PEACE REIGNS AGAIN

IN THAT TRUCULENT AND OFT-DISTURBED LAND.

Poverty Hath Its Horrors in that Land of Distress, Ireland—Russian Women Involved Into Vile Places—An English Company Prohibits the Use of Grog—Drawing the Line in Central Africa.

LONDON, July 29.—It is officially announced that the British Foreign Office has received telegraphic advices from Buenos Ayres that the revolution has ended in a triumph of the Government.

Sad story of distress from poverty and harsh enforcement of the law comes from the Irish coast. Fishing has been bad and many of the dwellers on Blasket Island of the Kerry coast were unable to pay their rent at the appointed day. A gun boat thereupon landed the sheriff and 30 bailiffs and 100 police on the island and a posse seized the boats of the unfortunate fishermen, and as the gun boat departed with the only means of livelihood of the half starved population the scene was a heartrending one. Despairing fathers and husbands gazed gloomily at the receding vessel while the children and women folks wailed and cried aloud in their anguish. An eye-witness says that the people are absolutely destitute and many must perish unless relief is sent.

Much excitement exists in the south of Russia over the story brought by Russian women who were decoyed or abducted from their native country and were prisoners in the harems. There seems to be little doubt of the truth of the women's statement, as it is customary for Turkish agents to attend Russian fairs held in towns near the frontier and after the fairs peasant women are often reported missing. Although owing to the humble station of the parties the authorities have never made such enquiry, if, indeed, the Russian officials do not share in the nefarious traffic.

A terrible situation is represented as existing under British rule in Zululand. The natives are perishing of hunger in the country which ought to be productive and the scant aid given by the British Government in the way of rations has afforded but slight relief. The once powerful nation of Zulus is now a mere wreck and colonial enterprise has not made sufficient headway to efface the devastation.

Latest returns show that 96,000 out of 99,000 men in the English home army are under 21 years of age.

A Vienna despatch says that an edict is impending in Russia for the expulsion of Jews numbering 4,000,000 from that country. The edict is said to be contemplated as the only means of putting an end to the constant strife between the poorer classes of citizens and the peasants and Hebrews, growing out of money transactions and race hatred. The despatch adds that the Rothschilds are urging France to use her influence with Russia for the prevention of the threatened eviction.

The English Royal Niger Company has prohibited the importation or sale of intoxicating liquors in its African territory north of the seventh parallel of north latitude. The officials of the company state their conviction that the profits growing out of the liquor traffic are much more than counselled by pecuniary losses resulting from the demoralization among natives and whites caused by the use of liquor. They do not claim to be actuated by moral motives but are proceeding on business principles.

The floor of a workshop at Essen collapsed today throwing one hundred employees into a cellar where they were overwhelmed with the debris. Two were killed and many injured, several of whom will die.

The Argentine Legation in London received tonight the following telegram signed by Minister of Finance Garcia: "Buenos Ayres, July 29th.—The Government is completely victorious, the mutineers have capitulated and deposited their arms in the arsenal. All rebellious superior officers will be dismissed, the troops are returning to their quarters under the command of loyal officers. Minor officers participating in the revolt will be transferred to positions of less influence. The forces mobilized by the Government are returning to the province. The political situation is thoroughly consolidated. The capital and the whole country is tranquil."

The Daily Telegraph states that England and France will appoint commissioners to find the limits of the French share of influence in Central Africa as modified by the Anglo-German agreement.

The announcement is made in Berlin this morning that the "Reptile Fund," so named by Prince Bismarck when he cynically admitted in debate that he has used it for the purpose of bribing newspapers, is no longer to be applied to secret service purposes. Money placed at the disposal of the chancellor will be duly accounted for in the public documents. Chancellor Von Caprivi also publishes an account of the uses to which the fund has been applied in former years, but a vagueness and lack of details leave the exact disposal of certain sums a matter of conjecture, so that Bismarck's famous statement remains unchanged.

The French bishop, Levinhac, who has returned to Zanzibar from a mission in the interior, reports that he met Emin Pasha on his way. Emin was not well, and there was considerable sickness among his company. Several of his officers were thought to be in a dying condition.

Preparations for the marriage of Archduchess Valerie, of Austria, have been proceeding on a magnificent scale, and the affair will be an imposing one. Crowds daily block the streets around the palace at Ischl, where the ceremony is to take place, and the Archduchess, who has renounced all possibility of the throne in order to marry the man of her choice, receives many tokens of popular admiration. Sixty wagon loads of flowers have been sent, which will be used in decorating the marriage hall.

The Prince of Montenegro has made a formal demand upon the Porte for indemnity for outrages committed by Albanians, and threatens that the Montenegrins will cross the frontier in force unless prompt satisfaction is given by Turkey. The demand is significant for the reason that Montenegro is so closely associated with Russia.

