STRAINED RELATIONS

THE PORTUGUESE PROBLEM STILL REMAINS UNSOLVED.

Efforts of the Portuguese to Preserve Good Government are Seriously Embarrassed and Many Difficulties are Anticipated Between England and that Country—Emperors at Sport—Religious Remonstrances—The Polish Predicament—Topics.

LONDON, October 11.—Advices from Portugal are of the utmost gravity. A revolution that would overthrow the house of Braganza may break out at any moment, and chances would be very much in favor of its success. The young King Carlos is in a predicament from which war with England might be a happy deliverance. Feeling in the nation is almost as intense against the reigning power as it is against the English and the invalid and inexperienced young monarch is held up to obloquy as a facile tool. To defy England on the one hand means the loss of all that remains of Portugal and complete humiliation of that country to comply with England's demands and the probable, if not certain, overthrow of the monarchy. Later information shows that recent disturbances in Lisbon were much more serious than at the time reported, both as to the extent of the demonstrations and force required to suppress them. But those demonstrations also revealed the grave fact that neither the army nor the police in the event of an attempt to overthrow the Government. Republican feeling in Portugal is very strong, especially since the revolution in Brazil, with which Portugal has always been intimately associated in sentiment as well as in origin. The present Government of France is decidedly hostile to King Carlos because of the fact that his wife is a daughter of the Comte de Paris, pretender to the throne of France, and who would not be at all averse to seeing the House of Orleans weakened by the expulsion of Queen Emilie and her husband from their kingdom. In view of Boulanger revelations concerning the plot against the republic, the French cabinet ardently considers any course justifiable that will tend to weaken their enemy. The basis of all the agitation which gives these various forces their opportunity is the wounded pride of the nation which once held a colonial sway not surpassed in the world and is now reduced to such a position as hardly to be noticed by the great powers.

EMPEROR'S AT SPORT.

During hunting this week in Styria the Austrian Emperor had for his guests the Emperor William, the King of Saxony and Prince Leopold, of Bavaria. The Austrian monarch chose to occupy two rooms in the shooting box at Mareseberg, which were formerly always lived in by Prince Rudolph. A touching scene is said to have occurred there. On Tuesday morning, before the German Emperor started for Berlin, he went hurriedly into the room of his imperial host and found him kneeling and bathed in tears, uttering prayers for his dead son. The German Kaiser knelt down beside the bereaved father, joining in his grief. The present Emperor of Germany was deeply attached to the late Crown Prince Rudolph, and the two young men enjoyed many a hunt together in Styria. When William arrived in Vienna his first visit was to the vault of the Capuchins where the remains of the unfortunate prince repose, a tribute which evoked deep appreciation of the Austrian sovereign. Francis Joseph keenly feels the loss of his son and the pang does not seem to abate with time. His nature, however, is not embittered but rather chastened and softened by the blow which deprived him of an heir and he evinces a fatherly and humane interest in the welfare of his subjects. Among his recent acts of charity was the personal donation of 500 florins to a poor mother who had lost three children in rapid succession from diphtheria.

RELIGIOUS REMONSTRANCES.

The Catholic congress at Saragossa this week has created a feeling of decided irritation in Italy owing to the intensity with which speakers have denounced the policy of Italy towards the Pope and have upheld the temporal power of the Pope as a fundamental need of the church. One speaker went so far as to denounce King Humbert and Signor Crispi by name and to make a painful allegation that Humbert's father, Victor Emanuel, was now in a place to which the inverted scriptures have given a new designation. Indeed, some of the more aggressive spirits talked as if they were anxious to undertake a crusade at once for the restoration of papal sovereignty over the ancient dominions of the church. All this is not palatable in Italy where unity of the kingdom is a and where any suggestion of Papal restoration is regarded as unreasonable. Of course the government of Spain, which is in no position to seek quarrels, and is not responsible for these utterances and would have prevented them if it dared, but the strong Catholics, are as a rule, strong Monarchists and Queen Christina has no desire to offend them. Italy's protest is, therefore, against wholesale assault on the Italian monarchy and has put the Spanish administration in a position of some embarrassment. It is worth noting that the declarations of prominent Catholics recently assembled in Belgium are in favor of Papal temporal power, passed without any protest on the part of Italy.

THE POLISH PREDICAMENT.

The movement to create a Polish kingdom, with the Emperor of Austria as king, is again being agitated in Austrian Poland and is seriously considered at Vienna. In the event of war with Russia such a concession to the national pride and aspirations of the Poles would be of great assistance to the Austrian cause in drawing Polish recruits and Polish sympathy to the Austrian army which object, it is said, to have been discussed between the two emperors during the recent visit and it is reported that Kaiser William was not unfavorably impressed although Prussia is also one of the beneficiaries of Poland. The destruction of Polish national sentiment has been greatly stimulated by the minister ment in Cracow of the poet Mickiewitz who voiced the feelings of the Polish heart and whose burial in his native land was attended by Poles from all parts of the world, including America, and was the only occasion within many years that Russia relaxed her iron rule and by special order of the Czar permitted the Poles to go and come at all across the frontier. Leniency in Austria's policy has made that government popular with the Poles and was loyalty which Russian harshness had alienated.

Lord Salisbury is anxious to arrange for an arbitration of the fisheries dispute before the opening of parliament. He has taken this subject up as one of the first demanding his attention upon his return from the continent.

A despatch from Rome says that storms all over the city have done immense damage and have frightfully increased the sufferings of already impoverished inhabitants of the country who are crippled by heavy taxation. There is much discontent manifested everywhere against Signor Doda, minister of finance, who has revived certain taxes which many people believed obsolete.

King Humbert's health is not good. He has, in fact, been very ill lately and caused much anxiety to his entourage. The hereditary prince also is far from well. He is very delicate but intelligent and of an amiable disposition. The Pope, despite reports to the contrary, is fairly well considering his great age.

Reinforcements have been sent to the troops in Dublin, Belfast and Cork and a company of engineers has left Aldershot for the Curragh.

THE GERMAN VIEW.

