YOUR FALL FAIR

Several prize lists of fall fairs have been published in this paper, and there is another to come yet—Mission City. These lists are published in the paper with the object of encouraging all who may intend to exhibit whether members of the local association or not. This practice has been carried out for a number of years so that all who read the paper may have an idea of what should be exhibited to advertise the district. Now what is done with the printed list or with the paper with the list printed in it? Was it just locked hurriedly over and cast to one side with no decision as to whether you would compete for a prize or prizes or not. Unless you decided to make an exhibit you are making a big mistake in the interests of your self and of your neighbors and the district. This district is worth boosting and a good fall fair is one of the best ways of boosting. The prize lists are all good and worthy the support of all residents of the district.

There will in ll probability be a good attendance at the fair and among these will be many visitors, some of whom may decide to locate in the district if it can be shown to them that the district can produce what in their opinion is an ideal exhibit for the district that they want to settle in.

Having the name for a good fall fair each year soon gets spread around and the good name spreads much further than we sometimes think it does. The advertising value is one of the best and cheapest method of advertising the district. The agricultural exhibition is the place where the farmer may display his choice products and set his own price for them.

The prizes are worth competing for and there should be a good fair this year. If more will exhibit this year it will be better than ever.

The energetic secretary of the fair has been busy for the past number of weeks and just to see his smile, one of those refreshing smiles that means a better show, tell him that you want an entry form and will fill it out.

There are two kinds of criticisms, honest and "otherwise." Honest criticism is showing the one making a mistake, or doing things in the wrong way, his or her fault in such a way that no offense can be taken and that all concerned may profit by the criticism and avoid making the same mistake twice. The one who never makes a mistake gets no place, but if you make a mistake, be game, take the blame. Don't pass it on.

Otherwise criticism is picking flaws in other people in order to advance yourself, or to keep your own faults from being noticed.

Any person who cannot stand criticism, should have no place on this dear old earth.

B. C. Referendum Likely On Oct. 25

Vancouver, Aug 24.—The probabilities all point to the vote on the liquor referendum in this province being taken on October 25, if the lists can be ready for that date. This much was admitted by attorney-general Farris while in Vancouver.

"It largely depends on the voters' lists, but I think these could be got ready by October 25," stated Hon. Mr. Farris.

The significance of the date lies in the fact that on the same day prohibition referenda will be voted on in Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta so that if B. C. also joins in, October 25 will be one great day of voting on the liquor question from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Ocean.

It is asserted that there has been some jockeying going on by rival interests in regard to the date of the vote in B. C. In consequence of a feeling that prohibition will carry in some of the sister provinces, the "moderates" have been anxious to have the referendum in B. C. taken before the other provinces vote. Contrariwise, it is said, the bulk of the prohibitionists are anxious to have the B. C. vote deferred until after the other provinces have voted.

Under the circumstances, the government, it is said, in its desire not to play favorites in the matter, and so as to get an unbiassed opinion on the question, is of a mind to take the B. C. referendum on the very day that the other provinces vote.

Whether the voters' lists can be ready in time depends again on whether the court of revision in Vancouver can conclude its work without long delays.

Toronto Public Market

On our last visit to this point it was November and we found jobbers doing business each on his own stand similar to Winnipeg or Vancouver. We find the summer method there different from our Western way and very similar to the large European centres especially Glasgow and London, except that no public auction is held in Toronto. All the wholesalers rent space in the market building which is large, cool and conveniently situated, fruit and produce come to it by rail and water from all points on the American continent, space prevents any elaborate display of fruit, much of it being sold from samples on the floor and delivered from the team trucks adjacent to the building. This market opens annually about the first of June and closes about 1st November It is situated on the water front and corner of Yonge Street, and was formerly the Grand Trunk Railway station. We think this means of summer marketing where all the wholesalers are in the same building selling produce which can be readily examined by buyers and fresh supplies in reserve in the cars near by has many advantages over individual warehouse plan, it is a plan that would be found workable and efficient in Winnipeg, Vancouver or other western cities, the chief difficulty in adopting this plan is the expense of the building.

Cuban Sugar Boom

New York—The Ward Liner "Mexico", which reached New York Monday, was delayed for 22 days at Havanna, at a cost of $2,000 a day to the line, because the longshoremen at that port were too busy speculating in sugar to load that vessel or any other. The congestion at that port is the worst in its history.

These deplorable conditions are due to the prosperity of the Cubans The merchants seemingly do not care whether they obtain shipments of goods. Whenever their supply of a commodity runs low they boost its price.

Many ships have lain in Havanna harbor for four months while their cargoes rotted. Nothing has been done to relieve conditions and it is believed generally that nothing will be done so long as public interest centres on the sugar industry.

