MINES AND MINING

Ascending Copper will Help to Put Mineral Claims in Demand.

Canada Cannot Meet Demand for Cement—Ore Exhibit Requested for Vancouver.

Copper. 17.00.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Spencer went up to Whipsaw yesterday and will be there for some time on their silver lead properties.

J. S. Reynolds, mining editor for the Nelson Daily News, was in town this week collecting mining matter for a writeup Knight & Day have struck a new lead on the Lucky Pair and are drifting on it with good prospects. The ore, silver-lead, is almost pure metal.

R Hedley, M.E., is at Bear Creek making inspection of Law's camp.

The Princeton Coal & Land Co. expect a revival in demand for coal after the 1st July, when half yearly orders are usually renewed.

R. Stinson, owner of the Princess Maud mineral claim, Copper mountain, is a recent arrival from Vancouver.

Cement is so scant in supply in the west that the government has reduced the duty very low to admit of imports from the United States

'Editor Star—Sir : Will you give me space to repeat a few good things I heard at the coast about the Similkameen : Copper is king at present. It is the first theme of mining conversation. Then comes : 'What about the reported gold in the ores at Voigt Camp? Will they hold? If they do, there are few copper properti s in the world to compare with them.' Copper mining men the world over are on the lookout for copper with gold values. Now, this present season, is the time to show the world that this is only one of many Similkameen coppers which can furnish an extensive ore body. Copper ores rich in gold are not scarce, but it is the exception when immense bodies carry such gold values as given out re Voigt Camp. On behalf of the exhibition management and the Miners' club of Vancouver the Princeton board of trade is invited to collect an exhibit of ores to be put on permanent exhibit in Vancouver. It is for the interest of every resident of Princeton to see this is as complete as possible. Mine development, railroad construction, the cement and other industrials are all calling attention to the opportunities for money making in Princeton. Vancouver is at last looking outside her city limits to invest spare cash Let us encourage capital and we will be benefitted and they will thank us for putting them in the way of getting in on the best investments of the last decade Let us boost for the Similkameen, simply tell the truth about our conditions and we will win.'—H. B. Brown.

THE CELEBRATION.

Dominion Day celebration matters are moving along with slow but sure stride. The various committees are putting up the best program yet presented in Princeton and it will not be their fault if there be any lack of amusement or entertainment on the day we celebrate. It is up to the citizens to help the committees carry out the duties assumed by them. The crowd is coming from near and far. Many persons who have never seen Princeton will be here on Dominion Day. They are coming as much to see the town as to take in the celebration. And so it comes about that the celebration will react in a bnsiness way and benefit all concerned.

Clearing the race track and athletic grounds is making good progress and there is every prospect of the grounds being in readiness by Dominion Day. O. Rain has been very successful in getting rid of the stumps with blasting explosives and great reports daily salute citizens, telling with good effect the wonder working transformation that is going on and where soon panting steeds and rough riders will hold the assembled multitude in breathless expectancy.

FLAYS COURIER SCRIBE.

EDITOR STAR—Sir : I read with disgust a 'leading article,' or was it a 'letter from the editor?' of the Coalmont Courier, in which he expends the vials of his wrath and much printer's ink in maligning a certain type of Englishman, which he has a dread may drift into the vicinity of Coalmont and Tulameen. His letter is couched in such terms that the average Canadian, who is educated and has a distinct knowledge of the world coupled with ordinary refinement, would express his regre that a go-ahead town like Coalmont should start its first newspaper by giving prominence to a correspondence which is in very bad taste and which is not calculated to give a Britisher a fair show should he ever think of settling down anywhere in the neighborhood of Tulameen and Coalmont. I may say I am not an Englishman, nor a Canadian, but I have mixed a great deal with both, and I may say that for every thousand Englishmen I have met in different parts of the world only one per thousand was an impossible person and not very desirable as a neighbor or acquaintance. 'Tam bien' the Canadian. The editor of the Courier writes as tho' a flood of very objectionable Anglicans was about to pour into the Tulameen district and suggests, with some heat, that the flood

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS

Great Northern to Make Big Push on Construction Very Soon.

Railway Officials on Tour Extending to Interior—Contracts Let in Coquihalla Pass.

Premier McBride has recently stated that important development works will be undertaken by the Great Northern railway company in the next few weeks. This is taken to mean extension of the V.,V. & E. to Ashnola and building in Coquihalla pass.