The Berlin Government instead of being brought to terms by the American law giving the President power to retaliate for exclusion or discrimination against foreign products, seriously contemplates the entire exclusion from Germany of American beef and pork on the alleged ground of protecting the health of the German people but really, it is well understood, in retaliation for the new American tariff. In any event it is certain that present restrictions will not be removed and entire prohibition is probable. There is very little truth in the statement which comes from Berlin respecting negotiations for the cession of Heligoland to Denmark. The fact is that some time ago the Danish Government conceived the idea of obtaining from Germany the cession of North Schleswig, inhabitants of which are Danish in language, in feeling and in race. By a somewhat roundabout process Denmark was to cede the West Indian island of St. Thomas to England receiving Heligoland in exchange which was to be exchanged with Prussia for the northern part of Schleswig. The English Government was not unwilling to entertain the idea but Prince Bismarck would have nothing to say to it, for he was determined not to part with an acre of territory which he had been the means of gaining for Prussia and so the scheme was dropped.

FOOD FOR REFLECTION.

Active steps are being taken to investigate in some way the evil of the system under which horses generally old and worn out are shipped from England to Holland and sold to horse meat butchers. Liverpool is the great offender in this respect. Horses are purchased from nearly every agricultural district, as well as from many large establishments in London, and the provinces, and are shipped across to Holland in hatches ranging from 50 to 100. The boats are not run exclusively for this trade and consequently some of the wretched animals are thrust into pens in the most indiscriminate fashion. The authorities are trying to detect acts which may be punished under the anti-cruelty law.

Tories are looking forward with clouded faces to the reopening of parliament next month. John Morley, whose veracity even the newspapers do not care to challenge, is preparing for a determined attack upon the Government in relation to the Tipperary outrages. Tories have vainly endeavored by every possible appeal to dissuade Morley from his purpose. They argue that he, as probable choice of the Gladstone cabinet for chief secretary of Ireland, should abstain from an active interference in Irish affairs which might subsequently embarrass him. To this the Liberals reply that if Morley is to become chief secretary he is qualifying himself for office in the best possible manner by finding out personally the real condition of the people he would be called upon to govern. In this respect he differs from Balfour, who appears to detest the idea of personal contact with the Irish and who has never taken any trouble to see the affairs of his government for himself. His latest step is stated in a recent despatch for the relief of the distress in the agricultural regions of Ireland which has been to distribute government circulars in relation to the cultivation of the potato.

BRITISH DIPLOMACY.

Lord Salisbury is busy again at the foreign office after a brief vacation. Just now he is engaged in bullying Portugal and it is stated on good authority that Admiral Seymour will shortly proceed to Lisbon to make a demonstration that will bring the angry Portuguese to terms. The British foreign office is also in a pickle in relation to the New Hebrides which Australians are endeavoring to detach from the French. Australian settlers at Villa in one of the islands have discarded the French name. They have formed a municipality on English lines and elected as their president a Swede, named Patterson. Settlers are anxious that an official representative from Australia should take up his residence among them. A combination has been formed for annexation to Australia and French authorities are deliberating whether to suppress the movement by force or to be content with an appeal to Great Britain. Germans, English and French all appear to be equally responsible for the cruel kidnapping of native people of these and other Polynesian islands, which although not stated at the time, was the real cause of the recent massacre of the crew of the Upola, a German labourer kidnapping vessel.

Charged with Forgery.

NEW YORK, October 11.—Mrs. Cornelia Fuller and Mrs. Priscilla Field were arrested this morning at the Fifth Avenue Hotel and locked up at police headquarters. This afternoon the acting British consul with an attorney appeared before United States Commissioner Shields and presented a complaint against them and made a demand for their extradition. Commissioner Shields would not permit reporters to see the complainant, but it was learned from the consul's attorney that the accused were the wives of Field and Miller, London bankers who lately failed for $500,000 and that the ladies were charged with obtaining about $150,000 of it on forged drafts. The prisoners will be taken before Judge Barrett on Monday on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by their lawyers today, and upon their case being disposed of there United States Deputy Marshall Bonhart, armed with a warrant from Commissioner Shields, will take them into custody and arrange them before the commissioner for hearing.

A SOCIAL PARADOX.

EDITOR TRUTH: SIR—In a letter I sent you on the bad order kept in Herring's opera house, I referred parenthetically to certain women that hoodlums make unseemly remarks about and hoot at, as they enter the theatre. Now, as I have been informed that these ladies are indignant because they think that my object in writing was to have them excluded altogether from places of amusement, I thought it would not be amiss to correct this impression.

I would, therefore, say to all who take any interest in the matter, that a proposal to debar any of our citizens from places of amusement, from driving in cabs, or riding in railway cars, is the last thing I should think of assenting to, for I hold that he who would deny fast women these privileges, and make no objection to fast men enjoying them, is a hypocrite, as contemptible as he is unjust.

Let no shallow-brained, sanctimonious dissemblers talk to me about reforming society, by treating a fallen women as lepers, while they receive fallen men into their families and allow them to become intimate friends of their sisters, daughters or wives. Every year, do we not see the daughters, even of the most respectable people, wooed by and wedded to men as impure in thought, speech and behavior, as the most brazen courtesan that walks our streets! And yet parents and friends of these well-bred maidens refer to such marriages as good matches!

A few months ago I read in a Provincial paper a letter touching on this matter. The writer of it, referring to a play he had gone to see in Vancouver, said as much as if everything would have been perfect if some women from Dupont Street had been excluded. While reading this hypocritical effusion, it occurred to me that if he had looked around he might have seen some smooth-faced, daintily dressed libertine, as vile as any of the dwellers on Dupont Street, sitting beside the respectable daughter of one of his fellow citizens, or perhaps beside his own daughter.

It is the shameless hypocrisy and spirit of injustice displayed in the treatment of social outcasts that make it so hard to reform them. Perhaps the best way to prove this assertion is to refer to what frequently takes place among us. Come with me to yonder church, whose stately tower rings with the mellow sound of wedding bells. The vibrant air is full of music, for it is springtime, and the birds are pouring forth in leafy grove and tower, a torrent of liquid melody. Let us enter the sacred building with a quiet step and a becoming appearance of reverence. It is a marriage in high life, and the high contracting parties are before the altar. How beautiful the bride looks, clothed upon with innocence as unspotted as the robe she wears! At her side stands the bridegroom, but from our place in the cathedral, crowded with the best and most honorable people in the land, we can scarcely catch a glimpse of his face. But we listen to and enter fully into the spirit of the marriage service, as the delicately fingered, intoning priest turns the leaves of his book, and with a voice more musical than the ripple of silvery waves on the shores of fairyland, unites two persons in holy matrimony. And now when the last amen has been chanted, and man and wife depart from the altar to sign the church register, while the divine music of Mendelssohn is falling on our ears, let us leave the house and walk down to the street corner, a few hundred yards distant. We have not had long to wait, for even now, the carriage of the bridal party is approaching. But as it passes by yonder alley, who is she that stands with brazen front and contemptuous leer, and with all the malignity of an evil spirit, invokes deep damnation on the newly married pair? It is the rejected mistress of the bridegroom. Yes! that wretched woman, so fallen, so lost, is still the true partner and the equal in virtue and honor of him who is now being whirled away to spend his honeymoon in a neighboring city. And are you in any way surprised that she looks upon his holy state of matrimony as a mockery, and utters her deepest curses against society, which treats her as a vile wretch, while it flatters and caresses her paramour?

