DERAL POLITICS

The editorial which appeared in the issue of The Week dealing with the ject of Mr. R. L. Borden's position in Conservative party has been widely mented upon, not always even in the nservative rank with approval, but re are a sufficient number of people king what The Week said to justify stand-point taken. The Liberal Press vorking overtime to create the impres- that the Conservative party is hope- ly divided, and especially to convince West that Eastern financial and manu- uring interests are trying to "stam- e" the country in favour of high pro- ion. It is hardly necessary to say that is a misrepresentation of the facts. t a vigorous campaign is being waged not be denied. That the leading busi- men of the great Eastern cities are tically a unit against the Reciprocity eement is an open fact.

No Stampeding

ut that there is any "stampeding" is of the question, at any rate since Sir fred Laurier, purely out of a sense of ty to his colleagues tried to rush the eement through the House and secure ap verdict before there was time for deration. It is not only Eastern man- urers who are aroused, but in every of Canada there are men who can see nough beyond the end of their nose stinguish the trend of the proposed ement and to realise that its ultimate will be disastrous.

The Loyalty Question

e Liberal Press consistently laments the opposition of the Conservative is based upon the supposition that dian loyalty is in question. No sane ervative has ever made such a sugges- indeed, the leading spokesmen of the in every part of the Dominion have ed the idea. Mr. McBride in his pt and memorable manifesto nailed ie to the counter; he declared that was no question of the loyalty of lians involved; they are and would n loyal to the British flag whatever utcome of the Reciprocity negotia- might be.

The Latest Canard

latest "canard" of the Liberal is contained in a lengthy despatch d to be from Ottawa bearing date 4th. and printed in the Victoria on April 6th. After referring to rganized opposition in Montreal it n to say that the "flag-waving" par- e shot their bolt and that the lead- the Conservative Party have re- that the battle-ground must be d to the economic aspects of the on, and that in order to deal effec- with this phase the Government is asked to furnish certain statistical nation and trade data. The Times pondent is making large drafts on nagination; the Conservative Party t shifted its ground; the objections it raised when the Treaty was first sed still constitute the planks of the ition platform.

No Demand for Reciprocity

y are that there is no demand for ocity, that the country is prosper- such a degree that it is not needed, vith a Democratic majority in the can House of Representatives an reduction in the Tariff is assured, hat therefore Canada is paying a price for something which it could ad for nothing, that the need is all other side of the Line where natu- sources have been impaired and lered, and are sought to be replaced free importation of Canadian raw products, that while some localities on this side of the Line may benefit, Reciprocity will in the main operate against Canadian interests, especially in the matter of agricultural development. But whilst these economic considerations are in themselves sufficient to determine that Uncle Sam is getting all the best of the bargain, there is the final and much more serious, because more far-reaching, consideration, that the inevitable effect of a Reciprocity Treaty with the United States will be to strengthen the bonds of sympathy between Canada and the Republic to the South, and to that extent to delay the advance of Imperial Federation upon sound and permanent lines.

British Interests

This is not to say that the loyalty of Canada is threatened; it is to say that the building up of the strongest possible ties, commercial as well as sentimental, between the Dominion and the Motherland will be rendered more difficult by the closer rapprochement to another great competing nation. To those who have laboured for Imperial Federation in its widest and fullest sense every straw which impedes the current, however slightly, is a hindrance and is viewed with suspicion. The least that can be said of the Government's policy is that it is wanton, uncalled for and reckless. In many minds there is a shrewd suspicion that Sir Wilfred Laurier who, despite all is a statesman, is not playing his own hand in this game, but is standing by the Reciprocity Agreement because he is unwilling to throw down the Ministers who conceived and negotiated it. The Week has already pointed out that the objection to Reciprocity from the British stand-point is not purely one of sentiment. It constitutes an economic danger to the trade relationships of Canada and the Motherland in that it sensibly lowers the bars to a great competitor of England.

British Preference

The Week is more than ever convinced that if, as is evident, Sir Wilfred intends to force this Agreement through and thereby impose an additional handicap on British trade with Canada, the only logical outcome must be to increase the British Preference. If he fails to do this he must plead guilty to the charge of discriminating against England, but he has declared again and again that there shall be no such discrimination, and that the British Preference shall remain unimpaired. If Sir Wilfred is sincere in this statement it can only mean one thing, that he is preparing to 'dish" the Conservatives by announcing an increase in the British Preference.

A Trump Card

This may be the trump card up his sleeve upon which he relies to turn the trick. It would be an astute move, and one which only a statesman would be capable of executing. Such a policy could not be criticised by Conservatives. But not for a moment could it be conceded that even with this sugar-coating the Pill of Reciprocity would be swallowed by an intelligent people who have fully considered the subject in all its bearings. Such a concession would meet an objection which has not been raised, in order to placate a large section of the electorate sensitive on the subject of Imperial interests; but it would have no direct bearing on the principle involved in the free interchange of commodities, or in the indirect effect of a reciprocal agreement with a great competing nation outside the bounds of the British Empire.

THE PARTY LEADERSHIP

It is very kind of the Colonist to draw aside the veil and allow the public to see the innermost workings of Premier McBride's mind. It is also peculiarly gratifying to British Columbians to learn that at present our popular and brilliant Premier has no intention of entering the Federal arena. This is the prophecy of a sage. Just what Mr. McBride or the country would gain by such a move "at present" is not apparent, but such a circumstance must not be allowed to detract from the pregnancy of the revelation so appositely made. It requires neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet to predict the course of events, so far as Mr. McBride's future is concerned, if his health and strength are spared. First of all he has to "finish his work"; that is, carry his policy for the development of his native Province to such a point that its further direction may safely be left in other hands. Meanwhile he is lending his great talents to his countrymen throughout the Dominion; he is not only attracting universal attention by the success of his local administration, but equally by the weight and incisiveness of his utterances on great public questions. Mr. McBride has spoken with no uncertain sound, and with a promptness and clearness which have not been approached by any other public opposionist, on the three most important topics which have occupied the attention of Canadians since he came into power—the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Policy, the Naval Policy and the Reciprocity Agreement. Without any thought of self, and impelled only by a sense of duty, the duty which he owes to his high position and to his fellow-countrymen, he has spoken out fearlessly, and his utterances have had the ring of a Canadian Premier and an Imperial statesman. His voice has been heard in the farthest corners of the Dominion, and it is not surprising that he has been recognised as the coming man. The Liberal Press, while deriding him, has unconsciously acknowledged him the coming leader by voicing the demand that he shall step to the front in the present crisis. Such a suggestion is in itself significant of Mr. McBride's influence and importance. The Week possesses no "Open Sesame" to the secret chambers of his mind and is not privileged to speak for him, but it is entitled to express its own opinion which is that the day will come when through no seeking of his own, but by sheer force of circumstances Mr. McBride will be compelled to take up the burden of party leadership. His youth, his special abilities, his amazing success as a Provincial Premier, his high ideals, his intense Canadian spirit and the whole-souled British sentiment which possesses him all combine to make him an ideal leader of the Conservative Party. When the time is ripe he will be sought, not by any cabal or disaffected section of his Party, but possibly by a wider electorate than that of any one party. Meanwhile he will continue the work of administering the affairs of British Columbia with a success which is as amazing as it is unparalleled.

BRITISH NEWS

The Week is pleased to find that, whether as a direct result of its article in last issue or as a mere coincidence, the Colonist has found itself able during the week to increase the space devoted to British News from 12 per cent. to 35 per cent. of that of its contemporaries. This tends to show that the contention of The Week was correct, viz. the Colonist was not doing the "best possible under the circumstances." It also tends to show on how slight a provocation it can do better. Taking the first four days of the current week the Colonist devoted 67 inches to British Empire news; the World 101 inches; the News-Advertiser 163 inches and the Province 178 inches. It is still open to ask the Colonist why it cannot give as much British news as the Vancouver papers and especially as the News-Advertiser, which belongs to the same proprietary. It still gives a little more than a third as much as that paper. The editor of the Colonist excuses himself for this by saying that he tried to make up for the deficiency in the news columns by covering important Imperial items in the editorials, but whilst this may contribute to the literary excellence of the paper it can hardly be called news, since the editorials are based on the contents of the British Exchanges which are a fortnight old by the time they reach Victoria. What the public wants is "live" news, and if Vancouver can get it Victoria should be able to do so. The Week has hitherto made no reference to the Victoria Times in this connection, because it was not aware that that paper made any serious professions to purvey outside news, but presumably realising that "the cap fitted" the management entered into a long editorial defence for the paucity of British news in its columns, winding up with a definite statement that it had arranged for a special wire between Vancouver and Victoria in order to bring over all the British news which reached the Terminal City. This would seem to let 'the cat out of the bag" and explains why hitherto neither of the Victoria papers has secured the same British news as the Vancouver papers. It is the telegraphic link between the two cities which has been missing. Now the Colonist has repeatedly asked for suggestions how to improve its service and increase its popularity. Here is one. Why not co-operate with the Times in securing the missing link? As things stand at present the Times gets most of its news from the Colonist. With the exception of a few local occurrences during the morning there is very little in the afternoon paper that has not already appeared in its contemporary. It would only be a reasonable "quid pro quo" for the Times to reciprocate with its special Vancouver wire. In any event the subject has become a live one. The Colonist has doubled its British news in one week. There is still much leeway to make up, especially when one glances at the important Imperial items dealt with in the Vancouver paers, but receiving no recognition in their Victoria contemporary. Such for instance as the death of Mr. Moberly Bell, late editor of the London Times which was treated at length in the Vancouver papers on the 5th. inst. and in the Victoria Times on the same date, but did not reach the Colonist until the 7th., and then not as a news dispatch but as a comment on the comment of the Vancouver papers. It may be a small matter, but since the Colonist caters largely for sport, and even defends the use of sporting slang, it may not be out of place to remind that Family Journal that although the Oxford and Cambridge Sports took place a fortnight ago not a word has yet appeared in its columns with reference to them. This hardly makes a satisfactory showing alongside the 19 inches devoted to the "Bruisers' Union" and Jimmy Britt. Thanks, Colonist, for small mercies, please do a little better next week.

Few changes will strike home more forcibly to those Victorians who have been absent from the city of their birth or adoption during the time that has lapsed since the disastrous fire of last December than the vanishing of "The Grotto." For many years the west end of Trounce Avenue has been the natural meeting place for all sorts and conditions of men in Victoria; appointments have been made here and, if truth were told, in all probability many business deals have been put through, or at any rate furthered on their course, by parties standing at this almost historic corner. But the old order changeth and in place of the modest buildings now standing we are to see a handsome block more in keeping with the growing prosperity of the city.

Of course, it is all for the best, but at the same time I feel sure that there are many besides myself who will pass the well-known doors on Monday next and hear with feelings of regret the tapping of the auctioneer's hammer and the re-iterations of the momentous "Going, going, gone," instead of the cheerful voices of the well-pleased patrons and the gentle tintinnabulation of the glasses. For the days of "The Grotto" are numbered and at eleven o'clock on this day of grace the bar will close, never to re-open in the same place.

