SUMAS COUNCIL TRANSACTS BUSINESS

The regular meeting of the Sumas council was held in the council room on Saturday last with all the members of the council present and the Reeve in the chair.

Mr. Porter, who at a previous meeting had entered into a contract to build a bridge, appeared and asked to have the contract nullified. He explained that he had been promised cerain assistance in building the bridge; that these people had now changed their minds, and that he could not go ahead with the work. The council accepted Mr. Porer's explanation and the contract was cancelled.

r. Parberry wrote, asking that a bridge be built to allow him to come and go from his place to town without having to cross the international boundary. The clerk was instructed to write to Mr. Parberry and invite him to attend the nert meeting of the council.

A letter was read from the Soldiers' Welfare League of New Westminster was read. The letter asked for information regarding land for sale, and erplained that Mr. Paterson would visit the district soon.

Otway Wilkie, of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, had written asking for listings of land suitable for returned soldier,snd the clerk explained that he had posted a notice in the post office inviting all residents who had land to sell to communicate direct with Mr. Wilkie.

A letter was received from Clerk McDiarmid, of Delta, regarding the movement for a uniform memorial tablet. The reeve explained that a further meeting was to be held to consider this question, the matter was left in his hands.

The B. C. E. R. notified the council that the company has no gravel for sale.

Another letter from the same company regarding filling of depressions, stated that the company would work in conjunction with the C. P. R. A letter from the C. P. R. on this questin was enclosed both letters promising that the work would be started at once.

It was decided to publish a publicity booklet similar to those being published by the other municipalities of the Fraser Valley. The Columbian Company were instructed to proceed with this work.

A pound bylaw was introduced, setting the fees at five dollars for delivering stallions and bulls to pound and two fifty for hogs. It was resolved that the road from the Harris road ,to railway station be gazetted according to plans submitted by Engineer Taylor.

John Farmer, of Straiton asked for an appropriation of $200 on the road leading to his place. Councillors Austin and Atkinson will go over road and report to the next meeting of the council.

Mr. Wolfe appeared before the council, ready for battle. He said he was 79 years old and could whip anyone, preferably Clerk Yarwood. Reeve Fooks threatened to have Wolfe forcibly ejected, whereupon he stated that he was ninety-eight years old. It developed that the clerk had advanced money from his own pocket to buy groceries for the Wolfes pending the payment of money due from the council. The council reimbursed Mr. Yarwood, and Mr. Wolffe seemed happier, though he continued to shake his fist at intervals at the clerk.

Complaints were laid before the council that children attending the Musselwhite school and others living near Abbotsford had formed the habit of throwing stones at people and animals. Steps will be taken to prevent this.

It was decided to call for tenders for the Star Creek bridge, on which work will be commenced within a month.

Twenty loards of gravel were appropriated for the Straiton road.

Plans for the fill on the Kilgarde road were received and filed.

A small appropriation having lately been made for the McKee road, Coun. Atkinson drew attention to the fact that the council held a promisory note drawn by F. D. Bouchie for one hundred dollars to assist in building this road. This note had never been paid and the clerk was instructed to collect on it.

Mr. Joe Trethewey has gone up to his ranch for a few days.

The dance in the Alexandria hall last Friday night was quite a success financially, some thirty dollars being added to the treasury from the proceeds, also very successfuly socialy. The patrons were Mrs. McPhee, Mrs. Swift, Mrs. Sumner and Mrs. MacGowan. Everything went off very favorably.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Bradwell, recently of Regina, have purchased the A Phillips' place on the uat and will reside in Mission City.

ColinCampbell returned from the front on Friday morning last.

AIR SERVICE ASSOCIATION

One of the latest soldier organizations to be recognized in British Columbia is the Air Service Association whose temporary headquarters have been established at 821 Pender St., West, Vancouver. All ex-members of the air services of the British Empire are entitled to membership in this association, no matter what their rank.

It is suggested that there are quite a number of Air Force men in this district who should become members of this organization. The association membership granted to those outside Vancouver City costs only a dollar a year and entitles members to full privileges while they are visiting at the coast. Any inquiries should be addressed to the secretary, Air Service Association, 821 Pender St., West. Vancouver, B. C.

