The Selkirk Mining Company are doing assessment work on five claims at Illecillewaet.

I. S. Fraser, who represents a Calgary company, has six or eight men working on Gold Hill, near Illecillewaet.

Northern Pacific engineers are at work surveying a line that will strike Kootenay River at the mouth of Deep Creek, a point seven miles below Bonner's Ferry. It is expected this will be the route adopted for the Kootenay Lake branch.

George Langham, a collier in the Southfield mine at Nanaimo, was killed last Friday by being crushed under a mass of falling coals.

The Hot Springs Camp was thrown into a state of wild excitement last week by the discovery of rare silver on the Revelstoke Mining Co.'s claim, the United, of which samples were brought up to Dr. Campbell by Mr. Wilson. This is the luckiest strike of the year, and stands to the credit of the prominent managers at the Smelter Company at Revelstoke.

Rev. Mr. Hartley, lately from Ontario, whose son recently purchased the Kamloops Pharmacy, has decided to move his family to Kamloops and take up his residence there.

The tunnel in the Lanark mine at Illecillewaet, is now in 330 feet, and after running 20 feet or so further a connection is to be made with the upper tunnel, which will be a raise of about 250 feet. More men are being put to work.

LABOR VS. CAPITAL

FOR VERY LIFE WILL THE OPPOSING FORCES CONTEST

Their Rights in the Struggle Now Going on at Southampton — The Little Premier Victorious—Will Meet Them Half Way—The Man of Many Promises—Supposed to be Drowned—British Columbia Exhibits—The Exiled Warriors.

LONDON, September 8.—The strike of the dock laborers, coal handlers and sailors at Southampton is likely to develop into a test struggle between unions and employers. Business at the docks is wholly suspended, the company having been unable as yet to bring a working force of non-union men through the very effective lines of pickets which the union men are maintaining. A number of non-union men who came in on the trains today were assaulted by the strikers, after all peaceable methods of persuasion had failed to turn them back. These disorders occurred so frequent that the authorities sent to London for assistance and a detachment of Metropolitan police were sent down by train to assist in preserving peace and protecting such non-union men as could be induced to go to work. It is expected the gigantic Shipowners' Union recently formed will take up the case of the Southampton employers and make this a life and death struggle between organized labor and organized capital. Owing to this probability the strike attracts the utmost attention of all classes.

The Exiled Warriors.

LONDON, September 8.—Friends of the exiled Guards are very indignant over a mass of stories which are being constantly kept in circulation reflecting upon the conduct of the men since their departure from England. Friends and relatives of the exiles find themselves seriously hampered in their efforts to secure clemency by these evil reports, which they boldly denounce as pure falsehoods, gotten up by interested officers for the purpose of influencing the minister for war to withhold pardon from the disgraced Grenadiers. The gathering of positive evidence to refute the unfavorable allegations is a slow process, hence it will be a good while before the men can hope for first action on their petition for reinstatement.

Marine Disaster.

PORT HURON, Mich., September 8.—A barge, W. K. Trouble, in tow of the steamer Blanchard, was run into by the steam barge W. L. Whitmore, in the rapids opposite Fort Gratiot at an early hour this morning, and sank in 35 feet of water. The Trouble was split open and went to the bottom in two minutes. All the crew escaped except a young man named William M. Mackay, who was drowned. The Trouble is owned by J. C. Fitzpatrick, of Cleveland. She lies about 200 yards from the American shore, and is directly in the way of vessels passing the rapids. The bow of the Whitmore was badly damaged, and she was dry-docked for repairs. At a later hour the R. P. Rooney, in trying to avoid the wreck of the Trouble, ran into the transfer steamer Huron, and was damaged to the extent of $2,000.

British Columbia Exhibits.

TORONTO, September 8.—R. E. Gosnell, of Vancouver, B. C., who has arrived in the city as representative of the British Columbia Exhibit Association, which association is subsidized by the Government, the object being to bring the resources of the great Pacific Province before the world, says of British Columbia that the prospects of that Province were never brighter and the inhabitants, generally speaking, are prosperous and contented. Crops are good this year. "Manitoba and the Northwest Territory," he says, "are supposed to represent the so-called granaries of Canada's capabilities in point of cereals, but for yield and quality of grain British Columbia surpasses even those districts, although the area within easy reach of railways is still comparatively limited."

The Man of Many Promises.

MONTREAL, September 8.—Sir John Macdonald, who passed through here on Saturday on his way to Ottawa from River Du Loup, where he has been spending his holidays, professed entire ignorance of any intention of holding an early session.

The failure of William Donahoe & Co. is much worse than reported. Nelson's Bank is alone involved for $70,000. The whole amount will come close upon a quarter of a million.

Will Meet Them Half Way.

TORONTO, September 8.—The Empire, referring to the Sherman resolution, says that if it passes we may be sure the Dominion Government will meet Congress half way, for it has always manifested a disposition to facilitate reciprocity in so far as it may fairly and honorable be done.

The lacrosse club will in all probability make a tour in November playing at Baltimore, Brooklyn, Princeton and other strong teams in that section.

Furniture in Flames.

MONTREAL, September 8.—Tees & Co.'s furniture warehouse was destroyed by fire. Loss $15,000. Insured.

PROVINCIAL POINTERS.

Notes of the News from Our British Columbia Exchanges.

W. F. Van Antwerp, the C. P. R. engineer who was injured on the railway recently, but who has now quite recovered, was married at Donald last week to Miss Tess Fraser.

