FRASER VALLEY DEVELOPMENT LEAGUE MEETS

The annual meeting of the Fraser Valley Development League will be held in New Westminster on Friday. March 12, when it will be decided as to whether the League will be carried on for the coming year or not.

During the past year the League has not had the support of the Municipalities that it should have received, nevertheless it is an organization that should be the means of a lot of good being done in the way of bringing to the attention of the powers that be the requirements of the farmers of the Fraser Valley.

It is not definitely known yet as to whether the League will wind up its affairs and call it quits or not, but in reviewing the work taken up during the past year or two of its existence. it must be remembered it was the Fraser Valley Development League that first called to the attention of government the necessity for having a market commissioner for the Fraser Valley by appointing Mr. R. C. Abbott last summer; it was the League that stirred up the credits to the farmers, and it is believed that what was said and written in this connection had much to do with the bill that comes before the provincial house this week granting the long term credits to the farmers of the province; if the work of the first year is gone over some reference might be found to the Pitt River bridge, which is now an almost accomplished fact; it was the Fraser Valley Development League that brought to the attention of the people of Vancouver the important fact of patronizing the Fraser Valley products—of course with the assistance of the press, and in this paricular the Vancouver Sun deserves credit. Is this not enough to guarantee the life of the League for another year? It has been a hard struggle but the fact that some of the things that the League has gone after have been accomplished. shows that there is a necessity for some such organization, and there being a necessity it should be supported by every municipal council and board of trade in the Valley. but then all of us are not of the same mind or the organization would be a flourishing success.

The Fraser Valley Record says long live the Fraser Valley Development League and may 1915 bring the League prosperity of organization

REEVE MUNROE RESIGNS

FRIDAY, MARCH 5th, 1915

When the Russians get access to the sea via Constantinople then should Russia with its winter port make herself felt in the commerce of the world.

The German Blockade shows that John Bull is not too slow to play a waiting game—then bring something that will really make itself felt.

When Uncle Sam lays aside the monetary side of neutrality then shall we see the nation trying to make herself useful for the peace of the world.

With the war ended and the Emperor of Germany where the nations will place him—unless he dies before hand—and the Sultan of Turkey, residing somewhere in the heart of Asia Minor, European civilization should advance along the lines of freedom.

(From Fraser Valley Record)

It may be—although apparently not likely—that Mission City will be treated to an evening on "Patriotism and Production" by representatives of the Dominion and Provincial legislatures, or their appointees. It how ever reminds one of the favorite saying in the story of Croly, the old Scotch parson, who used to occasionally imbibe rather freely, but who always said "Dinna do as I do, but do as I say". What a government through its peoples' representatives tell the people, it itself should carry into practice, and in various ways should make it easy for the people to put into actual practice.

Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture for the Dominion House, representing Kootenay,a district where there is probably less agriculture going on than any other rural district in Canada, conceived an idea that it would be a good idea to have speakers hold meetings throughout the country, to tell the frmers to use the Best Seed; to Clean your Seed, and how to solve the Farm "Labour" Problem, also suggesting the Increasing of your Stock; etc.—a matter or matters that the provincial government has been spending much time and labor on, and with success. From the time of the cultivation of the first acre of land in Canada—several hundred years ago—the farmer has endeavored to carry this out to the best of his ability and without much assistance from the government at Ottawa. Of course proclaiming these homely truths to the few farmers who attend these meetings will do no real harm, but there is something more than mere platform oratory wanted. He wants the assistance of the government—thedominion government in protecting the Canadian markets against foreign products brought into the country to the detriment of the Canadian farmer. In this matter the provincial government is helpless, but it must be admitted they are telling the fruitgrowers and farmers of this province a lot of useful things about the best way to grow fruit, etc., even passing a resolution asking the Dominion government to put a duty on foreign fruit in order to conserve the markets of the province for the men who till the soil in the province. The McBride government are to be commended for the course of instruction they are carying out during the past few years.

The Canadian farmer is alive to the many opportunities that are before him these days, but instead of holding meetings throughout the provinces, the Dominion government had better pass legislation to assist the people in having the full benefit of the home market.

