WORK AT JEWEL MINE

Among the properties in the Boundary, upon which a large amount of development work has been done this year, is the Jewel mine, in Long Lake camp, within eight miles of Greenwood.

The Jewel is one of the oldest mineral locations in the district, and was staked by the Dittmer brothers in 1895. It has been worked almost continuously since its location, and the first steam plant brought into the district was installed on this property. A good wagon road connects the property with the city.

Soon after the discovery of the vein, the owners sold to the Prospecting Syndicate of B. C., an English Syndicate represented by Leslie Hill, M. E., who developed the property for a number of years, placing the ore on the dump and exploiting the fine vein of gold-bearing quartz in all directions. Mr. Hill was a busy man, and his numerous other engagements took the greater part of his time, and after outlining the plan of development, the mine was placed in charge of Mr. Gilbert Mahon, one of the directors of the Prospecting Syndicate and himself a large shareholder. Mr. and Mrs. Mahon came out from England and resided for a considerable period at the mine. In the mean time another company was organized in London, to confine its attention solely to the deveopment of the Jewel. This company was registered as the Jewel Development Syndicate. Mr Mahon took active charge in November of 1898 and during his tenure of management over 1,000 feet of development were added to that already done.

On Mr. Mahon's return to England, where his private property demanded his attention, the mine work was continued for a while under the management of W O. Wright, when, the company having used up its available capital, work was suspended. Within quite recent years the owners reorganized once more and placed Mr. R. Roberts M. E. of Rossland, and well known in this district as a most able and conscientious mining engineer, in full charge of the present scheme of operations, which is being pushed forward with most gratifying results. The large mill and cyanide plant is almost completed. The mine has been connected with the Bonnington Falls electric power line from the Mother Lode mine and a full equipment of electrical and milling machinery installed. The mill will be ready for operation by September. Mr. Roberts is assisted by J. Stuart Palmer and has a force of miners underground, with carpenters and machinists at the new mill, which is situated on the shore of Long lake, within 2,000 feet of the mine shaft, and connected with it by tramway.

The quartz ledge occurs in a granite formation and is in some places altered and cut by dykes having a porphyritic structure. The ledge is a regular fissure vein averaging four feet in width, carrying a thin clay gangue, with values in gold and silver. There are quantities of galena, zinc blend, iron pyrites and occasionally ruby silver, tellurides of gold and silver and some free gold. Exceedingly high assays have been secured and a careful record kept of the values at all points The average for the entire mine is in the neighborhood of $15.

CHAMPLAIN'S TERCENTENARY

It is now our neighbors' turn to celebrate the tercentenary of a Champlain achievement. It was in this month of the year 1609 that the great explorer discovered the lake that goes by his name. It was not in the pursuit of peace that that discovery was made. Unfortunately most of Champlain's activity south of what is now the international boundary line was in the way of warfare. His alliance with the Hurons, Algonquins and Montagnais was perhaps not so much an error of judgment as a necessity of his position. These tribes occupied the country toward which the enterprise of which he was the director turned. They roved over the richest fur country and their routes were those towards which the seeker for a "north-west passage" would be drawn. The goodwill of the Hurons and their associates was all important to Champlain, who was probably made to understand that if he did not cultivate their friendship he would have to bear their enmity. Thus, it is not improbable that the choice he made was deliberate, and might not have been different had he been better informed as to the formidableness of the Iroquois. Apparently he had to make one side or the other his enemy, and he preferred to have as his allies the tribes who held the country he most desired to operate in. At all events, he embraced the cause of the Hurons and Algonquins, and had hardily exchanged pledges with them before they called upon him to move upon their implacable foe. He fell in with their wishes. With two other white men he joined two hundred braves bound for the Iroquois country. At the mouth of the Richelieu nearly one hundred and fifty of the red men grew sulky and went back to their hunting grounds. With the rest he went up the Richelieu, and on the shore of the lake from which that stream flows and which has ever since been called after him he first encountered the Iroquois, or rather a band of the Mohawk tribe belonging to that confederacy. The Mohawks were two hundred strong, but the firearms of the white people terrified them, and they fled, not, however, until some of their number were killed and others captured. This was the event by which Champlain signalized his entry into the territory of the country that is now celebrating his tercentenary.

