CONSTRUCTION BEGINS ON THE LIBRARY PROCESSING CENTRE

Construction has begun on the Library Processing Centre. The bid submitted by Smith Brothers & Wilson was accepted by the University.

Facilities for library processing will be on the first two floors: Acquisitions, Serials, Systems, and Catalogue Preparation on floor 1; LC and Original Cataloguing , and Catalogue Administration on floor 2.

The third floor will house the Center for Human Settlements. Construction of a fourth floor (the occupant to be chosen at a later date) is currently under discussion.

If you make a pilgrimage to the site (see map for location), you will find an extremely nice hole and some poured concrete. Moving date? Barring the usual run of misfortunes such as strikes and shortages, the building should be ready September 1978, a mere five years since President Gage first approved the project. Delays are attributed to the difficulty in finding an appropriate site and the recent change in procedures for financing capital projects. Watch for a display of the architects' plans and drawings.

18th CENTURY BOOKS

The summer project to identify the Library's collection of books published before 1801 (Canadian imprints before 1868) and to move them to a secure location is nearing completion. Some 9464 items were discovered; about 2400 were recently moved from the main stacks to storage. Two-thirds were already in secure locations such as Special Collections, Woodward Memorial Room, and Law.

STAFF ROOM STAFFED NO LONGER

The era of nickel hot water and fresh muffins in the Main Library's staff room appears to be over. However, all is not lost. For 25¢ you have a choice of cold pop, hot tea, coffee, chocolate, or chicken soup all courtesy of the Vancouver Enterprises vending machines. Or try the electric kettle; feel free to use the stove and fridge. (The Library has an excellent selection of cookbooks including Compulsive cookery; a guide to the fine art of neurotic gastronomy TX715 B454 1973.)

The decision to use vending machines only was forced by chronic losses (now reaching $9700) in the operation of the staff room.

HISTORICAL PHOTOGRAPHS NEWLY INDEXED

A large number of historical photographs from the Library's collection has been catalogued this summer by two library school students, Saundra Sherman and David Mattison. The photographs date from 1860 to 1960 and primarily depict scenes in British Columbia. Each photograph or set catalogued (922 to date) has been carefully described and researched; and as many subject headings as possible were assigned. A separate index by the name of the photographer (the author) has also been started. To prevent excessive handling of the photographs, a "browsers book" made of xerox copies was prepared; arrangements to reproduce a photograph will be made on request. All the materials will be stored in Special Collections.

Favorite photographs, including a portrait of Rabindranath Tagore by John Vanderpant, a parade down Granville Street in 1900, Vancouver logging scenes from the 1890's, are on display in Special Collections until September 30th.

MANAGEMENT WORKSHOP FOR LIBRARIANS

"Increasing Managerial and Organizational Effectiveness" is the 4th Workshop in UBC's School of Librarianship Continuing Education series, to be held at UBC, October 27 (7:30-9:30), October 28 and 29 (9:00-5:00).

Dr. Lawrence Allen, University of Kentucky, well-known adult educator and authority on personnel management will conduct the workshop designed specifically for management and middle-management personnel to learn skills and techniques in the practical applications of change strategies in organizations, groups and individuals.

To encourage more than one person to attend a reduced rate is offered to two or more people from the same library. Single registration $35, group rate $25 each.

For further information contact: Centre for Continuing Education, UBC. 228-2181. Applications to attend may be submitted to Mr. Bell's office.

HELP MOVE THE MAIL

Two new procedures have been outlined recently to improve mail service.

1) OVERSIZE ENVELOPES

Postal clerks can be perplexed by oversize envelopes: is it first class mail or printed matter? Help them make this decision; affix special green "first class" labels to both the front and back of an oversize envelope. A supply of these labels is available from the staff in the Librarian's Office.

2) POSTAL CODES

Important mail (like cheques) requires a full address including a postal code. Therefore, when you write down an address, especially on a "University Form," be sure to include the postal code. Many thanks; the mail system needs all the help it can get.

RENEW YOUR LIBRARY CARD

All staff and faculty library cards expired September 1 and should have been renewed. Bring your card to the Main Loan Desk. It only takes a minute.

BOOK REQUEST FORMS

Filling out a book request form for a 1977 or later imprint? Found an editor's name? Here's what to do: put the editor's name after the title with a slash between the two (e.g. Essays on the Sublime/ edited by Bruno Pruno). Never put the editor's name in the author space as this causes the Cataloging Department a great deal of trouble. Library of Congress no longer uses the editor as a main entry.

EXTRAMURAL BORROWERS

The fee for extramural borrowers (people not connected with UBC) has risen to $25/year. Business firms/government departments may pruchase an Institutional Borrowers Card for their staff members. Extensive bibliographic searches are provided at $20/hour. Be firm if your friends ask to borrow your card; refer them to the Main Loan Desk.

IDEAS FOR DISPLAYS

Do you have an ideas for the library display window near Ridington Room or the small window in the Main Entrance Hall? Or perhaps you have a collection of things to be displayed? Please come forward and contact Jocelyn Foster in I&O Division, local 2076.

LC SUBJECT HEADINGS ON MICROFICHE

Social Sciences Division receives LC Subject Headings on Microfiche. A complete and up-to-date list comes out quarterly. If anyone could use the superseded quarter, see Lois Carrier.

NEW START HERES

New bibliographies in the Library's popular Start Here series have been recently published on: Health Sciences Library Research
Biological Sciences Library Research
Canadian Children's Literature
Canadian History - Primary Sources
Art of India and Southeast Asia