One of the reasons that these touring encyclopaedias of useful information to farmers did not come to this district north of the Fraser is that they probably were ashamed to face the fruitgrower with their ideas for fear of being up against it with awkward questions which the fruigrower might ask him about the protecting the prairie markets and the provincial markets for the fruitgrowers of this province. The fruitgrowers can ask these questions all right.

The Dominion government under Mr. Martin Burrell is taking the impractical course, although some of the oratory is no doubt good.

What does Mr. Blakemore know about the farming and fruigrowing of this province or any other. He is merely an engineer; or a handy man to pick up a few dollars from the Doukhobor commission or a hot-air speil to a small audience of farmers many of whom know a lot more than he does about the subjects he talks about.

When such an important work is being carried on, why not get all experts in the particular line taken up?

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S MORATORIUM

The following is the full text of the moratorium measure introduced in the British Columbia legislature:

1. In this Act—"Instrument" means and includes any mortgage, charge, encumbrance, agreement of sale or other instrument charging land with the payment of money, in respect of or affecting land situate within the province, and whether created before or after the coming into force of this act; but shall not include liens under the "Mechanics' Lien Act" or a certificate of judgment:

"Land" includes all real property, and every estate, right, title and interest in land or real property, both legal and equitable, and of whatsoever nature and kind, and any contingent, executory of future interest therein, and a possibility, whether the object of the gift or limitation of such interest or possibility be ascertained or not, and also a right of entry, whether immediate or future, and whether vested or contingent, into and upon any land.

Power to Authorize

2. (1). Nothwithstanding any rule of court or provision of any statute, the Lieutenant-Governor-in Council may, by proclamation—

(a). Authorize any judge or any court in the province in which any action or proceeding was pending on the first day of August, 1914, or has since been or may hereafter be taken to secure any right, remedy, or obligation under any instrument, or in respect of the lands, moneys. covenants, stipulations or agreements or contained therein, by order—

(i) To postpone the payment of and moneys relating wholly or in part to principal due or accruing due in pursuance of such instrument and for such purpose to stay any action or proceeding and the execution of any process already in such action. and any proceeding to enforce payment of sale, writ of execution, or other process of the court, and registration of certificate of judgment in any such action, until after the lapse of a time named in such order

May Stay Proceedings

(ii). In case of any action or judgment recovered in any action brought upon the covenants or agreements contained in any instrument for the payment of interest, or of taxes, or premiums of insurance, to stay any proceedings to enforce payment of the same by registration of certificate of judgment against or sale of any land charged by such instrument until after the lapse of a time named in such order; and

(iii.) To fix the period to be allowed for redemption of land or any mortgage or charge thereon in any such action or proceeding; and in any such action or proceeding in which the time for redemption has been fixed, to extend the same until after the lapse of a time named in such order.

(b). Authorize any judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia to order that no sale by virtue of any power of sale or by any other extrat-judicial process whatsoever under the authority of any clause in any instrument shall be made, executed, or carried into effect until after the lapse of a time named in such order.

Application and Order

(2) Any order may be granted under this section upon an application in a summary manner upon such notice and founded on such evidence by affidavit or by the examination of witnesses, as the udge to whom the application is made may approve; but no order shall be granted under this section unless upon cause shown by the person liable to make the payment or standing in the position of a defendant, and after considering all the circumstances of the case and the position of all parties.

(a). The judge is of opinion that time should be given to such person on the ground that he is unable immediately to make the payment by reason of circumstances attributable directly or indirectly. to the present war; or

(b). The judge is of the opinion that justice and right demand that some relief be given.

Subject to the provisions contained in any proclamation issued under this act, every order so granted may be upon such terms, conditions and limitations, including the reservation of leave to apply to vary the same. as such judge may deem proper. The costs of every such application and order may be fixed by the judge before whom the application is made, and shall be payable by the applicant. Every order shall have effect according to its terms, and there shall be no appeal from such order.

(3) Any sale made or purporting to be made in contravention of any such order shall be absolutely null and void.