Louis W. Hill, former president of the Great Northern railway company, having introduced his successor over the system in a flying trip made about a month ago, is preparing for another trip which will include the Coquihalla pass and the extensions of the V.,V. & E. Mr. Hill will be accompanied by Mr. Costello, assistant traffic manager, and the journey will extend as far as Fort George.

The locating survey party on the Kettle Valley line in charge of Mr. Brookes is in the vicinity of Otter Valley slowly coming toward Princeton.

Maj. Anderson, rightofway agent for the Great Northern, has been flitting about Oroville leading editor Dallam to predict something doing in railway building on the Wenatchee branch. If Jim is as slow in Wash. as he is in B.C. there is a big chance of us all taking the aerial route before he drives a spike on these links. O, Jim, you're slow!

The Hope Review says that contracts have been signed for grading by both the Kettle Valley and V.,V. & E. lines in Coquihalla pass. The provincial government, it says, has issued orders to certain road officials to facilitate the work of the contractors.

The Great Northern railway company have begun levelling the ground near the station and alongside the track for the purpose of erecting thereon freight sheds Hans Lof is doing the work.

PRINCETON TO VANCOUVER.

J. H. Jackson, proprietor of the Coalmont Merritt auto service, in catering for the travelling public has spared nothing to assure speed, comfort and pleasure. These essentials of travel along with the safety and care provided by properly qualified chaffeurs is certain to make this route popular. Moreover the route is described by travellers as rich in scenic beauty, each quick following curve presenting some phase of perspective that is attractive and interesting. At Coalmont, Tulameen and Merritt the hotels give first class accommodation, while at 'Thynne's' there are home food and comforts and that charm of the farm which lingers in memory to many later days. For tourists, hunters, anglers, prospectors, homeseekers, the Coalmont-Merritt route has a peculiar fascination, lake and stream, mountain and meadow blending into a harmonious and picturesque whole. Whether settlers or tourists all are welcome to partake of the good things and already a fine type of people from the old country are established along this route. From Princeton and Coalmont to Vancouver in one day is going 'some' compared with three days via the V.,V. & E., but Jackson uses only the Russell high power palace car with which you 'get there' on time every time. In the early part of July a daily service will be begun and then all trains will be met each way.

BEAR TUGS AT BIG TOE.

Bear disturbed miners at Lost Cabin Camp and Henry Skoning failing to shoot bruin tied a piece of beef to one end of a string and his big toe to the other with the result after midnight that the whole camp was astir with the screams of Skoning being dragged hipityhop, toe and all, toward the bush. Skoning has now hit upon another method and will take a month off to get even with that black bear. He is building a scaffold well up toward the top in a big tree. There will be no string to a hunk of fresh meat which he will personally place at the foot of that tree each night before going aloft to the scaffold. On the scaffold he will have an assortment of firearms with which he hopes to get decidedly even with Mr. Bear. Skoning means business, for his toe still pains him and his friends have the horse laugh on him the way the matter now stands. Results are anxiously awaited.

EAST PRINCETON NOTES.

East Princeton, June 11.—The B. C. Portland Cement Co. are building their first brick kiln. More machinery has arrived for the cement factory and is being set in p ace.

W. J. Budd, manager of the B.C. Portland Cement Co., arrived from Calgary on Saturday.

East Princeton will join with Princeton in the big celebration on July 1st.

The two cottages building for W. J. Budd on Ninth Av. will be completed by the middle of the month and will be occupied at once.

C. R. Briggs, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Portland Cement Co., is expected to arrive next week from Vancouver.

There was real ice cream weather last week, but this week is cooler with needed showers of rain which came in good time to help the crops.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

A. E. Howse of Nicola was in town last weekend coming via Jackson's quick transit auto route to Coalmont, thence to Princeton on Jim Hill's Oroville flyer The road between Coalmont and Merritt is in excellent condition, due to the services of E. Tingley, and the time made by auto is an immense saving compared with the old style fourinhand. Mr. Howse has large interests in this section and, rightly enough, is anxious to see the railways connect up with the coast.

Fort George is a town now of some 2000 souls and business is good. It is the center of railway activity and a large increase of population is certain in the immediate future. At the annual meeting of the Fort George board of trade reported in the Herald of May 25, the election of officers created lively interest, each office being hotly contested. J. R. Campbell, former resident of Princeton, proved his popularity by being elected to the presidency of the board and one of his first acts will be to deal with increased school accommodation.

