JE PRACTICAL POLITICS

The session of the Provincial Parlia- t which is to open on the 12th proximo ises to be notable both for its brevity its business, the Governmental pro- ime as already foreshadowed being ently characteristic of the Administra- in that it is terse, practical and pro- sive. That the country is prosperous advancing no one need be told; that e is no relaxation of governmental ance and economy—such as there is estionably a temptation in good times oduce—is indicated in the highly sig- ant fact that despite the unpre- ntedly large investments that have made in reproductive public s throughout the country, Finance ster Ellison in his first Budget will ble to show a surplus well in excess 2,000,000 and money resources at his nand sufficient, were such a course able, to liquidate the entire indebted- of the Province.

he outlined legislation of the new n is typical of the policy that has ht about this happy condition of af- and undeniably contributed in no degree to British Columbia's present general prosperity. Railway legis- , which loomed so largely in the last nal programme, will at the resump- of Parliament occupy but a subor- e place. Prominence is promised in- for laws increasing the security of limb and property; laws for the rvation and protection of the natural rces of the land; and laws calculated romote the enlargement of the self- taining capacity of the Province— visdom of all of which is beyond ques- so that the sessional agenda paper e Government would seem to lack oversial matter in its entirety.

s to the desirability and the pressing sity of enlarged activity in promot- he utilization of the land by practical ultural colonists there can be no dif- ce of opinions. For national security the assurance of permanent prosper- country must be independent in the r of its foodstuffs supply. To spend gn, as British Columbia at present ing, upwards of $12,000,000 annually gricultural products and by-products h might well be grown upon its own ble but untenanted acreage, is fatu- nd suicidal policy, and the correction ch conditions is a first duty of Gov- ent. The country, thoroughly recog- g this, noted with especial approval significant utterance of Attorney- al Bowser in his Eburne address of week, as to the determination of the nment to rapidly follow up the acti- of road and railway builders by s and other facilities for the prompt zation of new areas as these are thus accessible for settlers and provided facilities for placing their products Provincial markets. In the pro- revision of the Land Act the Gov- nt might advantageously go one urther at the coming session and e for complete surveys, valuation nvenient classification of all public adaptable for agricultural and kin- ilization.

The enactment of laws for the conservation and the better utilization of the forest resource, for the regulation and control in the public interest of trust and insurance companies, for the more adequate safeguarding of the coal miner in his hazardous avocation, and for the protection of the public from the reckless motormaniac will all meet with universal commendation, and upon principle these features of the governmental programme cannot but command the undivided endorsement of the House. Various short line railways to serve particular districts will doubtless be accommodated with necessary charters, carrying however no public aid; and generous provision will doubtless be made in the Estimates for the necessary extension of public works, of which the development of the Provincial trunk roads system and the enlargement of the legislative buildings to meet the pressing requirements of the central civil service staff for accommodations will be vital features.

Altogether it is a good sessional programme—a practical, a progressive and a popular one.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS

That the Asquith government will be sustained in the elections now being held in Great Britain is a certainty. With two-thirds of the contests decided, the relative standing of the parties is practically the same as in the last Parliament. The conclusion is inevitable that the Liberals and their allies will have a majority of something over a hundred.

Such a result would seem to indicate that the fierce radical campaign against the House of Lords has not been taken very seriously by the mass of the electors. That some change is necessary in the constitution of the British upper chamber may be conceded, but the proposal of super-heated radicalism to create five or six hundred new peers has from the beginning seemed to reasonable men a mere fatuous absurdity.

Moreover, it is no secret that Home Rule for Ireland is at the bottom of the attack on the House of Lords. The policy of the Liberals has been dictated by John Redmond and it is not at all clear that the earnest but not too scrupulous Redmond would be satisfied with the kind of Home Rule which was so plausibly and eloquently outlined to the people of Victoria by T. P. O'Connor a few weeks ago. At any rate the "predominant partner" as Lord Rosebery describes England, has evidently not got over being suspicious on this point. Opposition to Home Rule, combined with fear of a single chamber government, have apparently been the dominating factors which have induced England to give a considerable Unionist majority, while the coalition has derived its support from the "shreds and patches" of the United Kingdom.

Circumstances have driven the question of tariff reform into the background during the contest. Canadians may regret that this fiscal plank was not made more prominent but Balfour, the Conservative leader, though he is occasionally charged with lack of steam, is not suspected of being wanting in political sagacity. His promise that tariff reform would not be adopted without a referendum probably had the effect of saving for the Unionists many free trade votes while it could not have alienated the votes of tariff reformers for the simple reason that they had no place else to go. Tariff reformers had to take what they could get. Consequently most of them must have voted Unionist, though a few may have stayed at home.

It is noticeable that the vote almost everywhere has been considerably smaller than in the great contest of less than a year ago. This does not necessarily argue any slackening of interest among the electors. The fight has been made upon the same register as the last, and in the nature of things many hundreds of men have died in the meantime while many other hundreds have changed their residence. These two factors would be quite sufficient to account for the bulk of the decrease.

