FRUIT MEETING AT HATZIC

At the request of the Hatzic Association Mr. J. A. Grant, the prairie market commissioner, addressed the growers yesterday afternoon at the hall at Hatzic.

There was a good attendance of growers.

Mr. Grant referred to his new method of cooling the fruit cars. A fan is placed in the car and driven by the car wheels. While the car is standing a motor may be used for making the fan go. The arrangement is very simple and would appear to be the right thing in the right place and the Hatzic growers are enthused with the idea and will adopt it this year if it is possible to induce the company to listen to them.

It would appear to be in order for the growers in every part of the Valley to take the matter up with the express company and urge that the new cooling system be put into effect imediately.

M. Grant stated that the Brine Tank Car had not given satisfaction and had been condemned by American growers. He advocates the Bohn system.

Mr. Grant also addressed the meeting on the best way to market the fruit and it is reported some very excellent advice was given the growers which they intend to put into effect this summer. He also reported that 2 cars had arrived in Winnipeg in very poor condition, while from Puyallup 35 cars had arrived in good condition. There must be a reason as the latter shipment came a very much greater distance than the other

Mr. Grant also recommended the use of a ventilated crate for rhubarb The present crate does not permit the rhubarb to stand up well.

Mr. W. J. Manson acted as chairman and G. H. Moody as secretary.

That the people of Kamloops are alive to the necessity of action in the matter of presenting the merits of the Id Cariboo wagon road route to the public and the proper authorities in connection with the proposed construction of the connecting link of the Canadian Highway, is evidenced by the fact that they have formed an organization to work for the acceptance of the Fraser River Route The people of Merritt and the Nicola Valley are vitally interested in this same matter, if they only realized it, and should be taking steps to do their part in this same connection: The opening up of a highway from the coast that will give direct connection to the highway system of this valley is a very important matter, and one the Herald has had considerable to say regarding in the past. —Merritt Herald.

J. J. MACKAY DIES IN NEW WESTMINSTER

Pioneer of Province and For Some Years Resident of Ashcroft

New Westminster, Jan. 14.—John James MacKay, a pioneer of the province since 1881, and former city treasurer here, died at the Royal Columbian Hospital yesterday afternoon in his sixty-seventh year.

Coming to the province in 1881, Mr. Mackay was employed in the government telegraph and postoffice service, was with the C. P. R. for a time and in 1882 became agent and general manager for the British Columbia Express Company at Yale, when supplies to the Cariboo country were brought that far by steamboat up the Fraser River.

Afterward, at Ashcroft, he became secretary, treasurer, auditor and one of the directors of this company.

He resigned there in 1898, and came to Vancouver, where for a time he was interested in a manufacturing biscuit company. Resigning there he went to New Westminster, and for a time operated a stationery store in that city. In 1909 he sold out, and the following year was made city treasurer, which position he held with distinction until failing health compelled him to relinquish office about five years ago. He had been confined to the hospital here for the past three years.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Everett for her daughter Constance Carter last Thursday evening. The party went on the B. C. E. R. and met at DeLair by Mr. Watson with his car. All had a very enjoyable time.

The funeral of the late John Anderson of Stave River, was held on Wednesday to the Hatzic cemetery.

THRIFT IS PATRIOTIC COMMON SENSE SAYS HON. T. W. McGARRY

Prosperity Should Not be Permitted To Hide Need of Saving

Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer for the province of Ontario is a firm believer in the gospel of thrift and a strong supporter of the War Savings Stamp Campaign. In a recent statement he says: —

"Years of progress and prosperity have tended—quite naturally—to make Canadians forget of the fine, homely virtue of Thrift which was so admirable a trait in the character of our Canadian pioneers. As a people we do not know what Thrift means, as it is understood in Great Britain and Europe,—the small daily personal economies which enable a man not only to live within his income, whatever it may be; but to save something every year, and which in the aggregate makes a nation rich. France (prior to the war) is a striking example of a nation made rich by individual thrift.

