CURRENT AWARENESS LISTINGS

Can anyone truthfully say that he is able to keep himself aware of all the newly published monographs directly relevant to his field of specialization, let alone to those of peripheral interest? Congratulations if you can say "Yes."

The Library, since the beginning of 1973, has offered to provide monthly computer-produced listings of newly catalogued monographs in particular subject areas for groups of faculty members, such as departments or research groups. These listings are specifically tailored to the expressed interests of the members of the group. Items are selected for printing on the basis of a combination of criteria drawn from call number, author, keywords in titles, and library location. These elements are used together to include or to exclude blocks of material. A sample of the subjects presently being covered by such group profiles includes:

Emotionally disturbed children
Freshwater and marine botany
Italian, Spanish & Portuguese language, literature & history
Marketing
Native peoples of Canada and the U.S.
Social aspects of housing
Transportation
Urban land economics
Water resources

There are now almost 50 of these group profiles listed each month, based on the Library Catalogue Division's output for the previous month. One copy is forwarded to the faculty members concerned; from August onwards a second copy will be available for consultation at the Information Desk in the Main Library. These listings each come in call number order, and also include the author, full title, and location in the library system.

Now the Library is in a position to offer the same service to individual members of faculty, on a first come, first served basis. If you would like to receive a personal listing of newly catalogued monographs designed with your particular interests in mind, come in and talk it over with your friendly reference librarian!

DATA LIBRARY - CANSIM SERIES

The Data Library, the U.B.C. facility for holding files of quantitative data in machine-readable form, will be ordering updated CANSIM (Canadian Socio-Economic Management System) data before September, 1973. Users and potential users of CANSIM data are asked to contact the DATA LIBRARY, phone 5587, if they would like the library to obtain specific series from the CANSIM data base. The CANSIM data contains some 29,000 time series in the following categories:

.Agriculture
.Balance of International Payments
.Bank of Canada
.Business Finance
.Canadian Statistical Review (General Subjects)
.Index of Real Domestic Product
.Labour
.Manufacturing and Primary Industries
.Prices and Price Indexes
.Productivity Measures
.System of National Accounts

The Data Library now holds and regularly acquires from Statistics Canada all CANSIM series from the Canadian Statistical Review, and it is the library's policy to order the other series in accordance with expressed user needs. The series directory and summary referenced index are available in the Data Library, and the current holdings are listed in the library's catalogue.

The Data Library is located in Room 447A of the Civil Engineering Building and the data files are available to any member of the University community. For further user information, call David Amos, Data Library - 5587 or Laine Ruus, Social Sciences Division, Main Library - 2725.

SEDGEWICK AWARDED MORE HONOURS

Sedgewick Library has won the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada's first prize for 1973, the highest mark of recognition possible in Canada. It was chosen from among more than 60 buildings being considered. Sedgewick has previously received a design award from the Canadian Architect Yearbook.

BOOK BUDGET STATISTICS

The following statistics, though obviously to be interpreted with caution, should be of interest to those concerned with the adequacy of the UBC Library collection.

BUILDING THE UNIVERSITY: 1912 - 1975

Those interested in the physical development of the University over the years should note that aerial views of the University of British Columbia from 1923 to 1973, photographs of early days at the Fairview site, and of student activists on the march (c.1922) are all on display in the Special Collections Division of the Main Library. The selection of documents, books and photographs is from the University Archives.

A glimpse into the future is provided by the display soon to be seen between the Riddington Room and the Main Concourse, which features the architect's model of the Museum of Man, designed by Arthur Erickson to house the collection of the UBC Museum of Anthropology.

1970 SERIALS HOLDINGS LIST

UBC Library users are reminded that now that the 1972 edition of the Serials Holdings List has come into service, the surplus copies of the superceded 1970 edition are available free of charge to anyone who has a use for them. These copies are available from the Information & Orientation Division, local 2076.

228-6375

Faculty members are reminded that there are now two library information numbers in service: 228-2077 and 228-6375. During long weekends, and at other times when numerous inquiries about library hours are anticipated, calls to 228-2077 will be answered by a recorded message giving library hours, and referring other calls to 228-6375. At other times, both numbers will be in service.

PROVINCIAL LIBRARY SERVICE RESTRICTED

Because of renovations in its book stack area, the Provincial Library at Victoria will be closed to the public "for at least three months" from June 25th. While inter-library loan services will still function (perhaps more slowly due to materials being placed in temporary storage), direct service will only be available to M.L.A.'s and government offices.

SERIALS WANTED

The Library needs copies of the

Harvard Business Review, Vol.51 No.1-2 (Jan./Feb., Mar./April 1973)

to complete its holdings. Anyone with those issues to offer can contact Graham Elliston of the Bibliography Division, Main Library at local 2304.
