AT FAIRVIEW

Good Work Being Done at the Big Mines.

NEW FAIRVIEW CORPORATION

Are Putting in a 200 Ton Cyanide Plant.

FAIRVIEW, B. C., Oct. 20—Work on the big building for the 200-ton cyanide plant of the New Fairview Corporation, Ltd., is progressing rapidly. Dnring the erection Superintendent Charles Ostenberg has a force building the tanks, as the company has adequate facilities to manufacture its own lumber, thus avoiding the excessive expense and frieght charge and effecting a saving of fully 50 per cent in cost. Meanwhile there have been stored reday for treatment sufficient tailings, the value of which, when they are treated, will fully pay for the cost of the new plant. From the results of the present experimental cyaniding plant it has been demonstrated that the whole of the tailings, after leaving the the tables where the high grade sulphrets are extracted, can be run direct into the tanks and treated at a very low cost, which should increase the profits on the Stemwinder ore considerably. In fact, the management has every reason to believe that the plant will establish a new record on cyaniding by saving 88 per cent of the values in the tailings.

At the mine the ore body at the 300 foot level is being further exploited by a winze following the footwall side of the vein. The policy of the management is to develop, as rapidly as possible, the ore resources of the different levels, so by the time everything is ready to put in operation at the 46 stamp mill and cyaniding plant, there will be an abundance of ore for crushing. There are now over 6000 tons of broken ore on the stopes. At present one drill is more than sufficient to keep 14 stamps running.

With regard to the values it is satisfactory to note that the greater the depth the higher the values. A two weeks test, with 14 stamps, on ore taken exclusively from 300 foot level, gave the following returns: One hundred and sixty-eight ounces bullion $1630; 5 tons high grade sulphret, value per ton $211, $1055; 50 tons low grade concentrates, value per ton $18, $900; 600 tons tailings, value per ton $3.70, $2220; total $5805, giving a value of $850 per ton. In addition to these values, about 10 per cent was lost by being carried off in the slimes, but this will be saved by the cyaniee plant. A second run of ore from the same level of 846 tons and 454 from the second level, or a total of 1300 tons milled, resulted as follows: One hundred and thirty-seven and one half ounces bullion, value $1557.87; 7 tons sulphrets, value $145 per ton, $1015; 60 tons low grade sulphrets, value per ton $15.95, $967.00; 1100 tons tailings, value per ton $2.80, $3080; total, $6618.87, shewing an average of $5.07 per ton in addition to slime losses. In comparison with the ore milled from the dump, with values ranging from $2 to $3, being ore extracted from the two upper levels, the results are most favorable. With the use of larger screen there is no doubt, says the management, that with the full 46 stamps running, from 150 to 175 tons of ore per day can be treated.

In discussing the experimental tests of the Stemwinder ore, Superintendent Charles Ostenberg said: "In our first mill test we found that we could not, by the use of Frue vanners alone, make concentrates high enough in grade to net 60 per cent of their value, as the freight and treatment charges are excessive. Consequently, I constructed tables which separated the slime from the sands and classify the concentrates, taking of a streak which contains the galena, carrying a high per centage of gold and silver, and bringing the shipping product to a value of from $150 to $900 per ton. The shipping and treatment charges are no more on this grade of ore than on the lower values; in fact, we also receive the lead values, which on the lower grade are not allowed, and now obtain 90 per cent of the gross value. The lead saving alone pays for the treatment charges.

The second product which we run over the Frue vanners and saved in the shape of low grade concentrates was worth about $15 to $20 per ton, and was treated by the small cyanide plant with which we made an extraction of 75 to 85 per cent, with a perfect percipitation. We expected to run a considerable portion of the sand over with this mineral, and have but a small loss in tailings. However, we found that when we treated ore from the third level, especially, which was of a higher grade, that fully a third of our values was being lost, as even the slimes contained values ranging from $2 to $4 per ton.

After many tests the management concluded that nothing remained but to erect large cyanide tanks, now in process of construction, and treat the whole product of the mill, as with our present small plant we have demonstrated that the whole of the tailings, after leaving the tables where the high grade sulphrets are extracted, can be run direbt into these tanks and be treated at a very low cost, with consequent handsome profits. I expect that the large plant will be finished about the first of next year, and meanwhile only enough stamps are being operated to crush the ore taken out in development.

FEARFUL FIRE AT FAI[illegible]

The Big Hotel Completely Consumed by Fire, School Teacher Burned to Death and Several Fatally Injured—Guests had to Jump for Their Lives. Manager of Hotel Among the Victims.