Dr. Bell-Campbell, who acted as relieving physician at Kamloops, in the absence of Dr. Tunstall, has returned to Donald.

The mining excitement at Toll Creek is subsiding.

Dr. Campbell's United mine at Hot Springs is reported to be simply a bonanza. The Fourth was sold yesterday for $9,000 cash, and the last week A. D. Wheeler bought the 224 for $1,500. Anderson sold out south of Sky Line for $3,000, and a small claim for $500.

Rev. Father Bedard, O. M. I., has returned to Kamloops from a visit to the Kootenay country, upper and lower. He found it impossible to secure church sites, either at Revelstoke or Nelson, the Government property not being in the market and other properties not being available.

The Little Premier Victorious.

TORONTO, September 8.—The contest between Sir John Macdonald of the Dominion Government and Hon. Oliver Mowat, premier and attorney-general of Ontario, regarding the power of the latter to remit and commute sentences is over, so far as the Chancery Divisional Court is concerned, the decision being unanimous in favor of Mowat.

To Join Comrades Here.

WINNIPEG, September 8.—Will Dalgleish and Toby Allen, two well-known Ottawa lacrosse players, passed through today for New Westminster, B.C.

Supposed to be Drowned.

WIARTON, Ont., September 8.—Two young men, M. Greenlees and M. McDougall, are supposed to have been drowned by the upsetting of their sailboat yesterday.

MURDERED.

Last night, soon after Mr. McTiernan, the Indian Agent, had closed his eyes for a night's sweet sleep, a hard knock at his front door aroused him, and upon enquiry it turned out to be an Indian who had just arrived from Pitt River with the news that another Indian named Slumagh had shot and killed a half-breed named Louis Bee, in that locality. Louis Bee and Slumagh together with some other natives, were engaged in fishing for trout in Pitt River near an old graveyard at the junction of that stream with the lake of the same name some distance above the bridge, about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There was no fight or quarrel and so far as can be learned, no words between the two, but Slumagh who is about 60 years of age and the uncle of Louis, approached him—levelled his shot gun at Bee. The half breed raised his hands imploringly and said, "Stop uncle, stop." But the old man fired point blank. The charge entered the right breast into the lungs and in a few minutes Louis was dead. The murderer immediately made for the woods and up to the time the messenger left for this city he had not been captured, the Indians being afraid to follow him, as he had immediately begun to recharge his gun as he ran away. Mr. McTiernan says that Slumagh is considered insane, and in consequence the people of that neighborhood had better be on the lookout for him.

Louis Bee, the murdered man, is about 30 years of age, and has been in jail upon several occasions for selling whisky to Indians; otherwise he was a tolerably law-abiding subject. Coroner Pittendrigh was notified late last night of the occurrence, and this morning will start for Pitt River bridge to take charge of the body.

AN IMPORTANT MATTER.

EDITOR TRUTH: SIR,—Although I have been following as closely as ordinary citizens usually do, matters in connection with the coming exhibition celebration, not a word have I heard and no seen written concerning the Reception and Accommodation Committees, if indeed any there be. Now, we are all aware of the fact that within a fortnight or so the great annual fair will be open so and it is of great importance that our prominent men should be a committee to receive the large number of guests which will undoubtedly be present during those few days when Westminster will be required to make every effort to please them. Is there an Accommodation Committee? Most people have heard of none, and I think I am right when I say that such a committee really does not exist. You perhaps are aware that even as things remain at present, all the hotels are nearly full, and they are likely to be for some time to come. Are our hotel men looking out for the accommodation of the numerous guests which they will have during those days? If so, this should be known to the General Committee, who have no doubt the power to look after such matters. As this is decidedly a most important matter, I hope, Mr. Editor, that you will find space in your columns for this from

AN OLD TIMER.

New Westminster, September 8th.

Nature's Wonders.

During the recent visit of Jesse R. Grant and Charles J. Wilmgle to Sonora, Mexico, on business they were much struck with the sight of a terraced mountain. It is located about fifty miles southwest of Magdalena. The mountain is circular in form, about three-quarters of a mile in diameter at the base and is terraced from base to peak. The height of the terraces is from 10 to 12 feet, and in many places is built of solid masonry. At many other places it is cut out of the solid rock. The roadway is from fifteen to twenty feet in width, starting at the base of the mountain and coiling itself, spiral like, to the peak of the mountain, which is not less than 1,200 feet higher than the base. The cost of this terraced road must have been enormous. The remarkable feature of this wonder is the state of its preservation. Here and there the masonry has yielded to the influences of time, but these are exceptions.

At the base of this terraced mountain is a mighty door which has the appearance of having been hewn out of a solid rock and weighs 100 tons or more. It is placed at the mouth of what appears to be the entrance to this terraced mountain. Here another query is suggested. Does this door to the mountain open the way to mineral treasure or to the shrine of ancient religious devotees?—Tucson Star.

Artificial Ivory.

As manufacturers abroad claim that the supply of ivory is too small to meet the demands of industry and art, an extensive industry has arisen in France to supply an artificial substitute for natural ivory. Until recently the substitute used has been obtained by injecting white wood with chloride of lime, under strong pressure. Within a short time, however, it has been established that a substitute may be prepared with the bones of sheep and waste pieces of deer and kid skins.

The bones are for this purpose macerated and bleached for two weeks in chloride of lime, then heated by steam along with the skin so as to form a fluid mass, to which are added a few hundredths of alum; the mass is then filtered, dried in the air, and caused to harden in a bath of alum, the result being white, tough plates, which are more easily worked than natural ivory.