What will be the next move of the opposing armies no man can say. A prophet or the son of a prophet might hazard a guess but the chances are very great that he would guess wrong. It may be taken as certain that nothing revolutionary is going to happen. Lloyd George and Winston Churchill will certainly have to modify their demands. Our own Canadian ex-statesman Sir Richard Cartwright once compared governments to "the scum on the wave" and the simile might not be altogether inapplicable to the radical leaders in the Old Country. At any rate, having done their worst, they must now agree to some form of compromise, however little the compromise may be to their liking.

THE ITCH FOR MEDDLING

On Wednesday of next week two sections of British Columbia will pass upon what appears to the average man, viewing the issue with detached impartiality, a question of colossal impertinence and impropriety: Chilliwack and Prince Rupert are asked to declare at the polls whether or not they desire to discard the principle of the new Provincial liquor act adopted with unanimity by a Parliament fresh from the people and which is being successfully enforced throughout the country, and substitute the so-called Scott Act —a failure and a farce wherever experimented with and everywhere proven incapable of thorough enforcement.

The proposition would seem in logic capable of being answered in but one way. But people are not always logical or consistent, in proof of which is the submission of this Scott Act vote itself. The essential principle involved is that of Local Option, which was first invoked by means of a plebiscite taken last November, when the Provincial electorate recorded a negative decision. Dr. Spencer and his associates, believing themselves more competent to dictate the country's policy than its elected representatives, forthwith proceeded surreptitiously to seek machinery at Ottawa by which they might circumvent the recorded verdict of the country. At the same time the Government, with a broader recognition of duty, responsibility and the will of the people, revised the liquor traffic regulation act materially, consulting in this important task (it is an open secret) a number of the clearest-minded and best informed true champions of temperance in all America, whose advice as well as that of leaders at the Provincial bar politically antagonistic to Conservatism, was followed in many particulars in the framing of the present law of the land—a law which for workability and comprehensive and direct provision for minimizing the evils admittedly arising from the abuse of liquor, has probably no peer in any British statute-book. It goes indeed so far and is so drastic in its contents that during its passage through the Legislature, the teetotaller extremists of the Province contented themselves with sneeringly declaring that it was never intended to be fairly enforced, and could not or would not be.

Being again contradicted flatly by the evidence of fact, one should imagine that they would now lead in approbation of the Government for having passed and so successfully administered this super-drastic law. Instead, however, one finds them adopting a course utterly inconsistent with their enunciated aims and calculated solely to produce (should it prove successful) destruction of Provincial uniformity in the control of the liquor traffic, removal of the facilities for protecting the weak-willed victim of the liquor appetite, confusion, discord, and violation of law.

Truly the itch for meddling is a pestilential and a dangerous malady.

Will some oracle kindly declare how it is that so many cases occur of death on the railway tracks of which the newspapers subsequently record: "The deceased was very deaf and did not hear the approaching train." Do deaf people always select the railway lines as their favourite promenades?

It was quite in order for Dr. Cook to telegraph his commisserations to Walter Wellman. He should have headed his message: "From One Four-Flusher to Another."

Another cherished paragraphers' tradition has been shattered in the discovery by burglars who cracked the safe in an Alberni newspaper office that there was money in it!

Cook now announces that he isn't quite sure that he did reach the Pole. Several others had beaten him to that conclusion.

A Scottish inventor is reported in the "Scientific American" to have perfected a sled-like machine which, when drawn over a road, accurately records on a paper-covered cylinder all irregularities in the surface of the thoroughfare. It is a safe bet that were the machine employed on any one of a dozen Victoria streets, the cylinder sketch would after ten minutes' operation closely resemble a profile plan of the Selkirks.

The Biblical author who writes of "filthy lucre" must have glimpsed prophetically some of the twentieth century's much overworked bank notes.

At The Street Corner

By THE LOUNGER

Is there any other city in the world which will allow three car-loads of gravel to be "dumped" on the main street at 11 o'clock in the morning; the Municipal authorities of Victoria appear to be Jesuits, for they act as though "the end justified the means." It is true that Bastion street needs re-paving more than any other street in the Capital City of British Columbia. It is equally true that the main street of the same city does not want a whole lot of gravel "dumped" on her main street during the busiest hours of the morning. There is something wrong somewhere. I appreciate the fact that the gravel has to be "dumped" on Government street in order to repair the detestable condition of Bastion street; but I contend that this "dumping" ought to be done in the early morning hours, before the business men get down to work.

* * *

And talking about "getting down to work" it is notorious that business men in Victoria are lax in this respect; they are better than they used to be. When I first reached this beautiful city the business men used to arrive at their offices any old time after ten o'clock and leave at half-past eleven. Their employees would not see them until three, and their creditors would be lucky if they saw them at all. Now-a-days things are slightly better; the businessman is usually in his office by ten o'clock, and he does not go to his lunch till twelve; but, he still stays out till three. If this is an injust indictment of the business men of Victoria (bar, saloon-keepers and hotel-men) I shall be glad to reeeive a letter from a representative business man if he can give me a guarantee that he is ALWAYS open to business at ten o'clock in the morning, I will make an ample apology in these columns.