The closing of an old-time inn, famous perhaps in early days as a posting-house, or chronicled in the books of Dickens and others as the meeting-place of well-known persons, excites more than ordinary notice, and though "The Grotto" can lay no claim to such distinction, it is admittedly one of the land-marks of the city and few old-timers can discourse of Victoria amongst themselves without its name occurring in their conversation. The present licensee, Mr. Chamberlin, better known as "Seth", took over the premises in the fall of 1901 in partnership with Mr. Briggs, whose death some four and a half years ago will be remembered by many. "Seth" is one of those happy individuals of whom everyone knows that which is good but of whom nobody has ever heard a disparaging word. It is good news to learn that he has arranged to take over the Vernon Block at the corner of Douglas and View Streets and that he expects to be doing business at the new stand about the beginning of May. Good luck to you, Seth; may you prosper as you deserve, and may the waters bring back in abundance the many loaves you have cast upon them.

Now that the spring is upon us and the mind involuntarily begins to look forward to the hot summer months when picnics, bathing and other seaside amusements will be in full swing, I think it well to urge the public authorities, and especially those who have charge of the sanitary arrangements of the city, to make some provision for the natural necessities of holiday-makers in the region of Foul Bay. Last year I was compelled to write strongly about the disgusting state of affairs in this neighbourhood, induced by the continuous stream of visitors for whose convenience no public comfort stations had been erected and who were compelled to seek from time to time in the bush that privacy which a far-sighted Council should have provided for them in suitable locations.

Things have come to a pretty pass if this year, as last, either residents in the Foul Bay district have to suffer insanitary conditions or visitors have to be excluded, because the City Fathers will not take into consideration the laws of Nature which cannot be neglected. Of course, when it comes to cases, it is the residents who suffer. No elaborate building or underground excavation is needed; but some common-sense provision must be made or there will be such an out-break of fever as will paralyse the community, and result in a far heavier financial toll, to say nothing of a more serious one, than is required at present. It is admitted that Foul Bay possesses the finest bathing beach in the vicinity; it is an ideal spot on a hot summer's afternoon for a picnic party, and the B. C. E. R. have made it accessible for the public. All that is needed is a little consideration on the part of the City Council.

In this enlightened age of ours it should be unnecessary to harp on these subjects, but, alas, we have not yet reached the millenium, and until that happy day arrives it would appear to be the duty of the Lounger to voice those complaints which all know exist, but which so many shrink from expressing in print. The false modesty of the average Christian is one of the most absurd characteristics of an otherwise intelligent community and would be laughable if it were not carried to such extremes that it becomes a menace, both to health and morals. In this respect the heathen stands on a far higher plane.

It would appear that certain individuals have construed the recent enforcement of the regulation prohibiting passengers from riding on the front vestibule of the street cars as an initial movement against smoking on the cars. Nothing of the kind was intended and I for one, much as I prefer the front of the car to any other place, realise that a better reform was never instituted. When one considers the vast numbers which used to throng around the driver when the crowds dispersed from the Gorge one cannot fail to realise that there was a very grave risk to the travelling public. There is at all times a severe nervous strain on the man at the wheel and this strain is multiplied many-fold when a seething and struggling mass of humanity presses him in on every side.

At some future date we may see the same rule applied to the back platform, but here again there will be no animus against the smokers, but merely a desire to keep the gangway clear for in-coming and out-going passengers. At the same time the impossibility of smoking will prove a very real trial to many men, especially to those who after a day's work look forward to a pipe on the car whilst on their way home. In this case the ladies who want the vote, and whose main desire in life it is to see themselves placed in all respects on the same level as mere man, would have an excellent opportunity of enlisting support for their aims. It would be up to them to plead with the Company for permission for men to smoke. I can picture a touching sight in the near future. A man, preferably a labouring man, wearied out with the toil of the day, enters a crowded car. He is searching vainly for a seat to rest his tired bones when a dainty maiden, fresh from an afternoon's enjoyment, profers him her seat, considering that he has more right to sit down than she has, and whilst he blushingly accepts (for I am convinced that he would not, like so many women, seize it as a right) she hands him a lucifer to light his anti-prandial pipe.

But here we are, back at the millenium again, which is an unprofitable form of amusement. I should like to know whether women, when they get their so-called rights will expect the chivalry, which they now demand, to be extended to them. For the life of me I can't see that they will have any claim to it. It only originated out of an idea that woman was the weaker vessel needing protection at every turn and a whole lot of needless attentions thrown in as a bonus. Now they "jib" at the idea that they are not competent to do a man's work in the world, and 'twixt you and me and the gate-post, I am inclined to agree with them. In saying so much I shall be in good odour with the ladies, but my next remark will cast me into the outermost darkness, for I think that they have been spoilt and pampered to such an incredible extent that the vast majority of them are physically and mentally incapable of doing without the little attentions which have been showered upon them from time immemorial. Will they go the whole hog? That's what I want to know. They adopt the professions, but will they recruit the ranks of scavengers and chimney-sweeps? If they get their rights, will they accept the same treatment which man gives his brother, and will they accord man the treatment which his fellow man does? I ha'e ma doots.

From all of which you will argue, and correctly so, that I am not a married man. Most of us have some favourite character in history or fiction. I have one from each. To coin a word, I should like to be pre-reincarnated as Richard III or the Miller of the Dee; two most estimable characters and sadly misjudged. Has it ever occurred to you that if Shakespeare had never lived, or that if he had lived under any other than a Tudor monarch our conception of the erroneously styled "Hunch-back" would have been different. I don't propose to enter upon a historical treatise, but just think it over. As for the worthy miller, he frankly owned that he cared for nobody and so he took it as a matter of course that nobody cared for him. He was logical; far more so than those who moan along through life, lamenting that nobody understands or sympathizes with them, when the real trouble is that they are so full of "grouches" themselves that they are on the look-out for trouble all the time.

There are two excellent mottoes in the world: "Laugh and the world laughs with you," and "Laugh and grow fat." But, and it is a big "but," for Heaven's sake, don't giggle. I would rather sit next to a man with hiccoughs than in the neighbourhood of a "giggler." There are precious few things in this world which have not a comic side to them. Sometimes the joke is on you, but then you can't expect to have it on the other fellow all the time. Personally, I love a man who can tell a good story against himself, but so few are blessed with that particular form of humour.

It would seem that this column is degenerating into a sort of "Quiet Talks to Young People About Older Folks' Business." The fact is that I have run short of legitimate material and I want to take the measure of the in-coming Council before I get down to real work. It is no use wasting ammunition if by Saturday I am to find that my hereditary enemies have again changed their personalities. In the meantime I would again like to point out that real or fancied grievances, the former preferred, will find a ready outlet into publicity through the sympathetic medium of the Lounger.

The Greatest Nations are the Greatest Beer Drinkers

There is nothing wonderful or mysterious about this fact for good beer is made from malt and hops, the two greatest and most healthful natural tonics and builders-up of human strength. These have been wisely given by Dame Nature for the service of mankind and they are intended to be used as all things should be used—universally and temperately.

There are many good beers upon the market, but no bottled beer is quite so good or quite so favorably known in this province as Lemp's Beer.

Lemp's has been rightly termed "The choicest product of the brewer's art."

Try a bottle and judge for yourself.

It's an excellent spring tonic and "tone-up."

Call for a bottle of Lemp's Beer at your favorite hotel, bar, cafe or club.

Any licensed dealer can supply you with a case for use in your home and you'll find no better or more wholesome beer ever entered your doors.

Don't take a substitute, ask for Lemp's Bottled Beer and insist upon what you order.

Lord Rosebery's Lone Furrow

Lord Rosebery's position in British, and one might almost say in European politics, stands almost alone in the records of great men past and present. When a man, no matter how prominent the position he has filled, or how big the space in the limelight he has occupied, definitely retires from the arena, his career is discussed with animation by men in the street and at the clubs, and then dropped. That means that the process of forgetting the man starts right away, and he simply is forgotten until the day comes along when in the natural order of things, the papers chronicle his death and relieve themselves each of one more stock biography from the journalistic cemetery. Not so with his Lordship of Epsom and Mentmore and Dalmeny—the uncrowned King of Scotland, as he used to be, and still is, called. The British public will not allow him to be forgotten so easily. And he is likely to keep back those long-written-up and periodically revised biographies for many years yet.

This deliberate and stubborn keeping alive of Lord Rosebery as a factor that counts in the political game is something really quite wonderful in Britain, which more easily forgets a prominent man than perhaps any other nation. Mr. Gladstone was a remarkable man, and disciples and opponents alike admit that he was about the greatest public man of the Victorian era. That is not to be wondered at itself, for Mr. Gladstone was a leading, if not the leading figure, on the world's stage for forty or fifty stirring years. But he never quite touched the people like his successor. Lord Rosebery is wealthy, he is an orator, he has won the Derby, and he has been Prime Minister during an uneventful six mo With no other outstanding, ce fact does or can the average associate the name of Earl of R bery. And yet he is still the known force, the man who mig he would, the mysterious entit whom men of widely divergent ions turn whenever there is a gathering or a storm brewing in ish domestic or foreign politics Linton Eccles, in The Can Magazine for April.

MUSIC DRAMA

The Edmonds Recital

On Wednesday night Mr. Paul Edonds gave a concert recital in the stitute Hall and was assisted by iss Lilian Haggerty and Mr. Hagen ohlenberg, and decidedly not asted by a lady accompanist whose me it would be charitable to supess. Mr. Edmonds possesses a rong baritone voice; he would perps be more accurately described as "buffo." In the upper register he good; in the middle register sod-so, and in the lower, decidedly ak. He was heard to best adntage in his first selection from he Messiah" and to the least adntage in Ballads, for the singing of ich he lacks both temperament and aptability. Perhaps it is only fair say that the acoustic properties of Institute Hall are far from ideal, d that the condition is not imoved by an audience which barely f fills the room. On the whole . Edmonds left the impression t his place is rather at the head of operatic chorus than in solo work, it is quite possible that he may a better instructor than performer.

MISCHA ELMAN

Miss Lilian Haggerty made a very sfactory debut, but would have n well advised to have waited at t another year, possibly two, and nwhile to have taken lessons oad. She has a powerful and not leasing voice, somewhat lacking ympathy, but susceptible of being ned to a pitch which would unbtedly enable her to attain popuy on the concert platform. Her e has volume and tone, but it is under control, and obviously is being properly trained. She made eral false notes and was repeatedly rt, errors which are easily overe if properly handled. In spite these drawbacks Miss Haggerty's formance was full of promise; her st satisfactory effort was in the ction from "Tristam and Iseult," ch she rendered in company with Edmonds.

Mr. Hagen Hohlenberg is a pianist considerable skill; his execution es little to be desired, but almost same effect would be produced by ianola or any of the popular menical playing instruments.

he fault of the whole recital was that it was painfully devoid of artistic qualities, and if Mr. Edmonds makes another attempt he will be well advised to restrict his own contributions to the programme and to secure trained talent.

Mischa Elman

The unanimous verdict of every city in which Mischa Elman has played is that no artist since the advent of Paderewski on his first tour has lived up to the advance heraldings of his coming as does Elman. The reports are not exaggerated, and a hearing of this marvel creates a feeling such as one does not experience often and which words cannot explain.

In speaking of Mischa Elman's first appearances at the Manhattan Opera House a critic of the New York Press says:

"Mischa Elman broke the 'no encore' rule in the Manhattan Opera House with a vengeance. There was no stemming the tide of applause which came from gallery, pit and stage like the onrushing of a hurricane. The virtuoso came out repeatedly to bow his thanks, but that did not satisfy the eager throng, nor even Campanini's musicians who showed their approval as enthusiastically as the unprofessional audience. At last Elman lifted his Stradivarius to his chin once again and satisfied his appreciative audience with another selection."