From W. W. Forester, asking permission to lay building material on Mary Street opposite lot 23, St. George's Square. Granted.

From McKeen & Son, enclosing their account of $[illegible]17, balance of their account due on the Moody Square contract.

From Campbell & Anderson, referring their bill of McKeen & Son for powder used for blasting stumps on Moody Square to the council. The amount they thought should be used as wages and paid by the city, as they have had the benefit thereof. Received.

Ald. Hoy saw no use in referring the bill to the Board of Works, and thought that the council had nothing to do with Mr. McKeen's private bills. Received and filed. The clerk was instructed to reply, informing them of the position of the council in the matter.

From W. Rogers, jr., stating that as an engineer for the rock crusher would be required, he would ask for the position as engineer thereof. He could give references and holds an engineer's certificate. Received and filed.

From J. A. Munro, asking for the position of officer on the police force when such is required. Referred to the Police Committee.

From John H. Watson, asking the council to allow him to enter the city's span of horses for prizes at the coming exhibition. He would like to enter for "Clydesdale span," and "Clydesdale mare" and "walking team."

Ald. Johnson thought if possible the council should do so. Granted.

From James L. Card, asking for the position as master of the new ferry boat. He holds a first-class master's certificate which he is at any time prepared to show. Received and filed.

From D. Henderson, asking permission to place two hitching posts on Columbia Street opposite the Hotel Douglas, and one on Mr. Kennie outside the side door. Referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

From Campbell & Anderson and others, Columbia Street merchants, calling attention to the blockade opposite the Douglas-Elliott building, and asking that the same be removed. Referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

From Dashwood Jones, asking that Mrs. Thistleton's two tagless dogs be destroyed as they are a nuisance. Received and referred to the Police Committee with power to act.

From DeWolf Smith, stating that, in accordance with a request of the Board of Health, he had visited a house on the North Arm road and Edinburg Street and found that the reported case of diphtheria was a mild case of scarlatina. Received and filed.

From James Kennedy, sr., asking why the ferry boat was allowed to make trips to Liverpool and Brownsville on Sunday, thus breaking the Lord's day.

Ald. McPhaden guessed the ferry boat didn't belong to the city and the captain could do as he pleased. Received and filed.

From James Stephens, stating that he had met with an accident while on duty on August 25th last, caused by a non-railed sidewalk. Mr. Stephens' doctor's bill amounted to $100 which he asked the council to pay.

From Dr. C. F. Fagan, enclosing a certificate to the effect that James Stephens received a broken rib as the result of his fall.

Ald. Hoy failed to see why the council should have anything to do with the bill, the sidewalk was a good one. Referred to Finance Committee.

From H. Y. Thrift, clerk of Surrey municipality, enclosing the following resolution, which was unanimously carried at a recent meeting of the council: "That in view of the fact that Capt. W. F. Grant has for the past seven or eight years run the steam ferry between Westminster and Surrey in a generally acceptable manner, and believing him to be thoroughly competent, this council has much pleasure in recommending to the favorable consideration of the mayor and council of New Westminster Captain Grant for the position of commander of the new steam ferry." Received and filed. The clerk was instructed to acknowledge receipt of letter.

From C. J. Major, stating that he had examined the books of the corporation and the vouchers connected therewith, also the statement of the city treasurer, and found them correct.

From Hugh Murray, poundkeeper, stating that during August, 32 cows, 2 mares, 3 calves, 4 horses, and 11 dogs had been impounded. Of the latter 2 were destroyed, 2 sold and 3 redeemed. Revenue $25.50. Received and filed.

From Kennedy Bros. and twenty others complaining of a nuisance in the shape of a Chinese opium factory, the fumes from which are annoying to them.

The mayor suggested that it be referred to a special committee to report. It was not a matter to be settled at once.

Ald. Smithers thought they could take action themselves under the Sanitary Bylaw.

The mayor thought better to stop the manufacture altogether if possible.

The city clerk said that the manufacture of it was a Dominion Government matter in which the city had no power; besides he thought the city could not help granting a license to sell it. Referred to the Health Committee to report at next meeting.

From L. F. Benson, asking council to lay sidewalk on Clarkson Street on north side of street from Mary to Church. Referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

From John Winter and 69 others, protesting against the proposed stringent amendments to the city Pound Bylaw and stating that in their opinion such was unnecessary. Received.

Ald. Johnson thought the petition could not be disregarded, and to bring the matter to a crisis he would move the petition be granted. Seconded by Ald. Smithers.

Ald. Hoy saw Mr. Julien getting the petition up, and upon looking it over he saw that only 25 of the names were on the voter's list; besides, nearly all owned houses and cows. Mr. Julien is an American citizen and they did not want foreigners to run this council. If he had time he would get up a counter petition.

Ald. McPhaden said, that although an American, citizen Mr. Julien was a ratepayer and should be allowed to be heard.

Ald. Johnson was willing to allow his motion and the petition to stand over for a week and challenged Ald. Hoy to get up a counter petition and let the people decide the matter. There were too many people in the council who wanted to run it.

Ald. Sinclair tried to smooth things over by suggesting that it be laid over for a week when it could be arranged somehow. He would therefore make a motion to that effect.

