would be just as well to have the fences along the main street put in line. At present one side is in and out and not a credit to the owners. Probably if overtures were made to the government they might appoint an unbiased commission to straighten out the titles of town lots in Lillooet, but then it may reveal titles that would deprive some of their vested rights. At present it is very unsatisfactory as one never knows whether he is in right possession or not.

PROFESSIONAL MINING EXPERT.

The Western Mining World says: The professional mining expert is often unjustly and unmercifully assailed by the people who cannot be made to believe that there is any such thing as scientific mining. The grizzled, hoary old prospector of the old school still refuses to be guided by the conclusions of those who rely to an extent upon books and college professors. Sometimes the prospector is right, but then again he is wrong, very wrong. It altogether depends on whether the expert knows his business But whether right or wrong, the sentiments of many of the old prospectors are expressed in the following lines:

I am jes' an ol' prospector, tramp the mountains every day,
An' it isn't very often that I make a preaching pay,
But I've heerd these minin' experts singing scientific stuff,
Till I'm gettin' sort o' weary o' their hifalutin' bluff.
I hold that books an' science never hit upon a lead,
Never built two modern wonders, sich as Cripple Creek an' Creede;
But that every payin' prospect in the hilly west was struck
By common sense an' judgment, an' by gol
darned
luck.

As I said at the beginnin', it is seldom that I preach,
An' I never fool with language out o' ordinary reach,
But when science gets a-trampin' on the toes o' common sense,
Then its time to show your hand against the scientific gents.
I may never make a winnin' with the shovel an' the pick,
But you'll always find me tryin' an' a-keepin' up my lick,
An' if I should but happen on the purty yellow truck,
I will give the bulk o' credit to my gol
darned

About Assaying.

Often a man can tell nearly as well with a hornspoon or pan what amount of free gold there is in the rock about as well as he can by assay, says the Mining & Scientific Press. The percentage of sulphurets and their value must be determined by an assay; but for ordinary purposes the horn will show whether there is value enough in the rock to lead a man to continue work on his find. The probable yield, as a rule, can be determined as well in this way as by a fire assay. The latter is often misleading in gold ores, unless exceedingly careful sampling is done. Averaging up a number of assays is not nearly as satisfactory as a number of horn or pan washings, as far as ascertaining value is concerned. A prospector moreover, cannot well be bothered with packing around an assayer's outfit, as these things are expensive and hard to take care of. Of course, if a man is settled down in some camp, it is well to have these appliances and to understand how to use them. Assayers are to be found throughout the mountains, even in out-of-the-way places, and their charges are reasonable. In a silver, copper or lead country a few qualitative tests are easily learned, and, with some experience, a good guess may be made of quantity in the ore, enough at least for the prospector's purposes. For blowpipe work considerable skill is required, and few do assaying with that implement. In a gold country it is waste of time for a man going prospecting to undertake to learn assaying.

Hiding Behind the Editor.

A newspaper man was asked to publish an article roasting a citizen. "Certainly," he said to the caller. "What shall I say?" He was furnished with an outline of what was wanted, and wrote an article that was a scorcher. "That's splendid," said the friend, delightedly, when the article was read to him. "That's right; that'll make his old hair crinkle!" "All right," said the editor, "let me see—what are your initials?" "Good heavens," said the citizen, "you are not going to sign my name to that!" "Why not?" asked the editor. "I wouldn't have anyone know I had anything to do with that for the world. I cannot afford to get into a scrap with my neighbors." The editor smiled benevolently and said, "Why should I mix up in a scrap that does not concern me? Why should you expect me to assume the blame for publication of an article to which you are afraid to sign your name?" The man stopped his paper and went away mad.

"What is the sacrament of marriage?" asked the Sunday school superintendent of a girl in the juvenile class.

"It is a state of punishment into which we enter to prepare for another and better world," replied the little miss, who had learned her lesson by rote and got things slightly mixed.

"That is not the orthodox answer," said the superintendent with a deep sigh, "but perhaps, after all, it may be correct."

Mr. Wm. Cumming, senior, has been indisposed this week.

Officers May Vote.

During the closing hours of the late session of the legislature, a bill was passed which means much to the civil servants throughout the province, as it restores to them their franchise. It will be remembered that the Semlin government had a clause inserted in the provincial election act as follows:

"No judge of the supreme or county court, no sheriff or deputy sheriff, no employe of the provincial government who is in receipt of salary of at least $300 per annum, no sailor, marine or soldier on full pay in the Imperial seavice, and no officer in the Imperial service on full pay, shall be entitled to have his name placed on the register of voters for any electoral riding. This sub-section shall not apply to ministers of the crown, Mr. Speaker, members of the legislative assembly, or school teachers."

