BREVITIES.

Paris is perfectly wild over the last play produced there, entitled "Patrie." At the Porte St. Martin, whence it is being represented, the people literally fight for seats. A few years ago the author, Victorien Sardow, was starving. He now receives a thousand francs a day for his pieces.

Oysters grow to an immense size in Indian and Chinese waters. One recently on exhibition at New York measured three feet in length and two in breadth, and would easily contain a bushel of ordinary oysters, shells and all.

A London magazine says that the silly superstition as to the unluckiness of being the thirteenth guest at dinner may be traced to religious prejudice against Judas, who was the thirteenth at the Last Supper.

A wiseacre, in an article upon aeriform bodies, published in the Waverly Magazine, says that "gases in their natural state never exist as liquids or solid." We think that none of his gas was necessary to explain that.

£200,000 were lost by the burning of the Australian ship Omar Pasha, in the Atlantic. Spontaneous combustion was the cause of the fire. All the passengers were saved.

Some Roman tesselated pavement has been found in a street in London, about 17 feet from the surface. Although about 1,400 years old, it is as fresh and perfect as though just placed there by the ancient masters of the world.

Belfast has had a monster meeting to protest against the Irish Church Bill. It is said that between 80,000 and 100,000 people attended.

Seven steamers left Liverpool in the third week of May with emigrants for the United States and Canada. The greater portion were Swedes and Hollanders. There were more English than Irish, and more Irish than Scotch. It is now a curious fact in emigration statistics that the emigration from Ireland is on the decline.

In the vicinity of the gold diggings in Scotland the farmers complain of the destruction of the rich grass along the sides of the burns, and negotiations have been commenced to ascertain the amount of damage with a view to compensation. The Duke of Portland's estates also contain gold, but he has forbidden prospectors to enter them. The largest nugget found was valued at £9, and was picked up near the surface of the soil.

One of the results of the French elections is the fact that Paris, Lyons and Marseilles, the principal cities of France, have elected representatives who are avowed enemies of the Napoleon rule.

A Boston journal says that "a prominent Boston dry-goods dealer recently testified before a legislative committee that the Boston police are in league with the thieves, and that some of the thieves are clerks for the largest wholesaling houses in Boston and New York. He adds that one of the clerks, in a business house in New York, was a leader of a band of robbers.

The number of paupers in London for the first week of May was 136,486. The yearly increase of capital in England is said to be £150,000,000. Curious statements these.

Colonial government securities look well in the London money market. Canada, 102 to 103; Victoria, 114 to 115. The lowest are those of New South Wales—99 to 101. British Columbia not mentioned.

The Chief Constable of Birkenhead, England, has been committed for trial on a charge of having forged a power of attorney for the transfer of £431 with intent to defraud the Bank of England.

The ship Blue Jacket, from New Zealand, was burnt at sea on the 9th May. Two lifeboats, with 36 men, are missing, together with 8,000 sovereigns. Forty-eight thousand sovereigns were lost in the vessel.

The last of the natives of Tasmania died recently at Hobart Town. He was known as "King Billy," and was a jolly good-natured fellow.

A Japanese company, under the superintendence of Dr. Schnell, who has resided a long time in Japan, have purchased ground in Gold Hill, California, for the purpose of cultivating tea and manufacturing silk.

The interest on the national debt of the United States is nearly double as much as all the precious metals the mines of the United States produce. The amount so produced is $67,000,000 and the interest amounts to $130,000,000.

Queen Victoria's birthday was celebrated at Honolulu with great honors and rejoicing.

After expending $12,000, water has been struck by the artesian well on the Colt estate, in Hartford, Ct.

A claim against the Mexican Government for $180,000, sold the other day in New York for $19.

Laborers are being engaged for the commencement of the Honduras Atlantic-Pacific railway, at the Atlantic terminus.

A man named Oliver Evans committed suicide in Jacksonville, Oregon, under horrible circumstances. He was charged with incest with his own daughter, a girl of sixteen, and immediately went to the mountains and shot himself. The body was found yesterday, badly decomposed. The girl has confessed that the charge was true. He was a widower and leaves considerable property.

Some of the English papers are discussing a plan for a through railroad line from England to China. They think it can be built as easily as the American Pacific line. The route by the Euphrates river is urged, on the ground that it will diminish the time between England and the East, and save travel going by America.

The imprisonment in England of a poor fellow for stealing a turnip from a field has been followed by the incarceration for a month of two girls who picked a shilling's worth of greens from a pasture.