It transpires that the recent somersault of the Duchess of Sparta was attended by nearly fatal consequences. Her Royal Highness is now, however, reported out of danger.

Cholera is raging in Rugind and vicinity, and great apprehension exists lest the scourge should spread westward.

Branded a Thief.

VIENNA, July 29.—The treatment of Jews in Russia is daily becoming harsher. The prefects of Odessa and Mohileff have given official notice that all the Jews charged with arrogant or insolent behavior will be refused trial before the justices and will have the punishment dictated by the prefects. Several prominent Jews of Mohileff have been publicly chastized as an outcome of this order. A Jewish boy at Bialostock has had the word "thief" in three languages branded on his face with caustic by order of the prefect.

Letter of Censure.

BERLIN, July 29.—It is reported at Limerick that Bishop O'Dyer has received a letter from the Pope approving the bishop's recent letter of censure on Dillon in connection with the Persico mission.

Mine Explosion.

PARIS, July 29.—An explosion of fire damp occurred today in the Pellissier coal mines at St. Etienne causing the death of over 120 miners. About 50 others were terribly burned.

Died Demented.

VALLEJO, Cala., July 29.—Jules Colcomb, 50 years of age, a discharged employee in the terra cotta works shot four times at Alfanzo Lejeune, superintendent, last night but missed him and then suicided. Colcomb lost his wife recently and was slightly demented. In his will, which has been found and which was made a few days ago, he claims Lejeune wronged him in discharging him from the works.

Innocents Slaughtered.

PATTERSON, N.J., July 29.—Jennie Brewster, aged 12, Maude Warren, 12, and Nellie Warren 10 years old and three other children injured tonight by being struck by a train while crossing the riverside bridge on the railroad. The children were returning from a blackberrying trip and were on the bridge when the trains from both directions rushed down on them.

For No Base Use.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The President today sent a message to Congress urging the enactment of such legislation as will enable the Postoffice Department to effectually prevent the use of the mails by lottery companies.

A Minister Called.

VANCOUVER, July 29.—A call to Rev. C. B. Pitblado, formerly of Winnipeg, but now of Santa Clara, California, was made unanimous by St. Andrew's congregation last night. The stipend named is $2,000. The general wish, not only of the congregation, but of the citizens generally, is that so eloquent and earnest a pastor will accept the charge.

Order Restored.

PARIS, July 29.—A Buenos Ayres despatch to the Temps says a settlement has been finally reached between the leaders of the insurrection and the government. The despatch further states that President Gilman has resigned and that Vice President Pellignini has succeeded him as president. Quiet once more reigns.

A Lumber Fire.

DETROIT, July 29.—A special to the News from Saginaw, Michigan, says: A terrible fire is raging here. It caught in the timber piles just north of the Owen Hutchinson Company's mill about noon. At 2 p.m. the Owen Hutchinson Company had lost $40,000 worth of lumber.

Relic of the Deep.

BOSTON, July 29.—The British steamer Avonmore, from Hamburg, reports that on July 16th in the English Channel, St. Catherines Point, they passed a life buoy marked "Etiel, London." On July 24th they passed a ship's boat, painted white with the gunwales painted brown, full of water and with the rowlocks in their place.

PROVINCIAL JOTTINGS.

What the Scissors Have Dug out from Our Exchanges.

A gentleman coming down the C. P. R. to Vancouver the other day overheard a conversation between three individuals. One complained that he had only received $600 of the stuff, and threatened to "squeal" if he didn't get more. Thinking this might refer to the Cariboo robbery, the gentleman spoke to Sergt. Langley of the provincial police who at once started on the trail. He got as far as Angus and traced the men from there to Harrison Hot Springs, and found that in the latter place they had flooded one of the hotel men out of $90. They were traced all the way back to Vancouver leaving a trail of swindling all along the route. They closed their career on board the Premier where they cheated some of the best hands. Here they were arrested on some warrant from Tacoma and conveyed back to that place by Captain O'Brien. Having tracked his game to earth Mr. Langley returned to Victoria, satisfied that they were not the Cariboo stage robbers. But had they been he was dangerously close to their heels.

A few months ago it was announced in the columns of the Free Press that Mr. J. A. May intended to organize a Choral Society in this city, but nothing has been heard of it since. Mr. W. J. Spurr, who has so successfully led the Methodist Church choir for some time past, has now announced his intention to form a choral society and no doubt he will prove successful, as he is well known to be a musician of rare ability. A meeting will be held in the lecture room of the Methodist Church on Monday, August 4th, at 8 p. m., when all the singers in the city are requested to be present for the purpose of forming the society and selecting the first piece to commence with. Many of the residents will be delighted with the idea of Mr. Spurr's as they have long wanted a class of this description, and in course of a few months they will be able to delight the inhabitants with cantatas, etc.—Nanaimo Free Press.