Is it any wonder, in view of these things, that many thoughtful men should doubt the sanctity of the marriage state? Is it strange that many are asking if matrimony can scarcely last? This was the question that Count Tolstoi tried to answer, after studying the teachings of Christ on chastity. His reply to it is found in the "Kreutzer Sonata," a book that the majority of people can neither understand nor appreciate, because they are morally blind to the difficulty of the problem he tried to solve.

But to expose a great evil would be of little use, unless I pointed out some means of correcting it. It seems to me that there are only two ways to begin to reform our social life: (1) We must either hold both men and women who live fast lives as equally despicable and guilty, or, (2) as they do in Japan, we must regard dissoluteness in both as little or no disgrace. If we treat the frequenter of brothels and the seducer as gentlemen, while we pretend to look upon their female associates as the filth of the world, we show that we are neither haters of vice nor lovers of virtue, and we stand chargeable before high Heaven with the abominable sin of hypocrisy. To condone the offence of one transgressor and hold the same offence of another as unpardonable, will only induce both offenders to depart further from the path of virtue. The one will more openly assail whatever is good and pure, and the other, feeling that on her is heaped all the blame and disgrace, will lose all respect for herself and society, and plunge to the lowest depth of infamy.

The second method, I have suggested for raising society to a higher level, is in accordance with true homeopathic principles. Similia similibus curantur. To regard libertinage as not disgraceful may appear to the weak minded and unthinking as something almost criminal. If, however, we carefully examine the matter, we shall discover that it is not so bad as what we are now doing. Society has been confronted with two evils, and as it is not strong enough to reject both, it should choose the less, not the greater one, as it is now doing. At present, it is not considered a disgrace entailing social ostracism for a young man to live a dissolute life, then why should we consider it so very disgraceful for a woman to do so? The only answer to this is that we are not sincere, when we say we hate licentiousness and love virtue. We are therefore worse than the Japanese in this respect, for, while practically holding their vice, we make a profession of moral purity that our actions prove to be false.

Suppose we should give up our pretended love of virtue and treat fast women as we now treat fast men, what would be the result? Is there any reason to believe that dissolute women would not conduct themselves with the same propriety as dissolute men? Would not a return to the path of virtue promise as great a reward to the erring and be as easy to enter on that many would be found walking in it? Do you think it would then be any more wonderful to see a Magdalen in church than a licentious dude?

Perhaps this line of argument is defensible even on higher grounds. A scene, witnessed nearly 2,000 years ago in a far eastern land, rises before my mind. I see a crowd of men who propose to put a fallen woman to death; but before the pitiless stones are rained on her defenceless head, I catch a glimpse of the pale suffering face of one who understands all the secret workings of the human heart. I hear the words he speaks. They are few, but like the flashing of light, they reveal to the cruel self-righteous men about him the hidden darkness of their nature. And now, one by one, they slink away, shamed and conscience-stricken. The woman alone remains, but as the voice of Incarnate Purity bids her depart, I hear no word of condemnation.

OUR BYE-ELECTION.

By advertisement in this issue it will be seen that the writ for the bye-election for the local legislature in Westminster district necessitated by the resignation of Hon. Jonas Romios, has been issued, and will be returnable on the 20th November next. The returning officer has not yet fixed the dates of nomination and polling, but they will no doubt be announced without delay. The campaign will be over inside of five weeks.

A HINT TO FRIENDLY SOCIETIES.

The financial stability of our many excellent friendly societies is, perhaps, even more important here, than the same consideration is in the Old Country, for here happily we are unprovided with the costly and demoralizing social appurtenances of a poor law and workhouse system, and consequently far more in proportion of our people learn habits of self-reliance, by becoming members of thrift associations. It is, therefore, most necessary that the periodical contributions of the members of our friendly societies should be, on the average, sufficient to justify financially the sick and other benefits hereafter to be claimed. The ascertainment of this is a matter of elaborate mathematical computation, based upon average rates of sickness, death and longevity, and has, therefore, to be left to trained professional men, known as actuaries, part of whose business it is to verify friendly society and insurance tables. If such precaution be not taken there is risk of suddenly increased levies in the later years of a friendly society's existence, for a society's payments naturally increase greatly with its age and the consequent advance in years of older members. A society, therefore, which in early days shows a large margin above all the demands upon its funds, may at a later period find that its funds show a deficiency when more of its members are sick, old or infirm. This is now found to be the case of the largest and best managed English societies, which have consequently to make up estimated deficiencies by greatly increased levies upon present members. Everything has been right in their management, except the one matter of careful actuarial approval of their tables and contributions and benefits, and for this default the members have now to pay heavily to save their societies and their own interests. That the danger is not imaginary is shown by the present case of the Ancient Order of Foresters, England, which stands face to face with a deficiency of £2,770,000, which has gradually to be met. This seems almost impossible at first sight, but there is no doubt that the several hundred thousand members of the order will in due course by increased levies make up the deficit large as it is in respect of contributed funds which are of course very much larger. In view of this occurrence, incidents like which have in the past happened in the Dominion, it will be well for any of our societies, that may perchance not have based its tables of contributions and benefits upon the best actuarial authority to do this at once. If then the present payments of the members are not correctly fixed in view of future risks, things may be speedily set right, whilst error is small and remedy easy.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Victoria Times thinks that Nanaimo ought to have the suggested dry dock rather than Esquimalt. The Colonist thinks otherwise. The Nanaimo people, might, says that paper, very well make a dry dock for their coal trade at their own expense, but the Dominion Government's aid must be given to one at Esquimalt. However, the very costly proposed dry dock in dispute is very far from being begun yet, and meanwhile Victoria, Nanaimo and Vancouver will have ample further opportunity—perhaps a year or two at least—to discuss the subject at leisure.

