President Van Horne.

CHICAGO, August 27.—President W. C. Van Horne, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who has been making a brief visit to Chicago, says there is no truth whatever in the report that the Canadian Pacific intend to purchase the Wabash Railway, or any part thereof. His company, he said, does not contemplate the construction or absorption of any new line between Detroit and Chicago. It has at present a strong traffic agreement with the Wabash, and as long as that company carried out the provisions of the contract, the Canadian Pacific would make no attempt to secure an independent outlet west from Detroit. As regards the five year dressed beef contract made by the Canadian Pacific with one of the dressed beef shippers which caused the present war on dressed beef rates, Mr. Van Horne said the contract was similar to the contracts made by one or two of the regular trunk lines, and he could see no good reason why those roads should object to his company pursuing their methods. The Canadian Pacific does not intend to cut rates, but thinks it is entitled to the same rate on dressed beef as the Grand Trunk. Regarding the bill recently introduced in Congress by Congressman Taylor, of Chicago, prohibiting the carrying of goods in bond through Canada, President Van Horne did not think that Congress could afford to pass such a bill, because it would hurt American lines much more than Canadian roads. Such a bill he said, might benefit a few eastern lines, but it would do considerable injury to the roads to the northwest and New England. It would prevent the latter from competing with the New York lines for seaboard and export trade.

THE STAFF OF LIFE

THE NORTHWEST WHEAT YIELD IMPAIRED BY FROST.

The Shoemakers of Northampton, England, Ask for Better Terms—The New York Central Strike—Increased Their Wages—Prince George Enjoying Himself at Halifax—A Thousand Families Made Homeless by Fire—Meeting of Mine Workers' Association.

TORONTO, August 27.—An Ottawa special to the Mail says: "It is difficult to get at the truth respecting the extent of damage done to the wheat crop in the Northwest. It is well known that certain millers are interested in making believe the damage has been great, so as to hold up the price of wheat and flour. As already asserted the Millers' Association have shoved up prices, defending their action by reason of the alleged destruction of a portion of the Northwest crop. Thus the great food staple of the people is made the toy of capitalists leagued together and assisted in their extortion by the fiscal policy of the Government. After the reports of frost reached here the association promptly notified retail dealers to increase the price of flour 25 cents per barrel and the dealers, without question, did so."

New York Central Strike.

NEW YORK, August 27.—P. M. Arthur, chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, has written a letter to an engineer on the elevated railroad in response to a letter on the subject of the New York Central strike. This is the first written utterance of Arthur which fully defines his position toward the Central strikers and the Knights of Labor. He says that he has not received any letter from Powderly. If Powderly considers his letter that appeared in the newspapers a private one, he doesn't, nor will he answer the letters that reach him in that way. The policy of the Brotherhood is well known, to Powderly and to the public, as it has been repeatedly explained from the public platform and published in the newspapers. Arthur says that Powderly tells a wilful falsehood when he says that he and other leaders have been unable to find him when they tried to do so to confer on the labor troubles. When the present trouble on the New York Central first occurred Arthur advised the engineers to abstain from all participation in it and to attend strictly to their own business. He gave the same advice when the strike occurred on the Gould system a few years ago. His advice to the Brotherhood of Engineers, when the men employed in the other branches of the railroad service have been on a strike, was to mind their own business and not to do anything that did not properly belong to them as engineers. Arthur asks, can Mr. Powderly say the same whenever the engineers have been on strike. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers never asked any other labor organization to assist them. Arthur holds that the engineers are perfectly justified in maintaining a strictly neutral position when the others are engaged in a conflict with their employers.

Prince George at Halifax.

HALIFAX, August 27.—Prince George was one of the players in a spirited game of polo at the riding grounds today between the officers of the army and navy. His side lost.

The warships Bellerophon, Canada, and Thrush sail tomorrow for Quebec. The Buzzard will remain to clean out. The Partridge will sail this week for the West Indies.

A Serious Fire.

BUDA PESTH, August 27.—A conflagration at Tokay rendered 1,000 families homeless. Several persons lost their lives.

Foreign Storm.

VIENNA, August 27.—The Adriatic has been visited by a great storm which has caused the loss of many lives and an immense amount of property. The storm was especially severe in the vicinity of Trieste. Many vessels were wrecked, the crews perishing. Three persons were killed by lightning at Wittenagh.

A Conference of Miners.

ALTOONA, Pa., August 27.—A joint conference of the Mineworkers' Association of America, representing 12,000 miners and operators of the mines in these districts, was held today. No result was reached on the scale presented by the miners, the operators claiming they could not accept without a loss. The conference adjourned until September 12th, when another effort to secure an agreement will be made. The miners, however, are firm in their demands, and a general strike may be the final result.

The Switchmen's Strike.

CHICAGO, August 27.—The Alton switchmen are still out, and freight is fast accumulating in their yards. No sign of any concession on the part of the railroad. At a recent meeting of the Alton switchmen, engineers and firemen, the action of the switchmen in striking was condemned. Every employee of the Railway Switchmen's Association at the stockyards is to be discharged tomorrow. The general managers decided today that each road should do its own switching at the stockyards, and the action of the superintendents on August 25th in deciding to dissolve the Switchmen's Association was confirmed. The Lake Shore and Michigan Central sent engines and crews into the yards today and considerable work was done to relieve the packing houses of the blockade. The Baltimore & Ohio, Illinois Central and several other engineers flatly refused to do any work in the yards. It is now understood that the switchmen will return to work at the old wages, provided they are invited to.

Nearly a Riot.

