LOOKING IT OVER
AND OVERLOOKING PLENTY

Someone is boasting about turning on the radio and getting China. That's nothing. Hoover turned to it and got——.

☆ ★ ☆

What we are all wondering—how long it will be before the radio is purged of the Democrats and made safe for Democracy again?

☆ ★ ☆

Mr. McG. offered 3 to 1 on Hoover. Mr. A. thought so too, but the odds, given by one whose name starts with a Mc, were too tempting, and the wager was taken on general principles.

☆ ★ ☆

What's all this talk about duty being lifted on bagpipes. We were under the impression it said musical instruments.

☆ ★ ☆

When Sir Harry Lauder arrived they of course chided him about the concession, reminding him what a fine free country Canada is. "Aye," "they hae lifted the duty, and a gran' thing for Canada it is," he rejoined.

There is said to be one editor in heaven. How he got there is not positively known. It is conjectured that he nosed in, as newspaper men will, when the guardian angel was not looking.

As soon as his presence was detected there was great consternation, and they at once decided to be ridded of him. They prepared the court, and looked around for a lawyer but of course there was none.

☆ ★ ☆

This week's Sunday School lesson quotes Amos. We hope nne of the young hopefuls will make a mistake and quote Andy.

REFLECTIONS

From too much love of living,
From hope and fear set free,
We thank with brief thanksgiving
Whatever gods there be
That no lives live forever;
That dead men rise up never;
That even the weariest river
Winds somewhere safe to sea.

Police Blotter

Liquor Act.

A second offender, Isaac Hezikiah Snowden of Coalmont before Magistrate Craigie was found guilty of being intoxicated, and under provisions of secton 38 of the Government Liquor Act, fined $50. and costs. He was interdicted. He said he found half a bottle of rum.

Disturbance At Mine

Prosecution is being brought by R. Alstead, manager of the Blue Flame Collieries, Ltd., against a former employee, who, it is alleged, created a disturbance, contrary to provisions of the Special Rules, under the Coal Mines Regulations Act The case has been adjourned to 16th November.

TWO MONTHS FOR SADDLE

CAUGHT in a net cleverly laid by provincial police when he tried to dispose of a stollen saddle in Princeton, Otto Rivers, transient, was Wednesday sentenced to serve two months, with hard labor, at Oakalla.

After preliminary hearing, Rivers decided to plead guilty, and placed his fate in the hands of Magistrate Waterman, rather than electing for trial by higher court.

Rivers tried to sell a saddle at the W. S. Garrison livery barn. He fund himself forthwith in the toils of the law, facing a charge under section 339 of the Criminal Code, of being in possession of stollen goods.

A saddle had been stollen from W. Kruger, near Penticton. A description was given to the local police, who in turn gave the description to the Garrisons. Maurice Garrison, a youngster of about 15, recognized the saddle as corresponding with the description given, and notified the local police.

Rivers was placed under arrest Oct. 24, and remanded.

The case was proceeded with under provisions of section 776 of the Criminal Code, which gives the magistrate powers of summary conviction where the prisoner so elects.

Sergeant Duncan conducted the prosecution, W. Kruger, M. Garrison and Const. W. J. Thomson appearing as witnesses.

Sale is reported to an Indiana company of the Big Dutchman, Golden Sovereign, and Cincinnati mineral claims at Aspen Grove, for $13,000.

☆ ★ ☆

Ernest Waterman, resident manager for the Vermilion Forks Mining and Development Co., reports that the Davis-Calyx drill, at the third hole, has encountered coal at a depth of 301 ft. The seam is 4 ft. 9 in. Messrs Pouwels and Bonniver have driven their tunnel 170 ft. near the Similkameen river bridge.

George Aldous played host to a large and merry crowd at a Hallowe'en dance in the Tulameen Hotel.

C. E. Thomas is circulating a petition, which is being largely signed, urging a mail service between Princeton and Penticton.

M. K. Rogers ,agent for the Marcus Daly interests, owners of the Nickel Plate mine, states that there is a likelihood that the smelter will be built at Princeton.