The price of wheat has lately risen greatly in the English market. This will be good news, not only to the struggling southern English farmer, but also to the vast wheat producers of our own northwest, who will thus get good prices for their crops. The rise in wheat prices is, probably, in part due to the failure of the harvest in certain of the western states of America, and in part due also to loss of crops through inundations and bad weather in certain parts of continental Europe, thus necessitating a larger demand than usual for imported wheat.

The widely comprehensive unity of our empire has lately been curiously illustrated by the conferment of an English baronetcy on a Parsee Indian, Sir Dinshaw Manekjee Petit, of Bombay, whose successor in the title is curiously enough to be his second son, the eldest being for some reason, passed over in the patent creating the title.

Pleuro-pneumonia is happily unknown in this Province, but it has appeared in Bechuanaland, a territory in British south Africa. In England cattle so infected are shot, but in south Africa they cure many of them and save others by the PASTEUR process of inoculation, the modus operandi of which is stated to be as follows: "Take the lung out of a dead bullock that was diseased, steep cotton rag in the virus round the lung, and then, with a packing needle, pierce the tail about four inches from the brush, pulling the cotton through and tie, and it acts in the same way as vaccination in children. It involves a lot of work and watching. If a beast has once had the disease you can inoculate it, and it does not take it again, thus proving that beasts so treated are secure from the disease." A cure adopted by the agent of the Duke of Richmond at Gordon Palace, Scotland, is to make the diseased animal inhale paraffin oil soaked into a large sponge.

Some English clergymen, whose lives are spent placidly and healthfully in pleasant country districts, attain to a great age. A contributor to the Pall Mall Gazette states that the oldest English clergyman is now the Rev. JOSEPH HUDSON, M.A., vicar of Chillingham, Northumberland. He will on the 5th of January begin his 99th year. He still reads the prayers and occasionally also preaches in his church and is actually able to read the lessons without the use of glasses. Some English ladies, whose lives are free from pecuniary cares, also attain to a great age. Thus Mrs. THRING, of Alford, Somersetshire, the mother of Lord THRING, celebrated on the 17th of last month her hundredth birthday. She was, it is said, pleasantly conscious of all the festivities in her honor.

Mr. MUNN, M. P. for one of the divisions of Warwickshire, England, and an authority on agriculture, thinks that British farming has at last turned the corner, and has in prospect a brighter future. He advises English agriculturists to turn their attention to breeding the best stock, which will at very profitable rates abroad and in the colonies. British Columbia gives evidence of this, for our leading farmers are now paying large prices for choice stock imported from Great Britain and the United States.

The Presbyterians of the United States are now like their brethren in Scotland, discussing the proposed revision of the articles of their creed, contained in the old Westminster confession of Faith. The confession's tenets are, it seems, in some points repudiated by, and regarded as inaccurate by many of the Presbyterian churches. Nor, is this surprising, for some of the tenets of the confession are held by no other Christian church. Especial effort is being made either to modify greatly or reject a section of article 3 of the confession which at present reads as follows: "By decree of God some men and angels are predestinated unto everlasting life, and others foreordained to everlasting death." It is, of course, the latter doxastory utterance to which most objection is taken. Another clause, which the Committee of Revision now sitting at Pittsburg is asked by many scientific Presbyterians to eliminate, is the one asserting that the earth was created in six days. The opinion that now generally prevails, and is absolutely universal in Christian scientific circles, is that the six days referred to in the account of creation given in Genesis refer to six successive lengthy periods of time. The word day being figuratively used. One strong argument in support of this view, taken from the Bible account itself, is the fact that a day of creation is mentioned before the sun, the measurer of days is stated to have been created. No doubt several important changes in the Presbyterian confession of Faith will result from the conferences and discussions which are now taking place.

TO THE ELECTORS OF Westminster Electoral Dis't.

Gentlemen,

I take this method of informing you that I have resigned my seat as one of your representatives in the Legislative Assembly.

Experience has convinced me that to do full justice to so large and important a constituency involves more work than is compatible with my other official duties and the state of my health.

In thus severing my official connection with you, I desire to thank you for the confidence placed in me in having always returned me at the head of the poll, and to assure you that, although retiring for another constituency, I shall continue to take a warm interest in your district, and hope to be able to cooperate with your representatives in promoting its prosperity.

Faithfully yours,

always catch the most fish.

Always fish in muddy water. Turtles and small "cattles" are sure to bite at this time.

When fly fishing carry in your hat no more than one dozen flies. This is always a mark of being an experienced angler.

Never use a net when using a fly pole. When a bass is hooked attempt to haul him out as though he were a small sunfish. If you use a net you might possibly catch him and destroy the tale of the big one you hooked, but which escaped.

Fish with a pole as thick as a man's arm, use a mason's cord, the largest hook manufactured and tie a ten pound weight at the end of the line. The weight makes a big "splash" when cast into the water and may attract the attention of the bass.

For good fishing always select a place "miles" away from the creek, and another near the creek. Fish right bite your line firmly. Fish might bite the bait and destroy it if it were submerged in the Brandywine.

Never go "fishin'."—West Chester Times.

A New Occupation.

The latest occupation open to women is that of lamp carer. I don't know if that's what the ladies who take care of lamps call themselves, but that's what they really are. There are two in the city now, or there will be two during the winter. They are "reduced gentlewomen," and each morning they visit a number of houses and clean, fill and care for the various fine lamps set before them. The average servant can do nothing with a lamp but spoil it; but these women do their aprons and rubber gloves, clean the outside and inside of the globes, see that the wicks are in good order, fill the lamps and leave them so that even the stupidest servant cannot prevent them from burning well.

They have studied lamps, know the various kinds and sizes of wicks, know whether colza oil is needed in one kind of lamp and "starlight" in another, and altogether they take away from the owners a great deal of the care which the management of the rediscovered and much multiplied lamps brings upon them.—Chatter.

Dutch Training at Sea.

When the Prins Frederik collided with the English ship Marpessa on June 23 the commander of a detachment of Dutch marine forces which happened to be on board immediately ordered the assembly sounded, and the men fell in on the deck in clockwork in the face of certain loss of the ship. Their conduct was an invaluable example to the passengers and crew, for, although the entire company were then transferred to the boats with perfect quiet and dispatch, the Prins Frederik went down as the last boat left her side. She carried with her six Dutch privates and an officer, who doubtless had been overwhelmed by the waters rushing in at the point of collision.—Chicago Herald.

