HARDWOOD FLOORS ARE REGULAR FEATURES NOW IN MOST RESIDENCES

Among the scores of residences which are being erected now and the other scores which are being planned to meet the housing shortage in the city, the use of hardwood floors has become almost a regular feature, not only in the higher priced homes but also in the more modest dwellings. Time was—and not any further back than the pre-war period at that—when it was only residences costing $6,000 to $10,000 and higher, which meant a pretty nice home in those days, where hardwood floors were specified, even in a few rooms. But of late, home owners, in planning their dwellings, have recognized the manfold advantages of this ultra-modern touch and hardwood floors for at least the dining room, living-room and hall has come to be as regular a thing in the specifications as the fireplace, without which no house is considered complete as a real home.

The housewife, to whose practical ideas in home construction and designing efficiency the majority of architects are at all times willing to bear tribute, have been a large factor in the demand for hardwood floors. They have found the advantages of practical absence from dust, lessened labor in keeping them clean, as well as largely increased appearance, to be of such a practical help towards lightening the labors of house-keeping that it is little wonder insistence is made on the use of hardwood. Under the circumstances it is little wonder that the laying of hardwood floors has developed into an important special adjunct of the building trade and is fast assuming considerable proportions.

Practically every up-to-date show window in the business section of the city is in itself a "silent salesman" for hardwood floors, for astute merchants have long ago realized that for a practical and attractive flooring for their show windows there is nothing to beat a neatly-inlaid combination of several of the popular hardwoods, such as white oak, black oak, teak, mahogany or Australian gum-wood.

And after all, the additional cost of a hardwood floor is a mere bagatelle as compared with the lasting economy it gives to any home, not only where the living room or dining room is continually in use, but also in other economies which can be effected, such as smaller floor rugs being needed and a much smaller cost of upkeep to have the floor in good condition all the time.

PREPARING PLANS FOR NEW PUBLIC MARKET

NEW WESTMINSTER—The city council on Monday decided to instruct City Engineer Stewardson to prepare plans and specifications for the new public market which is to be erected on the municipally owned site at the foot of Tenth street. There is some $40,000 available for the erection of a market building and it is probable that arrangements will be made with private parties to construct a cold storage plant adjacent to or in connection with the public market for the care of perishable produce. It is expected that the plans will be ready to call for tenders by April 1.

The council also endorsed a resolution asking the government to provide better housing and equipment for the University of B. C.

WEST VANCOUVER HAS BUILDING BYLAW NOW

WEST VANCOUVER—Finding it necessary to exercise supervision over the class of buildings erected in the municipality owing to the marked increase in the number of buildings of late, the council passed a building bylaw on Monday which will require a permit to be taken out hereafter for all structures. The next step will be the appointment of a building inspector. That was deferred to the next meeting of the council.

MINING NOTES

Work was resumed on the long tunnel at the Silver Standard Monday, after a temporary shut down on account of the severe weather. It is expected the tunnel will be in far enough so that the cold will make no difference before the next snap arrives.—Kootenaian.

Bert Smith, of the American Smelting and Refining company, came down from Nine Mile mountain last Saturday night and spent the week in town. He says the work on the Sunrise is progressing as well as he expected for a start in mid-winter. The last fall of snow he reported was not as heavy on the mountain as it was locally.—Omineca Herald.

POINT GREY BUILDING RECORD FOR FEBRUARY

Fifty-three permits for structures valued at $141,925 were issued by Building Inspector Hughes for February, 1920.

The total number of permits issued for January and February is 69, for a value of $239,950.
