Coast to Coast In Auto Palace

To Abbotsford by a special Pullman! Such is the trip which has been planned for over a month by Mr. and Mrs. James I. Moore of 46 Park street, and on which they started yesterday. The special car is no more or less than a Paige sedan, equipped with all the comforts that can be needed in long-distance travelling—with a broad, comfortable bed and with a complete kitchen that can be installed at a moment's notice. And the best part of it is that the compactness and convenience of this portable home are due to the ingenuity and manual skill of Mr. Moore.

The back of the broad front seat of the sedan was cut away from the sides of the car, and hinges attached to its bottom so that when bed-time arrives, the back is swung down, very much like the preparation of a Pullman berth. Thus a spacious bed is provided, the rear seat of the sedan, together with the back of the front heat and the bottom cushion of the latter, forming one complete mattress.

Since it is the plan of the Moores to do considerable camping out on their long tour, especially when they have passed Chicago, the sleeping arrangements were designed to provide the maximum amount of home luxury. The doors of the sedan can be locked, and netting can be attached to the windows so that the improvised bed-chamber will be all and even more than can be expected in camping.

The portable kitchen is carried entirely on the left-hand running-board of the car. Mr. Moore provided a long narrow box, just fitting the running board, and in this box are carried pans, dishes, cutlery and all the other essentials for eating "on the road", as well as a three-burner "Sterno" collapsible stove. A five-gallon tank of drinking water is carried by the side of the box. The kitchen tent is also on the same running board. It is six feet square, and will be used for eating and for lounging in when the Moores are "in camp." Two camp stools form the rest of the camp equipment.

The Moores do not expect to travel every day, for they will visit friends in Boston, Toledo and Chicago, and also spend some time sightseeing in Yellowstone Park. They also intend to make the best of any good fishing places they come across on their journey. Five weeks is the time they count on the trip. Since both Mr. and Mrs. Moore drive, the sometimes exhausting part of driving will be avoided.

The tourists' purpose in making the trip is to have a long vacation. They will pay a long visit to Mrs. Moore's sister, Mrs. A. M. McPhee, in Abbotsford, B. C., and do not expect to return here for at least a year.

The route followed will be through the northern part of the country. From Boston, they will go to Chicago through Albany, Buffalo and Toledo. From Chicago, they will pass through Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and then to Yellowstone Park. They will also visit Glacier Park, and arrive at the West coast through Spokane and Seattle.—The New Bedford Sunday Standard.

Big Gala Ball, Abbotsford Theatre, July 14. Huen's Real Jazz Orchestra (Huen at piano). This is the anniversary date of the opening of the theatre. Special attraction.

PRAIRIE CROP CONDITIONS

The past seven-day period has on the whole been favorable from a weather and crop standpoint. All reports indicate satisfactory growth being maintained: Recent rains have greatly benefitted districts where dry condition existed. Pasture and feed situation good and much improved by recent rainfall. Farmers are rejoicing over the prospects of a bumper crop.

In a recent issue of the Abbotsford Post the ladies of the W. C. T. U. were given the credit of banqueting the Associated Boards of Trade of the Fraser Valley on the evening of June 22. This was a mistake and we wish to rectify same. The lovely banquet, which consisted of good eats all through, was prepared by the ladies of the W. A. of the G. W. V. REQUEENING THE APIARY

Serious losses are caused each year in Canadian beekeeping by many beekeepers failing to replace, with young and prolific queens, the old queens in their colonies. With our more progressive beekeepers it is becoming a common practise to requeen every year as young queens are more prolific as a rule than queens more than one year old.

In requeening the apiary it is not advisable to allow the bees to rear their own queens promiscuously but to adopt some method of queen rearing by which only queens from the best strains are produced, thereby improving the strain of bees kept.

Although queens can be safely introduced at any time during the active season, the best time of the year to requeen is during a honey flow. Ripe queen cells or mated queens can be used. The giving of ripe queen cells is perhaps the easiest method of reueening but there is danger of the queen cells being destroyed or the young queen being lost on her mating flight, leaving the colony hopelessly queenless. The system recommended is to rear queens by the cells or cup method at the commencement of the main honey flow from clover and to have these queens mated from small nuclei, specially prepared for that purpose. As the queens become mated and laying the queens of the colony to be requeened can be destroyed and the young laying queen introduced. Where only a few queens are required and the beekeeper is unable to rear his own, they can be obtained at a nominal price from a beekeeper making a specialty of queen rearing.