The Red Cross Society.

Senator Sherman has introduced in the senate a bill to incorporate the Red Cross society, with Clara Barton, George Kennan and other well known persons as incorporators. The purpose of this society, briefly stated, is to mitigate distress in the emergencies of war and peace. This mission of humanity and charity has been amply justified on many occasions, and mothers more than once in the appalling calamity at Chagrin, in this state. Valuable as the Red Cross society has proven in the past as a volunteer auxiliary of the government departments its future in an incorporated form should show an increased measure of usefulness.—Philadelphia Record.

Killed by a Performing Leopard.

At the palace of Bangkok the other day a performing leopard was brought in for the amusement of one of the wives of the Siamese princes. In one prince's palace was a young girl of about 14 years of age. The leopard jumped on the young girl's bosom. It was merely in play, said the animal's care taker, who begged her not to be frightened, but in another moment the leopard had seized the girl by the throat, and she died in sight of the horrified spectators, who fled in panic.—London News.

The mayor of Newport, Mont., declared some new baths open. He then stripped, and throwing aside his robes of office appeared before the large gathering of ladies and gentlemen in a bathing suit. Plunging into the water he swam the full length of the bath, and his example was followed by several town councilors and policemen.

A family by the name of Moore, living six miles west of Columbus, Ind., has a proud and distinguishing family mark running through three generations. At a reunion held recently it was learned that out of twenty-seven persons, who represented the three generations, nine had six toes on each foot.

Charles Fisher, the veteran actor, has retired from the stage, and has gone down to his birthplace in Suffolk, England, to end his days. He is 78 years of age. He played in "As You Like It" for the last time in London, his part being that of Touchstone.

A Nuisance's Bone Found.

A big bone was unearthed by workmen in excavating for the east channel span of the new bridge being constructed by the Wheeling Bridge company. The bone was found thoroughly imbedded in the clay at the bottom of the excavation, fifteen feet deep and fully eight feet below the depth of the river. The excavation is but a short distance from the river, and is soil that had probably been undisturbed for ages. The piece of bone, which is apparently not complete by some two or three feet in length, is fully 21 inches in diameter at its greatest girth, a foot through at the more narrow parts and about 2½ feet long.—Wheeling (W. bating their clothes on a hickory limb, but don't go near the water, is daily on the increase, and during a walk along the beach at Atlantic City one can readily pick out hundreds of young girls and even mature dames arrayed in the most attractive and costly bathing robes who don't even wet their dainty feet in the surf, but prefer to gayly trip in groups along the strand or gracefully recline on the warm sands.

They, as a rule, wear collars and cuffs, jaunty little caps, neat slippers, and are invariably tight laced. They are as careful of details in donning this beach costume as if they were dressing for a ball, and certainly appear far more captivating. These fair and frolicsome visitors are known as exhibition bathers, but they don't bathe.

A new fad among this particular class is to go carriage riding in their brief attire, and it is a familiar sight on the avenues daily to see a bevy of pretty girls clad in handsome surf costumes urging along a weary beach steed, and evidently enjoying this diversion.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

Names That Overcame a Hotel Clerk.

Among the many thousands of proper names annually written, more or less legibly—usually less—upon the register of a hotel like the Grand Pacific, pretty much every known combination of letters is found. Hotel clerks become hardened, and greet Mr. Buck and Mr. Chuck and Mr. Duck with equal affability. But Paul Gores, of the Grand Pacific, ran up against a combination the other day that laid him out.

The two Japanese produce and stock exchange commissioners who are stopping there walked up to the desk and asked if any one had called on them during their brief absence. They had registered before Gores came on duty and he did not know them.

"Let's see; what's the name?" he asked briskly.

"Oh, go way," said one.

"Oh, no," remarked the other.

Gores was dazed until he discovered that the gentlemen's names were Ogowa and Ono.—Chicago Tribune.

Electric Cars to Brooklyn.

One of the features of Brooklyn life among people to whom the expenditure of small sums is a matter of jealous interest is a trip on the new electric car which has been put on a road that runs to Fort Hamilton. There is an odd mixture of heavy browed scientific men and picnic parties on the car during the morning runs. The scientific men talk electricity until the air is blue, and the excursionists eat peanuts and wonder what makes the car go. Not infrequently crowds of heavy financiers from New York are to be found creeping up and down on the car, observing its work with beetled brows. One of the engineers, in speaking of it the other day, said that he had been questioned so much about electricity that he had come to the conclusion that very few people knew anything about it.—New York Sun.

He Lost His Nose for an Hour.

On Wednesday morning, at the Kincaid Manufacturing company's mill near this city, Charlie Ballard, a son of Riley Ballard, had the misfortune to have his nose entirely severed from his face by a fast running belt which had slipped off from a pulley, and the edge striking him on the side of the nose cut entirely through. Dr. J. M. Kelley was summoned to the wounded man's relief as soon as possible and he responded at once.

When he reached the place, which is about a mile out, and had seen the injured man he inquired for the nose, which it seems no one in the excitement caused by the accident had thought of. A search was made for the missing member, and it was found in a pile of trash on the floor where it had fallen, was taken and washed in hot water until it became warm and was put back in place, the wound properly dressed, and when done hardly showed that it had ever been severed from the face and is likely to get well. The space of time between the accident and that of placing back the severed member was about an hour.—Griffin (Ga.) News.

A Journey Lasting Nearly Two Years.

In Sanitor an interesting traveler on foot arrived recently. He was a peasant, Nikolay Antukin by name, and over 70 years of age. He had been a serf, and in 1852 his master had accused him of theft, and had caused him to be exiled to Okhotsk, in Eastern Siberia. As the crime of which he had been accused could not be established he was sent off as a "free exile"—that is, he was not kept a prisoner or bound to penal service in the place of his destination. For thirty-eight years he worked in Okhotsk as a tanner, and saved money. Having attained his seventieth year he conceived a desire to return to his native land, and, as he said, "to put away his little bones among his own people when his time is up in this world." But he was still hale and hearty, and traveled all the way from Okhotsk on foot. He was on the road twenty-two months, and had many a narrow escape from encounters with bears and wolves. At his old home he has a large family of children and grandchildren awaiting him with open arms.—St. Petersburg Letter.

