A QUIET WEDDING

A quiet wedding occurred at high noon Monday last at the home of the bride, when Miss Nellie McCreath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCreath, was married to A. D. Thomas, head of the Thomas Drug Co. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. D. McKee, only the immediate friends of the contracting parties being present. Both of the young folk are very popular in the community and a host of friends join in wishing them many happy years of wedded life. The happy couple left on Monday's C. P. R. afternoon train for a somewhat extended trip. On their return they will reside in Greenwood.

GREENWOOD BOARD OF TRADE

The public generally is invited to attend a smoking concert to be given in Miller's hall on the evening of Wednesday, 13th inst., the occasion being a reception to the delegates in attendance at the meeting of the Associated Boards.

By order of the Greenwood Board of Trade.

COUNTY COURT

County court of Yale was opened here on Tuesday, the 5th inst., Judge Brown presiding.

Mr. A. M. Whiteside, on behalf of the Barristers' society, presented the Judge with an address, expressing the regard of his former associates at the bar, and congratulating him on his promotion to the bench. The Judge made a fitting reply.

Naturalization papers were taken out by the following: Charles Carlson, J. A. Devlin, N. Engan, O. Erickson, E. Mantell, G. Merrill, C. A. Phillips, T. Rowe, A. Stappe, W. Walleen, A. S. Westcott.

Several cases before the court were adjourned to its next sitting.

In the case of P. Burns & Co. vs. S. T. Smith and D. C. Smith, in which the Dominion Copper Co. had been garnisheed, the garnishment was set aside. I. H. Hallett attorney for plaintiff, A. M. Whiteside attorney for defendants.

At request of the defendant's attorney, J. P. McLeod, the case of Pfeifer vs. Peterson, went over to next court on payment of the costs of the day by defendant. A. M. Whiteside appeared for the plaintiff.

Meggitt vs. Rendell, resulted in a judgment for plaintiff of $85 and costs. C. J. Leggatt attorney for plaintiff, J. P. McLeod attorney for defendant.

In Wheaton et al. vs. Lowrie et al., judgment was entered against the defendants with the exception of Ritchey & Sons as to costs. C. J. Leggatt attorney for plaintiff. A. M. Whiteside attorney for defendant.

McBride vs. Foulds, was sent up to the Supreme court. This is a case of contest over some land at Deep creek, on the West Fork. It is understood that the cause is being settled out of court.

The cases of Johnson, Mantell and Stureh against the Boundary Elkhorn Mining Co., were all settled. A. S. Black attorney for plaintiffs, and J. P. McLeod attorney for defendants.

Do Not Crowd the Season.

The first warm days of spring bring with them a desire to get out and enjoy the exhilerating air and sunshine. Children that have been housed up all winter are brought out and you wonder where they all came from. The heavy winter clothing is thrown aside and many shed their flannels. Then a cold wave comes and people say that grip is epidemic. Colds at this season are even more dangerous than in midwinter, as there is much more danger of pneumonia. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, however, and you will have nothing to fear. It always cures, and we have never known a cold to result in pneumonia when it was used. It is pleasant and safe to take. Children like it. For sale by all druggists.

The average price of lead in New York for 1906 was 5.347 cents per pound, as compared with 4.707 cents for 1905.

THE NORTH COUNTRY

The Grand Trunk Pacific Moving.

THE BULKLEY VALLEY

Likely to Be the Centre of Great Activity in a Mining and Farming Direction.