* * *

We have some young hooligans in Victoria, and I have written about them. I am pleased to notice that Vancouver has hooligans of the same description of rather an older age. This particular class of personage has been in evidence in Victoria lately, and he is not a bit welcome. These young insects, whom their fathers ought not to allow out of their own homes, come over to the Capital City with ribbons posted all over them to let people know that they belong to some impossible club or society. They seem to think it fun when they come from Vancouver to Victoria to shout on the streets such ditties as the following:

"Vancouver lies over the ocean,
Vancouver lies over the sea;
Vancouver lies over the ocean,
Then bring back Vancouver to me."

Vancouver may be an excellent city; it probably is, but it cannot compare with Victoria and I consider it unmitigated "cheek" for a bunch of Vancouver lads to come over to Victoria as they did. We don't want to see these specimens of Vancouverites; we would far rather they remained in the city that bred them. We don't want "VANCOUVER" shouted through our streets. We don t think it is good form, and we know it isn't.

* * *

It is with sincere pleasure that The Lounger notices the marked improvement in The Daily Colonist since the introduction of a new member on to the staff. Mr. Bickers is a regularly trained London journalist and he will doubtless do much to increase the circulation of the Family Journal. Mr Matson is indeed to be congratulated on having such a man on his staff, and the public of Victoria and of other places to which The Colonist penetrates may now expect European news of interest.

* * *

How excellent Victoria looks at present. Douglas street is, as usual, up in arms, or should I say, in ruins. But, we don't expest to see Douglas street in a different state. If I had to live on that unfortunate street I should most certainly curse the day I was born. But my reference is not to Douglas street; I am referring to the magnificent vista which is as present apparent on Government St. Every time I come into town from over the Bay I notice how much more beautiful Victoria is without the buildings which were burnt. I cannot help thinking that there are many more buildings in town which would beautify Victoria by their absence rather than by their presence. I will not specify any names, but the sagacious reader will probably know to which I refer.

* * *

My attention has been called to a state of affairs existing at the Victoria Post Office which is a disgrace to the Federal Government. There are many men who open their mail in the Post Office building. They throw the envelopes onto the floor; they often throw other matter on to the same receptacle, especially when they are bills. Why do not the Federal Authorities provide baskets for such leavings. I have frequently seen the janitor stooping down to pick up bits of paper which had stuck to the floor owing to his previous sprinkling. The average man is considerate and if a notice were put up that waste paper was to be deposited in a recognised place he would conform with the requisition. There are some men who will not; but they are in the minority.

* * *

There is another feature to which I would like to call the Postmaster General's attention if he is lucky enough to receive a copy of The Week, and that is the under-staffing of the Post Office of the Capital City of what is recognized to be the richest and most prosperous Province in the Dominion. The other day I found in our letter box a card informing me that there was a parcel to be collected. It was ten minutes at least before I received the parcel. It wasn't the clerk's fault because he had customers to attend to; but it was the fault of a Department which is so chary of providing sufficient men to do the work which that same Department requires done. I have been meaning to speak about the same thing for some little time, but have refrained, because I thought that the daily papers would take the matter up, but they appear to ignore the interests of the public and content themselves with retailing accounts of murders, sudden deaths and God's Providence in the United States. It is fully time for some paper to take the matter in hand and it is up to The Week, and up to the Lounger, as usual, to deal with a matter which is daily becoming more and more of a public nuisance. In writing the above I wish it to be distinctly understood that I am attributing no blame to the local Postmaster or his Deputy, but I do without reservation attribute the blame to the Postmaster General of Canada, and I think there are a lot of people who will agree with me.

Lounger.

MUSIC
AND THE STAGE

Victoria Theatre

'he feature of the week has been appearance of Miss Ellen Terry Shakespeareian roles. So eminent actress cannot fail to command the pectful attention of her audience. en Terry is to the female side of stage what Sir Henry Irving was the male. At the same time it st be admitted that Miss Terry, as he case with "the divine Sarah," passed the time when she can d the house in the hollow of her d. She is still great, but her atness lies rather in her past ievements than in her present pernances. This criticism must not regarded as derogatory to Ellen ry. She has done a great work he theatrical world but there is actor or actress who can remain finitely on the stage.

Max Figman

n Wednesday night Mr. John t presented Mr. Max Figman in comical absurdity entitled "Mary s' 'Pa'" It is not the first time this farce has been seen in Vic-, but it is unanimously admitted Wednesday night's show was superior to the one presented t this time last year.

New Grand Theatre

Merritt and Love are in vaudeville and open at the Grand on Monday, apparently not so much for the purpose of amusing the public as for the fun they themselves are getting out of it. One would go far to find two more original or spontaneous fun-makers. They both boast excellent singing voices which they put to good use in topical songs and their patter is of the sort that puts them at once on an excellent understanding with their audience. The turn is unrivalled in vaudeville.

