Soldier Member Criticizes Government

COLONEL LISTER, SOLDIER, MEMBER OF KASLO, ADVOCATES CHANGES — DELIVERED CONSTRUCTIVE SPEECHIN HOUSE

A plea for the consideration of the returned man and a declaration that the government should take its courage in its hand and bring in an amendment to the Liquor Act permitting the sale of beer and light wines, featured the speech which Colonel Fred Lister, Conservative member for Kaslo, made in the House yesterday in the debate to the motion for the adoption of the reply to he Speech from the Throne.

Colonel Lister, whose record overseas is well known, dealt with the difficulties of the veteran settlers in the Creston area. He was critical of the official methods of the inspectors of the government sent up to that district, and his contribution to the address was wholly of a helpful rather than a critical nature.

The member for Kaslo received a hearty reception from the members of the House.

Colonel Lister first turned his attention to the Game Conservation Board, claiming that in his district old-time trappers this year had spent considerable money building cabins and packing in supplies for the winter months. After being sold a licence, these men later discovered that they were unable to trap in their particular district. Their supplies were practically a total loss. Longer notice should be given the trappers, considered the member for Kaslo.

Criticized Inspectors

Criticism of the inspectors whose duty it is to visit lumber and mining camps was next taken up, Colonel Lister contending that conditions in many of the camps were absolutely vile. If a poor working man made a complaint to the department his letter was first forwarded to the government official, who next took it to the superintendent of the camp, and, in one instance, the man lost his job. Half-monthly payments, as required by law, were also ignored by many of the companies, some compelling their employees to wait several months for their pay, while in some instances cheques required to keep the family of these men in existence were cashed at an exorbitant discount at the trading posts.

Colonel Lister expressed the hope that the amendments proposed to the Workmen's Compensation Act would afford greater protection to the worker. He also cited instances he considered unfair in the administration of women's pensions. No mother of her family, he considered, should be penalized for what her husband did or did not do during his lifetime.

Wants Beer and Wines

As to the Liquor Control Act, the Kaslo member came out strong for the sale of beer and light wines by the glass, which, he contended, would lead to a greater extermination of the bootlegger.

The champion of the returned soldier in the House considered the government remiss in its duty in looking after the veterans. He considered it possible for the public works department to give employment to these men during the winter months in order that they could rehabilitate themselves.

The returned soldier had not received a square deal from the government, contended Colonel Lister who mentioned the visit paid to the Creston area this year by Colonel W. S. Latta, who had completely ignored the member for the district.

"Colonel Latta may be a good soldier, but I doubt his ability in land settlement work," stated Colonel Lister, who went on to relate that Colonel Latta had interviewed the soldier settlers, and those who contended they could not make it stick without further assistance from the government had later on been informed by letter from Victoria that they were undesirable citizens.

"These men have asked for fruit trees, but for some unknown reason have been refused. Now they were told to vacate, probably as a result of their refusal to 'kow-tow' to colonels as they did in the army," declared Colonel Lister.

As a finale, he urged that the farmers and fruit ranchers be given a chance to work on the road at certain portions of the year in order to earn money to impove their property and increase production.

TRESPASSER FINED

New Westminster, Nov. 3.—Cecil Brinnen, of Milner, appeared before Magistrate Deans in the police court here on Oct. 30, snd pleaded guilty to a charge of "entering upon land under cultivation with a firearm in possession, without permission of the owner." A fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

Owing to the wanton damage to fences, stock and property, along with apparent disregard of danger of shooting in the vicinity of houses, farmers in this district will find interesting in this case. Section 12 of the Game Act prohibits anyone from entering "enclosed lands" without the consent of the owner thereof. This case was brought to the attention of the provincial police by Mr. Hope, owner of the Hope ranch at Fort Langley, and for the first time in the district, a charge was laid under that section.

SHIPPING FRUIT VIA PANAMA

(By Harry Tidy.)

Keremeos, B. C., (Special to the Star).—On the 15th of November, there will sail from Vancouver the Blue Funnel Liner "Tuscan Star" bound for Liverpool, England, via the Panama Canal. On this boat there will be thirty two hundred boxes of Keremeos apples, mostly Jonathans. The "Tuscan Star" has a refrigerator hold capable of holding ten thousand boxes of apples. The balance of the cargo will be made up from apples from the Okanagan. This is the first time that Keremeos apples have been shipped to the Old Country via the Panama but there is absolutely no reason why all our export apples could not be shipped that way and as it is cheaper to the grower, although he will have to waist for possibly three weeks longer for his returns, will get the difference in freight rate. Every ten cents per box means a whole lot to the grower.

The following is copied from the Marine Digest, a paper published in Seattle, Wash., in the interests of shipping: "Cable advices received from London, by Col. Nash, Pacific Coast Manager of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, announce that a shipment of 1200 boxes of fresh Pacific Coast peaches shipped to England by the steamship Eemdjik, arrived in London in excellent condition. They found a ready market and a good price. The shimpent was the first of its kind that was ever sent from the Pacific Coast to England and it opens up big possibilities as regards a development of a new market for the peach growers of the northwest. It was handled in the Eemdjik's refrigerator space. This boat also had a shipment of 2500 Bartlett pears. They also reached London in excellent condition. Both peaches and pears are delicate fruits. This fact shows that it is possible to ship any of the Pacific Coast's fruit to the Old County by the Panama by refrigerator ships. The success of this shipment bears out all the statements made by Col. Nash since his arrival here as to the extent to which modern refrigerator ships can be used in opening up and developing markets for northwestern fruits on the other side of the Atlantic."

The paper also goes on to state that the port solicitor for the city of Seattle had just returned from a visit to the different packing houses in the Wenatchee, Okanagan and Yakima districts. There will leave the port of Seattle for Old Country ports between the first of November and the first of January, five ships with a refrigerator capacity of over four hundred thousand boxes of apples.

Now, the question is; why are all our salaried apple salesmen letting the Americans get the majority of the apple trade of Great Britain? Of course there are a lot of apples sent from the orchards of B. C. every year but they do not amount to a drop in the bucket compared to what are imported from the United States. Great Britain is the logical place for all the apples that Canada has to export and it seems that there is something lacking in salesmanship on the part of the packing houses when they allow our apples to be dumped on an overcrowded market, such as generally prevails in Canada at this time of the year and let the growers on the States take their market from them.

We can grow just as good apples as the Americans can and it is only logical to think that Great Britain will take our apples in preference to foreign grown fruit. At the present time, the majority of the apples in B. C. are being consigned to the wholesalers. When two of these firm in the same city each get a car of apples they begin to cut the prices. All that they have to consider is to get the freight and their commission out of the apples, the result is that they make good fellows out of themselves to the retailers at the expense of the grower. When a carload or shipload of apples arrives in the Old Country they are put up at auction and the highest bidder gets them. If there is any price cutting going on it is after the auction sale takes place and the grower who produces the fruit, is not made the goat. What is the matter with our Agent General, Mr. Wade? If he would get busy and help find the market for what we do produce it would be much better than sending more immigrants out to suffer like we do.

