Vol. vii. No. 14. PRINCETON, B.C., SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1906. $2 a Year, in Advance

MINING EXPERTS ARRIVE.

Will Sample Various Camps and Note Conditions and Prospects.

Prof. Landis and J. Roberts of Seattle arrived in Princeton on last Saturday's stage for the purpose of making an expert investigation of the mineral resources of this section and of the Nubian group more particularly. They have come on behalf of representatives of capital who have become interested in mining here through J. F. Leland. A large preliminary expenditure will be made in ore tests and examination of deposits. To facilitate this a portable plant of about 1000 pounds weight will be used in testing and analyzing the ore of various camps. The above named gentlemen with C. Snowden as guide left for Copper mountain last Sunday where they have collected sixty three ore samples from as many mineral claims. W. Dawson McGregor, M.E., also of the party, returned to the coast on Sunday after having spent a week in looking over some of the mineral properties—he wi l be back again in about a fortnight.

ROCHE RIVER TRAIL.

It is a pity that the trail from Princeton to Roche river is not put in better shape. Prospectors and all others using the trail risk life and limb in crossing an unsafe bridge and climbing precipitous banks. There are timbers across the trail and in some places it needs widening. With a very large appropriation of money for Similkameen roads, trails and bridges it seems too bad that this trail and the roads should be neglected. Possibly the road superintendent on reading this item will kindly give the matter his immediate attention.

TRAVELLER AND EXPLORER.

Chas. Camsell, Dominion geologist, has moved his camp from four miles above town to the international boundary line where it intersects the Pasayton river. From that point he will work toward Princeton. While here he was collecting information about the Princeton coal basin. Mr. Camsell has been in the far north of Canada exploring that great lone country in the Mackenzie river basin to the Arctic ocean. He was the first to blaze a trail across country from Dawson to the Peace river settlement, a very difficult task owing to many portages and rough travelling. the distance being near a thousand miles.

E. Barr Hall is clearing off two lots on which he will move his house, rendered necessary by the railway line going through his pretty homestead.

Regular meeting of the board of trade will be held next Thursday evening. Election of a secretary to take the place of Mr. Switzer, removed, and other important business.

MINES AND MINING.

Search for the Lost Lead Claim—Gold Crown has Tunnel.

R. Fitzgerald reports progress on the Gold Crown at Granite Creek. He is now in fifty feet with tunnel in ore between well defined walls. Much of the lead is decomposed quartz which can be mined with pick and shovel. Gold is panned out from it.

J. Os. Coulthard arrived in town yesterday via Hope Pass and will be at Roanie camp balance of summer. He has renewed last year's contract with Chinks to rediscover the Lost Lead claim which can be done only by wing dam on the Tulameen river. The lode was lost after the big placer stampede in the early days. It is very rich in gold and many wish Mr. Coulthard success in his plucky venture.

LADY PROSPECTRESS.

H. B. Brown and wife came up from Hedley on a prospecting trip last Monday. They are delighted with this part of the country both from a mineral and scenic viewpoint. The coal, especially, looked good to them as Hedley, thus far, depends on the pine and hemlock for its fuel. When the railway is in operation, however, Princeton coal will warm the hearts and hands of all between here and Spokane. Mrs. Brown is the first lady prospectress to visit Princeton and thinks the formation very favorable.

AN OUTSIDE OPINION.

Writing of the great resources of the Similkameen in a recent issue the Rossland Miner says, in part: "With these and other resources, once transportation is afforded, the country should have more than ordinary prosperity. Princeton, which promises to be one of the leading cities of the Similkameen, is less than 150 miles from Vancouver, and when rail communication is established between the two places it will be of vast advantage to both. The completion of this line will mean a great deal to Rossland. Vancouver will then take more interest in mining affairs than she does at present."

The money orders and postal notes paid at the Princeton post office indicate the growing importance of this section when compared with other places. The total paid was $4877, or nearly $400 more than the next highest office in the Similkameen last year.

J. R. Campbell, of the City drug store, has had an urgent invitation to visit Camborne and take a hand in the celebration for the 1st July. A tempting offer for a foot race, $100 a side, has been made him, which he feels would be easy money as he has already twice defeated the party making the proposition.

HERE AND THERE.

Dominion Day Tomorrow—Game Act Must be Observed.