BERLIN, August 27.—A great fight that bordered very closely on a riot has just occurred here. A large number of Socialists held a meeting in Freidrichhain brewery and the grounds about it on Monday. During the evening the mob had gathered outside the gates and grew so large that the streets in the immediate vicinity became impassable. It is estimated that there were 1,000 rought present, who then made a concentrated attack, broke down the fences and invaded the park. They were met, however, by the Socialists and a desperate fight followed, clubs and sticks being freely used, but the timely arrival of the mounted police prevented bloodshed. When the police themselves rode into the mass of fighters they were received with a shower of stones. They replied with heavy work with their swords, and finally put the disturbers to flight. The Anarchists at the meeting explain the melee by saying the mob was incited to its attack by the blatant agitators of the radical branch of Anarchists not in sympathy with their peaceful methods.

His Work Done.

TONAWANDA, Pa., August 27.—Colonel Victor E. Piolett, died at his home in Wysox, Bradford County, this morning, aged 78 years. He was superintendent of the North Branch Canal and superintendent of construction of the Philadelphia & New York railroad from 1867 to 1872. He had served in the legislature and had been a candidate on the Democratic ticket for Congress.

Wrecked a Street Car.

BOSTON, August 27.—A collision occurred between the electric street car and the steam roller levelling the street this evening. One side of the car was completely wrecked. The car was filled with passengers, several of whom are severely injured.

Fought a Duel.

PARIS, August 27.—A duel was fought near Belfort today between Lieutenants Millett and Baruti, with swords. Millett received a slash on the arm. Several large blood vessels opened and the wound will probably prove fatal.

Aeronaut Killed.

ROME, August 27.—The aeronaut Borletti met with a terrible death in Idralia. The balloon which ascended caught fire and Borletti was precipitated to the ground from a great height and killed.

Coal Oil Explosion.

LONDON, August 27.—Miss Peters, a domestic, was probably fatally burned yesterday through the explosion of a lighted coal oil stove which she was filling.

Cheese Factory Burned.

NAPANEE, Ont., August 27.—Cergar's cheese factory near here was burned with its contents. The loss is heavy. Insurance, $2,100.

Increased Wages.

LONDON, August 27.—The grate workers at Belper have struck and have been granted an advance of 10 per centum in wages.

A Case of Cholera.

MARSEILS, August 27.—A case of cholera appeared today at Carabanel, a suburb of this city. The patient is a woman.

OUR INVITED GUEST.

FRITZIE TRITH: Sir,—The animal who wrote the lowest item on the first column of the fourth page of the Columbian of last night—not only insults the Admiral commanding H. M. fleet, but proves himself to be an ignorant ass. YOURS, PILOT.

[The language of the above note is scarcely as courteous as it should be, but it certainly does look bad to see the Admiral, who has been invited as a guest to the celebration, called by the evening paper an ignoramus who knows nothing of what he is talking about. But the affront, no doubt, is unintentional; only stupid.]

A Spiteful Boy.

The Bay of Fundy forms a cul-de-sac at which the Atlantic ocean seems to have taken a spite, and at regular intervals pours in its waters viciously and with intent to do all possible harm. Take, for instance, the harbor of St. John. In most parts of the world a tide of from six to ten feet is quite sufficient to satisfy all reasonable demands. In St. John harbor the tide rises twenty-one feet on an ordinary day, and occasionally varies the monotony by pushing the mark up three or four feet, as the humor seizes it.—Chicago Herald.

Where He Lives.

The fellow who predicts the weather a year in advance has been set in the shade by a remarkable prophet whom newspaper men ran across at the railroad station at Springfield, Mass. He can read a paper four years before it is printed, and he can penetrate the future to such an extent as to learn that his death won't occur till the middle of the next century. He didn't tell where he lives, but they all took it for granted that it was in a hospital for the insane.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Longevity of English Public Men.

Disagreeable though the climate of England may appear to the uninitiated, yet it is apparently conducive to longevity. In addition to Mr. Gladstone, whose mental and physical vigor at an advanced old age are well known throughout the world, there are some nine or ten octogenarian members of the house of commons. In the house of lords no less than thirty of the peers are over 80 years old.—New York Tribune.

Two Englishmen have invented a water cycle—that is not what they call it, but that is about what it is. It looks something like a catamaran. It has four drums, or paddle wheels, and is worked by a treadle and steered just as a tricycle is. The speed is about equal to that of an average walking gait, and it will carry six persons.

New Umbrella Handles.

The most remarkable umbrella handles come from Paris. One is described that is a model of the wand carried by the jester of Henry IV of France. Another umbrella had a dagger of oxidized silver for a handle. The "golden calf" formed a pretty handle and a costly one. An umbrella with a handle of tortoise shell, inlaid with silver, was useful as well as ornamental, for a powder box and puff were concealed in the handle. A Dresden china handle, mounted in silver, formed a scent bottle. The stopper was a model of a man's head, in silver.—Exchange.

The absurd superstition held by so many that the opal brings ill luck to its owner, as if there were a compelling power or genius residing in stones, would not seem to be shared by those who rate the two opals belonging to the French crown jewels at $15,000, or the famous one sent from Hungary to the first World's exhibition at $30,000.

The Egg Story.

How often, I wonder, have moralists and essayists jogged in, as "an apposite illustration," the fable of Columbus and his egg. But this egg story is also told—and perhaps with greater truth—of Brunelleschi, the great architect, who crowned the Duomo at Florence with its great cupola. When his envious rivals protested that the work was simplicity itself to put them to silence by showing them how an egg could be made to stand upright. After all, the lesson which the anecdote conveys is just the same as that which Tennyson embodies in the well known lines

Most can raise the flowers now

MATRIMONIAL FREAK

"THERE IS MANY A SLIP BETWEEN THE CUP AND THE LIP."