There are many indications that the Grand Trunk Pacific will, in the near future, be expending large sums of money in railway building and development in the northern part of the province. Already considerable work is going forward at Prince Rupert. The townsite is being cleared, wharves and mills and hotels are being built, and the era of a new development has set in. The railway has acquired, but apparently under insufficient title, possession of more acreage at Kaien island, and the preliminaries are in hand for launching a great townsite enterprise there. What the Pacific coast terminus may become is a matter of great speculation. There are those who think Canadian Pacific history at Port Moody may be repeated, and that after a little Prince Rupert may be found inadequate for the purposes of a great terminal, and that some other point will ultimately become the chief northern seaport. But regardless of all that, and of any shifting and juggling that might follow, we cannot quite get away from the feeling that Vancouver, or some other more southerly port will in the end reap greater advantage from Grand Trunk Pacific traffic than any other city in the north located on a mere arm of the sea with its attendant disadvantages of navigation. The projected north and south railway lines out of Vancouver may turn the trick that speculators along the rougher northern coast are not looking for. If such a railway route is at all practicable it will shorten distance, reduce time, and remove the dangers of navigation. Further inland, however, the case is altogether different, and we shall look to see some towns of importance spring up along the line of the railway.

The Bulkley valley appears to be peerless among the districts inland, and we shall not be surprised to find a town of importance spring up in that valley, probably at Aldermere. The Greenwood colony in and about Aldermere is considerable, and the opinion of many of the more observant of them is that Aldermere must inevitably become a point of considerable commercial moment. About 250 miles from the coast, in the centre of the great Bulkley valley, it would appear likely to become a strong competitive point for the honors of the interior. The Bulkley valley now being settled up is a strip of rich agricultural land about 60 miles long and 10 miles wide, and in the heart of this, between Aldermere lake, a beautiful sheet of water three miles long and nearly a mile wide and the river, the town has been laid out. North, east and south stretch farm lands and range lands. Near the town are valuable coal areas, while up the Telkwa, which empties into the Bulkley at Aldermere, are immense copper deposits. Northeast of town in the foot hills have recently been opened some nice silver-lead properties. During the past winter the provincial government has spent considerable money in opening up a cross country road between Aldermere and the Skeena at the mouth of Copper river. The divide is only 2,600 feet, and the distance 80 miles. Steamers can ascend the Skeena for at least eight months of the year as far as Copper river, while navigation as far as Hazelton is limited to three months.

From the mouth of Copper river to Aldermere such a road would be 80 miles, while the distance around by Hazelton is 140 miles.

We are glad to hear such glowing accounts of this district where so many Greenwood and Boundary boys have cast their lots. Quite a number now wintering here leave soon in order to catch the first boat north for what to them appears a land of hope. We are sorry to lose them, but if they must leave we shall trust that they have elected, like those already there, the right spot in which to realize a happy, successful future. We shall watch their progress and hail their success, and meantime keep our eye on Aldermere.

FIGURES FULL OF INTEREST

The report of the Department of Trade and Commerce for the fiscal year to June 30, 1906, is at hand, and a perusal of its pages shows the healthy condition of Canadian trade. Words are more readable than columns of figures, and "our growing time" sounds better than dry statistics, but the latter mean much more, and thus at the risk of being prosy we beg to quote from the big blue book. Canada's total imports in each of the following years were:

1876	$ 60,000,000
1886	70,000,000
1896	67,000,000
1906	173,000,000

Or, taken in periods of ten years each, they were:

1877 to 1886	$700,000,000
1887 to 1806	700,000,000
1807 to 1006	1,170,000,000

Against this our total exports, the produce of Canada, for the same periods were:

1876	$ 73,000,000
1886	78,000,000
1896	110,000,000
1906	235,000,000

Or, again, in periods of ten years:

1877 to 1886	$ 775,000,000
1887 to 1896	1,800,000,000

Again, the thrift and prosperity of a country may in measure be gauged by the deposits of a people in the moneyed institutions of the country. The deposits as registered in the Chartered banks, postoffice, savings banks, government savings banks and special savings banks, form a startling commentary on what has been taking place in Canada.

Taking the same years named we find these totals expressed as follows:

1876	$ 78,000,000
1886	147,000,000
1896	245,000,000
1906	626,000,000

This would show that the growing business of Canada had been profitable, and while the country's trade had been expanding the peoples' margin of profit has been keeping pace. In fact, the latter seems to have outrun the former, for while the total import and export trade of 1906 was three times greater than that of 1876, the money in sight in 1906 was eight times greater than in 1876.