Before introducing a new queen be sure that the colony is queenless and that no queen cells are presnt. Directions for introducting accompanies each queen sent out.

The following method of requeening has given entire satisfaction at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa:—

As soon as a colony is making preparations for swarming by having larvae in queen cells at the beginning of the main honey flow from clover, the old queen is removed from the hive and all the queen cells destroyed. Nine days later all queen cells are again destroyed and a young laying queen of selected parentage introduced, this effectively controls swarming and provides the colony with a young prolific queen in time to build up the colony with young bees for the winter and makes the colony more profitbable, the following spring. Where a beekeeper has no spare queens on hand, or is unable to obtain them, and it is necessary for the colony to produce its own queen, one cell can be left at the time the old queen is removed from the colony but the colony should be examined later to see if the young queen is safely mated and laying.—Experimental Farm Note.

Questions and Answers

"Beau Brummell"

Q.—Kindly tell me what is meant by "Beau Brummell.—A Reader.

A.—George Bryan Brummell (1788-1840), universally known as "Beau Brummell," was an Englishman of wealth and fashion, and in his day the prince of dandies and exquisites. He succeeded in becoming an intimate companion of the Prince of Wales, afterwards King George IV., and by reason of this royal patronage was for many years regarded by Court society as a veritable oracle on all questions of dress, etiquette, deportment and manners. Finally losing the favor of his royal master, after a quarrel, and finding himself head over ears in debt, he fled from his creditors to the continent in 1816 settling first at Calais, where, reduced to destitution, he lived by his wit in reckless fashion. Later he retired to Caen, where he secured the apointment of British Consul. After two years his office was abolished, and in the end died insane and inpoverty in a charitable institution.

The Degree Of Baronet

Q.—Please explain the rank of baronet. Does it give a seat in the House of Lords and is it hereditary?—M. J. P.

A.—The decree of baronet is a rank intermediate between the peerage proper and the knightage. It is linked with the peerage by virtue of its being hereditary and by being conferred by patent alone: but in other respects it has the appearance of a specialized order of knighthood. Its designation is "Sir"—as "Sir John Smith, Bart." and it does not carry membership in the House of Lords. It takes precedence of all other orders of knighthood, Knights of the Garter excepted. The wives of baronets are styled "Lady." the same as the wives of knights. The title of baronet descends from father to son, but not from father to daughter; but by some special patents the male issue of daughters can succeed. If there is no son and no special remainder with the patent, then the baronetcy goes to the baronet's eldest brother and so on. All baronets are entitled to display on their coats of arms the "Red Hand of Ulster." The dignity dates from 1611, when it was instituted by King James 1.

Sea Weed For Paper-making

Q.—Has any substitute for wood been proposed in the manufacture of paper-pulp.—F.

A.—According to the British Board of Trade Journal, a French authority states that the sea-weed or sea-wrack possess the desired properties for the production of a good paper pulp. In addition to furnishing a crop that is very abundant, this sea-weed can be left to dry on the spot, and, before collection, cleansed by a rudimentary shaking process. For transportation it can be put up in bales. It is announced from Cape Town that arrangements for the manufacture of paper pulp from papyrus grass in Zululand are now in progress. A Norweigan company as secured a concession over several hundred square miles from which to reap all reeds and papyrus grass, which are considered to be excellent raw materials for the manufacture of paper pulp. It is estimated that it will take fully 40,000 tons of raw material to produce 6000 tons of pulp, but as the growth of this grass is perennial, and the area where it is found is so extensive, an abundance of raw material is assured each year. The papyrus has to be cut by hand in the same way as sugar cane. The grass is dried, passed through a cutting machine, and then pressed and limewashed.

How To Open A Book.

Q.—What is the proper way to open a new book to ensure evenness of the leaves, and prevent breaking of the base, etc?—D. M. R.

A.—Never open a book violently or carelessly, nor bend back the covers. It is liable not only to break the back, but to loosen the leaves Lay the book back downwards on a table or other smooth surface. Press the front cover down until it touches the table, then the back cover, holding the leaves in one hand, while you open a few of the leaves at the front, and so on, alternately opening back and front, gently pressing open the sections till you reach the centre of the volume. Do this two or three times and you will obtain the best results.

Religions Of The World.

Q.—If it is possible, would you kindly inform me which religions have the greatest number of followers?—C. L. M.