Word was received here from Fairview via Camp McKinney Wednesday stating that the Fairview Hotel was destroyed by fire at an early hour that morning. One person is dead, two fatally injured, and several others more or less seriously hurt, also that the local supply of remedies was exhausted, and appealing for surgical and nursing assistance. It was stated that a similar appeal had been sent via Penticton to Vernon. As Camp McKinney, which is the nearest telegraph or telephone station, is nearly thirty miles east from Fairview, and Penticton a similar distance north, whilst Vernon is eighty or ninety miles further north, there must necessarily be a long delay before help can be given. However, as soon as possible after receipt of the message, Dr. Schon and Nurse Flesher left Greenwood to drive nearly seventy miles to Fairview, taking with them all necessary supplies.

The information received was meagre, and with nearly thirty miles between the end of telephone line at Camp McKinney, it was difficult to obtain particulars. News received is to the effect that a lady teacher of the Fairview public school is missing, and it is believed she perished in the flames; Mr. Mathias, manager of the hotel, and an engineer whose name is not given, are both fatally injured; Mrs. Mathias was seriously hurt, and Dr. White and John Love, druggist, were both injured but not seriously. It was stated that one woman had her leg broken; it is supposed that this was Mrs. Mathias.

The fire started in basement of building, which is a three storey frame structure having 28 bedrooms and other necessary accommodation. It is well built and furnished, with dimensions 60 feet by 60 feet. The building had a wide main staircase leading from ground floor to third storey, also back staircase, and it is supposed that these stairways formed stairways for the flames, thus cutting off all escape except by jumping from upstair windows for those who at the early hour of three o'clock would be asleep in their beds. Dr. Foster, of Greenwood, who is a close personal friend of Dr. White, thinks the latter cannot be seriously hurt, as he sent the message to Camp McKinney, and had he been much injured would doubtless have let him (Dr. Foster) know.

From inquiries made since the foregoing was written it has been ascertained that the school teacher at Fairview was Miss Smith, who comes from Armstrong, a farming district in the upper part of Okanagan valley, north of Vernon. The engineer mentioned is not likely to be Chas. Ostenberg, superintendent of the New Fairview Company's Stemwindes mine, since his home is near the mine, a mile or so from the hotel. The whole of the New Fairview Company's properties, including townsite, hotel, mines, and big group of mineral claims, stamp mill with forty-six stamps, etc., are under offer to an English company, who will likely buy if mines stand expert examination, so it is considered improbable that the cause of fire was anything but accidental. As there was no water supply, and the hotel is situated in a breezy gulch, destruction must have been rapid. Particulars of insurance are not yet obtainable, but Mr. Naden, agent of insurance companies represented by Ceperley, Rounsefell & Co., Limited, Vancouver, B. C., thinks it likely one of their companies, probably Phoenix Assurance Company, of London, England, will be heavy loser. The hotel was built and well furnished by the original Fairview Corporation, which last year transferred all its properties to the New Fairview Corporation. When the company last issued a balance sheet, hotel and furniture was shown as an asset valued at twenty thousand dollars, besides which the stock and permanent improvements represented fourteen hundred dollars more.

LATER.

Camp McKinney, Oct. 24 (Special to the Times)—Later news from Fairview not only confirms the reports of sad fatalities attending the destruction of the Fairview hotel by fire, but also shows that the actual state of affairs is even worse than first reported. Miss Smith, the school teacher, perished in the flames; Mr. Mathias, manager of the hotel, died from his injuries; an engineer named Allan or Allan Stewart jumped from the third storey, injured his spine and cannot recover; the housekeeper, Miss Lizzie Hunt, is seriously injured from jumping out of the burning building, and two others were injured.

The fire originated in the office of the hotel about three o'clock in the morning. Mr. Mathias heard the crackling of the flames and went down. He tried to extinguish the flames, and was badly burned. Failing in this, he ran back upstairs to get his wife and child, but she had jumped from the window and escaped injuries. Poor Mathias was again caught in the flames, and before he could be rescued was fearfully burned. He never regained consciousness and died Wednesday evening. Miss Smith, school teacher, had a room on the second storey. Whether she heard the crackling of the flames or not will never be known. She was not seen during the fire, and portions of her remains were found in the ruins.

Lizzie Hunt, the housekeeper, cannot recover. She is badly burned, and in jumping broke her thigh and was otherwise injured. The last news from Fairview stated that she was still unconscious and was being cared for at the government office.