So there are $4,500,000 of us! Superintendent Porter thinks that the census of 1890 will give the United States about those population figures. There is no cause for complaint. This gives us nearly 16,000,000 more than we had ten years ago. No country can show greater advances in wealth and population in the past decade.

A remarkable invention has been made in Austria whereby the serious effects of railway collisions are prevented. Glass tubes project before the train, and if they are broken by an obstacle an electric movement is applied to the brakes, bringing the train immediately to a standstill.

The Siberian University.

The medical faculty of the new university of Tomsk (western Siberia) is being rapidly organized. Eight chairs have recently been filled up, Professor Allbitski having been appointed to that of general pathology, Professor Winogradow to that of pathological anatomy, Professor Saudakow to that of hygiene, Professors Kozlow and Kortunow to those of special pathology and therapeutics and internal medicine, and Professor Rogowitsch and Dr. Salistchew to that of surgery. The chair of pharmacology, which was offered to Dr. Pawlow, is still vacant, owing to that gentleman having accepted a similar appointment at Warsaw. The erection of the various clinics is being proceeded with, and it is hoped they will be ready for the reception of patients about the beginning of next year.—Chicago Herald.

Using Rabbit Trap.

Illinois proudly comes to the front for a high place in the world of invention. Its inventor is Mr. Funk, a farmer at Heyworth. This invention is a rabbit trap. Mr. Funk is a competitor for the prize of $125,000 offered by the Australian government for a device that will rid Australia of the terrible rabbit pest which threatens to destroy its agriculture. Various things have been tried without success. The M. Pasteur plan of inoculating the rabbits with a deadly disease was the most promising of these, but this was also a failure. Funk's trap dumps the rabbits into a pit by means of a platform swung on pivots below a bait suspended above it. He has just been informed that the parliamentary committee on rabbits regards it with favor, and has been asked to come to Australia to look after it.—Exchange.

A Mosquito Killer.

Lighthouse Point has for years been infested by mosquitoes, but this year it is said that these insects are harder to find there than picnic gatherings. The reason is that a bug of bigger growth has come along and completely destroyed the mosquito plague. This bug is known by the name of devil's fly, darning needle or spindle bug. It has a long red body and long, tapering, gauze wings. They are regarded as a great boon, as they eat every mosquito that comes along.—New Haven Register.

An Emblem of War.

Jenks—Singular that the peaceful, mild eyed seal should cause so much trouble between Uncle Sam and John Bull.

Jinks—Peaceful nothing! Mild eyed, fiddlesticks! Mars was nowhere compared to a seal as an element of war. First, civil war in my family about sealskin sacques; now, a threatened war between two nations. Glad when the last seal is dead.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Irrepressible Boys.

An attempt was made at Belfast the night before the Fourth to prevent the small boys from making the night hideous with the ringing of bells. Notwithstanding the vigilance of five policemen, one of whom was stationed at each church, the boys succeeded in entering one belfry by the lightning rod. The police force might just as well have attempted to stop the sun from rising.—Maine Letter.

Butterflies in the Snow.

D. L. Mann, of Sugar Pine, one of our practical woodsmen, was in town last week. He reports that millions of butterflies are in the snow belt of the Sierras this year. He says that in riding through the snow clouds of them were seen by him. They were so troublesome that his horse would snort and shake his head to keep them out of his nostrils.—Tuolumne Independent.

Indigo for Bee Stings.

I saw that a lady in Jersey City has died from blood poisoning from a bee sting. Had she gone into the nearest laundry and rubbed the part affected with a blue bag she would be now alive and well of the sting. It is an effectual remedy. I know several cases where indigo applied in that simple manner never failed to cure.—Cor. New York World.

Why Burmah Was Taken.

An extraordinary case is now pending at Mandalay. Two foresters seek to bring a pauper suit to revive, for their own benefit and that of other foresters, a judgment of the Hlootdaw or council of Burmese ministers, pronounced in 1885, fining the Bombay and Burmah Trading corporation nearly two million and a half of rupees for the benefit of the king. The government of India considered the action of the Hlootdaw such a gross violation of justice that it was the immediate cause of the invasion and annexation of upper Burmah.—Cor. London Times.

Cancellation of Reserve

NOTICE is hereby given that the reserve which was placed upon Crown lands which are situated in the valley of the stream flowing into Pitt Lake at its northern end, notice of which was published in the British Columbia Gazette and dated the 22nd July, 1890, has been cancelled, and the lands will be open to pre-emption three months from this date.

NOTICE.

HIS HONOUR the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following Rules of Court:—

1. There shall be a vacation in the Supreme Court from the 15th day of August to the 24th day of October, 1890, both days inclusive, during which vacation no pleading shall be delivered or cause tried.

2. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the delivery of pleadings, or trial of causes triable, or proposed to be tried, elsewhere than at Victoria, New Westminster or Nanaimo.

3. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with trials in vacation, when such trials have been fixed before the commencement of the vacation, nor with any trial the hearing where of has been begun before the commencement of an intervening vacation, nor with the delivery of any judgment where such matter has been argued before the commencement of the vacation, nor with the taxation of costs and the signing of judgments.

4. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with applications for judgments under Rule 1 of the Supreme Court Rules, 1888.

5. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the sitting of the Full Court, nor with the right of appeal to the Divisional Court from any interlocutory order, or the refusal of any interlocutory order.

6. These rules may be cited as the "Long Vacation Rules, 1890."

Weather Report.

Captain Peele has kindly furnished us with the following meteorological observations taken yesterday: Thermometer—max. 60, min., 36. Barometer, 29.86. Indications doubtful.

The West Indian.

Another ship, the West Indian, will soon leave Liverpool direct for Westminster, Vancouver and Victoria, with freight consigned to Baker Bros. & Co. and Chipman, Morgan & Co., both of which firms have agencies here. It is to be hoped that the merchants of this city will afford every inducement for ships to come to the city, and appreciate the efforts of the firms to induce them to come here.

The Tennis Tournament.

Yesterday the tournament of the tennis club was brought to a termination by Dr. Walker and Mr. Coulthard, both of whom have undergone the terrible ordeal of playing off with nearly all the experts in the club. After four splendid sets Mr. Coulthard who owed 30, beat his opponent, the score being, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, thus winning the championship of the club, a distinction he has held for two years.

Incipient Fire.