A.—According to reliable statistics and carefully made estimates, the adherents of the leading branches of the Christian religion number: Roman Catholics, 272,860,000; Greek or Othodox Catholics, 120,000, Protestants, 171,650,000, making a total of 564,510,000 Christians. The leading non-Christian bodies number: Confucianists and Taoists, 300,830,000; Mohammedans, 221,825,000; Hindus, 210,510,000; Animists, 158,270,000; Budhists, 138,031,000; Shintoists, 25,000,00; unclassified, 15,280,000: The total non-Christians number 1,081,981,000 and these with the Christians makes a world's population of 1,646,491,000.

Great Parisian Disaster

Q.—Can you give a few facts about a fire in Paris, at a charity bazaar some year ago, when many lives were lost?—K. M. G.

A.—The burning of "Old Paris," the great Charity Bazaar, in Paris, took place on the evening of May 4th 1897. The fire started through the ignition of ether in a lamp of a kinematograph, which was placed at the end of a hall built of old pinewood. About a hundred and fifty people lost their lives, including members of some of the best known families in France. The victims were women, the Duchess d'Alencon being among the number. Later five hundred men and women were decorated for saving life, one coachman being made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

"Extract" or "Excerpt"

Q.—In a definition of "Extract" one meaning given is "a selection, as from a book. Would not the word "excerpt" be more properly applied to the latter?—M. M. C.

A.—"Extract" in this sense, is as good as "excerpt," and has the sanction of the best dictionaries, including the "Oxford," edited by the great Scotsmen, Sir James Murray and Dr. W. A. Craigie. In the "Oxford" extract is defined as "a passage" from a book, etc."

The American Greenback

Q.—Kindly explain the origin of the term "greenback" used for the American paper money?—"Moonstone."

A.—"Greenback" is an American ism for paper money, first applied to the currency issued during the Civil War, which, like the present banknotes of the United States, had a green back Colonel Edmond Dick Taylor (1802-1891) has the credit of suggesting the plan, at a time when the Government's credit with Europe was exhausted, when the treasury was empty and the soldiers were clamoring for money.

Use of "Whose."

Q.—Is the word "whose" in the following sentence correct' "The National Bank, whose drafts were used has been merged, etc." Would "which" be properly used in the sentence as stated?—A. F. R.

A.—"Whose" is correct; it is not frequently used as the possessive of which by the best authors. "Which" would not be properly used in this sentence, except in the form "the drafts of which were used," this form being interchangeable with that given above.

Battle of Marston Moor

Q.—Can you oblige on old reader with a few facts about the Battle of Marston Moor?—Wallace.

A.—Marston Moor, near York; was the scene of the famous battle between Prince Rupert and the Royalist forces of King Charles I against Oliver Cromwell and the troops of Parliament on July 2nd, 1644, resulting in a complete victory for Cromwell.

A.—At the last census, 1911 the population of Scotland was 4,760,904. It is believed that at the end of the fifteenth contuy the population of Scotland did not exceed 500,000. At the time of the Union with England in 1707, the population is estimated to have been about 1,000,000.

Weight Of Human Brain

A.—The average weight of the human brain is about fifty ounces for men and forty-four ounces for women, but here and there brains have been found as heavy as sixty ounces. The average weight is 2.16 per cent of the weight of the body in men and 2.24 per cent in women.

Montreal's Government

Q.—Kindly give me some information about the present government of Montreal?—A. H.

A.—The city of Montreal is at present governed by an Administrative Commission of five, appointed by the Quebec Government. There is also a City Council of members, elected by the people, on the ward system, presided over by a mayor, elected by the citizens at large. In every centre of population in the lower part of the province is a telephone exchange and an organization of skilled workers to facilitate commerce. Every circuit must be tested; every inch of wire watched and kept in repair; every switchboard operated day and night. Not only that, but there is always new construction to meet the increasing needs of the telephone-using public. Crews of linemen and cablemen, and installers of every kind of telephone equipment carry on this work as the province progresses.

Strawberries Arrive In Good Condition

The strawberry deal has not been as smooth and without its thrills as was expected. Early in the week the Independents at Winnipeg brought in American berries from Hood River and Seattle. The B.C. berries were in the hands of the Mash houses, and for reasons not clear to us at present, a very lively fight was waged. Prices slumped to $2.50 per crate in Winnipeg. Distribution to outside points was interrupted by the wires being down due to the storm, and until travellers returned to the city the country orders were not known.