For the lovers of true music the American Trumpeters Trio offers a rare treat. The trio includes Misses Grace and Lillian Tourje and Mr. Dan Tourje, father and two daughters. All of them are accomplished and highly cultivated musicians and their vaudeville offering is counted one of the most attractive and in all ways satisfying in the business.

The Stubblefield Trio, which includes George Stubblefield and the two strikingly beautiful Stubblefield Girls, is counted one of the more notable exhibits of feminine acrobatics. All of the time the three are on the stage, it is a series of clear-cut aerial pictures, or better, one aerial moving picture, highly colored and always attractive. Their feats in equilibrism are fairly startling and they have found few who can equal their work on the trapeze.

Lucy Tonge's sole contribution to vaudeville is a combination of voice and personality, and it is enough to qualify her as one of the better class of singing contributions in the business. Miss Tonge is gifted with a baritone voice of surpassing melody and tenderness. It seems a bit incongruous at first, that a pretty girl should suddenly develop a voice that ordinarily should belong to a man, but it is not long before she is busy answering demands for ensore numbers.

The Grand next week will have other attractions from the best offering in vaudeville and moving pictures of latest importation.

The Chocolate Soldier

"The Chocolate Soldier," in which Mr. F. C. Whitney is said to have reached an enviable mark as a producer of true comic opera, is announced for the Victoria Theatre on Tuesday, Jan. 3, 1911.

The season-round stay of the work in New York and the wonderful success in Chicago, have sent out widening ripples of melody, and the theatregoers are led to expect much from them on this new work of Oscar Straus as accompanist to the brilliantly witty George Bernard Shaw book "Arms and the Man." Manager Whitney promises the largest theatrical company of the year in opera with the addition of the Whitney Opera Comique orchestra of forty players so well remembered for the effectiveness given by it to the production of "The Fencing Master," "Brian Beru," "Love's Lottery," in which Mme. Schumann-Heink appeared, and others of the Whitney musical feasts.

Maxine Elliott

Miss Maxine Elliott comes to the Victoria Theatre on Thursday, Jan. 5th, 1911, in her jolly sea-breezy comedy, "The Inferior Sex," in which she played a long and successful engagement at Daly's Theatre in New York last winter and spring, playing a return engagement at her own theatre this autumn. The comedy was written for Miss Elliott by Frank Stayton, an English writer who has gained considerable prominence on the other side. There is a nautical atmosphere about "The Inferior Sex" and a delightful flavor of salt air and flowing tide which makes it an admirable vehicle for Miss Elliott, who is an enthusiastic yachtswoman. The play tells the story of a woman-hater who has put to sea in his private yacht in order that he may write books about woman-hating, and at the time be free from the intrusion of any member of what he is pleased to term "the inferior sex." His plans are frustrated upon the arrival on board his ship of a beautiful and unknown lady, who has been rescued from an open dory by his crew. There is nothing to do but to make her as comfortable as possible, and she calmly usurps his comfortable cabin, messes up his writing desk, makes fun of his literary labors, incites his crew to mutiny and ends by making him fall head over heels in

OUR BOYS

BY BOHEMIAN

The Victoria Daily Times is pleased to take offence at my remarks which appeared in the last issue of The Week regarding the editorial which was written in The Victoria Daily Times on November the 24th. I have not the slightest objection to being styled "a surly yellow dog." I don't much mind being styled "a tolerated nuisance," but I do object to the statement of The Times that the boys in British Columbia in general, and in Victoria in particular are angelic in character. They are not. The Times says "in confirmation of our position we may say that we have been congratulated by a number of people on expressing the views we expressed. I,on my part say that I have been congratulated by many men of the world and by some up high in the Clergy list for saying what I did. I am not going to enter into an argument with the editor of The Victoria Daily Times; I will content myself with saying that any sane man who uses his powers of observation must realize the fact that vice is more prevalent than virtue in the minds of the Canadian youth. As for the "retort discourteous" I will not make it.

NAPLES

Probably many of my readers have visited Naples, the most fascinating city on the Mediterranean coast. It is, without a doubt, one of the most delightful cities I have ever visited. Both its filthiness and its beauty appeal to the stranger. The former is so grotesque as to be ludicrous. The little narrow streets which remind one of the Yarmouth, are picturesque but dirty. It is no uncommon thing to see naked children wandering up these alley-ways.

At the same time it must be admitted that Naples is a beautiful city; her harbour is only to be rivalled by that of Rio de Janiero and of Sydney. I shall never forget the delight which I experienced when I sailed into Naples Harbour one autumn morning some nine years ago.

But the real beauty of Naples lies in its out-lying districts. One has to go a long way to better the drive from Naples to Baiae. On the way one passes a famous lake, the Lucerne Lake, with a kind of grotto leading through underground passages, where it is said that Nero used to meet the Sybil. The lake is also famous for its oysters.

But there is a place that appealed particularly to me and I think that few tourists avail themselves of the opportunity to see it. I refer to the Monastery of San Martino, which is perched on the top of the hill from which the photograph is taken which is so familiar to most people. The monks were compelled to vacate their monastic work and they now make their living out of making the famous Chartreuse liqueur and Asinette. But the buildings are still there and the Chapel is one of the finest I have ever seen. I remember the emotions it stirred in me when it was dead and empty; I can hardly conceive of the emotions it would stir if it were full of religious monks and choir-boys.