The Coroner's Inquest.

Captain Pittendrigh, the coroner for the district, held the inquest on the death of Samuel Gawan, late second engineer of the steamer Dalaware, last evening in the Hyack Hall when several witnesses, employees on the steamer, were examined. It was revealed that the second engineer was returning with two cans of oil from oiling the bearings of the wheel and when near the door entering into the engine room, slipped, and having nothing with which to hold himself fell into the water. The jury which was composed of six gentlemen of the city listened attentively to the evidence, and after hearing the surviving son of the coroner, came to the conclusion that Gowan met his death by accidental drowning, and the jury were further of the opinion that owing that the boats were not properly equipped for life saving, that the said boats should have had the oars and row locks in them ready at all times to be used in case of accident, and that the crew should not be allowed to sit on the guard while the boat was in motion, and further that a hand rail should be provided to run the whole length of the ship from stern to stern.

Nelson Mining District.

The Royal Canadian, a claim on 49 creek owned by French boys, is said to be looking way up. The ore is gold, similar to the Poorman.

The postoffice is now on Baker Street, in Gilker & Wells' store.

The road now building to the Hall mines will be of no practical benefit to the Toughnut and adjoining claims to the west. Their outlet must necessarily be by a road down Shady Creek.

The bridge across Baker Street is all completed except the railing. The structure is strong and substantial, and a 10 ton load will not phase it.

Representatives of the St. Louis capitalists who are interested in the Granite Mountain and Bi-Metallic mines near Philipsburg, Montana, have, for some time, been figuring on the Iroquois, a claim alongside the Silver King on the south.

Found.

At an early hour yesterday morning while two fishermen of the Ben Accord cannery were hauling in their net on the last drift before coming in the body of a large, well-developed man was found entangled in the net. The ghastly object was disentangled from its position and brought to this city in a boat by the two men from the cannery, when Mr. Moresby was immediately notified. The body was placed upon a slab on the Mary street landing, exposed to the view of a curious crowd which was gradually increasing. Mr. Moresby informed Coroner Pittendrigh of the find, and that gentleman proceeded to view the body with the intention of holding an inquest upon it were it deemed advisable. He accordingly, under the expectation that it was the body of Brother Wolff who so heroically met his death at St. Mary's mission about 10 days ago, sent for a priest at St. Louis college, who after viewing the body, fully identified the remains as those of his late confrere. The features of the dead man, considering the fact that the body had been under water for nine days, were somewhat swollen, though not so distorted as to hinder identification by his friends. The body had evidently not long arisen to the surface of the water as it was in a very fair state of preservation, not having been exposed to the air any great time. The identification of the body having been fully established by Father Fayard from St. Louis college, Coroner Pittendrigh thought it unnecessary to hold an inquest and accordingly gave Mr. Falec, the undertaker, a permit for burial, who had the remains removed to a shed on McDonough's wharf. A heavy metallic casket has been ordered and the funeral of the late brother will take place to day from the undertaking rooms to St. Mary's Mission by the 1 o'clock train. A large number of the priests and brothers from St. Louis college will go up by the train to the Mission where they will be present at the funeral ceremonies.

The "Dominion Illustrated."

The City Council has accepted the offer of Mr. H. Hilton, representative in this Province of the Dominion Illustrated, to supply copies of a special number of his paper devoted entirely to the interests of New Westminster, at $150 per thousand. It has not yet been decided whether 500 or 1,000 copies will be taken, but the chances are that the latter number will be sufficiently small for the amount of good and advertising the city will receive therefrom. Lithographs of all the principal industries in and about the city will appear in the number. Scenes taken during the time of the exhibition of the Royal Industrial and Agricultural Society, in September, will be represented and will undoubtedly advertise the city to a great extent, in Eastern Canada. Mr. Hilton says he is confident of getting out an excellent number for the various industries afford subjects for the compilation of a good publication.

Minister of the Interior.

We called attention a day or two ago to the arrival in Victoria of the Hon. E. Dewdney. In a day or so he will be in this city, when he will, no doubt, be thoroughly posted in various matters which require attention. Our energetic member, Mr. Gordon E. Corbould, has, we have reason to know, been at some pains to urge various questions of moment with the minister. Now that the fishing season is well under way, our cannery men and fishermen are anxiously looking for the promised visit of the Hon. C. H. Tupper, minister of marine and fisheries, who, when he does come, will find much to learn with regard to our great industry, and so be enabled to adjust the existing fishery regulations, which are undoubtedly giving those who have to follow them, considerable annoyance and causing great dissatisfaction.