The engineer whose name cannot be learned is also fatally injured. There were 14 people in the building at the time and all were more or less injured or burned.

Dr. Schon and Nurse Flesher, who left here on Wednesday noon, arrived in Fairview at 1.30 Thursday morning. They changed horses at Camp McKinney, and lost no time in getting to the scene. Dr. Morris of Vernon reached there on Wednesday evening, coming down to Penticton on Wednesday's steamer. Henry Main, druggist, of Camp McKinney, is also at Fairview, rendering all assistance possible, as John Love, the Fairview druggist, is among those seriously injured.

A man named William Kennaugh died last evening at the head of Providence creek, where he had been living with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitwell. Finding that the old man was not about yesterday morning as usual, Mr. Whitwell went to his room and there found him lying unconscious on the floor. He had lighted his lamp and commenced to dress when, evidently, he was suddenly seized with illness. He was well enough the night before, and his sudden death was unexpected. He was 72 years of age, a native of the Isle of Man, and came to British Columbia last year from New Zealand. Dr. Boucher certified that the cause of death was cerebral hemorrhage. The body was carri[illegible] on a stretcher two miles out to the Phoenix road, and brought thence to G[illegible]nwood. The burial will take pla[illegible] day morning at 10 o'clock.

TRAMWAY TO HAUL ORE

Karl Nelson Goes There to Run an Hotel.

Karl Nelson the well known hotel man left this week for Hedley City where he has purchased and will conduct a hotel. Hedley City is growing as a result of the big undertaking of the owners of the Nickel plate mine. The owners are the Marcus Daly estate and associates. The property has been developed to such an extent that a mill is to be erected at Hedley City to treat the ore. J. A. Munson has secured the contract for the construction of a tramway between the mill and the mine and he has already begun work. A recent despatch from Hedley City says:

While rumours to that effect have been in circulation for some time it is now definately known that the Marcus Daly estate, of Butte, owners of the Nickel plate group of mines in the lower Similkameen, have placed an order for a 40 stamp mill, which it is expected will be in operation some time late this fall or early this winter. The mill, which is now in process of manufacture at Sherbrooke, Quebec, will have a capacity of about 200 tons of ore per day, which can readily incresred by the addition of more stamps to the battery.

A location for the site for the mill has been selected, near the mouth of Twenty Mile creek, which is about five miles from the Nickel Plate mines. The location is Indian Land, adjoining Hedley City, and negotiations for the acquiring of the land, which have been in progress for some trme, are now about completed. When installed this will be the first stamp mill erected in the Similkameen district, the others nearest being at Camp McKinney and at the Stemwinder mine in Camp Fairview.

Owing to the conservative policy pursued by the management op the Nickel Plate mine, little that is definite has been officially given out in regard to the property. For the past four years, however, a force of from 20 to 30 men has been steadily employed at the mine and some months ago an air compressor was placed on the property for the purpose of pushing development at a faster rate.

The Nickel Plate has the reputation of being the richest mine in that section, and is the only one that has been systematically worked for several years. The ore is said to run high in copper and gold, large bodies averaging $70 per ton. On the dump are many thosands of tons of ore awaiting treatment at the new mill, besides much ore for smelter treatment. One indication of the value of the property is the fact that the owners for the last two years or more, have been buying up adjoining mineral claims, until now they have a large block. The Nickel Plate itself cost the present owners $60,000 some four years ago, and this last spring two adjoining claims were bought for $50,000 cash from parties residing in Phoenix. Other claims were bought at lower figures.

THE FAIRVIEW FIRE.

The sad fatalities connected with the destruction of the Fairview hotel by fire have shocked the people of the interior. There have been some serious fires in the interior, but none which were attended with such serious loss of life. The hotel was one of the best in the district. The loss is a heavy one. But provision against such losses can be easily made. It is impossible, however, to bring back life to those who perished in the flames or met their death in attempting to escape from the terrible holocaust. Notwithstanding this, it is the general practice to exercise the greatest precaution in having adequate insurance, and the least care in protecting human life. In the larger cities hotels are generally forced to make provision for the escape of inmates in case of fire, but in the outlying districts it is too often the practice to have absolutely no safeguards. It is a matter that requires consideration, and to which attention is forcibly drawn by the severe loss of life in the Fairview fire.

COAL STRIKE.