Within easy reach of Naples is Pompeii, a city most interesting both to all readers of Roman history and to all readers of Bulwer Lytton's "Last Days of Pompeii." It is amusing to go around with a guide and hear him say "This is the place mentioned in Bulwer's novel."

Next door to Naples is the Island of Capri which is intimately associated with the name of the Emperor Tiberius and with the late Herr Krupp. It is a beautiful island and contains a famous grotto, called "The Blue Grotto." Here one gets the real Mediterranean "blue." A boy dives from the boat into the waters of the grotto and appears like a shining fish.

Sorrento is only just across the bay and this is where the late Mr. Marion Crawford had his residence. Doubtless many of my readers have read some of his charming works. I was in Sorrento during Carnival time. I had just come from Morocco and was wearing an old flannel suit which a mule had patiently borne for three days. My friend was in similar plight, so we went to the manager of the Hotel Sorrento and asked him if he would admit us in our somewhat ragged condition. He said: "Yes, gentlemen, you are English, and you English people can do what you like." I shall never forget that first dinner on the balcony of the hotel; there were about three divorced Russian Princesses glittering with diamonds, several Italian Diplomats and one or two well known personages in high European circles. My friend and I were assigned a table, as luck would have it, at the extreme end of the balcony, and two very disreputable persons marched down in front of the diamonds trying to look as though they were Lords and Marquises. They apparently succeeded for the waiter was most attentive.

Not far from Sorrento lies the Monastery styled Deserto. The approach to this place lies up an avenue which is bordered with "The Stations of the Cross." The whole place is typical of a monastery as pictured in the modern novel. I remember well that the monks gave us a most hospitable welcome; they showed us over the building; they entertained to a glass of their own particular cordial, and they sent us away feeling convinced that Charles Kingsley's strictures on Roman Catholics were somewhat undeserved.

I can only say that if any of my readers are preparing for a tour of Europe, they should by no means lose the chance of taking a trip down the Mediterranean and seeing Naples and her surroundings. This is the kindly advice given by Bohemian.

"SCOTCH"

"Well, John, hoo did ye enjoy yersel'?" asked a Vancouver citizen of a fellow Scotchman, just come out to B. C. "Fine, mon, but I lost ma luggage." "Hoot mon, how did ye do that noo?" "Oh, the cork cam' oot."

Few men from the "Land o' Cakes" cross the Atlantic without some good whisky. They well know the value of it in case of illness. Their choice frequently falls upon Johnnie Walker's "Kilmarnock," for this excellent "Scotch" has an enormous sale at home as abroad.

Have you tried Kilmarnock Extra Special, the fine twelve-year-old Whisky in the square bottle? If not, you should order this for your next delivery at home. You'll appreciate it if you are a connoisseur of good Scotch.

Johnnie Walker's is always to be found at hotels, cafes and clubs throughout B. C. Your dealer can supply your home demand.

General French's Report

The report of Sir John French on the condition of the Canadian Militia has been made public. The general states that a sound system of organization is the corner-stone of all military efficiency, and nothing can compensate for a want of it; that there is too much heavy artillery and infantry and not enough field artillery, engineers, or commissary officers, and that the proportions between the various arms of the service are not correctly adjusted. He declares that the scheme of mobilization is faulty and should be looked into, but that the physique and spirit of the officers and men are excellent.

The Peace River Country

Fred G. Lawrence, F.R.G.S., for 30 years a resident of the Peace River district, aroused keen attention in an address before the Toronto Canadian Club on the possibilities of the West. He said along the banks of all streams flowing east or west from the boundary to the Arctic Ocean gold was to be found. Along the foot of the Rockies and the streams af Athabasca outcropping coal in seams of 6 inches to 28 feet was found. Petroleum was found in such quantities that Canadians need not go to Texas to be soaked in oil. There was bitumen in large quantities, estimated at 6,400,000,000 tons by government experts, found capable of supplying all the asphalt used, the consumption hitherto being only 200,000,000 tons altogether. The largest gas well in the world was fount not far from Pelican Rapids on the Athabasca River, near the asphalt deposits. On the Mackenzie River, down to the Arctic, spruce frow two feet in diameter. He hoped Americans would be allowed to buy this timber on condition that they came over and manufactured it here. There were 65,000,000 acres of first-class agricultural land. He expected the West would eventually ship four, five and six hundred million bushels of wheat.

Indian Chief Will Be at King's Coronation.