Aldermen Smithers, Johnson, McPhaden and Sinclair, voted in favor of the petition being granted. Aldermen Shiles, Hoy and Gifford, against. Ald. Hoy waived the nayes recorded which was accordingly done.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Board of Works reported that the following accounts be paid: Hill & Kirk, $38; Bailey & Bryson, $9; Thomas Owens, $7.50; Mechanics' Mills Company, $377.15; Mathers & Milligan for July and August, $67.55; Reed & Co., $125.80; George Cunningham, $96.02; Brunette Sawmill Company, $259.11; Campbell & Anderson, $68.88; Macpherson & Thompson, $5. They also reported that they had awarded the following contracts to complete Moody Square: J. S. Fraser, section 3, $1,775; John Ridley, balance of section 4, $668.50.

The Police Committee recommended payment of the following bills: A. Smith for keep of prisoners, $22.40; Dr. Smith's bill, $25; Wing Chong, washing blankets, $4.40; charity to Mrs. Rae, $5.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE

recommended payment of the following bills: Campbell & Anderson, $4; B. C. Gazette, $12; R. J. Rickman, $37.40; Gilley Bros., $17.75; C. F. R. telegraph, 62 cents; Lewis & Greig, $17.75; Kennedy Bros., $83.10.

THE WATER AND SEWERAGE

Committee recommended payment of the following bills: Glasgow Herald, $7.50; Reed Bros., $14.30; J. D. Roe, $68.28; Lewis & Greig, $135; Hill & Kirk, $10.

The Fire and Light Committee recommended payment of the following bills: Roe, Lewis & Son, $296.84; C. F. R. Co., $39.55; J. W. Creighton, $16; Gas Co., $202.20.

The Health Committee recommended the payment of $12 to Frank Booth, the city scavenger.

ELECTRIC LIGHT BYLAW.

The first reading of the Electric Light Bylaw was passed and the council went into committee of the whole to discuss the bylaw clause by clause with Ald. Johnson in the chair. The committee arose and asked leave to sit again.

LAND CLEARING.

Moved by Ald. Hoy, seconded by Ald. Sinclair, that the Land Clearing Bylaw be not put in force until next year on account of a lack of funds.

Ald. McPhaden thought it would take very little to slash all the city lots and it should be done at once.

Ald. Hoy was not very particular whether the motion passed or not for there was no money, it was badly required and although it may take little money that may be used elsewhere. Carried.

Moved by Ald. Smithers, seconded by Ald. Gifford, that a grant of $200 be given the Provincial Exhibit Association; also that 1,000 copies of the Dominion Illustrated special number be purchased at a price of $150. Carried.

Moved by Ald. Smithers, seconded by Ald. Gifford, that the city clerk be instructed to draw up from the account books of the corporation, a statement of trial balance, showing what balance was at the debit or credit of every account on the 1st Sept. '90, and that this statement be submitted to the city auditor for his examination and certificate of correctness of the same and afterwards laid before the council, and that a statement or trial balance be drawn up monthly. Ald. Smithers said the reason of this was that the various committees, and few of any of the aldermen know how they stood, and they wanted to know it. Carried.

Moved by Ald. Johnson, seconded by Gifford, that the thanks of the council be rewarded Mr. Abbott for the loan of the fire bell. Carried.

Ald. Shiles hoped the council would find time to rake all the stones off the streets before the catchdust. The streets were in a horrible condition, and certainly must be cleared. The scavenger would probably target.

Ald. Hoy drew attention to the sidewalks on Richard Street which were being torn up by the B. C. F. mill tracks.

The council then adjourned.

Rev. Father Guertin, of New Westminster, has been appointed to carry on the work of the R. C. Church in the mountain districts in connection with the Kamloops mission, and begins his work this week.

The work of making a waggon road of the trail from Campbell's Creek to join with the Nicola road at Newman's, is well advanced.

Hay, grain and vegetables including water melons have been a splendid crop in Lillooet this season.

A Lillooet man states that the salmon running up the river were so thick the other day that he could walk across the river on their backs. Thousands of the during fish struggle up the stream and thousands float down again to the sea, dead.

Master Ernest Morris, who has been acting as sculptor in the R. C. Church, Kamloops, for some time, left for New Westminster last week to attend St. Louis College at that city.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

A matter to which the attention of workingmen should be persistently directed, is the lack of protection afforded them under the N.P. tariff system in vogue in this country. The protected manufacturers, and those who support high tariff, "point with pride" to the increase in the volume of home manufactures, and to the rapid growth in riches of the manufacturers themselves. These results have been attained by preventing outside competition in the goods manufactured. But the system does not prevent outside competition in the labor that is used to make the goods. That, also, is satisfactory to the manufacturers, but how about the workingmen? They are no better off than they ever used to be, if even so well off. If they could succeed in keeping the labor market to themselves, as the manufacturer does the market for the goods the workingmen make, there might then be some semblance of satisfaction in the protective system to the workingmen. What is sauce to the goose should be sauce to the gander. Viewed in this light, a disposition which recently took place in the United States Senate on the bill regarding alien contract labor, has some features of grotesque interest. A portion of the report of the discussion is given as follows:

Mr. Buchanan, of New Jersey, favoring the bill, said that while immigration had helped to build up the country, it had also brought here low-priced labor. Not only did other countries ship materials and products to this country, but people in these countries made competition for the importation of laborers. These contract laborers came into competition with our own home-based labor.

Mr. Quinn, of New York, earnestly advocated the bill, believing it would go far to right the wrong which had for so long been working down the wages of the laboring man, depriving and injuring everywhere. He welcomed to this land every honest laborer who was ready to take upon him the garb of citizenship, but he was unalterably opposed to the internal system of alien contract labor.