The great coal strike is practically settled. Peace was brought about by President Roosevelt and others who did everything in their power to end the strike. The strike produced at least one great man in the person of John Mitchell. It was possibly the greatest industrial struggle of history and John Michell showed tact, courage and genius in his generalship. No ordinary man could guide and control 147,000 miners in Pennsylvania. Many of them were uneducated and came from foreign lands. All were desperate and believed they were victims of gross injustice. Mitchell kept these men under control for over five months and won. It was no ordinary feat and no ordinary man could accomplish it.

The man who did all this could successfully rule a nation but what has future in store for him? His work has been done on a modest salary that would scarcely meet the everyday wants of himself and family. If his fate is that of a great many labor leaders, his good work will go unappreciated. Jealousies, and doubts, envy and the ambitions of others will possibly combine to relegate him to private life. John Mitchell has shown his fellow workmen how to conduct a succusful struggle against greedy capital. He has shown that violence is a weak weapon but that through organixation and the exercise of good judgement most powerful ones. John Mitchell has done much for organized labor, more probably than organized labor will do for John Mitchel.

TARTE'S DISMISSAL.

The expected happened. Tarte is no longer a member of Laurier's cabinet. Two courses were open to Sir Wilfrid. He could have retained Tarte and lost the great mass of the Liberals, or he could get rid of Tarte and retain a loyal and united Liberal party. Sir Wilfrid chose the wiser course. Mr. Tarte was an anomaly in a Liberal government. His recent political utterances did violence to Liberal doctrine. It was Toryism pure and undefiled. Sir Wilfrid has given Mr. Tarte an opportunity to exploit his high protection views untrammelled by oath of office or party loyalty. That he can do so with marked ability no one will dispute; it is equally certain that while he may instil some life into the badly disorganized Conservatives, he cannot win Liberals from their allegiance to a low tariff policy.

There was something else to be settled besides the disciplining of a man who talked too much during the absence of his leader. Mr. Tarte's course was a gross violation of his oath of office, and utterly opposed to the system of government which we enjoy. No member of the cabinet has a right to proclaim an entirely new policy on the stump without first submitting his views to the premier and other members of the government and getting their consent. If changes in the tariff were to be made, they should be announced by the minister of finance when delivering his budget speech. Many thought that Sir Wilfrid would be afraid to lassoo his bucking minister, but Sir Wilfrid's ways are not all sunny. When occasion demands he can be firm and forcible. His notice to Mr. Tarte is clear cut and decisive.

Tarte found Laurier's sunny ways too tart.

A Chesaw Fire.

Information has been receivad here that Barker's hotel, at Chesaw, was destroyed by fire on Sunday, the 19th inst. It is stated that Mr. Barker had spent between $8,000 and $9,000 on the building and contents, so that the loss will likely be a heavy one since it is not probable that much insurance could have been obtained in a small country town wher there is no water system for protection.

F. J. Mitchell, formerly of this city, has a big race on at Cranbrook on the 27th. The Cranbrook Herald, speaking of the race, says:

"Increasing interest is being manifested in the great foot race between Nevin and Mitchell. Both men are in hard training and each is confident of victory. Aside from the $1,000 purse there will be that much more in side money, as the supporters of each man are waiting to back their opinion with their coin. The foot race comes off in the morning and there is sure to be a big crowd to witness the event."

Five years hence there will be a dozen smelter furnaces in Boundary creek valley. Land bought now will increase many times in value before that.

Granby Company's Meeting

The annual meeting of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power company, was held at Montreal on the 7th inst. The annual report which was read and adopted was considered to be very satisfactory. Mr. Miner, the President, in an address to the shareholders, said that the company had considerable to contend with during the year. The price of copper was exceedingly low, going down to 11½ from 17 cents. Mr. Miner further explained that owing to the scarcity of coke, it was found impossible to operate over two out of the four furnaces on the property. In fact, it was only during the month of April that the four furnaces were in operation. Mr. Miner stated that a year ago he had hoped at this annual meeting to announce a dividend to the shareholders, but unforseen events, already mentioned had made this impossible. The properties are all in fine condition. The old board of directors was re elected.

More furnaces in the smelter mean more people and more homes in Anaconda. Don't overlook your opportunity.

Wants Divorce.

The Spokesman-Review says:

Rose Orebaugh wants a divorce from Paul Orebaugh because, as she alleges, he lives with another woman. She says that she was married to Orebaugh at Princeville, Ore., July 12, 1891. Her husband, she says, became acquainted with a woman named Alice at Greenwood, B. C., and that he dishonored his marriage vows. The intimacy between Orebaugh and the woman, the plaintiff avers, continued at Greenwood from September, 1901, to May, 1902, and that he is now living with the woman at Salmon City, Idaho, as man and wife. Mrs. Orebaugh asks for divorce and the restoration of her maiden name of Rose smith.