One branch of the Municipal Council of Washington has passed a resolution prescribing a fine of $10 for each and every refusal to admit colored people to the theatres on a perfect equality with the whites. It is said that should this be carried into effect it will result in breaking up the only respectable place of amusement in the city.

An American paper says that nearly all the brilliant complexions seen among the women of New York are the result of arsenic eating. Since the introduction of the "blonde fashion" arsenic eating has become almost a mania.

A SWEET SUBJECT.

Sugar is largely consumed in British Columbia, in proportion to the population. At all points above Yale it becomes dear; through the cost of freight, road tolls, etc. There is any quantity of land situate between Yale and Cariboo, which is well suited to the growth of sugar beets. Such land is scarcely fit for anything else, owing to the abundant proportions of alkali it contains, and can be pre-empted or purchased at a low figure. Would it pay a company or a capitalist to engage in manufacturing sugar from beets, for the supply of that part of the colony alluded to? The cost of the machinery and the amount of sugar consumed would answer the question, but we have no reliable data on which to form an estimate. It would be very safe to say, however, that if the cost of the machinery would not amount to more than $10,000, the manufacture of sugar from beets would be a profitable enterprise. We have been told that machinery could be obtained for $5,000, by those who have been familiar with beet-root sugar manufactories in Europe. It would not, of course, be necessary to erect a manufactory on so extensive a scale as those of Europe, and the principal consideration in calculating the possibility of a beet-root sugar manufactory succeeding in this colony is the cost of the machinery. All the other essential conditions exist and are available. We have the land, and the extra cost of labor in this country would be more than balanced by the tariff, and the cost of freight and road tolls alone ought to afford a considerable margin for profit. Manufacturers of beet-root sugar would have all the protection which these conditions give to the manufacturers of flour. The first cost of machinery for flour mills and the subsequent expense of working them are very great; yet flour mills have proved remunerative to their owners. Next to the outlay requisite for erecting machinery would be the difficulty of procuring the particular kind of labor required for manufacturing sugar from beets; but the same difficulty existed with reference to the manufacture of flour, most of the millers having been engaged abroad. We have heard that this subject has been discussed in the central part of the colony, and that the proposed organization of a company met with a favorable response on the part of the farmers and others. The proposed growth of wheat and manufacture of flour in this colony was once a subject for ridicule. It is so no longer. The farmers and millers are now among the richest men of the country. No part of the world offers such inducements for the manufacture of sugar as does this, so far as protection is concerned, and one manufactory at least ought to prove a most profitable concern. California is taking active steps to promote the manufacture of sugar from beets, notwithstanding the competition offered by the Sandwich Islands. Indeed the rapid growth of beet root sugar manufacture is surprising. In Europe they will soon be independent of the cane-sugar growing countries. Austria already produces a large surplus for export; and in Prussia, Belgium, and some of the German States the greatest part of the sugar consumed is manufactured from beets. In 1865, England imported from France over 100,000,000 pounds of beet-root sugar. The war in the United States had something to do with this extraordinary fact, but the same necessity for such importation must exist, because the amount of sugar now produced in the United States is far below the amount produced before the war. Another war now going on in Cuba is giving an additional stimulus to the demand for beet-root sugar in Europe. Cane sugar, in consequence of the Cuban rebellion, keeps keeps advancing in price, and we notice that in the United States and Canada the manufacture of sugar from beets forms a subject which is occupying much attention. It is becoming necessary to increase the sources of supply and rely upon home production. In Prussia the manufacture of sugar from beets has reached great perfection. Until within the last ten years the difficulties in the way of producing sugar from beets, so as to compete successfully against cane sugar, were two—the small per-centage of sugar obtained from the beet, and the poor quality of the sugar as compared with that obtained from cane. Now these drawbacks have been successfully overcome. A larger per centage has been obtained by means of scientific investigation and more perfect machinery, and the difficulty of crystalizing to the same fineness as cane sugar has also been circumvented.

THE EMIGRATION FROM CANADA.