A service button is being issued by the association. It is a very neat design, being about the size of a ten cent piece with the traditional wings of the air force raised in silver in the centre of the button. The background is the Union Jack, and the words "Air Service Association of B. C." appear on the outer circle. Anyone sending for this pin should enclose his former rank and regimental number otherwise the pin will not be sent. The cost of this pin is only one number, otherwise the pin will not be dollar. They will be serially numbered to prevent any duplication.

HUB SQUARE QUITE LIVELY

(From the Fraser Valley Record)

Up to the time of going to the linotype with the following story Hub Square has been a most exciting part of the town. It started Sunday morning very bright and early when two of our handsome bachelors went to the coast cities for the day. They returned in the evening having missed the boat which was to take them for a trip "around the world."

On Monday the east and the north met, and after exchanging compliments, hiked to the police court, one with the assistance of the policeman, where they appeared before the 'beak' and the north after paying a fine of ten simoleons and being bound over to keep the peace for a year, they departed to their homes.

On Tuesday after dinner one of our prominent automobile dealers jumped into his Ford and went to the Bank to deposit the sales of several new cars and a couple of second-hand cars. The Ford thought it was a new self-starter and decided to go to the Bank too. It started but took the "ghee' turn instead of the "haw" turn and made its deposit on the south side of the sidewalk, not right side up 'with care', but just the 'tother way, and looked quite sorry too.

You should have seen "Joe" when he came out of the bank' More fuss made about the Ford's deposit—probably not so much secrecy. Someone said it wanted water.

A little later another Ford dashed up in front of our barber shop and made a handsome deposit. A "last long lingering look" by the fair depositor gave the Ford a chance to 'loop the loop', which it did.

Mr. Fraser York, of Huntingdon, was a visitor in Mission City on Monday, the guest of Mr. C. A. Christie.

Lieut Carson, of Vancouver, formerly of Mission City, attended the dance on Friday night.

THE ABBOTSFORD POST

J. A. BATES, Editor and Proprietor

Published Every Friday

FRIDAY, APRIL 11, 1919

The Dominion government has set apart some $20,000,000 for the various provinces to be spent on roads during the next five years. According to this each province will receive some $90,000 each year. Roads are divided into three classes: Main Highways, Market Roads, Roads leading to market roads and first class highways. It is proposed that the federal money would be advanced only on first-class roads. The Hon. J. D. Reid said it was necessary to have good roads for various reasons. The idea of the scheme is to assist the rural population and to decrease the cost of transportation from the farm to the market or place of shipment.

The Hon. Mr. Reid is to be commended for his ideas as much as for the money. But we were just wondering how much Dewdney would get. The condition is that it must be a 'first-class road'. Now where are the firstclass roads in Dewdney at the present time? The roads have gone back about 40 per cent during the past two years as almost anyone will agree In 1916 according to the statements of the Hon. John Oliver while on the hustings there would have been no trouble about placing the couple of odd thousand dollars but really now apart from that in the municipalities one is at a loss. Shall we ask John Oliver again?

The bill to change the name of Westminster riding to Fraser Valley has been given its second reading and sent to the senate It is hoped the senate will not sen' it to the W. P. B.

We are getting down more to business and making the Oriental conform to our laws more strictly than ever. Now he has to mark the packages containing Oriental eggs, and he is not allowed to have white girls as waitresses in his restaurant. Make him hew the mark and he may yet see the advisability of living in his own China.

Premier Oliver says he does not expect an early election unless the lieutenant-governor says something. He further stated that there was no election sight. The government is to completely revise the election act before the next session. We will have to take his word for it.

The late Sir Wilfrid Laurier left an estate worth about $150,000, all of course, to Lady Laurier. A man of his ability might have made more money had he followed a business life, with the same devotion, but he would have died most probably as Wilfrid Laurier, multo-millionaire.

Mrs. Ralph Smith says that the women of Alberta are fortunate in having a government that stands by them, but it is not like that in British Columbia. Mrs. Ralph Smith was elected as an Independent with the assistance of the Liberal vote. She has pretty consistently supported the B. C. Liberal government and therefore should be in a position to make her statement at Calgary to the women. But the one point we would like to know is why she does not teach the Oliver government to be far more chivalrous?