Elman, although but nineteen years of age, is already by very many veteran critics acclaimed the premier violinist of his day and century. He has that perfected technic which is never assertive; he is declared to possess greater magnetic temperamental charm than Kreisfler and much of the wizardly spell of Sarasate. That such a lion of the artistic world has been induced to include Victoria in his American tour is wholly attributable to the enterprise of the Victoria Musical Society which has given an exceptional guarantee, and counts with confidence upon a capacity house at the Victoria Theatre on the evening of the 20th inst. in justification of its patriotic action in the interests of Victoria and of musical art.

Max Dill

The two plays which appeared at the Victoria Theatre on Monday and Tuesday did not lay claim to be high-class masterpieces of musical comedy; they were just laughter-makers and nothing more and viewed in this light they were an undoubted success. Though opinions may differ as to the humour of the Dutch comedian, nobody can deny that Max Dill is a leader in this role; his make-up, his eccentricities of speech and manner and his "fat" good-humour would ensure a hearty laugh even if there were no pegs in the shape of a play on which to hang them. Mr. Dill was ably supported by Roger Gray, who fulfilled the role which is traditionally allotted to an actor of the Hebraic persuasion, and as the

The Harem Skirt

BY BOHEMIAN

For several months I have been struggling against fate, but at the last moment I am forced to succumb. If I do not write about the one topic of the age, the Harem Skirt, I find that I shall be, if not anathema, at least anathematised.

As long as the subject was dealt with gingerly in the fashion columns of Society journals there was no particular reason why The Week should take notice, but when Lord Rosebery makes the latest fashionable craze the theme of a speech, and when it is literally filling the public eye in every part of the world, to ignore it would be a "betise."

One of the latest contributors to the discussion of this article of feminine attire is Lady Mary Walker, of whom few of the present generation have ever even heard. Indeed, I thought that years ago she had gone to her reward, and mingled with the happy spirits in a clime where neither Harem Skirt nor any other kind of skirt is a consideration. I found, however, that I was mistaken, for Lady Mary Walker writes to the American Press strongly endorsing the latest innovation, and reminding a forgetful public that she has been advocating it for half a century.

Now Lady Mary Walker is one of the few public women who really has the courage of her convictions. I remember being taken when a little boy, and that is considerably more than forty years ago, to attend a lecture by the same Lady Mary Walker in St. George's Hall, Wolverhampton. Since the circumstance is recalled by the lady herself it is not impertinence to suggest that she then appeared to be well on the wintry side of thirty-five. She lectured on Women's Rights and was, as a matter of fact, one of the pioneers of the movement in England, although, coming from America, she was regarded as somewhat of a freak. On that occasionshe wore the costume which she has always advocated, although I should hardly call it a Harem Skirt, for it much more closely resembled Harem Pants. It was then that I got my first glimpse of the bifurcated garment which after the lapse of nearly half a century has come to the front in a more decided manner than ever before.

As we have not been treated to an ocular demonstration on the streets of Victoria, I am only able to judge of the appearance of this remarkable garment from the picture pages of the illustrated papers. Having seen these sketches I am filled with amazement that any woman could be induced, or even bribed, to appear in public, or private, in such an inartistic garment.

One lady has very properly pointed out that the silk pantelletes of the Turkish Harem are not altogether devoid of attractiveness, and some of my readers may remember that that divine dancer, Kate Vaughan, who for twenty years held undisputed supremacy on the boards of the Gaiety, always danced in Turkish pants, or whatever is the right term to apply to them. But they were made of suitable material and they were the whole thing, and not a very ineffectual and inartistic make-believe.

Anything more inelegant than the Harem Skirt could hardly be conceived. It is impossible under any circumstances for a lady to look even passable when wearing it; its only mark is eccentricity, and it is certain that the only possible object in wearing it is to attract attention and create a sensation. This result has been achieved wherever it has been worn. There is not a single country where the wearer has not been hustled from the streets, or the stage, and greeted with howls of derision.

The philosophy of this attitude on the part of the public is very easy to understand. It bears no relation to the "rights" of women, because mere man has learnt long ago that if woman is determined to make a fool of herself she is going to do it anyhow. This has been illustrated in every stage of the world's history, and in our own not less by the vagaries of suffragettes than by the extravagances of butterflies of fashion.

The objection to the garment rests solely upon the desire to see lovely woman present as lovely and attractive an appearance as possible. Anything which adds to her attractiveness is eagerly welcomed, and willingly paid for by the inferior sex, but it is adding insult to injury to tap the bank-roll of an admirer for a costume which effectually dissipates any pleasure which man may derive from regarding it.

In this degenerate age, although perhaps there have been degenerate ages before, woman is more than ever a doll. Never before in the history of the world have such untold fortunes been lavished on her adornment. Many a woman walks the earth today with a king's ransom on her back and a nation's guerdon round her neck. She thinks it her due, and perhaps it is; at any rate, that is another story. But the least that the universal provider is entitled to ask is that if he shuts his eyes to her indulgence in extravagances, she will at least endeavour to present to his admiring gaze something in the way of drapery which approximates to a thing of beauty. This is the irreducible minimum of the demands of mere man, and in adopting the Harem Skirt woman is not conceding even that.

Bohemian.

THE TURNING OF THE SOD

(By Ernest McGaffey)

In the windings of the valley, 'mid the silence of the hills,
Where the sun his winter splendour from a golden goblet spills,
Lo! they gather in the forest, o'er the lonely highways plod
To the signal that awaits them in the turning of the sod.

Here the rosy cheeks of childhood, there the trembling form of age;
Come to read the potent message written on a living page,
Whre the future is unfolded, and where history is made
In a shred of turf uplifted by the thrusting of a spade.

For the wilderness, divided, shall take on the stress of toil;
And the smoke from cabin chimneys will curl upward from the soil
Where the scent of apple-blossoms clings to spreading orchard trees,
With the long days drowsed in slumber to the murmuring of the bees.

Through the timber, past the rivers, onward speed the shining rails
Bringing welcome to the settler, sowing harvest in the vales;
"Peace and plenty, peace and plenty," so the rising chorus runs
'Mid the clouding of the seasons and the passing of the suns.

Yet within the vivid promise of this prescient vision cast
Comes a Prophet-voice slow speaking as an echo from the past,
Comes a martial peal of warning, like a rallying bugle blown:
"Are ye building for the stranger, or up-rearing for mine own?"

"Will ye barter what is Destiny, to alien hearts and hands?
He who builds on foreign vantage builds his house upon the sands!
Carve your Nation's fortune singly; hold forever watch and ward;
British soldiers, British sailors, let no others stand on guard."

"Will ye follow to the beckoning of phantoms leading on,
Going deeper into darkness, blindly groping for the dawn?
Lo! ye leave the beaten path-way for the bog of Vain-Desire
While before ye mocks the glitter of the marsh-light's luring fire."

"Look! beside the laughing waters are the children at their play
Will ye fling their fair inheritance, a priceless pearl—away?
Arm ye! Arm ye! on the instant, and eternal vigil keep Lest the music of the sirens lulls yourconsciences to sleep."

"O my people, are ye smitten with the lust for sudden gains?
Will ye grasp as at a shadow, while the vital substance wanes?
Do ye scorn the bitter wisdom which experience hath taught?
Will ye sell mine ancient birthright for a mess of pottage brought?"

"Nay! I dare not deem ye weaklings; or by either field or flood;
T'was not wrought within your breeding, never nurtured in your blood.
Eee! one Empire and one banner, see one country and one God
Is the lesson, so ye heed it, in the turning of the sod."

A $20,000 Bridge

The C. N. R. will shortly build a ew $20,000 steel bridge over the ver at Swan River, Man.

A Big Dividend

The Nickle Plate mine at Hedley, milkameen, is paying dividends at e rate of 20 per cent. per annum.

More Coal

The Western Fuel Co., of Nanaimo, tends to open up two new mines ar the city at a cost of about $1,-0,000, and it is estimated that 1,200 orkmen will be added to the popula-n when the shipment of coal be-ns.

Winnipeg Growing

An unofficial estimate of the city's pulation for 1911, based on returns cured by assessors, place the total 151,230. The final figures of the sessment department for last year re 132,720, so that a gain of nearly 000 is indicated.

Smelter Not Affected

The coal strike will not affect the eenwood smelter. The British Co-ibia Copper company has sufficient e on hand to run six weeks and angements have been made to ob-a supply from Pennsylvania until coke ovens in Coleman are again operation.

Abandoned Northern Trip

wing to the departure in Septem-prior to the coming of the Duke onnaught, as Governor-General of ada, Earl Grey has decided to ndon his proposed trip up the Mc-zie River to the Arctic Ocean, thence through Behring Straits Victoria on the cruiser Rainbow.

G. T. P. Build Hotel

An immense hotel of the most modern type will be erected by the Grand Trunk Pacific in Edmonton. The structure will go up on the Grandview hotel property on which the railway company has an option till May 1. It is in the central portion of the city with a magnificent view overlooking the Saskatchewan valley

Rossland School Gets Grant

A letter has just been received by J. A. McLeod, secretary of the board of school trustees, from the minister of education, Victoria, confirming the grant of $5,000 from the provincial government to Rossland for school purposes.

Girl Guides at Trail

A patrol of the Girl Guides, a sister organization of the Boy Scouts has been organized at Trail with the following officers in charge: Scout Captain, Miss K. Beisley; assistant, Miss Dorothy Blackman. The organization starts out with a membership of nine girls and the work taken up will be similar to that of the Boy Scouts—physical drill, gymnastics, first aid, etc. Scoutmaster Alexander will act as secretary.

More Through Trains

According to reports it is now considered in railway circles here that the new time card of the C. P. R. which will go into effect on April 15, will mean more than the mere adding of trains No. 1 and 2 between Montreal and the Coast.

In reliable quarters, it is said that train No. 24 and No. 25, the Toronto-Winnipeg express, will run through to the coast and will be strictly a first-class train, carrying only standard and tourist sleepers, and will have all the luxuries of the Chicago-California trains, which include library, barber shop and bathrooms. There will also be compartment cars. How the passengers on this route who do not take sleepers will be taken care of is not known. Last year there was considerable talk of a second train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Canada Medical Association

Great interest is being shown in the coming meeting of the Canada Medical Association which is to be held in Montreal on June 7th to 9th next under the presidency of Doctor Geo. W. Armstrong of Montreal. This meeting follows immediately after the opening of the new medical building of McGill University by His Excellency Earl Grey, when there will be a reunion of the many graduates of McGill.

Increases Regina

A proclamation issued by the Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan has increased the area of Regina city from three square miles to thirteen square miles. The population of the enlarged city is estimated at upwards of 20,000. Prior to the addition of the new territory, Regina townsite was the smallest in area of any incorporated city in Canada.

No Signs of Spring

Travellers arriving in Brandon from the north say that the country fifty miles from there and further north is covered with snow and that immense drifts still remain. There is no sign of spring whatever in that direction.

Destructive Fire

An actual loss of about $130,000 was caused recently by the destruction by fire of the Pitt River Lumber company's new mill at Coquitlam, the total loss reaching around the $200,000 mark, with only from $65,000 to $70,000 insurance.

