TOP OUR CAMPUS STORIES

ROGER MCAFEE

Roger McAfee, who oversaw the construction of the last "new" student union building at UBC and served as AMS president, tells what has gone wrong at UBC.

JENNY HOFFMAN

After 10 years teaching at Harvard, renowned quantum physicist Jenny Hoffman comes to UBC looking for better opportunities to collaborate. She also runs 24-hour races and is irked by unionized TAs.

VERONICA KNOTT

As the fight over proposed international tuition increases heated up, student member of the Board of Governors Veronica Knott was inevitably at the centre of the storm.

ANN MAKOSINSKI

First-year student Ann Makosinski is a prize-winning entrepreneur as a result of her two inventions — the Hollow Flashlight and the e-Drink.

JOHNATHAN GIRARD

The conductor of UBC's symphony orchestra revived a tone poem by a Jewish composer whose music had been banned by the Nazi regime.

BEAU DICK

As a leader, an artist and a teacher, Kwakwaka'wakw Hereditary Chief Beau Dick shares his culture's stories through art.

TOP FEATURES

HOUSE OF CARDS

A Ubyssey investigation uncovered that at least two dozen campus buildings are at serious risk of collapse during even a moderate earthquake.

WHOSE CAMPUS

Covering tuition hikes, the war on fun and unaccountable governance — A five-part series detailing just how far UBC has strayed from being a university that treats students with the respect we deserve.

POLICY, PROTOCOL AND POLITICAL WILL

The university reviewed its response protocols and is drafting a new, specialized policy on sexual assault in light of widespread criticism over its mishandling of reported cases.

HIGH IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Under the pressure of a deadline, a pill of Adderall often looks like the only option for success to students who turn to drugs as study aids.

TO DIVEST OR NOT TO DIVEST

UBC has an estimated $100 million invested in fossil fuels such as oil, natural gas and coal. Despite pressure from students and faculty to divest, UBC chose to keep its shares in fossil fuels.

COLLEGE KIDS

The University Transition Program (UTP) at UBC allows young students, usually between grades seven to nine, to complete high school in two years and enter university around the age of 14.

TYLER KUNTZ LEAVES UBC HOCKEY FOR VANCOUVER GIANTS JULY 29

After spending 14 of the last 16 years in a variety of roles within UBC Athletics, Tyler Kuntz has moved on. Kuntz, who was named head coach of the Thunderbirds men's hockey team last year, resigned to be an assistant coach with the WHL's Vancouver Giants. In his resignation letter he wrote, "Nobody should be treated with such ignorance and disrespect as my hockey program, players and staff were in the past two years ... what I did not know is that we would be considered irrelevant to the university and its absent leadership."

OP-ED: UBC'S RELENTLESS POSITIVITY IS A DISSERVICE TO STUDENTS SEPTEMBER 15

News editor Moira Warburton calls bullshit on Martha Piper's (and the rest of the university's) unending pep, or at least for it to be backed up by a dose of realism.

Think NCAA basketball, but for eSports. That's what UBC's eSports Club won when they swept Robert Morris University in the North American Collegiate Championship tournament for League of Legends, earning each player a $30,000 scholarship and bragging rights.

NEW SUB HATCHES ART FROM UNIVERSITY ARCHIVES SEPTEMBER 7

The Hatch opened in the Nest with an exhibit showcasing UBC's archival materials relating the student union buildings since 1939. Its aim was to integrate the past and future of UBC's student life.

GUT BACTERIA LINKED TO ASTHMA IN INFANTS OCTOBER 7

Ubyssey science published its first article! The science section is the place for stories about research, science and technology at UBC. Also, UBC research showed a link between infants' gut bacteria and asthma. Wait, what?

TUITION INCREASE ANNOUNCED OCTOBER 14

This year, tuition was raised by almost 50 per cent for international students at UBC over the next three years. Students fought hard to see that number lowered in many programs and it represented a significant success when Finance Committee Chair Greg Peet told university administrators to go back to the drawing table with their "benchmarking" process and better include students in that process.

