HOT AIR LINE

Troubles Have Reached Sensational Stage.

A ROW WITH W. C. MORRIS

Story of the Financial Operations of the Builders.

It is no longer Hot Air, it is now sizzling fat that is in the fire. The affairs of the Kettle River Valley railway which have been interesting a good many people since the auspicious driving of the golden spike and which have been enveloped in mystery since the struggles after charters on both sides of the line have secured a large degree of publicity through the open breach between Wylie C. Morris, counsel and assistant manager of the line, and the Canadian shareholders. The end is not yet. Morris has retained two Spokane lawyers to look after his interests and there is a good chance that the whole story of this unique piece of financing and railway building will be told with graphic enbellishments in the American courts.

It is now two years since the first chapter was written. Tracy W. Holland, manager of the Grand Forks Townsite company, conceived the idea that a railway from Grand Forks to Republic would be a good thing. After a hard struggle he succeeded in getting a charter from the provincial parliament for a charter from Grand Forks to the International Boundary line and with the assistance of Mr. Morris, another charter from the U. S. government, to cross the Collville reservation to Republic. The building of the road, the grand opening services, the driving of the last spike before the road was completed, the skipping out of two of the officers of the railway and the numerous charges of malfeasance and misfeasance are matters of current history. The story of the organization of the companies and financing of the road, is told by a friend in Republic who in an interview with the Spokesman Review said:

"Morris has the Canadians in the jam of the door. If they make any hostile move against him he is likely to throw the whole property on the American side of the line into the hands of a receiver. He is nominally the owner of a trifle less than one half the stock in the company, owning the railway on the American side. It is incorporated for $1,000,000, in 10,000 shares, worth at par $100 each. He holds 4,998 shares in his own name. Three other Americans, who are but figureheads, each own a share. Thus the control of the company is in the hands of Americans. The stock was issued in that way so as to comply with the laws, which require American ownership for a majority of stock when first issued in any Washington corporation. On the face of it, therefore, Morris owns practically half a million dollars worth of the stock of the company. The stock was actually issued to him, and I understand it is held in trust by the Dominion Permanent Trust company of Toronto, which put up the money to build the road. However, it cannot be transferred without the consent of Morris.

"Morris claims that aside from this nominal ownership, he is rightfully entitled to one sixth of the capital stock of the company, or $166,666. The story of how he got that is peculiar. The plan to build the road from Grand Forks to Republic was conceived by Tracy Holland, now the general manager of the company. He expected to get financial backing from his brother F. M. Holland, manager of the Dominion Permanent Trnst company, back in Toronto, and from J. R. Stratton, president, and T. B. Coffee, vice president of the same concern. He got a British Columbia charter to build from Grand Forks to the American line, a distance of about three miles, and then he wanted a charter to build across the north half of Ferry county, Washington, into Republic, a distance of about 40 miles.

Holland broached the subject of joining hands in getting the right of way on the American side. Morris agreed, and it is said he was to get an interest in the road when completed in return for his work. He was not to draw any salary, however, until the road was on its feet, and he has not drawn any salary up to this day, though his expense accounts have been prodigious. I understand it has been about $20,000 since he went into the deal, less than three years ago. Certainly he has lived in lavish style.

"Early in the game Holland and Morris organized the Republic & Grand Forks Railway company. Already, however, the Montreal people who were backing the Republic mine had organized the Republic & Kettle River Railway company, to build from Grand Forks to Republic and had secured a franchise from the secretary of the interior to build across the North Half of the Colville reservation. It was neeessary to get a similar franchise for the Holland-Morris corporation. Morris went to Washington and by considerable effort got the franchise. Immediately after, however, his people bought out the franchise of the Republic & Kettle River company, the rival concern, and took over the corporation itself.

"With the charter secured, the next thing was to get the money to build the road. Holland represented that it would cost about $600,000 to build the line and put it in running order. Then it was up to J. R. Stratton, T. B. Coffee and F. M. Holland to raise the funds, for Tracy Holland and Morris had nothing. It was soon discovered that the other three partners were unable to get the money, so they took in a sixth partner, a man named Kloepher of Galt, Ont., who was also a director in the Dominion Permanent Trust company. They all were equal partners with a sixth interest apece. Stratton, Coffey, F. M. Holland and Kleopher, who controlled the trust company, advanced the money to build the road. It was a puzzle that has never been solved here to find what security the trust company has for th money thus loaned. At any rate the trust company is not the owner of a single share of the stock, and it does not hold a bond or a mortgage of any description, for the road has been built without issuing a bond, a mortgage or a note. It has been a most remarkable piece of financiering.

