NO HIGH WATER THIS YEAR

(From Fraser Valley Record)

There has been much talk about "High Water" in the Fraser River this year. Owing to the cool backward spring many predict there will be high water this year. This paper is in a position to state, on no less an authority than Mr. W. Elliott, known throughout the Valley as "Bill Elliott" that there will be no high water this year in the Fraser River. Mr. Elliott has won several new hats in the past on his predictions as to there being no high water, and he informs this paper that the residents along the banks of the mighty Fraser need have no fear of bad results from high water He says he could have told us all about it last fall. For over two weeks there has been no snow on the ground in the Cariboo country. Mr. Elliott has a theory which has worked out correctly for the past twenty years without fail, and he is willing to wager a new hat with any man that the Fraser River will not become obstreporous this year. His theory is not divulged by this paper.

Several old time residents also say that as there was a new moon on Sunday last with but little water in the Fraser at that time all the danger will be past before the next new moon and without damage unless there is a south-west wind at the time of the full moon when there is the most danger.

DROWNING AT NICOMEN

(From Fraser Valley Record)

On Wednesday evening the 24th Charles Davies, firman on the rock crusher, at Nicomen, while bathing in the creek at Nicomen was accidentally drowned. He with some companions were bathing when Davies got beyond his depth. He could not swim, and although his companions made a desperate attempt to save him they were unsuccessful.

The inquest was held on Thursday morning, the jury bringing in a verdict of accidental death.

He was buried on Thursday evening at Nicomen the burial service being conducted by J. McAlwin. The mourners were W. Davies, the borther of deceased, and his comrades.

The deceased was born near Manchester, England and had been in British Columbia for about four years, formerly residing at Revelstoke.

Miss Emma McCallum who has been visiting with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCallum, returned to Vancouver on Tuesday last.

RETURNED FROM STEAMBOAT

Mr. J. E. Geary returned this morning from Steamboat Mountain where he spent a week or ten days days looking into what the district would have in store for him should he centre his interests there instead of going to Alaska where he has already spent some time.

Mr. Geary reports that there is no snow on the trail between Hope and Steamboat. There are also a large number of men going in and and out over the trail daily, many of whom never reach Steamboat, while others after reaching Steamboat are tired and after remaining a few days to rest, return to Hope. He believed these latter are the fellows who attempt to give the district a blackeye. by stating that the country is all staked. There is plenty of ground yet remaining unstaked back from the trail.

Mr. Geary spent four days out in the mountains back from Steamboat and staked a number of claims for himself and friends. He believes he has struck something pretty good and hopes to do some assessment work this summer to be more sure what he has He believes he ough to know good mineral when he sees it, and while there is no gold hanging on the trees along the trail or dropping off the side of the cliffs as some fellows who go evidently expect there is good mineral there.

In conversation with Mr. Geary this morning he saidthat while digging in the gravel in the townsite this week colors of a very encouraging nature were found.

Lightning Creek, some fifteen miles further south from Steamboat gave promise of being well prospected this summer, and report has it that it may be even better than Steamboat.

Mr. Geary thinks enough of the future of the district to purchase a number of pack horses and make Hope his headquarters for the summer. He will move his fam to Hope in the course of a few weeks.

The price paid for packing over the trail from Hope to Steamboat is 10 cents per pound and 5 cents per pound up from the trail.

Asked as to the route from Chilliwack to Steamboat. Mr. Geary said he believed the easist way was up over the Hope trail.

"Steamboat may not boom much this year, but mark my word the district is a good one" is the opinion of our friend, Mr. Geary.

B. C.E. R. STEAM SHOVEL

The hill north of theto wn on the Clayburn road is being cut down by the B. C. Electric steam shovel By arrangements made between the company and the government this work is being done. The company is using the gravel for ballast on their track between here and Chilliwack, while the cutting of the hill makes it all the better as a public highway. The mutual arrangement appears to redound to the benefit of both parties and the public.

