Atlin's Determination of an Hitherto Doubtful Prospect.

MOST GRATIFYING RESULTS FROM UNITED ENERGY.

The Pine Creek Tunnel Syndicate Completes the First Part of its Contract with the Leaseholders---A Boon for the Atlin District as a Hydraulic Camp.

After twenty-four days continuous work, three shifts daily, bedrock has been struck on the "Race Horse" property, in the shaft sunk on the "Lillian" claim, by the Pine Tunnel Syndicate and the prospects found in last winter's shaft on the same ground have been fully verified. This proves conclusively that the pay channels of Pine follow the valley from end to end, and have a uniform value. The gold taken from bedrock was very coarse and nuggety and strongly resembles that of the Willow creek run, five miles up the valley. The appearance of the pay gravel is also very similar, and bedrock is the characteristic serpentine formation observed to underlie Willow creek and vicinity. Bedrock was struck at a depth of forty-four feet, and although the gravel taken from the shaft has not yet been sluiced out, it would appear from the pannings made that one of the later runs of the creek has also followed the same channel, having for its bedrock a cemented, mixed body of clay and gravel, which immediately overlies the silty overburden of the bedrock lead.

The camp is to be congratulated on the energetic way in which our first local enterprise took hold of this proposition. Over $8000 in cash and labor was expended in the prospect work, and the greatest difficulty encountered in handling the steady flow of water in this particular shaft, which in the absence of a steam pump, made sinking a slow and laborious matter.

It is impossible as yet to estimate the values contained in either of these runs, but the prospect taken from bedrock tends to increase the estimate made last winter in the shaft then sunk when the pay streak there struck was estimated to run from $15 to $18 per cubic yard. It is now doubted whether last year's shaft really struck bedrock on the channel at its depth of thirty feet. The present shaft is not more than ten or fifteen feet farther to the north yet goes down at least twelve feet deeper, allowing for the difference in surface level. From the data kept during last year's sinking many are of the opinion that the prospect then found was taken from the false bedrock of the upper run, which may have rested on the rim or on a large boulder obstructing the channel.

From a cross-section furnished us by Mr. Moffatt, the following strata appear to have been cut through in the new shaft before bedrock was reached: Surface drift material, 11 feet; Stratified silts and gravels, 9 feet; wash gravel, carrying pay, 5 feet; Unstratified silts and gravels, carrying boulders (boulder clay), 5 feet; Silt deposit, distinctly laminated, 8 feet; wash gravel, containing an abundance of quartz and carrying coarse gold, "nuggety" on bedrock, 6 feet; bedrock, a serpentinized rock, heavily mineralized with iron pyrites.

As the contract, made between the Leaseholders' trustee, Mr. J. H. Brownlee, and the Syndicate, expires April 1st, and there still remains over $1000 of work to be done in order to complete the Syndicate's contract and give title to its contingent interest in the property, some fear was expressed that the work yet remaining (drifting on bedrock) could not be completed within the next twenty days, owing to the constant flow of water. As Mr. Brownlee did not desire to expose the Syndicate to a possible loss of its interest through defaulting on the contract he handsomely offered to assume all further responsibility on its part, and himself install a steam pump with a capacity sufficient to keep bedrock drained while further prospecting progressed. This he assumed provided the Syndicate placed at his disposal the sum of $900 with which to thus complete their contract with his principals. It speaks volumes for the vitality of the camp that this sum should have been subscribed almost at the instant at the meeting of the Syndicate, Tuesday evening, at which Mr. Brownlee's generous offer was made.

In addition to this concession on the part of the Leaseholders their trustee further consented to finance the $1300 due to him under the contract in order to clear the charges on the property. Thus our local enterprise has got down to bedrock on the Leaseholders' property without having to get down to bedrock in their treasurer's strong-box.

The benefit to the camp of the successful issue of this happy venture cannot be over estimated. It is in a way a second Discovery on Pine creek and should stimulate further ventures of a like nature in other portions of the valley, along the course of the old glacial stream With the indications recently uncovered on the Stevendyke property and now, again, on the Race Horse group, this course should not be difficult of definite determination.

Mr. Brownlee's unwavering faith in the lower reaches of Pine valley has thus been proved not in any way misplaced.