(4) Any such proclamation may authorize the judge of any county court within whose territorial jurisdiction no judge of the Supreme Court resides to have and possess the same authority and powers in respect of actions or proceedings in the Supreme Court, or of sales by virtue of any power of sale or by any other extra-judicial process whatsoever, relating to land situate within such territorial jurisdiction, as any judge of the Supreme Court is by such proclamation authorized to exercise.

May Vary Proclamation

(5(Any such proclamation may be varied, extended, revoked, or renewed by any subsequent proclamation. and separate proclamation may be made dealing with separate subjects.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, action may be brought upon the covenants or agreements contained in any instrument for the payment of interest or of taxes or premiums of insurance, and the judgment recovered in such action may be enforced against the goods and lands of the defendant,but any proceedings to enforce payment of the same by sale of any land charged or accepted by such instrument may be stayed by order under subsection (1).

3. The proceedings of any application for an order under this act shall, so far as not expressly provided for by this act, be conducted in accordance with the ordinary practice of the court in dealing with similar matters

The powers given under this act shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, any other powers of any court or judge.

5. Nothing in this act shall apply to any money payable as rent under a lease the terms of which do not in any way create a charge on land in respect of payment of such money.

THE SEED LAW

With the opening of the 1915 seed trade, seedsmen, farmers and gardeners may wish to review the conditions under which sales may be made. The Seed Control Act provides that timothy, alsike, red clover and alfalfa seed must not be put on sale for the purpose of seeding with out being plainly marked with the grade, namely: Extra No. 1, No. 1., No. 2, No. 3. Farmers may sell seed below No. 3 in quality only to dealers to be cleaned and brought up to grade. All other grass, clover and forage plant seeds and those of cereals and flax must be marked in a plain and indelible manner with the common name or names of any noxious weed seeds present.

Seed of cereals, flax, grasses, clovers. forage plants, field roots and garden vegetables must have a germination of two-thirds of the percentage standard of vitality for good seed of the kind or be marked with the percentage that are capable of germinating. "Papered seeds" must be marked with the year in which the packet was filled.

Representative samples of seeds for purity and germination tests may be sent to the Seed Branch, Calgary, Alta. Two ounces of grass seed, white or alsike clover; four ounces of red clover, alfalfa or seed of like size and one pound of cereals are desired. Samples require postage but are tested free of charge up to 25 in number for each person or firm.

SEED BRANCH,Ottawa.

Charade

At seaside places dandies walk
And wear my first, and proudly talk;
But when their betters they salute
My first sometimes will make them mute
Then to my second each will tell
His small adventures, and cry, "Well
Let us adjourn to our hotel."
There if you listen for the word,
My whole may possibly be heard
In corner snug, where players sit
And exercise their keenest wit.

STAR WISHES

A little girl sat up one night,
To watch the first star overhead,
And when she saw its tiny light
These were the words she said:
"Star light! Star light!
First star seen to-night
Wish I may wish I might,
Have the wish I wish to-night.
I wish to have another day,
And then I'll play and play, and play"

A little owl sat up to day
To watch the last star overhead
And when he saw it fade away,
These were the words he said:
"Star light! Star light!
Last star seen to-night,
Wish I may, wish I might,
Have the wish I wish to-night
Another night—a dark one, too,
When I can fly, and cry, 'Whoo! Whoo!'"

Little Bear The Circus Man

One morning Father Bear and Mothre Bear went away to pick blackberries. Mother Bear told Little Bear to stay in his own yard. After his father and mother went away, Little Bear was dancing a bear dance beside the lilac bush when a stranger looked thro' the railway and said "Are you one of the Three Bears? Is your father called the Big Bear and your mother the Middle sized Bear?"

"Yes, we are the Three Bears family", said the Little Bear.

"Then open the gate, and come with me," said the stranger, I am Mr. Circus Man."

Now the circus man went into the forest on purpose to catch Little Bear In his hand he carried a chain and collar. He wished to put the collar round Little Bear's neck and drag him by the chain away from the Bear in a tent with this sign:

Side Show;
Bring the children to see the Little Bear, whose home was visited by Goldenlocks!
Only ten cents admission!