Mr. Chipman, of Michigan, spoke of the state of affairs on the Michigan frontier, where Canadian laborers had been daily seen crossing and returning, competing with American laborers and mechanics, who should be protected against them. The bill did not prevent the importation of desirable citizens, but it proposed to keep out the aliens who resided amongst us, partook of the benefits of our free institutions, and in war refused service to our government. The existing law, strong as it was, has been evaded with ease, and this bill, if enacted, would be evaded with similar ease. In the name of the laboring man, he asked for real relief, not for the illusion which promised what it did not perform.

Can there possibly be any real difference between the competition offered to the workingmen of a country by labor that comes of its own free will, and that which comes at the instance of somebody who wants to employ it? The law against the importation of workingmen under contract was enacted by the Congress to prevent aliens whose employers might induce them to strike from going outside to hire labor. But it is only at a certain and lengthy interval that competing workingmen will be imported by the employer. Obviously the only way to protect the workingmen is to prevent outside labor from coming in at all, except on payment of a heavy duty, such as that imposed on the Chinaman, and such as is imposed on the goods brought in to compete with home manufactures.

The gentlemen whose views are reported in the United States Senate are given credit, we all stand, Protectionists—of the employer. They make a large effort, too, to make it appear that they are Protectionists of the workingmen. But it is an open secret a Protectionist country, nothing that stops short of the exclusion of competing labor can be just to the employer as compared with the employee. It is wrong to allow competing workingmen to be brought into a country during a strike. It is wrong to allow them to be brought in at any other time, for the result in the end is the same. But that is a phase of the doctrine of protection which the protected manufacturer would grumble awfully at the recognition of. Are not the protected manufacturers of Canada, one of those who are making and force out of the system of high tariff taxation, in order to exclude competition in workingmen by imposing a high tariff on them, and yet need have no doubt about the view to will take of it. The proposition would appear monstrous to him, and yet he is the man who is constantly cracking up the motto of "Canada for the Canadians." What he is really after is "Canada for a few of the Canadians,"—that sacred few who are doing the manufacturing and taxing the people two prices for their products.

The "eternal brotherhood of man" is a fine sounding phrase. When Mr. West used it in his speech at the labor demonstration on Saturday last it elicited an outburst of applause. He said that in the labor organization they had combined every race, creed and color in the world in the "eternal brotherhood." There were whites, reds and negroes, Englishmen, Frenchmen, Germans and Belgians in Saturday's procession. A few minutes afterwards Mr. Tonnerre in his speech referred to the fact that the trades organization had done a great deal towards driving the Chinaman out of the country and they would do more. This statement also was greeted with applause, but, when you come to think of it, does it really date fall altogether with the "eternal brotherhood of man" sentiment? The Chinaman is neither black, red nor white, but he is yellow, possesses much uniformity of shape with those of the other colors, is devoid of a candid appearance, talks, laughs and reasons, and is popularly believed to be endowed with a soul. Therefore, he must be one of the "eternal brotherhood." We might suggest that Mr. West should "revise his phrase, and make it read,—"The eternal brotherhood of man, one pig tails." This would avoid what otherwise must produce a certain amount of skepticism if the phrase is used when the Chinese exclusion subject is being discussed.

An industrious statistician of the United States has been making a careful note of all the murders committed in that country during the last six years, the legal executions resulting, and the illegal lynchings. The table is as follows:

Year.	Murders.	Executions.	Lynchings.
1885	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1886	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1887	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1888	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1889	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]	592	[illegible]

These figures are interesting as showing the increase of murders in recent years, the decrease of legal executions and increase of lynchings. Those who affirm that the death penalty is not deterrent from homicide, will have food subject matter for reflection.

War Eagle's Stony Grave

There is great excitement among the Kickapoos over the discovery of a petrified body supposed to be that of War Eagle, a leading chief of the tribe who died many years ago, shortly after the tribe's return from Old Mexico. Instead of the remains being deposited in the ground in a coffin they were placed in an upright position in a large hollow tree, there to await the coming of the happy hunting days, as the Indians believe. During the rage of a fierce forest fire the trunk of the tree was consumed by the flames. A party of Indians who were passing through the woods stopped to light their pipes, when the image of an Indian warrior, with tomahawk in hand, was discovered underneath the ashes of the burning tree.

The scene which followed is described as being most remarkable. The Indians were seized so badly that they lost all self control and a regular panic ensued, the Indians rushing madly through the woods and yelling at the top of their voices. As soon as word could be communicated to the remaining members of the tribe, some 200 in number, a hurried consultation was held, at which it was decided that the reservation should be immediately abandoned.

Luckily some of the more civilized members of the tribe had influence enough to allay the feeling of fear, and the plan of desertion was not carried out. The place of fright was visited later in the day, when sure enough the petrified body of War Eagle was exhumed and placed upon exhibition.

The petrification was perfect. The war costume was as natural as life, there being a perfect imprint on the stone of both gun and tomahawk, which were buried alongside the body. The peculiar formation of stone presents an imposing appearance, and, but for the occasional crevasse caused by insects, would be clear of any imperfections.