In addition to the plant and machinery, about 2,000,000 feet of dressed lumber and several carloads of shingles were burned. Only a few shingles, one shed of lumber and the office were saved.

Fishery Regulations

An order in council has been passed amending the general fisheries regulations by providing that no person not a British subject, shall in future be allowed to angle or take sporting fish without having obtained an angler's permit. The regulation applies to all provinces but Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, where such permits are issued under the authority of the Provincial Government.

Thinkers Opposed

W. A. Shephard, of Borden, Sask., of the council of the consolidated boards of trade of Saskatchewan, asserted today that all the boards of trade in that province were opposed to reciprocity, as were also a majority of thinking people.

Automobile Service

Arrangements are under way to instal an automobile service between Kamloops, Merritt, Aspen Grove, Tulameen and Princeton. Mr. C. Craig, a well-known automobile expert of Vancouver, who has been visiting Merritt, has come to the conclusion that an automobile service between these five towns would be a paying proposition and a regular service will be put on as soon as the snow is well off the ground.

Good Prospects at Pincher.

Pincher City farmers have commenced spring work. The land is in splendid condition for seeding and there will be a big acreage seeded to spring wheat this season. Fields seeded to fall wheat are putting on a green appearance and are in splendid condition. The prospect for bumper crops could hardly be better.

To Establish Factories From Atlantic to Pacific

The establishment of a number of plants from the Atlantic to the Pacific is contemplated by the Associated Portland Cement Co., of London, England, one of the richest corporations in the world and H. K. G. Bamber, managing director and H. D. Anderson, associate director are in Vancouver and Victoria negotiating for suitable sites. The plans of the company involve an expenditure of millions of dollars in the Dominion.

Canada's Prosperity

The total trade of Canada for the eleven months of the fiscal year was $867,377,488, an increase of $76,799,507 compared with the corresponding period last year, February trade totalled $52,946,413, an increase of $6,-655,312. For the full year the estimated trade will reach nearly $750,-000,000.

Telegraph Rates to Be Reviewed

The department of justice has appointed W. S. Buell, of Brockville, and Isaac Pitblado, of Winnipeg, to represent the people of Canada in the general inquiry into the matter of telegraph rates and telegraph forms.

The inquiry has arisen as the result of a complaint laid by the Winnipeg board of trade against the telegraph companies, but as the issue was one of national interest, it was taken up by the government.

At the railway commission office it was announced that an inquiry would be commenced by the commission in Toronto, Monday, April 24.

An Expensive Game For You

If you see a chair in one store marked $3.00 and in another store you see the same chair marked $1.98, your first conclusion is that the first store is high. Some merchants take advantage of this. They mark a ridiculously low price on things whose prices people can compare by shopping around. Then on other things they boost the prices unreasonably high. You are misled by this, and you pay too much for the most of your goods. In this store everything is marked at a uniform small profit. You don't pay the slightest bit higher per cent when your purchase is $100 than when it is 10c. Do you like our way? We have the largest assortment of all kinds of chairs at reasonable prices for you to select from. Chairs are priced this way:—

Children's Chairs ..... 75c

RECIPROCITY

Colquitz, B. C., March, 1911.

he Editor The Week:

Sir:—Be it known of all men that we, e People of Canada, Sir Wilfred aurier, Fielding and Patterson (the ree tailors of Tooly St.), have sold e birthright of Canada to the nited States. Esau was hungry hen he sold his birthright for a ess of pottage—he was in need of e pottage. Canada is not hungry, e has plenty of pottage, and some spare. The bargain of Canada is erefore worse than the bargain of sau. Sir Wilfred Laurier, whom we isted, barters away the resources of nada to a foreigner, the United ates.

The resources of the United States lay are controlled by the most hless band of financial bandits that er exploited the labor and wealth a people. They have largely used the resources of the United States. e soil is impoverished, the forests ve been denuded, the fisheries and nes are becoming exhausted. They w turn their covetous eyes to Can-a—they appeal to Sir Wilfred Lau-r for the virgin soil, the virgin for-s and the well-stocked fisheries l mines of Canada. Sir Wilfred, hout consulting Canada, without ing any reason that would be in mony with sound judgment, en-s into the treacherous agreement ed Reciprocity, falls like a fly into web of the big spider. Can we st Sir Wilfred after this? The na-nal honour of Canada is placed in vn by this agreement. Is it not e for Canadians to rise in their ght and depose the authors of the at betrayal of our country?

Automobiles

Victoria, B. C., April 6, 1911.

e Editor The Week:

Will you spare me space for ttle comment on your last week's cle under caption "Automibilists." e article was evidently inspired by Colonist report of our meeting h the Attorney-General. There no reporter present. Messrs. D. Ker, H. Cuthbert, J. A. Hinton, Ald. Sargison and myself made the delegation. Chief Langley at-led at our request. No other, the Attorney-General himself there. The Colonist report was xtravagant and absurd that I can-sed every member of our delega- and found that none had given any report of the meeting and ef Langley assures me that her did he, so the responsibility s with Mr. Bowser. His reporter nd may have an unduly vivid gination but the detail is so much evidence that one can scarcely me it all on the reporter.

he facts are that we waited on Bowser to complain of the harsh inistration of his Motor Act and offer, on the part of motorists to operate with the police in enforc- reasonable and safe motor driv- We pointed out that although ilar legislation as to speed ob-ed in England and elsewhere it is y enforced in those particular ts where traffic is congested and everywhere indiscriminately as Victoria. We stated our willing-s to prosecute even our own mem-s who are reckless in driving. We nplained against the unfair and un-tish shifting of the burden of of in cases that might involve the rty of the subject. We claimed t police officers should be in-icted to warn the motorist at once en the officer had him noted for prosecution so that he might be rned and have a fixed recollection the circumstances and be prepared defend if innocent. We could not imagine an Attorney-General permitting his officers to trap citizens, prosecute them, take away their right to be presumed innocent of an offence for which they might be put in prison, without at least a chance to defend themselves. What happened was that Mr. Bowser listened courteously to our remarks and then proceeded to deliver an address which bore evidence of having been already prepared for us before even having heard our case. Mr. Bowser's statements and arguments were inaccurate and raw and subject to repeated correction and objection. I cannot ask space to discuss the statements or arguments.

You state that we went to "roast" Mr. Bowser. We went to reason and talk the situation over. You say that we came away "done to a turn." Every member of the committee thought it was somewhat the other way 'round. You have before you what appears to be Mr. Bowser's own report of the meeting (of the impropriety of handing out that article of self-glorification with our arguments omitted or glossed, you may be your own judge), but our delegation failed to see any "mastery of the subject." As one gentleman who had spoken of conditions in London remarked, "Wait till he gets back from his trip this year and he will be enlightened." You say we "went to scoff" and "remained to pray." If our coming-away words were heard they might truly sound like prayer words, but they were not. Of us who did not speak it might well be said in parody on the lines of Marjorie Fleming:—

"We were most unusual calm;
We didn't say a single damn."

Mr. Editor, you are commonly supposed to be a motorphobe, but when it comes to the article "Automobilists"—how could you?

Faithfully,
M. B. JACKSON.

Editor Week:

Dear Sir:—In a recent communication to you, from this Department, it was stated that the Dairy Farm Competition had been divided into two classes and that for the best small dairy in the Province, as well as three medals

It was also stated that the name of this cup would be announced later and I now have the honour, as well as the pleasure to inform you that this cup for the small Dairy Farm Competition is to be known as the "Lieutenant-Governor's Cup." The small Dairy Farm Competition is for those having five to fifteen cows milking.

His Honour has offered this very handsome cup to be competed for under the rules and regulations laid down by the Dairymen's Association.

Thanking you in anticipation for any publicity which you may give this matter, I am,

Truly yours,
P. H. MOORE, Secretary.

To the Editor of The Victoria Week:

Dear Sir:—The work of publicity in which the Development League is engaged has been attended to actively, intelligently and economically. Last year close to 200 settlers were secured by it for Vancouver Island, as well as a number of residents for Victoria. The remarkable and substantial growth and prosperity of the city in the past two years has been advertised broadcast all over Great Britain and Canada through the League publicity channels, and the city has never been as well and widely known as it is today.

Everywhere throughout Canada the plan of attracting settlers, investors and residents is being carried on vigorously, and with direct pecuniary benefit. Every city of any size in the Dominion is advertising along these lines. Such work was never more necessary to Victoria than now, when the city is steadily pushing to the front as the coming great metropolis of the Northwest.

Two years ago a small number of Victoria's business men and firms, about 75 all told, assisted by the

Great Coal Fields of Graham Island to be Developed by Victoria and Vancouver People

The British Pacific Coal Co., Limited, offers limited block of shares at 25 cents, par value $1.00 each

As early as the year 1878 the late Dr. G. M. Dawson, perhaps the most eminent geologist ever actively engaged in historical research in Canada, visited and most thoroughly explored, among other portions of the Province of British Columbia, Queen Charlotte Islands.

Unless the readers of this advertising announcement have familiarized themselves with our northern country it will not be possible for them to fully comprehend the great wealth of this northern empire.

The Queen Charlotte Islands, consisting of hundreds of smaller islands and in the major portion Graham Island to the north and Moresby Island to the south, rise up out of the Pacific Ocean, sheltering a great portion of the main land of British Columbia and form the western boundary for what is known as Hecate Strait.

Dr. Dawson, in his report on the coal measures of Graham Island, emphasizes not only the quality of the coal but the extensiveness of the field.

Graham Island, named after an officer of the Hudson's Bay Company, is the largest and most northerly portion of the Queen Charlotte group and is immediately opposite Prince Rupert, the Pacific terminus of that great transcontinental railway now almost completed, the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Prince Rupert is six hundred and fifty miles nearer Yokohama than Victoria or Vancouver and five hundred miles nearer Alaska than Vancouver Island.

From Skidegate Inlet to Port Simpson or Port Essington is one hundred and fifteen miles while it is but eighty miles to Prince Rupert city. This means that the coal properties on Graham Island not only control one of the greatest fuel markets in the world, but on account of its extensive frontage on salt water with a deeply dented coast line has at its command the cheapest of shipping facilities by boat to most of the world.

Skidegate Inlet was discovered in 1850 by Major William Downie. Since that time this portion of Graham Island has received more or less attention of prospectors and miners visiting the northern part of the province.

Mr. Alexander Faulds, M.E.M.; M.E., consulting engineer of Vancouver, on October 27th, in the year 1910, submitted a most comprehensive report on the property now controlled by The British Pacific Coal Company, Limited.

In his report Mr. Faulds, using as a basis of calculation 8320 acres, estimated the coal tonnage at thirty-six millions of tons.

This estimate is based on one seam of coal only. There are five other seams, in the property not included.

Herewith is an extract from Mr. Fauld's report:

APPRAISAL

Your properties are very valuable, being of adequate commercial assemblage and magnitude and excellently located, with their transportation facilities, the potentialities of which, from the estimated quantities of coal they are likely to contain are very vast and practically unlimited in depth.

"The value of 36,000,000 tons of bituminous coal in your properties for one coal seam 6 feet thick should be not less than $120 per acre, and anthracite not less than $180 per acre, the mean or average of which would be $150 per acre, exclusive of agricultural and timber value."

These are most important facts, absolutely essential to the appraisal of these properties towards industrial enterprises.

