Vile Atrocities Committed By Sophomores

Terrified Frosh Shout "Graft" and "Boo"

Speeches were made to the Freshies by Tubby Shore and R. L. McLeod, of Arts '25; and W. H. Sparks, Arts '26. Harold Allen, Arts '26, informed the poor young things of what was in store for them. They would have to wear till Christmas, at least, green ties, the same to be purchased from the A. M. S. (loud yells of "graft!" "Boo!" etc.), refrain from using the auditorium at noon meetings, and do many other irksome duties. They were to be addressed by such people as A. E. Grauer, Jack Grant, and Brick McLeod.

As for hazing, each Freshman had Arts '27 painted on his forehead, and then had the paint dried out by an electric fan. As to the parade, it was the most enthusiastic, etc., etc. The bonfire came next. Unfortunately the effigy of Arts '26 on the top of it failed to perform exactly as it "oughter." But the fire was great, the sky being so brilliantly illuminated that it was seen from West Vancouver. The inevitable snakes were formed, and the meeting adjourned to Purdy's.

Any doubts as to the success of this year's initiation were most effectively dispelled on Saturday evening last. The bonfire was enormous, the parade splendid, and the actual initiation an unqualified success. Several innovations were injected into this year's affair by the Sophs. The Frosh were all compelled to wear night-clothes, and the majority chose pyjamas, although one daring soul appeared in a light blue chemise with garters to match, and another inhabited a horrible red and black dressing-gown. As soon as the interested parties had all assembled in the auditorium, two Freshmen staged a blindfold boxing match, with terrible results to themselves, and then another sang "Yes, We Have No Bananas," with horrible results to the audience. An innocent Frosh attempted to lead a yell, but his education had been sadly neglected, and he didn't know the words. He will be dealt with by his class executive. No Science men are invited to the funeral.

ATTITUDE OF EASTERN UNIVERSITY ON HAZING

University of Toronto, Oct.—A regulation at Trinity College prohibits hazing in any shape or form. Their model is the English system, and Americanization of the college must be discouraged by the faculty. They maintain that individuality is destroyed by hazing, and that freedom from distraction is necessary to be successful in examinations and college life.

NAMES AT POINT GREY TO BE SELECTED BY STUDENTS

Publications Board to Organize Competition for Naming of Streets, Parks, Boulevards, etc.

A hundred years ago Captain Vancouver sighted Point Grey, naming it after one of his friends, master of the expeditionary ship Discovery. A little farther around the peninsula the Spanish ships narrowly escaped being stranded upon the sand flats extending to the right of the Point. These were called the Spanish Banks. The expedition proceeded a little farther eastward, in the direction of what is now Vancouver's harbor. Baker, third officer on one of the ships who was on watch at the time, sighted about sunset, a great white mountain cone over the trees and away to the southeast. That mountain is now known as Mount Baker.

And now if Captain Vancouver and his expedition were to Round Point Grey again the University authorities, the city engineers, and the government would all unite in supplicating them to find names for the streets, parks, avenues, and boulevards which will surround the new University.

But, unfortunately, Captain Vancouver is not at present in a position to lend his assistance. In lieu of the discoverer, Mr. E. A. Cleveland, who has been largely responsible for the planning of the districts adjoining the site, suggests that the students lend their aid in the choice of suitable names. As a result, the Publications Board of the University of British Columbia are, upon the advice of President Klinck, organizing a competition whereby the students will name the aforesaid streets, parks, boulevards, etc. The reward will be an eternal knowledge of the fact that "You Did It." Further information will be published later.

Everything is being done to make the district surrounding the University site a complete urban unit. There will be well defined sections for boarding houses, sororities, fraternities, business sections etc. In short everything is to work like a dream. Tenth Avenue is to be the main thoroughfare from the city, but Fourth and Sixteenth will probably rival it in importance. The last mentioned avenue is to be afforded a different approach in order to avoid the ravine which now intersects it. While speaking of approaches and residential districts it might be well to add that no houses are to be allowed within three quarters of a mile of the University buildings. No crying babies, klaxons or anything like that.

SIR GEORGE FOSTER STRESSES VALUE OF IDEALS

Accumulated Experience of Past Utilized in Solving Present Problems

The Right Hon. Sir George E. Foster, one of the Canadian delegates to the Versailles Conference, and a vice-president of the League of Nations, addressed the factulty and students of the University in the auditorium last Friday. President L. S. Klinck introduced the speaker.