MORE SCHOOL MA'AMS

If the British Columbia young idea is not taught how to shoot, it will apparently not be for want of teachers. Eight hundred people are aspiring to the necessary license to discharge that honorable duty. How many of these are men and how many are of the gentler sex we are not at present informed. The number of applicants this year is exceptionally large, but it would, nevertheless, be an interesting subject of inquiry by some unprejudiced persons to ascertain what becomes of all the schoolma' ams. What becomes of all the pins, all the needles, all the birds that die in the forests, all the buttonholes that have outlived their usefulness, all the New Year's resolutions, all the promises of politicians and diverse and sundry other things like that have been the subject of more or less, principally less, earnest thought; but the fate of those of the gentle sex, who start out in life with high ideals and a teacher's certificate, is, like the secret of malleable glass, an unsolved problem. We have a suspicion that a little god, who carries a bow and arrows, could answer the question if he chose to tell. But he never tells anything except to the two people most concerned. Greenwood has already lost quite a number of most estimable young lady teachers in the last few years, but it is cheering to know the supply is unlimited

Sidney Oliver, phone B 51, will supply your ice needs.

MORE DISPUTED BOUNDARIES

There is a prospect that Brazil will be drawn into the Peruvian complications, and many South American states involved in the dispute over the Acre territory. On the night of July 9th, at La Paz, Bolivia, a furious mob attacked the Argentine legation Troops have been called out, and fears are felt for the safety of the Argentine minister. The trouble is the outcome of the decision rendered by President Alcorta, of Argentine, in the Boundary dispute between Peru and Bolivia.

Senor Fonseca is the Argentine minister to Bolivia. Great crowds that had been parading the streets finally turned in the direction of the Argentine legation, which they surrounded. There were shouts of rage, and stones and other missiles were hurled at the buildings. The local authorities endeavored to check the manifestations, and at length the government found it necessary to order out troops. Both this legation and the Peruvian legation are now under a strong guard

The Bolivian people unanimously protest against the decision rendered by President Alcorta, which they consider most unjust. The territory involved is the famous Acre district, recently purchased by Brazil from Bolivia for $10,000,000, notwithstanding the fact that Peru issued a warning that the territory at that time was the subject of arbitration.

At Buenos Ayres, on the same day, Dr. Victorine De La Plaza, minister of foreign affairs, invited the ministers of Bolivia and Peru, accredited to the Argentine government, to call at the foreign office in order to lay before them the arbitration decision rendered by President Alcorta on the boundaries between the two countries. The Bolivian minister failed to appear at the ministry, explaining later that he refused the invitation in order not to commit his government on the decision. President Alcorta divides the contested territory almost equally between the two countries, but nevertheless favors Peru. The new frontier follows for the greater part the sixty-ninth meridian.

LABORERS STRIKE GOLD

The water supply of Los Angeles, from the filtered stores of the valley country, will wind through a strata of gold. Part of the aqueduct is found to be located through country heavy with auriferous veins, and in a number of cases pockets of gold have been taken away. Some parts of the construction work, laborers actually fight for, because of the chance of striking a pocket. From one stretch of the excavation less than 12 feet long, samples of high grade ore were taken, which in some instances showed assays of $900. The aqueduct literally crosses placers of gold, and also goes on through lodes.

All sorts of stories are to be heard along the aqueduct regarding gold finds, one being as to the luck of Patrick McCallum, a Los Angeles laborer, who cleaned up $1,200.

THE RIO TINTO

The Rio Tinto copper mine in Spain is the world's greatest producer of low priced copper, and has 140,000,000 tons of ore reserves, sufficient to last 70 years at the present rate of production. During the last five years the average yearly production has been 76,000,000 pounds, and the average cost of production 6.2 cents. This mine has a nominal market value of $139,250,000.

SETTLEMENT IS IN SIGHT

This week has witnessed the first move in the direction of a settlement of the differences between the B. C. Copper Co. and the local union. The company offers the union the same recognition and will pay the men on the same wage scale as other operating concerns in the district and has requested the union to send a committee to discuss points in dispute. This is distinctly a friendly advance and the union called a special meeting last night to arrange for this.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

A meeting of the Boundary Valley Lodge, No 38, I. O. O. F was held at Greenwood on Tuesday evening. The Grand lodge officers present included the following:

Theo. Kruger, customs officer at Osoyoos, is seriously ill.

W. L. Hogg of the Sunset mine rode in from Penticton on Wednesday.

The new hoist has been installed at the Snowshoe mine at Phoenix.