"Tracy Holland, the general manager, and Morris, the assistant general manager, were each to have a sixth interest in the company for floating it. The way they got their stock was interesting. The Dominion Permanent Trust company put up all the money that was needed, under this arrangement, and was to pay up all of the stock of the road. Tracy Holland and Morris were to have their stock paid up free in that manner. The trust company expected to build the road for about $600,000. Instead of that it has spent nearly a million dollars on the job up to date, and the road is still far from being in running order."

A NEW ALDERMAN.

At the regular meeting of the city council held this week, Capt. Geo. Swayne was appointed alderman to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Ald. Sullivan. The appointment by the council was rendered necessary by reason of the fact that no one was placed in nomination by the ratepayers. Capt. Swayne is owner of the Swayne house. He has been a resident of Greenwood for several years.

The Gentry Show

A Splendid Exhibition of Trained Dogs and Ponies.

Gentry Bros., trained animal show has come and gone and the little folk are still talking about the wonderful feats of trained ponies and a large and varied assortment of dogs. The big folk too, have not forgotten the show and are still discussing how the genius of the ring master and the intelligence of the animals have combined to make the latter do things that only creature man is supposed to do.

The special train reached here from Trail at six o'clock in the morning and sundry urchins who were waiting for the whistle jumped out of bed much to the disgust of the parents who were about that time enjoying their best sleep. But it was the children's day and the parents had to go wherever they wished. The boys went to the station and many were lucky enough to secure proud positions as leaders of camels, ponies or what was considered the best position in the show, of the baby elephants.

At two o'clock in the afternoon the big tent was fairly well filled with people from Greenwood and surrounding camps. A census of the children there would have demonstrated that compulsory clauses of the Education Act if enforced would increase the attendance at the city schools. But it is much nicer to go to a circus than to school. There was not a dull moment in the performance. From the time ringmaster Markel first cracked his whip until the exciting fire scene which concluded the entertainment, old and young were lost in astonishment at the wonderful tricks of the animals. The ponies were pretty and intelligent and did everything Mr. Markel asked them to do. They went through military drill, they marched, they skipped, they went lame and they shamed sickness, while one Peek-a-Boo who seemed a little more intelligent than the rest counted in answer to Mr. Markill's questions.

Intelligence and breeding evidently don't travel together in dog life. The best of the long line with the Gentry show is Duffer, a wonderful mongrel that Mr. Markell picked up at his old home in Barrie, Ont. Duffer created plenty of amusement by his droll tricks. There were numerous other dogs who performed not the least interesting being Rocket, an English grey hound who holds the record for long jumping. Then there were funny little monkeys who drove their dog teams and guided their fire wagon to the fire. Two monkeys by working an old fashioned hand force pump succeeded in extinguishing the flames.

After the performance the management graciously turned the show over to the youngsters who rode the ponies and pea nutted the elephants and did many other things that will be remembered as long as interest is taken in those things that interest children of a larger or smaller growth.

Funeral of Mr. Beach.

Large Attendance and Appropriate Service-Resolution of Condolence.

The funeral of the late B. Harvey Beach which took place on Sunday morning last under the auspices of the Greenwood Carpenters' Union was very largely attended. Services were held at the Methodist church where Rev. J. D. P. Knox gave an appropriate address. There were many beautiful floral offerings. The pall bearers were H. Bunting, C. Dempsey, Steve Tripp, D. Michaeltolmy, Finlay Fraser and R Radcliffe. The following resolution has been passed by the Greenwood Carpenters' Union:

Whereas, an all-wise providence has seen fit to take from our midst our friend and brother B. H. Beach; and

Whereas, said B. H. Beach was a man of moral habits, strict integrity, kind disposition and noble purpose; therefore be it

Resolved, that we feel in the passing away of this member, the loss of a reliable, energetic, straightforward, and valued brother whose untimely death we most sorrowfully regret; and be it further

Resolved, that we extend to his relatives our most heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement and affliction and further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread on our minutes as a memorial of the respect and esteem in which he was held by his brother members of this local union; that a copy be sent to our official journal, The Carpenter, also the local paper for publication, and that our charter be draped for thirty days.

Got a Month's Pay

Mr. Hutchins Suit Against B. C. Copper Company.

On Thursday last, the case of R. Hutchins vs the B. C. Copper company Ltd., was tried before His Honor, Judge Leamy, and a special jury. Mr. Hutchins who was superintendent at the Mother Lode until May 1st last, sued for a month's wages in lieu of 30 days' notice and an increase of salary which he alleged was promised but never paid. J. R. Brown appeared for Mr. Hutchins and H. C. Shaw for the company. Mr. Hutchins contended that under the arrangements made with the company that he was to receive $175 a month and a free house and increased pay as the force of the mine was increased. Although the force was increased the pay was never increased. He also held that there was an arrangement under which he was to give the company 30 days notice if he wanted to leave its services and that he was entitled to the same notice if the company wanted to dismiss him. He claimed over one thousand dollars for increased pay and salary for the month of May in lieu of notice. Mr. Keffer held that no such arrangement was entered into. The understanding was to the effect that Mr. Hutchins pay might be increased when the mine reached a higher stage of development and that Mr. Hutchins was summarily dismissed because he found that he was opposing the company's plan of introducing the contract system. Several witnesses were heard and the judge charged strongly against the plaintiff's claim. The jury awarded Mr. Hutchins a month's pay. The case will likely be appealed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Warren have returned from their honeymoon trip up the Arrow Lakes. They will reside at the Barrett residence on Government street.