ABBOTSFORD'S FIRST FLOWER SHOW

Over thirty exhibitors took a deep interest in the success of the first Flower Show for Abbotsford, each exhibitor bringing from four to six different exhibits, making a display at the Masonic Hall that was a great credit to the district, and a surprise to a great many of the visitors. Mr. McCallum, reeve of Matsqui, made the opening remarks.

Special interest was taken in the collection of beautiful roses exhibited by Mr. J. H. Dean of Aldergrove, Roseland Nurseries.

The decorated table winning the first prize was an especially attractive one, done in white tulle and clarkia.

During the afternoon ice cream and tea were served by the ladies.

The attendance was very large and all were pleased with the exhibits.

The following is the prize list:

Best geranium—1st, Mrs. Stewart 2nd, Mrs. Hunter.

Assignment Is Made By Hughes

Victoria, Aug. 24—According to an advertisement published in the Victoria Times today, Griffith R. Hughes has made an assignment of his real and personal estate to David Leeming and Eli Harrison for the general benefit of his creditors. Notice is given to the creditors to meet at the office of Elliott, McLean and Shandley, barristers on September 10, for the purpose of giving directions with reference to the disposal of the estate All claims must be filed before September 7.

Mr. Hughes, who is proprietor of the Victoria Times, recently came into prominence through a charge against him of stealing money from David Spencer Limited, a charge upon which he has been committed for trial at the October assize court. He is now out on bail.

PREMIER OLIVER AWAY NORTH

VICTORIA, Aug. 24.—Premier John Oliver will leave on Monday on a tour of northern British Columbia. On his tour he will be accompanied by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands. The tour will take more than two weeks. Mr. W. J. Bowser's visit to the north has made the premier uneasy as to the feeling of the voters to the government and Premier Oliver intends to counteract Mr. Bowser's visit if possible.

Grasshoppers have played havoc on Matsqui this season. As an example one farm where 1000 sacks of oats were reckoned on turned out to be only 500 sacks. As the oats lay cut the ground was almost black with the pest. Something should be done to offset the annual visit of this pest. It has been tried on the prairie with considerabld success.

J. A. Bates, Editor and Proprietor

There is considerable of an agitation throughout the province these days about the consolidation of our schools, and the little old red school house is weighing in the balance. The world is progressing these days no doubt, but to consolidate our schools throughout the Fraser Valley seems to be pushing progress too fast—coming before its time, or in other words too premature.

We all believe in education and the preparing the young for their life work; we believe that we older people who pay the taxes cannot do too much for the boy or girl, so that he or she may be able to take their places in life with much less handicap. The young man or young woman of tomorrow can not be too well prepared to carry on where the work of civilization where father or mother left off. In short, there are but few of us who do not wish that life should be made easier for future generations through good schools and higher education.

With but very few exceptions in the Fraser Valley, or in B. C. for that matter, the question of thorough consolidation of our schools is bound to be handicapped owing to weather conditions and the present condition of our roads during a very great part of the season. Our country is not thoroughly settled and the boy or girl to go to a central school will usually have a long distance to go. How he will go does not enter into the matter so much, because he can be taken by motor to the school, and even then distance is against the small girl or boy of six or seven going to school every day. The cold drive over poor roads is the detriment to consolidation that cannot be overcome until the country is much beter settled and our road system such that distance will not cause the parent worry about the health of the child.

Under our present system of education it is very questionable whether the boy or girl for the first few years of his school life would be the gainer by consolidation. Our schools dwindle more and more each year into doing for the child what he himself should do. It is not the fault of the teacher but of the system and the times. It is a well-known fact that it is individual effort that counts in school as in after life, and our boys are not taught to think as they should. The larger the school the less tendency there is for individual effort. Seat work properly carried out under the teacher's former instructions is more conducive to self-application than listening to the sonorous voice of teacher, who very often suggests the answer to hurry the work along. The primary object of all education is to make thinkers independent of suggestions from others and here the consolidated or larger school fails.

A more important problem of the present day is the securing and keeping good teachers. There is notenough inducement attached to the teaching profession to enable a man or woman to make a life-work of it. When a teacher gets old there is a tendency to place him in the discard for the young and energetic. What provision is being made for these who have given years of faithful service in the cause of education? They have performed a noble work and with but little pay for it, if we judge of service, but with the result that after twenty-five or thirty years of most faithful service pay does not permit of laying away a snug little sum for the day of need. If we consider education as valuable as we pretend and knowing the fate of all old teachers our system should include compensation for that service, which it does not at the present time.