ELECTRIC CURRENT CUT OFF DURING THE DAY TIME

For the last two days Princeton has been without electric power during the day time. Some work that is under way in the vicinity of Oliver is said to be the cause. No notice was received at the office of the Princeton Light and Power company and as a result considerable inconvenience was occasioned that might have been avoided. The local office informs us that the interruption in service will continue for several more days.

FOR MEMORIAL FUND

By patronizing the dance to be given by the ex-service men in the Oddfellows' hall this evening you will assist in the creation of a fund to provide a memorial for men who enlisted from Princeton and were killed fighting for their country.

WEAR A POPPY!

In Flanders' Fields

In Flanders' fields, the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you, from failing hands, we throw
The torch. Be yours to lift it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders' fields.

APPLE GROWERS STAND TO LOSE HEAVILY

Oroville, Nov. 5.—The apple situation at this point is alarming. Cold weather is coming down upon us, all the apple crop is not gathered, every available space that can be used for storage is being utilized and there will be a large tonnage of apples that must be rushed to market or they will become a total loss. This is not sensational. It is an actual condition staring the growers in the face and it is up to the railroad company to come to the relief of growers and save them fom heavy loss. That aid must come quick. This is a new apple producing district. The harvest is the largest that has yet been gathered. Land owners have waited for years for the trees to come into bearing so that they might realize something upon their investment of time, labor and outlay. A new district struggling against adverse circumstances, the growers dependant upon the crop for a living, should arouse the railroad to action. Cars are needed at once.

It is calculated by those in position to know that from 50 to 75 cars are required to save the crop for which there is no storage facilities. In assiging the number of cars that each station would need early in the season those who made the calculations figured that Oroville would require 115 cars. The town has received only a small proportion of this assignment, and it is found that the estimate is far short of the number really required to move the crop.

The Commercial Club, the directors of the West Okanagan Valley Irrigation district and individual growers have telegraphed to headquarters explaining the situation. It is realized that other shipping points are also suffering from a car shortage, but it is felt that the railroad should make a strong effort to respond to this Macedonian cry for help.

GIRLS LOCKED IN VAULT

Winnipeg.—An office boy's prank nearly had a fatal ending here yesterday when two girls employed in a local bookbindery were locked in a steel vault for nearly two hours before being released.

The boy shut the door of the safe, which had not been closed for years. The combination was lost and the only man who knew it was dead. A safe expert was soon on the scene and the girls were finally freed, hysterical and worn out by their experience. They were back at work this morning.

A letter has just been received from Mr. Waterman which reports the death of Mrs. Waterman's father in California. Apparently the end must nave come with unexpected suddenness, as a previous letter stated him as being able to be around and in better than usual health.

OLD TIMERS COMMENT ON BULLION HOLD-UP

The story of the bullion hold-up, printed in the Grand Forks Gazette two weeks ago and reprinted by the Star last week, has created considerale interest among the oldtimers of the district. Mr. Almstrom informs the Star that he was in Spokane at the time and distinctly remembers all the details of the case. Billy Eddy at the time was residing at Rock Creek and according to him Roderick was not a principal in the hold-up but merely a tool of the real culprit, who, he claims only escaped punishment for his crime by electing, at the last moment for speedy trial instead of by jury. Mr. James Schubert, of Tulameen, is stated to have been one of the jurors selected but not required to act. Eddy's impression is that if the case had gone before the jury it would have been found that an official of high standing in the company was the real culprit and not Roderick.

Mr. T. Hansen, an oldtimer residing in Penticton, who was in Camp McKinney at the time the incident happened, does not question the correctness of the story but does not believe that the bullion is still there. He says: "Although there was nothing definite to show that the gold has ever been removed from the cache, there were circumstancs which made it appear more than likely the cache is no longer in existence.

"After the death of Roderick, who was shot when he returned to carry off the hidden gold, the mining company offered a reward of $500 to anyone who could locate the bullion. Roderick's wife, a well educated and smart woman, who was engaged in writing a book on the subject of the hold-up, wrote telling the company she had a plan which showed where the cache had been made. The company paid her expenses and kept her at the camp for over a week, while she attempted to locate the cache. She did not show the plan to anyone and failed entirely, so far as the company knew, to find the cache.

"Shortly afterwards she left for the Klondyke and returned about two years later a wealthy woman. She disposed of much gold which was said to be the procceds of work on her claims in the northern country, but it was generally supposed that while at Camp McKinney she discovered the location of the cache and subsequently managed to have the gold removed. Anyway, when she died, she left her two children substantial fortunes."

WILL ADVERTISE PRINCETON ABROAD

Board of Trade to Secure Literature and Mineral Exhibit for Use in Old Country

The Princeton board of trade, at the regular meeting held on Monday evening, decided to secure all the government reports bearing on the mineral resources of this district available and from these compile a summary which will be as concise but as comprehensive as possible of the resources and inducements which this district offers to the mining investors.

This information has been asked for by the associated boards of trade for B.C. and along with similar literature from other districts will be forwarded to Agent General Wade at London for distribution throughout the Old Country. In order to give the fullest possible effect to this advertising the board will ask the co-operation of the Prospectors' Association here in securing the best possible collection of ore samples to accompany the literature. If the prospectors will provide the samples the baord of trade will provide transportation to London and stand all expense in connection with it being displayed in the best possible manner.

A request, accompanied by a questionaire, for information regarding lands available for settlement in this district, was not acceded to as it was felt that there is at present sufficient settlers for all the available land.

In view of the fact that H. R. Van Wagenen, general mananger of the Canada Copper Corporation will be present at the mining convention to be held in Vancouver next week, and will make an able representative for the Princeton district, the invitation, received from the secretary to send a delegate to the convention was not acted upon.

The secretary was instructed to write the Peachland board of trade offering co-operation in their effort to secure construction of the gap in the road necessary to connect the Five Mile road with the one running into Peachland. It was also wished to secure fuller information in respect to what action has already been taken and what progress made.

It was decided to ask the Princeton Coal and Land Company to blow the whistle on Saturday (Armistice Day) to mark the two-minute interval at eleven o'clock.

BOOZY BRUIN

Tacoma, Nov. 3.—Two full-grown bears, "pickled to the eyebrows," entered the camp of the Puget Sound Light and Power Company, at Lake Kirtley, Arthur Newberry, manager of the camp, reported.

M. Newberry said the bears came into his cabin, rolled up at his feet and refused to budge.

"I gave one of them a good punch but he only rolled over," he said. "I found his breath was strong enough to floor an inveterate drinker, and the truth flashed on me."

Mr. Newberry and other men of the camp then set out to discover the bootlegger in the case. By following the trail of the bears they came upon two barrels of mash in an advanced stage of fermentation. The barrels were half buried in the ground and were undoubetedly the private booze stock of the bears.

VAUDEVILLE PERFORMANCE DRAWS SMALL HOUSE

A small audience greeted the appearance of the "Pacific Producing Company" in the Princess Theatre on Thanksgiving night. Lack of stage room and facilities for arranging their stage fixtures no doubt handicapped the company greatly and the performance could scarcely be considered one that would call for a return date.