Col Lowery, sage, editor and philosopher of the Ledge, Greenwood, was in town Saturday on a combined business and pleasure trip. He was at Coalmont where he supplied the newspaper with one of his ever ready frontier plants. The Col. looks prosperous and only reflects the general condition in Greenwood where there is a permanent payroll and well established smelting and mining industries. He is a walking encyclopedia of Kootenay and knows the old timers from A to Z, having been some 23 years in the country.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

A social dance will be given by the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary in the Oddfellows' hall on Friday evening, June 21st, in aid of the Princeton general hospital. Dancing to begin at 8.30. Admission $1; ladies free. A good, worthy institution appeals for public support. The Ladies' Auxiliary is doing beneficent work and should meet with generous encouragement. Come to the dance.

The wedding of Miss Findlay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Holmes, Granite Creek, affords opportunity for congratulations of many friends. Miss Findlay had been housekeeper at the hospital for two or three years, during which time she gave most faithful and excellent service, making many friends. Star joins in sincere congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. White.

W. O'Brien, of Penticton, arrived with his wife and family yesterday and will be in employ of T. Dignan in plumbing and tinsmithing works.

The foundation for a moving picture show building is started on the NE corner of Bridge street and Angela Av.

Danny McCurdy had the misfortune to sprain his leg while practising high jump and he may be obliged to be only a spectator on Dominion Day.

The interprovincial road camp is pitched on the Ashnola road near the reservoir and the big work is now fairly under way.

Chauffeur Charlie Howse took his Russell autocar with a load of passengers up the 11 per cent. grade on Fenchurch Av. proving the good hill climbing qualities of this machine. This car is used on the Coalmont-Merritt run and is owned by J. H. Jackson, Tulameen.

No newspaper proprietor having self respect would allow his editor to write letters addressed to himself and publish them. Whatever Star may be accused of it is free from that crime against newspaper ethics.

The case, Sloan v. McDonald, before Justice Murphy, Vancouver, was dismissed with costs. The action arose out of Sloan's claim to one-third interest in McDonald's ranch amounting to $2995. K. C. Brown, barrister, for defendant.

INEXCUSABLE DELAY.

The demands of civilization and progress today are most noticeable in quick transit and inter-communication. High rates of speed are required to annihilate time as far as possible. No one is willing to waste a mile or even a step in circuitous travel. The shortest available route is always chosen and whether it be construction of the ordinary wagon road or railway the distance between local and terminal points is reduced to the lowest possible minimum. If progress and development are to be maintained and encouraged wagon roads are necessary to connect contiguous districts, affording farmers, miners and others access to markets and supplies by the most direct route. The foregoing statements are all so self evident and palpable that it seems unnecessary to make them. Star's only excuse for making them is to again, for the seventieth time, refer to the unreasonable and unwarranted delay in the completion of the Princeton-Nicola wagon road via Onemile creek. Mr. Shatford, M.P.P., promptly and with his usual readiness to assist the settler and miner, thus developing the whole country, has caused the construction of the Onemile road to the boundary of his district, ending nowhere until the completion of the Nicola end. A. Lucas, the member for Yale, is responsible for the unfinished condition of the Nicola portion and to him will accrue the stigma of having denied settlers and miners a proper road and of having delayed progress. No legislator should for a moment hesitate to build a link of some five or six miles, or many more if needed, to connect two important districts with their central distributing points and intervening revenue producing country. The Onemile road will save fifteen miles detour by the old roundabout trunk road, a fact weighty enough in itself to admit of no argument whatsoever against completion of the road. No public interest can possibly suffer from the direct route, for that is in line with public convenience and benefit and facilitates that intercommunication which begets trade and growth. Now, Mr. Lucas, why this delay?

THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

Instances are not infrequent of the exploitations of adventurers who taking advantage of the fact that they are strangers in town and their dishonest characters unknown run accounts with all and sundry who care to give them credit. The usual course pursued by these rogues is to impress the victim with the legitimacy of their purpose or business and then by smooth deception play upon their charity and request either a cash loan or goods. It may always be taken as a correct inference that the person who is not particular in purchasing is not particular about paying and the one who is profuse with promises to pay, but does not, is as a rule meditating escape from a just obligation. The credit system is bad in that it affords dishonest persons an easy way to obtain possession, remove credit and nine-tenths of the worry and litigation prevalent will disappear. In olden days a debtor went to prison, nowadays he merely goes to another country. Princeton has had some recent experience with fugitive frauds and others who have not reached the fugitive stage but manifest a positive dislike for paying an honest debt. At present the law is too slow to catch the person who has the reputation of breaking promises to pay, in some barbarous countries the punishment is social ostracism, but that is slow and scarcely drastic enough to effect reform in a thickskinned debtor. The credit system now in vogue has little to recommend its continuance. The cash basis would eliminate the spendthrift, careless, buyer and tend toward thrift and happiness.

