Apple Estimates For Coming Season

Estimates of apple production in the Okanagan and Main Line sections, for the forthcoming season, at first appear to show the volume to be greater than that of any recent year. The contrast in the table below, however, is between estimates for this year and the actual shipments of former seasons. This fact is stressed by many expert observers who point out that estimates are often greater than actual shipments, and they predict that shipments in 1937-38 will be lower than last season.