Premier Oliver has again gone north. Mr. Bowser must have won from the prestige of the Liberal party or Premier Oliver would not be in such a hurry to strike the iron before the metal is cold. Can it be that now that the next election is approaching that our leader is getting anxious? It would be better that other parts of the province should have Oliver's occasional attention—for instance the riding that he was elected to represent, but which looks as though he misrepresented.

The agitation to make the Dewdney Trunk road a primary road should receive the attention of the premier if he is grateful to the people for conferring upon him the honors it has. But possibly Mr. Oliver is perfectly aware it was an accident—a fluke—that he was elected, and he is treating the people accordingly.

Most people are unable to understand the neglect, but no doubt the present negligence is the reward for electing an outsider instead of a resident of Dewdney. Will it happen again? Maybe, but not likely.

Tis said that a woman cannot keep a secret. Now we think different, but that is not the question. Many do think it is right. Now that women have the vote there should be new light cast upon the political situation. Pitiless publicity should not hurt and we may all become much wiser. The inner workings of the political situation in Canada and the U. S. might not hurt most of us if we knew more of them.

It does not look as though higher freight rates will be allowed the railway companies. Higher rates would certainly add to the higher cost of living as the merchant would not pay the freight ny more thnn he pays the higher taxation.

THE CHICAGO INTERNATIONAL APPLE DEALERS' ASSN.

The meeting held on August 10th to 13th in the Sherman Hotel was attended by a record number of applemen. The organization of this meeting was very poor from the standpoint of the new beginner. There was no list of those in attendance posted and in the crowd and bustle it was hard to locate anyone, the business end of the organization was different, every matter coming before the convention was discussed by select committees and these reports simplified the work. These attending seemed more interested in the 1920 apple deal than in the business of the convention as at all times during the meeting the delegates in the rotunda and corridors were more numerous than those in the convention.

The Eastern apple deal for this year is still in the air. The size of the Eastern crop, the scarcity of barrels and the British museum price were the big things discussed on the outside. Jobbers were "Bears" and small talk on prices was the general topic. Duchess, reported offerings at $1.25 per box, Winnetchee and Yakima Jonathans were alleged to be offered at $2.00 but investigation clearly proved that nothing definite was decided. We found that Eastern shippers were were not selling and were apparently awaiting Western prices as their guide. About the last day of the convention quotations on Jonathans were made from Yakima at $2.50. This price with exchange and freight is greater than our $2.75 offerings. The first established price came from the Okanagan Valley about 9 days ago as will be seen in another paragraph. 15 cent sugar was confidently looked for in the U. S. The writer saw granulated sugar retailing in Milwaukee at 19 cents and in Minneapolis at 19 1-2 cents No sales of apples are reported from the U. S. points yet, but heavy sales there are anticipated.

2. All Exhibits, except Live Stock, must be in position by 11 o'clock a. m. on first day of Exhibition, and all Live Stock to be on grounds by 10 o'clock a. m. on second day of Exhibition. All xhibits to emain in place until 5 o'clock p. m., on last day of Exhibition.

3. Members of the Society are entitled to free entries to the amount of $1.00.

4. The price of membership tickets is $1.50 and they may be obtained on application to the Secretary.

5. In Horses, Cattle Sheep, Pigs and Poultry Classes the entry must in every instance be made in the name of the bona fide owner, and unless this rule is observed, no premium will be awarded; or if awarded, withheld. If any person shall exhibit any animal or bird, of which he is not the bona fide owner, he will forfeit any premium which may be awarded him.

6. In all other classes entries must be made in name of the producers or manufacturers only, and by such producers themselves or their agents who must have special authority for doing so, and produce the authority in writing, if so required by the Judges. Those who are not manufacturers or authorized agents may exhibit, but cannot compete for the prizes offered.

7. If any person other than the authorized agent shall enter an article for competition as produced or manufactured by himself when it has not really been so he shall forfeit any premium which may be awarded the article.

8. No person will be allowed to enter for competition more than one specimen in any one class of a division. This rule not to apply to Live Stock.

9. Every article must be entered under some one of the headings in the regular list.

10. On the entry of each animal or article a card will be furnished the exhibitor specifying the class, the division, and the number of the entry, which card must remain attached to the animal or article during the Exhibition.

11. Horses must be shown uncovered or in such a manner as the judges may require or allow, and if their exhibitors refuse to submit to the proper requirements of the judge, their animals will be ruled out of the Exhibition.

12. All animals competing for prizes must be brought out for the inspection of the judges, or for exhibition, whenever called out by the official appointed to attend to that duty.

13. No animal or article exhibited shall have about it any prize colors or cards until the awards have been made in their respective classes.

14. No person shall be permitted in the horse or cattle rings during the time of judging except the judges, the grooms, or persons in charge of the animals, and members of the press.