That university students should appreciate the opportunity that is given them of utilizing the accumulated experience of the past in the study of present and future problems, was the keynote of the Canadian orator's address. He showed that ideals are a necessity at the present time. The students must be inspired by them to achieve the highest results, both in student life, and in the work-a-day world. Their leaders, the faculty, must also have ideals, though these will be somewhat modified by a knowledge of the stern realities of life. The splendid influence of the professors in Canadian Universities today is due to the fact that they still maintain their high ideals.

The speaker then claimed that a knowledge of the present is not sufficient to solve the problems confronting the world. The students must study the records of the past where the accumulated wisdom of the ages is stored. The University holds out the key to this storehouse of experience and the students must enter and use the treasures awaiting them in the solution of their present problems and in the preparation for the future.

In conclusion Sir George asserted that the world is slowly but steadily improving. There is no need today of a pessimistic view, for there is a steadily increasing surplus of good inherited by each succeeding generation. Canadian students must do their part in increasing the surplus to be bequeathed to posterity.

Varsity-National Soccer Game Is Draw

Scotty Dean Scores for Varsity

The First Soccer team journeyed to New Westminster to play the opening league game of the present season on Saturday. A draw resulted, both Varsity and the Nationals scoring a goal.

The game opened fast, Varsity forwards pressing hard. The inevitable goal came after McLuckie and Lundie had worked the ball to the penalty line. Scotty Deans came in from the wing and scored with a neat shot. Varsity had the best of the play ensuing, and should have increased the score, but in the second half Varsity slowed down. The Nationals pressed continually and after several unsuccessful attacks they scored.

Curiously enough, it was Stibbs, a former Varsity player, who scored for our opponents. This reverse brought out our team's fighting spirit, and only bad luck kept them from scoring. Both McLuckie and Jackson had good chances, but shot wide.

The score was a good indication of the run of play, as the teams were very even. Draws, however, will not

Players' Club Tryouts

During the past week professors state that they have been forced to hold lectures in the corridors, so much in demand have been the rooms for the rehearsals of aspirants to the Players' Club. Open any door, especially between three and five o'clock, and one could hear "I tell you I am worth half a million," or "the prince for whom I have been waiting so long." However, this is now over for another year, and the excitement of meeting and practising with a strange "Sir Harry" or "Kate" has subsided. With the rehearsals of the Christmas Plays, which will begin shortly, the serious business of the Club will commence.

Meeting Thursday.

The Players' Club will hold a meeting for all members, both old and new, on Thursday noon. At this, those who have survived the try-outs will be welcomed into the Club, and also the Christmas Plays will be outlined. All are asked to be on hand.

Exchange News

University of Washington (P. I. N. S.), May 1.—Barnyard golf, that fascinating game that is played so extensively in the outlying towns of the middle west, has taken the University of Washington by storm. The students in that institution have reverted to their ancestors' habits of tossing discarded horseshoes at two unoffending iron pegs. Although the sport has not grown to intercollegiate size yet, it is being played by the various student groups on the campus. Competition is keen between the Greek letter organizations, a silver cup is to be given to the winner.

According to an enthusiastic reporter this will soon be a major sport in this University.

Whitman College (P. I. N. A.), Oct. —"Boomerang" has been chosen by the sophomore play committee for production on November 16th. Tryouts for the six major characters will be held next week, and work will be started immediately.

Members of other colleges also know the shock of blundering into a highly dramatic scene every time they incautiously enter a room without giving previous warning.

LETTERS CLUB.

The Letters Club held its first meeting for the session on Tuesday evening at the home of Magistrate H. C. Shaw. Vacancies caused by the resignation of three members of the Club were filled by the election of Miss Molly Jackson, Arts '25; Miss Florence Williams, Arts '24; and Mr. Walter Lanning, Arts '25.

Miss Mary Chapman, B.A., gave the paper for the evening—a sympathetic study of "Alice Meynell" as essayist and poetess. Miss Chapman spoke of Mrs. Meynell as one of the greatest writers of her day in extreme delicacy and restraint of style and in keen appreciation of the problems and emotions of childhood.