A large, hollow oak was selected, the top sawed off about fourteen feet from the ground, and the petrified body placed upright therein, to remain forever. A two inch pine slab bearing the following inscription marks the petrified remains of this tribe's greatest warrior: "War Eagle, great fighter, turned into rock. Indians afraid Great Spirit. Let him sleep on his beauty forever."—Cor. St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Austria's Imperial Wedding

The forthcoming imperial wedding has restored a little life to the Austrian court, which has been miserably dull since Prince Rudolph's tragic death. Although the marriage of the Archduchess Valerie with the Archduke Franz Salvator on July 31 is to be solemnized privately at Ischl on account of the empress' delicate health, the event will be kept throughout the empire with considerable festivity. Many towns are founding charitable institutions in the young princess' honor, as she prefers such useful remembrances to costly gifts of jewelry. On the 16th the bride-elect renounced all her rights to the crown, according to the rule for Austrian archduchesses about to be married. Part of her trousseau and many wedding presents have been exhibited at the Vienna hofburg, and the dresses will be shown during the next few weeks. All the clothes are of Austrian manufacture, and very simple, though exquisitely made. The princess and her fiance have now accompanied the empress on a pilgrimage to the famous shrine of Mariazell, to fulfil a promise made to the empress' dying sister, the princess of Thurn and Taxis.—London Illustrated News.

MAJOR AND PEARSON

New Westminster, August 9th, 1890.

How the Work.

One of the funniest things that anybody ever imagined in this world was the notion of marbling paper. That is the name applied to the sort of red and gilt-colored ornamentation on the edges of finely bound books, and on their bindings, too, sometimes. Every one has observed such markings, but it is safe to say that not one person out of 10,000 has ever taken the trouble to speculate as to how the effect is produced. There is nothing commonplace about the process. On the contrary it is a marvel worthy of contemplation by the scientific and the sage. You can see the thing done any time you please at the government printing office if you care to ask the privilege.

There is a tree in Senegal, Africa, from which exudes a gum, just as any other sort of gum exudes from a cherry or other kind of tree. The natives of Senegal collect the gum from this peculiar tree and sell it to contractors, who send it all over the world in the shape of little hard lumps. It is commercially known as "gum Senegal." The most important one for it is this one of marbling paper.

To this purpose a solution is made of the gum in water. A tank, say four feet long and two feet wide, is filled with the solution, and then the operation is ready to be performed. At the government printing office you can see it done any day; the courteous attendant in charge will show you how he does it.

To begin with, you will see nothing but a tank of a foot or so in depth filled with a liquid not especially describable. On a shelf close by are half a dozen paint pots filled with most brilliant water colors. The operator takes the blue brush and sprinkles the surface of the liquid in the tank with drops of that color. Then he seizes the brush from this variation pot and sprinkles a spatter of bright red also. Next he reaches for the green and distributes that. Finally a sprinkling of yellow is employed to wind up with.

Now the expert takes a long stick armed with fine teeth like a comb, and with it combs the surface of the liquid in the tank just once from one end to the other. Then he gives it a single comb crosswise. The result of this is a most curious mingling of the blue, vermilion, green and yellow. Next, on the surface of the fluid he carefully lays a sheet of white paper, and lifts it off again by one corner. Lo, the sheet has received a reproduction of the water color pattern from the liquid most slabrate and most beautiful. To reproduce it, even imperfectly, by hand would take months of labor. Each color in the pattern is as distinct and brilliant as water colors can possibly be.

This, however, is but a simple pattern. The expert takes a small comb with wire teeth and makes a wiggle waggle over the surface of the mixture. He lays down another white sheet upon it, and behold, a lovely design resembling a collection of conventionalized peacock's feathers appears. Another wiggle waggle of the wire comb and a sheet similarly treated exhibits a series of gorgeous arabesques altogether beyond description as to their brilliance and intricacy. But this is not all.

The operator stirs up the liquid in the tank again, so that all the colors disappear. This he chooses other paints, making green the predominant one, and sprinkles them over the surface. As a magician might exercise his wand over a self-acting pool he disturbs the smooth surface with the wires, and weird and fantastic designs spring into view upon the white sheets that he floats for an instant and then lifts from the fluid. Gnomes, hobgoblins and monsters of all degree gurgle each other across the page with glaring eyes and contorted visages.

When you were a little boy or girl perhaps you have rubbed with your slate pencil upon your school slate, and then with a moistened finger spread the whitey substance over the wooden bound system of pistonic mineral. You have wondered then to see what astonishing devices and creatures inconceivable started out upon the slate, caught by the eye of your imagination. It is the same way with the work of the artist in marbling for books, though he does not dare to produce such fantastic things to please the popular taste. Only the commonplace sort of marbling does one find on books and such things; whatever extraordinary the expert produces he keeps for himself, perhaps, to show what wonderful result the accidental mingling of random tints on a solution of gum tragacanth will bring forth.—Washington Star.

Views of Modern Judges.

"If it were not for drink, you (jury) and I would have nothing to do."—Judge Patteson. "If all men could be persuaded from the use of intoxicating drinks, the office of judge would be a sinecure."—Judge Alderson. "Three-fourths of the cases of crime have their origin in public houses and beer shops."—Judge Wightman. "Intemperance has destroyed large numbers of people, and will, at its present rate of increase, in time destroy the country itself."—Justice Grove. Losing Teeth at Sea.

Those people who may be unfortunate enough to have taken to artificial teeth should use exceeding circumspection when they go down to the sea in ships. "What a splendid dentist sea sickness is! I had the whole of my teeth pulled out at one visit," said a patient to the doctor one morning. Several dentists have stated that it is by no means an uncommon occurrence for persons to finish a voyage in a practically toothless condition.—London Hospital.