In the line of magic Le Verge was not lacking in skill and some of his stunts were particularly good. The dancing and character parts taken by the Howell kiddies were also well received by the crowd, the little girl, in particular, giving promise of considerable natural ability in the way of entertaining.

TO STUDY TAXATION

Recognizing that the question of taxation in its various forms constitutes one of the most important problems facing Canadian business men at the present time, the Canadian Manufactuers Associations has appointed a special committee to study the subject and formulate a policy for the Association. The committee wil first consider the Sales Tax. Some changes in this tax have been suggested and may possibly be taken up by Parliament at its next session. The special committee proposes to give careful consideration to these suggested changes so that it may be fully posted on their possible effect should they be introduced.

TWO-MINUTE INTERVAL

The two-minute interval, observed throughout the empire at eleven o'clock on Armistice Day, will be marked in Princeton tomorrow by the blowing of a prolonged blast on the steam whistle, followed by two shorter blasts at the expiration of the two-minute interval.

Ask Permission To Collect Toll

WOULD CONSTRUCT ROAD TO LILLOOET IF ALLOWED TO CHARGE TOLL

North Vancouver, Nov. 6.—If the plans of Gerald A. Kent and A. J. Vernon, who are working to have a private bill passed in the legislature allowing them to construct a highway from North Vancouver to Lillooet materialize, a playground before unrealized will be opened up to tourists in interior B. C.

David Whiteside, M.L.A., New Westminster, is prepared to introduce the bill. The promoters are prepared to finance the scheme and are asking the right to charge a toll over the roads.

North Vancouver to Squamish, by way of Howe Sound, making a magnificent marine driveway, is the first lap of the journey. At Garibaldi plans are to establish a park and a number of chalets are to be constructed along the route. From there the plan is to build connections with trunk roads and Mr. Kent stated that from Lillooet every point in the interior of the province, south of the P. G. E., can be reached.

The road will be open all the year round and along the route there exists every facility to draw tourist traffic. Fish abound in the lakes large and small, and in the streams and rivers. For huntsmen guides are always available and there are plenty of grizzlies and mountain goat. There is bathing and boating, and glimpses along the way of mills in operation and B. C.'s variety of farms.

Mr. Kent pointed out that under the present conditions of isolation and lack of roads and cost of freighting a car to Ashcroft is $66, apart from passenger rates. Under the proposal submitted to the government the toll charge for the use of the highway from Vancouver in to the Lillooet end would be $11.

Mr. Vernon is in Victoria in connection with the proposal.

ELECTRIC POWER FOR THE SUSIE MINE

The old Susie mine, located about a mile north of the Stemwinder, in the Fairview mineral belt, is again being operated. The results of the work which has been done by the aid of steam power have been so satisfactory that arrangements have been entered into by the management with the West Kootenay Power and Light company to construct a line from the Oliver sub-station to supply the mine with electrical energy. This will be used to operate the compressor, the hoist being operated by air.

There is a good deal of interest centering on the Fairview camp, the confidence displayed by Mr. Guess, the owner of the Susie, the Guggenheimer field expert, who is intimately acquainted with practically all the mineral belts on the North American continent, carrying a great amount of weight with those contemplating the development of claims in the district.

Mr. Guess, it is stated by those who have been keeping in close touch with the situation, has been deeply interested in the Fairview district for several years and was "flirting" with the Susie mine proposition for some time before he finally decided to commence development there. Ten men are now employed at the mine and as development proceeds more will be put on.

"FORBIDDEN FRUIT"

Audiences always marvel at the skill of Ceceil B. DeMille, and with each succeeding photoplay presented by him his admirers are led to believe the apex of the cinema art has been reached. His latest offering, "Forbidden Fruit," is in many respects more lavish than any of his previous efforts and runs the gamut of human emotion. . . . The story, by Jeanie Macpherson, is replete with pathos and thrills which stir the heart. In this production Mr. DeMille has taken a topic as old as human life and yet as young as this day and has blended the human thoughts and desires and motives and passions with such a subtle skill that as the characters flash upon the screen and enact their respective parts it seems that they were men and women of flesh and blood and that human hearts and souls have been laid bare until their throbbing joy and poignant passion are communicated to those who watch the unfolding of this splendid drama from their seats in front. Mr. DeMille has delved deeply into life with "Forbidden Fruit" and has transmuted to the screen an intangible something that is close to life itself. No further comment than this is needed to reveal the value of this photoplay.

At the Princess theatre tonight and tomorrow night, Nov. 10 and 11. A big special.

MONEY FOR HOSPITALS

It will be much more satisfactory to the hospitals and to the public at large if the distribution of moneys out of the profits of liquor control are paid in future directly to the hospitals by the provincial government. The attempts of municipalities to allocate the money has given rise to a lot of difference of opinion and complaints. The division has not been carried out on an equitable basis and it is the duty of the government to step in and make the distribution of moneys which go to the hospitals in a way that will be commensurate with the services they render. Provision to this end will, no doubt, be made by an amendment to the Liquor Control Act, and, in addition to what is now provided as the hospital's share the government might well consider the giving of a percentage of the amount accruing through the issance of permit fees. The hospitals are doing an excellent work. They deserve greater recognition at the hands of the legislature. In that recognition the Tranquille sanitarium now controlled and operated by the province should not be overlooked.

WOULD COMPETE AGAINST DRAFTED MEN

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Unexpected competition against the work of disabled soldiers in the manufacture of the silken poppy, sold by branches of the Great War Veterans' Association on Armistice Day as "The Flower of Remembrance," is causing great indignation among the officials of the Dominion command of the association here. They claim that this competition on the part of the commercial firms will, if continued, prove a big factor in preventing disabled veterans earning an independent livelihood. Last season, it will be remembered, the poppies were manufactured by the children of the devasted regions of France.

This year the G. W. V. A. prepared plans to have the poppies made in Canada by disabled ev-service men, C. G. MacNeil, Dominion secretary-treasurer of the association, stated in commenting on the situation. It was not possible to put the scheme into full operation in time to secure the number of poppies required for Armistice Day this year and a temporary arrangement was made with a private firm to make up the deficiency on the condition that disabled veterans or veterans' dependents were employed in the work.

Plans for next year called for the manufacture of the full requirement of poppies by disabled men, with continual work and remuneration for the men concerned. This arrangement, Mr. MacNeil intimated, might have to be modified if the competition from commercial firms was kept up. The idea of a non-copetitive business was highly attractive to the disabled, and the Dominion command, Mr. MacNeil declared, did not gain a dollar through poppy day campaigns.

Mr. MacNeil sketched the objects of the poppy day campaigns under three headings:

First, to provide every Canadian with a token of remembrance; second, to establish an industry capable of providing permanent employment for the disabled, and, third, to establish the nucleus of local funds to alleviate distress among veterans and dependents.

These objects, he asserted, were in danger of defeat through the entry of commercialism. When the disabled men commenced manufacture of the poppies last spring, a firm came into existence in Toronto, either manufacturing or importing silken flowers. This was followed by another in Western Ontario and a third in British Columbia, the latter manufacturing paper flowers.

Steps should be taken by the people of Canada to see that the manufacture of poppies was preserved for the disabled veterans, Mr. MacNeil declared.

