SLUICING

In Mid-winter on Boulder Creek.

Expensive but Profitable Drifting Work Going on — A Record Of Operators.

As stated in a previous issue, a great deal of work is being done on Boulder creek this winter, and from all accounts the results are gratifying in the extreme. In some cases drifts are being run in the creek bed, keeping in the pay where the summer's work ended. In other instances, the pay is being followed in and under the benches, with equally good results. Timbering has to be done in every case and, although at a very heavy expense, we do not know of a claim that has not paid from the start. It will, no doubt, be surprising to learn that all the operators are sluicing the dirt as they take it out, and by the arrangements for sluicing they are encountering very little trouble from the cold weather.

The following is a partial list of those now working, and are given in rotation, going up the creek from the mid-line company's property.

On the Societe Miniere's ground ten men have been employed and the cleanups have been very satisfactory. A good fat sack of dust was brought down this week for deposit.

Louis Verke and partner are working on a lay for George Sinclair, on the Company's ground, and near the intake. Johnson and son are running a drift into the right-hand bench.

Tim Rayl and partners are drifting in the creek bed and are taking out big money.

Bargen, Hetherd and Bartim, just above Atlin Bay, are following the pay into the bench by drift.

On the Vestal property, bought by Stevens, Currie, John Benton and another, a drift is being run into the right hand bench in good pay.

Norton brothers are working with four men on the Victoria group and are well satisfied with their prospects.

Pavey, Anderson, Deal and McNaughton are drifting in good ground on the Anderson property.

Symons and Pillar on the former's ground, are drifting from the creek into the bench.

About 12 below, Loucks and May are drifting into the bench, and on Black and Grant's ground Henderson, Davis and Tom White are running a profitable drift.

Blaikie and Downie, on their own ground, and continue to get similarly good results to what they did all summer.

DANGERS OF THE TRAIL.

Taku Arm Supposed to Have Claimed Two of Our Popular Mail Carriers.

The Mail Which Left Atlin on Friday Last Has Not Yet Reached Log Cabin—Grave Fears For the Safety of the Carriers — Search Party Left Here Yesterday.

The storm, which for the last week has been raging throughout the district, has caused much anxiety in the community for anyone on the trail, and more especially for the Mail Carriers. Upon the arrival of Carrier Rant the information was received that Carriers Abey and McIntyre, who left here on Friday afternoon, 28th ulto for Log Cabin, had not reached their destination, neither had they been seen since Sunday morning last when they left Butler's ranch, seven miles from Taku City. According to the meagre information at present at hand, the Carriers left Butler's early Sunday morning in their canoe, but a few miles up the Arm took to the ice with their sled, the tracks of which were seen by Rant on his last trip into Atlin. Confident of reaching Perkinson's place before noon the men did not take a luncheon with them. Their non-arrival at that stopping-place by Monday morning caused their Chief, Mr. J. W. Macfarlane, considerable anxiety, and in the hope that they had passed Perkinson's without stopping he returned at once to Log Cabin, while Rant came on in to Atlin. Word came by wire on Thursday afternoon that no trace of the unfortunate men had been found. Macfarlane left on his regular trip to Atlin on Thursday morning, and it is expected he will be able to throw some light on the mystery when he arrives tonight or tomorrow.

Yesterday morning the Government Agent despatched Messrs. Coutts and Fountain to search for the missing men.

Joe Abey is an experienced man on the trail and carried the mail all last winter. McIntyre, though a comparative stranger in Atlin was a trusted employee of the C. D. Co. on the Yukon service. Both were careful and reliable men.

DROWNED.

Andrew Dickson Meets His Death on Tagish.

Canoe Was Swamped and Took Him Down With it — Well Known Here

The many friends of "Andy" Dickson will regret to hear of his death by drowning, which happened on the 21st ulto. Dickson and a man named Holland, who was engineer on the Government steamer, Alpha, had been fishing on Tagish lake for some time and were moving their outfit across the lake. Each had a Peterboro canoe and the canoes were loaded to the guards with the outfit. Dickson was sitting on his knees with his feet behind him and under the thwart. The canoe, which was low in the water, filled from a swell and went to the bottom. His feet evidently caught under the thwart, holding him fast until he drowned. It is not expected that the body can be recovered this fall.

Andy Dickson was formerly Dominion telegraph operator at Lower Lebarge. Last summer he left that service to act as guide for Major Norrie, who was in the country seeking big game. He had two brothers, Tom and Adam Dickson, and many friends along the Yukon river.

CABINET MAKING.

Attorney General Eberts at Work.

The Seattle P.-I. Furnishes Some Interesting Information on B. C. Politics.

