Dear Mr. Goldie:

RE BELLEVUE.

Your letter of May 24th received and the express parcel containing Bellevue books and papers has just come in. I have not opened it, and on account of having to go away for two or three days first thing in the morning, will be unable to look into it until I return at the end of the week.

I note the bank account from March 1st to May 24th, and it appears that the taxes, which I understand are accumulating interest at 8%, are still unpaid, although the money was again provided for this purpose. Will you let me know why it is that you have been unable to settle this account? I of course assume that there is some object in allowing it to accumulate interest while there are funds in the bank to the credit of Bellevue which are not bearing interest. Also please let me know with whom I am to communicate in regard to the settling of this, and what is to be done.

Yours very truly,

J S McAllister