Character I have come across in my dealings through the little wicket is a man who comes in about twice a week, lays down a dime or two nickels and asks for ten bright, new cents. After he had done this some half dozen times I began to expect him, and later to have a curiosity to know what he did with them, as I observed that he always placed them carefully in his fob pocket.

"One day my curiosity overcame my politeness, and I asked him bluntly what he did with the pennies. He blushed, smiled in a deprecating way and said they were for the children. The cashier happened to know the man, and told me when he had gone that he had lied—he had no children, though married for many years. This aroused my curiosity still more, and I decided to trace him, as we say in commercial transactions. I made a confidant of the office boy, and the next time the gentleman called the boy shadowed him. It was about noon when they left, and the boy did not return until long after banking hours. Then he called me aside and said:

"'He gives them pennies to babies that cry.'

"'Gives them to babies that cry?' I asked, not fully comprehending.

"'Yes. I stuck to him, just as you told me, and had to wait two hours while he was busy in his office. Then out he comes and I after him, up one street and down another, stopping into places every few minutes. On West Larned street there was a little urchin crying; some one had took something away from it. He steps up, laughed, chucked it under the chin, and gave it one of the bright cents. The little one—I don't know whether it was a boy or a girl, they dress 'em so much alike—stopped crying and began to laugh, and the gentleman walked on faster than ever.'

"Well, I got to thinking over the matter," said the teller, "and found myself trying to figure out in some such manner as we compute interest the amount of happiness that man got out of ten cents, the price of an ordinary cigar, and the result is I always carry a few bright coppers myself."—Detroit Free Press.

A New Zealand Waterfall.

A waterfall has recently been discovered in the southern part of New Zealand which proves to be one of the most remarkable in the world. It is exceedingly difficult of access, being almost completely surrounded by a chain of snow covered mountains, numerous glaciers and superb lakes.

The highest of all the waterfalls whose existence is known at the present time is one in California, whose mass of water plunges down from a height of 2,550 feet.

The next in point of height is the Oroo fall of Monte Rosa, in Switzerland, which sends its water, in two falls, from a height of about 2,400 feet.

The newly discovered waterfall in New Zealand comes third on the list, falling from a height of 1,904 feet. This waterfall has three falls, and the mass of water thrown is much greater than that of either the Californian or Monte Rosa waterfall.

The fourth highest is in the Pyrenees, and comes from an elevation of 1,450 feet.

Of course every schoolboy and girl knows that the greatest mass of water thrown by any waterfall in the world is that of our own Niagara falls.—Youth's Companion.

She Surprised Them.

"We are accustomed to impudence," says an English bookseller, "but the other day a woman managed to give us a surprise. She asked for a particular recitation, and after a hunt of some twenty minutes the clerk unearthed it in a volume we sell for a shilling.

"The woman seized upon it and sat down and began to pore over it. The assistant supposed she was going to commit it to memory, but she mildly asked if she might copy part of it. The assistant is long suffering, and he said 'Certainly.' She thereupon asked if he would 'lend' her a piece of paper. That 'lend' was a dainty piece of euphemism, and he handed over a first class pad to write on.

"Then she modestly begged for a pencil, and when he had produced a brand new one, she sat down and copied every word of the recitation from beginning to end. When she had finished, she gathered herself up, and without a word walked off with her copy and the assistant's new pencil."—Chatter.

A Boon to Smokers.

Many attempts have been made to so improve pipes and cigar holders that the unpleasant biting sensation on the tip of the tongue could be averted and the nicotine prevented from entering the mouth, but so far with indifferent success. A Scotchman, it is claimed, has now solved the problem. His method is to provide a hollow ball, with a short tubular or slotted stem attached to it, which is inserted in the usual orifice in the mouthpiece of the pipe or cigar or cigarette holder, so that the smoke shall pass out through the tube or slotted stem and upper slotted part of the ball, and the tongue shall rub against the ball in the mouth of the orifice, and thus prevent the saliva of the mouth from going or working back in the mouthpiece.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Man's Best Help.

A man's best help is himself, his own heart, his resolute purpose—it cannot be done by proxy. A man's mind may be crossed by another, but he must mold his own character. What if a man fails in one thing? Let him try again—he must quarry his own nature. Let him try hard, and try again, for he does not know what he can do till he tries.—New York Ledger.

The use of the electro-magnet for indicating the presence of submerged torpedoes or lost anchors has been suggested. The magnet, in connection with a delicate strain dynamometer, is lowered into the water and excited by a battery. The metal will attract the magnet and the dynamometer will reveal the fact.

The Powder Magazine.

Some time ago the matter of obtaining a magazine for the storing of explosives was placed by the council in the hands of Ald. Dickson to look into. The matter was brought up several times but somehow or another it seemed to be dropped all of a sudden. In conversation with that alderman last evening on the subject he informed the reporter that on looking into the by-laws, etc., he found that the council had power to make people store their own ammunition in a suitable magazine at least two miles from the city limits. People will therefore govern themselves accordingly.

The Bicycle Track.

The Park Commissioners have had a force of men engaged at Queen's Park for the past fortnight preparing and grading a new bicycle track for the use of the New Westminster Bicycle Club. The track is oval shaped and runs in a direction from north to south, the apex of the north end being just in front of the exhibition buildings. It is being rolled with the hard pan material with which the roadway is being ballasted, and after being settled with a good rainfall it should be the best track in the Province—and the only one built specially for the purpose. Some sharp work is required to be performed if it is to be ready that the races in the exhibition tournament should be held on the track.