Reported Drowned.

Early this morning a report reached this city that two men employed in a sawmill were drowned in Barrard Inlet last evening. No particulars were obtainable. Later—One of the bodies has been recovered but its identity is not known.

Report.

Capt. Johnson's family have removed to Vancouver. The many friends of Mrs. Johnson in this city wish her happiness and prosperity in her new home at the Terminal City, but at the same time regret that circumstances should necessitate her departure from their midst.

Dr. McKenzie.

Our old friend Dr. A. McKenzie, arrived in the city yesterday from Nova Scotia on his way to California, and registered at the Hotel Douglas. The doctor, though he has had a long spell of illness has completely recovered and feels as young as ever. He is perfectly astonished at the manner in which Westminster has grown and regrets now that his ill health compelled him to seek an other climate.

A Word to the Wise.

We would call the attention of steamboat owners especially to the verdict returned by the coroner's jury in the inquest which was held last evening, and hope that they will benefit thereby. The boats should be ready at all times for life saving purposes, for when once a person is precipated into the Fraser, unless speedy help is at hand, he is almost sure to meet with a watery grave.

Sweet Margaret Faze came up the Inlet from picking ripe red berries, and met young Paul, comely and tall, going to market with cherries. Stopping she blushed, and he looked flushed, perhaps 'twas the burdens they carried; when they passed on their burdens were one, and at Christmas they were married.

A fire in Saginaw, Mich., yesterday consumed hundred of thousands of dollars worth of lumber, houses and offices. Fears are entertained that the fire may extend across the river to Carrollton, where $100,000 of lumber is stored.

THE UNIVERSITY.

On Saturday last the work of registering graduates to sit on the first convocation of the University of British Columbia was brought to a conclusion. The register as completed, is made up of one hundred and eighteen names, of which number Victoria supplies 36, and the rest of Vancouver Island 6, whilst the Mainland total figures up to 76. It will thus be seen that the number of Mainland graduates on the register exceeds that from the Island by 31. These telltale figures should serve the very useful purpose of teaching the Colonist to be in future a little more modest in all its claims for the capital. Victoria is beautiful enough and rich enough to get along without being bolstered up by the effusiveness which distinguished that paper on a recent occasion, when referring to the university in an editorial. We have no intention now of discussing the site of the university building. To do so would be out of time and premature. We merely now call attention to the fact that the figures of the register of convocation, show very plainly either, that the standard of educational attainment is higher on the Mainland than on the Island, or else that there must be round and about Victoria a strange apathy in regard to the university, somewhat unusual with the people of Vancouver Island, when anything touching their material interest, or pride of culture is at stake. Within a month from last Saturday, or in other words, sometime before August 26th next, the provincial secretary will call together the gentlemen whose names are registered, and they will at once proceed to select three of their number to represent them in the council of the university. Section 8 of the act, passed last session dealing with this matter, declares that all conversations after the first shall be composed of the chancellor, vice-chancellor, council of the university, the members of the first convocation, and all persons who shall become graduates of the university. From the above, those persons who already have secured their names upon the register will see the importance of attending the call of the provincial secretary. The question of endowment has yet to be settled. What the government proposes doing in that matter is not known. The bill provides no endowment, but it seems natural to suppose that the question will receive attention at the next session of the Legislature. Private munificence, however, should be the backbone of the University of British Columbia. Many fortunes have been made here, and those who have so benefitted should, we think, hail the opportunity now afforded of showing their patriotic regard to this Province which has been so generous to them. Lavish endowments for educational purposes can not be extravagant. The money so sunk will return a magnificent percentage in a more excellent and higher standard of culture.

AN AID TO THE TEACHER.

In the Photographic Quarterly there are some interesting particulars regarding the use of the magic lantern in the Yorkshire College at Leeds. Professor Miall has demonstrated the possibility of utilizing the lantern in a room illuminated by daylight. Almost every department in this college has its lantern and each different subject as biology, engineering, ancient history and textile industries are illustrated by its means. The great advantage of the apparatus in question is simply this: Diagrams are dear, bulky and occupy much storage room, besides being subject to wear and tear. If at all beyond the usual size, difficulty is too frequently experienced in placing them for exhibition. Whilst the wall diagrams are open to those objections, the lantern slides meet them all. They can be prepared comparatively cheaply; they occupy next to no space and are easily exhibited in a well lighted room. In the Yorkshire College lecturers illustrate their remarks by photographs of machinery, plants and designs for textile fabrics. The number of illustrations possible by means of the lantern is far greater than if diagrams were used. Micro-photographs and photographs of designs and actual objects are used to illustrate lectures on biology. So convenient indeed is the lantern slide, that it has entirely superseded the microscope in the lecture room, which is now only used in the laboratory. A lantern picture of a micro-photograph can be seen by a whole class at once, whereas, under the old system, the object beneath the microscope had to be shown to each student individually. It can, therefore, be understood that the lantern slide is popular, because of the great saving of time its use effects. When the Classics, or Ancient History, are being explained to a class, it frequently happens that slides illustrating buildings or maps of a country are found useful in improving students, with the reality of the subjects they are studying. In the art department photographs of the great masterpieces are brought into play. In the study of timography, numbers of illustrations, which could have been given in no other manner have been furnished by the lantern. The cost of the apparatus is comparatively small, and the advantages derived from its use are so immense as to far outweigh the expenditure in cash. There is little doubt but the magic lantern as an aid in education has a large and growing future.