"All the great men in the world will be at King George's coronation, and I hope to be there, too." Such was the announcement by Chief Matthias, son of the famous Indian Chief Joe of Capilano. Many schemes are maturing in the head of the representative of the Capilano Squamish tribe, but this desire to go to London eclipses all. The tomb of his father is now completed, and Chief Joe lies in his mausoleum, erected by his son and the Indians of British Columbia. The interior work is completed, but Matthias has decided that the tomb will remain closed till March, when there will be a great gathering of the tribes of the whole Province. The mayor of North Vancouver will perform the opening ceremony. The Chief expects that the mayor will make a speech on the occasion and he himself will also address words of wisdom to his dusky followers, counselling them to follow the white men in their zeal for learning and to talk with no guile. Then he will remind them that his father went to London and shook hands with the late King, and he will put it to them that he should also go to the great white chief, King George, and tell him how on his father's tomb are the stone effigies of the great King Edward and the great Indian Chief clasped together in peace and goodwill. He will also tell the King of his (Matthias') great desire to live at peace with the whites, although the latter, he claims, took possession of land belonging to the Indians. To accomplish the journey to London entails expense, but the Indians will easily meet this, says Chief Matthias. Lately the Chief has been addressing the Indian boys, and advising them to educate themselves. He also intends to form a section of boy scouts in his reserve, with himself as scoutmaster, and he proposes to wear his scout's uniform when he pays his expected visit to King George.

NOVEMBER ROD AND GUN

While big game hunting supplies the dominant note in the November number of Rod and Gun in Canada, there is in the same issue plenty of material for sportsmen who are not able, for various reasons, to go after moose, deer or bear. In the opening article Bonnycastle Dale tells how Indian boys make clever hunters, trappers and fishermen, and with what skill they decimate the inhabitants of the forest. Exploration in the Nepigon country, fishing and mountaineering topics, with many other papers and some fine verses, fill a number which should find its way into all hunting camps. Sportsmen, wherever they may be found, can enjoy some pleasant half hours by dipping into its contents, assured that from beginning to end they will find much to attract and interest them. The completeness of the issue in covering the whole wide field of Canadian sport gives it distinction and goes far to acocunt for the standing the magazine has won and continues to deserve.

A Sensible Christmas Suggestion

Now-a-days practical presents are taking the place of "fripperies." This speaks well for "the march of intellect." Indeed, the best reminder is one that enters into life's realities and sweetens the cares and troubles of each passing day. We do not know of a more pleasing gift for a man to give his wife than

A GAS RANGE OR A GAS RADIATOR

A Gas Range will do anything that a coal range will do and do it better because the heat can be regulated to a nicety. No more backaches from lifting heavy coal scuttles, no carrying of ashes, no washing of sooty pots and pans. Agood Gas Range will make you laugh at the high price of coal. After you have used it for a short time you will wonder why you did without it so long.

A Gas Radiator can be lighted in a second—just a match-scratch and a turn of the tap and the whole room is well heated in a few minutes without the bother of chopping "kindling" and building a fire. It will not only give pleasant warmth without trouble, but it decorates and beautifies a home. In case of sudden sickness or night emergencies you will find a Gas Radiator invaluable.

Call here and allow us to show you some splendid bakers. Our single oven Gurney Gas Stove which has four boiler rings and a simerer. Price $22.00, and some excellent double oven Gurney Gas Stoves, also with four boiler rings and simerer. Price $29.00. We would much like to have you inspect our biggest bargain of all:

OUR SPECIAL XMAS OFFER—A $55.00 RANGE FOR $40.00

We have, however, only seven of these, so if you desire one kindly come at once. The Ideal, with four boiler rings and simerer and a combination oven for baking or boiling. This is an unrivalled device as it entirely eliminates all bad cooking odors; you can boil cabbage, onions, etc., in the oven without having the slightest disagreeable odor in the kitchen. EASY TERMS OF PAYMENT IF YOU DESIRE.

Grace Cameron

Grace Cameron's vaudeville engageents over the Wm. Morris circuit ere such successes that that gentleman has made a tremendous offer for is petite little artiste to return to em, but the success of her new omedy "Nancy," has been such that e will undoubtedly be seen in this ever play for at least another year. uring the action of the play Miss ameron will present her great charcter songs whoch won such favor on e metropolitan vaudeville stage, inuding the Dago "Hariutch," "Help," Whose Baby Girl Are You." If the Vind had Only Blown the Other Vay," "I Wonder if That Funny Lite Boy Loves Me," "If Every Girl Vas a Girl Like You," "Adam and ve," "How She Got Away With It More Than I Can See," "Modern ove," "Doctor, Cure My Pain," and Little Dollie Dimples." All of these cords can be heard on the Edison honograph and records are for sale all supply houses. Miss Cameron d her delightful comedy "Nancy" ll be at the Victoria Theatre for e night, Monday, January 9th.

"Time, Place and Girl."

The scene of "The Time, the Place d The Girl," which comes to the ctoria Theatre on Wednesday, Dec. th, is laid in the mountains of Virnia, at a "rest cure" whither Happy hnny Hicks and his pal, Tom Cunngham, have fled from the result mbling house in Boston. The comexities of the plot occur while the est cure" is in a state of quarane with all the servants absent. The ests are forced to do the work emselves—a condition that inspires itiny among some of them. Of urse, there is a pretty love story. e production is unusually artistic d the chorus is the liveliest and ettiest crowd of girls that ever re gathered into one company. essrs. Adams and Hough are the thors of the play, and the music is Poseph E. Howard and Ned eyburn produced the twelve musil numbers.