One would suppose that there was some thing radically wrong in the institutions, climate or soil of Canada from reading the telegrams repeatedly announcing the departure of emigrants to the United States, and it would be somewhat discouraging, in view of our impending union with the Dominion. were these statements not susceptible of satisfactory explanation. Mr Brydges, Manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, says: "There have been this year about 200 to 300 families who have gone West by the Grand Trunk, with no apparent intention of returning, and in addition there has been an excess over the usual emigration to work in factories and brickyards, of probably not less than 3,000 persons; but it is the intention of nearly the whole who have thus gone to return in the fall, bringing back with them the fruits of their labors." He also shows that of those who have gone to the Western States, intending permanently to settle there, a large number have already returned, and that every train is bringing back more, owing to those who have gone not finding their anticipations realized. The United States newspapers make out a strong case against Canada and British institutions in consequence of these migratory movements. Now, the emigration from the Eastern to the Western States is just as great and for similar reasons as that from Canada. The difference is this—the United States have an immense back country in which the surplus and restless population find an outlet, whereas Canada has none; but now that the Northwestern Territory is to be tacked on to Canada an equally attractive field for emigrants will be opened, and in future the Dominion will have an outlet of its own. Many causes combine to induce men to emigrate, and the principal one is the advantages which an open country offers to the intending settler. What makes the emigration from Canada to the Western States appear large is the fact that emigrants from Europe go by way of Canada, that being the cheapest route. Indeed, it is rather a source of satisfaction than otherwise that Canada has a surplus population seeking employment abroad, for it should encourage us to believe that when the overland road shall have been opened British Columbia will receive some addition to her population therefrom. Canada, in fact, is the most productive country in the world as regards population, and the increase keeps ahead of the capacity and capital of the country to employ. Notwithstanding the continuous emigration for the past century the population has increased even more rapidly than that of the United States. That is to say, the four million souls in Canada represent a larger increase, proportionately, than the thirty-five millions in the United States. The emigration from Canada to the United States has always been considerable, in consequence of the tardy growth of manufacturing industries. During the past ten years, however, this drawback to the retention of increasing numbers has been gradually disappearing. Manufacturing industries are rapidly advancing and creating a larger sphere for employment. Canada has never been in a fair position to compete for the stream of emigrants from the old world. Land, open prairie land, available for settlement at cheap rates, is the magnet which attracts the European emigrant, but the great prairies to the west of Canada have been virtually closed. Confederation is about to unlock them. A road is in course of construction to them. A railway will soon follow the pioneer wagon road, and the rich prairies of the Saskatchewan and Red river will quickly emerge from the cold neglect under which they have lain dormant. That British Columbia will be benefitted by all this there can be no doubt. An emigrant population is restless, and a gradual increase to our numbers, through the attractions of gold mining, may be expected.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

LIGHTNING CREEK.

The Dunbar co. washed up 150 oz. for last week; the Lightning co. about 30 oz. The Brown co. commenced to wash this week. The Fifeshire Lass co. are sinking a new shaft. The Davis co. have not yet got bed-rock. There are several other companies sinking, but so far have not met with any success.

NELSON CREEK.

Cottler & co. are fixing their flume and sluice-box, and will commence to wash next Saturday. The Delatre co. are doing well. The Burge & co. have bottomed their shaft at the lower end of the creek, and found the bed-rock dipping toward the hill. They feel confident of success.

ANDERSON CREEK.

The Emily co. are prospecting on the right hand bench of the creek. Wisconsin co. washed up 45 oz. for the week. The Warren co. bottomed their shaft and struck a prospect of about a dollar to the pan.

DAVIS CREEK.

The Homeward Bound co. are making small wages. One Chinese co. are making wages.

MINING COURT.

(Before C. Brew, Esq., Gold Commissioner.)

WEDNESDAY, July 7, 1869.

WILLIAM CREEK BEDROCK FLUME CO. vs. EXCELSIOR CO.—Suit to eject defendants from ground entered by them in contravention of William Creek Bedrock Flume Ordinance. Defendants alleged that the Flume co. dropped over 100 feet of ground, and that they should be compelled to lay their flume according to the terms of their charter; that the Flume co. by not complying with the terms of the charter had forfeited their right to control or use the ground claimed by defendants.

Judgment postponed until 9th.

FRIDAY, July 9, 1869.

The decision of the Gold Commissioner appears to be substantially as follows: That William Creek Bedrock Flume Ordinance gives all the creek mining ground above the California company's ground for the exclusive use of the Bedrock Flume co. until they do certain work; that as soon as they finish their flume they are bound to stake off 150 feet across or from the flume; that they may sluiced out 100 feet or more from the front line of the Forward co., and that the ground so sluiced off shall be considered as a portion of the 150 feet the Flume company are entitled to; that the Excelsior co. must replace their stakes so as to allow the Flume co. 150 feet from the front line of the Forward co.; that the Flume co. are not entitled to any hill mining ground, their charter confining them to creek claims only.