The B. C. papers, up to 19th ulto, have been very non-committal on the political situation at the Capital, but the Victoria correspondent of the P.-I. reports a probable Cabinet under the leadership of Mr. Eberts, with the following personnel: Hon. Eberts, Premier and President of the Council; W. W. B. McInnes, Attorney General; Richard McBride, Minister of Mines; Dennis Murphy, Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works; Richard Green, Provincial Secretary; Captain Tatlow, Minister of Finance.

This information is stated to have come from Attorney General Eberts himself and was given on the eve of the Premier's resignation.

ROSS ELECTED.

DAWSON, Y.T., Dec. 3rd.—The Dominion elections passed of here yesterday amid intense excitement. Last reports seem to give ex-Gov. Ross a majority of over 600.

CANADA NORTHERN.

To Cost Approximately One Hundred Million.

Three Hundred and Eighty Miles already Built and in Operation.

"A railroad project, high in proportion," says the Seattle P.-I., "in fact probably larger than has ever been undertaken anywhere in the world, has been undertaken in Canada by British and Canadian capitalists. The projectors estimate the cost at $95,750,000 and the road will be 2830 miles long.

"The charter granted to the projectors calls for the completion of the road within ten years from the date of the beginning of construction. 380 miles of the road have already been completed. The men behind the movement believe that the whole line from ocean to ocean will be in operation in 1907.

"All the officers and directors of the road are Englishmen or Canadians, with the exception of G. L. Church, an American engineer. The president is the Hon. George Taiguay, M.P., president of the Quebec Board of Trade, and the English directors are Richard Biddulph Martin, a London banker, and Frank Crisp.

"The political significance of this proposed new road is believed to be very great. It is described as England's answer to Russia's Trans-Siberian Railway.

The Canadian Government has granted a subsidy of $3200 a mile, or $192,000 to build the first 60 miles of the road west of Robertval, P.Q. This subsidy will be increased should the cost of construction exceed $15,000 per mile.

Postal Information.

The Official Blue Book of the Postal Department is just to hand, and a cursory examination of it shows that the Atlin office has come well to the front among the Provincial postoffices. As a money order despatching office, Atlin comes 16th on the list, with a total value of $36,885.15 and 19th as to the number of orders, while as "a remittance" town it is way down on the list, being 32nd out of 116 money order offices.

The revenue derived from the Atlin-Yukon districts was $30,289.45, while the expenditure amounted to $117,774.36.

Jubilee Trail.

Lee Garden reports the grading and clearing of the winter freight trail over the Jubilee route. He states that two bridges will have to be built and is awaiting instructions from those interested.

The Claim.

IN OUR issue of October 4th the public was notified that a deal had been closed between A. C. Hirschfeld, editor and proprietor of the ATLIN CLAIM, and C. M. Hyskell, owner of the "Burlington (Ia.) Daily Journal, by which the last named gentleman became the proprietor of THE CLAIM.

The deal then made was subject to certain conditions future to be carried out, but these conditions not having been complied with THE CLAIM still remains the property of A. C. Hirschfeld.

The Publisher takes this opportunity to again sincerely thank his many patrons and friends for their liberal assistance and appreciation of his efforts in the past and trusts that the support so generously given will in no way diminish in the future.

It has been and always will be the sole aim and object of THE CLAIM to advance and foster the interests of this great district in its columns, and by spreading far and wide the glorious possibilities of this important section of British Columbia thereby attain the desire of all, that "Atlin" be a veritable "Mecca" in the land.

THE CLAIM has earned a reputation for truthfulness and the absence of bombastic statements in its columns has gained for it on the "outside" the position of an authority in all that pertains to Atlin and to the district.

This district today has attained an enviable reputation among the mining districts of the Province, not a little to the efforts of THE CLAIM, and its future was never brighter. The result of the past season's development has conclusively proved that the yield of gold is just beginning and that what has already been won is but a scraping from the surface. There is every reason to expect that next year will see a great influx of miners and prospectors as well as of capital and capitalists, and to this end THE CLAIM, with the persistence that means success, will not abate its efforts to herald the welfare of the district.

With this end in view, it is requested that the miners on the different creeks will themselves assist us in our endeavours, and from time to time forward, for publication, news of their respective sections so that we may thereby be kept in constant touch with every part of the district. By so doing they will be doing themselves good and the district an incalculable benefit.

A NATIONAL PARK

And Game Reserve—Latest Scheme.

A Hard Blow to Alaska's Efforts to Obtain Territorial Government.

The Washington, D. C., correspondent of the Seattle P.-I. has unearthed the outline of a plan on the part of President Roosevelt's friends that, if carried out, will prove a fearful blow to Alaskan commercial interests. It is said that they have induced the President to contemplate the creation of an immense game reserve and national park to contain a great portion of Alaska. The proposed reserve and park is to extend from the mouth of the Yukon river, a great distance on each side of the river, to the eastern boundary of Alaska.