"To-day Canada is facing a big war debt incurred in defending our country from a ruthless foe. We have got to foot the bill in one way or another, and what easier or more profitable way than by saving our money and lending it at good interest to Government in the form of War Savings Stamps? Thrift is patriotic common sense. Small investments in Government securities have been the foundation of many a fortune, and the War Savings system ought to garner an enormous harvest of small change from Canadians, old and young, rich and poor alike."

FRASER-THOMPSON ROUTE IS PROVEN MOST FEASIBLE

VICTORIA, Jan. 9.—In an interview today Mr. F. W. Anderon, member for Kamloops, stated that he was continuing investigation into the merits of the proposed Fraser-Thompson trans-provincial highway route. He has already secured data to prove that this route is easily the most feasible on the authority of the best engineers, and that it can be constructed at a cost far below that which would be required for the proposed Hope-Princeton route.

GREAT BRITAIN WILL BUY ONE BILLION FEET LUMBER

As an outcome of negotiations carried on by the Canadian Trade Commission for the last month, the timber controller of Great Britain will purchase in Canada half a million standards of lumber, equivalent in the Dominion to 1,000,000,000 square feet. The lumber, which is to be of all grades, will be bought under the direction of the lumber controller through British brokerage houses and Canadian timber agents in London, who will deal directly with the Canadian lumber producers. It is understood that every Canadian producer who is registered on the lists of the Board of Trade at Ottawa will be given an equal opportunity to sell.

There also is to be an allocation of purchases upon a territorial basis, thus assuring a fair proportion of the puchases to Werstern Canada. All British Columbia lumbermen are represented in London by L. C. Beal, timber commissioner for the province who is attached to the staff of F. C. Wade, agent-general for the province in Great Britain, and he will deal directly with the timber controller.

This lumber is to be bought within the next twelve months. It will represent a total transaction in money value of about $40,000,000. The necessary Canadian credit which rendered possible this large lumber transaction was announced by cable from London as having been arrangedsome weeks ago, between the Dominion government and the Imperial government. Some of the largest companies in Britain are undertaking large housing schemes. They recognize that the expansion of factories depends primarily upon providing workers with proper homes. British Columbia will benefit very materially as a result of the negotiations just closed. British Columbia's share of this business will keep all her mills working for a year and a half at the leat.s

J. A. Bates, Editor and Proprietor

FRIDAY, JANUARY 17, 1919.

The lessons in economy and investment taught the country during the war must not be forgotten now that the world has returned to peace.

It is true that hard-headed business men everywhere believe this year and several more years to come will witness unprecedented prosperity throughout the world. An Eastern banking authority, for instance, has very recently made the positive statement that "merchants' sheives all over the country are barer than they were before, on account of trade restrictions and the paucity of transportation during war-time."

Consequently, while it suggests the thought that "shrewd merchants may go slow in 'stocking up' to any great extent because of the prospect of a steady decline in prices, the necessity for establishing lines of goods depleted or exhausted during the struggle will result in "hand to mouth" buying on such an enormous scale as to offer 'a splendid market for all the manufacturing nations whose business interests are alive to the opportunity."

In other words, one may regard the future with cheerfulness, despite the dark pictures painted by some observers who are inclined to overestimate the influence exerted on world affairs by the elements which recently were so decisively discredited in the British elections.

But even an optimist need not be blind to the fact that the country has incurred an enormous amount of war-time indebtedness, that it must finance this debt by taxation and that even during a period of prosperity, the people must save for whatever future time of lessened business activity there may be in store for this people or for the world.

Those who have been purchasing War Saving Stamps must continue to do so, if the Treasury Department goes through with its plans for the issue of a 1919 series of these attractive securities.

Those who have been buying Victory Bonds must prepare to "come through" when the next loan freely predicted is presented some time in the future.

In the interim, it is the part of prudence to continue piling up savings or to invest them in substantial things rather than to squander them in the way that America dissipated its revenue during other periods of prosperity.

There is no reason to cease buying necessities.