Our language, to begin with, stands almost alone among the more familiar European idioms in being blessed with a special word to express it all. The Romance languages, of course, follow the Latin. Thus in Italian, we have sorriso, as also in Portuguese; in Spanish sonrisa, in French sourire. The Germans form a diminutive lächeln from lachen. The Dutch have a rather curious word for it, viz., grinslach, the latter half of which is intelligible enough; can the first syllable be connected with our own "grimace"? The smile is distinguished from the laugh by its absolute silence, as are its varieties the smirk and the grin. But it is even more expressive than the laugh. By the smile we can not only indicate appreciation of fun, but the severest sarcasm, pity, contemptuous or genuine; doubt, and more contentment. The smile of many a daughter of Eve is far more eloquent than her speech. A man, however, as we know, "may smile, and smile, and be a villain." The smile of vanity, perhaps, is the most painful of all to witness, though that of our rival's triumph is not always easy to regard with equanimity. Though Shakespeare makes King John speak of "that idiot, laughter," it is the smile which really and truly deserves sometimes the title, when it gives tongue and becomes a laugh, it is the property of the maniac. Finally, we have the rare case here of a humorous reading of a word introducing itself; who can forbear to smile when he reads how seductively on one occasion the gentle Alcinous "smiled"? A capital illustration of the value of the strong preterit cunningly applied.

A child in the fourth year should be three feet high and weigh more than twenty-eight pounds; in the sixth year, three and a half feet high and weigh forty-two pounds; in the eighth year, four feet high and fifty-six pounds in weight; at twelve years old, five feet in height and seventy pounds in weight is a fair average. At the term of adolescence twenty-eight pounds should be added for three or four inches of height; 112 pounds for five feet six inches; 126 pounds for five feet eight; 140 pounds for five feet ten; 154 pounds for five feet eleven, and 168 pounds for six feet of height in good weight. Growth is very irregular in children and young people generally; perhaps two inches may be gained in two months, and for the next ten months not another inch, even up to the age of ten or twelve years. While growth is thus rapid, fatigue is readily induced; during the pause, weight is gained and work or training can go on again.

THE AFTER GLOW.

The clouds in glory swept to heaven
The mellow landscape glowed,
Reflecting all the light and warmth
That from their radiance flowed.

The world was very beautiful;
A keen pang smote my heart—
Must all this matchless loveliness
With sunset night depart?

And evermore, through years to come,
Will I behold the skies,
Filled with the same bright mountain clouds
That dazzle now mine eyes?

Somehow I cannot think them lost;
Perhaps in some far land,
Ranged in an endless gallery,
We yet shall see them stand;

And we may gaze with raptured eyes
On some fair sunset glow,
That brings a tender memory
Of days we spent below.

Look out, O soul! beyond the range
Of narrow, human mind,
Find a ways are past our finding out,
But, O, how wondrous kind!

It is not strange to think that he,
Who keeps us from our birth,
Will keep for us the blessed things
We cannot keep on earth.

Poison in Greenbacks.

I note that these girls never wet their fingers in their mouths as they count the bills. Each has a sponge beside her and she gets her moisture from this. There is great danger of disease in handling bank notes, and no one can tell as to whether the last holder has had the smallpox or the measles. The notes themselves are green and the green comes from arsenic used in coloring. A sponge after a day's use turns black with the arsenic which comes from the bills, and some thin skinned maidens contract sores on the arms and wrists from this counting. The sponges are changed every day, but if the skin is the least scratched and the arsenic of the note happens to get under the flesh a sore is very likely to appear a day or two afterwards.—Washington Letter.