There is a good deal of satisfaction in undoing everything that another person does, whenever the opportunity affords itself. But that method is a poor builder for prosperity. In 1907 the government of the day set apart two million acres of land for the benefit of the B. C. university. The land was never actually transferred. Now the present government has come to the conclusion that the university should be supported out of the consolidated funds of the province and the land endowment will therefore not be required. Why not let the endowment stand?

Vancouver World: Here's a funny one! A voucher was produced before the public accounts committee covering the shipment of some liquor to a certain up-country hospital. The cheque in payment was not written to include exchange, so an exacting official deducted two and a half ounces of whiskey from the order for exchange. Next day some one "with in the ring" stole a carload. Now a member of the commitee is trying to find out whether or not that two and a half ounces of booze might not have saved the life of a 'flu patient.

If there is one thing in business life that should be regulated by act of parliament it is this same 'exchange' The banking system as we understand requires exchange on outside cheques and someone should pay it and that some one should be stated by law. In the long run it would work out satisfactorily to both parties. The way it is now the little fellow often gets nipped both ways.

However there are few customers who would think of docking the customer an amount sufficient to pay the exchange. It looks small business.

The Telephone Numbers Should be Given Slowly One Digit at a Time

Within reach of each operator are rows of small holes called "jacks". Through these the connections are made with flexible cords, the tips of which are inserted in the "jacks" corresponding to numbers called.

Here a connection is being made with 1-2-2. The operator must work with care and precision. Most important of all is that she shall understand correctly the connection desired, numbers rattled off hurriedly are often incorrectly given.

It will help greatly if you will give the number in this way: one-two-two, speaking slowly and distinctly.

ARE STILL SAVING

The people of the leading Allied countries who under the pressure of the war began to save, fortunately have shown no marked tendency to discontinue since the actual fighting ceased. In the United States the per capita sales of War Savings and Thrift Stamps during December were about 83 cents.

In the United Kingdom during the week ending February 1, 2,308,810 War Savings Certificates were sold. More than 500,000 buyers took single, or bound Certificates. In a recent statement the National War Savings committee of the United Kingdom, says:—

"These figures prove that while a number of investors, including many wealthy people buy larger denominations, the small investor, for whom these Certificates were primarily intended continues to respond week by week, and five years hence will reap the benefit of the movement, which, originating through patriotic motives during the war, has found its place in supplying the financial needs of ordinary people."

END STOMACH TROUBLE, GASES OR DYSPEPSIA

"Pape's Diapepsin" makes sick, sour, gassy stomachs surely feel fine in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach-headache, you can get relief in five minutes by neutralizing acidity. Put an end to such stomach distress now by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder caused by food fermentation due to excessive acid in stomach.

GETTING FACTS ABOUT YOUR CUSTOMER

If an advertiser knew in advance the personal likes and dislikes of all his customers, he would know how to phrase a selling talk that would register 100 per cent.

If a manufacturer knows in advance the people in various communities, if he knows merchandizing conditions in each one, he can then readily pick the places where he is apt to get the best results with his advertising.
He can phrase his argument in the most effective style.

Stationery Facts

All lines of paper seem to be on the climb instead of on the down the ladder to lower prices. Contracts made to day are made at a certain price, with this condition that if the price comes down the customer gets the benefit of the lower price.

Envelope Facts

I have been fortunate in buying in the East a large quantity of envelopes, enabling me to sell at a price that cannot be equalled in any other printing office unless they purchase at the same place, and few of them do. I am selling these at

$4.50 and $4.75 per M

These envelopes are going fast, and some of our best customers have not yet taken advantage of the offer. It is possible that a month from now they may be too late. Theregular line of envelopes cost more than they did last year, because the wholesale price is higher. Nothing will be lost if they are kept over until next year as envelopes will probably be more costly than ever in 1920.

GETTING READY FOR PROVINCIAL FALL FAIR

New Westminster, April 10.—Every fruit grower, stock raiser and producer who is anxious to intelligently advertise the excellence of what he or she produces, will be interested in the decision of the directorate of the R. A. & I. Society to revive New Westminster's annual provincial exhibition this year. Preliminary arrangements have already been made and actual work of reconstructing Queen's Park to handle the great volume of exhibits will get under way within the next few days.