A London Newspaper Creates a Sensation by Publishing an Account of the Transactions of a Certain Marriage Agency in which Some of England's "Society" People are Slightly Mixed—The Iron Workers Agitating for 8 Hours a Day.

LONDON, August 27.—Since T. P. O'Connor disappointed the readers of that phenomenally successful journal the Star, by selling out and retiring from London journalism, the paper has fallen considerably below the high standard of excellence to which its founder had brought it. Its present management runs to sensationalism, and yesterday the paper began the publication of a number of letters involving the reputation of many people of considerable prominence. The machinery of the law was quickly set in operation by the injured parties, and today the court issued an injunction restraining the paper from continuing the publication of the objectionable documents. Suits for damages are also threatened. The history of the letters referred to is a peculiar one. They were stolen or surreptitiously obtained from the matrimonial agency of Fraser Duncan, who was recently ordered by the jury to pay $50,000 to Miss Gladys Knowles for a breach of promise of marriage. The details of the suit are doubtless familiar to American readers. Miss Knowles, who is the granddaughter of Admiral Knowles, called at Duncan's matrimonial bureau in search of a husband, or, as she claims, merely in a spirit of mischief. At any rate, Duncan, who is over 60 years old, professed to be enamored of the young woman's charms and a most curious courtship took place, ending in the consent of Miss Gladys to marry and an offer of large settlements of property by the old gentleman. The latter's promises were not kept, however, and a suit followed with the result already referred to. Meanwhile Duncan had transferred his business to his wife and when the verdict was announced he fled the country leaving no property with which to satisfy the judgment. The bureau was seized by the sheriff on a charge of fraud in the transfer and the many patrons of the place were in great alarm lest in the general confusion of business their letters should be exposed. This catastrophe did in fact result and by some means the Star became possessed of the correspondence. The imprudent and foolish people who patronized the place are consequently being held up to public ridicule and the affair furnishes food for the popular amusement. The injunction against the Star, however, seems likely to put a stop to the fun.

Too Long Working Hours.

LONDON, August 27.—The National Iron Works Union has for some time been considering the advisability of taking a bold step in demanding a material reduction of the hours of labor. The men now work 12 hours per day. The Union has finally resolved to ask that eight hours be recognized as a day's work. The masters have consented to a conference which will take place at an early day. The situation will be carefully discussed. It is considered probable that a compromise upon ten hours will be the result.

Hop Trade Reports.

STEINFORTH, Mass., August 27.—The New England Homestead's carefully prepared report of the hop crop of the country shows that there is a considerable shortage, particularly in New York state. The average yield of all the growing territory will fall nearly 20 per cent. under the full crop. In New York State only three-fourths of an average crop will be harvested; Massachusetts, which crows a few hops, will have 75 per cent. of a full crop; Maine, 90 per cent.; Vermont, a full crop; Wisconsin, 69 per cent., and California 90 per cent. The shortage alone is sufficient to send prices up, but added to this is the fact that most of the hops have passed out of the hands of the growers; prices have reached 40 cents a pound in New York, and 27½ in California. The prices offered in these two States govern the sales in other States. One third of the crop was contracted for early in the season, at prices ranging from 16 to 20 cents. The growers generally have held their crops for an advance, and are sure one will come. While the crop is short, the quality is better than usual. The yards are free from lice, and nothing has injured the quality of the crop. The dry weather checks the making of vine, which accounts for the light yield.

Anarchist Fighting.

BERLIN, August 27.—A great fight that bordered very closely on a riot has just occurred here. A large number of socialists held a meeting in the Freidrichhain brewery and grounds about it on Monday. During the evening a mob had gathered outside of the gates, and grew so large that the streets in the immediate vicinity became impassable. It is estimated that there were 1,000 roughs present, who then made a concentrated attack, broke down fences and invaded the park. They were met, however, by the socialists and a desperate fight followed, clubs and sticks being freely used, but the timely arrival of the mounted police prevented bloodshed. When the police themselves rode into the mass of fighters they were received with a shower of stones. They replied by heavy work with their swords, and finally put the disturbers to flight. The anarchists at their meeting explain the melee by saying that the mob was incited to its attack by blatant agitators of the radical branch of anarchists not in sympathy with their peaceful methods.

They Want Better Terms.

LONDON, August 27.—Eight thousand shoemakers at Northampton work on the "tenement" plan, that is, they work at home and not in factories. There are many objections to the system and the men complain especially that it makes their homes less healthy and pleasant and that while it relieves the employer from great expense, he does not reciprocate by sharing any part of the saving with them in the shape of better wages. The "house" shoemakers have therefore banded together and demanded to be furnished with suitable workshops where to ply their vocation.

Tobacco Warehouse Trust.

NEW YORK, August 27.—The Sun says: An English syndicate is now pushing a scheme by which they expect to obtain control of the Tobacco Warehouse Trust, as the new syndicate is to be known, to have control of the market for western tobacco. It is expected that the warehousemen of Clarksville, Tenn., will join the syndicate. Warehousemen solicit consignments of the tobacco crop from the planters directly, then sell by auction. In this way the planters are almost wholly at the mercy of the warehousemen. Mr. M. Untemeyer, who has placed a good deal of foreign capital in this country, said yesterday that the report that the warehouse contract had been closed was not correct, negotiations are still pending, but within the next ten days the syndicate will probably gain control of the principal warehouses in the western tobacco business.

The White Star steamship Majestic, which arrived this morning from Liverpool, made the trip in 5 days, 22 hours and 21 minutes.

Levi Silberman, of the firm of Silberman & Joseph, bankers and brokers, died this morning, 64 years old. In early life he was engaged in the dry goods business at Jeffersonville, Ind., and Louisville, Ky.