There is no call upon the citizen to deny himself reasonable luxuries.

There is no necessity for pinch-penny economies.

Individuals and families can live well, can enjoy to the full the financial resources that they possess and still practice a sane and reasonable thrift, which will safeguard them from the lamentable effects of any slack times that may come in the future.

Let us cling to the habit of thrift throughout 1919 and also preserve at the same time, the machinery which the government has been enabled to present to the country those admirable securities—Victory Bonds and Thrift Stamps which will conduce to the habit of thrift.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

An Argument for the War Loan

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead; short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

Planting Memorial Trees

The suggestion made by the American Forestry Association that Lincoln Highway should be shaded by memorial trees has met with instant favour. Trees indigenous to each locality will be selected and cared for by the communities through which the highway passes.

Some patriots living far from the Highway have decided to create groves of trees as memorials not alone to their dead but to notable epochs of the war even including expressions which have become immortal.

Every soldier and sailor who went from the Borough of Manhattan is assured of a memorial tree, the Park Department of New York City having already contracted for forty American elms for this purpose. The species selected flourishes in the latitude of Manhattan and attains to a fine size. The trees are to be planted in a long line in Central Park and on each tree is to be placed a bronze tablet bearing the name of the man to be remembered. The result will be a beautiful avenue from which no tree will be allowed to disappear through lack of care. The trees selected are nursery grown and are already thirty feet high and eight to ten inches in diameter. The transplanting will probably occur in April as that is the best season for such work in that locality. Every detail will be attended to by the Manhattan branches of the Council of National Defence.

There is certain to result from the memorial tree movement a much-needed awakening to the decorative value of trees and the necessity for their systematic and intelligent planting and care. Paris was the first great city to attempt to solve the baffling problem of securing tree growth along the paved roadways and streets. New York adopted Paris method and modified them to meet additional problems due to the shallow depth of soil on Manhattan.

As finally worked out the one who plants trees for the Borough of Manhattan must provide first of all an excavation three feet deep by four by six feet. This is to be filled with excellent soil to within six inches of the top, the soil well tamped about the roots of the transplanted tree. An iron grating the full size of the excavation but in two parts and having an 18 inch circular opening in the middle for the tree trunk is the next requisite. This grating rests on the sidewalk material. In the space between the soil and the grating it is possible for a large amount of water to reach the roots and there is a chance for the escape of gases which permeate the soil of a large city. It is also possible to cultivate the soil underneath the grating by stirring it frequently with a specially devised tool. Liquid fertilizer can be easily applied after cultivation.

Trees planted several years ago in an effort to try out this scheme are flourishing in the same spot where trees planted in the old way have invariably died or at least have not flourished. Where soil was unusually poor gratings have been increased to eight feet each way and a fine lot of trees is the result. It almost seems as if every one who can should plant a tree to keep alive the realization of the desolation sown by the Huns in Belgium and northern France where not one tree survives. If any work seems peculiarly fitted to women it is that of perfecting the movement for instilling lessons of patriotism into the hearts of children.

The Mission Municipality Teachers Association will be held at the Mission Schol, Saturday, January 25th, at 3 p. m. All teachers in the municipality are requested to be present if posible.

Wait Until the "Number" Answers or the Operator Reports

Very often a subscriber will call a number and, if an almost instantaneous connection is not established, will hang up and try again later. He feels that minutes have elapsed while, in reality, it has been but a few seconds.

This hanging up of your telephone receiver means that your time and the time and labor of the operator has been wasted. If the called party comes on the line, the operator has to explain.

Remaining at your telephone until you get a report or the called party answers means the saving in the time and effort of three parties.

SIMPLIFYING THE SEARCH FOR 'SOMEBODY'

THE MERCHANT knows that every article in his store is a bargain for SOMEBODY—for somebody who lives in his store-territory.

The real estate operator and agent know that every piece of property on their lists is a "bargain" for SOMEONE—for someone who lives here, or hereabouts or comes from the prairies.