ROAD LAID WITH GOLD

The work on the Kettle Valley roadbed, which has recently been under way, makes it possible for trains coming into Princeton to travel over a road which is laid with gold, a real Gold Road. The filling on the road has been made with gravel taken from a cut just beyond the Tulameen river bridge, and it is known that this gravel is rich in gold.

No, Josephine, you cannot go down there and tear up enough of the right of way to buy that gorgeous polonaise in the milliner's window. A hard hearted Providence has decreed that the gold drops out of sight when gravel as disturbed, and so one has to work pretty hard to find the gold. But the gold is there all right.—Contributed.

TRANSFER LIQUOR EXPORT WAREHOUSE TO KEREMEOS

According to the last issue of the British Columbia Gazette, Elizabeth Webster and Arthur Barron, of Grand Forks, trading under the firm name of the "Columbia Liquor Export Company," have been granted permission to transfer their business to Keremeos for the unexpired portion of their license No. 34. They will occupy the building formerly used by E. Mills as a hardware store, situated on lot 27, block 71, Seventh avenue.

George Thom, who during his residence in Coalmont was so prominent in athletic sports, is equally in the limelight down in Vancouver, where he was selected as captain of the rugby team, representing Vancouver in the interprovincial match with Alberta last Saturday. Owing to a broken rib George was unable to participate in the game but watched it from the side lines and was greatly pleased with the work of him team mates. His "pictur" adorned the sporting page of Monday's edition of the Province.

The pool room of Andy Johnson presents a vastly improved appearance, the walls having been repapered and nicely finished up by our local artist, Mr. E. H. Prentis.

Mr. Malcolm, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Canada, spent Thanksgiving at his old home on the Fraser and enjoyed a little pheasant shooting.

Mr. J. A. Schubert, of Tulameen, who has been offering his general store business for sale is reported to have found a buyer and expects, after closing out the deal, to leave on a trip to the old country.

* * * *

Coalmont's new lock-up is nearing completion. It is being erected by carpenter Auld opposite the residence of constable Martin, in rather close proximity to the Coal Company's office. In the opinion of many it would have been better to have had it located down town.

* * * *

W. J. Bowser, leader of the opposition in the local legislature, cannot be very well posted in the geography of Coalmont. In his opening adress, in the legislature last week, he gave the members to understand that the liquor vendor's store was located immediately at the end of the tram line and that the miners came down in the buckets. Those who have ever been in Coalmont know that the vendor's store and the tipple are over half a mile apart, and also that the miners do not travel up and down in the buckets.

"TRY THE DRUG STORE FIRST" is used as a frank appeal for public consideration, based on acutal service rendered by a drug store, and not given by any other class of merchant. Your druggist is obliged by the ethics of his calling to carry so many items to meet the possible emergencies in your family or home. A modern druggist is obliged to sell you other things that you need in order that he may be able to maintain the best of establishment to which you will possibly turn and may safely do so when it is actually a question of life and death. Such a position I expect to fill in this neighborhood, giving you the right kind of service and constantly improving it. D. J. Buckley, druggist.

Even the Chilliwack Progress is guilty of confusing the names of Penticton and Princeton. It says that Dr. Sutherland recently made the trip from "Penticton to Hope over the Hope trail." We know that they know better.

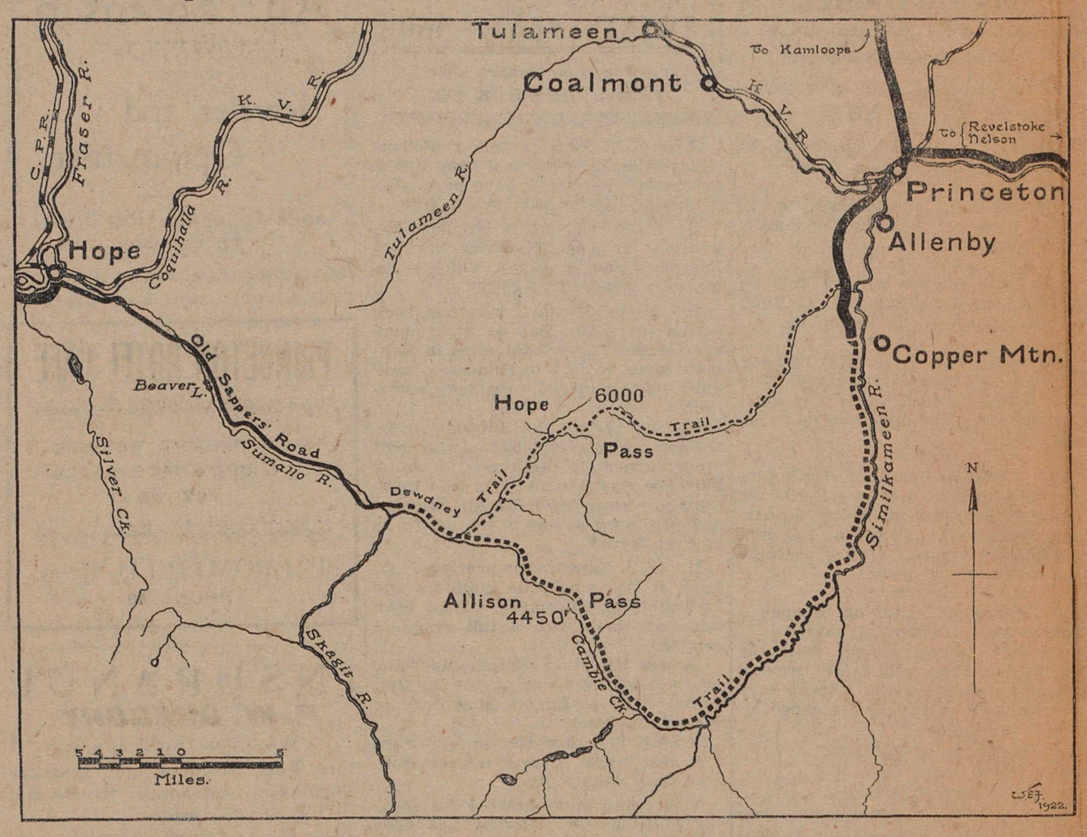
Proposed New Route of Hope-Princeton Highway



The above map, drawn by Wilfred Freeman, draughtsman in the office of P. W. Gregory, C.E., P.L.S., shows the new route by which Hon. Dr. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works, proposes to connect the coast with the interior by highway. As will be seen by the map it is a happy compromise between the old Cleveland survey and the more recent route along the Dewdney trail recommended by District Engineer Gwyer and approved of by Dr. King, ex-minister of public works.

The new route, represented by the heavy dotted line, avoids alike, the high summit of the Dewdney trail (light dotted line) and the objectionable features of the Cleveland survey, which followed a round-about route south, later ascending Silver Creek into Hope. The distance between Princeton and Hope is 79 miles or about 14 miles longer than the Dewdney trail.

The heavy black line indicates 12 miles of splendid auto road already built out of Princeton. The lighter black line 23 miles of Sappers' road built out of Hope in 1861 and which with very light expense can be converted into a splendid auto road.