Dominion Day (Sunday) will not be observed this year in Princeton. The weather has been so catchy of late and so many Princetonians are away helping other towns to celebrate that it was thought best to postpone until the railway came and then have a world-shaking demonstration. Some of Uncle Sam's subjects here will tickle the eagle on the Fourth just to see if the old bird can screech north of the 49th. This is not Princeton's year for celebrating.

Constable Hewat as game warden for this district intimates to the Star that he will rigidly enforce the provisions of the Game Act this season. In former years flagrant violations of the law in respect of killing young grouse were common. The constable gives timely warning that all may be aware of his intentions.

G. B. Tucker, a prominent real estate broker, of Portland, Ore , is in town on a business mission. He has great confidence in the future prosperity of this section and appreciates the advantages which Princeton possesses.

Public worship will be held in the court house Sunday morning at 11—Subject: "The Manifesto of the Kingdom," Matt. 5:2. Evening service at 7:30—Subject: "Our Birthday and Future Advance," Ex. 14:15. Sunday school at 2:30 p.m.—Subject: "Christ and the Little Children." Everybody invited. Rev. D. F. Smith, missionary.

A meeting of the Liberal association will be held next Monday evening in the board of trade rooms.

On the 15th inst. the marriage of Miss Christina (Tena) Gillespie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dougald Gillespie, to Mr. Arthur Basil Lawrence was solemnized at Myrtle Grove, the home of the bride's parents, Okanagan Falls, Rev. T. Greene, Kelowna, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence left on a honeymoon trip to England followed by the good wishes of a host of friends in which the Star joins and bids bon voyage.

W. Gosnell, manager of the Princeton Brewing Co., came in on last Saturday's stage from Nelson. The machinery and appliances are being quickly put in position and the finishing touches given to the fine, large building.

Tracklaying west of Midway has got to the first unfinished trestle and the steel crew is ballasting until completed.

Sunday school picnic will be held on Monday afternoon on E. Waterman's flat. Parents, children and all others are invited and bring baskets. Ice cream, swings, games and a good time generally is expected.

DRAWS DEAD LINE.

Bold, Bad Man takes Stout Club to Run Bluff but it Didn't Work.

EDITOR STAR—Sir: One of the evidences of the growing importance of a mining camp is the advent of the "bad man"—the buzzard scents the carrion from afar and the blow-fly follows the carcase—but the bad man scents and follows the rich mining camps. This being so, Otter Flat is assured of success, for this sign of prosperity struck the place like a cyclone recently in the person of a swashbuckler from Vancouver. He thought he owned this neck of territory and started in to govern it, a la Hercules, with a club.

He took possession of the Collins' gulch trail and at a place where it skirts a precipice drew a dead line across it. Then arming himself with a stout club he waited for victims. The first to approach was a mining engineer and a guide. The bad man stepped into the trail warning them that anyone crossing the dead line would be hurled over the precipice into the abyss. The engineer, who is a man of peace, drew back a pace. But the guide, who is a mountaineer and accustomed to brushing bears and cougars out of his path, pressed forward and succeeded in avoiding the downward swish of the club. Then, like a cat, he sprang on the club wielder. The struggle was short, sharp and decisive. The bad man hit the grit very hard. But the struggling foemen kicked up such a dust that the engineer could not see what was going on, but at last he heard a very weak voice calling for help. In going to render assistance he saw the swashbuckler was lying on his back with the guide's hand compressing his throat with an iron grip. At last he was let up, then crablike he faded away to turn up in Nicola a wiser and better man.

COAL BARON.

Otter Flat, June 23.

NEARLY AN ACCIDENT.

The danger of target shooting within the town limits was exemplified the other day when two ladies with children walking on the south end of Bridge street observed the dust immediately in front of them rise from a bullet fired from a nearby rifle. They shouted lustily fearing another and possibly closer call. The man behind the gun, however, did not hear them and a second bullet struck somewhat closer. The ladies at once went to where the report emanated from. They found the target shooter totally unaware of the danger he was causing and which he avowed would be the last of his target shooting within danger limits. The discharge of firearms within town or city limits is an infraction of the law for the protection of human life and its observance should be enforced by justices of the peace and the guardians of public safety.

ENCOURAGE CAPITAL.