COUNTY COURT.

(Before His Lordship the Chief Justice and C. Brew, Esq., County Court Judge.)

FRIDAY, July 9th, 1869.

Solomon Jones vs. Dr. Bell and others—Suit to recover $256 for labor done and moneys paid on behalf of the Ancient Briton Company, Begg's gulch, in which defendants are shareholders. Case dismissed with costs.

Van Volkenburgh & Co. vs. Joseph Matson—Suit to recover $23 93 for meat furnished. Judgment by default.

Wetcham & Nason vs. Oh Fee—For $239 Judgment confessed.

BALL.—We understand that the preliminary steps have been taken for the ball proposed to be given on or about the 16th inst., in aid of the funds of the Amateur Theatrical Club. Invitations will be forwarded to the people along the road and of Quesnelmouth. The Amateurs have never appealed to the liberality of the people of Barkerville in their efforts to secure a theatre for their amusement, but have always given a fair return for what they have received, in the shape of a performance. We trust that the ball will be a success in every sense. [After the above was in type, we received an advertisement in reference to the ball, which appears in another column, and to which we invite attention.]

WHITE PINE—This ought to be one of the richest mineral countries in the world if all that is reported of it is true. New veins, new ledges and new strikes are every day being made according to the reports of newspaper correspondents. It is difficult, however, to understand why the country is suffering so much, as was stated in the letter of Mr J. Adair, in consequence of the mills charging $30 a ton for the crushing of the ore. Surely ore that pays $2000 to the ton ought to leave a handsome profit to the owners. There's something rotten in the state of newspaperdom.

ACCIDENT—On Tuesday last, Mr Beedy and Rev. Mr Derrick were proceeding to Van Winkle when the tongue of their buggy broke and the horses ran away and upset the vehicle in the canyon, dragging the rev. gentleman for about a rod underneath the buggy, when the horses extricated themselves and the buggy went over the canyon. Mr Derrick received injuries which confined him to bed for two days, but we understand that he will be able to attend to his pastoral duties in Barkerville on Sunday as usual. Mr Beedy escaped with slight injury.

DONATIONS.—Todd & Co. have donated $50 in aid of the funds for building a church for the Rev. Mr. Reynard; Meacham & Nason, $50; and Pearson Bros., $25. W. H. Fitzgeral and F. V. Lee have also given $25 each; and $20 have been collected by children. A subscription list is at each of the Banks, where parties wishing to give assistance to promote the good work can give in their names and the amounts they feel disposed to contribute.

NOTICE.—Mr. C. McCallum has reopened business in the store next above the Bank of British Columbia, where he has a large assortment of Dry Goods, comprising Pants, Shirts, Drawers, Neck-Ties and other apparel. Also, a lot of best French and English Tweeds. Mr. McC. continues his tailoring business, and makes Pants to order, and of the best material. He sells his goods cheap and for cash.

GEOLOGICAL WONDER—A redwood log has been struck at the depth of 280 feet while boring for an artesian well in Santa Clara. When it is understood that this log was found at a depth of over two hundred feet below the sea level, it will be readily imagined that there have been some high old geological pranks performed on this coast at some time during the ages gone.

SHOT—Judge George C. Belt, a well known citizen of Merced county, California, while standing in front of J. A. Jackson & Co.'s warehouse, in Stockton, was approached and shot dead by William Dennis, an ex-Alderman. It appears that an old feud had existed between the parties resulting from a lawsuit.

MINING BREVITIES.—The Barker co. washed up 24½ oz. on Thursday, at noon; the Foster-Campbell co., 39 oz.; the Coombs co., 36 oz. for one and a-half days' run. The Felix co. are doing well. The White Pine co. got off the lead in the early part of the week, but found it again on Thurday. The Wilson co. are cleaning up about 2 oz. to the hand per day.

THE BEST COFFEE.—In order to obtain a first-class coffee, it is necessary to secure the very best berries, and to roast them according to the most approved method. This is done by WILSON & RICKMAN, Fort Street Victoria, who are prepared to furnish, for cash, Coffee that never fails to elicit the approbation of those who use it.

RAIN.—Yesterday afternoon rain commenced falling in plenteous showers, and continued doing so all day. It comes most opportunely. The scarcity of water has been a serious drawback to the development of the mines for the past four weeks.