A splendid view is afforded of the Canada Copper Corporation's plant at Allenby and Copper Mountain. Throughout almost the entire route the road will pass through a country rich in minerals, while along the upper Similkameen or Roche river is a country very attractive for ranching purposes, many pre-emptions having already been applied for. Along the Sumallo are found millions of feet of the finest cedar in the world and splendid pine and fir in other places. All awaiting a means of transportation.

Among the particularly striking scenic views might be mentioned the Lightning Lakes, the sky line trail, the Skagit Bluffs and the towering peaks around 23-mile. The rivers touched, especially the Sumallo and Skagit, furnish rare sport for the fisherman while the big game hunter will find a regular paradise at the Allison summit.

Just to illustrate how completely the construction of this road will connect Vancouver with points in the interior mention might be made of the distances between various places. From Vancouver to Hope will be slightly over 100 miles by highway, possibly 107. From Vancouver to Princeton 186 miles. Kamloops will be 296 miles; Penticton 260 and Grand Forks 339 miles.

Before he returns home, Mr. Pearce will visit his old stamping grounds, Armstrong and Vernon.

* * * *

By the time that this issue of the Star appears, all the apples will be picked and under cover. The growers this year have learned several things regarding the harvesting of their crops. First of all is the box question. It will pay them to erect temporary sheds and get their boxes on their orchards before it is time to pick the fruit. Another thing is storage. If we had been held up for lack of cars as they are to the south of us ,goodness only knows what would have happened. It was only nip and tuck, several times the last two weeks that the packing house did not have to shut up and the growers have to thank Mr. Cadwell, our local agent, for his help in getting as many cars as he did.

* * * *

Tommy Sing was up before Justices Carrick and Clarke, on a charge of having opium in his possession, on Wednesday morning. After a three hour session, he was acquitted. It seems that Tommy has two buildings on his lot. The front building is his store and residence combined. The back building is occupied by other Chinamen. The latter building was raided by Staff Sergeant Reid and Corporal Harvey of the R. C. M. P. assisted by constables McConnell and Spall. They found a complete opium smoking outfit and also some opium. As this building was on Sing's lot, Corp. Harvey, who did the prosecuting, claimed that he was responsible but L. H. Patten, who defended, claimed that no evidence was produced to show that the outfit was in the possession of Sing. In this he was upheld by the justices, who dismissed the charge.

November 3.—The Daly ranch made another large shipment of cattle to Swift and Co. at New Westminster last week. There were about seven carloads or one hundred and seventy five head in the shipment.

* * * *

Contractor Erickson got in a mixed carload of lumber on Friday. He is completing the residence of Mr. Cuthbertson Lintott and then will erect a new home for Mr. William Liddicoat. This will make about twenty new homes that have been erected in Keremeos during the last twelve months.

* * * *

At a meeting of the Victory Hall Committee, held last week at the resi- of Mr. Thos. Daly it was decided to give a masquerade dance on the evening of November the seventeenth. Prizes will be given for the best lady's and gent's costume; for the most original and the most comical costumes. The Princeton orchestra will be engaged. It was also decided to accede to the request of the athletic club and allow them the use of the hall for indoor sports providing that they paid their own janitor services and fuel. The same concession, under the same conditions, was granted to the Keremeos Community Club.

* * * *

Another suggestion for the board of trade—A tourist camping site. Dr. Sutherland, the minister of public works, has made the definen. statement that the Hope to Princeton highway will be built. This means a whole lot to Keremeos and the least that we can do to attract the tourists to stay here over night is to get a camping site fixed up for them. It will be at least two years before the highway is opened up for travel and by that time, a beautiful site with cooking arrangements etc., could be fixed up at the park.

* * * *

The Dominion Canners' at Keremeos, closed down their plant on Saturday the 28th of October. This is the latest that they have operated their cannery in Keremeos and they have succeeded in putting up the largest pack that has been put up since they took over the cannery from the Food Products Co., Ltd., in 1919. The peculiar part of the closing of the cannery is that they are not forced to close owing to frost, as has been the reason for the last three seasons, but for two other reason. One is the shortage of cans and the other, and the most important, is that the tomatoes that are now being brought in are what are called cold weather tomatoes. That is they have not the color or flavor that the mid-season tomatoes have and as Keremeos canned tomatoes are noted for their color and flavor, the canners have decided not to ruin that reputation, in any manner, by canning number two stock.

* * * *

It has come at last but nobody has any kick coming. The first killing frost struck Keremeos on Saturday night, Oct. 28th. It was not very heavy but just enough to kill the pumpkin vines etc. There are still some thousands of boxes of apples to pick but they will be all off by the end of this week.

* * * *

On Monday afternon, William Cohen, of Olalla, was arrested by Constable Spall on a charge of assault, sworn out by Ah Chong and five other Chinese boys who are packing apples. That evening he was brought before Justice Carrick and after much evidence was produced by both sides he was acquitted. He was able to produce an alibi. It seems that the Chinese were up to the cemetery holding a service over the grave of one of their relatives who was buried there in 1917. On the way home a man on horse back rode into them and hit two of them with a cowhide whip. One of the boys was badly injured with the whip.

* * * *

Quite a bit of excitement was caused last Saturday afternoon in Chinatown, when two members of the mounted police, accompanied by constable McConnell, of Penticton, and constable Spall, of Keremeos, raided the different Chinese stores and homes for opium. They were not successful until they reached the home of Tom Sing. Here they found an elderly Chinaman by the name of Chung in possession of opium and the whole lay-out for smoking. He was arrested and taken to the gaol along with Tom Sing. That evening justices Carrick and Clarke held court when Chung was fined one hundred dollars of six months in Oakalla. Not wishing to part with the hundred he was taken to Penticton and from there was taken to the coast to be the guest of the government for the next six months. The opium and pipes were confiscated. The case against Tom Sing was adjourned till Wednesday to allow him to get counsel.

ON A LONG HIKE

(Oroville Gazette)

Saturday this office had a call from Sam Diamond. Samuel is a typical back street New Yorker. He claims to be only nineteen years of age and yet an ex-service man, having served for a year in the United States army. Probably his service covers a period since the great war, otherwise in ages to come he will rightly hold out a claim of having been the youngest soldier to serve in the American army during the World War, and should that claim be disputed, as the claim of the youngest soldier in the civil war raged so long and often, he will be responsible for much heated controversy should he live to a green old age. However, passing that question up to be settled in the future it may be added that Mr. Diamond is a hiking nut. The country is full of men and women engaged in alleged long pedestrian tours, with the object of covering distance from hell to breakfast, and beyond, and Mr. Diamond is engaged in that happy undertaking at the present time, or was, when he occupied the scenery around Oroville His stunt is a foot tour from New York to Mexico, via Canada. He was suddenly taken with the wander lust last April and selecting a route, and the longest one that could be laid out, turned his face westward and hit the grit. He figures that he can make the grand rounds in 18 months. His card from the proceeds obtained by the sale thereof he manages to keep his tummy from bumping his backbone, says that he has traveled 5,000 miles when he had reached Calgary, which would indicate that the lad had hoofed over a large part of the British possessions lying north of the 49th parallel before reaching Calgary. His possessions were no temptation to the rovers of the road, as he had but 50 cents when he left New York, and that sum has been reduced to 20 cents by the time he reached Calgary. The lad must be given credit for an abundance of nerve to undertake such a journey, and he looks as though he would carry out his contract. Indeed, if we were a betting man we would lay odds that Mr. Diamond, who is a pretty bright young man as his name would indicate, will cover the entire distance that he set out to cover when he shook the dust of New York off his feet. We cheered him on with a chunk of the filthy and when last seen he was pushing his face northward, flying light, as he carried only a small knapsack.