A Diabolical Deed.

DECATUR, Ills., August 27.—The body of Mrs. Colonel Mathias was found in a field near here this morning with her throat cut from ear to ear. William Crawford, who had worked for Mrs. Mathias' husband, was suspected. Officers found him at the home of his sister. When Crawford saw the officers coming he drew a razor and cut his throat severing the windpipe. He then confessed the murder, saying he killed the woman because he loved her. He cannot recover.

The Rithet.

The steamer Rithet arrived about 9 o'clock with the following passengers: Mrs. Sholdrick, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Murray, Miss Hoden, Rev. Irwin, Rev. Jeffrey, M. M. English, M. English, F. Francis, P. Joyce, T. S. Maynard, E. A. Wadhams, B. W. Redford, Captain Smallfield, J. Norrysbell, J. Faulkner, E. J. Jones, O. Antion, S. Pentola, R. Reynolds, F. Walls, S. Stane and R. S. Grayton. Her cargo consisted of 1,750 cases of salmon for Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, and a cargo of general merchandise and fruit. The Rithet leaves this morning with 90 head of cattle, one car of merchandise and one car of deer skins.

Mr. McKenzie Moore.

A very fair audience was present in Herring's Opera House last evening when a most pleasant Scotch entertainment was held. Mr. Munro fully upheld the name which has long ago gone before him—that of being a champion piper and dancer. Miss Cannon displayed unusual ability upon the violin, and that a lady's delicate fingers are fully adapted to performing on stringed instruments was very noticeable in this case. Messrs. Darg, Robertson and Gibson were the vocalists, and each contributed highly to the enjoyment of the evening. Mr. Beaton danced a Highland fling in good style. Altogether the concert was a most pronounced success.

The Fireworks.

Arrangements have been made by the sub-committee on fireworks for the exhibition celebration with Professor Hand, of Hamilton, who will come out here for the special purpose of conducting the display of fireworks upon the last evening of the celebration. Great credit is due the chairman of this committee for the energy displayed to out-do anything in the shape of pyrotechnics ever yet seen in the Province. It may cost a few dollars more, but the citizens will never regret it so long as our visitors go away satisfied.

Off for Fairhaven.

Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, at high tide, locomotive No. 199 for the Westminster Southern was transhipped to the barge at the foot of Douglas Street. When the engine was being slowly moved along the temporary switch leading to the barge, one of the rails spread a few inches, and the engine came very nearly being derailed, but was prevented by the aid of a few blocks of wood over which the wheels ran for the distance of a few feet. So much attention was being paid to the locomotive, that the coach which was attached thereto, upon passing the place where the engine became nearly derailed, slipped off the track, but was replaced with very little difficulty. Both engine and coach were rolled on the barge and at 6 o'clock the Purdy steamed out for Fairhaven amid cheers and a general tooting of whistles, ringing of locomotive bells and such like. The Purdy will return as soon as her load is discharged and carry away part of the flat cars to be used in the construction of the road to the boundary.

University Convocation.

At the closing sitting of the first convocation of the British Columbia University at Victoria on Tuesday, Bishop Sillitoe in the chair, it was moved by C. Wintham, seconded by A. C. Brydone-Jack, "that a committee be appointed to examine the British Columbia University Act and report at subsequent meetings of convocation." Mr. Wintham took up the act and discussed it at very great length, pointing out that it had been mainly taken from the Manitoba Act while its clauses were contradictory and many of them unworkable.

The motion having been adopted, it was moved by Mr. Schofield, seconded by Prof. Odlum, that Rev. Donald Fraser and Messrs. J. Wilson Yates and Dr. Powell, of Victoria, Messrs C. Wintham and Lawson, of Vancouver, and Messrs. C. Morrison, Brydone-Jack and the Bishop of New Westminster be and are hereby constituted a committee of this convocation for the purpose of revising the present University Act of British Columbia, with a view to further legislation on the subject matter of the act at the coming Provincial Legislature, said committee to report to convocation within two months from this date.

Dr. Lawson moved, seconded by Mr. Morrison, that convocation proceed to the election of members of the Senate.

It was moved in amendment by Rev. D. Fraser, seconded by Dr. Powell, "that the election of members of Senate take place at the statutory meeting of convocation in May, and that the voting shall be by means of voting papers sent through the mail or handed in at the meeting."

After some discussion it was moved in amendment by Rev. E. D. McLaren, seconded by H. M. Stranberg, "that the election of the members of Senate, referred to in section 4, be postponed until the meeting of convocation, at which the committee on the revision of the act shall submit its report, and that said election shall take place by voting papers sent through the mail."

On motion of Rev. Mr. McLaren, seconded by Mr. Comperthwait, it was resolved that the next meeting of convocation be held at Vancouver on a day to be fixed by the committee.

On motion of Mr. Reed, seconded by Dr. DeWolf Smith, it was resolved that the committee appointed to consider the University charter be a standing committee until the regular meeting of convocation in May.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Truth

Daily Edition.

THE LABOR PROBLEM.