U. B. C. SQUAD LOSES TO SHAMROCKS

The University Seconds made their initial league debut on Saturday, and incidentally received their first setback, the husky beef-slingers from Daddy Burns' market being their conquerors. Varsity was away off the form shown in the previous game, and the contest could not be described as a good exhibition. U. B. C. started like certain winners, almost scoring on two occasions from mix-ups in front of the Shamrocks' goal. Then Ledingham, whose kicking had been a feature, wrenched his knee, and had to retire. Varsity defence seemed to lose its usual effectiveness, with the result that Burns' gradually assumed control, and would have piled up a big score had not Davidson been playing in magnificent form. Towards the end of the half, U. B. C. took heart, and came within an ace of scoring twice, while forcing three corners in rapid succession.

The second half saw play getting faster, with the Shamrocks responsible for most of the play. Underwood got in the most dangerous shot that Varsity had, but could not score. Shamrocks came down viciously, and following a spell of terrific play, registered the only goal on a shot which gave Davidson no chance. Varsity tried to fight back, but Shamrocks gradually re-assumed control, and our defence did well to keep the score so low.

Davidson played a great game in U. B. C.'s goal.

Mr. Armstrong's refereeing gave evident satisfaction.

Line-ups.

U. B. C.—Davidson; Disney and Butler; Muylaert, Ledingham, and Fanning; Hope, Newcome, Cant, Underwood and Evans.

Shamrocks—Martin; Sharp and Dalziel; Stewart, Haines and Morgan; Wright, Duncan, Harrison, Doxsy and Martin.

RUGBY CLUB MAKES PLANS FOR COMING YEAR

Plans for the coming year were discussed at a meeting of the Rugby Club held on Monday noon. It was decided that a team would be entered in the McKechnie Cup series, one in the Senior City League, competing for the Miller Cup, and two in the Intermediate League to compete for the Province Cup. There was considerable discussion over a proposed plan to have two senior teams, using the members of the McKechnie Cup team to strengthen both teams; but this was finally turned down, as the players thought that it would not be good policy to have the players in the two teams working against one another.

It is comforting to reflect that whilst many people are killed each year in attempting to cross our city streets, the number crossing without being killed is greater.

"Will you marry me?"
"Oh! Have you seen father?"
"Yes, and I love you just the same."

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

The Spencer Cup, now held by the girls of Arts '25, is up for competition this year. In previous years the sports pertaining to this cup comprised basketball, swimming, and the relay race at the athletic meet. This year there is some talk of adding other events to the meet, such as flat races, throwing the basketball, etc.

The first basketball meeting of the year was held on Tuesday noon, when the president, Miss Alda Moffat, gave an outline of the plans of the club. The practice hours this year will be on Wednesdays and Fridays from 5 to 7. There may possibly be a second team playing in league games this year. A secretary was elected to take Miss Shorney's place till her return. A curator was also elected. Everyone is invited to turn out to the practices, which start immediately.

All students, especially those interested in Women's Athletics, will be glad to know that Miss Doris Shorney is steadily improving. Miss Shorney's illness at the beginning of the term threatened to become a serious drawback. Happily, Miss Isabel McKinnon has taken charge until Doris can return, and the Women's Athletics Club is beginning its work.

IDEALS AND THE LEAGUE.

Many of those who had the privilege of hearing Sir George Foster's address, on Friday noon, came away feeling somewhat disappointed. It had been announced that Sir George would speak on the League of Nations. He spoke on the value of ideals.

But are not the two topics closely related? The League is essentially the creation of idealists. And on this account there was some doubt as to its ability to fulfil the position for which it was designed. But, in solving many of the problems of the new Europe, it has proved itself equal to its task.

Now the League is not solely a European organization. It is world-wide in its aims, and if those aims are to be achieved the ground must be prepared for the cultivation of the spirit of the League. And by what other manner than by the dissemination of high ideals throughout the world through the medium of the universities, is this preparation to be made?

ADVERTISING

The Business Staff of the Publicaitons Board is putting forth every effort this year to make the Ubyssey as nearly self-supporting as possible. It hopes to attain this much-desired end by securing enough advertising matter from various Vancouver firms to cover the expenses of publication. But these firms cannot be persuaded to place their advertisements with us, and certainly cannot be expected to continue advertising in our columns, unless they find that by so doing they are gaining the patronage of the students. The Business Staff cannot be successful in its objective of making the Ubyssey pay for itself unless every student co-operates with it, by patronizing those firms advertising in our paper.

INITIATION.

Last week this journal made editorial comment upon the advisability of abolishing initiation and replacing it by something of a more sane and civilized nature. We feel assured that the lack of interest displayed in last Saturday's demonstration amply justifies us in the stand which we have taken. Less and less interest has been evinced towards initiation each year, and we believe that it has only been the novelty of the affair which has recommended it to the freshman years. Once again we express our hope that Arts '27 will do away with initiation, as it now exists, and draw up a new and original program for next year. Just what that program will be, it remains for them to decide.