Early in March last, the annual meeting of the Association was called by President C. A. Welsh and that the outside farmer had found it hard to fill the gap caused by cessation of the big fair during the war, was evident in the unbounded enthusiasm shown and by the large attendance. The meeting was held on one of the worst evenings of the winter. There was snow on the streets, several inches deep and the flakes were still drifting to earth in a veritable cloud by eight o'clock that night. Yet the council chamber in the city hall was well filled and a big percentage of those present were from various points in the Fraser and Chilliwack Valleys nd from Vancouver Island.

That evening Manager-Secretary D. E. Mackenzie read from over one hundred letters and telegrams covering a territory embracing every section of producing areas of the province all of a congratulatory nature and all urging resumption of exhibition activity this year

Before the session was over, officers for the year had been re-elected directors appointed and committees named. The immensity of the organization which controls the fair may be gathered when it is known that there are thirty-two committee chairmen all of whom work with but one object in view: To revive the fair and to make it bigger and better than ever."

So that this ambition may be no idle boast next October the management fully realize that ultimate success depends upon the degree of assistance rendered them by the man who produces. So the prize list this year is figured to total at least $35,000 and is to be so broad in its range that all branches of agricultural, horticultural and manufacturing activity will be embraced.

President C. A. Welsh estimates that an expenditure close to $75,000 will be necessary before the management can rest on its oars and remark "Well we have done our bit, now its up to the people to show their appreciation."

Fair dates have been arranged with a view to permitting the smaller fairs of the province to complete their work and then shoot their best into the Royal City where the big and the visitors will be. Opening day is Monday September 29 and the fair ends the following Saturday.

Autoists whocome up the north side of the Fraser River say that the road just east of Haney at the saw mill 'is the worst ever'. Most of them in going down take the turn north at Albion.

BUY W.S.S. WAR-SAVINGS STAMPS

A Word To Merchants

The departmental stores have started their spring advertising As they cannot for love or money get their advertisements in the country papers they resort exclusively to catalogues. They reach the people and many of these people are buying goods ranging from baby socks to ice chests. Why is this business growing?

It is not so much due to the claim that the goods can be purchased far cheaper, for when all things are taken into consideration, quality, express, opportunity of seeing what you buy, and the benefits derived by the contributions made by the local merchant for the betterment of the community, and the further fact that your dollar never comes back, the advantage rests with the home-purchased goods. The question is an easy one.

The department stores believe in advertising, not once in a while, but all the time. They understand human nature and fully realize that if they are to sell their goods they must let the people know about them.

If every merchant in the country towns would give close attention to his advertising, follow it up as he does the other departments in his store, the eastern department store would soon cease to be a menace to local trade. The successful merchant, as it has been demonstrated time and time again is the advertising merchant and the merchant who argues against the efficacy of advertising in these modern times is riding to a fall.

There is advertising and advertising, just the same as there is merchandizing and merchandizing. We are talking of legitimate and intelligent advertising, not what is spent on advertising. The results of proper advertising are so apparent that argument seems superfluous.

But, mind you, the advertiser gets the buyer, and the department stores of the east are chasing up the dollars of Western Canada this spring in a manner that is more energetic than ever before. It is up to the local merchant to protect himself.—Standard-Sentinel

Obviate Use of the "Worm"

The still found by Policeman Sid Saunders at Echo Lake near Harrison Mills, last week, resembles the common double boilers and have been patterned after the well known mush boiler used by the housewife. The bottom section would contain the ingredients of the liquor, or alchohol. The top boiler, instead of having a flat bottom, has a large cone extending up to the top, under which is another conical shaped rim of copper about three inches in height. The mash or fruits that are used are allowed to boil over a fire, and the still could be cuveniently placed over a gas stove or a common kitchen range. The vapor arises, until it strikes the large concial bottom of top boiler, on to which a hose is played, keeping fresh cold water in the container, which has a small hole to allow the water to escape before becoming heated. Thus, the steam from the ingredients strikes a cold copper cone, condenses and runs down the sides untn caught in the smaller cone and allowed to run out through a small strip of pipe into a waiting bottle or cup. This type of still des away with the incriminating "worm" and is much the same as those employed by many logging camp cooks, who simply place a mixing bowl inside the boiler, placed on the top of a milk can, with both ends cut out, and with a wash basin of cold water over the top for a lid, allow their mixture to boil, steam striking the bottom of the wash basin, the pure alcohol dropping into the mixing bowl. Thes till can easily be camouflaged by removing the small pipe from the side and placing a regular boiler lid on the affair. It would then have the apeparance of a legitimate boiler to the casual observer. At least that is as near as our society editor could come to it after seeing it at the court house the other day.