H. T. Wilgress, C. P. R. right of way agent, has returned from the coast.

J. D. Sword, general agent for the Ingersoll-Sergeant Rock Drill Co., is in town.

This week's Gazette contains a notice of the incorporation of the Boundary Homestake Mining Co.

The C. P. R. track is now five or six miles this side of Gladstone, and trains are expected in Greenwood by September.

The first general meeting of the Sailor Consolidated Mining and Milling company of Camp McKinney was held last week in Toronto.

The provincial mineralogist, W. F. Robertson is visiting the Boundary for the purpose of securing a representative mineral exhibit for the Paris exposition.

TO DEFEND PRINCE RUPERT

The Imperial government, as well as the Canadian authorities, is already looking into the future defense of Prince Rupert, and has sent Capt. Hughes, of Workpoint barracks, and Lieut. Haycock, of the Shearwater, to inspect the new port from the standpoint of defense. The mountainous country around Prince Rupert offers facilities for strong fortification, and as the new coast city is sure to become an important shipping point in the near future, there should be exact information in the hands of the naval and military authorities regarding the possibilities of land and sea protection. With Esquimalt on Vancouver island, and a naval and military base at Prince Rupert, British Columbia will be guardod, as it should be, in time of war, and protected in times of peace.

ROCK CREEK NEWS

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mrs. J. W. Reed left for Eholt on Sunday after a two weeks' visit to her old home.

A young McKenzie arrived at Rock Creek last week, consequently Johnny wears his best clothes and a broad smile.

Miss Eileen Pittendrigh returned Monday from Calgary, where she had been visiting with Mrs. P. Burns for the last year.

Andy Johnson, commercial traveler for Johnson Bros., was in town for a couple of days. Mr. Johnson reports business good in his line.

W. A. Keith, the pioneer merchant of Beaverdell, was in town Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Keith reports signs of prosperity on the West Fork.

An enjoyable evening was spent at the Riverside hotel on Saturday in dancing and parlor games. The Crawford-Dresser-Anderson orchestra furnished the music.

Mr. Cummings, paymaster for the C. P. R exploration parties, was in town Monday dealing out the welcome blue papers, signed by F. W. McLaine. Send him out often, Fred.

Mr. D R. Tait, manager of the K. V. I. F. L. Co., moved into his new offices last week He says that his latch string will always be left where his visitors can find it. Mr. Tait is considered a first-class cook.

Mr. Carey, who was awarded the pole contract for the Kettle River Community Telephone lines, is making good progress with his work. We hope to be able to say, "Hello, Greenwood" in about a month.

Mrs. F. Singer, Miss Laura Singer and Mr. D McGregor, of Montreal, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Larsen for two weeks before starting for the Seattle fair. The Larsen family will accompany them to Seattle.

Mr. J. F. Davidson and party left for Vernon last Monday. Mr. Davidson will return shortly when he will make arrangements for the building of a 12-room house and stables on his orchard land purchased from the Kettle Valley Irrigation Fruit Land Co.

What might have been a serious accident happened at James' lake on July 11th. Mr. Harold K. King was fishing with a companion from a boat in the middle of the lake, when, in changing places, the boat was capsized. Mr. King just managed to seize hold of a large snag before sinking, upon which he climbed in an exhausted condition, his companion swimming to shore. Mr. King's cries for help attracted the attention of his other friends on shore who were at a loss to know how to rescue him from his predicament. Finally an old dugout canoe was secured and Mr. King brought to shore. He was hastily wrapped in a blanket and brought down to Rock Creek. Beyond a severe cold, Mr. King is none the worse for his unexpected bath.

WANTED—A PARENT

While Greenwood possesses few attractions, from an amusement and past-time point of view, it has a race track and base ball ground within the city limits. The fact is, there is a base ball ground, enfenced with good lumber, at the north end of town, and a race track, more or less level, culminating in a grand stand, roofless since the last wind storm, and but grimly ornamental, but neither Greenwood nor its athletic and sport-loving citizens is the owner.

The Canadian Pacific Railway company and the Wood estate own the lots. They were cleared and fenced some years ago by enthusiastic Greenwoodites, members of the then existing Athletic association and others, who put up good hard cash, and harder work, to make the grounds suitable for base ball, cricket and other games, and for races on high days and holidays, but they were cleared and fenced without permission of either the owners or their agents, and there's the rub.