The Nanaimo Free Press says that THE TRUTH is "no friend of organized labor." We assure our contemporary that it is quite mistaken on that point. Whatever sentiments we have in regard to trades unionism are wholly in favor of the organization of the workingmen for the protection of their interests. We have often felt, despite what our contemporary says, a sincere regret that society and the laws governing trade and commerce on this continent and throughout the world are not such as would permit of these organizations being far more effective in promoting the interests of those who labor, than they are. We have been diligent advocates of measures to that end. We perhaps speak selfishly in this matter, because being in the field of labor ourselves, we would hope to share in the profit of any beneficial reform. But our reading of the history of trades unionism since it began does not make us sanguine, while the present system is continued, of its success in greatly ameliorating the general condition of the world's laborers. We cannot see that workingmen the world over are better off now than they were fifty or a hundred years ago. But if unionism shall only succeed in retarding the downward tendency, its existence shall be justified and give reasons for the encouragement of its active promoters. Workingmen in some places get more dollars for a week's work today than they did in the past. But they also pay more dollars for what they find it absolutely necessary to buy, and so at the end of the year they find themselves with as small a surplus as before—which is generally nothing at all. The efforts of organized labor have raised the price of labor, but this rise has been offset by an equal rise in the price of everything else, so that all the average working man earns is needed to feed and clothe him. The great question agitating the labor reformers of today is—how to get for the laborer the full value of his labor. There is no end of theories for the solution of that problem. So far, say of those theories that have been experimented with, have failed. And yet if you get back to first principles a solution of the difficulty looks plain and easy. If you were to take of farmers, millers, shoemakers, tailors, merchants, and all the other callings that are necessary to provide for a man's happiness on this earth—if you were to take of them the proper proportions in each calling to supply each other's wants, and place them so that they would act, would all work harmoniously together, no single member of the community, it is calculated, would need to work more than three or four hours a day to produce enough in his particular line of industry to get for it, in exchange for the productions of the rest of the community, all the necessaries and luxuries that the world affords. If that be so, who gets the benefit of the extra four or six hours work per day that the laborer now has to undergo to obtain only an indifferent subsistence? HENRY GEORGE says it goes to the owners of land and those other monopolists brought into existence by restrictions on international trade. The same authority says that if the land were taken for the common use of the people and perfect free trade be brought about, the labor problem would then be solved. He does not believe that trade unionism will ever cure the labor trouble, and he seems to be right. The fight that labor is waging against capital is hopeless. Other weapons and a different method of attack is necessary.

THE MORBID TENDENCY.

A writer in the Chicago Tribune says that books like "Kreutzer Sonata" or the "New Antigone" or any other of a similar character no doubt set forth a good many truisms and many just criticisms, but though a large proportion of married folks may be taken up with the care of children and the daily round, of duties, somewhat to the exclusion of general subjects and intellectual discussion, yet in this age of everlasting direction of thought and discussion of ideas, fanciful and morbid, it is a positive relief to meet a little every-day life. These intellectual directions and fanciful ideas are about on a par with the ordinary recreations preaching on round dances, producing therefrom prurient imaginings which existed in the mind of very few youths and maidens before these some starters of wrong ideas set the ball rolling. To the question "Don't you think that statue indecent?" a wise man answered: "No, sir; but your question is." Young men may be, say are, lax as to the sowing of wild oats, but wholesome men do not assume to themselves the virtues of saints, neither do they intend to convey that impression on those they meet. One has to average humanity—take it with its faults and failings and try to improve it, be it ever so little, by healthy ideas and opinions, not by low imaginings and morbid self examinations. Women wield a great power, even if they only be looked upon as playthings, or things to give pleasure. They should take to heart, then, the advice JOHN RUSKIN has given them on the conduct toward their lovers. The more attention we give to our daughters having healthy and well-balanced minds the less likely we are to have ourselves overwhelmed with these morbid and realistic self examinations and ideas. It is not wise to discuss these things in detail, and only tends to spread the plague, but we are getting more than enough of mixed metaphors, abstruse ideas and kaleidoscopic cults and crazes in this departing century.

Mortal Encounter Between Wilkes Booth and Tom Conner.

The most realistic stage duel of this nation was the one fought between John Wilkes Booth, about a year before he killed Abraham Lincoln, and Thomas Conner, better known and remembered as "Tom" Conner, the gifted brother of Captain William M. Conner, of this city and one of the handsomest and most dashing stock stars of his day. "Tom" Conner died nearly thirteen years ago at Georgetown, Col., where he was starring, but nobody who ever saw the fight Wilkes Booth with two-handed Dick of Roswick Field can ever forget the combat.

Both men were athletes, and each, for the love of fight, pure and simple, forgot himself on the boards during their famous engagement at Dellar's Warehouse, in St. Louis, that the audience rose to its feet, night after night, in agony of suspense, and first Richard and then Richard would be driven off points over the footlights into the ranks of the audience themselves, which would cheer, first the hero and then the villain, with wild abandon.

Oh, for the sake of romance and reality, if the truth must be known, on the authority of a veteran manager of the city, Conner and Booth were both willing," and agreed each night before they went on which should first be killed off the stage.

"Now Wilkes, it's your night," Tom would say, and then Wilkes would reply, "Why, Tom, you miserable rascal, you got off first last night, and then I've to get killed, so you'll have to make a break yourself again, and mind you die well, too!" Then the curtain would rise and as a climax to a thrilling tragedy, in the requisite number of acts Booth and Richard would try so hard to beat down each other's guards that it seemed—to cleave each other to the skin that the fire would fly from their blades as swords as sparks from a blacksmith's anvil, and, at last, one or the other would be compelled to respite his or her existence by an incontinent dive into the ranks of the friendly public that is in the pit.

"Oh, pshaw!" says the veteran manager, "actors like Conner and Booth were trained in those days to play a part right; to do any thing at all on the legitimate boards, from dancing a measure to battering down a broadsword fight, and what they did they did as well as it could be done, too. They started on a capital of good looks, good voice, Broadway promenades and the change of parts a season."