UTTERLY DISCREDITED—LEDOUX IS KEPT ON

Ledoux referred to below was the prosecuting witness, who received such a severe castigating by Magistrate Waterman last August in connection with a charge laid by the liquor control board against the Princeton Brewery.

New Westminster, Nov. 3.—"Speaking frankly, I cannot convict anyone on the evidence of these two men, so absolutely upset and contradicted that I cannot place any reliance on anything they tell me."

In these words, Magistrate H. L. Edmonds yesterday afternoon scored Ledoux and La Chance, the now famous "investigators" of the liquor control board, who recently met with somewhat similar denunciation from Magistrate Jay at Victoria.

It was in the Pat Keogh case, the second he had that day dismissed, rejecting the evidence of the two for the second time that day. Mr. Edmonds also warned the prosecution that no further cases, based on the evidence of these men, need be brought before him.

Another liquor board prosecution that against Thomas Ellartsen, Central Hotel, is being heard this afternoon before Magistrate J. Stilwell Clute, acting for Magistrate Edmonds.

KETTLE VALLEY MAN GRANTED DIVORCE

At Greenwood last week at a session of supreme court before Justice Gordon Hunter, a returned man named Clappier was granted an absolute decree of divorce, $2,000 damages and custody of the three youngest children. Walter Clayton, of Penticton, acted for the petitioner.

The Ledge states taht most of the evidence was unsuitable for publication and that the court room was half filled with women. The misdemeanors, on which the petition was based, were committed during the absence of the petitioner overseas.

Messrs. W. Martin and J. Pollard returned on Saturday last from Boulder Creek, where they have been placer mining for the past few months.

Mr. C. E. Thomas is circulating a petition for a mail service between this place and Penticton, which is being very generally signed.

Mr. Angus Stewart, who has been acting for some time as night engineer at the Stemwinder mine in Fairview camp, is back to Princeton again until the stamp mill resumes operations.

Mr. Jno. Love, the Fairview druggist, whose face and hands were severely burned at the time the Hotel Fairview was destroyed, is said to be rapidly recovering from his injuries, and will not lose one of his hands, as at first feared.

Mr. C. P. Eagan, representing J. W. Peck & Co., wholesale clothiers and furnishers of Vancouver, visited town late last week with a full range of samples.

Messrs. Hitchings, Knight and Wampole are taking advantage of the first snow of the season, to hunt deer on Nine Mile Creek.

Mining Recorder Hunter returned late last week from a trip to Fairview and Hedley City.

The young man arrested for stealing mail matter Fairview has been sent to Kamloops for trial. His name is McRostie.

Mr. W. Murray came up the river from Hedley last week, and left again on Saturday for Nicola Lake.

Freighters are busy hauling lumber from the saw mills, here for a number of new buildings going up at Hedley City.

F. S. Findlay, representing the Hudson's Bay Co., and H. T. Lockyer, the Vancouver manager, came up the river Thursday from Keremeos.

Mr. Bert Thomas and bride, nee Miss Grace Allison, returned on Saturday last over the Hope trail from the coast, where they had been united in marriage. The Star joins their many friends in wishing the happy couple a long life of prosperity and happiness.

CARIBOO MAIL STAGE MAKES LAST TRIP

Quesnel, Nov. 1.—Today sees the passing of the mail stage from the old Cariboo road. From now on the mail from Squamish to Quesnel by P. G. E. trains. The Steel End Express Company, which for the past two years has had the contract to carry the mail from Williams Lake to Quesnel, ceased to operate yesterday. The Steel End Company has secured the contract for hauling the mail between Quesnel and Prince George and has sublet it to W. V. Livingstone, who also has the mail contract between Quesnel and Barkerville. The motorboat Rounder, Capt. O. F. Browne, which handled the mail during the summer month, made the last trip of the season on Saturday.

Residents of the Cariboo district, especially those living along the road side, will view the disappearance of the mail stage with deep regret. In the early days "stage day" was an event to be looked forward to, the gay and dashing stage driver was a wonder to outsiders and a hero to the girls along the way. The bull team driver and the "jerk line" teamster had t otake a "back seat" when the stage pulled in to the stopping places.

Later on when the horse stage gave way to the big mail cars, most of the old-time stage drivers took their places on the driver's seat. Having quickly mastered the peculiarities of the new machines, as they had the tricks of the "ornery" bronchos, the "straw boss" of the stage company would ring in on them from time to time just to keep their "hand in."

The genial Fred McLeod, who has driven the mail car and horse stage on this end for the last few years, will be sadly missed in town and along the road, where his coming was always an event.

WILL NOT ENTER OROVILLE

K. V. R. officials here state they are in entire ignorance of any intention on the part of the company to extend the south branch line from Oliver to Oroville next season, in fact, they do not appear to believe there is any foundation for the rumor to that effect which has been in circulation throughout the town for the past few days. There has been some slight talk, they say, of an extension as far as Osoyoos, but this they claim will not be undertaken until the district through which the new portion of the line would pass has been developed to such an extent as to warrant the expenditure.—Penticton Herald.

An "old sport" says: After handling firearms for nearly 60 years my first advice, is never be in front of a gun. To the other fellow I would say, never allow your gun to point towards another person, then, if the gun goes off, no harm is done, for they will go off, although before pulling the trigger, you could swear that the gun was not loaded. I know, for I have been there within the last two years, but it would take up too much space to give my experience and the advice seems so simple as to look almost foolish, yet it is a tried and sure preventative. Some have lost their lives through carrying a loaded gun near the house or barn, so don't do it. Now, Mr. Editor, if this advice is any good I hope all those who read it will adopt these principles themselves and also try to impress them upon all young hunters. Thanking you."

The committee in charge of the Armistice dance in the Oddfellows' hall this (Friday) evening will have a supply of poppies on hand for sale. It is expected that many will make their purchases then and add a distinctive feature to the ball by wearing them that evening.

Mr. W. A. Bain, who has been relieving Mr. Lucas in the Bank of Commerce, accompanied by Mrs. Bain left for their home at Salmon Arm on Sunday, Mr. Lucas having recovered sufficiently from his illness to be able to resume his duities as manager.

A meeting of those interested in hockey and skating will be held in the Star office on Monday afternoon next, between five and six o'clock, for the purpose of seeing what ararrangements can be made for having a skating rink this winter. High school boys under whose management the rink was conducted last winter, are particularly requested to attend.