"You should go to the circus and hear the band play, Little Bear," said the man. "And you should see the circus tents! You should see the clowns do tricks inside the biggest circus tent! You should see the big animals that belong to the circus! You should see the elephants from India! They are bigger than your house, Little Bear! You should see the great hippopotamus and the huge rhinoceros with the horn on top of his nose! You should listen to the lion's roar and hear the tiger's growl! Will you come with me to the circus, Little Bear?"

"I should like to see the circus," spoke the Little Bear, "but I can't go until my father and mother come back from the black berry patch. Mr. Circus Man. I should think you would be afraid of the big elephants bigger than our house?"

"Oh" answered Mr. Circus Man," "I am so brave I am not afraid of the elephants."

"I should think," went on the little Bear "that you would be afraid of the great hippopotamus?

"Oh, no, Littl Bear,"-the circus man said "I am so brave I am not afraid of anything. You come with me. You see I am not afraid of ——"

Mr. Circus Man never finished that speech, because at that moment the Father and Mother Bear returned, and Mr. Circus Man suddenly looked terribly frightened. For half a second he stared at the Middle-sized Bear and the Big Bear and then he turned and ran so fast that his coat tails stood out behind!

Little Bear laughed until he hiccoughs. What is the matter with M Circus Man?
asked Little Bear at last.

"He was afraid of us", answered Mother Bear.

"Afraid of you!" exclaimed Little Bear; and then he laughed harder than ever, because he thought it so funny that any one could be so afraid of his good father and mother And that night when Little Bear laughed in his sleep, Mother Bear smiled and said, "Maybe he is dreaming of Mr. Circus Man running away from us. It was funny.

CANADIAN EXHIBIT IS FINE REPRESENTATION

Canadian Building Contains Most Complete Individual Agricultural and Mining Exhibit in the Exposition.

Mr. Donald McLean, Port Coquitlam's old timer, who with his family has just returned home after spending the winter in California, the itinerary taking in the Exposition, speaks enthusiastically of all he has seen during the past few months From information and data handed the Review by Mr. McLean it is readily apparent that the Canadian exhibit is a magnificent representation of the fair Dominion's life and work The Oakland Inquirer on the eve of the opening of the Canadian building stated:

"Canada, when her building at the Panama-Pacific International exposition is officially dedicated tomorrow with ceremonies reminiscent of the old world pomp, will lay stress on the fact that she is England's eldest daughter and that as the mother is not officially represented at the exposition, she will have to be host in the name of the British Empire."

The total investment made is close to three-quarter million dollars.

Varied Exhibit

The Honorable Martin Burrell. Canadian minister of Agriculture, represented the government at the dedication of the ceremonies, together with W. Hutchison, chief of the Canadian Commission. Short addresses by these men, speeches by Governor Hiram W. Johnson, President Charles C. Moore and Mayor James Rolph Jr., were part of the program United States soldiers and military bands formed the official escort and Canadian anthems were the order of the day.

The Canadian building contains without doubt, the most complete individual mining and agricultural exhibit in the entire exposition. It covers 70,000 square feet and was designed for two chief reasons; one was to show the American farmer that the tide of opportunity lies toward the wheat fields of the west and the other was to induce the Canadians who have emigrated to the United States, to return.

Agriculture, fisheries, mines, forestry and horticulture, the natural resources of Canada, are magnificently represented. The three Canadian railroads subsidized by the government are exploited by photographs and panoramas. In fact the transportation facilities of Canada have been made one of the chief factors in the showing.

Art of Taxidermist

From an artistic point of view the display, which by the way is not entered for award, is unique., More than 300 head of moose, deer, buffaloes and other game have been placed in conspicuous parts of the building. The most notable feature of the decorative work, however, is a wide frieze with relief work made of grasses, leaves and shubs depicting rural scenery in the different parts of Canada. The Canadian canals, the Welland, the Rideau, the Chambly, the Ottawa, the Sault St. Marie, the Lachine the Soulonges, the Beauharnois and others are shown in tableau.