THE NEW CODE.

While Mr. Ross may have been in a measure unhappy in his recent references in parliament to Mr. Fowler, or the time may have been inopportune for calling attention to the predatory instincts of that gentleman and his associates in their desire to become easily possessed of public lands, there can be no two opinions on the manner Mr. Fowler adopted in resenting the reference to his thrifty methods. Mr. Fowler must certainly have forgotten that there is no law which forbids a member of parliament from being a gentleman. The language he used might do for a police court presided over by a non respecting magistrate, but it certainly was not fit for the highest court in the Dominion, the court, in fact, which writes the laws for all courts to observe and enforce. But though the intemperate nature of the attack might be palliated on the ground of haste, and because "the galled jade winces," yet the more deliberate methods of the man, as exposed by himself, disclose a state of public life that is not encouraging, and go farther to stamp the man than his hasty words. He told with evident relish that he had been playing detective on his associates in parliament and that if they, forsooth, dared to question his public methods he would deal with their private ones. The self-confessed spy into frailties of his peers is despicable, but when knowledge affected to be thus obtained is paraded as a reason why the spy must be left to do as he will, the case becomes serious. Moreover, we believe that the man whose instincts would lead him to play detective would not hesitate to pervert truth to establish a case. Unless some steps are taken to inquire into the foundations of Mr. Fowler's startling charges we shall incline to the belief that, for some reason, too much stress is laid on the merit of a retraction. The public is concerned quite as much as parliament, for when public men are insulted public opinion is offended, but to apologize for the insult does not condone the offense.

THE NEW ACT

We must admit that we are not among those who construe the Lord's Day Act as intended by its promoters merely to fill churches and make people better morally. Its origin and name are suggestive of this, but we believe that one of the chief purposes of the bill in the minds of its most active promoters was the legal conservation to the laboring man of his right to one day of rest, in seven, in obedience to the law of his being as well as to a divine command. Standing alone, the man who has labor to sell cannot dictate terms and conditions, and many a man who feels he needs the seventh day rest bodily, and whose conscience prompts him to its observance, finds himself compelled by the dictum of his employer to work on the seventh day or lose his job. The law aims to save such an one from his employer and to guarantee to him his highest rights. Herein is what we regard as the greatest merit of the act, and could the law vouchsafe this without inequalities or impositions it would be well, but it strives to do much more, and in saying that a man must rest on the seventh day, endeavors to place restrictions on HOW he may rest.

EDITORIAL NOTES

AT a terrible expense of nerve and reputation, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has made a brave effort to save a husband claimed to be insane. The picture is a most pathetic one, and if her story be true, discloses a self sacrifice that is touching.

THE census reports show that in the last twenty years one million couples have been separated by the divorce courts of the United States. Unlike the mills of the gods, reputed "to grind slow, but exceedingly fine," the divorce mills of the republic south of us grind fast and rather coarse.

A LEARNED Kansas man claims to be able to prove that Yazoo, Miss., is the site of the Garden of Eden. The climate of the Garden of Eden must have been somewhat similar to that of Yazoo, otherwise our first parents would have needed a more elaborate wardrobe, but Eden was slow compared with Yazoo, now the center of the lynching belt.

The Hunter-Kendrick Co., to keep abreast of their ever increasing business, has installed money conveyers from the clerk at the counter to the cashier in the office. Three carriers are now busy in this big store, one from the grocery department, one from the men's furnishing department and one from the dry goods department.

For the number of men employed, says the Whitehorse Star, the Big Salmon has been one of the best gold producing districts in the Yukon for the two years last past.

The total production of coal in the state of Washington during the last quarter of 1906 was 880,412 tons. This was the highest tonnage of any quarter of the year.

THE GOVERNMENT AND ZAM-BUK

Survey Out of Fort Williams Takes a Supply of This Useful Balm.

Zam Buk, the favorite household balm and salve, is now adopted as 'the Doctor" by leading parties engaged in surveying various parts of the Dominion lands.