These 8320 acres or thereby are an excellent and adequate commercial assemblage for colliery operations capable of producing a daily output of 1000 tons for about 144 years.

Taking the capitalization a t$1,500,000 at 16 2-3 per cent. gives $250,000 per annum, and taking an output of 1000 tons daily or 250,000 annually at a profit of $1.00 per ton would produce $250,000 per annum, or the capital recouped in six years, adding another year for contingencies, making seven years, or say altogether at the utmost a period of eight years.

"Taking the estimated tonnage of 36,000,000 during the life of the mine at $1.00 per ton would give a clear profit of $36,000,000, or $22.50 for every dollar invested."

The assembled area of about 8320 acres reported upon are held under licenses from the Provincial Government, which includes the coal rights and surface, with unpurchased or unleased timber thereon.

The coal in the property of the British Coal Company, Limited, is commonly known as anthracite, which is the character of the coal mined in Pennsylvania and in a number of the Old Country mines. It is the hardest quality of coal mined in the world, does not disintegrate on being exposed to the air, and will not soil the hands. There is a noticeable absence of dust, so distasteful in the household and the streets, and the minimum quantity of ash, gas, soot, or clinker in burning.

The very fact that this coal is so desirable for domestic and manufacturing purposes will place a premium on the output of the mines of this Company, since the anthracite coal belt in British Columbia is very limited.

This means a very wide horizon to the anthracite coal market, and wherever obtainable will naturally be given a preference by the consumer.

The expense of marketing is no greater than that of the inferior grades, since a ton of coal is a ton, no matter of what quality.

The fact that the British Pacific Coal Company, Limited, may ship its output by water, places the Company in the enviable position, not enjoyed by many other coal companies in the United States or Canada. That is, there can be no shortage of cars, no excessive freight rates. The Company can load direct from its bunkers, either into its own boats or those of competing shipping companies.

PROPERTY CARRIES VALUABLE TIMBER.

There is sufficient timber on the surface of the Company's property to build, if required at any time, boats or barges to handle the coal output of the mine; also to supply all the timber required in conjunction with the working of the mine, the construction of all the mine buildings and surface structures, also wharves and piers.

A limited block of shares in the British Pacific Coal Company, which are held by the Trustee, T. R. Morrow, are now offered for subscription, the proceeds of which are to be used in further developing and equipping the property.

The opening price is 25c per share. No applications shall be received for less than 100 shares. All cheques and applications must be directed to T. R. Morrow, Trustee. The terms of sale of shares are: 10 cents per share cash with application, balance in three equal monthly payments.

On the completion of the sale of the 25-cent issue the price will be advanced to 35c, 40c or 50c per share at which new price but a limited block will be offered to the public.

These shares should be worth and sell for $1.00 inside of one year. The shares have a par value of $1.00 each and are fully paid up and non-assessable.

Eminent engineers say that coal may be shipped from the property in profitable quantities within six months' work.

This proposition will bear the closest investigation. Every element of chance has been eliminated.

Those who desire to acquire shares in the British Pacific Coal Company, Limited, during the present 25c issues should make their applications early, since, judging from the number of inquiries, the 25-cent issue will only be on the market a few days.

The Victoria offices of the Trustee, J. E. Morrow, and the Company are situated at

THE MOTHERLAND

New Governor of Victoria

Sir John Fuller will leave England to take up his appointment as Governor of Victoria on April 17. Lady Fuller will follow him in the middle of May.

Three Towns in One

A project is being set on foot for amalgamating the three towns of Rochester, Chatham and Gillingham, and forming them into a county borough. The three towns have a combined population of about 120,000.

New Indian Governor

The King has been pleased to approve the appointment of Sir Charles Stuart Bayley to be Lieutenant-Governor of Eastern Bengal and Assam in succession to Sir Lancelot Hare.

Wallace Memorial

The neighborhood of the ancient house in Elderslie, known as Wallace's Castle, is being inspected with a view to a site being selected for a memorial of the Scottish hero.

Noted Churchman's Fiftieth Birthday

The Most Rev. Francis Bourne, Archbishop of Westminster, head of the Roman Catholic church in the United Kingdom, celebrated his 50th birthday on the 23rd ult. Recently there has been a revival of rumours that Archbishop Bourne will be elevated to the cardinalate at the next consistory in Rome.

Fire Closes College

A serious fire broke out at the Gordon College, Aberdeen, on March 8th. The east wing, which contained class-rooms for mathematics, classics, physics, and chemistry, were destroyed. Damage was done to the extent of £10,000, and the college, which has an attendance of nearly one thousand boys, has been closed.

The Abbey Velvet

Lister and Co., Bradford, have received the order for over a thousand yards of rich velvet to drape Westminster Abbey. The ground will be in fawn and silver tinsel and the design, on bold conventional lines, will be worked in rich heavy pile of a dark blue colour.

A Waste of Time

All clocks in France were stopped for nine minutes and twenty-one seconds, starting exactly at midnight, March 10th, in order to comply with the law making the time the same as in all places within a radius of fifteen degrees, and in which the time is regulated from Greenwich, England.

New Admiral

The following naval promotions were announced in a recent London Gazette, the promotions being consequnt on the death of Admiral Sir Asheton Curzon-Howe:—

Vice-Admiral the Hon. Sir Hedsworth Lambton to be admiral.

Rear-Admiral Sir Alfred W. Paget to be vice-admiral.

Captain Bernard Currey to be rear-admiral.

Estate Sold for £75,000

The large Herefordshire estate of Mr. H. G. Salisbury Hughes has been broken up by its owner. It is situated at Offley, and includes Offley Place and over 3,000 acres of land. Mr. Hughes has sold the esttae privately for an aggregate sum of upwards of £75,000. Colonel Clutterbuck and Mr. J. C. Priestly, K.C., are among the purchasers.

K. & S. Railway Bought

A Kaslo syndicate, of which J. L. Retallack is a prominent member, has secured an option for $25,000 on the charter of the K. & S. railroad and it is believed that an arrangement will be arrived at by which the road will be rebuilt to standard gauge for the 27 miles between Sandon and Kaslo, and operated by the C. P. R. This will make an unbroken line from Nakusp on the Upper Arrow Lake to Kaslo on the Kootenay Lake, the western end of this road having been built by the Provincial Government, and operated by the C. P. R. under a satisfactory agreement.

Navy's First Oil Tank Steamer

The Greenock and Grangemouth Dockyard Company have launched from their Greenock yard the Burma, the first oil tank steamer constructed to the order of the British Admiralty. This vessel has been fitted with the object of supplying oil to a British fleet at sea, and is capable of towing a ship and supplying her with oil fuel or of being towed while this is done. The Burma carries 2,500 tons of fuel oil in twelve tanks.

Queen's Trainbearers.

The two trainbearers at the coronation of Queen Mary will be Lady Eileen Butler and Lady Eileen Knox. The others who will be in attendance are Lady Dawson, Lady Ogilvie, Lady Victoria Carrington and Miss Dorothy Brown. Lady Eileen Butler is the beautiful daughter of Lord Lanesborough. In reverting to trainbearers Queen Mary is following the precedents set by Queen Adelaide and Queen Charlotte. Queen Alexandra had pages.

English Sugar Beet Scheme

Mr. Ali Cohen, acting for a financial syndicate which would have a factory erected near Norwich in 1912, met a large gathering of agriculturists at Norwich last Saturday, and put to them strongly the case for a much more extensive growth of sugar beet. Mr. H. Rider Haggard said that from his limited experience he should not care to grow sugar beet for export. It seemed to him that the profit came from retaining the refuse for feeding the stock. He believed that they could grow sugar beet in Norfolk as well as in Denmark.

Portsmouth Naval Command

It is officially announced that the King has approved of the appointment of Admiral Sir A. W. Moore to be Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth in the place of the late Admiral Sir Assheton Curzon-Howe.

Admiral Sir A. W. Moore, who was promoted to his present rank in October, 1907, has been Junior Sea Lord of the Admiralty, Commander-in-Chief of the Cape Station, second in command of the Channel Fleet, and Commander-in-Chief on the China station.

Another X-Rays Martyr

Mr. Ernest E. Wilson, a pioneer of radiography at the London Hospital, has died at his residence at Bishop's Stortford, Essex. A martyr for the benefit of humanity, Mr. Wilson endured terrible suffering with heroic courage. Two years ago he retired from the staff of the hospital, being incapacitated owing to the loss of several fingers as a result of the action of the X-rays during its experimental stages.

In Honour of Shakespeare

Acting for the proposed Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, a deputation introduced by Mr. George Alexander recently, asked the General Purposes Committee of the London County Council for the refusal of the Spring-gardens site when the London County Council offices are removed to the Embankment. The committee will give its decision in due course.

Gala Performance

The King has been pleased to intimate to Sir Herbert Tree, as director, and Mr. Arthur Bourchier, as organising secetary, that he has approved of the following programme, submitted by the executive committee of the Coronation theatrical gala performance:—

First act of Lord Lytton's "Money."

Scene from "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Picture scene from "The School for Scandal."

Scene from Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar."

Sheridan's "Critic."

A prologue especially written for the occasion will open the performance, which is to take place on June 27.

A Business Creed

I BELIEVE in the goods I am handing out, in my establishment, and in my ability to get results. I BELIEVE honest goods can be passed out to honest people by honest methods. I BELIEVE in working, not weeping; in encouragment, not disheartenment; and in the pleasure of serving the public. I BELIEVE a man gets what he goes after, that one deed done to-day is worth two done to-morrow, and that no man is down and out until he has lost faith in himself. I BELIEVE in to-day, and the work I am doing, in to-morrow and the work I hope to do, and in the sure reward which the future holds. I BELIEVE in courtesy, in kindness, in generosity, in good cheer, in friendship and honest competition. I BELIEVE there is something doing somewhere for every man ready to do it. I BELIEVE I am ready right now.

Capt. McIntosh has made the following sales: One lot on Graham street, $1,100; one lot on Verne terrace, $1,100; three lots on Elmonton road, $1,500; block L, Cloverdale, $2,500; half acre on Graham street, $1,400; 17 lots in Oaklands.

A property comprising one hundred and twenty feet on Quadra street and the same number of feet on Mason street, known as portion of the Lubbe Estate, and an additional sixty feet on Mason street adjoining, has been purchased by a committee of the churchwardens of St. John's Church for the site for their new edifice, which will cost in the neighbourhood of $80,000. The sale was concluded recently and plans are nearly completion by Mr. Ridgway Wilson, the architect. The purchase price of the property was $25,000.

The new place of worship will be architecturally very handsome. The property is of ample size to allow of a large building being erected. The steeple, which will be of an unique nature, will be in the proximity of 200 feet high, which is somewhat higher than that of the Roman Catholic Cathedral. Two sets of plans have been made and will be adjudicated upon this week by the executive of the church.

F. W. STEVENSON'S MONTHLY REPORT

March 31, 1911.

New York Stock Market

The strength of Canadian Pacific, both in London and New York, has been the main feature of the month. The stock has advanced steadily, a point or two a day, with only temporary set-backs, until the high point of 226¼ has been reached, and 250 is predicted for the stock within the year. Much of the buying power has been credited to Canadian investors, and within the past few days large buying orders, said to be for people in Germany, have been placed both in Montreal and New York.