Although the C. P. R. and the Wood estate have not interfered with the usage of the said lots, they have every reason to expect some return for the fencing in and periodical occupancy of their premises. Taxes have to be paid annually, and so far the Athletic association, which, by the way, is scattered to the four winds, never paid anything, and we do not wonder that the owners want, either an agreement with some responsible parties, athletic or otherwise, for the use of the lots, or to remove the lumbering fence and ungainly grand stand wreck and to put their lots in good shape to be sold if a customer should appear on the scene.

In view of the times, and in view of the improbability of base ball and racing being extremely fashionable this season, we would not advocate the immediate formation of an athletic association for the express purpose of entering into an agreement with the owners to pay the taxes and a nominal annual rent for the ground; but it would be distinctly a loss to the town to have this attraction disbursed and abolished. We would suggest that those who are interested in out-door sports form some organization of sport-lovers, to see what can be done in this regard.

It will be some little time before the waste from the Greenwood-Phoenix tunnel covers the flat, in spite of its progress, and in the meantime, many a good ball game and many a good race may be witnessed in this town, were the parentless race track and ball ground in the hands of good sports as lessees.

PRICELESS PEACE

With the Kaiser preaching to the world his peaceful intentions, the sincerity of which most of his foreign congregation doubt, and the fact that England and her colonies claim that they are prepared for any move that his Warship may make, peace would seem to be assured for awhile. On the other hand, Germany is building ships as fast as the Kaiser is preaching pacific sermons, and England, while she is prepared for war, is making every effort to strengthen her present efficiency and to cover up any present weakness.

Is it true that to be prepared for war is to insure peace? If so, Germany needs no great navy. Her colonies are infinitesimal in importance or population, her army is acknowledged to be superior to any other land force in Europe and able to protect her at home in any event; hence the possession of a huge navy, as planned by the German nation, can only be viewed as a challenge to Great Britain, and invites hostilities the while the Kaiser is pressing his attentions to the dove on every occasion.

It has been said that the hog is the mortgage-raiser among our farm stock, but while the hog is growing the little hen buys groceries for the family, the carpets, lace curtains, pictures and frills for the girls. The hog is all right, but the hen is in the race, with a strong chance that a fair count would put her first.

MINES AND MINING

The Blue Bird mine at Rossland hs struck ore that runs in excess of $80 per ton, and the average above $30.

The necessary funds have been raised for further development in the Le Roi mine at Rossland. A meeting of the board of directors is being held in London, and advice from the managing director states that work will probably be resumed this month.

Prospects on the Jackpot, in Wellington camp, continue to improve and those familiar with the property claim it will yet be the British Columbia Copper company's premier mine. Enough ore is now blocked out on the Jackpot to pay for the entire group of claims recently bonded by the company.—Phoenix Pioneer.

Free gold running, it is estimated, at from $150 to $200 per ton, has been discovered in the the basin of Seymour Creek, five miles from Vancouver. For six weeks past J. L. Marriot, an Australian prospector, has been washing the sands of the creeks and his efforts have been entirely successful. The gold is found at the mouth of the creek where it empties into Burrard inlet. Back four miles up the basin of Seymour canyon above gold is very scarce.

The town of Cobalt is crowded with sight-seers to see the fire ruins. Tents are springing up on all sides. The lots will be surveyed to get the proper alignment of streets, and the town council will probably impose building restrictions which will prevent the further construction of match-box structures. North Cobalt and all places within a reasonable distance of the burnt town are experiencing a land boom. Cobalt is feeding and housing about 1500 people in tents and public buildings.

Three miners were killed and six others were seriously injured in an explosion at Topaz, Utah recently. The men were blown to atoms by the explosion of 750 kegs of black powder. They were working in a 35 foot tunnel and had just completed tamping the charge. The powder was connected with two wires, which were to have been connected to the battery on a hill quiet a distance away. A heavy thunder storm came up and a flash of lighting struck the wires, fusing them, completing a circuit and discharging the powder.