TOWN AND DISTRICT.

J. D. Andras, manager Bank of Commerce, is erecting a handsome house in a picturesque location on Knob Hill. Bert Irwin has the contract.

E. Boeing, of Hedley was a visitor to Princeton yesterday.

Recently a Vancouver editor was fined for being an inmate and frequenter of a disorderly house. Another is branded as a petty thief and board bill jumper. What kind of opinions must libertines of this stamp express? The press of B. C. is clean and decent usually and it is only when brainless irresponsibles butt into the newspaper business that the clean ones stand out more vividly. The public demand a clean press, not a slandering, foul one, void of wit, humor or sense.

be diverted to Victoria, where such species apparently flourish.

That some Englishman has taken a severe rise out of the Courier editor is very evident, but whether he is to other 'men' an objectionable type is a matter for the opinion of others. The Courier man is bitter at that much maligned force, the 'Iconas.' I may say that having been all through the South African war and having met a great many of the Imperial Yeomanry (tho' not of them) I am in a position to say that the first bunch of I.Y's who went out did excellent service, which can be testified by the reports of both Lords Roberts and Kitchener. Personally, I know one yeomanry trooper (he was a first class man to hounds and steeplechase rider) who got the V.C , and yet another, an officer, who was recommended for the V.C. but did not get it because he had already been recommended for the D.S.O. I may be wrong but I don't think they were 'poltroons,' or as the Coalmont Courier and Tulameen Record has it, 'haw, haw boys.' Mistakes there were in plenty during the war, but the I.Y was not the only corps to make them. Curiously enough the I.Y. men who were with Methuen were mostly London and Liverpool corner boys, without an H. to their name and could not have said 'haw' if they had tried. The editor also draws a vividly imaginative picture of Kitchener's driving out I. Y. officers from their hotels in Capetown, Durban and Jo'burg at the point of the sword That is a 'terminological inexactitude' emanating from the overworked, or shall I say overheated brain of the editor, who winds up his plethora of bunkum with a reference to his ancestral historical records, in which the whole house of one Clark was present at Cressy and Poictiers with the Black Prince. It is history that the English army during that campaign was much hampered by its enormous crowd of camp followers. SCOTCHMAN.

Fishing Tackle

This is another new line we have added to our stock this year and a most complete one at that. In its selection we have been especially careful to obtain and offer for sale only such goods as are demanded by this locality. Therefore, no matter how inexperienced a fisherman you may be, you will get results with the tackle bought from us. Our fishing rods are sensitive to the faintest nibble of the gamey trout, and are strong enough to land even the big fellow that in the proverbial fish story always get away. We have:

Two piece Bamboo Rods, complete with guides, 50c. each.

Three piece Split Bamboo Rods, silk wound, cork handle, snake guides, extra tip, nickel plated reel ferrule, at $1 75 and $2.50 each.

Four piece Split Bamboo Rods, with extra tip, snake guides, cork handle, silk wound, nickel plated reel ferrule. This rod is 8 foot long when put together and is short enough when taken down to go in a suit case. Each $2 and $3.

Steel Rods, 3 piece, the Luckie, $2 50; cork handles, the Rainbow, $3.50.

One piece collapsible Steel Rods, best Bristol rod, maple handle, line runs through center of rod, 9 ft. long, $5.

LET US CUT A MELON

WITH INVESTORS

Sell them Princeton Real Estate Make Money out of Old Earth

THE probabilities of success in real estate speculation are in proportion to your faith in the possibilities of a town or country. Princeton has possibilities--some say her possibilities are illimitable. It would be a blind, unreasonable faith, for one to invest, say, in the great Sahara desert or inside the Arctic circle. It is different with Princeton to most towns--the position, the possibilities, the resources all are prima facie, self-evident--a blind man can see them with his mental eye. Opportunity rarely knocks more than once or twice at your door and lightning never strikes twice in the same place. This analogy illustrates how carefully one should exercise sound judgment in the when, how and where of investment in real estate. There is land for everyone if the other fellow does not gobble more than his share. Remember, single tax is coming, and then land values will jump skyward. Princeton is the center of coal, ore and placer mining. Good grazing and agricultural land. Beautiful climate, fishing, hunting. Two railroads will afford transportation. Electric light, waterworks, hospital, etc. Write the Princeton Coal & Land Co., or better still, come and see for yourself