It is no longer a question of the presence of minerals in the Similkameen: the question now is, how can they be produced and refined for commercial purposes. Necessarily the first consideration is the money to begin with. It is well known that there are many millions of money lying almost idle in any of the financial centres of the world. There is no lack of money for any mining enterprise that bears on its face the stamp of honest merit and worth. To present both merit and worth to capitalists or their representatives so as to appeal to their judgment is a simple business matter. The man who purchases any article of ordinary use must first be satisfied as to its intrinsic worth and reasonable price then the rest is easy. So it is with mining. The owner of a mineral claim having offered it for sale the intending purchaser examines the 'goods' just as the buyer of dry goods and groceries does. The price, whether it be all or part cash, or credit, must be arranged by mutual agreement. At this stage of the bargain it is possible for the seller to drive away the customer by inordinate demands as to credit terms or cash price. The seller may prefer to fold his goods and put them on the shelf at the risk of deterioration or probable loss of sale. The owner of a mineral property allows it to suffer depreciation and probable loss of sale when he refuses to accept the offer of capital to prove it to be of merit before purchasing. Whether it be good or bad policy to wait for a big price, which may never be realized, or to take a moderate one which will set going the wheels of industry and development and enable the owner to 'branch out' with the money received, is a question to be answered by claim holders themselves.

That it is necessary for some strong company with energy and executive skill to demonstrate to the world the profitable production of metal here no one will deny. That it is necessary to encourage capital to come here for that purpose nobody will deny. To attain that desirable end some one or more persons owning mineral claims will require to treat the matter as towns and cities often do to secure the establishment of an important manufacturing industry. The easiest possible terms conducive to the individual and general welfare are given. It is a well known law of commerce that trade begets trade. On that principle towns, cities and mining camps are built. If a mining and smelting industry is ever to be established here some sacrifices, concessions or inducements must be made. A beginning has got to be made, after which other industries will follow. Every miner, prospector, business man and resident of Princeton district should work in unison to induce and encourage capital to develop our vast and varied natural resources.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Premier Laurier has struck the keynote of what the Sunday Observance bill should do by stating that its aim is to secure one day's rest in seven for everybody. It is a physical necessity for man if life is to be enjoyed. It is beyond the power of any legislature to enforce its spiritual observance, that must be left to the individual. There is a tendency with railway companies, big manufacturing corporations and lesser concerns to commercialize Sunday. They must have dividends even at the cost of sweat and grind, aye, and the physical well-being of employees. That is wrong and the present bill is to remedy the evil. The principle of the bill aims to make Sunday a day of rest. That is not irrational. No law is necessary for the true Christian to observe Sunday, he does it from spiritual motives and will do no work except that of necessity or mercy. Throughout all Christendom laws have been made to preserve Sunday from desecration and to make it a day of rest. In all civilized countries it entered into and was observed as a part of the constitution. But the greed of men and the desire to gain some advantage over their fellows prompted the sweat-shop, the seven-day newspaper and many other forms of unnecessary labor until more stringent laws were demanded for the protection of health and the securing of one day's rest in the week for workingmen. Wipe out Sunday from the calendar and life becomes a bleak, monotonous desert without an oasis to refresh the tired body, or a ray of hope for that rest which comes after death. The Star stands for a sacred Sunday and would not object to two of them each week.

"It is my duty," said the conscientious lawyer to his client, "to see that you have a fair and square trial and justice all the way through." "You're too slow for me," declared the prisoner. "What I want is a lawyer who'll see that I'm acquitted."

"She thinks her husband is perfect." "Nonsense; you are quite mistaken." "Well, I've heard her call him 'a perfect brute,' anyway."

The young girl had been assiduously instructed in the arts and graces of courtesy, and when she told her mamma how the strange boy at the party had kissed her she did it with a demure, reserved air that would have delighted her mamma under other circumstances. "And he kissed me," she said. "Kissed you!" the mamma exclaimed, "and you, Gladys—what did you do?" "Mamma, I didn't forget my politeness, I said 'Thank you.'"

Kind Lady—Poor man! Wouldn't you like a nice chop? The Man (suspiciously—What kind of a chop, lady—lamb or wood?

Teacher—A miracle is going against the natural order of things. Are miracles performed today? Bright Boy—Yes'm. "Name one." "Well, mamma says that papa is always turning night into day."

"This man," explained the hospital doctor, "is the victim of athletics." "Ah overtrained, I suppose." "No, he never trained a bit. The fellow who hit him had, though."

Lady—You said this parrot had the gift of speech. He does nothing but holler and shriek and say nothing. Dealer—I meant de gift uv "political speech."