The landlord knows that his tenantless store or office, or house, or apartment is exactly what SOMEBODY is looking for—somebody who MAY live actually in the neighborhood.

The householder, with a furnished room to rent, knows that to SOMEONE in town it would appeal as the prettiest "one-room home" possible to find.

The owner of a "used but useful" article of value, no longer personally needed, knows that, to SOMEBODY in town the chance to buy it at a reasonable cash price would be welcome.

For all of these people, advertising in this newspaper affords the only practical way to find their especial "somebodies"—to go into the crowd and pick out, unerringly, the "right people." :: ::

INDIAN MURDERER WAS SOON CAPTURED

Chief Adam and Indian Police McLeod Do Some Great Work

The Indian murderer, Alex Ignace, who killed his wife on the reservation just across the Thompson river at Kamloops and immediately escaped to the hills and was captured early the following morning after being hunted over the steep hills of the reservation by a band of Indian trailers in charge of the two officers. They found where he had built a fire north of the Seven Mile camp, which was surrounded but the murderer had seen the men coming and escaped retracing his steps back to the village, where he entered his shack to get food and extra clothing. The officers expected that he might do this and left some Indians on guard, who took him in to custody as soon as he entered the shack and held him until the arrival of Chief Adam who placed him under arrest and brought him to Kamloops, where he was confined in the provincial jail. The Indian told his captors that he watched them trailing along the hill from a hiding place in the bush and said that he had his rifle with plenty of ammunition and could have picked oc everyone of them.

Ignace appeared before Magistrate Fisher, who heard the evidence and remanded him for eight days.

Miss Florence Stevens, the new Domestic Science teacher, arrived in Mission City this week and started on her duties in the school.

The Hatzic Fruit Growers' Association held their directors meeting this week when W. J. Manson was appointed President, J. G. Vosburg, Vice-President and G. H. Moody as secretary-treasurer.

A general meeting will be held on Monday evening next to discuss this year's business and offers from eastern canners.

Mr. F. S. Farmer of Birtle, Man., and formerly of Mission City, in a recent communication to this paper says: "Tell all inquiring friends that we are still able to raise and sell $2.24 wheat and had a good crop last year. The weather is 40 below zero on the morning of writing."

A masquerade ball will be held in the roller rink on February 14th.

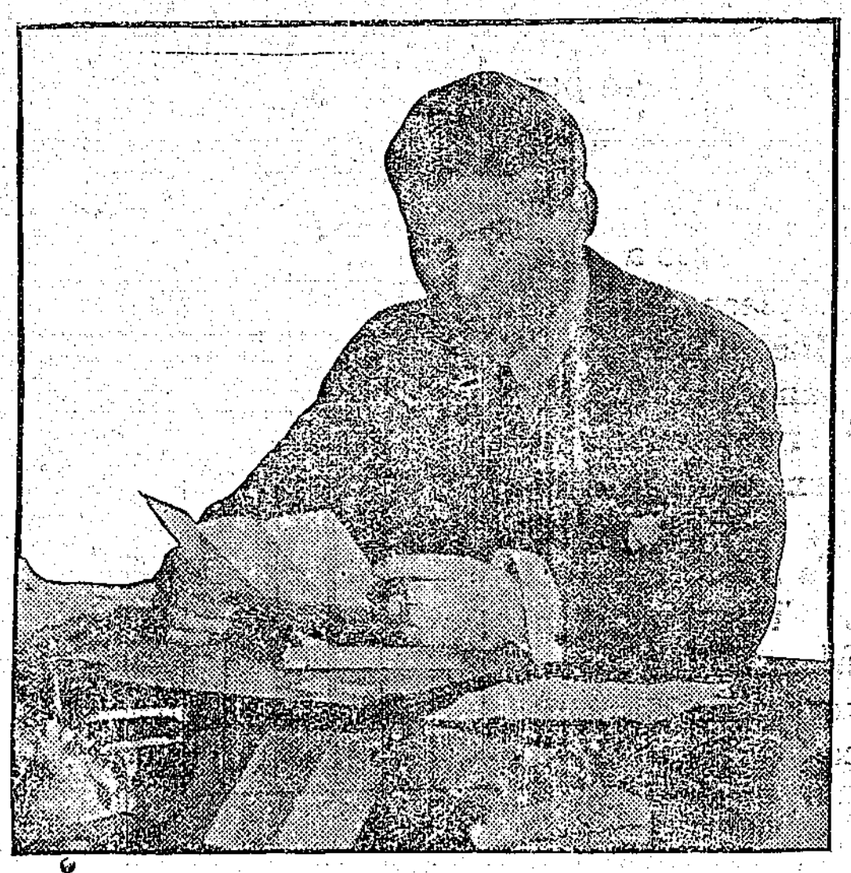
M. MURPHY, PROPRIETOR
HUNTINGDON, B C.