Eugene V. Debs the eloquent labor orator will appear in the Auditorium here on Monday evening next. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to be present.

COKE SHORTAGE

Smelters will be Compelled to Close Down.

GRANBY ALREADY CLOSED

Crow's Nest Coal Company Unable to Supply Demand.

Ever since the serious accident at Fernie, the Boundary smelters have been living from hand to mouth, so far as the supply of coke is concerned. The accident seriously disarranged the working mines of the company so that their output was consideradly curtailed. When a very large increase was made to the company's coke ovens, long time contracts were made with Montana works to insure a full and regular market for their coke. These contracts must be observed by the coal company with the result that the Boundary smelters are unable to get a supply. The Granby smelter and the mines at Phoenix were compelled to close down on this account this week. The Greenwood smelters are still running but unless a fresh supply of coke arrives early in July, they will be forced to follow suit.

When the Crow's Nest people secured a charter for the construction of a railway into the Montana market they gave an undertaking that they would protect the Canadian smelting interests and that these would have first consideration in so far as the supply of coke was concerned. But the company hold that they are not to blame. They claim that they have frequently urged the smelter companies to lay in a large supply of coke, to provide for just such a contingency as has arisen at Fernie. This the smelter companies neglected to do and a short. age of coke is the result. The company maintain that in order to insure a steady market for their product they were bound to accept the Montana contracts and if the Canadian smelters wish to have a supply of coke at all times they must make some provision for the future, accidents may arise at any time that will temporarily restrict the output of the company.

All this may be quite true, but in the meantime there is a possibility that all the smelters and mines in the Boundary will be forced to close down.

The Sunset smelter at Boundary Falls has been doing good work since it was blown in last week. Mr. Goodell, the superintendent has not been forcing the furnace in any way and the record of treatment is not a large one but he has succeeded in making an exceptionally high grade matte and the slag loss is proportionately small. The Snowshoe mine has been shipping regularly to the smelter and about 175 tons a day has been shipped from the Sunset mine.

High Grade Claim Leased.

This week the Helen and Capital Prize were leased by Robert Wood, Frederick Keffer and Sydney M. Johnson. The Helen is owned by Mr. Wood and the Capital Prize by Messrs. Keffer and Johnson. Both properties are situated between Greenwood and Anaconda. Under the terms of the lease, the properties will be worked and ore shipped. The veins are small but of very high grade.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS.

The vote of ten thousand dollars for a court house at Greenwood, passed by the legislature before prorogation on Saturday last does a measure of justice to a city and district which has heretofore been rather shabbily treated in the matter of appropriations. The money expended in roads and public buildings has not been at all commensurate with the importance of the district and if development has not been retarded on this account, it has been because of the enterprise of the people who freely contributed towards public undertakings which should have been carried out by the government. No particular government is free from responsibility in this matter. It appears to be the rule that when a district is without the representation to which it is entitled in parliament, under our system of government, that district is bound to be short in appropriations. This is particularly true when a member's support is necessary to the life of a government. However people are not slow to forget past neglects when a government shows a disposition to give a fair measure of justice.

The necessity of a public building in Greenwood has been frequently pointed out in these columns. The present building is entirely unsuited to the requirements of the public service and no time should be lost in expending the money voted. By keeping important public documents in the present ramshackle building there is a grave danger of serious loss and inconvenience either from fire or theft. The building should be erected without delay.

There is another public work which should be completed without loss of time. Of the large vote for the district of East Yale, a sufficient sum is to be taken to complete the West Fork road. That promising district is being kept back by reason of the vexatious delay in giving it means of communication. The wagon road should be completed as soon after June 30th as men and money can do so. It is a grave matter to deny the many property owners in that district a reasonable opportunity to develop their properties.

Nor should the public school building at Greenwood be forgotten. The present rented quarters are so entirely unsuited for school purposes that the education department which at least has been free from the severe criticism directed against other departments of the administration, should not risk its good reputation by allowing Greenwood to be a day longer than necessary without a proper school building.

In all these matters it is so easy to delay action, but the urgency is so great that wefeel sure that now money has been voted, the government will lose no time to spend it as quickly and judiciously as possible.

EXAMPLE AND PRECEPT.