H. R. Plommer, of Allenby, attended the tax sale, held at Penticton on Tuesday and as representative of the Canada Copper Company bought thirteen claims in Voigt's camp in which the company already had an interest. Mr. Plommer also speculated a little on his own behalf, purchasing at the up-set price some dozen claims in the same vicinity as the others. More interest than usual appears to have been manifested in the sale this year.

The Summerland Lumber Company are engaged dismantling their saw mill at Allenby and moving it and as much of the building as possible to their new mill site, situated up Otter Valley about twelve miles above Tulameen. A large four-wheel-drive Duplex with trailer is being used to haul the outfit down to the depot here, where it is loaded and shipped on flat cars to its destination.

Last week a party consisting of Mrs. Hugh Hunter, Mrs. Alex. Bell, Robt. Rennie and Frank Glover paid a visit to Mr. R. M. Mansfield at Penticton. The conveyance was Mr. Hunter's recently acquired Ford and that Mr. Glover, who was at the wheel, must be an artist at pushing distance behind is evidenced by his claim of having made the return trip from Penticton in three and a quarter hours.

T. H. Boothe, who in addition to being an enthusiastic salesman of real estate, has gained some local fame as a checker player, met with a reverse at the hands of Rev. A. H. Cameron, of Hedley, during a recent visit of that gentleman to this town. Rev. Mr. Cameron is an old time checker player and has acquired great skill and much experience in the game. While he was here he also met Mr. Moore at the checker board and scored another victory.—Penticton Herald.

Miss Innis, of the A. E. Howse Company's staff, has been spending the week at her home in Chilliwack.

Mr. W. T. Jago, provincial secretary of the L. O. L., was a visitor in Princeton the first of the week. He has been visiting lodges in the interior.

Princeton offers a double bill to visitors from the outside tonight "Forbidden Fruit" at the Princess Theatre at eight o'clock and afterwards the Armistice dance in the Oddfellows' hall.

The entire proceeds of tonight's dance in the Oddfellows' hall will go to a fund for erecting in Princeton a memorial to the men who enlisted for service from Princeton and were killed in the great war.

Members of Similkameen Lodge, A. F. & A. M., and their wives to the number of about twenty, drove down to Hedley on Tuesday and were the guests of brother Masons there at a very enjoyable sovial evening.

Superintendent A. McCulloch of the K. V. R., had his special car sidetracked here on Wednesday evening. He came up attached to No. 11 and returned to Penticton on No. 12 next morning.

Star has been issued under difficulties this week owing to the lack of electrical power on Wednesday and Thursday. Not the least annoying feature of the inconvenience is the fact that absolutely no notice was given that the current was to be switched off although the company must have had their plans made some time ahead. Even on Wednesday, when the juice was switched off no notice was given that the performance would be repeated next day.

It is reported that Captain Cates is pulling down the beautiful, modern log bungalow which he erected at his camp up the Tulameen and shipping it together with all the fixtures and furnishings to Vancouver, where it will be re-assembled. It certainly was a building which would make an ideal home anywhere. The remainder of the camp buildings have been sold and the lumber in them will be used in erecting dwelling houses in Coalmont.

Gus Clerf and Gust Vladetich, who have recently made what might be termed prospecting trips through the Boundary and Kootenay are back in Princeton. They failed to see any unusual activity in that part of the province. Many working men, as a result of the announcement respecting the establishment of the paper mills near Elko have flocked to that section, only to find that there will not be anything doing before spring.

In the death of James A. (Jimmy) Teit at Merritt last week there passed away an oldtimer who was well known throughout the interior of British Columbia, chiefly on account of the prominent part he took as a "go-between" with the Indians and the federal government. He possessed an unusual influence with the Indians and on various occasions was employed by the government to deal with them.

Mr. H. R. Van Wagenen and family leave next Tuesday for Vancouver, where Mr. Van Wagenen will address the annual western meeting of the Canadian Mining and Metallurgy Institute. Afterwards they will leave for the south where Mrs. Van Wagenen and children will spend the winter with friends and where Mr. Van Wagenen has some mining propositions to investigate, which will occupy him for several weeks, after which he will return to Princeton. They have closed their residence at Copper Mountain for the winter.

MINING NOTES

(By E. A. Haggen.)

The Hedley Gold Mining Co. Limited, proposes shutting down the mill for the winter months in order to economize on cost of treatment. The mine, which had been shut down for a year owing to the impossibility of operating gold mines at a profit under the high costs prevailing in the closing years of the war, was reopened to development last spring, and the mill was started up for the summer months. An extensive campaign of diamond drilling was undertaken. Two drill holes failed to indicate new ore in an area where it was hoped it would be found, but a drill-hole in No. 5 ore body shows 15 feet of $20 ore, extending southward. The cost of mining has been brought down to a point where ore of a value of $7.50 per ton can be treated at a profit. Economies have been effected in milling by the substitution of local pebb'es for the imported hard Danish pebbles hitherto used, the saving being $2,000 a month. This has established a new industry in Similkameen, as settlers and Indians are now engaged in collecting hard pebbles and carting them to the company's mill at Hedley. The mill was operated at a loss for the first four months of this year's run, but for the latter two months it has shown a profit on the lov grade of ore being treated.

Taxation Grievance

One of the principal reason for the company shutting down its mine and mill was a claim made by the provincial government for retroactive taxation after the company had closed its books and all demands of the Dominion and province had been paid. The claim was made on a basis of difference of opinion as to how mine accounts should be made up, the government auditors adopting methods of accounting contrary to those which the experience of mining companies shows to work out in actual practice. The directors of the Hedley Gold Mining Company were so indignant over the manner in which the company was being treated that they ordered the mines shut down, and intimated their intention of being through with British Columbia as an investment field on account of unjust taxation. They agreed to reopen the mine on condition that the government should adjust the grievance, or allow it to be referred to the courts for a decision as to the legality or otherwise of the demand. The incident has done much harm to the province as a field of activity for American mining investors.

METAL MINING FAIRLY PROSPEROUS BUT COMING YEAR CRITICAL, SAYS EDITOR

The metal-mining industries in general are experiencing the same impetus toward greater prosperity that the other industries of the country have been feeling, said J. E. Spurr, editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal-Press, in a recent address at the National Conference of Business Paper Editors. An increased consumption has led to a reduction of the stocks of the metals, and to the opening up of many of the mines that had been partially or entirely shut down on account of the lack of a demand for the metals. The greatest copper mines of the United States—the great low-grade ores commonly called porphyry coppers—most of which were closed down, have all reopened and are working at various capacities; they are showing on the average a slight operating profit. Lead and zinc have experienced a similar revival. Nevertheless ,there is in the non-ferrous metal industries nothing that approaches the proportions, or even the indications, of a boom. Labor is very scarce, with the result that voluntary wage increases to miners have been made throughout the country, and this tends to offset the profit derived from somewhat higher metal prices and increased domestic consumption. Transportation difficulties—the lack of sufficient cars—have also interfered with production from some of the mining districts.