Another famous swordsman of that day was Charles Foster, a popular melodramatic actor, and Joseph Brel'sford, who used to fight in the old Pittsburgh Theatre on Fifth street, now Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, with a dash and daring that made the hair of the gallery gods and girls stand the startled approbation of the house. Harry Perry, who was famous in Philadelphia to San Francisco, and besides, the first husband of Agnes Booth, who not so very long ago was born in New York as "Aggie Perry," was another famous swordsman of those days, as was Joseph E. Nagle, of Baltimore. But these men could fight because they had both the physique and training. They were none of your dead darlings and dress-coat duellists.—Herald.

How Dramatist Ibsen Lives.

Ibsen, the Norwegian dramatist, does not live at Christiania, as the Germans, ex-Boston, will fain have the world believe. He spends his summers there, but his winter is in Munich, and a Munich correspondent says that he takes his breakfast daily at the Maximilian, and studies the journals through the meal. So orderly are his habits that he can neither feel nor read if he finds a stranger occupying his customary corner. The great dramatist's rights as a "regular" of the house are recognized by the waiter, who generally contrives to be Ibsen's out and table vacant until he arrives. If he chances to be late, he looks in at the door to see whether his place is free, and any intruder has taken possession of the spot marches up and down in front of the table, passing every now and then to peep through the window, and gesticulating fiercely at the unwonted invader.

Everybody who has seen Ibsen or even a good photograph of the man can imagine the fierce frowning which he can impart to his countenance. This piece of stage play is invariably successful. The intruder asks the waiter who the remarkable old gentleman is and why he patrols before the table and keeps looking in. "That is the poet Ibsen," the usual reply; "he is accustomed to sit there, and he is waiting until the place is vacant." The explanation, upon which Ibsen reckons, almost invariably sets in a courteous and rapid movement of the innocent usurper to the other seat.—Exchange.

What Bacteria Are.

The great majority of these microscopic beasts are what botanists call bacteria, the lowest form of vegetable life. So small are they that it would take, in some cases, as many as fifteen thousand of them arranged in a row to extend an inch. They have different forms, some being round, some oval, some rod shaped and others much the shape of a corkscrew, or spiral. In all cases they are so small that one needs a powerful microscope to study them, and in no case can we see them singly with the naked eye. In certain conditions millions of them are grouped together in a mass or colony we can see them just as we are able to see at a great distance an approaching army, of which we are totally unable to distinguish a single soldier.

We have said that these bacteria move about, and this is true of most of them, although there are some which do not appear to move at all, but remain fixed where they find a good feeding place. Those that have motion behave in a very peculiar manner. One wobbles about in one place without moving forward in the least; others dart hither, thither, back and forth, at an apparently infinite rate, rocking and twirling about, and turning a hundred somersaults as they move along.

Bacteria multiply very rapidly, and they do this in a very strange way. A single one breaks itself in two; then each half grows to be as large as the first. Then these, in turn, divide up again, and so on, until from one single one we have many thousands in a short time. To give you the figures, such as they are, a single one can multiply at an enormous rate that in forty-eight hours it can produce something like [illegible] of bacteria. Great consequences follow this enormous increase of bacteria; for, while one which is so small in itself can do little, the vast army resulting from the multiplication of one is able to accomplish much.—Professor Frederick D. Chester in St. Nicholas.

A Rather Cutting Rejoinder.

Some years ago a rather amusing incident took place in one of the most splendid of the New York hotels which is too good not to be related. A swell young gentleman was a boarder in the house, and, preferring not to eat at the table d'hote, had his meals served in his own private parlor with all the elegance for which the establishment was noted. Being somewhat annoyed with the air of the servant who waited upon him—a negro of very sooty complexion—he requested him one day at dinner to retire. The negro bowed and took his stand directly behind the gentleman's chair. Supposing him gone, it was with some impatience that a few minutes later the gentleman saw him step forward to remove the soup.

"Fellow," said he, "leave the room. I wish to be alone."

"Excuse me, sar," said Cuffee, drawing himself up stiffly; "but I am responsible for de silver."—New York Mercury.

New Support for Masts.

A retired salt-man, who had read an article about the rest of a new rig for schooners, told a reporter that if shipbuilders would get rid of their old ideas about supporting and staying the masts of ships, and particularly schooners, the problem of making the tall spars of 1,000 ton schooners secure would be easily solved. The theory of using rope shrouds of any sort is, he says, altogether wrong. A steel or any sort of rope shroud, when set up taut so as to bring a strain on the mast-head, may have some tendency to keep the head of the mast from bending away from that side of the deck, but to counterbalance such benefit as this may give to the mast it puts another sort of a strain on the spar that easily accounts for the dismasting of these great vessels.

This strain is precisely the strain which the word puts on a bow—it serves to buckle the mast. A careful examination of the details of the dismasting of the big schooners show that in almost every instance the spar was buckled like a bow. It commonly breaks twenty or thirty feet above deck. How could it be otherwise when the strain of the rigging pulls the head of the mast toward the bow while the wind pressing against the sail bends the middle of the mast out bow fashion?

The remedy for this condition of affairs is found in supporting the masts by stiff steel wah shrouds instead of by rope shrouds. The difference in the sort of support thus given must be apparent at once. It is as if a pair of shears was rigged to support the mast. No mast thus supported could buckle, for there would be no tendency to buckle.

—So to happy at home is the ultimate result of all ambition—the end to which every enterprise and labor tends, and of which every desire prompts the prosecution. It is indeed at home that every man must be known by those who would make a just estimate either of his virtue or felicity, for smiles and embroidery are alike occasional, and the mind is often dressed for show in painted honor and fictitious benevolence.

The benefits which have been derived for the last two years through the results of the industries and the products of the land being exhibited in the east, should encourage people to send in samples of all kinds, especially as through the hard work of the Provincial Exhibit Association so little trouble or expense is entailed. The following notices will prove of help in directing those who intend forwarding samples:

All entries to be communicated to the secretary in writing on or before Monday, August 15th, 1890.