With the prestige of having creatthe longest run ever made by any ow in Chicago, in addition to ten eeks in New York to crowded uses, "The Time, the Place and he Girl" which opens at the Victria theatre Dec. 28th, carries at ast one other distinction. It is that is is a "comedy with music and a ot." The combining of a story at can be understood, with music the whistly sort and wonderful nces by pretty girls, have been the votal features of its enormuos ucss. The most sensational of the nces is "The Dixie" number, which combination with the "Uncle m's Best Girl" is the finale of the ay. Ten real song hits will be inoduced during the action of the ay. Among them are "Thursday Is y Jonah Day," "Dixie, I Love You," The Waning Honeymoon," "Don't ou Tell," "I Don't Like Your Famy," and "Blow the Smoke Away."

A GO-AHEAD FIRM

That Fort street will be in time e of the most important streets in ctoria is evidently the opinion of essrs. H. Kirkham & Co., the well own grocers. This live firm have st opened new premises in Fort eet, higher up than their former re, on the corner of Douglas and rt. On a small scale the esthment is like a miniature Whiteleys provisions of all sorts, their envour being to carry a supply of e food, and certainly the cleanliss of the premises and the up-toeness of the plant should go far carry out this idea. The Butchery Delicatessen Department, under supervision of Mr. Brockhurst, is odel of cleanliness, a great fea being that the firm supply only hly killed meat. The liquor dement in the able hands of Mr. R. Mullin, is well stocked with every kind of wine, whisky, etc., of the best brands. The stock of Xmas candy is well worth a visit, the crystalised fruits, marzipan novelties, etc., being something above the ordinayr Lebkuchen (honey cakes) and other dainties are displayed in tempting profusion. This confectionery counter is in charge of Miss Clay. The kitchen on the premises, presided over by Mrs. Eves, who is a celebrated chef, is well appointed, and thoroughly spotless. No orientals are employed in the culinary department.

A STARTLING STATEMENT

It has been said by those who have investigated the matter carefully that, although at the age of 45 fully 80 per cent. of men are established in whatever pursuit they follow and are in receipt of incomes in excess of their expenditure, at the age of 60 it has been found that 95 per cent. are dependent upon their daily earnings or upon their children for support. Many, no doubt, read the despatch from Detroit which recently appeared in the Canadian papers, and which described the condition of a man who but a little more than forty years ago was a "financial power" in that city, who had a "palatial home" on one of the most fashionable thoroughfares, entertained lavishly, and to whom every person, high and low, was prepared to pay homage. But the fates were against him. He suffered serious financial losses, and when he began to go down hill he found it was properly greased for the occasion. His friends deserted him like rats from a sinking ship, and now at 80 years of age, after his day's labour, he wends his way to the city with the bent, broken down old men who have influence enough to have their names on the city's pay roll.

The moral is that out of your abundance something should be laid aside for declining years, and invested where thieves cannot reach it, and where on cannot be deprived of it in any possible way. This means is afforded you under the Canadian Government Annuities Act, which the Parliament of Canada passed in the Session 1908, and which received the unanimous support of both sides of the house.

You may get all information by appjlying at the Post Office, or by addressing the Superintendent of Annuities, Ottawa.

To the Ratepayers of the City of Victoria:

I wish to announce that I will be a Candidate for Mayor at the next Municipal Election. Full particulars of my platform will appear in due course.

A COMIC INCIDENT

A funny thing happened the other day. I am not at liberty to name either names or places, but I can say that it happened in the neighborhood of the vicinity of Victoria. A man well known round town went out to stay for a week end with a man even better known. In the course of the evening he was asked to get some water from the well; he went with a friend who was staying at the same house. Instead of going to the well he went to the lake and promptly fell in. "For heaven's sake, don't tell H—— that I have gone into his well, my boots are muddy and he'll think that I have poisoned the water. Where is the rope anyway?" The man eventually got out of the lake and the well did not suffer but the story is a joke round town and there is no reason why our Provincial readers should not enjoy it.

BASTION STREET

By the grace of the Divine Powers and the enterprise of the Worswick Paving Co., Bastion is at length being fixed up. It is high time that this street which, though not a commercial one, is most essentially the most professional street in the Capital City of British Columbia, should be made a highway where the people can walk without tumbling into pit-falls or climbing over precipices. If Mr. Angus Smith never does anything else in his life he can always remember that he has a "Lounger's" thanks for his attention to a matter which the same said "Lounger" has frequently resented. It has been a crying disgrace to the city that the street where the Law Courts, the Board of Trade, the Law Chambers and the offices of some of the most prominent lawyers in town should have been neglected so lond. I only hope that The Worswick Paving Co. will do as good work as they have done in other parts of the city, and that they will do so is the opinion of the Lounger.