Mr. Henry Hall, writing from Fort William, says: "Having proved how beneficial Zam-Buk is in cases of cuts, skin injuries and diseases, I determined to keep a supply handy. Being engaged to go on a survey, I thought it would be a most useful thing to take along. I obtained a supply in Fort William and very well it was I did so. I may say that pretty nearly every day it was called into requisition by one or other of the party for cuts, bruises, burns, or some injury or other. It is wonderful how quickly Zam-Buk takes the soreness out of cuts, burns, bruises and injuries; and on our survey it won golden opinions from all who had occasion to try it. I have found it very fine for skin disease, and can strongly recommend it as a household balm."

Mr. Lascelles Scott, one of the leading Government analysts, says: "I have no hesitation in certifying the entire purity of Zam-Buk, which in my opinion is excellently adapted for skin injuries and diseases." Zam-Buk cures cuts, scalds, burns, bruises, eczema, scalp sores, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, chapped places, spring pimples, blood poison, chronic abscesses, etc. As an embrocation it relieves rheumatism, neuralgia and sciatica. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, Six boxes sent for $2.50. Send 1c. stamp and we will mail you free sample box.

FIRE LADDIES AND COUNCIL

A deputation from the Fire department waited on the City Council Monday evening last, requesting appropriations for the following:

One hundred feet of rope for the hose wagon for use on high buildings in emergency, the sanitary cleaning of the walls of their sleeping quarters and the painting of the hose sleighs. The boys also want a man-power hook and ladder truck fitted with ladders for reaching two or more story buildings. They also desired that the new fire by-law under consideration by the council be submitted to them for approval before final passage by the city. The department requested an available annual appropriation of $100 by the council for the contingencies of the company.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is Both Agreeable and Effective.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has no superior for coughs, colds, and croup, and the fact that it is pleasant to take and contains nothing in any way injurious has made it a favorite with mothers. Mr. W. S. Pelham, a merchant of Kirksville, Iowa, says: "For more than twenty years Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been my leading Remedy for all throat troubles. It is especially successful in cases of croup. Children like it and my customers who have used it will not take any other." For sale by all druggists.

From the Kootenaian it is learned that a big tonnage of ore is accumulating at the Kootenay Ore company's sampling works at Kaslo. It is coming from several mines near there, and is awaiting orders from the smelters for shipment.

BASIC SLAG AS A FERTILIZER

About 300,000 tons of basic slag fertilizer are manufactured in Great Britain annually, of which 120,000 are exported.

The immense success of basic slag in Great Britain has been mainly due to its special power of improving poor grasslands on clay. The soils of these clays are naturally lacking in both phosphoric acid and carbonate of lime The summer following a dressing of basic slag the whole pasture becomes covered with white clover, small plants of which had previously been living stunted beneath the bents. Stock now graze the land with great relish, and the vegetation year by year improves. One of the great factors in this change is the lime in the basic slag. It renders available some of the reserves of potash and nitrogen in the soil, and of the latter there is a great accumulation in any old pasture. Both by its alkaline reaction, its liberation of potash, and the areation it induces by flocculating the clay when some of the lime is washed into the soil as calcium bicarbonate, it aids the phosphoric acid to render the soil favorable for the growth of leguminous plants, hence the sudden appearance of the hitherto dormant white clover. The white clover is always closely grazed, and as it collects nitrogen from the atmosphere, the whole herbage on the land—grasses as well as clovers—is improved oear by year.

On some soils it is well known that basic slag has no visible effect. Three factors may be operative in bringing about this comparative uselessness of basic slag. In the first place, on some soils the dormant plants of white clover do not exist or are present in such small numbers as to be inappreciable in the first year or two following the application of the manure. As Professor Middleton has shown, it is necessary in these cases to follow up the application of basic slag with a seeding of white clover, harrowed into the land.