PROSPECTORS—Several miners have gone out to Harvey and Keithley creeks, in consequence of the reported new strikes there. A good deal of prospecting is going on at these creeks.

THE hose for the Fire Brigade is expected to arrive by Barnard's slow express, on or about the 16th inst.

A BATHOMETER—One of the latest among the many useful inventions by Americans is a new bathometer, with which it is claimed accurate soundings to any depth of the ocean may be taken. At the monthly meeting of the association for the Advancement of Science and Art, at the Cooper Institute, this new instrument was exhibited and explained.

CURIOUS.—The sea beach at Santa Cruz, California, was lately strewn with millions of a shellfish known as the Nautilus, or Portuguese man-of-war. They are inhabitants of tropical latitudes only, and it is supposed that an earthquake wave has drifted them on to the Santa Cruz coast.

STRIKE.—After the expenditure of a large amount of money and labor, the Lone Star company, on Conklin gulch, have succeeded in running their tunnel to bed-rock, and on Thursday they took out $16 to the pan.

IMPROVING.—A couple of men are engaged improving the Grouse creek trail, which has become rather too rough in places for the passage of animals.

CENNEL'S ox-team arrived from Quesnelmouth on Wednesday.

WESTWARD HO!—A meeting of influential merchants and others took place in Toronto a few weeks ago to receive the report of the committee appointed to prepare a prospectus for a company. The committee recommended the construction of a railway from Fort William to Rainy Lake, a distance of about 156 miles, at a cost of $4,000,000; a canal with two locks at Fort Frances, at a cost of $200,000; and the purchase of two steamers for Rainy Lake and the Lake of the Woods at $60,000. From Lake of the Woods to Fort Garry, about 95 miles of railway, costing about $2,000,000, would be the second section. The capital required would be, therefore, about $6,600,000; and if Government would grant 8,000,000 acres of land in alternate sections, and guarantee the bonds of the Company to the extent of $2,500,000, the project would be a success, and Fort Garry would be placed within 40 hourss travel of Fort William, on Lake Superior.

A BRAVE LORD—An act of extraordinary gallantry was performed by Lord Walter Kerr, commander of her Majesty's ship Hercules, off Lisbon. When sending down topgallant yards at sunset a man fell overboard from the maintopgallant yard. The commander, Lord Walter Kerr, who was on the poop, at once flung off his cap and jacket and then plunged after him. The man was at some distance from the ship when Lord Kerr jumped overboard, but after considerable exertion he reached and supported the unfortunate man until both were rescued by a boat from the ship. The chances for any man overboard in the Tagus are few enough, and, but for the gallantry of his commander the man had no chance at all, having become insensible from a blow.

CURIOUS FACTS.—The English Registrar-General publishes a remarkable illustration of the "infallibility" which seems to belong to some statistical calculations. It is calculated, from the experience of many years, that the number of persons who ought to be killed by horses in London in the first 19 weeks of the year is 74. In the first 18 weeks of 1869 only 66 were killed, and it seemed as if science were for once at fault. In the 19th, however, 8 were killed, and the number made up as completely as if it were part of the law of nature that some four persons a week should be killed by horses.

A GREAT IDEA.—Some far-seeing individual, in view of what was done in Lake Haarlem, Holland, has suggested that Lake Erie be drained for occupancy by man when all our other lands shall have been taken up. This enthusiastic individual says the time will come when the land under Lake Erie will be of more value than the water within it, and when that time comes, man will say to the waters, "March," and they will go, leaving the land for man's occupancy. Its greatest depth is but two hundred and seventy feet, and its drainage would be an easy matter.

YELLOW FEVER IN SOUTH AMERICA—The yellow fever is very severe in the southern part of Peru. In Tacua one-seventh of the entire population have died from it, and all the leading people of the place have been among the victims. It is also proving very fatal at the Chincha Islands, and among the persons who have died from the fever there are several American and English ship captains. In the northern part of Peru the fever has as yet prevailed very little, and Lima and Callao have been almost entirely exempt from its fatal ravages.

THE New York Herald says that a startling number of private residences are being destroyed throughout the South by the work of incendiaries.

WHITTLERS—There are only two marriageable girls at Coos, Oregon. On Sundays half a dozen or more young fellows sit all day on the verandahs in front of the ladies' houses, while each fair one looks at her followers through the half-opened window. The lovers all the while are whittling bits of white pine. At dark they move home; but the damsels find these visits profitable, for there is generally left behind a pile of shavings big enough to light fires for the rest of the week.