15. No animal or article shall compete for more than one prize unless otherwise mentioned, or in the case of special prizes or sweepstakes. This is to be rigidly enforced.

16. The President and Board of Managers shall have supervision of the grounds and Exhibition generally.

17. Should there arise any dispute or misunderstanding not governed by the By-Laws or Rules and Regulations of the Society, it shall be referred to the Board of Managers whose decision shall be final.

18. All protests and appeals must be handed to Secretary in writing twenty-four hours after the awards have been made, accompanied by a deposit of $1.00. If, after the matter has been investigated by the Executive, the protest has not been sustained, the deposit shall be forfeited.

19. The judges shall have the power of classifying and shall not award a prize to any animal or article against which there is no competition if such animal or article is unworthy of a prize.

20. No person shall be allowed in the exhibit rooms while judging is in progress except the judges and their assistants.

21. Any exhibitor making a false entry shall forfeit all prizes.

22. All manufactured articles must be the work of the exhibitor and must not have been awarded a prize before at any exhibition of the Society but any manufactured articles may be shown for exhibition purposes only.

No Better-on-the-Market Kind

Our big, juicy steaks look nice enough to frame, but there is a more practical use for which they are intended—that of making our customers look healthy and happy. The kind of meat you get here, no matter of what nature, is the no-better-on-the-market kind. You can safely tie to that statement. We take as much pride in our business and have as much regard for our integrity as though we were running a bank. We handle all kinds of good things to eat in meats.

For Lover of Books

Book lovers have many notable advantages over other people.

They need never know lonely hours so long as they have books around them. And the better the books the more delightful the company.

From good books, indeed, they draw more than entertainment. They gain mental food such as few companions can supply.

Even while resting from their labors they are, through the books they love, equipping themselves to perform these labors more efficiently.

This albeit may not be deliberately reading to improve their minds. All unconsciously the ideas they draw from the printed page are stored up to be worked over by imagination for their future profit.

Book lovers, too, if the books they love are really good, benefit signally by the increased knowledge they obtain of the correct meaning and the proper use of words.

There are thousands of people whose progress in the business world is retarded by their inability to speak and to write correctly. Many cannot spell even simple words correctly, though they have been to school.

With reason employers hesitate to promote such people to positions that involve much oral or written communication with others. When the inability to speak well or to write well is conspicuous, promotion to positions requiring social contacts is virtually out of the question.

"I like Joe," the employer may reflect. "He is honest, faithful, a loyal, hard worker. But he murders language so atrociously that he would be a laughing stock to our customers if I sent him out on the road. I guess he'll have to stick where he is."

The reading of books—of good books—is one of the surest ways to guard against being afflicted with such a business handicap as this. Show me a man with a limited vocabulary, weak in grammar, absurdly deficient in spelling and I will show you one who is almost certainly not a lover of books.

Finally, book lovers are far more likely than other people to have keenness and breadth of vision. Unless their reading is all in one direction they can hardly suffer from nearsightedness and narrowness of mind.

Which is another business as well as social advantage to them.

It helps to make them sympathetic and tactful. It saves them from many a mistake due to bigotry and intolerance. It prevents them from needlessly making enemies, and assists them to win friends.

In a word, love of books promotes spiritual as well as intellectual growth.

Hence it may fairly be described as a virtue which all should do their best to cultivate. Hence, again, the old philosopher's advice is as sound today as when it first was uttered:

"He that loveth a book will never want a faithful friend, a wholesome counselor, a cheerful companion, an effectual comforter."

Week in Calgary

The weather is cool and hazy in general this week. Local vegetables have cut off a lot of B. C. supply. The home grown vegetables are a good crop and excellent quality.

Corn is coming in from B. C. in fair volume. Tomatoes are being shipped in plum crates and the pack is an improvement on other years. There is still room for betterment especially in keeping large and unshapely specimens at home. Cukes are better in grade than last year and bulk of the shipments are shepely and fairly green, the volume is too heavy for good prices . Some good plums have arrived from Hatzic but in some of the cases plum rot has developed.

Armstrong continues strong on celery and no complaints are heard on it. Cabbage is almost unsaleable and will be until late September. Peaches and Bartlett Pears are scarce and high priced, few are offering from B. C. yet the bulk coming from the U. S. where a shortage is reported.

Dairy butter is firm, best bringing 45¢ to 47¢, straight receipts, 40¢ to 43¢.

Eggs, No. 1, per case $15.90.

There is nothing established on hay prices and the wheat market is still undetermined.

Blackberreis are coming in good volume, apparently more than to the demand. Sour cherries are moving slowly. Apricots are small but the demand is good, peaches will also be in heavy demand.