RECRUITING FOR NAVY

The Victoria Daily Times prints the following paragraph: "Recruiting for Navy!" The Week appreciates the fact that cigarette smoking by both young and grown men is disastrous to the health of the former and a quick path to the grave for the latter. The writer is a cigarette smoker and therefore knows something of what he is talking about. He does not attempt to defend the habit of cigarette smoking, of smoking at all or of any other vice which is common to human nature. But men are men, just as women are women, and we have our little weaknesses which we find as impossible to discard as ladies equally find it impossible to discard buying expensive hats.

"RECRUITING FOR NAVY."
(Special to the Times).

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—Officers enlisting for the navy may find large numbers of volunteers on both coasts. Seventy-five per cent. of those have been rejected because of cigarette heart or "moving picture eye."

THE OLD COUNTRY ELECTIONS

There are many readers of The Week who are Old Countrymen and who will be interested in the fight at present progressing in the land of their birth. So far, it would appear that though the Coalition Party, which means the Liberals, the Labourites and the Irish are still a little ahead of the game, the Unionists are coming up fast and their capture of Plymouth, Cardiff and Newton marks an important era in the progress of Tariff Reform. The Week is a firm believer in Imperialistic views; it believes in a strong Naval Policy, it also believes in Tariff Reform. But, it does not believe that the Asquith-Lloyd-George Government will ever advance the interests of the country in the furtherance of any of these policies. The question of the veto may be safely left to the House of Lords themselves. The amendment moved by the Marquis of Lansdowne should prove agreeable to all Tories and to all sane Whigs. That it will prove equally agreeable to red-tied Socialists and blatant Labourites is a matter of some doubt. However, there can be little uncertainty that the Chancellor of the Exchequer has alienated the affections of many Liberal adherents by his drastic bill which has caused many large land-owners to sell their property in order to make a living.

TROPICAL TRIFLES VI.

(By Onlooker).

I have just had a most amusing time reading an article in a daily paper eulogizing the young idea of Canada. After reading the article I took Dr. Johnson's Bijou Dictionary in order to look up the adjective "bumptious." I could not find it. I immediately telephoned to my good friend Socrates and received the information that the casual observation of an ordinary specimen of Canadian youth would give me a better idea of the meaning of the word than any dic-did." I will retort by saying that I needed a more explanatory explanation.

The article seemed to fascinate me, for i returned to it again. I found the young male of Canada praised for his beauty, at which I marvelled greatly as visions of the cigarette-ash-complexioned young man one so frequently meets, obscured the mental picture of Greek gods which one would expect the said article to conjure before one's mind.

I also found the manners of Young Canada praised to the heights, but as I have just been talking to a lady who has views on the subject, and for fears I should repeat what she thinks about it, I will refrain from making original comments of my own, especially as the Bohemian gave it to Young Canada pretty strong a short time ago. I cannot refrain, however, from telling a true story.

I live in an apartment house. I was in my bedroom when the Chinaman came to sweep the other room. I was amazed to hear a fourteen-year-old-boy-like voice say:

"That's a funny looking old chair in this room, Jim. What sort of an old blighter lives here?"

I immediately emerged from my seclusion, and found a nondescript sort of child who had followed Jim into my rooms, and was now engaged in examining the contents thereof.

"Get out! Quick!" said I.

"Get out yourself," said he.

Does anybody want to hear any more? I consulted my friend on the matter, and he told me that when he was young, boys were boys and men were men, but that now-a-days, boys are men and old men are old fools.

On education there is always much to be said. The writer in this extraordinary article to which I referred thanks God that Canadian boys are not as other boys. My mind goes back to a chapter of a Book where certain objectionable people express similar sentiments to the Deity.

The writer tells us that should these boys in confidence tell us all they know we would be surprised. My poor father got surprised in that way a few years ago with the result that he moved his entire family into the depths of the country, believing they were too young for the surprises they might run into in their present surroundings.

But believe me, the superb education or ignorance, whichever facts prove it to be, are not confined to the much criticised youth of this country. Lately, we all had the opportunity of seeing and hearing one of the finest exponents of Shakespeare that the world has ever known.

"Bet you she plays Faust, Shak peare wrote Faust," remarked one the highly educated products of t part of the world.

"Like fun he did!" exclaimed t educated one's companion. "Milt wrote Faust."

I went to the theatre that nig "Farewell my Lord, farewell," sigh the noble lady to her departing lov

"O cut it out! Why doesn't she s 'So long, old chap,' and get done wi it."

That is what one of the audien thought about it.

"Okanagan Lake in Storm"

Deep, dark, o'erwhelming is thy su
den wave,
Taking rich toll of whom thy wate brave.
Storm beaten, in thy fury's whit
lipped rage
Can nought but human life t wrath assuage?
Thy thousand feet of liquid dept defy
All search for those who on thy bo om die.
Now in thy dark cavernous dept
they rest
By storm or toil or care no mo oppressed.
There shall they bide secure that la dread call
That brings judgment—dead and li ing—all.
When in thy peace—sun-kissed, s
rene and still,
Reflecting fleecy-flying clouds a pine-clad hill,
Or all thy miles of sunny orcha
slope—
Then dost thou mirror all we lo and hope—
Peace, happiness and beauty—w would dream
That o'er such peace such inst
rage should stream.