The Carmi mine, on the West Fork, and adjoining the town of Carmi, was located in the fall of 1897 by James C. Dale, for himself and others, who did considerable prospect and development work and later sold the property to an English syndicate represented by E. H. Thruston. It is a free milling proposition and has been extensively developed by the present owners. The development consists of shafts, tunnels and crosscuts. The vein is quartz 4½ to 5 feet in width, and carries values from $4.15 in gold and 5 ounces in silver to $350 in gold and 66 ounces silver. The mine is equipped with a 60 h. p. boiler, a No. 3 hoist, a ten stamp mill and cyanide tanks. Upwards of 800 tons of ore have been shipped, while 300 tons have been put through the mill. Mr. E. H. Thruston left for England three years ago, and since then no work has been done on the ground, although several substantial offers have been made for the property. Those familiar with the mine state that a very moderate expenditure only is necessary to place the mine on a paying basis, and it is on the cards that this will shortly eventuate.

GENERAL NOTES

Countess Grey is ill with scarlet fever at Rideau Hall.

Sir Percy Gerouard, D. S. O., has been appointed governor of the East African protectorate.

Fourth of July casualities in the United States for 1908 were; Dead, 56; injured, 1,899. This year the totals are happily smaller. Dead, 11; injured, 350.

On July 7th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richter, of Keremeos, the marriage took place of their son, John Richter, to Miss Florence Sinclair, of Chopaka. The happy couple will make a tour of the coast cities.

Lumbermen from all parts of the United States, representing interest that control the entire timber wealth of the country, will congregate at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition from Monday, July 19 to Wednesday, July 21.

The first number of Pacific Northwest Commerce, a new publication issued under the direction of the Seattle Chambers of Commerce, as its official organ, has just made its appearance and consist of of forty well printed pages, filled with crisp, readable commercial news of the Northwest.

The old story about Sir William Van Horn's telegram, which led to the granting of a pass, when he intended to refuse one, is paralleled by one that comes from Madrid. The wife of a very rich Mexican saw a diamond tiara in Paris, which she wanted to buy, but hesitated about purchasing because of the price, which was $17,000. She telegraphed her husband in Mexico, who answered: "No. Price to high." When she got the message it read: "No price to high," and so she bought one for $50,000. Her husband will probably not economize on cable tolls next time.

Daily flights of the Strobel air ship at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition grounds have been attracting a great deal of attention. J. C. Mars is the operator and he showed much skill in handling the big flying machine. It mounts gracefully and soars majestically over the heads of the people, who crane their necks in wonderment at the flight. This is the first real dirigible balloon that has ever been seen in the Northwest, and it demonstrates the possibilities of aerial navigation, which seems now to be realized on soon in a commercial way. Aviator Mars won the airship race in St. Louis last year. As his wife is extremely anxious to accompany him on his flights, a larger balloon is being constructed, which will carry more than one person. This is to arrive some time next month, so that persons anxious to cleave the air will have a chance to do so.

The inspector of customs will, it is said, recommend the establishment of customs offices for postal parcels at Summerland and Penticton, the postmasters to act for the customs.

The Copper Handbook is concededly the

WORLD'S STANDARD REFERENCE BOOK ON COPPER

The Miner needs the book for the facts it gives him regarding Geology, Mining, Copper Deposits and Copper Mines.

The Copper Consumer needs the book for every chapter it contains. It tells what and explains how and why.

The Investor in Copper Shares cannot afford to be without it. The Copper Handbook gives statistics and general information on one hand, with thousands of detailed mine descriptions on the other, covering the copper mines of the entire world, and the 40 pages of condensed statistical tables alone are worth more than the price of the book to each and every owner of copper mining shares.

Price: $5.00 in Buckram with gilt top, or $7.50 in full library morocco.

Terms: The most liberal. Send no money, but order the book sent you, all carriage charges prepaid, on one week's approval, to be returned if unsatisfactory, or paid for if it suits. Can you afford not to see the book and judge for yourself of its value to you?

W. Gibson of Victoria is the nventor of the latest aeroplane. t weighs only 222 pounds, and e motor is said to develop 65 orse power. This is a third ess weight than the Wright ma- hine and 40 more hp. The feature f the Gibson aeroplane is that it ies straight forward instead of ideways. While other aero- lanes present their widest side to e front, it presents the narrow- st. A syndicate is being formed ed to secure the patents and uild the machines, which, the nventor claims, can be handled y anyone who can drive an auto- obile. It is a single plane built two parts, and is steered by a udder with a wheel attachment. ther than this wheel there is ut one lever, which when pushed orward elevates, and pushed ackwork depresses the car. The achine is driven by eight ouble-bladed propellers, four on ach side rotating in contrary irections, as bird's wings move contrary directions. This, it claimed, gives a more even ight with a minimum of vibrat- on. The frame is wood, canvas- overed, with steel braces. NOTES FROM SEATTLE FAIR

Baby Christening Day, on July 20, is one of the unique features of the week. All babies born in Seattle during the month of June will be christened at the exposition with appropriate exercises.