Obituary

QUADVLIEG

Death occurred with startling suddenness at 3 a.m. Monday of Mrs. Elizabeth Quadvlieg, well known and highly respected Keremeos matron.

She succumbed suddenly to a heart attack. She had enjoyed the best of health, and her sudden demise was as shocking as it was unexpected.

Born in Holland 67 years ago, the late Mrs. Quadvlieg had lived in Keremeos for several years. She is survived by three sons, two daughters, and three grand-children, all of Keremeos.

She had been married forty-two years.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the Catholic chapel.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

In Flanders Fields the Poppies blow,
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky,
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived; felt dawn; saw sunset's glow.
And now we lie
In Flanders Fields.
Take up our quarrel with the foe.
To you, from failing hands, we throw
The torch; be your's to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders Fields.

MAN INJURED AT BLAKEBURN

J. Cepuron suffered a broken leg while at work in the No. 4 mine of the Coalmont Collieries Blakeburn, Saturday night.

He is a younger brother of Stephen Cepuron who was one of the three victims of the tragic auto accident on the Peterson Hill, October 24. The latter accident occurred when Cepuron's car was bringing five Blakeburn men to visit V. Marochi, a brother of one of the men who was killed in the auto accident, and who himself subsequently died from injuries received in the Blakeburn mine.

NEW MINING COMPANY HERE

TO DEVELOP 480 acres of coal leases on Bromley Creek, four and one half miles from Princeton, Bromley Vale Collieries Limited have been incorporated with R. Haigh as managing-director, and P. W. Gregory secertary. It is capitalized at $125,000.

The company wil take over and operate a proven prospect known as the King colliery which has been under development for some time. Its organization gives Princeton five such companies.

Improvements to the value of $21,000 have already been carried out on the property. Four seams of coal have been located, and one drifted on.

Incorporation was effected 18th October. In addition to Messrs Haigh and Gregory directors are J. A. Reddick, J. C. Curry, and E. Ward.

TWO LEASES

Holdings of the company comprise an option on 320 acres of surface, coal, mineral and timber rights on lot 406 Yale Division, Yale District, and 160 acres royalty lease from Princeton Properties on lot 385, adjoining, with coal, surface and timber rights.

Showings at the property are encouraging. A drill hole, made some years ago, records of which are available, shows clearly the formation. Located at the south-west corner, the drill-hole runs to a depth of 863 feet.

Outcroppings have been traced along the hill ide, and several prospecting tunnels have been driven in all over 600 feet.

The main tunnel is at the south end of Lot 385, and has been driven 100 feet, connecting with the main level driven northerly in the first seam. Plans indicate that a second seam will shortly be encountered.

A considerably larger body extending for nearly 40 feet has been plotted out, but it is not certain whether it is one large seam, or several seams close together.

CONSIDERABLE SURFACE WORK

Building of a road to link with the Bromley ranch road and give access to highway and railway, are the chief items in surface development work. Construction efforts include bunkers of 180 ton capacity, 170 foot trestle, powder house, snow shed, other outhouses, and shaker.

Coal is trucked four miles to ahe siding on the Kettle Valley railway near the Blue Flame siding. A chute has been erected at this point.

Steady development of the property is planned.

Capitalization has been set at $125,000, comprising 25,000 shares of a par value of $5.00, of which 19,800 have been allotted. The registered office is in Princeton, and the auditors are Messrs. Shaw, Salter and Plommer of Vancouver.

W. S. Wilson Making Good Progress

Successful development work is being continued on the coal holdings of Mr. W. S. Wilson on the Tulameen river just across the bridge from the center of the town.

Doing and work with one man a helper, Mr. Wilson has driven his tunnel on a cross-cut into the coal seam. The coal encountered is of good quality, but inclined to be dirty. However, Mr. Wilson is satisfied that with depth he will uncover the real quality coal which he is satisfied exists on the property.