Secondly, on sandy soils, with little clay in their composition, there is no reserve of potash compounds to be rendered available by the lime of the basic slag; the Rothamsted experiments show very clearly that it is potash which pushes on the clovers in grass land, and that phosphates do very little for them in the absence of lime, hence when basic slag can act only as a phosphatic manure it will benefit the leguminous crops but little. In such a case potash manure must be used with the basic slag. Lastly, the visible effects of basic slag are always smaller on land newly laid down, simply because there is not the accumulation of nitrogenous mateial from past crops which characterizes old grass land. The lime in the bassic slag renders some of this reserve material available for the herbage, the increased supply of nitrogen being apparent in the fuller green the grass assumes.

It should not be supposed, however, that in any of these cases the basic slag is without value because its application is not visible; phosphatic manures never have the effect upon the growth and color of the crop which nitrogenous manures have, so that they can only be properly judged by the weight and quality of the crop at harvest time.—A. D. Hall in Mining World.

B. F. Crocker, Esq., now 84 years of age, and for twenty years justice of the peace at Martinsburg, Iowa, says: "I am terribly afflicted with sciatic rheumatism in my left arm and right hip. Included in the estimate of the Iron Age Review of the iron production of the world for 1906, is that of Canada, placed at 575,000 tons. That of the United States is given as 25,300,000 tons. The grand total is 59,700,000 tons gross.

Governor Hoggett of Alaska, estimates the population of Alaska at 33,000. He places the net increase last year at 3,500, and in his first annual report, adds that there is a moving population of 6,000 who live in Alaska during the summer months, finding employment in mining and various other industries.

THE ORE TRAIN

B. C. vs Ontario—The statement recently heralded that Ontario was easily the banner mineral province of the Dominion, according to the output of 1906, is erronious. Old Ontario must keep the next seat back of British Columbia for the present. The youth of the Pacific, raw but lusty, still holds the edge on effete Ontario, and its present lead is likely to keep increasing.

Phoenix—Information has been received here that at a meeting of the board of directors of the Granby Consolidated held in New York recently, a regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent was declared with an extra dividend of 1 per cent out of net earnings of the company, payable March 30. This amounts to $405,000, being dividend No. 6, declared by this company, and makes a total of $2,153,630 thus far declared. The last four dividends were each for the same amount, while the first dividend in December, 1903, was 1 per cent, or $133,630. This is the first announcement of a regular quarterly dividend by the Granby, although four dividends were paid in 1906.

Cobalt—The largest and most valuable nugget yet found in the history of Cobalt camp was taken from shaft No. 26 of the Nipissing recently. It weighs 4,000 ounces and is estimated to be 65 per cent silver.

Leasing System—Again the leasing system has scored a ten-strike. It is reported that the management of the widely heralded Nipissing mine, in the Cobalt region, are seriously considering an allotment of numerous blocks of ground to tributers, with the design of thus advancing exploratory work on an extensive scale. An interesting deduction from this discussion, also is that the Nipissing is not regarded seriously as a mine, in spite of the large production it has already made from superficial workings. It would appear to be merely an overgrown prospect.

* * * * * * *

Erratic mineral deposits can wisely be thrown open to leasers, simply for the revelations which they offer. The Nipissing evidently falls within the class of uncertainties of a degree sufficient to render a leasing policy highly plausible. Finding the ore, and above all things, the ore-bearing system of veins and fractures, is an important desideratum.

Itching Piles.

If you are acquainted with anyone who is troubled with this distressing ailment you can do him no greater favor than to tell him to try Chamberlain's Salve. It gives instant relief. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by all druggists.

"You say you were in the saloon at he time of the assault referred to in the complaint?" questioned the lawyer.

"I was, sor," replied the witness.

"Did you take cognizance of the barkeeper at the time?"