Orebaugh was the proprieter of the O. K. barber shop until last spring when he left the city.

No Court.

Wednesday supreme court registrar McMynn received telegraphic instructiona from the attorney-general to notify all grand jurors and all petit jurors, summoned to attend the court of assize set for the 57th inst., that their attendance will not now be required. This action was taken because Mr. McMynn had in the performance of his official duty informed the attorney-general that there were not any criminal cases for this assize and in the only important civil case set down for hearing at it the counsel concerned had consented to a postponement. It is an evidence of the law-abiding disposition of residents generally that in a district in which well on to a thousand men are employed in mines, smelters, and other industrial works, no serious crime has taken place since the spring assize.

THE EDITOR'S EASY CHAIR.

It is much easier to knock a man down than to get him on his feet again. The withdrawal of a single prop may bring a building tumbling down, but it requires a great deal of labor and skill to build it up again. Dull times come so easily, but a revival is often slow and difficult. A combination of unfortunate circumstances succeeded in bringing dull times to the mining districts of the interior, and notwithstanding the bright outlook at the mines and smelters the revival has been slow. But it has been sure. Business is better and the outlook brighter. The improvement was so slow that it was almost imperceptible, but step by step things have been reaching their normal state. When the top of the hill is reached then things will move at a rapid gait.

Right here in Greenwood the outlook was never brighter. The success of this district must necessarily depend upon the operation of mining properties, and the employment of a large number of men, combined with the treatment of the ores right at home. We have here conditions that obtain in scarcely any other mining district. Mining, and its allied industry, smelting, must be carried on in the district. The ores are not hauled out of the district and treated elsewhere; even the matte will be treated at home. All that is in the industry will be the portion of the district. The profits will not be divided. With plenty of mines working there will be plenty of smelters, and these two great industries are sure to make a district prosperous.

A brief review of the situation will demonstrate that we have some reason for the faith that is in us. When the B. C. Copper Company erected its smelter at Greenwood, its one furnace was considered sufficient to meet the then requirements of the mine. Since then another furnace has been added, and the Mother Lode mine itself could easily furnish sufficient ore for two additional furnaces. The character of the ore has greatly improved. In fact a new mine has been opened up at the Mother Lode. Recently started glory holes are in a large body of ore, giving much higher values in copper. This has increased the quantity of matte manufactured by the smelter until today a carload of matte is shipped daily to the converter. The smelter is making big money. Two new furnaces and a converter will be installed at as early a date as possible. Now all this shows that the company is doing well, and they deserve to do well; but we are not particularly interested in that. The additional furnaces and a converter mean the employment of more men and the treatment of more ore; and the treatment of more ore demands the mining of more ore, which will require the employment of more men. It is men after all that make a town and district—not mines. It is the men that mines and smelters employ that build up towns and create business, make real estate valuable, in fact make everything of a commercial nature valuable. The more men that are employed, and the more they earn, the bigger the town to which they are tributary. Additional furnaces, a converter, and the doubling of the output of the Mother Lode mine, will of themselves double the population of Greenwood. The men will live here, build their homes here, and will be an important factor in building up the town.

But the Mother Lode is not all. The Sunset and its smelter are not standing still. In fact conditions are such that the mine is handicapped by the capacity of the smelter. Since the smelter was blown in both the B C. and the Snowshoe mines have been sending down so much ore for treatment that the output of the Sunset mine had to be limited. There is only one good remedy for such a state of affairs, and that is to increase the furnaces at the smelter. This will be done as soon as the manufacturers can supply the material. Not only is the smelter handicapped in so far as the Sunset ore is concerned, but it is losing good trade in another direction. The Sunset smelter could get lots of Republic ore—profitable ore to treat and more profitable for this smelter since its own mine, the Sunset, has just the right kind of ore to make a proper blend with the Republic ore. Republic ores are searching for a smelter to treat them, but none of the smelters can handle them until they get more furnaces. The Greenwood smelters are treating over 1,000 tons daily now. Within a year they will easily double their capacity.

The mines are now employing more men. The B. C. mine, which was closed for over a year, is running full blast. The Emma is shipping to the Nelson smelter, the Providence has six men at work getting out high grade ore; other high grade properties will shortly be opened up.