PRINCETON, B.C., THURSDAY, 10TH NOVEMBER,

Remembrance—and Reflection

Tomorrow is Armistice Day. The learned cadis at Ottawa say it is Remembrance Day, but to the majority of the war-time generation it is still Armistice Day. Sentiment is a hard thing to legislate for, and to the ex-service man, and the ex-war servant, whether soldier or civilian, it will always be Armistice Day.

Which is a sentiment to be both appreciated and scrutinized. Sentiment is the finest thing in the world. But as ever the vine is cluttered with parasitic creepers. Too often is sentiment a vehicle for sentimntality.

There is far too much genuine sentiment adhering to Armistice Day still to bring in this accusation at the present time. And yet, as with all abstractions, there is even now room for a good deal of debunking.

The spirit of the day, and the genuine sentiment that attaches to it must by no means be lost. There can be no greater argument for the true spirit of Armistice Day than a vivid realization of what it meant to a war-weary world

How the world greeted November 11th, 1918! The flares that rose up successively around the globe proclaimed the dawn of peace! The joyous shout and the martial music gave expression to a profound feeling of genuine thanksgiving.

Glad and grateful was that tired and weary world—glad not so much that soon Johnny would come marching home in brass and scarlet, as he had gone; but thoroughly glad that Johnny would come home at all. Come quietly back, thoroughly sick at soul, his body perhaps scarred, and his mind inevitably seared with the awful experience he had been through. Unselfish mothers, whose Johnny would never come back, glad that other mother's would henceforth be spared such loss.

Beer and skittles are all very well, and the glimpse of the war that many get is beer and skittles. It is true that there were beer and skittles. There had to be. Otherwise that army of humanity would have gone stark mad. And of course to-day, for old soldiers never die, those who came back like to recall the beer and skittles part of it all. They have no need to recall the other side .It has become part of them. They have found recruiting promises and brass bands an entirely different picture than post war reconstruction.

The world of November 11th, 1918, was not a cowardly one, glad to slink out from under an unfinished responsibility. It was a sadder and a wiser one; sadder after an inhuman experience; and wiser because it had come to realize that this war which had started as a war to end wars had finished just another war; and that the millenium was no nearer at hand—except that it be by example rather than by achievment

Fourteen years later, it is only too obvious that the millenium is not yet at hand. Trade and commerce are still open international warfare—material things which have been the instigators of every war of soldiery. Disarmament is still a political argument, and so-called patriotism is not the devotion of 1914, but the aggression of 1912.

Old soldiers never die. Never must they! The fine spirit of the war days is the very core of our manhood.

But the day for beer and skittles is past. Girded with the mechanations of science, Mars has grown powerful beyond his own realization. War is as destructive to-day to our civilization as it is inhuman to our manhood.

The heroes of '14-'18 paid a price for something they have not been given. They fought and made sacrifices that a thinking world should not pass up lightly the the sacrifice they made—for peace and the welfare of the future.

The war of 1914-18 is not finished. It will not be won until the purpose it set out to achieve has been realized. It was a war to end war ,and bring peace. They fought and failed; but they did not fight in vain. They could not capture peace, but they showed how it could not be won; and thereby made it clear how it could. We are a more ignorant and short sighted people ,despite our experience, than in 1912, if we fail to grasp what the war taught us.

Patriotism is a complex affair. The obvious side is to act; the less obvious but more vital is to think. We have shown down the centuries that we can die for our convictions. We have failed to realize that the thing to do is to live for them.

Perhaps Remembrance Day is not such a misnomer after all. Possibly Reflection Day would be nearer the point.

Did the result of the Presidential election suit you? Perley was very much disappointed. He figured he was going to be elected himself, but he is going to retire from politics in favor of Andy Gump.

"Any way, what's the use of an election in the United States as long as they have the Volstead Act?" he says. "Now the next election may be something like it."

No Telephone— So They Were Left Out

"Oh, John, isn't it just too dreadful for words!" said Mrs. Morley. "The Graham's had a party last night and they didn't ask us."