Although known in great part to many of our readers, the history of this particular prospect may be retold with profit as well as with the interest that always attaches itself to success. When Mr. Brownlee first acquired the Lillian property—it was in the early days of the camp—it was an isolated lease claim with nothing yet developed in its vicinity that could lead the most optimistic to ascribe to it any particular value, its distance being so great from the main scene of activity, Discovery basin. Yet, with his usual determination to force the issue with Our Lady Fortune, he very quietly and methodically started the still hunt for the nuggets found on Tuesday last.

In the winter of last year as soon as sinking operations could be commenced with some certainty of controlling possible water, Messrs. Cross and MacIntosh, the latter one of the best practical miners in the district, joined him in sinking the preliminary prospect to which reference has already been made. Mr. MacIntosh reported the discovery of a lead running through the property about 1200 feet north of the present creek, which at this point and for miles above had proved barren. This discovery created no little excitement at the time, but Mr. Brownlee's absence from the camp for some month's thereafter, postponed immediate development. The shaft, not having been timbered, caved in immediately the spring opened and upon his return further prospecting was deferred till this winter.

In November last the Pine Tunnel Syndicate was organized for the purpose of running a 1200-foot tunnel from the creek to the vicinity of the dismantled shaft, with the idea of draining the channel supposed to have been found. This tunnel was not run in very far before it became evident that it would not hit bedrock in the distance expected. Several shafts were then sunk on the proposed line of the tunnel with the idea of verifying the depth to bedrock, but in each case water was encountered which could not be handled with the appliances within the immediate reach of the miners. Finally a new shaft was started with the bold determination to get to "bedrock or bu'st." Three shifts relieved one another

SATURDAY, MARCH 16th, 1901.

It is with genuine satisfaction we learn that the Provincial Legislature at its present session is very seriously and carefully considering amendments to the Placer Act, one of the most important of which is the increasing the size of a placer claim to 250 feet. It is current rumour that the proposed amendments have already become law, but this rumour we have not been able to verify up to the moment of going to press.

Regarding proposed amendments generally, we learn that it is the intention to do away, so far as may be possible, with the conflict between the mining law of this Province and that of the Northwest Territories which has occasioned so much difficulty, needless litigation and loss to miners, especially in this district. The Territorial placer claim is 250 feet square, and many of the conditions attached are similar to those provided for in the amendments now before the Legislature.

That the Northwest laws on the whole are the smoothest and generally fairest in their working of any on the American continent is the opinion of the majority of our miners conversant with them, and respect to this opinion has been paid to its expression as appears from references to the question in recent Coast papers.

Not only is a 100-foot claim too small to allow of a reasonable return for a miner's enterprise and labour, but it is too small to be worked advantageously without sluice-boxes or dump trespassing upon the adjoining property. In granting the prospector ownership rights in the claim he has located, it is only fair that the Government should grant him also a reasonable extent of room on his property for its development in such a manner as to return the best results.

Complete details of the proposed amendments the Legislature has now under consideration have not yet been made public; when disclosed, a vast army of prospectors hope to find that insistence upon personal staking is one of the conditions, and an increased penalty provided for all unjustifiable claim-jumping. Action in these two details would undoubtedly stimulate prospecting immensely and give great satisfaction to placer miners in whatever portion of the Province they may be found.

Upon the final passage of the Amended Placer Act on the lines proposed there is very strong reason to expect that the Atlin camp will enjoy a recurrence of the activity which first brought it into existence. With a gold-bearing area of over 1200 square miles—half as large again as the Dawson camp,—little more than half has as yet been prospected, and the indications are that much valuable ground is still open to the enterprising prospector.

The report from Ottawa that the Dominion Government will at once establish an Assay Office in Vancouver at which gold will be purchased at its full value, in a manner similar to that followed at Seattle during the past three years, will be received with general satisfaction.

For the moment this does away with the immediate demand for a Mint, so far as the miner is concerned. The desired opportunity is at last given him to convert his hard earned gold into coin at the minimum of cost within the Province, and the dust being purchased by and for the Dominion Government, it will soon be decided, as a natural consequence, that the best way to treat the gold thus purchased is to mint it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

WHITE PASS & YUKON RATES FOR 1901.

DEAR SIR:—I have yours of February 5th. I certainly trust that you will meet with success in publishing your interesting paper, and feel that there will be considerably more mining going on in the Atlin district during the coming season than in the past.

I notice the action of the Atlin Board of Trade in regard to the railway petition.