Nervous Prostration

IT IS WORRY THAT KILLS, NOT WORK

Work without worry usually tends to prolong life. On the other hand, worry, with or without work, is fatal, because it uses up what the Doctors call the "Lecithin," a phosphorized fat which is the chief constituent of the brain and nervous system—a waste which, if not stayed in time, means complete nervous wreck. The evident moral is "don't worry"—advice easy to give, and in these days of stress and strain practically impossible to take. The alternative is: find some way of replacing the wasted Lecithin—the phosphorized fat. This absolutely essential element will be found in its most perfect, palatable and assimilable form in

After a very fair trial I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. In my case it cured a skin rash of five years' standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for. I would certainly encourage any person to keep Zam-Buk in their home. It truly does even more than you claim for it. For my own part I would not now be without it in the house. Yours very truly,

ROGER F. PERRY,
Justice of the Peace for B.C.

DEVELOPING MINERAL RESOURCES

So many new and apparently unsurmountable engineering obstacles in connection with the development of mineral resources in the west have been overcome successfully, that Americans are prone to imagine there is little to learn from the experiences of some of the other important mining countries. This mistake, typically American, partly explains why progress has not been made in certain western mining camps. For instance, there is nowhere undertaken in the west so extensive and comprehensive a plan of water supply for desert camps as has just been completed in Australia. In that country $14,000,000 has been spent to deliver water 350 miles at an elevation of 1,300 feet, to the Coolgardie gold field. Were the water supply better in certain parts of the west in our own country there would be a more energetic development of the mines. In South Africa diamond drilling in exploring work has attained points of perfection which are not often shown in America. The Mexican miner has successfully applied the cyanide process to low grade silver ores, even more extensively than is being done in the United States. Mexican and South American miners have reduced transportation over mountain roads to a science, and attempt profitable operations in localities that would be considered impracticable even to the Rocky mountain mine owner. Metallurgical plants in Europe in some respects can make a closer saving than American institutions. So, on the whole, the American man can profit by studying operations in other countries, notwithstanding the remarkable development and astounding progress that has been made in the industry in our country.—Mining World.

PAY ORE COLUMN

P. Dermody and assistants began work on the Riverside on Friday last. A force of seven men is employed.

Mike Kane has recently returned from Spokane, where he negotiated the sale of several properties in Skylark camp.

An accident to the compressor plant at the Providence mine on Tuesday last has resulted in temporary suspension at the works.

If the plans in connection with the Granby smelting plant as at present contemplated are carried out, the giant company of the Boundary will presently have a reduction capacity of a million and a quarter tons annually.

The Napoleon at Marcus, owned by the B. C. Copper Co., is being rapidly developed into a great mine. A mile tramway is being installed. The company is planning to erect a cyanide plant for reduction of one class of its ore that runs well in gold.

Al Morrison, who was in charge of the Moreen when work was suspended last fall, is in town arranging to renew operations on a larger scale. The company has been financed by influential people and the property will be developed into a mine. A compressor plant is to be installed at once.

MINERS' UNION ELECTS

Greenwood Miners' union No. 22, W. F. M., held its semi-annual meeting last Saturday evening. The following officers were elected: President, Frank Steel; first vice president, J. D. Davidson; second vice president James Hickey; financial secretary, R. A. Matheson; recording secretary, J. S. Matheson; warden, Dan Inglis, conductor, W. V. Richards; treasurer, Jas. H. Higgins.

LARGE ORCHARD

Martin Burrel of Grand Forks, who is doubtless the best posted man in the interior of the province on fruit culture, has interested a number of his friends in an orchard enterprise. They have bought 100 acres of admirable adapted land on the Gilpin ranch and will put out 60 acres, or 4,000 trees, this spring. The company paid $125 an acre for the land. It will only be a few years until the land will be paying interest on an investment that will grow to $1,000 an acre.

LONDON AROUSED

The greatest popular demonstration seen in London in many years occurred there quite recently, when uncounted thousands marched through the principal streets of Trafalgar Square, where a mass meeting was hold in opposition to the Socialistic policy of the London County Council. The municipal reformers were themselves astonished at the evidence given of the popular revolt against the extravagance and incompetence shown in municipal ownership experiments which have so damaged London's credit.