Gasoline for Railway Cars.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road has been experimenting with gasoline with a view to using it in the lighting of cars. One system which has been found satisfactory is this: A circular tank filled with cotton waste, which is saturated with gasoline. Small pipes lead from the tank to the lamp generators with funnel shaped openings fixed so as to point always to the front end of the coach. The speed of the car forces air and gasoline vapor to the generators. The light is brilliant. It is a question whether its use will be permitted in Iowa under the inspection law, which prohibits the use of gasoline for illuminating purposes.—New Orleans Picayune.

How Hailstones Are Formed.

The manufacture of hailstones is conducted at a high altitude. When a storm comes on there is a rush of cold air upward which catches falling raindrops and bears them heavenward. Then the drops pass through a cold cloud and get congealed; they become heavy and fall back into the rain cloud, where a coat of water adheres to them. Caught up again, they are carried into the snow, and take on another jacket; and so the process goes on until a large sized stone is formed, which, with its companions, escapes from the current of air and comes tumbling to the ground.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Biblical Weights and Measures.

A shekel of gold was $8. A firkin was seven pints. A talent of gold was $13,802. A talent of silver was $538.30. Ezekiel's reed was nearly 11 feet. A cubit was nearly 22 inches. A bin was 1 gallon and 2 pints. A mile was less than a quarter of a glass. A shekel of silver was about 50 cents. A piece of silver, or a penny, was 12 cents. A Sabbath day's journey was about an English mile. An ephah, or bath, contains 7 gallons and 2 pints. A day's journey was about 23 1-3 miles. A hand's breadth is equal to 3¼ inches. A finger's breadth is equal to 1 inch. A farthing was 7 cents.—Scranton Truth.

Safety of Dogmata.

Mr. De Science (of New York)—I notice that a writer in The Forum says a poor man is better off in a crowded city tenement house than in a western dugout, exposed to the fury of cyclones.

Mr. Quartersection (of Kansas)—He does, does he? Well, you just tell that smart individual, for me, that thar is three things a cyclone can't blow away—wells, cisterns an' dug outs. Guess he don't know a dugout is a hole in the ground.—New York Weekly.

To Restore a Fainting Person.

Do not attempt to raise the head; it is better that it should be on a level with the body, or even lower, because by this means one gets the aid of gravity in restoring the circulation of the blood in the brain, and that will restore consciousness. The use of spirits of ammonia applied to the nostrils is sometimes efficacious, but should not be persisted in long, neither should there be any attempt to make the person swallow before able, as it might result in suffocation.—Lena Rivers.

Not to Be Looked At.

The most extraordinary precautions were adopted at Buda Pesth when the empress of Austria arrived there in order to prevent any one from seeing her majesty. Nobody was allowed to be on the platform except the emperor, and the passage which the empress and her attendants passed through was also kept clear, for even the railway officials were ordered away, and people were forbidden to approach within a hundred yards of the station.—London Truth.

Since 1800 the population of Europe has just doubled itself. Then the population was 175,000,000; now 350,000,000.

FULFILL YOUR PROMISES.

Hints to Young Business Men About the Value of a Good Reputation.

There is no lesson the young business man needs to learn more thoroughly than the value of good reputation and good credit. These cannot be won and kept by false pretenses of any kind, but must be earned by a strict observance of contracts, agreements and promises. The man whose word is "as good as his bond" is the man who has inspired confidence in himself by always doing that which he has promised to do. He is also, as a rule, cautious about entering into obligations, chary about making promises that he may not be able to fulfill. If too prodigal in the latter respect one cannot hope to keep faith at all times.

A man who is or intends to be honest sometimes loses credit and reputation simply because he is too hopeful. Counting with too great confidence on uncertainties, he makes promises that he cannot fulfill because of the failure of the event on which they were predicted. He voluntarily fixes the date for the payment of a debt, and finds too late something has gone wrong, so that he cannot meet his obligation. Such an accident may happen any man. Upon the way in which he meets the unexpected trouble depends how his reputation shall stand afterwards. If he can fulfill his promise at any personal sacrifice he should do so; failing that, he should endeavor to keep his word by borrowing elsewhere, thus gaining time for the final discharge of his obligation.

But if he cannot do either he should go as soon as possible to his creditor and secure an extension by frankly telling him the state of affairs, thus renewing instead of breaking his promise. The one essential thing to do is to keep good faith, or come as near to it as possible. The worst possible course is to let time run on until his creditor begins to press him on an obligation long overdue. It is too late then for explanations or renewals. His credit is gone, his reputation is broken down. His after promises are distrusted, though they may be grudgingly accepted.

He may for years after thus shattering faith in himself pay promptly and keep his word, but there will remain the lingering feeling of distrust born of one failure to keep faith or to explain in advance the reasons why it could not be kept. An engagement of any kind should be held sacred, and thus good reputation, which is of slow growth, may be gradually built up, for he who keeps his word at all times becomes respected and is trusted. The young man cannot learn too early in life his responsibility to himself and others. He is to make his reputation by what he says and does, and at the outset should have a high regard for truth, which carries with it honesty and insures a prompt and complete fulfillments of all engagements.