An immense diorama, called "The Past and Present of Canada" shows with numerous specimens of Candian fauna, the development of this vast country. Mountain quail, partridge, deer, otter, beavers, antelope badgers, caribou, bison, musk ox and deer illustrate the possibilities for the hunter and a dam of live beavers adds to this display.

A large tank of live fish of many varieties and an exhibit of sections of trees and woods illustrate the fisheries and forestry.

Asbestos to Gold

Cobalt, asbestos, mica, gold, silver copper, iron lead, nickel and coal, which are some of Canada's principal sources of income are also well represented. A large panorama of the city of Vancouver and its harbor illustrate the important part which water transportation plays in Canada Accurate models of ships and real water has been used in this panorama. A faithful reproduction of a Canadian orchard calls attention to the fruit growing industry of Canada, and the "royal court" which is a gallery of paintings of royal presonages, is a fitting climax to the whole. The second floor of the building is taken up entirely by offices, reception and rest rooms for Canadian visitors.

MOUNT LEHMAN NEWS

The entertainment and lecture in the Orange Hall was a great success The Hall was crowded. The first part of the programme was by the school children trained by Mrs. Green and Miss Reid our public school teachers The flag drill showed great skill and good training. This was done by Misses Beatrice Lehman, Verma Chowen, Lucy Owen, May Gillis and Sadie Gillis.

Then came the Pied Piper of Hamlin dramatized by the children in splendid form: Miss B. Lehman as the Pied Piper and Willie Owen as the Mayor of Hamlin certainly distinguished themselves. All the children did well indeed. A piano duet was well done by Harry Taylor and his little sister Kittie.

The second part of the programme was well filled by Rev. D. A. MarRae of Cloverdale, who delivered a most eloquent and instructive lecture on "Christianty and Social Questions" He held the large audience spell bound for over an hour.

The chairman Rev. Mr. Reid announced that this was a fitting close to a series of very helpful entertainments during the winter months.

A Rockerfeller Plan

The Rockerfeller Foundation has been engaged for some little time in the work of Belgian relief. But those who compose this body consider that it is neither wise nor right to feed and clothe idle people, though they may have been very badly used. It is thought, too, loubtless, that the most industrious women in the world would rather work than be left to brood over their wrongs and sorrows.

The experiment has begun in Holland where there are 200,000 Belgians the majority of whom are in want of warm underclothing and stockings. In one great immigrant hotel in Rotterdam there are 700 refugees. These have been supplied with material and, in return for food and shelter, are making underclothing, shoes and stockings for themselves and others in need.

As most of the other refugees are in concentration camps, this plan can be easily enlarged. But it is in Belgium itself that the committee sees the greatest scope for an industry which will very appreciably lessen the burden borne by the generous of America. It is believed that these men and women might be employed in the work of reconstruction.

In the lace industry alone 40000 women have been employed. There is stock now on hand and raw material enough to carry on the industry for some time. If part of the stock now on hand could be sold the proceeds could be used to finance the business in all lace-making centres.

The matter is being discussed in New York and it seems to be anticipated that authority may be obtained to export the lace. This plan is a bold one, but it is not likely it has been put forward by the foundation without the due consideration of all the difficulties involved.

W. A. Wylie, formerly a ministter was elected trustee in Kamloops at the last municipal election. Supt. Robinson has told him to resign.

"The industries of the country are making more vagrants and cripples than the war" John Oliver at Penticton. Big booster is he not.

PAINTING PROTECTS YOUR HOUSE!

It's the repeated changes from heat to cold, from dampness to drought, from rain to snow, that makes wood rot and crumble and eventually turn to dust.

To preserve your house INDEFINITELY from the elements, you ought to paint it at regular intervals with

Bapco Pure Paint

It covers your house with an impenetrable coating of PUREST white lead, linseed oil and zinc, and shuts out the destructive elements for years to come.

We sell and recommend BAPCO Pure Paint to our customers, because we have their best interests at heart.