The feeling is prevalent, both in New York and abroad, that the present dullness will continue for the next fortnight, when it is hoped the Supreme Court decisions will bring activity one way or the other. Nevertheless, any bull demonstration is likely to be short-lived because of the extra session of Congress, which is called for April 15th.

The money situation in London continues strong, and as high as 3½ per cent. was paid for loans. Inquiry for money is due to the calling of loans by joint stock banks to swell their quarterly balances, and conditions should be easier after this date.

The bull pool in United States Rubber common has resumed its activity, and as a consequence the recent report of a dividend equivalent to four per cent. per annum, to be declared on the common stock, has been received. Whether there is any basis of fact behind this report or not is a question. Nevertheless, it is sufficient to move the price of stock up sharply. It will be recalled that this stock broke sharply a short time ago from 48, on the failure of similar reports to materialize.

The New York Tractions, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Interborough-Metropolitan have been advanced by insiders on the report that something favorable to both companies is to be announced soon, but no one seems to have a hint as to what this looked-for development is. The market, however, seems to have many earmarks of pool manipulation. One evidence of this is the number of rumors similar to those concerning Rubber and the New York Tractions.

A canvass of the most active houses in Wall Street shows they are carrying about forty per cent. less stocks than under normal conditions, and most of them express the opinion that no amount of bad news can apparently shake out the remaining holders. It is this absence of any further liquidation that has been tiring out the bears, thus preventing further short selling. About seven out of ten traders seem to be waiting for a break on the coming Supreme Court decisions in the big trust cases, to get back their stocks.

We have on hand a number of first class first mortgages on choice Residential Properties in the cities of Victoria and Vancouver in sums ranging from 1,000 to 4,000, at rates varying from 7 to 8 per cent. interest, payable quarterly, that we can let investors have.

Pemberton & Son

Pemberton Block Victoria, B.C.

We desire to announce that we have opened offices in Rooms 304 and 305 Bailey Building, Handling, Seattle, Wash., handling Stocks, Bonds, Grain and Cotton, strictly on a Commission basis, in the various markets of the world. Mr. Carl L. Miller, who has long been connected with important brokerage firms in the west, will be in charge.

We are members of the Chicago Board of Trade. Our Eastern correspondents are S. B. Chapin & Co., and Logan & Bryan, of Chicago and New York, members of all Exchanges. Private leased wire connections enable quick dispatch in handling all business intrusted to us for execution.

Having carried on a successful brokerage business in Victoria, B.C., for the past 10 years, we refer you to any bank, firm or individual of that city as to our standing and integrity.

Respectfully,
F. W. STEVENSON & CO.

Boston Copper Market

Copper prices are unchanged, but the tone of the market is slightly firmer. Lake is 12½ to ⅝ cents and electrolytic 12¼ to ⅜ cents per pound. Some leading students of the situation are beginning to ask themselves if a world's visible surplus of 340,000,000 pounds is a particularly bearish factor, in view of the fact that there are practically no invisible supplies in the bins of consumers. If the latter were to purchase and accumulate normal stocks of the metal the world's visible supply would probably be reduced thereby to not much over 150,000,000 pounds.

Amalgamated Copper Company has issued and sold $12,500,000 of 5 per cent. two-year notes, the proceeds of which, it is understood, will be used to purchase all the assets and good will of the United Metals Selling Company, which has a capital of $5,000,000. During the past two or three years Amalgamated has been making history very rapidly. The consolidation of the Butte producers by the Anaconda, the purchase of the Butte Coalition—formerly Heinzie's properties—the acquiring of W. A. Clarke's mines in that district, the taking over of United Metals Selling Company, and thus securing a 40 per cent. interest in the International Smelting and Refining Company, all suggest that other developments are to follow. Confidence is expressed that Amalgamated Copper will soon be selling at a considerably higher figure.

Local Market

Owing to lack of supporting orders in the Oil Stocks, these issues have lost ground materially during the past month. American Canadian, which sold as high as 58½ last month, is now being sold around 29, and Alberta Canadian at 11. Without oil these shares are worth about zero, and in our opinion this is about their value. In our market letter of last month we advised taking profits around the then high prices. If this course has been followed, those having faith in the properties can now replace their stock at a much better figure.

Portland Canal issues have been quiet, with ruling quotations but little changed during the past month, with current prices for Portlands 13 3-4 and Red Cliff $1.00. The latter we believe to be entirely too high. Fifty cents per share for Red Cliff would mean a mine value of $500,000, which we believe is more than anyone would give for the property. Our advice is to sell these shares. Portland Canal itself, at present prices, we believe, presents a fair speculative value, as in the event of the company financing its present needs, the shares should do materially better.

The threatened coal miners' strike has exerted a bearish influence on the Coal stocks. International Coal & Coke, at these prices, on any further break, we believe to be a good purchase.

DREDGES TO GATHER GOLD AND PLATINUM

The Platinum-Gold Fields, Limited, of Vancouver, which has some 20 miles of the Similkameen and Tulameen rivers on lease from the government, after a very thorough test of the auriferous ground at the forks of the rivers here and in the vicinity has ceased drilling and the machine is being stored until required after high water, says the Similkameen Star.

Ground is Good for Dredging

About forty drill holes were sunk, resulting in such satisfactory returns as will warrant the construction of a dredge for the purpose of recovering the platinum now known to be in the bars and alluvial deposits generally within the lease areas of the rivers. While there is a dearth of detailed information for publication, enough is known to verify the statement that values are satisfactory for dredging purposes. The drill affords absolutely reliable data from which to base average values and thus reduce placer mining machinery to a science even more accurate than by the primitive old method.

The drill has demonstrated that bedrock is deeper than supposed, probably averaging twelve feet around the forks. In any case the pay dirt with scientific treatment in a modern dredge will be found to be more extensive than suspected by old-time placer-men who had not the appliances for testing at depth.

Industry Large and Lasting

A beginning has now been made in what is not unlikely to become a great industry. In other countries, particularly New Zealand and California, vast capital is invested in gold dredging, hundreds of machines costing from $30,000 to $100,000 being operated in this permanent and profitable industry.

The area of dredgable ground in Princeton district can only be, in approximately, estimated, but lying within the river banks there are several hundred acres. If the bottoms and benches are included many times more acres will be added, in all an area large enough for the founding of a practically permanent industry. There also Granite creek and a number of other auriferous streams which could be worked.

Platinum High Priced

In the early placer days the rivers and creeks were skimmed over in the rush for big pay. Platinum, or 'white gold,' was then a drug, it having been bought as low as 50c and $2 per oz. Miners cast it in their quest for the more valuable gold. Now, however, platinum is worth $38 per oz. and there is no doubt it will be the chief value obtained by dredging on the upper Tulameen and its tributaries. Platinum in place has not been found in commercial qualities as yet, but the Dominion geologist is each summer trying to solve its hidden location, believed to be in the vicinity of Champion, Slate, Eagle and Kelly creeks.

Experienced Engineers

The B. C. Drilling and Dredging Co. of Vancouver has the contract for all the drilling required, the management on the ground being entrusted to F. Satchell Clarke, M.E., who has had large experience in gold dredging in New Zealand, California and British Columbia. He built the Cobbledick and North Thompson dredges and was similarly employed in Atlin and the Yukon. The company retains Mr. Clarke as consulting engineer.

The Platinum Gold Fields, Limited, of Vancouver, is composed of placer mining men, of which J. F. Tener, M.E., is consulting engineer. He has been here superintending the experimental work, the result of which is so satisfactory that a dredge will be built and operated at or near the forks of the rivers. It is expected that a dredge will be completed before the end of the year and upon its success will depend the construction of several others.

A True Prophet

Princeton and district afford almost every variety of mining, which proves the prediction made by that eminent geologist, Dr. Dawson, many years ago: That unless all indications went astray there would be found rich and extensive mineral deposits in this section. Every year new light is thrown upon the hitherto dark recesses of nature in Princeton district. Exploration and resultant discovery will open the way for development and the establishment of vast metal producing industries. In the great evolution now at hand, Princeton must play an important part if the spirit of progress be not strangled with apathy and sloth. As vigilance is the price of liberty so success is bought with industry and buoyant hope.

AMALGAMATION OF PORTLAND CANAL PROPERTIES

Vancouver mining men who have been quietly investigating the merits of a large area situated between the middle fork and the south fork of Glacier creek, in the Portland Canal mining section at Stewart, said to contain some of the richest veins of high grade silver ore, are working out a scheme of amalgamating seventeen claims. H. B. Williams, M.E., of the firm of Leckie & Williams, mining engineers, is now in England in this connection. The property that will be included in the area, if the deal is carried through, includes five claims owned by the Rush-Portland Mining Company, six claims in the Silver Horde group and the Excelsior-Eagle group, the Sentinel-Jupiter group, Silver King and Red Devil claims. Major R. G. Edwards-Leckie, M.E., of Vancouver, was instrumental last summer in interesting Lord Clinton and a party of English gentlemen, who visited the camp for several weeks, in the possibilities of its mines. The result has apparently been the working out of a big scheme of amalgamating a number of individual holdings.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS

Canada's railways are among the big transportation affairs of the world. In 1910 there were 24,731 miles of railway track in operation in the Dominion, according to a recent statement made in the House of Commons by Railway Minister Graham. This was an increase in one year of 627 miles and for ten years, 1901-1910, of 6,591 miles.

The lines under construction on June 30th last, totalled 4,500 miles, and the recent news despatches indicate a big railway building programme for this year, probably over a thousand miles in the West to be under construction during 1911. The total mileage will at the close of the year probably exceed the estimate of the Minister of Railways, which he placed at 30,000 miles in the Dominion. The capital invested in railways in Canada is $1,410,297,687, a pretty substantial sum of a country of eight millions of people. The gross earnings for 1910 were $173,956,217 and net earnings $53,550,777. The operating expenses for 1910 were $120,405,440. There were on June 30th, last, 123,768 employees on Canadian railways, earning $67,167,703, and in addition there were 16,709 employees engaged in outside operations as steamers and hotels, earning $5,169,923. The aggregate would thus be 140,477 employees with a total wage bill of $72,337,636, a by no means inconsiderable industrial army. The minister calculates that on the basis of each railway employee representing five persons, there is about one individual in ten of the total population of the Dominion that finds a livelihood from the railways of Canada.

CORRESPONDENCE

Mayor, and the City Council financed the movement for two years. All new firms and individuals who have since come into the city, together with the entire business world of Victoria, have reaped the benefits of the work done by The League.

British Columbia is just now the best advertised Province in Canada. Victoria is her best advertised city. The splendid progress of the city in 1909 and 1910 is a guarantee of the fact that advertising pays. Surely the time has gone by when it should be necessary for the men back of this movement to go out and solicit subscriptions. Those of the old residents who have not joined The League, and those of the new-comers who are similarly situated have an opportunity to show their faith in Victoria and their appreciation of successful publicity by allying themselves with the Victoria branch now.

Among the organizations working for the prosperity of Victoria and Vancouver Island, the Provincial and Dominion Governments, the City, Mayor and Council, the Press, the Board of Trade, the Bureau of Information and other public bodies, the League has, by its record, an honorable place. Its literature has been good, accurate and not overdrawn. Its work has been marked by conservative statements and business methods. It has the confidence of the men who launched it and still approve of it, and it deserves the encouragement of Victoria and her citizens.