"Yes, I know all about it," said John. Tom Graham explained this morning It's one of the many penalties we're paying for not having a telephone. Mrs. Graham invited everybody by telephone, and, as she couldn't reach us, we were left out."

"Of course, it seems we're missing everything these days because we haven't a telephone. Really, John, we just can't get along with out one any longer."

Nowadays most invitations come by telephone.

Get Rid of That SORE THROAT!

Any little soreness in the throat grows rapidly worse if neglected. Crush some tablets of Aspirin in some water, and gargle at once. This gives you instant relief, and reduces danger from infection. One good gargle and you can feel safe. If all soreness is not gone promptly, repeat. There's usually a cold with the sore throat, so take two tablets to throw off your cold, headache, stiffness or other cold symptoms. Aspirin relieves neuralgia, neuritis, too. Use it freely; it does not hurt the heart.

Former Local Man Discusses Princeton Coal.

Editor, The Star, and The Princeton Board of Trade,
Princeton, B. C.
Gentlemen:

I read with considerable regret the article in the "Star" entitled "Local Coal Not Suited To Tranquille", and particularly the feud between two of your foremost supporters. I say supporters because I know that both gentlemen have only the welfare of the district in mind and heart. Antagonism is not criticism, and such publications do not help Princeton in particular or the Similkameen in general.

Strange as it may seem, Princeton gets all the knocks that stagger every effort from her civic bodies to help the district.

Thousands of dollars have been spent to establish industry transient and permanent, and it is common record the efforts have been cooled and in some cases finally closed by sinister and untruthful statements.

You have your valuable lands, the Similkameen, whose scenery is with two rivers, the Tulameen and not surpassed, even in winter, by any other part of Canada. Your placer and lode mining and your local coal mines all covering an extensive area. And they all suffer from the one complaint — local "knocking".

TOO MUCH KNOCKING

The greatest sufferer is your coal area. Please listen to me again when I say: The best domestic coal in the known world of coal—and I have worked for forty-seven years in coal mines—is only found at Princeton and in the Tulameen coal area.

And the same coal, with the proper drafts, to insure a secondary introduction of oxygen, to make possible—easy enough to do by anyone who knows how to build a fire-box, either under a series of boilers or in a locomotive—a com plete combustion of the volitiles, need not take a secnd place to any steam coal in Canada, or in any other country.

I know Welsh coal and English and Scottish coals, because of their hard nature, made unlimited steam power possible, and the British navy supreme. But the methods of mining the coal added considerably to the successful bunkering and storage for long distances.

BETTER MINING METHODS NEEDED

The same methods used in our mines in British Columbia would create a market far ahead of any yet reached, and a storage for long periods possible. Summer sales are nil, because our coal will not store and stand up for winter use, owing to the destructive blasting and shattering under present methods of mining. All our schools, hospitals,sanitariums, large industries, hotels and larger residences would store up in summer for winter use if our coals did not shatter.

Vancouver Island coaol was the best on the Pacific Coast for many years—Interior mines did not at that time compete—and the market was wide-spraed, because the local demand was small.

But now the local market is large indeed, to say nothing of the prairie provinces nearest us, who would possibly take B.C. coal if it would store in summer. Interior coals are now competing, and whilst there are discrepencies in freight rates, he Island coal is not the best.

INTERIOR COAL FOR ALL NEEDS

Interior coals will meet many, many needs, and our present Minister of Mines, hampered by the legacy left him by the Liberal government the lovable Minister of Mines, the Attorney General—who pigeon-holed the Coal Enquiry of 1921—and other Ministers and mem bers, who never strayed far from the power of the Island coal mines, will not be able to do very much.

The Princeton (Tulameen) coal area is the youngest formation in the world, the last piece of coal that God made. Containing all its natural products, and invaluable by-products, with the exception of metallurgical coke the high percentage of fixed carbon (61%) and the component high percentage of volatile (combustible) matter (32%) proves the coal area has not suffered from leaching, and all the natural oils, etc., are therefore intact, which makes the coal valuable indeed.