Our new tariffs for the coming season are being prepared and will be ready for distribution within the next few days; everything is taken on strictly weight basis, and there will be considerable reduction in the rates over those of last year.

Our railway company have recently purchased the Canadian Development Company boats, possession to be given on the 1st of April; the fleet will be put in thorough repair and three or four new boats added. These new boats are of one model and are expected to be much faster and of lighter draft than any now on the upper river.

The De Lamare Syndicate paid Christopher the full amount of the first payment, on January 31st, as agreed.—Yours truly,

E. C. HAWKINS.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 27th, 1901.

THE RESIDENT PHYSICIAN.

DEAR SIR:—If I may be pardoned for trespassing on your valuable space, I desire to notify the general public of Atlin and vicinity that as Dr. Lewis has now resumed his practice, and moreover, has been appointed Resident Physician for the district, I decline to see any person "professionally." Thanking you in anticipation,—I am, Sir, Yours truly, den and. On completion of these, and on the moderation of the weather, work will be commenced on the Hazelton branch.

F. T. TROUGHTON.

In connection with the "break" the following has appeared in several eastern papers and may be taken for what it is worth:

A nice condition of affairs has developed in connection with the construction of the Yukon telegraph line from Quesnelle, B. C., to Telegraph Creek and Atlin.

The construction work was completed between Quesnelle and Hazelton, and then the party was sent out from Hazelton to continue construction north, while simultaneously another party was started out from Telegraph Creek to work south and make connection with the Hazelton party, about half way between these two points. In their work one party struck along a certain valley and the other party an entirely different valley. The result is that the actual work of construction has overlapped, and instead of the wires being connected the ends are 70 miles apart, with two gigantic ranges of mountains intervening. It will be impossible to connect the wires over these mountains, and the result must be the destruction and abandonment of a large portion of the line already built and the building of a new line to make connection with one end or the other.

Just who is responsible for this untoward condition of affairs has not yet transpired. The matter will be ventilated in Parliament.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

CONTROVERSY BETWEEN CIVIL AND MILITARY AUTHORITIES.

Salisbury, Rhodesia, Feb. 16—The publication of the Times, a local newspaper, has been stopped under martial law for having printed a criticism of the conduct of Lieut.-Gen. Carrington.

The High Court ordered the restoration of its rights to the Times and interdicted the military authorities from any interference therewith beyond the necessary censorship.

The military authorities, however, disregard the order of the high court and this morning the staff of Times were forcibly evicted from their offices.

GREAT MINDS THINK ALIKE —SOMETIMES.

The Rev. Mr. Pringle has been kind enough to hand us the following analysis, made at the Laboratory of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario, of the "white deposit" so plentiful to the east of Atlin townsite:

"The white 'cheesy' substance is oolitic limestone deposit, made of minute spherules of Calcium Carbonate, not unlike fish-roe in appearance. This is due to the deposition of calcium carbonate, from solution, around tiny grains of calcarious sand until the spherules are built up and often cemented together into a curious rock called oolite, found often on coral islands."

An analytical examination was made of this same deposit by the Geological Department at Ottawa, and from the annual summary report for 1899 the following is taken:

"A sample of the white, earthy-looking material found immediately behind Atlin townsite in large patches when examined in the Laboratory, was found to consist of "pure white, more or less firmly compacted, yet readily friable mass of hydromagnesite."

Take your choice.

every eight hours, and, notwithstanding the severely cold weather of the past month, the water could be kept under only with difficulty. But bedrock was struck at last with the results already mentioned.

There is every hope that the prospecting work now about to be continued under Mr. Brownlee's personal direction and the assistance of the steam pump now in shape to be installed will, within the next week or two, enable the value of this section of the valley to be ascertained with some certainty. We understand that should this work prove the gravel to carry anything like the estimated value that might be put upon it through the pannings made while sinking, a large company will immediately take hold of the proposition and exploit the property partly by dredging and partly by hydraulic methods. The consolidated leases now known as the "Race Horse" and "Feather" groups, of which the Lillian forms part, cover an area of some thirteen hundred acres, running up the valley as far as the mouth of Spruce creek. The plans are now complete for working the lower portion of the ground by hydraulics, a head of 130 feet being readily obtainable.

Well done, Syndicate! Hustle down another shaft on some other of our future Bonanzas. Let it be "Double or Quits!!"