Portland Day, on Tuesday, July 20, will be well attended. The Portland Commercial club, accompanied by the Oregon Journal Carriers' band of 25 pieces, will come in a body. There are already at the exposition a large number of Portland people and this crowd will join with the official delegation in making the day a notable one.

The Japanese of Seattle are planning an Oriental celebration for Wednesday, when the Japanese building will be officially dedicated.

Butte and Anaconda will be the center of attraction on Thursday, July 22. A special train of eight sleepers, two diners, an observation car and a baggage car, will leave Butte on the 20th, bearing a large delegation from Montana.

Thursday will also be Redmen's Day. The parade will form at the stadium in the morning. This day follows the adjournment of the Great Council at Tacoma.

The State Medical association of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and British Columbia will convene at the exposition from July 21 to July 24.

Whirling through space at the rate of two miles a minute is a sensation which is indulged in on the Pay Streak at the world's fair in Seattle. A car in a vacuum tube is the medium.

Roosevelt's heart would have been overjoyed could he have seen the 20,000 children enjoying themselves on the grounds at the A. Y. P. exposition in Seattle on Children's Day. A chorus of 1,700 voices, a Japanese children's chorus and a band of 30 pieces were features.

In an address at the commencement exercises of St. Timothy's school for Girls, held at Baltimore a few days ago, Mark Twain said: "There is nothing for me to do but to tell young ladies what not to do. There are three things that you should never do on any occasion. "First, don't smoke—that is, not to excess. I am seventy- three and have always smoked during my seventy-three years to excess. "Second, don't drink—that is, to excess. "Third, don't marry—that is, to excess."

A monument to the late Sir Oliver Mowat is proposed to adorn the city park of Kingston, Ont. W. F. Nickle, M. P. P., has offered $100, and other citizens will give good amounts. The Sir George A. Kirkpatrick and Sir John A. McDonald memorials were helped without reference to politics, and the same thing will be done toward the Mowat statue.

"What happened to Rolliganan?" "He drowned." "And couldn't he swim?" "He did for eight hours; but he was a union man."