Sir Thomas Shaugnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway company has answered the question "What's the matter with B. C." Too much politics in his opinion is responsible for all our provincial ills. "Let the people go to work and quit talking politics and the province will be all right" he asserts. All of which is good advice. Sir Thomas' example, however, would have much greater weight than his precept. Sir Thomas is a bit of a politician himself and to a very great extent this accounts for the people of British Columbia spending 365 days in the year in the political arena. If the people were to take the wise railway president's advice and quit politics they could not sleep at night because they could have no assurance that Sir Thomas followed his own advice. While the company which he so ably represents are in active politics in British Columbia, the people cannot afford to take a vacation. They must keep eternally in the game. If Sir Thomas is getting tired, the people no doubt would be quite willing to call a halt, but before they follow the advice, excellent as it is, it must come from a more disinterested quarter. If Sir Thomas and the company he represents would only go away back and sit down, for a time, the people would have a chance to quit politics, but so long as he and it are after enormous land grants to which they are not entitled and are busy concocting schemes to kill railway competition, the people can't quit.

It is interesting to notice the ease with which men in Sir Thomas' position can give good advice to the people and the great difficulty they experience in following it.

Camp McKinney Items.

CAMP MCKINNEY, June 17th.—Phil. Stayner, one of the Cariboo miners, died on Sunday last, while being taken to Greenwood to undergo an operation for strangulation of the bowels. Poor Stayner's death was very sudden. It appears that while pushing a carload of steel he slipped and strained himself. For a while he did not consider it serious, till the pain became so intense that it was considered advisable to telephone for Dr. Foster, who responded immediately, making a record trip to the camp. After doing all that was possible to relieve the pain the doctor determined as a last resourse to take him to Greenwood, but only reached as far as Jolly Jack's creek, where the poor fellow passed away, near the spot where Andy Kirkland was killed by the upsetting of the stage last year. The funeral took place yesterday, under the auspices of the Miners' Union of which the deceased was a member. The service was very impressive, our minister, Mr. Hackney, delivering an appropriate and touching sermon, and Mr. Lette, the secretary of the union very feeling reading the last farwell to a brother miner, the ceremony concluding with the members of the union throwing green boughs on the coffin.

The Cariboo is in a large body of exceptionally good ore, between the 300 foot and 400 foot levels. Truly the old Cariboo is a wonderful mine, for over eight years she has been turning out bullion, and to-day the mill is running on as good ore as ever.

Our popular old time host, Hughie Cameron, has struck some very fine ore on his claim, the Teaser, and is already hinting about putting up hoisting ing machinery. It is needless to say that his host of friends will rejoice to hear that Hughie has struck it.

The Cosens Bros., have purchased W. T. Shatford & Co.'s store and stock, and will now command the business of the camp. As they are well and favorably known, they will doubtless do a largely increased business. It is their intention to carry on the entire business in their present store, disposing, when opportunity occurs, of the Shatford premises. These premises would be well adapted for a hotel, being commodious and centrally situated.

How Rossland Treated the Visitors From the Boundary.

The Greenwood hose team and their friends returned early Friday morning from attendance at the alleged celebration in Rossland. The event was at first intended to celebrate the coronation of King Edward but when the news came of His Majesty's serious illness the celebration was spoiled to a very large extent. Instead of calling off the sports entirely the committee en charge decided to carry out the progromme but evidently with the determination that the visitors would have no chance of winning any of the substantial prizes. The scheme was as ancient as it was unsportsmanlike. It was the confidence game that is usually worked in a back woods town where the money is considered of greater importance than genuine sport. Hose teams went over from Greenwood and Grand Forks and the Trail and War Eagle teams were also there, under the impression that they would all have an equal chance and that the best team would win. But Rossland instead of running its own team had three men from Nelson and only two Rossland men. The other teams naturally objected to running against a combination team. They protested to the judges. Mr. Davis of the War Eagle mine, one of the judges wanted the Rossland-Nelson team ruled off but Mr. Rolf and Chief Guthrie of the Rossland fire department refused to rule the team off. The other four teams refused to run and there were no hose races.

When it is considered that the Rossland team received the most courteous treatment at celebrations in other towns and that after all visitors from a distance are entitled to if anything greater consideration, it is difficult to see the wisdom of the course which the Rossland people pursued. They adopted the only possible way of keeping the Rossland money at home but that is more than counterbalanced by loss of reputation.

In justice to the people of Rossland it should be said that the great majority of them were indigant at the conduct of the committee in charge of the races. Mayor Clute called the visitors together and apologized for the treatment they had received. He said that the general celebration committee of which he was chairman would endeavor to pay the expenses of outside teams as an act of justice to those who had been so unfairly treated. The Greenwood boys are loud in their praises of the War Eagle team and their manager Mr. Jenkins. They to some extent preserved the reputation of the city of Rossland by extending every courtesy to the visitors. The conduct of the War Eagle laddies was a pleasing contrast to that of the Rossland team.