A fire occurred yesterday afternoon in a cottage on Douglas Street, between Cameron and Agnes Streets, owned by Sir Matthew Begbie and occupied by Mr. Charles Wharton, which did not amount to a great deal, owing to the timely arrival of the firemen. The stovepipe in the kitchen had become clogged with soot and grown hot and set fire to the woodwork surrounding.

Honoring the Boys.

A dinner will be given some time next week by a number of gentlemen in the city to the lacrosse club, in honor of the team that now rank for the season champions of British Columbia. Westminster is proud of her lacrosse team, and well she might be, for a finer lot of young men there could not possibly be, (so the girls say). The dinner will be given in the Hotel Douglas and about 40 in all will sit down.

Miss Kate Coming.

At a special meeting of the Caledonian and St. Andrew's Society held last evening in Mr. Bonson's office a proposition from Miss Kate, the well known elocutionist, who is now in Calgary working her way to the Coast, to appear in this city under the society's auspices, was discussed. After due consideration it was decided to make the engagement, so that some time near the end of the present month our citizens will have an opportunity of hearing this talented lady.

Hotel Arrivals.

At the Columbia: Hon. E. W. Spalding, S. H. Brown, J. S. Hughes, W. J. Pace, J. W. Weir, S. L. Faxon, H. J. Scott, Vancouver; Mrs. Mahilliveray, and child, Sumas; Thomas Allen, Victoria; William Jones, Cedar Hill; E. A. F. Wade, Surrey Centre; D. W. Sutherland, Mount Lehman; J. H. McCoach, Montreal; J. T. Wilkinson, Chilliwack; Cranston, Kerrow; Mrs Montpelier, Richmond.

At the Dawson House: H. B. Lougee, J. Belrose, A. Machiel, Vancouver; Thomas Rosedi, Mastchin; J. Edwards, Chilliwack; L. E. Sawyer, Port Moody.

Lake Bridge and Road.

As will be seen from an advertisement in another column tenders are being called for the construction of the road from the north end of Lake Island to the Main Trunk road, in the municipality of Richmond, by Mr. Stoss, the engineer, who has been given charge of the work by Mr. Mahilliveray who has made the agreement with this city. Tenders are to be in at once, and the work will be proceeded with next week. The bridge from the island connecting with the city will not be commenced until next spring or as soon as the roadway is completed. There may or there may not be a few pieces of Sawing in the river this winter and Mr. Mahilliveray has decided to build the bridge during the spring.

The Bridge Survey.

Mr. C. A. Stoss, C. E., who was engaged by the City Council to take soundings and borings for the purpose of giving information concerning the condition of the bed of the Fraser opposite this city, for the purpose of building a bridge, has just completed his work, which has been carried on in a thorough manner. Mr. Stoss says that an excellent foundation for a bridge can be obtained at almost any point along the water front to the opposite side of the river. The hard pan on this side is reached after going down ten feet, while on the shallow part on the other side, a depth of 30 to 50 feet has to be reached. There are about four different plans (all of which will provide for a good Bridge) to be submitted to the Council, and as soon as these are made out the report of Mr. Stoss will be handed in for consideration.

The Beaver Rock Blast.

Those who chanced to be in the neighborhood of the water front at about 5 o'clock last evening, says the Victoria Colonist, were afforded an opportunity of witnessing a very pretty sight. For several weeks past Government crews have been making preparations for the blasting out of Beaver rock, in the inner harbor, and at the hour mentioned their labors were completed, and the long looked for explosion occurred. Unfortunately no notice had been given, and consequently only a few casual spectators were on hand. The force of the explosion shook the wharves and the buildings from the custom house to Turner, Beeton & Co.'s, and a column of water and heavy pieces of rock rose in the form of a truncated column about ten feet in diameter, to a height of about 60 feet. It is thought that the blast was thoroughly successful—it was in one way, for the terrible concussion caused the death of a multitude of fish, some large and some small, which were to be seen floating on the surface as soon as the water had again become tranquil. The more tiresome work of picking out the rocks broken by the blast will now be commenced.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The Batavia departed from Japan yesterday afternoon.

Do you know Wright Bros. is the best place to buy fruit, fish and game.

Ladies' Morning Wrappers and Tea Gowns just received at the Globe House.

The Brunette Sawmill Company has just received from Toronto a new shingle-mill outfit.

A commodious church has been erected in the West End for the Reformed Episcopal congregation.

The seal hunters of Victoria have decided on a rate of $3 per skin from their employers next season.

Fresh Halibut, Trout, and Eastern Oysters received daily at Wright Bro's. Telephone 146.

The owners of the Royal City cigar store on West Columbia Street have placed a wooden Arab opposite their store.

Thorne Road is now in a splendid condition for driving, but some parts of it will be in a very muddy condition during the wet weather.

A number of Westminster people went over to Vancouver yesterday afternoon for the purpose of attending the dance given there last night.

Capt. James Anderson, of Gloucester, Mass., is in the Province endeavoring to organize a company to carry on deep sea fishing—for halibut, cod, etc.

Wanted—By November 1st, a large, comfortably furnished bedroom for two guests. State terms and position to M. P., box 70, postoffice, New Westminster.

City Surveyor Cotton's new residence on Montreal Street and Park Lane is in a beautiful situation, and the view obtained from it on a clear day cannot be excelled.

Spectacles—Only once a year is N. W. visited by Lauzanne, the celebrated optician; don't forget the dates, 15th and 16th inst., at D. S. Curtis & Co.'s drug store.

Keeper Lathom, of Queen's Park, has engaged a force of men, who have commenced work on the new conservatory. It is being built to the west and a little behind the exhibition building.

The electric railway between Victoria and Esquimalt has been completed and one passenger car ran over it, but the formal opening will not take place till December, when the new power works will be running.

B. Lauzanne, optician, will be at D. S. Curtis & Co.'s drug store Wednesday and Thursday, 15th and 16th inst., when he will be glad to attend anyone requiring the services of a first-class operator.

The steamer Irving came down from Hope and way ports last night bringing 25 passengers and 150 head of cattle for Cameron & Ellis, of Okanagan. She also brought a large amount of farm produce.

The land on which will be situated the reservoir for the water works is situated a few yards from Thorne Road behind the penitentiary. It is the most elevated position of the city and commands a splendid view of the surrounding country.

On Thursday afternoon a young man named William Burt, of Johnson's Landing, accidentally discharged a gun, the contents passing through and shattering the bones of one of his feet. A doctor was immediately summoned and the injured member dressed.