H. G. WILSON.

March Rod and Gun

An exploration trip a little out of common forms the leading story in the March issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Ltd., Woodstock, Ont. In this story Dr. Luther Harvey describes a trip to Moose Factory and the very strenuous work he and his guide encountered during their return by way of the Abitibe River. It is a story that will delight the hearts of all good sportsmen. A paper on the Ancient and Honorable Brotherhood of Sportsmen holds up the highest qualifications for the members of the noble brotherhood and describes some of the fine conduct necessary on the part of those who would join the exclusive ranks. "Snow-Trailing a White-Tail Buck" is a gem of a story and it does not detract at all from its interest to know that the buck is still at large and will require all the hunter's mettle to overcome his instinct and cunning. In the "Conservation of the Ducks," Mr. J. A. McKenzie raises a number of questions of the deepest possible interest to many sportsmen who indulge in a day with the ducks. There are many other good things in the number, including the decision of Judge Hewson on the settler's rights to big game, the conferences of the North American Fish and Game Protective Association, a review of the New Brunswick game season, the Manitoba Game Laws, the destruction of wolves, etc., etc., affording sufficiently wide reading to interest any and every sportsman concerned in the many game problems raised throughout the Dominion.

Good for Kamloops

The citizens of Kamloops will in due course have the satisfaction of seeing a smelter in full blast in that town if negotiations can be satisfactorily concluded. It is proposed to incorporate a company for $300,000, in $10 shares, of which only sufficient will be issued to provide for the necessary plant, the balance being retained in the treasury. The citizens of Kamloops will be asked to take up 6,000 shares, the balance to be issued being taken by the Iron Mask mine-owners. This will provide for a 250-ton smelter, and Mr. Wallinder of the Iron Mask states that if this proposal is taken up a smelter will be erected and in operation within 18 months. The preliminary hearing of the proposition was favourably considered by the members of the council and is likely to be endorsed by the board of trade.

The King and Dr. Crenfell

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the Labrador medical missionary, had an audience of the King last month at Buckingham Palace. "I gave his Majesty a brief resume of my work in Labrador," said Dr. Grenfell in an interview. "What particularly struck me was the King's keen interest in seafaring men, for it was on this aspect of my work that he was most curious. His knowledge of the hardships of fishermen was quite surprising. His inquiries, too, as to the American nurses in our hospitals were very keen. We have a large number of these American nurses, and his Majesty asked me to give him a full account of the work of the nurses. He expressed his cordial admiration of what they are doing. I was delighted with my audience, especially when I discovered how intimate was the King's knowledge of Labrador. His interest in my work will be a great encouragement to me in the future." Aug. 22.

NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that, under the authority contained in section 131 of the "Land Act," a regulation has been approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council fixing the minimum sale price of first- and second-class lands at $10 and $5 per acre, respectively.

This regulation further provides that the prices fixed therein shall apply to all lands with respect to which the application to purchase is given favourable consideration after this date, notwithstanding the date of such application or any delay that may have occurred in the consideration of the same.

Further notice is hereby given that all persons who have pending applications to purchase lands under the provisions of sections 34 or 36 of the "Land Act" and who are not willing to complete such purchases under the prices fixed by the aforesaid regulation shall be at liberty to withdraw such applications and receive refund of the moneys deposited on account of such applications.

The Majestic Theatre

Two strong Western films were the big attraction at the Yates St. house at the beginning of this week, one of them dealing with the impossibility of warring against Nature by endeavouring to eradicate the primitive impulses of a young Indian by adopting him into a white family, and the other being an exciting film dealing with a girl, a sheriff and an erring brother. Some day soon we shall be seeing Mr. Christie building a gigantic hall to accomodate the crowds which throng the Majestic every night.

The Romano's Theatre

"Was He Justified?" was a powerful film founded on an actual incident which took place not so very long ago, where a prospector was confronted with the alternative of killing his wife or leaving her to suffer untold agonies without possibility of any other relief than death in the end. Roaring humour has been provided by the duelling scene between two heroic (?) suitors for a lady's hand. I turned in at Romano's one afternoon this week, long before my usual hour and was surprised to find that the theatre was even then fairly well filled, though it was a fine afternoon. A fact like this goes a long way to prove that Romano's is an exceedingly popular house.

Gertrude Elliott in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow."

To the few of the many characterizations of Miss Gertrude Elliott (Mrs. Forbes-Robertson) that are familiar to American theatregoers will be added next Thursday, April 13, at Victoria Theatre that of Glad, the street waif of London, in Frances Hodgson Burnett's play, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," a striking drama that has all-season runs in New York and London to its credit. In Glad, Mrs. Burnett has drawn a character that has all the appealing characteristics of her "Little Lord Fauntleroy" with the addition of simple, naive and charming qualities that remind one of a strange mixture of Dickens, a touch of Barrie, and the best of the authoress herself.

The Doctor Had the Best

Robert Smith, brother of Sydney Smith and an ex-advocate-general, on one occasion engaged in an argument with a physician over the relative merits of their respective professions.

"I don't say that all lawyers are crooks," said the doctor, "but you'll have to admit that your profession doesn't make angels of men."

Topical Trifles

(By Onlooker)

Are Canadians simple and sincere? A London society girl has declared that she is weary of society and desires to lead "a simple and sincere life." She intimates that a fruit farm in British Columbia is to be her goal. Evidently reciprocity has no terrors for her, or perhaps she has never heard of it. If the vicinity of Victoria is destined to be favoured by her presence, how about Duncan's for the simple life?

Probably our friends in that delightful neighborhood are simple and sincere, though if the society sick London damsel should send a copy of her visiting list with a title or two in advance she will find it more effective than a barrelful of simplicity Moral: Bring your halo with you, even if you are only going to a fruit farm in British Columbia.

Mr. Somerset Maugham has written a new play called "Loaves and Fishes." As the title has a biblical sound, so the hero is the Rev. Canon Theodore Spratte. The Rev. Theodore seeks his loaves and fishes by the matrimony route and is altogether a singularly unpleasant person, without a shred of sanctity. If the stage holds the mirror up to life as claimed it is to be hoped in this case that the glass is distorted, and the critical element of habitual playgoers has already condemned Mr. Maugham's play as being a mere caricature, rather than as the writer deems it, a satire.

An English lady predicts that cross-saddle riding will never be universal, because forsooth, the masculine mind is still against it. Piff! Women are tired of pretending they have not got any legs.

A contemporary has an interesting article telling of the work of a large deputation of men and women who recently interviewed the Provincial Secretary of Ontario to urge upon the Government the necessity of "taking immediate steps to take greater care of the feeble-minded people of the Province, both for their own sakes and for that of the country." Ontario is not the only province where there are feeble-minded people, and for the sake of those now staking land in the Peace River district a deputation to instal immediate telegraphic communication to that neighborhood would earn everlasting gratitude. However, as rapid increases in the value of real estate are the order of the day, investors must not be annoyed if they find they have staked about twice as much land as their capital can handle.

It is unfortunate that the Ladies' Alexandra Club has not been completed during this lovely weather. The situation of the Club's building is an excellent one, and the front aspect unexceptionable.

A cooking school has commenced operations in Victoria. An interesting demonstration was given on the mysteries of slicing bananas and peeling apples, also of beating olive oil into a salad dressing. The latter operation proved somewhat strenuous and caused the white rose complexion of the fair operator to become profusely tinged with the glory of the peony, and the salad dressing was finally completed by the assistant cook who rattled away most valiantly in the background. But with all due credit to the cooking school, obituary notices this week are normal.

Originality is always interesting, and a young architect, a recent arrival in this city and of admitted ability in things artistic, has written in addition to other inducements to enter his little office, the words "Internal Decorations." Carving the appendix is nothing new, but the Onlooker contemplates the idea of applying for an artistic stencil design on the liver and predicts quite a craze for this idea in fashionable society. Perhaps, however, it is scarcely "de rigeur" for the liver to make light of the heart.

Dr. Hans Richter's Farewell

On Tuesday, March 7th, Dr. Hans Richter bade farewell at Manchester to the Halle Choir, of which he has been the conductor 10r eleven years, in succession to Sir Charles Halle. He was presented with a silver casket with the inscription, "A token of appreciation and affectionate regard from the members of the Halle Choir to Dr. Richter on his retirement. Manchester, March, 1911." Mr. R. H. It is so long since the armhole seam appeared that it will be back some time as a novelty, and then look out for all the trimmings to mass themselves around it. The vogue for green and blue mixtures in the toilet is evident among all the materials, silks and cottons. And black and white as a trimming for colored pieces is another fancy of the moment. Some of the colored foulards and cottons have black and white borders. One seen recently comes to mind. It was a delft-blue foulard, sprinkled sparingly with tiny black squares. The two and a half inch border was black and white, in even blocks.

Fashion makers and manufacturers are having a conflict as a result of the present styles. Whatever the manufacturers ever did to deserve the styles that the world's sartorial arbiters have opposed to their gain, the manufacturers would like to know. Where a woman once bought from sixteen to twenty yards and more of material for a gown, she can now do with four to seven. Now the cutting down of women's requirements in woven goods to the extent of millions of yards a season is a telling factor in the world of trade. And there is not a glint on the horizon which promises wider gowns for six months at least. Just now one of the interesting phases is the oddity of many of the coats brought out for the first spring suits. Thirty-six inches seems to be the limit in depth of the coats, with few exceptions. And more jaunty suits have coats of 34-inch depth. The Eton jacket grows in numbers as the weeks roll on. But it is the Eton adapted to the present very marked styles. One of its new features is the sleeve of peasant style cut in one with the body part and the straight hang of its lines, rather than the shapely little coat that first won its way into feminine hearts under its title. One coat of the kind seen in a satin costume was an odd affair that had two sharp points at the front and the back, the point coming below the slightly lifted girdle of the bodice. There was not a suggestion of curve for the waist line and the neck was round, and the fastening a slanting line from the neck to the bust. Five small buttons fastened this opening. The sleeves were shapeless, ending at the elbow without taper from the upper part. At the left side between the front and back points there was a huge knot catching the straight sash, which consisted of one very long loop and a longer fringed end, the latter hanging clear to the bottom edge of the skirt. This jacket was of the same figured material as the skirt, and there was a sort of pannier tunic with points at the sides.

Lace gowns, lace coats, lace tunics, lace overwaists, lace scarfs and mantles—lace abundant is going to make a prominent part of the summer's wardrobe. All kinds of laces are in use—very heavy ones and the daintiest and filmiest. Some of the newest heaviest laces are works of art in themselves and one finds it difficult to classify them. They are not cut work, neither are they what we have been accustomed to think of as lace. Some of the new bandings in particular which are going to be used not only on linens and cottons, but with silks and satins, are so thick and bold in pattern that they will make effective trimmings or else very ugly ones. There will be nothing tame about them.