WELCOMED THEIR HOME COMING JOYFULLY.

———o———

On Monday evening the "boys" went out to give their friend Mr. Carroll and his bride a welcome They advanced towards the front door and giving the signal were admitted to the confidence of the master benedict, who recognised the password of the serenaders and amid the tinkling of the bells and other harmonious instruments commanded them to bide a wee until he consulted his bank manager as to the best mode of procedure. This paper does not report further except to say that the home is to be forever blessed.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Larry Chapman had the pleasure of saying "good-evening and good-bye"

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

Clarence Soles who was hurt at Clayburn on Monday while loading cars at Clayburn is dead. He had been removed to the hospital at Sumas after the accident and it was there he died.

The parents of the deceased reside near Clayburn.

It is probable that an inquest will be held.

CRICKET CLUB MEETING

A meeting of the Abbotsford Cricket Club is called for on Saturday the 10th of June in the dining room of the Abbotsford Hotel so kindly lent for that purpose, at 8.30 p.m. It is hoped all members and subscribers will attend this meeting and a hearty invitation is extended to all interested in cricket or sport of any kind

A ROCK CRUSHER FOR THE DISTRICT

The provincial government will shortly establish a rock crusher at the Sumas sub-station and proceed to crush rock for the government road work. The B. C. E. R. will build a spur in and a very reasonable rate has been given for the hauling of the rock to all points on the line.

MONTROSE AVENUE

Mr. Percy Wilson who has the contract for excavating for the tunnel on Montrose Avenue has begun work and is making good progress in moving the earth. He will take some of it across Essendene Avenue and fill in the gulch the old bridge on the Yale road spans. This will remove the bridge one of the old landmarks of the town.

LAY STEEL NEXT ON THE CANADIAN NORTHERN

Official information is out to the effect that the Canadian Northern will start to lay steel east from Port Mann next week. The first rolling stock of the company has reached the coast. It consists of two engines and cabooses and a number of cars. Grading in the yards at Port Mann will begin at the same time.

WHAT'S DOING IN ABBOTSFORD

There is considerable work now going on in Abbotsford which gives employment to a number of men, thus giving the town quite a little pay list.

The new C. P. R. station which is under the supervision of contractor McQuarrie is nearing completion. This is a beautiful little building and when completed will add to the beauty of thetown. A platform three hundred feet longer will be added to the present platform to the south.

The company is also putting in a lot of tracking, but the greater part of the work is being done by Chinamen and foreigners.

The track to the north of Essendene Avenue where considerable trackage will be put in toaccommodate the Abbotsford Lumber Co

The B. C. E. R. is excavating behind their present station for the government road.

The Canada Power Company employ a number of men on their new line.

Mr. Percy Wilson who has the contract from the Great Northern in excavating for the right-of-way employs a dozen or more men and a number of teams.

Both the government gangs, the one working on the big hill and the Clayburn road make their head quarters in Abbotsford.

The addition to the public school is progressing well and the addition which is two more rooms will make a very imposing building in which to educate the budding youth and beauty of the town.

The Great Northern employ a number of men on their contract work.

Added to this we have the old standby of the town with its big payroll, the Abbotsford Lumber Company.

There are also a number of shingle and saw mills which make Abbotsford town their head quarters and supply point.

There are also at the present a number of dwellings going up

B. C. E. R. SCHEDULE

Effective June 4, the new B. C. E. R. schedule will show four trains daily all the way to Chilliwack and return it having been decided to make Huntingdon local a thro train on account of the enormous increase in the passenger traffic which has taken place during the past month. This will leave Chilliwack at 6 a.m. arriving at New Westminster at 8.55 nad Vancouver 9.45.

Indicative of the extent of the business now being handled on this line the daily average carried in May is over 900 passengers, the highest for a single day being 1500.

An innovation which will be appreciated by the dairymen and ranchers is the installation of a "solid" milk train, leaving Chilliwack 6.15 p.m.—Columbian.