B.C. strawberries have arrived in good condition. Some complaints were heard owing to some being too ripe and others too green. These complaints were mostly the buyers' way of driving a satisfactory deal, as neither complaint would have been heard on a bare market. Slack pack is a genuine grievance in several cars, and allowances have been made on that ground. Growers should see that packages are full. The full express is charged on them, and when they are less than the required rate it means paying an excess on freight and taking a rebate loss, which is always more than the actual shortage. We have forwarded some of the numbers of offending packers to the Organization.

The L.C.L. shipments from the Association have done a lot to queer the market. Repeated wires from us have not been successful in cutting them off. It is unfair to those in charge of distribution to have over 250 crates a day shipped L.C.L. These are sold at a lower price—usually being soft—and this price effects the car lot prices.

Saskatchewan has done exceedingly well. The Mutual Brokers have handled the deal in the best possible manner, both in Saskatchewan and Alberta. The pack has been better than usual, taking it from start to finish, and the quality sent from different districts has been more on a par than formerly.

WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, June 28, 1922.

Business this week very good. B.C strawberries arriving in good condition, but owing to such large quantities of berries having been brought in from the States they are hard to move. It is difficult to name a price, dealers are trying to get $3.25 but they are selling all the way from $2.00 to $3.25. B. C. gooseberries are also hard to move, the variety being too small. First car sour cherries will arrive tomorrow from Ontario. Weather fine.

"No Special Discounts for Jobber" is Decision in Mennen Case

The student of current legal decisions is bound to reach the conclusion that the jobber has ceased to be the separate legal entity that he used to be and would still like to consider himself. I don't mean that the jobber as a link in the chain of distribution is about to disappear; far from it. The jobber will always exist in lines where he has previously existed, but the special protection which he has always considered himself entitled to, in comparison with the retailer, has gone, and will probably never be his again. From now on the fact that he is a jobber will never of itself get him anything.

I am moved to write this after carefully reading and digesting a decision which the Federal Food Commission has just handed down in the case brought against the Mennen Company, manufacturers of toilet and drug specialties sold by grocers, druggists and general stores all over the country. The kernel of the decision is that the Mennen Company has no right to give a special discount to a jobber, just because he is a jobber, and refuse it to a retailer who buys the same quantity.

For years the Mennen Co. has had a special system of discounts so complicated that I shall not go into it here. In this system a careful division was made between jobber and retailer quantity, the usual basis of price and discount being subordinated to that. In its effect the customers whom the company classes as jobbers got 0 and 5 from the list, and a 3 per cent cash discount. The customers which it classed as retailers, though they may have bought as much or more, got 10 and 5 without the 3 per cent. cash discount. As a matter of fact, the co-operative buying organizations were given no lower price than the small retailer who bought direct.

The Mennen Co. was therefore saying to its buyers, as many another manufacturer does, "because you are a jobber, I'll sell you my goods 3 per cent. cheaper, quantity for quantity, than I sell the retailer." An interesting feature of the Mennen case, which one also finds in other lines of trade, was that there was a large number of retailers' co-operative buying organizations (fifty-three) buying as much as any jobber, whom the Menner Co. insisted on classifying as retailers and refusing the 3 per cent. cash discount. This greatly helped the jobber and crippled the retailers' organizations.

The Federal Trade Comission went clear to the bottom of this situation and decided that this was unfair competition, and that the only fair basis for discounts was the basis of quantity bought, and not the name which the buyer had given himself. If a retaler bought a 100 cases he was entitled to the hundred case price; in other words, the same price which the jobber paid when he bought 100 cases.

The decision is very long; the following extracts are all that I have room for:—

7. That discrimination in price by respondent in the sale of its said products between its customers classified and designated by it as "jobbers" or "wholesalers" and its customers classified and designated by it as "retailers", so far as it relates to corporations mutual or co-operative in form of organization, functioning by respondent for the purpose of placing such corporations at a competitive disadvantage as compared with the respondent and with the other concerns classified and at wholesale, but classified by it as "retailers" and is used and has been used as an instrument to "break up" such corporations, co-operative or mutual in form of organization and functioning as distributors at wholesale.

12. That the policy of respondent herein, of discriminating against corporations co-operative in form and functioning as distributors at wholesale, but classified byit as "retailers" has tended to and now tends to hinder and lessen competition between such distributors, and to drive from the field of distributors at wholesale, such corporations, co-operative or mutual in form, and thus to close one channel of distribution at wholesale for such products, which channel of distribution is entitled to an unhindered opportunity to demonstrate its economic efficiency on equal terms with the previously existing methods or agencies of distribution.