The procession was more than a mile long and included many unique features. Fifty men carried hods of rotten bricks from the Council's famous brick making yards at Norbury. Others carried some of the Council's surplus Austrian blankets from a lot of 2,000 unloaded upon the municipality because a requisition for 200 had a cipher added to it.

There were 50 powerful gramophones in line, which ground out fervid comments upon the "wastrals" for the delectation of the great crowds along the route. Cartoons and election mottoes without number were carried upon drays and floats. A huge representation of a County Council steamboat was inscribed "One man, one boat."

"Down with the wastrels," was the cry most frequently heard amone the cheering multitudes. The enthusiasm was greatest in Trafalgar Square, which was literally packed, many thousands being unable to get within earshot of Nelson's monument, which was used as a rostrum.

There were speeches by half a dozen members of the House of Commons and leaders of the Municipal Reform party, and the meeting adopted a resolution setting forth that "this mass meeting of London ratepayers indignantly protests against the increasing burden of rates caused by the Progressive Socialist party and pledges itself to exert every effort to turn the wastrels out on March 2, and place in power the party of municipal reform."

London is now plastered from end to end with election posters and cartoons, and it is no exaggeration to say that public interest in the pending campaign surpasses that in a national election. This augurs well for the reform movement, for if a heavy vote is cast nothing can prevent the overwhelming defeat of the party which has controlled municipal affairs for the last eighteen years.

ELECTRIC SHOT-FIRING

The new order relating to the use of explosives in coal mines in Great Britain, effective March 1, 1007, states that shots may only be fired by electricity or by a permitted igniter fuse, subject to the existing proviso as to the use of safety fuse in any mine in which inflammable gas has not been found within the previous three months in such a quantity as to be indicative of danger.

Where the charge is fired by an electric apparatus, the shot firer shall not use a cable for the purpose which is less than twenty yards long. He shall himself couple up the cable to the charge, and shall do so before coupling the cable to the firing apparatus. He shall also himself couple the cable to the firing apparatus. Before doing so, he shall see that all persons in the vicinity have taken proper shelter. Should the charge miss fire he shall immediately disconnect the cable from the firing apparatus.

Every electric firing apparatus shall be provided with a movable handle or safety plug, or push button, which shall not be placed in position or operated until the shot is required to be fired, and which shall be removed or released as soon as a shot has been fired. The removable handle or safety plug shall at all times remain in the personal custody of the shot firer while on duty.

In the case of two or more shots being fired in the same place, but not simultaneously, the shot firer must make an examination before each shot.

The Times has secured a new press and expects to issue a new seven column paper next week. Mr. Thomas Cathers, from the A. T. Collis & Co. print shop, Rossland, will be in charge of the press department, and his experience in this and other first-class establishments leads us to believe that the character of work done in the Times hereafter will be better than ever before.

G. O. Guise of Westbridge, reports business very good this winter, both in the hotel and merchandise line. A large amount of lumber is being cut on the Main Kettle and West Fork in the vicinity of Westbridge. There are about 15 camps on the two streams, employing over 100 men. These camps make a fine market for the produce of the farmers near by.

Mr. Frederick Keffer left on Friday last for a month's trip to the east. He will attend the Mining Institute to be held in Toronto, and of which body he is president, and go thence to the head offices of his company in New York to confer with his principals. Mr. Keffer has been severely overworked for some time past, and his friends trust his enjoyment of the trip will equal his deserts in the matter.

Jas. McCreath and Albert Logan left on Tuesday morning's Great Northern for an extended trip. They intend taking in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Buffalo and Boston. The return trip had not been definitely settled, but it is expected to embrace New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Salt Lake, Denver and Butte. Nothing was said of Puyallup, but as they have a license to "butt in" wherever and whenever they wish, they may take a look at the big hop country.

We are sorry to observe that the present management of the Times does not merit the approval of our neighbor, the Ledge. But we must ask that great family journal to charge our mistakes up to want of experience. For eight years past the experience of the present manager has been confined to this one paper, and hence our views have not received the broadening that the building up and breaking down of a paper in almost every town in the interior has given the intellectual and responsible head of the Ledge.