AN AUDIENCE WITH NARDWUAR THE HUMAN SERVIETTE OCTOBER 5

UBC's legendary music reporter showcased video clips from Nardwuar's prolific career in interviewing musicians and politicians. In one portion of the event dubbed "Nard Danger," the audience was exposed to moments of Nardwuar confronting the nasty side of the media.

THE UBC QUIDDITCH TEAM ISN'T JOKING AROUND OCTOBER 8

The team is "arguably the best" in Canada.

MALARIA PROTEINS ARE BEING USED TO FIGHT CANCER OCTOBER 26

UBC helped develop a new drug using a malaria protein that shows promise as a cancer drug. The protein is used by malaria to attaches to a sugar structure on the surface of the placenta, allowing red blood cells to stick. That same sugar structure is on tumour cells.

OVER-PRESCRIPTION OF OPIOIDS LINKED TO HIGHER DEATH RATES IN BC NOVEMBER 9

According to a study at UBC, the over-prescription of opioids — more commonly known as painkillers — has been linked to higher death rates in British Columbia. The study found that there is a significant variation in the prescribing of opioids in that regions with overall higher purchases had higher rates of opioid related deaths on average.

STEVEN GALLOWAY SUSPENDED NOVEMBER 18

Despite that the investigation into allegations against Steven Galloway, the former chair of the creative writing department, was supposed to last 60 days, not a word has been spoken about why the famous writer departed. Criticism did crop up for his former publisher, Random House, which pledged its support to Galloway despite the lack of information regarding what the allegations were.

REVIEW: MANON IS RICH, STRIKING AND INTENSE NOVEMBER 6

UBC Opera's first performance of the year featured a performer directly from New York's Metropolitan Opera in the lead male role. Of course falling in love in the space of one song is ridiculous, but the sold-out audience of opening night was swept along with the comedy, romance and excitement.

CBC REVEALS STRING OF ASSAULTS NOVEMBER 20

A much-anticipated documentary by the CBC revealed a series of incidences within the history department at UBC. One PhD student was alleged to have sexually assaulted over four women while studying at UBC — at least one assault taking place in the graduate residence of Green College. Several women went on record with CBC to say that the university encouraged discretion and, in at least one case, that mediation between survivor and assaliant take place. In the wake of the scandal, UBC saw the need to develop a stand-alone sexual assault policy.

LEAKED FOIS REVEAL WHY GUPTA QUIT JANUARY 27

After months and months of speculation as to why Gupta resigned, UBC finally had no choice but to release the flood of freedom of information requests that had been delayed multiple times. For a day, little was uncovered. On January 27 however, the UBC community woke up to a shock — much of the redacted material could be seen by viewing it on a different program. Gupta, who had been radio silent since his resignation, did many interviews to dispel the picture of a poor president painted in the docs.

ARTS AND CULTURE NIGHT PROVIDES SNAPSHOT OF STUDENT LIFE FEBRUARY 1

The Arts and Culture District presented an evening of performances from musicians, UBC Improv and UBC Slam in the Museum of Anthropology. Exposing students to a spectrum of perspectives and experiences, the night served to broaden our understanding of the modern individual and to play our parts in building a collective cultural identity.

FACULTY ASSOCIATION PROTESTS FOR BOARD MEMBERS TO RESIGN FEBRUARY 2

The Faculty Association has been particularly vocal since ex-President Gupta's resignation. They have repeatedly called the Board of Governors out on its lack of transparency, its attacks on academic freedom and, most recently, passed a no-confidence motion in the ability of the board to govern. Although this doesn't have an actual impact on the board's legal position as governors of the university, it doesn't bode well for the relationship between these two parties.

IT'S A NO TO DIVESTMENT FEBRUARY 3

Divestment was brought to the board level by referendums held at student and faculty levels. Both voted overwhelmingly in favour of divesting university investments from all holdings in fossil fuels. However, the board declined to divest, saying it would be irresponsible and casting aside their fiduciary duty to do so. Instead they created the Sustainable Future Fund, which will invest only in sustainable ventures.