The great test of prosperity for the mining industries during the next year will depend upon how far the United States is self-sufficient. Undoubtedly it is a world in itself—undoubtedly it constitutes more of a commercial closed circle than has ever been seen before within single national boundaries. How far will our own consumption take care of our own production of the non-ferrous metals? And in this consideration the present tariff policy of the United States is the chief factor. Since its effect is to raise prices and wages—prices and wages which in many cases have already risen since the passing of the tariff, as if on the touch of an electric button—it is evident that the domestic consumption is sufficient to take care of production. Certainly the consequent increase in the cost of production cripples our chance to sell cheaply in competitions in foreign markets. Then, of course, there is the universally pointed out factor that by shutting out foreign goods from our markets we prevent foreign purchases on account of the lack of wherewithal to buy our products. This applies especially to some of the great, non-ferrous metal industries.

GRADING OF HOGS

New Developments Require Change In Methods of Marketing

The purchasing of hogs in Canada has passed through a great variety of methods in the development of the industry. In the early days there were no public stockyards and as centralized packing plants became established, it was necessary in order to secure supplies, that they organize a system of gathering the hogs from the farmers and bring them to the plants. It also resulted in the establishing of packing plants at many points in the smaller towns and cities, convenient to the sources of supply. Many of these plants still continue to operate and are a very important factor in the marketing of hogs. As public stockyards developed, packing plants became more centralized. This is especially true of the newer parts of Canada where, as in the west, nearly all the hogs are slaughtered at central marketing points.

During the period previous to the great railway development which took place at the time of the building of the Canadian Northern and Transcontinental lines, the Canadian export trade was a very important factor and the bacon hog was given special attention. With the building of the railways, the domestic trade became the important part of the business. The general expansion resulted in big immigration which overtook the surplus of hog production and turned the greater part of the industry into domestic trade. The character of the labor employed and the work done demanded a supply of rather heavy meats. This period was immediately followed by the Great War and the export trade again became very important, but it differed greatly from the early export business in that owing to the demand for any kind of meat, no differentiation in favor of the bacon hog was possible. The combined effect of the periods of domestic expansion and war conditions was that the special type of hog suitable for the export trade as well as the domestic trade of today was largely lost sight of. The result has been that all types of hogs have been paid for on the same basis, regardless of quality.

Today, however, conditions have greatly changed. The domestic trade which does not want fat pork and the export trade has become very discriminating in its requirements. The bacon type hogs are the hogs required for both the domestic and export trade and as the domestic market is limited, the expansion of the hog industry in Canada depends on the export market. It is essential that the produc- of the bacon type of hog be encouraged. This can only be accomplished by the payment of a premium for quality. This need was so greatly felt by all interested in the development of the swine industry that a joint conference was called by the federal Minister of Agriculture in the fall of 1921, which resulted in the establishing of official grades for hogs and the passing of the hog grading regulations.

Edith Parker, a young girl living on Kruger Mountain, has left home and a reward of $25 has been offered for any information that might lead to her apprehension.

FIVE MILE NOTES

Mrs. D. J. Garrison and Jay Dillard sailed from Seattle for La Touhce, Alaska, on November 1st.

There is to be a big dance at Killarney school house on Friday, 17th inst., the motto of which is "Everybody Welcome."

E. N. Freding and Oscar Peterson have returned from their claims at Dry Creek, which have been favorably reported upon by Mr. P. Freeland, district mineralogist, where they have been engaged in building a cabin preparatory to further development work.

The government lost no time, after the Hon. Dr. Sutherland issued his instructions, in making a beginning on the short spur that is to connect the main wagon road and Jura station. C. K. Cunard and W. W. Triplett are pushing the work along with a view to completing the job if possible before freeze-up.

Miss Thompson, the popular teacher at Killarney, has to the great regret of everybody, tendered her resignation to the board of trustees. The step was taken after much anxious consideration on the part of Miss Thompson, but was rendered necessary by reason of the difficulty of finding suitable boarding accommodation within reasonable distance of the school.

The first annual supper held, under the auspices of the Princeton Local, United Farmers of B. C., at the Oddfellows' hall on Saturday last was a delightful event. It's success far exceeded the most sanguine expectations of its promoters. Farmers with their wives and families to the number of approximately one hundred gathered together and sat down to a lavish display of choicest viands that the most fastidious epic could desire. Following the supper Mrs. S. R. Gibson, former president, delivered an address outlining the why and wherefore of farmer organizations. Judging from the measure of applause that greeted the close of the speech there is no room for doubt but that the facts presented echoed the sentiments of every farmer present. A duet rendered by Mesdames Avery and Gibson was accorded a hearty welcome, while Mr. A. Butler" brought the house down" with his "We'll all go haeme the same way." Mr. Butler's talent is of high order and was a revelation to the majority of his audience. The pleasure his contributions gave was evidenced not only by the round upon round of applause but also by the congratulations showered up the individual who was so fortunate as to receive Mr. Butler's promise of support. Mr. Butler is already booked in advance for the next big event which the farmers hope to bring off in the not distant future. Mr. H. Knighton presided at the piano and contributed most splendidly towards the evening's success. Following Mr. Butler's "going haeme" Mr. E. E. Hardwick was called upon to address the assembled farmers. It would be extremely difficult to do adequate justice by any mere pen picture of Mr. Hardwick's speech. It teemed with facts as emphasizing the outstanding need of organization, the unwholesome and unsound economic position occupied by the farmer and the demoralization threatened the agricultural position of the province by reason of the grossly unfair competition the Canadian farmer has thrust upon him by the Asiatics. The speech was a cultured, scholarly and wonderful piece of oration. Easily placing Mr. Hardwick in the very front rank of British Columbia farmer orators. One farmer who had tramped eighteen miles to be present was heard to remark that Mr. Hardwick's speech alone was more that compensation for the arduous hike he had undertaken. Perhaps this is the highest compliment that can be paid to it. The canvas subsequently made added to the membership of the local and increased its strength by almost 50%. Dancing till midnight concluded the most pleasant and profitable evening in the annals of agriculture in the Princeton district.

WHO MAKES THE PROFITS ON THE DAIRY FARM?

Only high producing cows are economical producers. Low producing scrub cows are always the ones that consume the most feed in proportion to the milk and butterfat produced.

This fact is proven again by the past year's results in the Webster County Cow Testing Association, according to E. M. Harmon of the Missouri College of Agriculture. The cows which averaged only 100 pounds of butterfat per year, produced that butterfat at an average feed cost of 25.6c. per pound. This cost gradually decreased as production per cow increased. The cows which averaged 200 pounds of fat for the year, produced that butterfat with an average feed cost of 16.1c. per pound. Those that averaged 300 pounds of fat per cow showed an average feed cost per pound of fat of 12.8c., and with the 400 pound cows the average feed cost for each pound of butterfat was only 11.4c. The profit per cow above feed cost varied from $18.27 in the case of the lowest producing class to $115.10, in the case of the cows averaging 400 pounds of butterfat per year. The average Missouri cow is credited with from 100 to 110 pounds of butterfat per year. According to the above results, these average cows charged their owners over 25c worth of feed for every pound of butterfat they produced last year. Through the cow testing associations, a few herds have been developed which average over 400 pounds of fat per year. A great many average over 300 pounds of fat in a year. These herds last year cost their owners for feed only 11c. to 13c. for each pound of butter fat produced. Who makes the profits?