According to the Los Angeles Mining Review, the New York stock exchange has taken a "tumble to itself." Only quite recently, as also in former times, its governing board decided that no mining stock could be, or would be, listed. Mining stocks were a bad lot, so wretchedly bad and irredeemable that they could not be permitted to keep company with industrials and other high toned stocks, such as only dealt with on the New York stock exchange. But now its governing board is of a different way of thinking. Its members have reached the conclusion that a respectable mining stock is just as respectable as any other kind of stock, so they have rescinded their interdict; have decided to no longer taboo mining stocks, rather they will welcome them to their fold. The Granby Consolidated of British Columbia, has the honor of being the first to be enrolled on the exchange's list.

Alaska's production of copper during three years was as follows: In 1904, 2,043,586 pounds; 1905, 4,703, 600 pounds; 1906 (estimated), 6,250,000 pounds.

THE LORD'S DAY ACT

Now Presumed to Be in Force.

EXCEPTIONS NUMEROUS

What the Outcome Will Be Remains to Be Seen But Doubts Obtain as to the Act's Efficiency

The new Lord's Day Act is now presumably in effect, but whether or not it will prove beneficial legislation, remains to be seen. It may result in certain cessation of work and sport on the Sabbath day. If this should result it will be well. But that it will add to the number of those who attend religious worship on the Sabbath is gravely doubted. It does not now appear as if the provincial authorities would make any serious effort to carry the law into effect in British Columbia at least. Should this condition of things ensue, then, fo far as we are concerned, the law had better not been writ, because every law violated or evaded weakens a people's respect for law in general.

We incline to the idea that the law's imperfections and exceptions will work its undoing. For example, a newspaper may not issue on the Sabbath day, but it may on Monday. The large part of a Sunday newspaper is prepared before midnight on Saturday, a comparatively small part of the working force being necessary for the production of the paper, for several hours before its issue. On the other hand, a greater part of the work on a Monday morning paper is done on Sunday afternoon and evening, and a small part of it on Monday morning.

Then, again, the many things excepted from the working of the law make it appear very weak and ineffective. It would seem as if any interest that chose to make a strong showing why it should be excepted was put down on the list. The following may be noted as among lines of work excepted:

The drug business, telegraph and telephone companies, electric light, water and gas companies; works necessary in operating mines and smelters, loading and unloading steamers and trains, necessary work in railway yards, the livery stable business, delivery of milk, watchmen, the work of domestic servants and family driving and boat sailing.

These, and other exceptions, show the difficulty that must have attended the making of the law.

Some of the exceptions were made evidently because clearly identified with works of mercy.

But if furnaces may be kept coaled up, because to do otherwise would work loss, or if pumps may be kept going, because otherwise damage would ensue, why might not a freighter on a long journey keep his team going rather than be compelled to hitch up to a tree in the wilderness at midnight Saturday and wait for midnight Sunday? And if the sale of milk be allowed, why may not the sale of fruit?

And if a speculator in stocks be allowed to use the telegraph wires on Sunday for Monday's operations why may not a merchant be allowed to take inventory of his stock?

And is the report of a gun on Sunday more disquieting to one than the tooting of a train, or the exhaust of an engine?

We do not point out these inequalities in the law in any captious spirit, but merely to show the difficulties that would arise in endeavoring to work the law. We believe in the Sabbath as an institution, and in the church as an institution, but we can hardly see how the former may be bettered or the latter filled by this law.

We have seen in our own midst the growth of sentiment in favor of the Sabbath as a day of rest. We have seen stores closed and churches built by the compelling power of self respect. We, in the west, are far behind the east in Sabbath regard, but when the east was as we are, in a frontier stage, was it any better than we? And yet its present standards were evolved, slowly but surely, not so much by law as by public sentiment. Law in advance of public sentiment is apt to be violated, and every law violated with impunity weakens all law. We incline to the view that healthier political practices and cleaner political methods would quicken public sentiment quite as rapidly as this law.