2. Entries intended to compete for prizes must be made separately.

3. Exhibits to be delivered in Vancouver on or before Wednesday, August 27th, with the exception of such as are of a perishable nature, which will be received till Monday, September 1st.

4. Mineral and lumber samples or wood manufactures to be delivered at Vancouver on or before Thursday, August 18th.

5. Wheat, oats, barley and other cereals must be shown in quantities of not less than ten pounds in bags. Flour etc., in bags not less than 50 pounds. Malt in quantities of net less that ten pounds in bags, and field roots, such as potatoes, turnips, carrots, mangolds, sugar beets, etc., in quantities of not less than 25 pounds each.

6. Cereals should be sent in sheaves also as in that shape they may be used in decorating the court. The ears ought to be wrapped in calico not in paper for better protection in transport, and cased.

7. Spring produce and fruit generally ought to be preserved which can easily be done if the specimens chosen are put into glass jars filled with Salicylic acid and alcohol. Formula: Salicylic acid two parts, glycerine five parts, alcohol pure twenty parts, water 1,000 parts, and hermetically sealed. Care should be taken not to let the state of maturity of fruits and vegetables advance too much before bottling.

8. Should the exhibitor find difficulty in undertaking the bottling and preserving personally, let him forward the exhibits to Vancouver and they will be attended to, but in this case allowance should be made in choosing the specimens for the time of transport to Vancouver, so that they do not arrive in too ripe a state.

9. It is especially requested that exhibitors send all the specimens in duplicate, so that exhibits can be sent to the three exhibitions in Toronto, London, Ont., and St. John, N.B.

10. All exhibits, if addressed to D. Oppenheimer, Vancouver, B.C., "Toronto exhibits," will be conveyed free of charge by the railway, steamboat, express or other transport companies.

11. Exhibitors desirous of further information should communicate with the secretary, W. D. Burde, City Hall, Vancouver.

MASONIC BLOCK New Westminster OGLE, CAMPBELL & FREEMAN.

THE CITY.

Will Close—The Fireworks—Football—Mr. McKenzie Moore—Off for Fairhaven—A Timely Warning—The Celebration Committee.

Weather Report.

Captain Peole has kindly furnished us with the following meteorological observations taken yesterday: Thermometer—max. 77, min., 54. Barometer, 29.90; clear weather. Indications of fair weather for the next 24 hours.

Fine Oats.

Mr. L. F. Binom has shown us a large sheaf of oats grown on his farm up river, the straw of which is over seven feet long. The oats will easily run from 90 to 100 bushels to the acre, which is something enormous. Oh! what a country we live in!

Will Close.

Nearly all the important business houses in the city have agreed to close their shops a few hours on Friday afternoon next to allow the clerks an opportunity of visiting and taking in the sports at Queen's Park. This is a kindly action on the part of the merchants, and is to be commended.

Tennis.

The annual tournament of the Westminster Tennis Club will commence on Saturday afternoon next. The handicaps have not yet been made out, on account of the gentleman who was chosen to act in that capacity having declined to act, for fear of receiving the condemnation of the female members of the club, should any seeming partiality be shown.

Killed by the U. S. Tariff.

All the hands recently working in the Newcastle Island quarry have been paid off and it is announced that the quarry would be shut down for an indefinite period. It is well known this company have had great difficulties to contend with in competing for American contracts, as the duty on the importation of this stone is exceedingly high, and in consequence many large contracts had to be thrown up.

What the Sheriff Says.

Sheriff Redgrave, of Donald, has written the following letter for publication: "I find it stated in your paper, and repeated in many others, that an interesting contestation is pending between Sheriff Redgrave, of Donald, and Chief McRae, of Winnipeg, over the sum of $500, a reward in the case of Gray arrested for stealing $3,000 from the United states. I beg to say that I have no contention with Chief McRae, nor has the slightest correspondence passed between him and myself upon the subject. The reward was paid to me for the arrest and recovery of the money when arrested. $2,197.30 was found upon his person and the amount of $500, a proportionate amount of the reward for recovery of money, was placed in my hands before I gave the full amount up. Gray wished to go back to the States to stand his trial, and the sheriff of Hailey, Wisconsin, Mattson, received the money from Gray, and they left. Kindly insert the above in your next issue, and oblige

Mr. Bowell's Trip.

Hon. McKenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs, accompanied by Dr. Young, Mr. Parmelee and Capt. Young, has started from Ottawa on a trip of observation through the mountain regions of this Province. The party will go over the Lillooet road to McLeod and then proceed westerly into the mountains by the Crow's Nest Pass. The ministers object is to get into the north country in this way in order to ascertain for himself what steps it will be necessary for the Government to take in view of the mining boom now going on in this section of British Columbia. The journey has the spice of adventure about it, in that while the route through the Crow's Nest Pass is pretty well known, the party, in order to avoid making a detour to the eastward of nearly 100 miles, which would bring them into the State of Washington, promises to strike across the Purcell and Selkirk ranges by a route of which no information seems to be obtainable. No departmental maps or reports of the geological survey give any information upon the subject, and the minister and his companions are trusting to pick a guide around Maitland familiar with the pass. The journey through the mountains, which will have to be made on horseback, will last about a fortnight. Once the Kootenay country is reached, the route will be a comparatively easy one. From Nelson the party will come to Spence's Landing and thence by boat to Revelstoke, afterwards coming westward to the coast. It is an undertaking of no slight magnitude for a minister of the crown in his fifth year.

Complaints are made that they are running deer with the dogs on Vancouver Island.