These are Greenwood properties. At Phoenix the outlook is equally bright. While the Granby mines have been handicapped by low water and consequent lack of power at the smelter, this difficulty will be overcome by introduction of power from Cascade. When this is done, and the smelter is running at its full capacity, more men will be employed at the mines, and business will be better in the dinner bucket town.

These improvements have had a noticeable effect in the city. Business is brisker, building is active, and there is a noticeable improvement all along the line.

With eggs at 60 cents a dozen, what more profitable business can you desire than a poultry and egg farm. The sale of Anaconda property will give you a chance to get the land rights.

HOUSE-KEEPERS ATTENTION!

W. H. Covert begs to announce that on or about October 15th, he will be able to supply all the Boundary market with delicious home grown prunes from his own orchards. These prunes will not be picked green as are prunes shipped from a distance but will be allowed to ripen on the trees, thus securing a delicious flavor. The price will be cheaper and quality better. There will be enough for everybody and housekeepers and others are strongly advised to wait for the home grown product.

FAIRVIEW FIRE.

Webster of Keremeos was a guest at the hotel and had to jump for his life. One hand and his face are badly burned.

Frank French, manager for Shatford, was badly burned. He made an heroic attempt to rescue Miss Louise Smith, the school teacher. He was awakened by the crackling of the flames, he thinks, about 2.30 o'clock, as he went to bed at 11 and read till one. He thought some one had started a fire in the fireplace in the office below. It then sounded like children playing, and finally he got up to see what it was. As he opened the door the flames burst in. He quickly closed the door, put on his trousers, and rushed into the burning flames to try to rescue Miss Smith. He burst open her bedroom door and dragged her from the bed. He took her to a portion of the hall where there were no flames and told her to remain there until he could break the window in his own room, so both could jump to the ground and safety. He returned to his room, succeeded in breaking the window, and again ran through the flames for Miss Smith, but she was gone. By that time the flames were in all parts of the hall, and a gust of fire struck French and knocked him down. He does not remember how he escaped, but when he regained consciousness he was on the ground. Mr. French deserves the greatest praise for facing death twice in his efforts to save the life of the unfortunate girl.

Miss Smith was a universal favorite, and her untimely end has cast a gloom over the entire community. A good teacher and a lovable lady, she ingratiated herself in the affections of young and old alike. She was only eighteen years of age, and the Fairview was her first school. Her bereaved parents live near Enderby.

Mr. Mathias, the manage of the hotel, got out safely once but returned for his wife and child. When he got back to the room they were gone. He jumped through the window, but the poor fellow was terribly burned. Every particle of clothing was burned from his body, and he lived only five hours after the fire. Mrs. Mathias injured herself in jumping, but the child escaped unhurt.

John Love, the druggist, had a trying experience in the charnel house. His face is badly burned and his right hand, a portion of which he is likely to lose. His room was in the third story, and Miss Lizzie Hunt, the housekeeper, had a room on the same flat. Mr. Love rescued Miss Hunt, and as the flames were in all directions there was nothing to do but get her through a window and let her drop to the ground below. She is very badly injured, the thigh bone being broken and her back injured. She is paralyzed from the hip up and is not expected to recover. Mr. Love jumped but landed on soft earth and escaped injuries other than his terrible burns.

Peter Townley and Frank French had to jump from second story and both have bad face burns.

Mr Birch, manager of Swinburne's butcher shop, jumped from third story and is badly injured. Mr. Allan the fireman at the Stemwinder mine jumped from third story breaking the ankle bones. He is also injured internally. Mr. McKinley also jumped from third story and had ankle bone broken.

The injured are being cared for in private residences in the town. The people of Fairview are doing everything for the sufferers.

Yesterday Dr. Morris, corner of Vernon, held an inquest on the bodies of Mr. Mathias and Miss Smith Of the latter only a few charred remains were found in the ruins. Mr. French and others gave evidence but nothing was learned regarding the orgin of the fire.

Death of Mr. Stephens.

A Long Seige of Suffering is Ended.

Richard Stephens, a rancher from Anarchist moudtain, died at the Greenwood hospital early on Thursday morning. During the past three years deceased had had several long illnesses from ulceration of the bowels but each time recovered and returned to his ranch. Early this year he appeared to have been quite cured after a very bad time in the hospital, and afterwards did a lot of hard work through the summer. Last month his old trouble returned and then typhoid fever came to aggravate his condition. From the first his case was regarded as hopeless and latterly he longed for death to end his agony. The body will be interred in the Greenwood cemetry the funeral taking place this afternoon. Deceased was an Englishman, unmarried, and had a brother living on the ranch with him.