He should not allow a careless habit in money matters to grow upon him. He should pay all his bills promptly. There is an implied promise to pay at the end of the month, or when the bill may be presented, even though there has been no engagement to do so made in so many words, and it is good practice to keep these implied as well as other promises with scrupulous care. Such a course will in time establish a reputation whose value cannot be measured by money, besides developing useful habits and keeping one free from oppressive and grinding debts.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Renting a Dress Suit.

"What does it cost to rent a dress suit?"

The question came from a shabby genteel young man who dropped in on a prominent costumer of Detroit.

"What do you want to use it for, sir?" queried the dealer, blandly.

"Party."

"Dancing party?"

"Yes, sir."

"For one night $3. That is the price of a full suit—trousers, coat and vest. Without the trousers I will knock off $1. Do you want a suit now, sir?"

"Want it next week."

"Well, that's lucky. All orders for this week are gone."

"Does anything go with the suit?" queried the young man, softly.

"In what way?"

"Shoes, collar, shirt, necktie?"

"No, sir."

"Can you furnish the whole complete?"

"For double the price, yes, sir; patent leathers and all for double the price."

"Diamond?"

"A large sparkler for your shirt 50 cents extra. There, that's just right, $6.50. Thank you, sir. I'll have a first class outfit ready the day you mention."

"Big trade?" queried the reporter as the customer disappeared.

"Well, rather," said the dealer, smiling. "Thirty suits let out for this same affair already. His order makes thirty one."—Detroit Free Press.

Horseshoeing in Holland.

The method of shoeing horses in Holland is a novel one. The animal is driven into a stout frame cage; the three feet on the ground are hobbled so that no kicking can be indulged in, then the foot that is to be shod is lifted to the desired position and lashed fast to a stout cross bar so that the smith can work at it from all sides, as though it was held in a vise on a work bench. These docile horses submit to being so bound, but an American or English horse would in most cases resist until he was ruined if so treated. The cost of an entire set of new shoes is three guilders, or $1.20. American nails were used, although the shoes were of local manufacture.—Detroit News.

His Fortune's Foundation.

Marshall Jewell, of Connecticut, made a good portion of his great fortune while minister to Russia. The story runs that he bribed a servant to give him the secret of the manufacture of Russia leather. With it he returned to America and became a wealthy man by making Russia leather in America.—Exchange.

Two Women and a Telegram.

One was perhaps 25, the other a little younger. They were pretty and were stylishly dressed. A carriage stood at the Fourteenth street entrance of Willard's hotel awaiting their pleasure. It could not be supposed that they were in very distressful financial straits.

They sat at a table in the reception room of Willard's, devising, concocting and instituting a telegraphic message to send to some friend. The elder one did the writing and scratching and rewriting, which used up six or seven Western Union blanks. The younger one leaned closely over the scrivener and furnished suggestions at just the right time to make the scrivener tear up blanks.

"We will be there to-morrow."

That is what they wanted to say. That was what they did say in the very first writing.

"But," said the younger, "if we say we are coming home, we shall both have to sign it."

"Carrie and I will be there to-morrow."

That was the result of much mental effort spent in composing and much physical exertion spent in erasing.

"I guess that will do," said the younger, and the two seemed to breathe with that freedom which tells of great responsibilities unshouldered.

"Hold on," said the other, at the door.

"What?" asked the other.

"'Carrie and I will be there to-morrow.' One, two, three, four, five, six, seven—only seven words."

"Well?"

"Why, we have to pay as much for seven words as we do for ten."

Here was more difficulty. It would never do to pay for ten words, and send only seven. That would be a reckless and a wicked waste. They proposed many ways to lengthen it, but each time they talked off a new message on their fingers they found they had either too few or too many words.

"Pshaw!" said the younger one, "why didn't I think of it before? I have it."

"Have you? Have you?"

"Why, of course. Leave it just as it is, and add 'Yours, very truly.'"

If the young lady had had an inspiration she could not have looked prouder of it; and as for the older one, she simply looked on the sweet face before her as that of a wonderful being.

"Carrie and I will be there to-morrow. Yours, very truly," was the message that went through some operator's hands yesterday afternoon.—Washington Critic.

Origin of the Mathematical Signs.

The sign of addition is derived from the initial letter of the word "plus." In making the capital letter it was made more and more carelessly until the top part of the p was placed near the center, hence the plus sign was finally reached.

The sign of subtraction was derived from the word "minus." The word was first contracted to m n s, with a horizontal line above to indicate the contraction, then at last the letters were omitted altogether, leaving the short line —.