If your sight is bad out on E. Lauzanne at D. S. Curtis & Co.'s drug store, the 15th and 16th inst., when you can be properly fitted with the glasses. No charge for testing.

One man, one gamey is just large enough for a sportsman. It is bad form to bring home more than one good gamey in one day. In Lake Island, just outside the city limits, a party of sportsmen shot three gameys, a hen, and a duck in one day's working, exercise about the woods.

The prolonged absence of Alf Costello of Vancouver, who has gone north in a small sailing boat on a pleasure trip, gave rise to the rumor that he had been drowned by being caught in the late gale. He has returned in safety, however, and is now receiving the congratulations of his friends on having escaped a watery grave. When the gale came on he smartly made for shore and camped there.

Alexander Halbert, a brother of the proprietor of the Brunswick Hotel, Victoria, was drowned a few days ago. The deceased left about one week ago with a survey party who were to locate and block out lands on the West Coast. Nootsat Sound was reached, and Alex. Halbert climbed to the top of a commanding cliff to obtain a better view of the country. The edge broke and he was precipitated into the waters of the Sound.

The Seattle police on Monday evening last raided a Chinese opium smoking and gambling room. They captured fourteen Celestials, most of whom were gambling, and one white man opium smoking. The police got in, not altogether inappropriately, from a window in the Salvation Army barracks, the adjoining premises to the gambling den. There is a good deal of open gambling amongst the Chinamen of New Westminster that might with advantage be suppressed.

There recently arrived in Montreal from British Columbia, via the C.P.R., three large slabs of timber, which created a great deal of admiration, being the finest specimens of timber ever shipped from the Pacific Province to that city. The slabs are of Douglas fir, measuring three feet square and are 60 feet long, being knotless, and together weigh about 20,000 pounds. The trees from which they came averaged from five and a half to six feet in diameter. They were purchased by the Harbor Board for dredging purposes.

A coal company has just been organized in Victoria to engage in the coaling business. Crane, McGregor & Boggs have been the promoters, and the matter is now so far advanced that the completion of the details, the erection of a building and the beginning of work is assured. A practical man of many years experience in the coaling business in Nova Scotia, will be engaged to superintend the business, and it is probable that a member of the firm of Crane, McGregor & Boggs will take a trip to the east to make full investigation in behalf of the company.

Football.

This afternoon there will be a football match on Queen's Park, between teams selected by the captain and vice-captain respectively. It is to be hoped that all may turn out, for they are really in need of practice. The following are the teams:

PERSONALS.

Prominent People Paragraphed by a Pungent Pen.

Mrs. D. Robson has returned from a summer's visit to friends in Ontario.

Collector of Taxes Fagan was a passenger by the Irving from Harrison last evening.

Mr. J. T. Wilkinson, the hustling Chilliwack merchant, came down by the Irving last night.

Mr. John Leberry and wife, of Blaine, Wash., came over yesterday and are guests at the Queen's Hotel.

Mr. J. H. McCoach, a Montreal commercial man arrived in the city yesterday.

Mrs. McMillivray, of Sumas, arrived in the city yesterday.

Mr. W. J. Pace was in the city on business yesterday, and returned home by the afternoon train.

Judge Harrison, of Nanaimo, is in the city, a guest at the Hotel Douglas, having come over from Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tolmie went over to Victoria yesterday on a short visit.

Mr. Claude E. Weber, a fish merchant of Blaine, Wash., came over yesterday and is guest at the Hotel Douglas.

Mr. K. F. Carveth, of Keremeos, the well known stock raiser, came down by the Irving last evening.

Mr. N. C. Schou has recently received and refused by cable the offer of the clerkship of the Salford School Board, England, a responsible appointment, as the Board conducts the education given in the public schools under the borough authorities, and the borough of Salford includes nearly 200,000 inhabitants. It is Mr. Schou's intention to remain in this city.

A New Block.

Messrs. Douglas & Scoullar have for some time past been wondering whether they would build residences or business houses on their Clarkson Street property which is situated immediately to the rear of the public library building. They have decided upon erecting a large brick business block, and yesterday work was commenced, preparing to excavate for the foundations. The building is nearly all rented at present and will be two stories above the street with splendid cellar accommodation.

Appointments.

It is learned from a Canadian medical paper that Dr. Fraser, of Nanaimo, has been appointed vice-president, and Dr. Fagan, of this city, secretary for British Columbia of the Dominion Medical Association, which recently held its annual meeting in Toronto. These are appointments of considerable distinction among the medical fraternity, for the association is composed of the most learned physicians and surgeons of Canada. The above named gentlemen gentlemen are therefore to be congratulated. Dr. Roddick, professor of the principles and practice of surgery in McGill University, Montreal, is president of the association.

The Northern Premier.

Mr. J. J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, was interviewed and so said to one from the following extract from the remarks the customs terminus of the railway has been located at New Westminster. We have not decided upon any place as the terminus of the road in this city. Westminster and I don't know where it will be. I can't keep what the newspapers say out on the subject. Newspapers may have a hunch to tell what you or I think, but they don't keep what the newspapers say out on the subject. Newspapers may have a hunch to tell what you or I think, but they don't know what they have published. We must decide upon our route in the terminus of the road before we can come over the country and examine it with the assistance of our engineers. Our trip out here has not been for the purpose of going over the ground. The location of the terminus of a big railroad is not an easy matter to decide. There are a great many things that need to be considered. The northern terminus of the road, however, will be at New Westminster, B. C., but I cannot say where the southern terminus will be."

W. C. T. U.

The meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was continued on Thursday in the Calvary Baptist Church at Victoria, morning and afternoon, the president, Mrs. Cunningham, in the chair. The minutes were devoted to the reception of the reports of departments and discussions on these reports. A committee was appointed to ascertain what could be done towards getting a bed in the Jubilee Hospital. The committee on resolutions was called upon to take action with respect to the subject of traffic for provincial goods. A long discussion took place on the subject of the Refuge Home, a report with respect to which was submitted by Mrs Spofford. The Home had had thirteen inmates, and for it $1,400 had been raised. In the evening a mass meeting was held in Pandora Street Methodist Church, when forcible addresses were delivered by Hon. John Robson and Rev. M. L. Rogers, a very thoughtful paper being read by Mrs. J. W. Young. The proceedings were enlivened by a very pleasing series of musical selections.

Killed by a Runaway.