Maple Ridge

With many deputations speeches and debates the Municipal Council failed to complete its agenda on Saturday, although the members sat from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. The most important business, the revision of the estimates and striking the tax rate, was adjourned until Monday evening.

The town and country members had a lengthy debate upon whether sidewalks should bec onstructed at the expense of the municipality as a whole or under a scheme taxing a defined area benefited directly more or less by these conveniences, under a section of the Municipal Act 1917.

The debate ended in a resolution tht the clerk instruct the solicitor to draw up a bylaw according to chapter 45, section 31, of the act for submission to the people. The definition of the area in Haney is in the meantime, left for further data to be gathered by Councillor Adair The scheme is that the defined area shall contribute 50 per cent. of the cost of the sidewalks and the other 50 per cent. shall come out of general revenue as the contribution of the whole municipality.

Councillor Ewing led the country party contending for 60 per cent. from the defined area and 40 per cent. from general revenue.

Councillor Dickson the urban population pointed at the disproportionate contribution to the revenue by town and rural districts. The former property was assessed at about twenty times as much as the latter. Reeve Ansell steered an even keel in the happy medium—the defined area channel. Councillor Best concurred.

Owing to the resignation of Trustee Anderson from the School Board an election to fill the vacancy was set —nomination day April 19, polling if necessary, April 25. Polling places —Whannock Ladies' hall; Hammond Fosset's hall; Haney, Municipal hall.

Three tenders were received for clearing the site of the Whonnock cemetery—one acre, Mr. G. E. Clark was awarded the contract at $225. The other offers were $275 and $450

President Cattell and Mr. J. McIntosh of the Agricultural Society appeared to ask for an increase in the council's grant from $300 to $400 The president advanced many reasons why the grant should be even larger. The district was, he believed, the greatest poultry centre in the valley and the association needed a new poultry house for the exhibits. Then there was the increase in prizes. The usefulness of the exhibition in attracting settlers was also urged. A favorable reply was given after discussion but the definite answer was left for a later session.

Mr. Campbell urged the fulfilment of a promise made by the council of some years ago to give him road access to his land, and enable him to ship his products to market. He was supported by his neighbor. Mr. Weldon. It appeared that the obstacle to the accomplishment of council's obligation wast he refusal of Mr. Blackburn, a neighboring landowner to sell a small portion of his property to complete the road which would afford an outlet to Dewdney trunk road.

The reeve explained that the solicitor had been instructed to expropriate, if necessary, out Mr. Whiteside thought he could induce Mr. Blackburn to dispose of the portion needed and he will endeavor to settle the question.

That much debated bridge across Whonock Creek to give direct connection with Ruskin was again in evidence. Messrs E. Bartlett and C. Crowe again represented both communities urging definite action. The council finally appointed a committee consisting of Councillor Best, Clerk McFarlane and Bridge Foreman Gillies to visit the site of the bridge take measurements for the preparation of specifications by Mr. McFarlane, and thereafter tenders will be called in for consideration by the May meeting

Mr. G. O. Buchanan proposed that the council give him vehicular entry to his property by gravelling the nine feet wide dyke at Spencer's, Kanaka Creek. He had invested $20,000 in his property.

The council viewed the dyke proposition cautiously. The gravelling of the dyke as a road inferred gazetting it; that implied liability for all breaks. Therefore an alternative was found in a bridges cheme and the board of works will visit the locality and inspect a site with a view to its construction.