NOT AN EDITORIAL!

Since the smoking habit seems to be gaining in popularity among the women of today, the question naturally arises of whether the women students of this University will hold their own smokers during the coming year. To some, this will appear to be among the class of events which are "possible, but not probable," while to others it will seem one of the most vital questions to be dealt with.

It has been suggested by some one that the follies of High Jinks be done away with and a first-class Smoker be held instead. Of course much can be said on either side of this suggestion. First of all, think of how it would eliminate that awful mental struggle which is involved in the effort of thinking up something to "go as." Yet again, think of the terrible expense which would be incurred in the purchasing of smoking-jackets, cigarette-holders, ash-trays and other necessary material.

However, we shall see what we shall see. There is no telling what the women will do, 'specially when they assemble in one of their enthusiastic undergrad meetings.

LAUMO.

BALLADE D'UN AMATEUR.

Alone I wander through the Park,
And watch the moony couples stray
Who carve initials on the bark
Of silver birch or alder gray;
I love to watch the creatures play—
Sub-normals with a mental twist—
You see my very words betray
I am a sentimentalist.

The denizens of Noah's Ark
Went two and two—the bear, the jay,
The wolf, the nightingale, the lark—
And ever since that far- off day
All living things the rule obey,
And though the cynics will persist
In saying, "Love is brain-decay,"
I am a sentimentalist.

"But," now I hear some fool remark,
"What are you trying to convey?
Haven't you kept us in the dark?
So you approve of flirting, eh?"
In theory, but not as they
Who practise what they preach; no tryst
Have I to keep—still, en effet,
I am a sentimentalist.

L'Envoi.

O Prince, no matter what they say,
The cynics know what they have missed,
And therefore in my humble way,
I am a sentimentalist.

GOWNS

The Editor,
"The Ubyssey,"
Sir:

In your last issue a somewhat astounding statement was made with regard to the action of the class of Arts '25 in expressing their antipathy to donning the full and proper academic dress for which provision is made in the Calendar of the University.

It comes as a painful blow to those of us who have watched with suppressed gratification the strenuous efforts of the new Junior Class to maintain the high standard of deportment and efficiency to which they so obviously aspired in the first and second years of their college career.

Surely a class with such elevated ideals and objectives — provided it is genuinely sincere in the pursuit of such objectives—cannot fail to appreciate the necessity of assuming at least the outward and visible signs of "academic dignity"!

There are also economic and aesthetic considerations.

Yours truly,
LUCRETII.

Editor of Ubyssey.
Dear Sir:

During our recent campaign one of our slogans was "we're packed, let's move!" but evidently that slogan was not quite true at the time, though no one who knows the facts would deny its veracity today. The proof of this condition is not far to seek, for when it is necessary to requisition for general use a certain little "cubby-hole" 5—10½ ft., things must certainly be in a bad way. This "office" has been for years the undisputed and only retreat of our genial friend Mr. Tansley, the man whom we all respect so highly, but consider so slightly.

Surely Mr. Editor, this much abused and overworked gentleman is entitled to at least sufficient room to eat his lunch with some degree of privacy. The niche that Bill has occupied, though miserably small and unheated, was yet some place that he could call his own, now that too is gone, or rather locked up. I think this would bear investigation.

Yours for fair play,
FILIUS '23.

EXCHANGES.

New York—Through the efforts of the newly organized interfraternity house association, a nineteen story hotel for fraternity men is being erected here. The completed building will contain 625 furnished rooms, and a private club room for each fraternity housed. It will contain, in addition to the rooms mentioned, a large and a small dining hall, cafeteria, billiard room, gymnasium, roof garden, reading rooms, writing rooms, and a library.

A block of rooms will be permanently reserved for each fraternity represented, each block containing approximately one hundred rooms. This will enable each fraternity to house their visiting brothers.

University of California—The land just north of the Greek Theatre has been chosen as the site of the first dormitory on the campus. Later two units will be constructed to the west of the Greek Theatre, and if these do not prove sufficient to take care of the situation, more units will be added east of the Greek Theatre.

Finances and plans for these buildings will probably be arranged in time to start excavations for the foundation of the first unit before the end of the Spring semester.