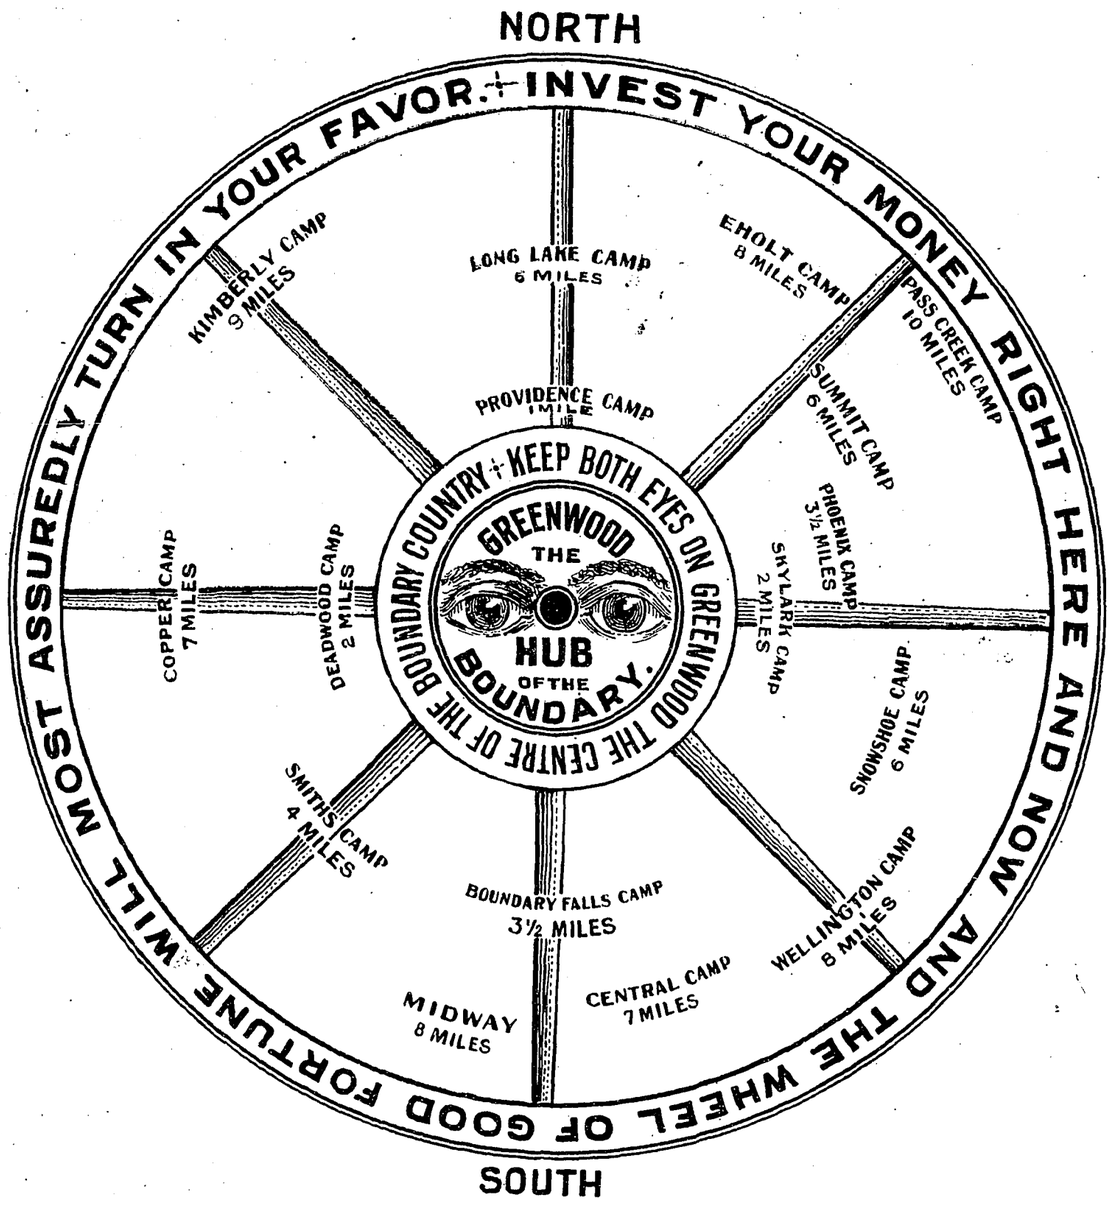
GREENWOOD THE HUB OF THE BOUNDARY.

Keep Both Eyes on Greenwood.



The City of Greenwood is surrounded by Mining Camps, which have great bodies of low-grade ore, and some of the richest high-grade veins that have ever been discovered.

Greenwood has big Smelters and proven mines, and a mineralized area of boundless possibilities.

There is now a revival of mining in the Boundary Country, of which Greenwood is the Centre.

The day is near when as many thousands of men will be employed in the Boundary mines as there are hundreds now.

All that is required is more capital to work the wonderful deposits of mineral in the richly favored Boundary.

Miss Annie M. McCorquodale, teacher of Holiday School, Embo, Ont. is spending her vacation with her sister Mrs Andrew W. Sutherland. Miss McCorquodale intends to visit the Seattle exposition on her way east to resume her studies.

A fire occured on Tuesday night in the premises occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. McBride. The alarm rang out shortly after midnight, and the brigade were promptly on the scene, and had two jets of water playing on the blazing building in a very short time. The occupants were able to save but a few of their effects and have the sympathy of their friends. The building was much damaged by fire and water and we understand there was no insurance.

LAID AT REST

The funeral took place, at Greenwood City Cemetary, on Tuesday last of Albert Luther White, who died on July 9th aged 65. The service was conducted by the Rev. V. Vernon Venables, and was attended by a large number of friends and relations. The deceased was a most active and energetic old gentleman, and when not working in his son's store spent a great part of his time fishing along the banks of Boundary creek. He was well known and well liked by all who knew him, and his sudden death came as a shock to those friends, and his children here, who knew how well he was. Willie White, a younger son came from the coast to attend the funeral.

In Memory of Our Father.

Another link is severed
From our family chain.
No aching heart or trembling hand
Can weld it back again.

Two months ago in prime of life
Our sister passed away,
And now in his declining years
Our father old and gray.