The New President of the C.P.R.



MR. E. W. BEATTY.

THE Presidency of so vast a system as that of the Canadian Pacific Railway is no easy position to fill—so varied are the interests and covering so large and manifold a territory. The railway itself has eighty thousand employees and more mileage even than any of the great systems of the United States—no less than 18,600 miles of track being operated or controlled from Montreal. The C. P. R. Telegraphs comprise over 100,000 miles of wire with no less than 15,000 offices where messages may be received. The C. P. R. hotels, involving an investment of over $25,000,000 and representing eighteen caravanserais from the small station hotel to the huge edifices at Quebec, Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise, Vancouver and Victoria—the Vancouver Hotel, for instance, having establishment of 650 rooms—involve great responsibility. Then there are the lands in Western Canada with the $17,000,000 irrigation scheme west of Calgary and the extensive colonization programme of ready-made farms and the like. The mining and smelting interests of the C. P. R. in British Columbia are also considerable, involving not only a large investment of capital but also relations with a labor element which has been somewhat difficult to manage. Then again there are the great Angus Shops at Montreal, with other large shops also at Winnipeg and Calgary, where so much of the rolling stock and equipment is built and repaired.

Subsidiary to the railway company itself are the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, representing one of the largest passenger fleets of the world, amounting to almost 400,000 tons, and providing one of the most vital links between Europe and the Orient.

As a common carrier the railway serves all the large interests of Canada—agricultural, industrial and commercial—and is naturally in close touch with the big financial institutions, several of which are represented on the Board of Directors. The opinion of the President on financial questions carries enormous weight in England, which naturally takes most interest in such American financial movements as affect the component parts of the British Empire.

Owing to its economic position the Canadian Pacific is naturally of great interest to the political leaders at Ottawa, and no economic legislation is likely to be brought forward by any Government without obtaining at least an expression of opinion from the Canadian Pacific President. In this respect it is known that the leaders at Ottawa have the greatest respect for the capable judgment of Mr. E. W. Beatty, who, in spite of his comparative youth, has proved in many cases his mature and sound economic judgment.

No finer description could be given to the new President of the C. P. R. than the tribute paid by Lord Shaughnessy, in the official statement regarding his successor:—"One who has shown notable administrative ability, and who enjoys to a marked degree the confidence not only of the political and business leaders of Canada, but also of the employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway itself."

Among the many public expressions that of the Toronto Globe is interesting, and follows:—"Railway history has many chapters of personal romance, but it has few parallels to the career of Mr. E. W. Beatty, who at the age of forty-one, becomes the head of the greatest transportation system in the world. Even in this classic continent of opportunity his advance has been sensational. Mr. Beatty is the first Canadian-born president of the C. P. R., a sign that Canada has no longer any need of looking beyond her borders for railway talent of the highest class."

Mr. Beatty was born in Thorold, Ontario, forty-one years ago, of Canadian parents—his father being Henry Beatty, a prominent steamship owner. He graduated from Toronto University; studied law, and entered the C. P. R. service in 1901, in the legal department. He was appointed vice-president in 1914, and director in 1916.