Mr. Buchanan thanked the council for its hospitable reception of the returned soldiers' re-establishment committee. Mr. Peterson had expressed his appreciation of Maple Ridge which Mr. Buchanan thought had established a record in the Fraser Valley for efficiency and celerity in advancing the work of re-establishment

Mr. Stacey M. P., had arrived on a special mission to expedite the soldiers' settlement on the land. He wished to have any complaint of unfair or discourteous treatment to a soldier's application for land communicated to him. In conclusion he invited the council to attend a meeting in New Westminster on Friday evening. The councillors will attend.

A letter from Premier Oliver was read. It was in answer to one from the council urging immediate attention to the River road and informed the council that Dr. King and his engineers would give the request favorable consideration.

The increased work of the council both at the municipal board extra meetings and outside inspecting roads and bridges, on deputations and attending meetings involving municipal interests, has compelled consideration of indemnities. Accordingly Coun. Ewing gave notice of an amendment to the indemnity bylaw.

Municipal Auditor Crehan delivered an interesting address on the Municipal Act elucidating its provisions and incidentally instilling a healthy caution into the breasts of councillors in dealing with estimates which on adoption must not be exceeded.

Councillr Lilley referring to the roads, said that in driving over the municipality in connection with the rural mail delivery with the postoffice official, that gentleman expressed his surprise that he had only seen 200 feet of defective roads in the municipality. They were better than those he had recently driven over in Mt. Pleasant, South Vancouver, Burnaby and New Westminster. The council chortled with aproval.

Cars For Everyone

Henry Ford, it is reported, will put on the market a new motor car to sell for from $250 to $300. Provided the cost of upkeep is in proportion to the selling price such a car will practically revolutionize the urban life of this continent and will also produce far-reaching results in all walks of life.

At that price, and a proportionate cost of upkeep, every family practically can afford one or more cars. Workingmen can live at much greater distances from their employment Almost everyone can live in the country and work in the city. In fact, the areas of cities will be immensely increased.

Residental values in the cities will decrease heavily and those in suburban districts will rise. But in any event there will be a general flattening down of the cost of homes by which city rent payers will be enabled to own homes on cheaper land and more of it in the suburbs.

One problem that immediately arises is that of producing more and better roads for vehicular traffic, which will be tremendously increased. Parallel roads limited to traffic in one direction will be necessary in many places, while both streets and roads will have to be wider and increased in number.

The effect upon the social and economic life of the nation will be so far-reaching that no man probably will today venture a prediction as to its extent. Henry Ford will leave behind him as a monument a revolution in the habits and methods of living of his own and future generations.

And no doubt Ford can do it. He has never failed in any mechanical undertaking and his predictions along that line have invariably proven accurate.—Sun.

WHY GROWERS MUST GET TOGETHER

I have watched with very great interest the Hatzic growers to form a strong exchange and the Mission growers to strengthen their association. Nobody has asked me for any advice or information, but I do not think there are any growers who will question my sincerity in wishing them every success and that we are ready at all times to aid them in every way we possibly can. I know very well the difficulties they will have to overcome and the mistakes they are very liable to make. The two chief ones are selecting the directorate; men for their popularity instead of their business ability. You have not make this mistake? The other one is, promising more than can possibly be accomplished. I am inclined to think to a certain degree this mistake has been made. It is a most natural one to make,almost impossible not to do so. Expectations and results are pretty sure to be a little ways apart, and no matter how splendid the work has been, some will say, "Not up to advance notices" and be more or less sore.

As I see it now, the public are looking for lower prices and will resent higher or even as high prices as last season, no matter what the justice of your case may be. The next thing is how to get better and wider distribution and save every possible expense and waste. I do not presume to touch on your end, but only on our end. You cannot get wider and better distribution except in car lots. You can only get car lots by getting together working wholeheartedly to put up your goods n the best possible manner, selling and shipping together That is your end, to reach our end right. If you do that you can reach every market successfully—Winnipeg west. You will get the top price that every market will pay. The result will be prosperity for every grower in your district and you can rapidly increase your acreage to five times what it is at present with out any fear of having to sell at lower than profitable prices. If you do not get together properly pick, pack and load cars? Calgary, Edmonton and other Alberta markets will be glutted, low prices to you, discouragement and a bad blow to your industry. If those were not sufficient reasons, there are a few others. The tendency is for all big businesses to work together, not combine, but to work with cordial understanding. Perfectly proper, good business. Foolishness to do anything else. Supposing you were to be foolish enough to every one go on his own without regard to the other fellows or the industry, you do not need to have a very lively imagination to know what is going to happen to you. We on our part know that the days of speculation and long margins are done, we must eliminate every possible chance of waste and we must get our supplies to as good advantage as it is possible to get them. Are you going to meet us as individuals, or as a strong united industry?