The only pure coal area in all the bituminous and lignite coal areas in the world is the Princeton area.

ONLY PURE COAL IN WHOLE WORLD

Of course lignite coal is one that has not matured. Princeton coal has matured, and even at the outcrop shows wonderful qualities—it is rather high in moisture, but this is not so at depth.

I will look forward to the copy of the Star in which appear Mr. Mc Kenzie's dissertations on coal.

Four percent moisture and three percent ash completes one of the highest analyses on record for a bituminous coal, and a heating unit of 13,350 B.T.U.

Argue the merits of your coal from its heat units, its clean, nosoot basis, its 93% purity. Sell only to dealers who do not mix it with inferior coals. Tell the people 93 pounds out of every hundred is fuel, and the market in Vancouver alone is 700 tons a day more for Princeton coal than at present.

Princeton will thrive on healthy criticism. Let's have lots of it. Personal antagonism should try to get to the point. Respect is due to all Here's to you all at Princeton.

Yours very truly,
EDWARD FLOYD

Sport Gossip

The Tulameen river is still moving, but the P. A. A. is not. Recently a plan was introduced to build a suspension bridge across the Tulameen to the rink. The idea was enthusiastically received, and within two days an estimate had been made, and the pot was boiling. That ardor has evidently cooled, for now there s no sign of activity. The necessary information to place before a joint meeting of the Curling, Tennis, and Hockey clubs and the P. A. A. has been in hand for a long while. The plan had been greeted with plenty of support.

☆ ★ ☆

Who's to do what seems to be the question. There should be very little doubt as to the responsibility for further action. It lies with the P. A. A. It is their bridge, and it would be little short of impertinence for any other club, using Association property gratis, to come along and rope the Association into such a plan.

☆ ★ ☆

When the bridge is built, it will be built by and for the the P. A. A. which exists primarily to help along the other clubs. The public looks to the P. A. A. to take the lead, and expects to support it.

☆ ★ ☆

The investigating committee is simply the P. A. A. executive with two outsiders added and in the matter the P. A. A. is expected to take the lead; and time is fleeting.

ARTHUR NEW CURLING HEAD

WITH PROSPECTS of a playing membership of over forty, and the treasury in sound, if not brimming condition, Princeton Curling club turned on the heat—or rather the cold—for another season at a well attended annual meeting on Tuesday.

Curilng will be starting its fourth season in Princeton. It has to its credit a fine rink with two sheets of ice, a strong executive, and an enthusiastic membersrip. It is one of the most successful of Princeton's athletic organizations and can congratulate itself on an unusually successful beginning.

R. Arthur was named president and W. Lindsay vice-president of the club for the coming season. With these, and the exception of two places on the executive, the old officers were returned without alteration.

The personnel is:
President—R. Arthur.
Vice-president—W. Lindsay.
Secretary-treasurer—V.G.Field.
Executive—
P.W. Gregory
E.B. Hall
W.B. Ewart
A.E. Bloom

Reduction of the membership fee from ten to seven dollars was the most important bit of legislation. The management of the rink and playing arrangements were delegated to the charge of the executive.

GOOD YEAR FINANCIALLY

Though conditions were not of the best last year, the club was able to pay its way and retreive some of its indebtedness. Its loan account of $200 on the building was reduced by $70.00. It was able to spend $58.20 on repairs and improvements. It also expended $27.80 on the purchase of rocks.

With 48 members enrolled, the club had $475 from fees. This included eight paid in advance memberships. These members had paid in advance when the club was first launched, thus helping it financially at the outset. Only two memberships are now paid in advance.

Total receipts were $521.30. which included a balance at the start of the year of $1.30. The club carries over a credit balance of $10.11.

JACK COLES GETS ACE

Jack Coles, young ace of the Princeton Golf club, who has been turning in some sensational performances recently, has finally attained the golfer's Golhalla. Playing in a friendly foursome he sank his tee shot on the 170 yard first hole to ring up his first dodo. Jack's next ambition is to go round the course in nine.