16. That the varying discount rates given by respondent herein, in the sale of its said products to its customers classified and designated by it as "retailers", as compared with the class of its customers classified and designated by it as "jobbers" or "wholesalers" are discriminations in price between purchasers of respondent's commodities, the effect of which may be to substantially lessen competition in the sale and distribution of respondent's products, or between distributors thereof.

All products sold by respondent are of the some grade or quality, and respondent pays transportation on all products sold to all customers, and does not vary its prices with localities. There is no evidence that it has cost respondent more to sell the class of purchasers from which it has exacted higher prices than it cost to sell to the class which it has given greater discounts and hence, lower prices; no competition has been shown or indicated compelling or tending to compel respondent to make such discrimination.

1. That the practices of said respondent, as hereinbefore set forth and recited, in the circumstances and under the conditions as hereinbefore set forth, are unfair methods of competition in interstate commerce and constitute a violatio of the Act of Congress approved September 26, 1914, entitled "An Act to create a Federal Trade Commission, to define its powers and duties, and for other purposes."

2. That the practices of said respondent as hereinbefore set forth and recited, in the circumstances and under the conditions hereinbefore set forth, are in violation of Section 2 of the Act of Congress entitled, "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes."

I understand that the Mennen Co. will appeal the matter and the last decision when it is finally given by the United States Supreme Court, which will eventually get the matter, will be of the highest importance. The point which runs through all these decisions is the quantity basis of buying which the retailers have always fought against. He has always believed and contended that he was entitled to a lower price simply because he was a jobber, and not an inconsiderable number of manufacturers have agreed with him, but the claim seems now to be about dead.—Advertising and Selling.

Wholesale Prices In Calgary

Calgary and district had a record rainfall on Thursday morning. Over an inch of rain fell. This is reported general all over Southern Alberta, and will ensure of crop of average size, even though no further rainfall should take place. There is a cheerful feeling amongst tradesmen, which may lead to a little more generous buying. Trade has been of a hand to mouth kind and a bearish tendency is noted in all lines.

The housewives seem reluctant to an fruit of a seasonable kind even when advised that prices are at their lowest and the peak of the season is passing. Some fine B. C. Bing cherries are arriving from Osoyoos. Other varieties are shipping Tartarians and Royal Annes. Prices for these early varieties are not as firm as might be. We saw a real nice lot of Tartarians jobbed at $1.50 per crate, which should have netted $2.00. Some of our best wholesale houses have jobbed considerable fruit this year and this has a depressing tendency, as shipments on consignments to small wholesale and retail dealers have to meet this jobbing price.

A car of fine head lettuce and cauliflowers arrived from Vancouver last week and has cleaned up well. This market can take a great deal of head lettuce and cauliflower. The prices are good.

Good crisp asparagus from B. C. realized 25¢ per lb. Poor asparagus is not wanted at any price.

Considerable quantities of local hothouse tomatoes are being offered in competition with B. C. H. H. stuff and prices have been reduced.

No quotations have been made on car lot shipments of new potatoes as yet.

California soft fruits are beginning to arrive on this market, consisting of apples, peaches, apricots and plums.

B. C. Bing cherries will crowd imported cherries out of this market from now on.

It is reported that Spokane strawberries are being shipped L. C. L. to Lethbridge, costing $2.65 laid down there. We have noticed the persistent advances made upon the Western Canadian market by shippers from the Western States of produce directly competing with B. C., and would advise our shippers to deal with this matter firmly and in a manner that will leave no doubt in the minds of anyone that w intend to hold this market against all comers. The sooner this is done the better. There is every indication to show that this market will be exploited during the whole of this year. We will call attention from time to time to this matter, and when it becomes clear to us who is behind it, we will publish the fact.

PORT ARTHUR EXPRESS RATES

We expect to hear by our next issue from Mr. G. E. McIntosh, who will discuss the above rates with principals of the Dominion Express Company today (30th June). This is a place where Canadian grown berries are shut out of by virtue of an adverse express rate. The present express rate to Winnipeg is $2.40 per 100 lbs., which is a blanket rate from B. C. points to prairie points. From Winnipeg to Port Arthur costs an additional $2.70 per 100 lbs. This with icing charges amount to about $1.25 per crate for strawberries, making the laid down price $3.50 based on $2.25 f.o.b. shipping point. Hood River strawberries routed via Duluth are being laid down in Port Arthur at $2.80 and are wholesaling at $3.25 per crate there. From past experiences with the Dominion Express Company we believe that they will not allow this adverse condition to continue. Port Arthur has mad enquiries for our staws, rasps and blackberries as for our Bing and Lambert cherries, and while we have need of their market we are helpless to supply it at present.