"THE BREAK IN THE CHAIN"

British newspapers, and not a good many Canadians, are quite open in an expression of their fear that the great unpeopled region lying north of the Great Lakes is a point of weakness in the Dominion as a nation and may result in the development of two Canadas which may not always work in harmony with each other. One of the latest writers to express fear on this point is Mr.Stephen Leacock who writes about it in the National Review. If this is the case, there is no help for it. There is not the slightest use in fighting with geography. The Great Lakes are where nature put them and so is Hudson's Bay. But is it the case? The Canadian Pacific already passes across this region. The National Trancontinental Railway is in course of construction and will soon be opened through this vast unpeopled area. The Canadian Northern is to be built through it. North and south railways are being pushed into it. It is known that there is a vast area of land there suited for agriculture Almost daily we hear of new discoveries of valuable minerals there and the country has not been one tenth prospected. There is much good timber; there are inexhaustible fisheries. There must be millions upon millions of acres of forest suitable for the manufacture of pulp and paper. Mr. Leacock asserts that the settlement of the United States proceeded steadily from east to west and that there is now a continuous range of settled communities aacross the Continent. But then he has forgotten his history. For years the Pacific Coast of the United States was separated from the Mississippi valley by what used to be called the Great American Desert. If he will turn to the records of the United States Congress he will find Mr. Benton proposing that some point not very far west of the Missouri should be selected and a statute of the god Terminus be erected there to signify that the limit of the expansion of the United States had been reached. Daniel Webster declared in his place in the Senate that he would not consent to a single dollar of the money of the people of Massachussetts being expended in removing even a three-foot wall of earth, if that was all that separated the Pacific slope from the rest of the country. It may not be within the memory of Mr. Laycock but it is fresh in the recollection of some people that at one time the desirability of cutting off California from the United States and setting up an independent republic on the Pacific slope was seriously discussed. The reasons for the opinions voiced in what has been just referred to was the fear that nature had created a break in the continuity of possible settlement of the United States. A great many people have not forgotten that at one time British Columbia's "sea of mountains" was supposed to furnish an impassable barrier to commerce and national expansion.

In view of these things we are not of those who see in the unpeopled region north of the Great Lakes a potential break in the Canadian nationality. Northern Ontario will fill up with a prosperous and contented population just as the mountain region of B. C. is being filled up by such a people. Canada will be continuous and homogeneous from ocean to ocean. Across this alleged break in the chain three railways will soon be running from east to west and three great steamship lines ply upon the lakes. More than one line of railway will reach the shore of James Bay, and time will demonstrate that this part of the Dominion, which certain people now look uponas a source of weakness will be one of the strongest of the links that will bind Canada together.—Colonist.

BUTTER EXPANSION

In developing the creamery business, Caanadian dairymen have a growing home market to cater to Our cities are growing, and the number of butter consumers is increasing every year as fast, if not faster than the supply of good butter. Then, too, should the tariff agreement between Canada and the United States come into force the butter-maker will have an enlarged market for his product. The exports of cream to the United States the past year or two, under a nominal duty, may be taken as an indication of what the possibilities of what the American market are to the butter producer. Dairymen shipped cream across the border last year and the year before because it paid them to do so. And they will ship the manufactured product in the shape of butter, should the duty be removed because it will pay them to do so. There may be times it will pay better to sell at home. But a review of market conditions in both countries the past five years will show that prices average a few cents per pound higher in the United States than in Canada. There isis, therefore, encouragement for expansion in buttermaking in Canada. Even if access to the American does not materialize, the enlarged market at home will allow for considerable expansion. And in enlarging the butter output it need not be necessary to decrease the cheese output. In the newer districts being opened up in the west and elsewhere, there is room for expansion in buttermaking without in any way interfering with dairy conditions as they exist in the older dairy districts.—Canadian Farmer.