University of Utah.—The sophomore class at the University of Utah, says the Utah Chronicle, has just awakened to the fact that it is the custom in university circles for each class to be distinguished from another by some form of noticeable dress. So far the second year men have been known as the "class without a colour," and have been marked by the absence of such things as freshie caps and upper class corduroys. After a grave discussion they have decided it is better to be known because of a thing, than because of not, something, and so have chosen a tailored blue shirt as a tasteful, dignified means of letting people know who they are. The purpose of the innovation is the aforesaid class distinction, to facilitate acquaintance among sophomores, and to unite and express class spirit.

Of course a Freshman would never be taken for a Senior, or vice versa, but still it might be advisable to have distinguishing marks for the various classes.

FIRST DIVISION SOCCER

satisfy the Varsity squad, and from now on better results may be expected.

The defence put up by Varsity was very good, and when Wilkinson takes his place on the forward line, that, too, should be good. On Saturday the wings, Emery and Deans, sent over several nice crosses. Baker, although playing in a strange position, and with a game leg, did well. Lundie got few chances, but enlarged on the few he did get. McLuckie is a comer if his game on Saturday is any criterion.

The first real chance of the students to support soccer will be next Saturday. At Athletic Park, Varsity will play the Vancouver Elks. A good game should result, and with student support the team will put over a win.

The Varsity line-up: Mosher; Wilkinson and Crute; Jackson, Phillips, and Buckley; Deans, McLuckie, Lundie, Baker, and Emery.

Freshettes Hold Delightful Kids' Party

Little Ones Have Heaps of Fun.

What delightful children the Freshettes were last Friday evening with their curls and ribbons, their little frilly dresses, and their socks! Promptly at 7.30 a whole bevy of them came tripping down the hall to the auditorium in exuberant spirits, clasping their money in one hand and their toys in the other. Gracious Sophs. went forward to receive them, and assured some bashful ones that there would be all sorts of nice little girls to play with.

When all the children had arrived, Miss Bollert welcomed them to the party, and complimented them on coming down from the third floor in the conventional manner and not on their hands and knees, as former Freshettes had done. The little ones then indulged in a few childish games supervised by the Sophs., and lined up for a grand march through the Arts Building.

On their return they were fed with bulrushes and animal biscuits, and seated on the floor to take vows to their Alma Mater and to the Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores, whom they must "love, honor, and obey," and give up their lives for if need be.

Miss Lillian Cowdell, of Arts '24, read out the rules for their behavior throughout the rest of the term, and Miss Jean Faulkner, vice-president of the Sophs., explained to the children exactly what was meant, in case some might be confused by the big words.

The rest of the evening was enjoyably spent in dancing, but at ten o'clock, as the children were getting sleepy, the Sophs. judged it best to send them home to their mothers and to bed.

W. U. S. ENTERTAIN AT PREFECT TEA

On Saturday afternoon the auditorium was the scene of a delightful tea given by the Women's Undergraduate Society to the Freshettes. It was difficult to believe that these fashionably gowned women of Arts '27 were the wild, galloping youngsters of the previous evening.

Mrs. Klinck, Miss M. L. Bollert and Miss B. Somerset received the guests, after which Miss Somerset and Miss MacInnes tendered speeches of welcome to the incoming women. The presidents of the various organizations then gave outlines of the aims and work of their different fields, and solicited membership. To complete the program, Miss Rosie Marin and Miss Lyness entertained the guests with delightful solos.

The pleasant afternoon terminated with refreshments, Mrs. Klinck, Miss Bollert and Miss MacInnes presiding over the tea tables.

Literary Corner

THE DOVES

(Translated from the French of Albert Samain.)

The lone sea holds the bleak horizon pressed,
A line of doom where yet the old Ark quivers,
And low beside the straining mast, Hope shivers,
With numbed arms crossed upon her guileless breast.

When night has come, from year to changeless year,
The Soul, a pilot steering fixedly,
Has seen in sobbing darkness disappear
Her doves that seek the port of mystery.

Ah! there they go, their plumage rent and torn,
Through the mad wind that foam upon them flings,
Exulting in their souls' sublimity.
The Ark beholds, each mocking pallid morn,
Their sweet white forms upon the scornful sea,
Poor corpses floating with yet-outspread wings.

LITERARY NOTES.

The purpose of the Literary Corner is to draw out undiscovered literary talent among the students. It seeks to encourage those undergraduates who write either prose or verse. Each week one contribution appears in this column. All contributions should be addressed to the Literary Editor, "Ubyssey."