The multiplication sign was obtained by changing the plus sign into the letter X. This was done because multiplication is but a shorter form of addition.

Division was formerly indicated by placing the dividend above the horizontal line and the divisor below. In order to save space in printing the dividend was placed to the left and the divisor to the right, with a simple dot in place of each. The radical sign was derived from the initial letter of the word "radix."

The sign of equality was first used in 1557 by a sharp mathematician, who substituted it to avoid repeating "equal to."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

He Inspected the Hat.

When Chicago's Apollo commandery of Knights Templar went on a trip to Europe, Judge Bradwell was an honored member of the party. Now wherever Judge Bradwell goes he is bound to inspect everything that is to be seen. In London the lord mayor gave a dinner to the commandery, with all the pomp and ceremony of such an affair. Judge Bradwell had a front seat, and, mayhap, a tab on this red letter occasion. The lord mayor's herald, who officiated at the banquet, wore a wig, upon the top of which was perched a small three cornered cocked hat, boy's size, and the report fled around the table that this hat was 200 years old. It certainly looked it. When the report reached Judge Bradwell he thought he must see the hat, so he asked the herald to hand it over. That dignitary straightened himself up and addressed the lord mayor as follows: "Me lord, the gentleman from Chicago wishes to see the 'at." The lord mayor solemnly arose, and with a grand wave of his hand, said: "E may." Then the judge carefully inspected the 200-year-old headpiece, or "'at."—Chicago Herald.

A Tiger Story.

An English officer climbed along the trunk of a tree which slanted over a pond, and from the end of it fired at a tiger. He wounded the beast severely, but not so as to prevent it from climbing into the tree, and walking toward the hunter. To escape he jumped into the pond; the tiger jumped in after him, pulled him to the shore, laid down on him and began munching at the arm which the man had put up to protect his face. Presently the pain of the wound and the loss of blood caused the tiger to leave the sportsman, and retire a little way into the jungle. The hunter had presence of mind to roll gently back into the water, where he was rescued by some men who happened that way.—Youth's Companion.

Provincial Exhibit Association of British Columbia.

The benefits which have been derived for the last two years through the results of the industries and the products of the land being exhibited in the east, should encourage people to send in samples of all kinds, especially as through the hard work of the Provincial Exhibit Association so little trouble or expense is entailed. The following notices will prove of help in directing those who intend forwarding samples:

All entries to be communicated to the secretary in writing on or before Monday, August 15th, 1890.

2. Entries intended to compete for prizes must be made separately.

3. Exhibits to be delivered in Vancouver on or before Wednesday, August 27th, with the exception of such as are of a perishable nature, which will be received till Monday, September 1st.

4. Mineral and lumber samples or wood manufactures to be delivered at Vancouver on or before Thursday, August 18th.

5. Wheat, oats, barley and other cereals must be shown in quantities of not less than ten pounds in bags. Flour etc., in bags not less than 50 pounds. Malt in quantities of not less that ten pounds in bags, and field roots, such as potatoes, turnips, carrots, mangolds, sugar beets, etc., in quantities of not less than 25 pounds each.

6. Cereals should be sent in sheaves also as in that shape they may be used in decorating the court. The ears ought to be wrapped in calico not in paper for better protection in transport, and cased.

7. Spring produce and fruit generally ought to be preserved which can easily be done if the specimens chosen are put into glass jars filled with Salicylic acid and alcohol. Formula: Salicylic acid two parts, glycerine five parts, alcohol pure twenty parts, water 1,000 parts, and hermetically sealed. Care should be taken not to let the state of maturity of fruits and vegetables advance too much before bottling.

8. Should the exhibitor find difficulty in undertaking the bottling and preserving personally, let him forward the exhibits to Vancouver and they will be attended to, but in this case allowance should be made in choosing the specimens for the time of transport to Vancouver, so that they do not arrive in too ripe a state.

9. It is especially requested that exhibitors send all the specimens in duplicate, so that exhibits can be sent to the three exhibitions in Toronto, London, Ont., and St. John, N.B.

10. All exhibits, if addressed to D. Oppenheimer, Vancouver, B.C., "Toronto exhibits," will be conveyed free of charge by the railway, steamboat, express or other transport companies.

11. Exhibitors desirous of further information should communicate with the secretary, W. D. Bardin, City Hall, Vancouver.

Once again we have occasion to call the attention of the authorities to the fact that a morgue is one of the institutions of which the city is badly in need. It is scarcely worth while mentioning with what ease we have reference to the idea of the body of a christian gentleman being allowed to be exposed and placed in the shed in a manner in which the body of Brother Wolf was yesterday, in a civilized community.