The scheme is devised and is being pressed by Dr. P. Langley, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, Dr. W. T. Harnaday, of the New York Zoological Society, Ernest Seeton-Thompson, the artist and author of animal stories, and H. S. New, member of the Republican National Committee for Indiana and a prominent member of the Executive Committee of the National Committee. Mr. New has just returned from a hunting trip to Alaska and he is impressed with Alaska only as to its possibilities as a paradise for sportsmen. All of these men are influential, and all are personal friends of the President and of others well up in administrative circles.

The promoters of the plan declare that the President is himself an enthusiastic sportsman and that he is favourable to the plan for the greatest game reserve in the world, such as it is maintained, this would be. In no preserve in the entire world, it is said, is there such a variety of large game or so much of it as there is in the great Yukon valley. It is pointed out that there are more than 200,000 square miles here of the world's choicest game fields which would make the largest and the grandest national park that is now available in any place in the world.

Commenting on the subject, the Skagway Alaskan says;

"With a forest reserve to include all of the Alexander Archipelago and a game reserve to include all of the Alaska Yukon valley, all that is required to complete the great North American farce at government in Alaska, is a totem pole reserve and a few Indian reservations to take up the remainder of the district and an order from the Federal Government to the citizens of the North to 'mush on.'"

A Strange Death.

Word has just been received from Skagway of the sad death of the three-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Peters, of Taku Arm, in that city. While playing with the curtains of a folding bed, one evening last week, he pulled the bed over upon himself, and when removed he was almost lifeless. Physicians were immediately summoned and he was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain and a fracture of both bones of the right leg and probably other internal injuries. Everything possible was done for the little fellow, but he lay unconscious for two days until he died.

Much sympathy is felt for the sorrowing parents who are well known here and along the trail.

CARIBOO.

The Season's Cleanup Suffers Thro' Lack of Water.

The Provincial Mineralogist Says Cariboo "Has Only Just Been Touched."

The Provincial Mineralogist during the past summer paid an official visit to the Cariboo district, and, according to interviews, was much impressed with what he saw there.

In speaking of his visit, the Ashcroft Journal remarks:

"We are very glad the Mining Department are beginning to realize the fact that there is a mining section called Cariboo in the Province."

Atlin, like Cariboo, is off the beaten trail and has suffered at the hands of the Government from lack of official "write-ups," but there is reason to believe that Mr. Roberson will include Atlin in his "list of visitations" next year.

Of Cariboo, Mr. Robertson says: "The past season's work in the Cariboo district has been retarded by the lack of water, which is all essential in hydraulic mining. For five years past the snowfall and rainfall of the country has been gradually diminishing, so that hydraulic operations have been consequently impaired. The percentage of snow and rainfall in a hydraulic camp is the exact measure of production, granting that the gold is there, and in consequence the light returns from Cariboo this season may be laid to the lack of water." From Mr. Robertson's observations, there is no lack of gold, therefore it follows that only a sufficient head of water is required to win it.

At Slough creek, Mr. Robertson found the most promising indications of successful mining. Mr. J. Hopp, who is in charge of the work, has done wonders in the direction of developing the company's property. A shaft has been sunk for 300 feet, from which drifting has been done for 1299 feet, and from the end of the drift he has broken up to the old river channel, where the gold lies. This is a remarkable recognition on the part of a mine manager of natural conditions, where so many have failed to recognize them. On the Liard property, Philip Fraser, who formerly managed the Miocene, is sinking a new shaft which in all probability will strike pay gravel. Taking all in all, Mr. Robertson says, the Cariboo dictrict has only been touched.

Parental Devotion.

The Provincial Government might well take a cue from the policy of the Dominion and Province of Ontario to foster the mining industry of British Columbia. The following extract, from a valued exchange, gives some idea of the efforts put forth by the Dominion Government in the Yukon with the view to assist in opening up that country:

"The Canadian Government has shown a very active interest in the welfare of the gold-mining industry at Klondike this year, and personal visits to these goldfields have been paid both by the Deputy Minister of the Interior and also by the Government Director of Mines. Appreciating the importance of fostering the quartz mining industry, the Government, it is understood, has decided to put up a small stamp test mill by which the miners will be enabled to sample their ores at the lowest possible cost. As the lowest price is given at $18 a ton, it will be seen that quartz mining in the Yukon is still a very costly operation, and only high grade deposits can be touched at present, but the benefit of the Government's action will be appreciated when one learns that private mills at Dawson are charging as much as $100 per ton. Another way in which the Government will assist the miner is by supplying a number of diamond drills for prospecting purposes which can be hired at a very moderate rent. By this means new territory can be quickly and cheaply prospected, and assisted by the Government in this practical manner, it is anticipated that mining activity in the Canadian Yukon will be very largely increased."