WILLAMETTE DEBATE HELD THIS YEAR

Among the various questions which the Women's Lit. has to consider every year at the opening of a new term, that of debating is not one of the least. The Debates Managers have no easy task in choosing subjects which will be both interesting and instructive.

Last year, considerable enthusiasm was displayed by debaters and their supporters, especially in the inter-class debates, which were carried on with keen competition. The girls of Arts '25 have been victorious in this competition twice in succession, and it is wondered whether they will carry off the Inter-class Debating Shield again this year.

It is to be regretted that last year, owing to certain circumstances, the international debate was cancelled; however, this year, in all probability, debaters will be sent down to Willamette University. It is hoped that all those interested in debating and public speaking will come forward and help to make the year a successful one in this line.

Extracts From Vanilla

The Muckitorial staff has been reorganized, and a muckier Mr. Muck is trying to muck along under the cognomen of Chief Muck. Being Chief Muck is certainly a soft job; all one has to do is write these foolish ditties each week and expect them to get by. After reading some of them, a Freshman informed us that he had been inspired to write a critical analysis of "Muck Ado About Nothing." We feel highly flattered that our attempts have been so appreciated.

The Pyjama Parade on Saturday night was an unlimited success. Wouldn't it be curious if some of our ancestors could suddenly come to life and view the spectacle. We are sure Shakespeare would have rubbed his eyes and thought of "The Twelfth Night" (in a bar-room).

Yes, we have no Pyjamas. We have no Pyjamas today. The unpardonable plea.

An American chemist has discovered a radio-active light, in liquid form, which, poured into a bowl, will give light for years. We hear that the man who accidentally drank some in mistake for bootleg whisky has now obtained a job walking round the balcony of a lighthouse.

CONSTITUTION OF MEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY

Name and Objects.

Section 1. The name of the organization shall be the Men's Literary Society of the University of British Columbia. The objects of the Society are to give its members the opportunity for practise in speaking and debating, and to provide for the free discussion of matters of public interest.

Membership.

Section 2. Any undergraduate student of any faculty shall be a member of the Society. Any graduate may attend the meetings and speak on the same terms as a member of the Society.

Method of Procedure.

Section 3. The regular method of procedure will be as follows:—

The general subject for discussion will be announced in advance (two weeks before the date set, if possible). The principal speakers may be designated in advance. The precise resolution to be discussed will be announced not more than three days before the meeting. The principal speakers will be alloted a time not to exceed twenty minutes. After they have spoken, the meeting will be thrown open for discussion. The Chairman shall have the right to call upon any member present to speak, and may limit the length of the speech as he considers expedient.

A vote shall be taken at the end of each meeting on the merits of the resolution, and will reflect the general opinion of the Society as to the question at issue, and not an opinion on the merits of the debaters. Visiting graduates may vote, but other visitors may not vote.

The Society may receive visitors, who may speak either as principal speakers or in the subsequent discussions, as may be arranged. The time alloted to such speakers shall be arranged by the chairman. Any visitor shall be accorded the same courtesy as is due to a member of the Society. His remarks may be made the subject of attack or controversy, as in the case of any member of the Society.

Visitors (members of the teaching staff, and others) may be invited to criticize the debaters—either the principal speakers or any of the other speakers, as may be arranged—but in no case the visitors of the Society. Such criticism will normally be made either after the principal speakers have spoken or at the close of the debate, and before the vote—as the chairman may direct.

The Scholarship is of the annual value of £350 a year, and is tenable for three years.

Applications should be in the hands of the Secretary of the Selection Committee, H. T. Logan, University of British Columbia, not later than October 20th.

New Appointments to Ubyssey Staff.

T. W. Brown has been appointed Associate Editor.

R. B. Mathews will take over the duties of Feature Editor.

Officers and Duties.

Section 4. The Officers shall consist of a President, Secretary, Treasurer and Publicity Manager, elected from and by the members of the Society. Their duties will consist of those usually attributed to such officers in other societies in the University.

In addition, it shall be the duty of the Executive of the Society to compose a list of good speakers. From this list recommendations may be made for debaters or speakers to represent the University. Members shall be eligible on the list if: (1) they shall have been recommended by the judges at any trial for the purpose of selecting speakers or debaters to represent the University; or (2) they shall have been especially recommended by a member of the teaching staff because of their performance in a debate of the Society of which the member of the staff may have been a critic. Any member placed on this list must have intimated his willingness to participate if chosen to represent the University.