No more on the banks of the Boundary
With its brimming, crystal tide,
Will we see our patient father
Plodding along its side.

No more will he climb the rugged steeps
When the snows of winter fall,
Nor answer to the name of "Daddie"
As he did when we used to call.

In the midst of the summer sunshine,
Or the winter's bitter cold,
Our loved ones are taken from us
Alike the young and the old

As we lay his lifeless body
Beneath the crumbling clay,
We thank or God 'twas in his home
That father passed away.

The Elks' Hippodrome will be the feature of the day at the Seattle exposition on July 28th. It is expected that 40,000 Elks from Los Angeles, on their way home from the national convention, will attend the exposition on July 28, and it is for their entertainment that the prominent Elks of the city will sacrifice their dignity for the night.

Next winter you can get ice for yourself, but now you must phone B51 for it.

THE JULY HOME JOURNAL

There is such an abundance of good things in the July Home Journal that it is difficult to say just what the outstanding features are.

"The Dominion of To-Day" tells of the wonderful growth of Canada from 1867 to 1909 The new serial story "The Mystery of Barry Ingram," by Annie S. Swan, starts in this number. The opening chapters give promise of its being one of the best stories ever offered to Canadian readers.

"The Awakening" is an excellent short story of a dream that came true. Many girls have ambitions to become writers. Their troubles and perplexities are told in brief in "The Girl Who Wants to Write."

Women are coming to the front as explorers and a short sketch of the travels of Miss Agnes Deans Cameron in Northern Canada is very entertaining. "Wanted, a Beauty Combine," is a splendid article advocating the retaining of the natural beauty of our own towns and villages. It is excellently illustrated with photographs.

The whole issue is profusely illustrated. The cover is an excellent production in colors of "The Violet Lady," by Canada's foremost artist, W Goode, who also contributed the "Summer Girl" which is printed in colors inside.

This magazine has improved so much recently that leading Canadian women are reading the Home Journal in preference to foreign publications.

AN EFFICIENT OFFICER

C. J. Bunbury, of Greenwood, B. C., head of the Canadian constabulary along the border, stopped over in Oroville, Wednesday night, on his way to the front on business connected with his office. To meet the genial gentleman one would not imagine for a moment that he is one of the most efficient, and the most feared man by the criminal classes, among the sharp, active wide awake police force of Canada. When he meets on a social footing he throws off the stern character of criminal hunter, but when once on the trail there are none so persevering, none so untiring, none so determined in the quest as this man Bunbury. He knows his duty, and at all times and under all circumstances he preforms it. He has seen so much crime and had experience with so many criminals that he has become case hardened, and reverses the old conception of guiltiness by believing that every man under a cloud is guilty until he establishes his innocence. Cool as an iceberg, with nerves of steel and ignorant of the word fear when he goes after a man, and finds him, that man is a prisoner. If any section of the country in the department in which he serves gets too tough for the local force to handle they send out Bunbury, and he soon straightens out matters to the discomforture and misery of the law breakers. There is not much of him in pounds and ounces, but what he lacks in weight is made up in sand, and the toughest citizen hunts his hole when Bunbury hits hits track.—Oroville Gazette.

Quaker Oats Griddle Cakes

Try them today!

The family that hasn't eaten Quaker Oats griddle cakes has a delightful surprise coming to it. Besides the delicious flavor, there is the pleasure of knowing you can eat all you want, and the more you eat the better for you. The best of all foods for anyone wanting more strength and vigor.

Hundreds of thousands of packages of Quaker Oats are consumed in Germany annually and almost all of it is eaten in the form of Quaker Oats griddle cakes. In the cereal restaurant of the Quaker Oats Company, located in one of the large cities, these griddle cakes are very popular.

Here's the best recipe for making them:

2 cups Quaker Oats (uncooked); 1½ cup flour; 1 teaspoonful salt; 1 teaspoonful soda -dissolve in two tablespoonfuls hot water; 1 teaspoonful baking powder (mix in flour); 2½ cups sour milk or buttermilk; 2 eggs beaten lightly; 1 tablespoonful sugar; 1 or 2 tablespoonfuls melted butter (according to richness of milk).

Process: Soak Quaker Oats over night in milk. In the morning mix and sift flour, soda, sugar and salt—add this to Quaker Oats mixture and quantity of melted butter; add eggs beaten lightly—beat thoroughly and cook as griddle cakes—they make your mouth water for more.