Columbia Street East is beginning to look something like what it should have been long ago.

The first storey of the Y. M. C. A. building has been finished and the brickwork has been commenced.

Turnbull & Co., who have the contract for the new library building, have commenced work at the excavations.

Many wells in the upper portion of the city have gone dry, and many residents are puzzled to know where to get water.

Blasting is the order of the day on Melbourne Street; the residents of Montreal Street would dearly like to have a sidewalk.

The old mist machinery on the site of the new library building will be stowed in the old fire hall until something can be done with it.

The contractor for the new machinery hall on Queen's Park is making all possible haste with his job, and expects to have it completed long before the specified time.

In the Police Court yesterday morning a man named Michael Pattison was fined $50 and costs, and one month's imprisonment at hard labor for supplying liquor to Indians.

The artillery mustered up in large numbers last evening in the drill shed, when the new regulation helmets were served out to the men. All parted with those enormous bonnets with tears in their eyes.

James Smith, a tailor from New Westminster, got on a big load of whisky one week at Vancouver on Monday night and lay down on one of the C. P. R. trestles along the water front to rest. He was run in by the police, and the magistrate next morning fined him $5.

A Timely Warning.

We should like to have just one little word with our loyal Scotchmen before they attempt to allow any of the lassies from to cross sticks on Queen's Park tomorrow afternoon. Let any member of the Grounds Committee go up to the park and take a part in Canada's national game for half an hour. At the end of that time he will find out that his shins from the ankles to the knee caps of both legs are in a terrible state of denudation; and all on account of the stones which mostly cover the ground. We are not quite sure how many times we have told the park commissioners to cause to be performed that small but important piece of work with the result that it has been done only once, and that so long ago that it is almost forgotten. There is another thing that the experience of the last junior match has taught, and it is sincerely to be hoped for the sake of the lassie boys, that it will be carried out, namely, the necessity of sprinkling a few drops of water about the grounds on the day of the festivities, so as to prevent the pulverized matter of mother earth from making itself objectionable in every one's eyes, and so every lady's white dress. It is to be hoped that these two little matters will, for the comfort of every one participating the grounds on that day, be attended to, and it will be a great pleasure to inform the public that they have been attended to.

PERSONALS.

Prominent People Paragraphed by a Pungent Pen.

Col. McGregor is home again from his extended trip to the Sound.

Rev. C. M. Tate, of Chilliwack, will return home this morning by the Irving.

Mrs. R. Springer, of Vancouver, was in the city registered at the Queen's yesterday.

Mr. R. E. Gosnell came down from the up-river parts yesterday and is still in the city.

Mr. E. A. Wadhams, the well known cannery man, came up by the Rithet last evening.

Sir James Russell, Chief Justice of Hong Kong, and Major-General Johnstone are in Vancouver.

Captain Pittendrigh returned last evening, well pleased with his first visit to Vancouver.

Hon. C. E. Pooley, President of the Executive Council, returned yesterday to Victoria.

Mr. A. B. Gray, the well known Victoria merchant, is in the city a guest at the Hotel Douglas.

Mr. T. R. Pearson is over in Victoria, and is not expected home until Saturday morning.

Messrs. Fred Machre and E. W. Mathews of Victoria, came down from Matequi yesterday and are guests at the Queen's Hotel.

Mr. James Corrigan, of Hope, came down by the Irving yesterday, and will remain in the city for a few days.

Mr. Thomas McNeely, the host at Ladner's Landing, came up on the Rithet last evening and is stopping at the Hotel Douglas.

A large party of Chilliwackers are going east in a few days. Amongst the number are A. C. and Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Hensley, Mrs. Evans, Isaac and Mrs. Kipp, Henry and Mrs. Kipp. Most of these have not visited Ontario since leaving it twenty-five years ago.

Football.

The secretary of the Westminster Football Club has received a letter from the secretary of the Victoria club informing him that a team will be sent from that city to compete with Westminster for the medals on the last day of exhibition week. It will be remembered that the football match of last year was with Vancouver—only don't forget how to keep the medals on the Mainland.

The Celebration Committee.

An interview with Mr. S. J. Thompson, chairman of the celebration sub-committee, having charge of the procession brought forth several items of interest to the public regarding this very important part of the celebration. A large number of merchants were spoken to sometime ago concerning this procession with the result that about 40 had promised each to get up a wagon of some sort for the occasion. It is highly important for those who made such promises at that time should be getting to work. Instead of leaving everything until the last moment, they might have their canvas mottoes and advertisements painted at once because at exhibition time all the painters in the city will doubtless be rushed with work. Then again, they might order their wagon, horses and drivers to be at a certain place whereby they are needed the night before the exhibition so as to be ready bright and early in the morning. It is generally understood that the livery stable men intend this year to charge for the use of their horses and wagons. If such can possibly be the case it is sincerely hoped they will be as liberal as they can be. Should they take it into their heads to charge, the committee will agree to pay half the expenses therefor.

Invitations have been sent to all the societies in the Province, and answers have been received to the effect that they will either be present in a body or appoint delegates to march with the local societies. The committee intend inviting the men of war's men then in the city to take part in the procession—a circumstance which unfortunately was overlooked last year. No doubt the Blackjackets will be very glad to help the procession by their presence, which will be a new feature for a procession in this city.

The route of the procession has been definitely decided upon as follows. To start from the Royal City Planing Mills, and march along Columbia Street to Elliott, up Elliott to Carnarvon and Merivale and down Agnes to Douglas, up Douglas to Queen's Avenue, along this Avenue to Mary Street, thence to Pelham and the Park. This is a very good route, and will enable a larger number of people to witness the processes than last year.