Work in Cariboo.

We had a call on Monday from Mr. John McMillan, of Hanson, Washington, and from him we learned the fact that he represents a company recently organized at Hanson, whose principal and purpose is to locate on the more northerly coast of the Province a suitable location can be secured on liberal terms from the Government. Mr. McMillan stated that he had interviewed members of the provincial cabinet and was assured of liberal terms should the colony locate in this Province. The colony consists of fairly substantial men of the laboring and agricultural class, a number of them having large families and are in good circumstances. A party of explorers will start out in a few days to examine and select a suitable agricultural location for the colony. A number of them will winter upon their claims if a satisfactory location is obtained.

The Pearl of Savoy.

A large, appreciative, intelligent and, therefore, orderly audience was present in Harvey's Opera House last night, when the Eugene Goodrich Company appeared before a Westminster audience for the first time in "The Pearl of Savoy." Miss Eugene Goodrich, the star of the company, was successful in gaining the confidence of those in the body of the hall, and everybody appeared to be highly delighted with her acting. There is nothing that certainly cannot be said of every actress that is heard here, for a Westminster audience cannot well be loud. It is safe to say, therefore, that the role "Marie" was well received. James H. McCann, whose name is familiar with all northern theatre goers, did well in taking the parts "Lancelot" and "Arthur," and Harry Jackson is evidently accustomed to playing such parts as "Phineas," and his ability was especially manifest during the fourth and fifth acts. The leading parts of his are very similar to those taken by the Jew in "Queen's Evidence," and the Jew in "The World," both of which have completely taken audiences by storm wherever heard. Mr. W. R. McKay requires to moderate his pronunciation of "Commander," for as at present he is given to congratulating a commander such as Mr. McKay would not likely receive the compliment of those under him. Much the same may be said of Miss Ella Lawrence who plays the part of Marchioness. She is undoubtedly a talented actress, but the impression conveyed to many was that the refinement of aristocracy was altogether too strong. Between the acts Professor G. A. Otto proved himself to be the master of many instruments, among the number being one he calls the "Salamander," which is of his own invention. This evening "Dada Boy" will be the attraction, and it will undoubtedly draw well, for the company well deserves it.

Saturday's Lacrosse Match.

The Vancouver lacrosse players don't really consider with Tacoma structures on their conduct in Saturday's game. We are surprised they wouldn't. However, nothing is to be gained by discussing this matter. If the next Vancouver match should discover the same objectionable traits that the last one did, it is possible that the reporter will repeat the dose, with the exponents in every respect strengthened.

Progress in British Columbia.

Canada's Illustrated Family Paper for July contains some curious allusions to the Province as known—or rather for the most part unknown—in England at that not very distant period. This is the issue for February 4th in that year, we read under the heading, "Clakhoharsh," the future quaint item called "Words and Phrases," the well known work of that learned but eccentric divine, the Rev. Canon Taylor.

At Fort Vancouver, the medium of intercourse is a curious mixture of Canadian French, English, Indian and Chinook. An Englishman goes by the name of Klatchman, a corruption of "King George;" an American is called Boston, and the ordinary salutation is Chinkamyah. This is explained by the fact that the Indians frequently hearing a trader named Clark addressing by the compliment in the village, "Clak, how are you," imagined that this sentence was the correct English form of salutation.

This is evidently an amusing reference to Cultock, and the Fort Vancouver mentioned in the paragraph was of course a somewhat trying venue of the Hallam Tennyson and the flourishing Vancouver City known to all of us is of a very recent origin.

Another number of the volume of Canada's Illustrated Paper contains a short biography of Lord Milton, Earl Fitzwilliam's eldest son, and his thrilling remarkable exploit of crossing from the Atlantic to the Pacific by land over a route along or near by which the C.P.R. now goes easily and rapidly, loss of thousands of pounds sterling nearly. He and his companions, a doctor and Indian guide, were twice almost starved to death, having on one occasion to kill, cook and eat one of their horses after first devouring without satisfaction of their appetites a very unsavory meeter. This travelling adventure accomplished in 1862 evidently says the magazine which we quote, "the possession of a large stock of nerve and courage, and the recital of the exploit rendered the then young and unknown traveller with the hardy Yorkshire voice that he was in this really returned at the head of the pack for southwest Yorkshire. How different now the easy journey across the Dominion from ocean to ocean! Yet 28 years only have elapsed since to do this was remarkable indeed. It may possibly be almost equally safe and easy 28 years hence even to reach by railway some of those wonderful districts of "Darkest Africa" which Stanley entered last year at such fearful risk of life. Nothing seemed impossible to the railway engineers of today.

JAMAICA EXHIBITION, 1891.

AN EXHIBITION will be held in Kingston, Jamaica, in January, 1891, of home products, manufactures and works of art, including a collective exhibit of works of art, machinery and in chemical and agricultural products from foreign countries, colonies and colonies.

In view of the geographical relations of the Island of Jamaica with the ports of Canada and the export and import of the imports of Jamaica, as well as the products of the Island, the Government of Canada accepted an invitation of the Government of Jamaica to participate in such exhibition, with a view of obtaining an extension of markets for the products and manufactures of Canada.

The Canadian Government will undertake to pay freights of all approved exhibits.

Exhibits must be made not later than September next, and the latest date at which articles can be sent forward from Halifax, N.S., or St. John, N.B., is the middle of December.