The last clause in Mr. Helmcken's bill to further amend the act, passed at the last session, repeals the disfranchisement clause of the Semlin government act, and now those who were deprived of their votes are again on an equal footing with other citizens.—Colonist.

Lillooet Wild Horses.

Here's a suggestion for Mr. Jayne of wild horse fame, if he catches a number of the animals in Lillooet which are too light for service as cavalry horses in South Africa. The item is from a paper in Washington, where the horse flesh cannery is located:

"The demands of war have not taken up all of the bunch-grass cayuses from the grazing lands of Washington and Oregon, and the horse cannery at Linnton is again doing a rushing business. The plant is not canning anything that would carry a cavalryman, but has succeeded in rounding up a number of elderly fat animals which it is now slaughtering. Recently a consignment of 79 tierces of horse meat was cleared through the customs house at Portland for Falkoping, Sweden. The weight of the shipment was 31,600 pounds, and it was valued at $1,400, which is more than 1,400, which is more than 1,400 cayuses were worth on the range a few years ago.

Summer Service.

The summer service of the C. P. R. will be inaugurated on Monday, June 10. On that date the Imperial Limited timecard will go into effect, and the trip will be made in the same time as last season, namely, 100 hours, and the hour of departure and arrival at Vancouver will also be the same—1 p'm. The Imperial Limited will leave Montreal at 9:30 a.m., will arrive at Winnipeg two days later, at 6:30 p.m., and will reach Vancouver on the fifth day at 1 o'clock.

The service will be practically the same as last year, in the case of the Kamloops local and the Seattle express. The former will leave Vancouver at 7 o'clock, and will arrive at 21:10. The International express for Seattle will depart at 9'20 instead of 8'15 as at present, and will arrive at 15'40 instead 17'50.

A Handsome Tribute.

Says the Trout Lake Topic: "What ever Tom Taylor's attitude may have been on the political questions arising in the province during the two sessions he has represented the North Riding in the legislature, it will be admitted by all that he has done well by his constituents in the amount of money for public works which he has obtained for them. In the Trout Lake district alone he has secured a grant of over $14,000 and in the whole riding an amount aggregating over $65,000. This is a brave showing for so young a member and no matter how we may differ from him on other questions in politics we may give him every credit for the attention he has given the needs of his constituents."

Deputy-Sheriff Fined.

The Clinton assizes concluded last Friday most unexpectedly, the deputy sheriff, Francis Webb, who was in charge of the jury in the Chinese murder case having allowed the jury to separate. As this was the last case on the docket, and the balance of the jurors had been discharged, the court had no option but to dismiss the jury and adjourn the case until another assize. The chief justice fined the deputy sheriff five hundred dollars. We learn the fine was afterwards remitted.

The Derby.

London, June 5.—William C. Whitney's Volodyoviski won the Derby today in the record time of 2 minutes and 40 4-5 seconds.

The widespread interest in this year's Derby, owing to the open character of the race, was testified to by the vast numbers which left London for Epsom throughout the morning.

HIGH WATER.

As the weather has been for the past week, cool and windy, the river is gradually falling and all danger of a flood seems to be past. Unless the weather suddenly turns extremely warm, the river is unlikely to exceed its present mark. During this week the much-shattered hull of the Big Bar dredger passed Lillooet on its way down the mighty Fraser. It had probably broken loose from its moorings. A scow also passed, seeming to have stood its trip better than the dredger, as it was in perfect shape. The owner and locality of the scow are at present unknown.

A Bald-Headed Josher.

In a recent interview James R. Keene, the Wall street autocrat, who, when he lived in San Francisco years ago, was one of the boldest speculators in Comstock shares, is said to have remarked: "Men are bad. They're all bad. There isn't such a thing as a good man. There isn't a man in all the world I would trust were I a woman. There are so many really good women in the world that were it not for them I fear we would all be savages." But he was speaking to a woman reporter.

Anderson Mine Cleanup.

The Anderson Lake Mining & Milling company cleaned up the end of the month from a twenty days run, and secured 85 ounces of gold. Owing to trouble at the mill caused by grease being on the plates, the cleanup was not as large as was expected, as no doubt considerable gold was lost. Everything is now working well and a good showing should be made this month. During the run in April 98 ounces was secured, which amounted to $1,645.00, averaging $16.80 per ounce.