GETS THEM RIGHT ON THE JOB

On Thursday last Policeman Saunders of Mission City surprised three moon shiners near Harrison Mills. He found the still and the Chinamen at active work. Not only that but he got enough moonshine to run a good sized saloon for a month —150 gallons.

"Sid" got the tip and then he did the rest. He may have found them quicker than he thought, but a little thing like that does not worry him.

The Chinamen were brought to Mission City and appeared before Messrs McIntyre & Hunter, J. P's., who imposed a fine of $500 on one Chinaman, $200 on another and $100 on another, together with the costs about another $100. They had the option of a term in jail,

This is probably the largest fine taken in Mission City for sometime and our policeman deserves great credit for his neat and pretty work.

FRUIT GROWERS WILL INSTALL PRE-COOLING PLANT

(From Our Own Correspondent)

At a very successful and well attended meeting of fruit growers held in the Hatzic Hall on Thursday night it was decided to go ahead with the proposed pre-cooling plan. The Fruit and Mercantile Exchange Ltd., the co-operative association of the district will finance the project and it is expected that the plant will be erected and ready for business about the first of June.

Mr. R. Hood, representing the Okanagan United Growers and Mr. Ross refrigerating expert from the Lynde Canadian Refrigertor Co., were present and addressed the meeting.

Mr. Hood pointed out the necessity of pre-cooling raspberries to ensure their arrival at destination in good condition and urged that this system be dopted at once in order that the best results be obtained in the marketing of the product this coming season.

He stated that last year's experience in handling raspberries from this district in iced car lots was far from satisfactory and as a result the purchasers had lost hundreds of dollars on the transaction. Unless a bettre method of shipping be institut ed than that in existence last year, he said that the dealers in the east would not buy on a cash F.O.B. basis. The speaker referred to the successful business done in the Puyalup district whereby carlots of raspberries were pre-cooled and shipped to the New York and Chicago markets with good success. In the event of a pre-cooling system being installed here he thought that the entire crop could be handled on a cash F.O.B. basis and that the Winnipeg market could take practically the whole output.

Mr. Ross explained the operation of a 6-ton plant that would undertake the work and spoke of the success of pre-cooling fruit in the eastern districts. He felt quite satisfied that the difficulties in shipping fruit from this district could be overcome by this method. Winnipeg, and all intervening markets could easily be reached and the arrival of fruit in good condition assured if pre-cooled, the speaker stated.

Mr. W. E. McTaggart of the B. C. Farmers Magazine also spoke in favor of a pre-cooling system. He pointed out that the past unsatisfactory experience of shipping berries in iced cars would prove to all the need of a change in the method of handling. With both pre-cooling and pulping facilities he thought the growers of the district would have the situation in their own hands as far as marketing was concerned.

Mr. W. J. Manson, the president of the Company was of the opinion that according to last year's experience and the feeling of the trade twards our prorduct it appeared absolutely necessary that some action be immediately taken to improve the facilities for handling fruit. The raspberry industry of the district was becoming too idportant a business to be left unprotected and he thought steps should be taken at once to place it on a basis that would be secure and sound. Continuing, he said that personally he was not as faulliar with the fruit business as he wished to be, but from all the information that he could secure and according to the statements of the other speakers, he felt that the growers would be making a big mistake by not taking prompt action this present year in regards to the installation of a precooling system.

Mr. W. Knight and other speakers expressed themselves in accord with the idea and when put to a vote it was unanimously decided to go ahead with the project.

With both pre-cooling and pulping facilities, the Fruit and Mercantile Exchange will be in a most favorable position to take care of the entire out put of the Mission-Hatzic-Dewdney districts and the growers of these districts will be in possession of facilities second to none in any small fruit community in Canada.