AUTOMOBILISTS

The Week somewhat reluctantly publishes a letter on the subject of the Automobilist Delegation and their interview with the Attorney-General last week. The reluctance is due to the fact that the writer resorts to extravagance in statement and misrepresentation of facts and, what could be more easily forgiven, winds up by calling the Editor of this paper a "motorphobe." Perhaps, however, his greatest crime is an unusual attempt to rhyme "calm" with "damn." It is impossible to traverse the whole of his letter, which possibly some of our readers will peruse for themselves. It is, however, made abundantly clear why there is, and is likely to be, a continued feud between the law and the law-breakers represented by Mr. Jackson. He is like the Irish Nationalists; it is not Home Rule that he wants but a "casus belli." Just where our correspondent gets his information from is a mystery, as he is unable to trace the report to anyone else he ventures with his usual recklessness to place it on the Attorney-General, and charges him with having kept a private reporter to furnish a "cooked" report to the Colonist. Now, the Attorney-General unlike our correspondent, has considerable business to attend to, and to avoid rambling in his remarks is alleged to have written his reply. This may or may not be true, but as the custom makes for brevity and conciseness there are not a few people who would be greatly relieved to learn that others had adopted the system. Mr. Jackson's characterization of Mr. Bowser's statements and arguments as "inaccurate and raw" will probably be accepted at its face value by automobilists—and others. In his concluding paragraph Mr. Jackson appears to complain because The Week suggested that the deputation 'went to scoff and remained to pray." The Week begs to assure him that no offence was meant; indeed, when the article was written his own name was not noticed among the delegation, or the latter part of the suggestion would have been omitted. The moral of our correspondent's letter seems to be "when you go to interview the Attorney-General, take your own reporter along with you." Meanwhile, The Week congratulates the automobilists of Victoria on having at last come to their senses in deciding to form a Club and discipline the members. Perhaps, if The Week were the Colonist it would pat itself on the back and claim at least some credit for the happy denouement; at any rate it has no hesitation in saying that the Club will have its hearty support in seeking a relaxation of the ten mile an hour rule when—and not before—automobilists have shown that they really intend to respect the law, and to assist the authorities in punishing indifferent and insolent law-breakers.

RIOTING AT PRINCE RUPERT

Matters are looking rather serious at Prince Rupert. When it comes to an open riot in the streets and a pitched battle between policemen and citizens on one side and strikers on the other, with bullets flying and blood flowing, such a situation cannot be regarded with equanimity. The telegraphic despatch in the daily press does not offer any explanation. The trouble is that very heavy contracts for street grading running into several hundred thousand dollars were let by contract. The contractors agreed to pay their men 37½ cents per hour; then a municipal election came along and the city labourers demanded 45 cents an hour, which was granted. Naturally enough the men working for the contractors demanded a similar wage, and whatever the merits of the case may be their course would appear natural in view of the fact that they were working alongside their fellows who had just been conceded an advance. Here, however, their right to consideration would appear to end, since, having failed to secure their demands by negotiation they have resorted to extreme violence. When the writer was in Prince Rupert four months ago trouble was anticipated. It is all due to the fact that in order to make the biggest penny possible out of their contracts the contractors have brought into Prince Rupert the lowest type of men who could be found on this continent. The remark was common on the streets that they were far worse than any kind of Oriental. They belong to the lowest type of European nationalities, who have been productive of trouble and strikes wherever they have gone. It will take a very strong arm to put them down, but it will have to be done, and they will have to be taught that one of the conditions of living under the British flag is obedience to British laws. Meanwhile, there is no doubt that the contract system in connection with municipal works has received a serious blow.

INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION

It is nearly forty years since John Bright aroused the enthusiasm of the English people by his magnificent orations on behalf of the Peace Society. From that day to this the propaganda for the settlement of all international differences by arbitration has been carried on. The sentiment of the civilized world is overwhelmingly in favour of the principle involved, and some progress has been made in the establishment of the Hague Tribunal which has been so successful in dealing with minor matters as to lead to the hope that it might ultimately extend its sphere of usefulness. Fresh interest is imported into this subject by the recent notable speech of Sir Edward Grey, which was acclaimed with delight both in England, the United States and Canada. Not so in Germany which, while giving an academic acquiescence, is not prepared to take any practical steps in the reduction of armaments, or to bind herself to submit international differences in which she may be directly interested, to arbitration. It is a many sided subject and involves the strong individuality, the primal instincts and the essential rights of men and of nations. While all sane men believe that war should be avoided at any cost, save the sacrifice of honour, there are many sane men who believe that the final arbitrament between nations, as between individuals, must ever be the "force majeure." This is not to discount the value of Sir Edward Grey's splendid address, nor the efforts of those who are working for universal peace; it is rather to encourage them by pointing out that the result of their labours is not to be measured by failure to reach the supreme goal. They can lay the world under a heavy obligation long before that is reached.

THE CHINESE HEAD TAX

The Daily Press has called attention to the fact that during the last fiscal year no less a sum than $2,000,000 was paid into the Dominion Treasury under the provisions of the Chinese head tax. The Colonist very truly says this proves that the so-called Exclusion Law does not exclude. The matter cannot be allowed to rest there, and unless The Week is greatly mistaken the problem will have to be faced again in the near future. No demand for Oriental labour, however insistent and urgent, must be allowed to over-ride the mature determination of the Province to preserve Canada as "a white man's country." For some time the imposition of the head-tax sensibly diminished immigration; but that time has passed, and the influx of John Chinaman has been solely a matter of dollars and cents, in a country which is so rich and prosperous that dollars and cents "cut very little ice." The Week is in entire agreement with that part of Mr. J. A. McDonald's address before the Canadian Club in which he pleaded for "the breeding of the best men," and the keeping of the Anglo-Saxon race "pure and strong." In its last issue the Oriental question is, as The Week has always maintained, not an economic but a racial one, and the time has come when Orientals should be excluded "de facto"; not by a tax, which is ineffective and which merely increases the cost of living, but by a treaty or legislation which shall be absolutely prohibitive.

ORIENTAL IMMIGRATION

The Week and the Colonist are as wide apart as the poles on the subject of Oriental immigration. The week believes that in the interests of 'a white man's country" and to avoid racial dangers of the most profound character, the Oriental must be absolutely kept out of British Columbia. This contention is emphasized by three very significant facts. The first is that the Japanese are rapidly over-running California, becoming extensive landowners and slowly but surely building up an international problem. They are clever and aggressive; they cannot be kept down except by keeping them out. The next is that in spite of the $500 head-tax Chinamen are coming in as fast as ever; the price does not prohibit. Again it is their aggressiveness and the cupidity of Canadian contractors which is defeating the wishes of the public. The third fact, and possibly the most significant of all, is that the Hindus who excited so much commiseration three years ago and were thought to be a "feeble folk" are becoming rich and influential, and demanding the right of bringing in their wives and families. If this were permitted, as the Colonist advises, it would be the beginning of a system of which no man can fore-tell the end, except that no power on earth can prevent inter-marriage to a disastrous degree in a province in which the male population so enormously outnumbers the female. To refuse the favour may work a hardship among the Hindus; to grant it would work an infinitely greater hardship among people of our own race. The Week does not advocate unfair treatment of any man, least of all a British subject, but the more effectually Oriental immigration of every kind is discouraged the better it will be for Canada and the Empire.

THE LAND ACT

For several years the Victoria Times has been raving at the iniquities of the Provincial Land Laws. Now that the Government has, at the psychological moment, doubled the price of Crown lands, and placed a reserve on many millions of acres the Times counters with a column of vilification on Mr. McBride, and, assuming that he has been finally forced to act upon its advice, seems to entertain doubts as to the wisdom of what it has always been urging. Really, the Times pays itself too great a compliment in supposing that its ill-bred diatribes have anything to do with the decision of the Government. The step which has been taken has been under contemplation for many months, but it was not until an extensive and well organized raid was about to be made on the Peace River lands that it was decided to fire the double-barrelled shot which at once retained control of those lands by the Department and raised the price of Crown lands throughout the Province. The justification for the latter part of the policy is to be found in the fact that all the great land companies, notably the C. P. R. and the Hudson Bay Company, have advanced their prices. The average price of agricultural lands on the prairies has risen during the last few years from $5.00 to $13.00. It would therefore work no hardship for the British Columbia Government to follow suit. The logical development of the new policy should be that at the next session of Parliament all public lands should be placed under reserve, and, except for pre-emption, sales of land should be made only after survey and through the Department.

THE SONGHEES RESERVE

The passing of the Songhees Reserve is practically a "fait accompli." It is true that the money is not yet jingling in the pockets of Chief Cooper and his tribe, but somewhat on the principle of the little boy who was allowed to take a sniff at the pastry-cook's door, they have been allowed to see the bank books in which their names and the amount of their dower is inscribed. When the few formalities very properly demanded by the paternal government at Ottawa have been complied with Chief Cooper and his friends will begin to draw cheques, and to develop their new estate upon modern, scientific and sanitary lines. Already some of the ladies of the tribe have invested largely in spring millinery and have contributed during the fine weather of the present week to "the gaie of nations." "All's well that ends well A difficult and protracted negotiation h been brought to a succesful conclusion, a Mr. McBride has shown once more th when it comes to a question of diploma he is a wonder.

A SEISMOLOGICAL OBSERVATORY

Until the sub-committee appointed the Board of Trade hands in its report may be as well to postpone any discussi on this most important subject. The Va couver papers are getting bsuy, and a running columns of letters arguing that such an observatory is established there only one place for it and that is in conne tion with the University at Point Gre Vancouverites are nothing if not enterpr ing. They have pretty nearly got the ea and now they want the heavens, but they will possess their souls in patience a few days they will see that Vancouv is not "the only pebble on the beach," ev where scientific research is concerned, a that there are two or three reasons w Victoria is entitled to consideration.

THE COAL STRIKE

It is as well to be accurate in on statements even in connection with c strikes. The Colonist stated on Thu day that the C. P. R. is preparing to st vast quantities of coal at Fort Willia which will be mined in the United Stat and will take the place of coal wh would have been mined in Fernie if strike had not been brought on. As matter of fact, the C. P. R. stores of c at Fort William have always been secu from the United States. The water tra portation from the American mines, w duty added, is several dollars a ton than the cost of transportation by from Fernie. Even in Winnipeg, f hundred miles further West, more Am can coal is consumed than Canadian.

BREAKING THE LAW

A week or so ago the Police authori announced that there were other mat than "speeding" which would receive th immediate attention, notably the driving motor-cars by children under age, and tooting of sirens. In both respects the is being disregarded daily, and as far The Week has been able to observe n ing has been done in the matter. If th infractions of the law are to be suppres by the voluntary action of the Automo Club, well and good; if not, then the lice should at least convey a word of wa ing. Automobile No. 965 is being stantly driven round the city by yo boys under age. This is only one insta out of many.

CHRISTIAN CHARITY

The Week is informed by a lady acti associated with the work of the Wom Council, the W.C.T.U. and the Y.W. that recently a lady came to Victoria, perly accredited from a sister organizat to invoke the assistance of the Victori ganizations in dealing with girls who been rescued from a life of shame. viously such girls can only be prov for at a distance from the city where have been accustomed to live. The failed to secure the slightest support thus one of the only possible avenue escape for these poor creatures was clo The Week would be glad to hear what fence can be offered for the refusal.

THE CANADIAN CLUB

The Week notices from a news desp that the Halifax Canadian Club has ad ed a new mode of entertaining and structing its members. It has laun out into a series of debates. The Vict Canadian Club might do worse than low the lead; it might also seriously sider the desirability of abolishing the ham luncheon, and holding its recept at a time and place when the comfort convenience of its members and its gu could be consulted. Until the City sesses a commodious and well-equip room and a public-spirited caterer it do far better to confine its entertainm to the proverbial "feast of reason and of soul."