CHANGE OF FORTUNE.—Mr. George Hudson was once so wealthy that his social entertainments were frequented by princes and nobles, and he was named the "Railway King" of England. He is now so poor that in Sunderland, which he once represented in the British Parliament, a subscription has been started for the purpose of providing him with an annuity.

USEFUL.—A machine has been invented and used recently in California for ditching and fence making. The instrument makes ditches four feet deep and embankments. The invention is noted as a valuable one for the plains of California. It is an inverted cone, studded with spade blades. Its revolution is described as so rapid that the blades are invisible.

THE Emperor of Russia has issued a decree ordering that all reduced Polish noblemen shall be conducted to the fertile plains of the Eastern provinces, for the purpose of founding colonies, on grounds gratuitously ceded to them for that purpose. Many families have already availed themselves of this decree.

THERE is now a newspaper for the English community nestling in the healthy hills of Bengal. It is called the Darjeeling Advertiser, and is published among the Himalayas, within sight of the Chinese posts in Thibet.

INVENTION BY A WOMAN—A Mrs Hall, of San Francisco, has invented and patented a volcanic furnace for smelting ores, and has been awarded a premium for the invention.

BOOTY.—A farmer in England recently plowed up an old boot, in which he found £50 in gold and silver.

NAPOLEON is losing his sang froid. His guard at the Tuilleries has been increased by 500.

AN UNPLEASANT REGION.

[Correspondence San Francisco Examiner.]

In Elko I met several persons just from White Pine. The majority of them say that they have no doubt relative to the richness of the silver mines, but many of them said if they could get a deed of the whole country, including Hamilton, Treasure City and Elko on condition of being obliged to live there, they would not accept the offer. I confess I would not remain in Elko to own the whole town. The weather during the time I have been here is as follows: Snowing, hailing, raining, blowing and freezing. Sometimes the wind was so high that I expected my tent to be blown away. The alkaline dust covered every thing—our faces, hair and clothes.

A change has taken place in the weather within the last few days. The wind has ceased to blow; no more rain or snow, but old Sol has come out in his glory, not only to warm but to burn up everything that is exposed. The heat now surpasses anything I have ever felt in the warmest time in Sacramento. It is dangerous to remain any time exposed to the sun.

Several old San Francisco men are here. Dr. Cole owns a block or two, and is building. Col. Henley is also interested in real estate. All the property owners speak as if this place would be a flourishing city soon. Peter Owens is here, after being at White Pine. Several have returned sick from White Pine; many, I believe will never again see San Francisco. In the hope of making a fortune at White Pine they contracted disease that will soon carry them off. Pneumonia is the prevailing disease. There have been several cases of small-pox and some deaths.

The people up here have been much disappointed at the few passengers arriving from the East. We had a Chicago merchant to visit us. He brought along with him twenty barrels of whiskey. After much solicitation, he sold it at $1 per gallon, laid down. His losses were some hundreds of dollars. Liquors have been a drug here, selling at less than San Francisco prices.

Chief Justice Chase has ruled that the United States Government cannot collect income-tax from foreigners who hold its bonds, and that the sums already collected must be refunded.

Great activity seems to prevail in the telegraphic world. Besides the French Atlantic Cable and the British Indian Submarine, which is being rapidly proceeded with, we read of a scheme for connecting the North of Scotland with Canada, by means of a line from Wick, through the Orkneys, Faroe, and Iceland. Numerous other telegraphic enterprises are reported in the English papers.

Professor Pellizzari, of Florence, has hit upon a cure for somnambulism. It simply consists in winding once or twice round one's leg, on going to bed, a thin flexible copper wire, long enough to reach the floor. Eighteen somnambulists treated in this way have been either permanently or temporarily cured. The Gazzetta Medica, of Venice, which reports the fact, says that copper wire is known to dissipate magnetic somnambulism, and that this circumstance led the professor to have recourse to this strange remedy.

A Society has been formed in the States which calls itself the Anti-taxation Society. Its ideas may best be explained by an extract from the speech of the President of the Society at a recent meeting in New York. "If, for instance, funds sufficient were not aised to pay the Governor's salary, we should have no Governor; if funds were not raised to pay our Judges' salaries, we should have no Courts of Justice. People would pay for what they wanted to have, and not, as now, for a great deal they did not want. At the same time the stealings would be stopped, and an army of officials would be dispensed with."