SASKATOON

The demand for berries is not equal to the supply, due possibly to maintaining of the above price right through the season. There is a limited demand for Gooseberries. Sale on H.H. Tomatoes is slow. Gov. Wood Cherries are now arriving on this market. It would have been better had these not been shipped. They are very small and absolutely unsaleable.

Mr. Lorne McPhee is home from Langley Urairie to spend a week.

Orange Lodge Visits Abbotsford

(From the Fraser Valley Record)

The members of the above travelled to Abbotsford on Saturday last to pay a fraternal visit to Abbotsford Lodge No. 1867.

The Abbotsford Lodge is going ahead in fine shape, and Mission is following them a close second. After a very pleasant and instructive evening the party arrived home at one A. M.

Amongst those present were R. Wor. Bro. E. Bush and W. G. Gamble past grand masters, Wor. Bro. Fred Gibbard, past District Master; Wor. Bro. W. J. Clark, Past Master; Wor. Bro. A. S. Taulbut, Master; and Brothers T. Thompson, T. Wren, E. Moorhouse, P. Ferguson, J. Grant, Capt. Walker, J. Jones, Geo. Cade, Bro. Campbell and several others.

A return visit will be paid to Mission City by Abbotsford Lodge on Saturday next, July 8th. And on the 9th (next Sunday) a Church parade will take place to the Methodist Church, morning service. All Orangemen and Royal Black Knight's whether members of L. O. L. 1629 or not are cordially invited to attend.

A grand parade of all lodges in the province, will be held at New Westminster on Wednesday, July 12th.

For Canadian film fans to see "The Great Day," the new British-made Paramount picture which will be shown at the Abbotsford Theatre next Wednesday night, is like making a tour of England, France and Switzerland, for splendid views of each are shown. The story itself calls for these scenes and consequently they were filmed with the aid of the supporting cast in these locales. It is an exceedingly dramatic story, filled with thrills and heart appeal. The various roles are portrayed by prominent English players including Arthur Bourchier, Bertram Burleigh, May Palfrey and Meggie Albanesi. The picture was superby directed by Hugh Ford from the adaptation by Eve Unsell.

TIP BURN OF POTATOES

This disease is first seen on Potato plants about the latter part of July, with the most severe effects from the middle of August to the first week in September. The leaves exhibit a burning at their tips and margins, later the whole top withers and the plant dies prematurely. This condition is most noticeable in hot, dry, windy weather and particularly during periods of dry and sunny weather following rain.

With regard to the cause of this disease, there is much difference of opinion, and several agencies have been suggested as responsible for the burning of the leaves. The effect of excessive evaporation of water from the surface of leaves in extreme heat and sunshine with the consequent death of certain cells in the leaf, has been suggested as the cause of tip burn. Other authorities claim to have definitely demonstrated that the potato leaf hopper is the cause of tip burn; thus the name "hopper burn," which is also applied to this disease. More recent investigators associate the leaf hopper with the disease, but claim that there is some "specific," either normal or extraneous, which is transmitted by the leaf hopper and is the direct cause of the burning on the potato leaves. This was shown by the fact that tip burn could be produced by inoculating macerated leaf hoppers into potato leaves.

The regular Bordeaux mixture spray has been found to be beneficial in the control of this disease. Those believing in extreme heat and sunshine as the principal causal agency, associate this control with the layer of Bordeaux mixture on the leaf acting as a protection from severe evaporation. Others claim that it destroys the hoppers and again the spray is also supposed to act as a deterrent for the hoppers.

In any case the Bordeaux mixture has been demonstrated as capable of arresting the development of the burning and this is but further proof of the importance of careful and systematic spraying of potato plants. —Experimental Farms Note.

FAMOUS RACING CAR

One of the most famous racing cars that ever sped around the course and which won perhaps more speed victories than any other car in existence during the short time that it was in the field, is driven by Wallace Reid in the breath-taking scenes of "Too Much Speed," his latest Paramount Picture, which will be seen at the Abbotsford Theatre, this Saturday.

The car won the first prize at the opening of the new speed course at Beverley Hills, near Hollywood, California, on February 22nd, 1920. In this race, the car made two hundred and fifty miles without a stop, averaging a speed of a hundred and three and four-fifths miles per hour.

With Wallace Reid at the wheel, however, the car shows that it can still do over a hundred per without straining itself in the slightest, and were it not for the speedway rulings would probably still be winning victories.
